A. CONCLUSIONS OF THE LATIN AMERICAN COUNCIL REGARDING THE APPLICATION OF THE 1993-94 WORK PROGRAMME

(DECISION No. 327)

The conclusions contained in this document refer both to the activities carried out during the period from the holding of the XIX Latin American Council in October 1993 to the present Council, and to activities to be carried out over a longer period, extending to 1994 and 1995.

1. RELATIONS WITH THE UNITED STATES

The Latin American Council took note of the documents prepared by the Permanent Secretariat on this subject ("Analysis of the economic performance of the United States and its consequences on the foreign relations of Latin America and the Caribbean" DI No.1, and the "Eighteenth Annual Report of the Permanent Secretariat" DT No.3), and reasserted the importance of continuing with the Secretariat's programme of activities adopted at the XIX Latin American Council regarding the region's relations with the United States.

In particular, it entrusted the Secretariat with an analysis of the long-term impact of NAFTA on the countries of the region, covering investment flows in addition to the trade dimension.

In relation to following up on U.S. trade policy, the Council placed particular emphasis on its concern over possible changes to the Generalized System of Preferences and recommended that the Permanent Secretariat make further headway in joint efforts with other regional agencies so that the region may draw up strategies in this field.

The Council noted Resolution No. CIES/CEC/1 (1-0/94) of the Organization of American States' new Special Trade Commission, by means of which it was agreed that the Commission's Advisory Group should coordinate its activities with the ALADI, ECLAC, SELA, and other regional agencies; it therefore instructed the Permanent Secretariat to collaborate with and closely follow the work of the Special Trade Commission and the Advisory Group.

In dealing with the subject of Latin American and Caribbean relations with the United States, emphasis was placed on the importance of the Hemispheric Summit to be held at the end of 1994 and the fact that commercial matters, including the region's efforts towards liberalizing trade, should be dealt with in great depth on that occasion. In this regard, special mention was made of the work that the Permanent Secretary could undertake in preparing elements for the construction of the region's position.

2. RELATIONS WITH THE EUROPEAN UNION

The Council agreed with the Permanent Secretariat's view on the deterioration, during the past ten years, of trade relations between the European Union (EU) and Latin America and the Caribbean. It also considered with great interest the changes that are taking place in said relations and that are outlined in the document "The European Union and Latin America: Towards a Redefinition of Biregional Relations" (DI 13). It particularly stressed the importance of investment in recent relations with the European Union, which have been characterized by their emphasis on joint ventures. At the same time, emphasis was placed on the importance of encouraging joint ventures between Latin American and Caribbean partners in order to take advantage of the European market. It also requested that the Permanent Secretariat continue with its analysis and monitoring of the restrictions to access placed on the region's products in the markets of the European Union.

On considering the preliminary results of "The Dynamics of Relations between Latin America and the Caribbean and the European Union: Regionalization of the Production Sphere and New Forms of Competition and Management" project (DI No.10), which is being carried out in application of the SELA-EU Agreement, the Council placed emphasis on the potential applications of the information generated by this project, in terms of drawing up strategies to promote exports, business fora, planning national and regional industrial developments, negotiations on technology and investment, etc. In that regard, the Council requested the Permanent Secretariat to define a programme, with the technical and financial support of the EU, to disseminate the final document on the results of the project as widely as possible; this document should be delivered in July to Member States, including in particular business organizations, financial institutions, and research centres.

3. RELATIONS WITH OTHER COUNTRIES

Chapter III of the Report of the Permanent Secretariat, which contains evaluation criteria and trends of Japanese investment in Latin America and the Caribbean, was considered by the Latin American Council to be a valid frame of reference both for the general formulation of Latin America and the Caribbean's economic and financial relations with Japan and for following up on SELA's Medium-Term Work Programme, adopted by the XIX Latin American Council.

In that respect the Council emphasized the importance of Japan's new position in the Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) and the potential stemming from it in terms of Japanese trade and investment in the region. Consequently, it instructed the Secretariat to pursue the necessary contacts with the IDB in order to determine possible joint actions regarding information on their respective trade policies, promotion of investment, and trade opportunities.

Moreover, the Council recommended to the Permanent Secretariat that a meeting of experts on Latin American and Caribbean relations with Asian countries should be held, in view of the latter's growing trade and financial importance to the countries of the region, and including the consideration of relations with China and India.

Regarding the diversification of Latin American and Caribbean overseas economic relations, the Latin American Council instructed the Permanent Secretariat to obtain general, updated information on new opportunities for cooperation, investment, and trade between the region and South Africa in the context of that nation's democratization and increasing openness.

4. INTERNATIONAL TRADE

Following the mandates of the XIX Latin American Council in regard to this topic, the Permanent Secretariat prepared an "Outline of trade barriers applied by industrialized countries to Latin American and Caribbean exports" (Di No.12), which is a novel effort to determine the magnitude of the problems facing the countries of the region in such markets and compare them with the level of liberalization of Latin American and Caribbean economies. In this regard, the Council agreed to request the Permanent Secretariat to disseminate said document as much as possible, while urging the pertinent regional and international agencies to collaborate with the Permanent Secretariat in drafting an annual update of the Outline.

In regard to rules of origin, the Council took note with satisfaction of the call for a Meeting of Experts on Rules of Origin, to be held next 16 and 17 June at SELA headquarters in accordance with the conclusions of the XIX Council, and urged the Permanent Secretariat to inform the Member States of SELA of the corresponding report, and to submit the recommendations stemming from said meeting to the consideration of the next Latin American Council.

The Council considered in close detail and with great interest the document "Results of the Uruguay Round Multilateral Commercial Negotiations: A Latin American and Caribbean Perspective" (SP/CLXX.O/Di.No.2), which was analyzed at the Meeting of Senior Government Officials of the SELA Member States held at the Permanent Secretariat's headquarters in March 1994. In this context, the Council emphasized the importance of ensuring the timely ratification of the Uruguay Round Agreements, with the explicit aim of ensuring that they are fully observed.

Similarly, it approved the implementation of the work programme to follow up on and give effect to the results of the Uruguay Round, contained in the document "Latin America and the Caribbean Towards the Twenty-First Century: The Trade Agenda" (SP/CLXX.O/DT No.9), which should be implemented in conjunction with the LATINTRADE project. In this respect, it emphasized the fundamental importance of the participation and support of international organizations – such as the UNDP, the IDB, and subregional financial institutions – in these endeavours. Within this framework, the recent incorporation of the Inter-American Institute for Agricultural Cooperation into the LATINTRADE Project was announced.

As regards trade in services (SP/CLXX.O/Di No.3), the Council endorsed the Permanent Secretariat's proposal to hold a meeting of government and regional-agency experts on this subject, in order to discuss all aspects dealing with the alignment of regional regulations on services on the basis of the provisions contained in the GATS text, as well as future negotiations on services provided for in said agreement.

Likewise, the "new" subjects proposed for inclusion in the work of the World Trade Organization (WTO) were discussed and, in this regard, the Permanent Secretariat presented the documents "Social Dumping: Social Policy as Trade Policy" (SP/CL/XX.0/Di No.4) and "Latin America and the Caribbean Towards the Twenty-First Century: The Trade Agenda" (SP/CL/XX.0/DT No.9).

Given the importance of these matters and the concern that they might be used or proposed within a scheme of commercial protectionism, it was decided to hold a SELA consultation meeting on such "new" subjects as trade and the environment, social policy, and competition policy, with the aim of coordinating the positions of the Latin American and Caribbean nations with the work of the WTO.

5. ANALYSIS OF LONG-TERM SCENARIOS

To follow up on the mandate of the XIX Latin American Council, the Secretariat submitted the Report of the Meeting of Experts to Analyze Long-Term Scenarios (Di No.9), held in Lima, Peru, on 18 and 19 April 1994, and agreed to support the initiatives proposed in said meeting, which would make it possible to introduce long-term studies into the Secretariat's methodology, as well as regular contacts with academic research centres both within and outside the region. In regard to the financing of the "network" of research centres proposed in the aforementioned report – for which the Secretariat would act as a focal point – the Council entrusted its Board of Officers to formally proceed to make the pertinent arrangements both with international agencies (particularly the UNDP and the IDB) and the governments of industrialized countries.

6. DEVELOPMENT FINANCING

The Latin American Council approved the initiatives proposed by the Secretariat in Item VI of the Annotated Provisional Agenda (DT No.2/Corr.1), in addition to the indicators for development financial flow analysis contained in the pertinent chapter of the Report of the Permanent Secretariat (DT No.3).

It placed particular emphasis on the need to study the consequences of the deficit in development resources and the role of our region's capital markets, including the funding of private sector projects, along with the evaluation of the privatization processes being undertaken by several Member States.

7. AGENDA FOR DEVELOPMENT

The Council noted with interest the information and considerations contained in the document "Agenda for the Development and Restructuring of International Economic Organizations: Implications for the SELA" (SP/CL/XX.01/Di No.14) and instructed the Permanent Secretariat to continue following up the evolution of the treatment given to the corresponding subjects, particularly in the United Nations system, in close contact with the delegations of the Member States that participate in such deliberations. It also considered the different factors concerning this matter to be closely related to the proposals contained in the document "The SELA and the 21st Century" (DT 7).

8. SOLIDARITY FOR COMPETITIVENESS

The Latin American Council noted with interest the analysis contained in the document "Solidarity for Competitiveness: Preliminary Notes" (SP/CL/XX.O/DT No. 11), and entrusted the Permanent Secretariat with continuing these efforts and extending them, particularly with regard to the following aspects: i) flexible enterprises and new approaches to business management, ii) the training of human resources as a key factor of development, and iii) the effects of globalization and the on-going technical-production revolution on employment in the region. An analysis of these topics should be useful in formulating proposals that will assist in designing and implementing policies that embrace the principles of cooperation and solidarity, as bases for the competitiveness of the region's economies. Likewise, the Latin American Council instructed the Permanent Secretariat to promote closer relations between the labour and business sectors, in order to make progress towards the joint treatment of the subjects of margination, unemployment, and poverty.

9. INTEGRATED POLICIES AND SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT

With regard to formulating criteria that could help to improve the linkage of economic policies to social equity, the Latin American Council considered the project that the Permanent Secretariat has been developing together with CLAD and ECLAC to be useful and timely, and it entrusted it with continuing the analysis and dissemination of conceptual and methodological criteria for designing and implementing integrated social and economic policies.

In relation to the participation of the countries of the region in the preparations for the Summit on Social Development, the Latin American Council took note of the progress made and requested the Permanent Secretariat to continue collaborating with the Member States and with the Summit Preparatory Committee to ensure the success of the event. It also entrusted the Permanent Secretariat with the timely promotion of cooperation and coordination activities among the countries of the region to contribute to implementing the Plan of Action that will be adopted in Copenhagen in March 1995, bearing in mind the initiatives proposed in the document "Bases for a Latin American and Caribbean Consensus on the World Summit on Social Development" approved by the XXV Session of ECLAC.

The Latin American Council noted with satisfaction the recent recommencement of the regular meetings of the Inter-Agency Social Policy Group, under the coordination of ECLAC's Executive Secretariat, and instructed the Permanent Secretariat to encourage coordination actions within the group with a view to the World Summit on Social Development.

10. POVERTY AND FOOD SECURITY

Regarding the subject of food security and its relationship with poverty, the Latin American Council instructed the Permanent Secretariat to support the Member States in defining and executing their food security policies, in order to avoid the duplication of efforts and to contribute to increased clarity in dealing with the subject. In concrete terms, it was requested to effect a systematic survey of the programmes currently in existence at the regional and national levels for the information of the Member States, thereby becoming a forum for the regional coordination and conjunction of these important topics through the exchange of information and experiences arising from the different projects in operation in the nations and the region.

11. INDUSTRIALIZATION AND TECHNOLOGICAL DEVELOPMENT

Given the need to establish opportunities for exchange and reflection between the region's Industry Ministers regarding subjects related to industrial and technological development, the Latin American Council backed the Permanent Secretariat's actions in organizing, in the second half of 1994, the I Meeting of the Regional Forum on Industrial Policy. Likewise, the Council emphasized the importance of this meeting's leading to the definition of a 1994-95 Working Plan for the implementation of the Regional Plan of Action on Industrialization.

The Latin American Council noted with satisfaction that the high priority assigned to regional industrialization by the Latin American Economic System (SELA) was endorsed in resolution 15 of the V UNIDO General Conference, held in Yaounde, Cameroon, concerning the Regional Cooperation Programme for Industrial Recovery in Latin America and the Caribbean. Both resolution 15 and the remainder of the resolutions approved at the V UNIDO General Conference, as set forth in document SP/CL/XX.0/DI No. 6, warrant active follow up. Consequently, the Council entrusted the Permanent Secretariat, together with UNIDO, with establishing measures that would lead to the definition of a schedule for implementing joint activities based on those resolutions. The Council also noted with satisfaction the SELA/GRULAC-Vienna initiative on the follow up and evaluation of the results of the V UNIDO General Conference and expressed its support for the conclusions and recommendations stemming from GRULAC-Vienna contained in the Addendum to the Information Document (DI No. 6) already referred to above.

In view of the opportunity and potential that biotechnology represents for the countries of the region in the development and marketing of products with high value added, the Latin American Council expressed its satisfaction with the approval by the European Commission of the Bridge Project on Biotechnology, which will allow the implementation of the SELA Biotechnology Coordinating Unit and the establishment of technical bases for the development of the second stage of the Biotechnology Programme, whose fundamental objective is to strengthen regional development through joint productive and technological enterprises between companies, laboratories and cooperation agencies of Europe and of Latin America and the Caribbean.

The Latin American Council recommended that the Permanent Secretariat strengthen initiatives aimed at launching a Human Resource Training Programme based on industrial modernization and business competitiveness. These actions should be considered within a Forum on Training and Developing Human Resources for Competitiveness with the participation of government authorities, academic centres and business sectors, in order to exchange information and experiences.

The Latin American Council recommended that the Permanent Secretariat should identify organizational mechanisms and methods that will allow the generation and strengthening of the region's capacity for research and development, with a view to adapting and managing the technologies that are required in the prevailing economic and social circumstances, with the active involvement of the business sector, both in the definition of priority areas and in funding, and in the transfer, use, and application of the results, in coordination with COLCYT, RITLA, and the Bolívar Programme.

12. INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

The Latin American Council accepted the recommendations and initiatives contained in the Final Report of the IV Meeting of the Latin American and Caribbean Forum on Intellectual Property, contained in Document DI No. 5, and instructed the Permanent Secretariat to comply with its terms. In that regard, emphasis was placed on the need to consider developments in this area within the framework of WIPO and the forthcoming World Trade Organization (WTO).

The Council expressed its concern that, despite the progress made by the countries of the region to modernize their intellectual property systems, the application or threatened application of restrictive economic measures still persists in certain markets in relation to compliance with unilateral rules in this field. These measures hinder the access of some countries in the region to such products.

13. REGIONAL COOPERATION AND INTEGRATION

The Latin American Council entrusted the Permanent Secretariat with continuing follow up on regional integration in all its forms, with promoting the exchange of information and experience in that field and with coordinating joint activities with the organizations and institutions responsible for subject areas of common interest. In that regard, it recommended holding the Meeting of Cooperation and Integration Organizations during the second semester of this year.

The Council also expressed its satisfaction with the preparations that have been progressing between SELA, ALADI and other organizations of the region to hold the Meeting of Government Officials in Charge of Trade Policy of the Member States of SELA in the city of Quito during the second half of the year.

The Council deemed it appropriate for the Permanent Secretariat to further its analysis of the regional integration processes with a view towards the aim of convergence, in accordance with the evolution of those processes and of NAFTA.

Likewise, the Permanent Secretariat was instructed to study the possibility of the recently concluded Free Trade Agreement between Colombia, Mexico, and Venezuela (known as the Group of Three), together with the other regional and subregional integration schemes and agreements, contributing positively to the aims of the aforesaid convergence.

The Council noted with satisfaction the progress made in the development of cooperative relations between the different subregional integration schemes in Latin America and the Caribbean, as well as relations between those schemes and nations outside them. The Council encouraged the continuation and furtherance of those links, and instructed the Permanent Secretariat to support their strengthening and to contribute to identifying, with the assistance of the Secretariats of regional and subregional integration agencies, new opportunities for involving nonmember nations in their activities.

The Council reaffirmed the position that the process of strengthening relations between Latin America and the Caribbean required a deliberate set of initiatives including activities directed at improving mutual knowledge and communication between the two subregions. It endorsed the activities that the Permanent Secretariat is carrying forward in this regard. It also reiterated its support to those activities which sought to help Caribbean States respond to the special challenges which their generally small, vulnerable, and undiversified economies face as a result of current changes in international economic relations.

The Council expressed its satisfaction at the signing of the Guatemala Protocol to the Central American General Economic Integration Agreement last October by the Presidents of this subregion. This establishes the mechanisms for the gradual merging of the economies of its members with the aim of creating the Central American Economic Union. At the same time, it was pleased to receive information on the forthcoming initiation of the Annual Course on Integration in Central America, which is aimed at providing actors in the subregional integration process with a framework for examining practical aspects of the process to facilitate progress towards integration. The Latin American Council also expressed gratitude to the various organizations whose collaboration made the realization of the course possible and noted the advisability of extending it to other subregions wishing to take advantage of it.

14. TECHNICAL COOPERATION AMONG DEVELOPING COUNTRIES (TCDC) AND THE UNDP'S VI PROGRAMMING CYCLE

The Latin American Council took note of the outcome of the IX Meeting of Directors of International Technical Cooperation which was held in La Paz, Bolivia, from 16 to 20 May. In this regard, the Council adopted the Draft Decisions approved at said meeting concerning TCDC and the region's main criteria and guidelines vis-à-vis the UNDP's VI Programming Cycle.

15. ACTION COMMITTEES AND PERMANENT AGENCIES

The Latin American Council took note of the Report of the CADESCA Liquidation Commission and expressed its recognition for the steps taken and for the important contribution that this Action Committee has made to development in Central America.

Likewise, the Council acknowledged the activity reports presented by PLACIEX, PLACART, MULTIFERT, RITLA and OLDEPESCA.

The Council instructed the Permanent Secretariat to continue supporting the Action Committees and Permanent Bodies in the development of their working programmes and to provide them with technical assistance when so requested.

16. PESICRE AND THE COMPREHENSIVE INFORMATION SYSTEM

The Latin American Council expressed its satisfaction with the work performed within the framework of PESICRE with the delivery of two new information products: a database on regional integration treaties, agreements, conventions and communiqués and the CD-ROM Network of Networks, generated by the Network of Networks regional project.

It also entrusted the Permanent Secretariat with continuing work with a view to initiating the implementation of the SELA Comprehensive Information System during the second semester of 1994. To that end, it urged the PESICRE National Accredited Entities (NAEs) and the organizations that collaborate as focal points to provide their support for holding the coordination meeting scheduled for the second quarter of 1994.

17. COMMUNICATION AND INTEGRATION

The Latin American Council took note of the document "Communication and Integration: The Path of Change" (DI No. 15) and expressed its satisfaction with the implementation of the UNESCO-SELA Agreement aimed at promoting the dissemination of regional integration.

In that regard, it considered it advisable to expand activities in that area and consequently gave its full support to the project "Communication for Integration", presented by the Permanent Secretariat of SELA to the International Programme for the Development of Communications (IPDC).

18. PROGRAMME OF COOPERATION WITH HAITI

In accordance with the decision of the XIX Latin American Council regarding the establishment of a Programme of Cooperation with Haiti, it was decided that the Permanent Secretariat should begin to study its contents, including training courses in specific areas where countries in the region have gained significant experience, such as the training of instructors for the garment, handicraft, and health industries, and technical seminars on international economics for civil servants with a view to implementing them once the constitutional order is restored.

19. BUDGET

The Group concluded that, even if the decision concerning the 1995 budget is approved, a Special Council Meeting could be convened during the final quarter of the present year if required by the exchange rate situation in the host country or the restructuring of the Secretariat.

20. ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The Permanent Secretary thanked the Government of Mexico for its hospitality and excellent work in respect of the XX Regular Meeting of the Latin American Council.

B. COMMUNIQUE OF THE XX REGULAR MEETING OF THE LATIN AMERICAN COUNCIL

The XX Latin American Council, meeting in Mexico City during its Ministerial Stage on 2 and 3 June 1994, focused its deliberations on an analysis of the economic relations between Latin America and the Caribbean and the United States; on the actions to be carried out to ensure a more effective integration of the region into the world economy, especially through the concept of "solidarity for competitiveness"; and on modifying SELA so that it can meet the demanding challenges of the twenty-first century and thus continue to fulfill its principal objectives.

Concerning the topic of Latin American and Caribbean economic relations with the United States and Canada, the Latin American Council recognized the need to exchange information and opinions on the Summit for the Americas. In this regard, the Council instructed the Permanent Secretariat to start a consultation process with the SELA Member States on the feasibility of holding a meeting for that purpose. The Council acknowledged the Delegation of Trinidad and Tobago's offer to host the aforementioned meeting.

With respect to "solidarity for competitiveness", the Permanent Secretariat presented the corresponding document, which pointed out the need to promote the modernization of the economies of the region in a context of social equity and reinforcement of democracy, and that mastery of the new technologies that were contributing today to the creation of a new model of civilization in the material sense throughout the world was an essential condition for raising the levels of well-being of the peoples and international competitiveness of the region's economies.

The Council therefore decided to entrust the Permanent Secretariat with the task of further developing the aforementioned analysis, taking into account experiences within and outside the region with regard to policies on competitiveness. Furthermore, it acknowledged the Delegation of Costa Rica's offer to host the I Meeting of the Regional Forum on Industrial Policy, in which both the public and private sectors will take part, with the support of UNIDO, IDB, ECLAC and the Bolívar Programme, and will provide an opportunity to study the concept of "solidarity for competitiveness" more in depth and to recommend actions in that regard.

Moreover, the Latin American Council noted with interest the document entitled "SELA in the Twenty-First Century: Its Place in the Regional and International System", which it considered appropriate as a basis for proposing ideas and initiatives on the future of the organization on its twentieth anniversary, and to reflect the link between the organization's activities and the new challenges posed to Latin America and the Caribbean by the economic and social agenda for the twenty-first century, as pointed out at the International Seminar "The Development of Latin America and the Caribbean in the Twenty-First Century: Prospects for SELA Action", held concurrently with the XX Latin American Council on 1 June 1994 in Mexico City.

The Council authorized the Permanent Secretary to start a process of consultations with the Member States regarding the implementation of the proposals outlined in the above-mentioned document, and to present an internal review of and a report on the entire range of the organization's activities, including short- and medium-term recommendations for each activity, to be submitted before the following meeting of the Latin American Council, with a view to preparing the next Work Programme.

Finally, the Latin American Council acknowledged the offer extended by the Government of El Salvador to host the XXI Regular Meeting in the city of San Salvador and decided to accept said offer by acclamation.

DECISION ON THE MAIN CRITERIA AND GUIDELINES FOR THE VI UNDP PROGRAMMING CYCLE

THE LATIN AMERICAN COUNCIL,

Bearing in mind the following resolutions of the United Nations General Assembly:

a) 2688 (XXV) on the capacity of the United Nations Development System (consensus of 1970), December 11, 1970;

b) 44/211 on the ample triennial review of policies relative to the operative activities of the United Nations Development System, December 22, 1989;

c) 47/199 on the triennial review of policies relative to the operative activities of the United Nations Development System, December 22, 1992;

Bearing in mind Decisions 90/34 of UNDP's Governing Council on the V Programming Cycle and 91/29 on the preparations for the V Programming Cycle;

Having concluded the midterm review of UNDP's activities during the V Programming Cycle in general and in the countries of the region in particular;

Bearing in mind the preliminary discussions relative to the allocation of the resources for the VI Programming Cycle, during the 40th session of UNDP's Governing Council (1993);

Stressing the importance of maintaining the eligibility of our countries as beneficiaries of the various operational development programmes on the basis of concession and of the most ample participation in the United Nations system;

Regretting the substantial decline in the allocation of the Indicative Planning Figures, during the present programming cycle, which has obliged the ongoing national and regional programmes to use only 70% of what was established by the IPF's;

Considering that in the light of the substantial decrease in the contributions by the donor countries, which has affected ongoing activities and programmes, it is necessary to substantially increase the resources allocated to operational development activities, in a continuous, sure and foreseeable manner, in accordance with the increasing needs of the countries in the region;

Observing with concern the main ideas which have been expressed in various official presentations on the future of UNDP;

Remembering the division of work between the United Nations General Assembly, the Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) and the programmes for which the Council is responsible, as established in resolution AGNU 48/162 of 20 December 1993, where the specific functions for UNDP's Executive Board are established;

Endorsing the conclusions adopted by the IX Meeting of Directors of International Technical Cooperation of Latin America and the Caribbean, held in La Paz, Bolivia, from 16 to 20 May 1994 in which, despite the differences in the level of relative development of the countries in the region and the priorities established in each one of them, a unified and solidary position is adopted;

DECIDES:

Article 1. To reaffirm the principles of eligibility of all developing countries on the basis of the fundamental characteristics of the operative activities of the United Nations Development System, which are, among others, universality, the voluntary nature and subsidies, neutrality, multilateralism and the capacity to respond to the needs of the developing countries in a flexible manner, and that the operative activities of the United Nations System are carried out for the benefit of the developing countries, at the request of those countries and in accordance with their own policies and national development priorities;

Article 2. To stress the need to redefine the role of UNDP in terms of the present international context, taking into account the positive experience of the Latin American and Caribbean countries during the V Cycle in the implementation of their national programmes and in the application at the national level of priority items of the multilateral agenda;

Article 3. To point out that UNDP has played and is playing a significant role in the process of advancement and consolidation of sustainable development in which the region is engaged. This task has demanded great sacrifice on the part of Latin America and the Caribbean, as increasing support is required to sustain the efforts for the restructuring of the productive sectors, to contribute to the decentralization and modernization of the State, to strengthen the democratic process and to decrease the social inequalities and imbalances which still prevail;

Article 4. To state that the concept of preventive development and the strategy for sustainable human development cannot exclude other activities which the countries decide to implement at national, subregional, regional or intraregional level, in accordance with the principles mentioned in paragraph 1 of the present Decision;

Article 5. To reiterate that the parameters applied in UNDP's activities must not oppose the allocation of resources for the solution of social problems to the allocation of resources for adequate productive activities to strengthen the economic and technical competitiveness of the developing countries. That requires the search for a more adequate model, which must be proposed as a key challenge for UNDP;

Article 6. To stress the importance of counterpart contributions for the V Cycle (compared to previous contributions), for participation in financing expenses, and of cash contributions by the Governments, which, in the case of Latin America and the Caribbean for the 1992/96 period, represent the approval of budgets equivalent to 88.2% of the total amount in the Region, in addition to the 11.8% provided by the IPF. This allocation of extrabudgetary resources has enabled the generation of a volume of cooperation almost 9 times greater than what voluntary contributions would have allowed. Such activities have strengthened the UNDP as a whole, as well as the beneficiary countries, and, in turn, have contributed to the financing of other UNDP offices;

Article 7. To reiterate the general principle governing the present legal framework of UNDP activities, according to which national programming must be based on the national development priorities of the countries and on the operative modalities for the execution of projects agreed upon by the countries, particularly those which assign priority to technical and economic cooperation among the developing countries;

Article 8. To propose to this end, the utilization of TCDC links to promote initiatives on the basis of the interests and priorities of the countries and to have greater presence in the application and administration of these resources. Additionally, this will motivate the participants to provide contributions for shared expenses to multiply the resources allocated to regional programmes;

Article 9. To express interest in the TCDC's Special Unit intensifying its support of horizontal cooperation actions on the part of the countries of the region, simultaneously stating that said Unit must readopt the role of coordinator in such matters, in continuous and permanent contact with the countries;

Article 10. To underline the extreme importance of the effective support of the Field Offices for national execution and particularly for programmes and projects managed at national level, as well as the need to review the utilization of the regional IPF to integrate it into activities of interest agreed upon by the countries;

Article 11. To point out that the regional IPF has been decreasing in the past few years and that the countries and regional and subregional organizations find it more and more difficult to use it in the activities of interest to them, in an integral manner;

Article 12. With regard to the regional programmes, to stress the need for the countries to take a more active part, with the support of the Field Offices, in all the stages of the Project Cycle (identification, design, formulation, monitoring and evaluation) and to revise the utilization of the Regional IPF, in order to integrate it into the activities of interest agreed upon by the countries;

Article 13. To point out the advisability of studying additional methodologies, different from the per capita GDP (whether calculated on the basis of the rate of exchange or by the domestic purchasing power), recognizing that the development problems and the solution of structural bottlenecks to economic growth require specific policies, based on a case-by-case analysis;

Article 14. To consider a progressive graduation, whereby the countries will continue to receive cooperation, whilst contributing to the strengthening of regional relations through TCDC mechanisms and triangulation. Hence, it was agreed to work jointly towards the preparation of an additional specific methodological proposal, as previously mentioned.
