ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL QUESTIONS

1480 (XLVIII). Natural resources satellites

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling its resolution 1426 (XLVI) of 6 June 1969,

Having considered the report of the Secretary-General on natural resources satellites,¹

Recognizing that international co-operation is required for the reception, storage, interpretation and dissemination of resource satellite data, and that considerable preparatory work would be necessary for that purpose,

Considering that the Council should be kept fully informed and should keep the subject of natural resources satellites under active consideration, particularly with respect to their potentialities for natural resources development and related economic and social development,

1. Takes note of the report of the Secretary-General;

2. Requests the Secretary-General to bring this report to the attention, for information and possible comments, of the Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space, the Advisory Committee on the Application of Science and Technology to Development and other interested organizations of the United Nations system;

3. Decides to consider further, at its forty-ninth session, the suggestion of the Secretary-General² regarding the arrangements to be made for refining and elaborating the tentative recommendations contained in the annex to the report.

2 April 1970.*

1481 (XLVIII). Survey programme for the development of natural resources

The Economic and Social Council,

Having considered the report of the Ad Hoc Committee on the Survey Programme for the Development of Natural Resources on its second session,³ and the recommendations contained therein,

Recalling its resolutions 1113 (XL) of 7 March 1966, 1127 (XLI) of 26 July 1966, 1218 (XLII) of

² Ibid., para. 8

³ E/4797.

1 June 1967 and 1287 (XLII) of 18 December 1967, relating to the Survey Programme for the development of the world's natural resources,

Recalling further General Assembly resolution 2173 (XXI) of 6 December 1966, in which it endorsed the Secretary-General's proposal for the implementation of the aforementioned Survey Programme,

Considering that an early implementation of the Survey Programme could make a significant contribution to the accelerated economic and social progress of the developing countries,

Concerned that insufficient progress has been made in the implementation of the Survey Programme owing mainly to the lack of financial resources,

1. Requests the Secretary-General to continue the preparatory work relating to the implementation of the Survey Programme;

2. Urges the Governing Council and the Administrator of the United Nations Development Programme to contribute to the implementation of the Survey Programme by giving fullest consideration to the financing of country or regional project requests, or both, and to the waiving of counterpart and local cost contributions in appropriate cases, taking into account any further action by the General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council in this regard;

3. Requests the Secretary-General, in consultation with the Administrator of the United Nations Development Programme, to submit to the Council at its fiftieth session a progress report on the implementation of the present resolution.

*1670th plenary meeting,
2 April 1970.*

1482 (XLVIII). Development of natural resources

The Economic and Social Council,

Recognizing the importance of establishing an inter-governmental body in the field of natural resources,

Aware of the need for fuller consultations,

Decides, accordingly, to continue the discussion of this particular question at its forty-ninth session, on the basis of the draft resolution which was submitted to it at its forty-eighth session.⁴

*1672nd plenary meeting,
3 April 1970.*

1483 (XLVIII). Population policies and the Second United Nations Development Decade

The Economic and Social Council,

Taking note of General Assembly resolution 2211 (XXI) of 17 December 1966 in which the Assembly recognized the sovereignty of nations in formulating and promoting their own population policies, with due regard to the principle that the size of the family should be the free choice of each individual family,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 2411 (XXIII) of 17 December 1968 in which the Assembly had instructed the Preparatory Committee for the Second United Nations Development Decade to prepare, on the basis of studies and proposals formulated by the organizations in the United Nations system, a draft of an international development strategy for the 1970s,

Noting with appreciation the consideration of population policies for the Second United Nations Development Decade by the Committee for Development Planning,

Taking note of the deliberations of the Preparatory Committee for the Second United Nations Development Decade on a list of key areas in international co-operation for development during the Second Decade, including population, designed to fulfil the objectives for the Decade,

Recognizing the responsibility of the Population Commission to advise the Economic and Social Council on the interplay of demographic, economic and social factors and on any other population matters to which the organs of the United Nations or the specialized agencies may direct their attention,

1. Calls upon the Preparatory Committee for the Second United Nations Development Decade and the Committee for Development Planning to give full consideration to the deliberations and recommendations of the Population Commission at its fifteenth session, with special reference to the report on the world population situation,⁵ and to the population projections for 1965-1985;

2. Calls upon the Preparatory Committee for the Second United Nations Development Decade to give, as far as possible and if necessary, consideration to including in its development strategy the following text:

"In parts of the world, efforts during the Second United Nations Development Decade to promote long-term economic and social development adequate to improve the quality of life could be frustrated by the continuance of present high rates of population growth. In such cases, for countries which consider it appropriate and in accordance with the special needs of each country, national policies aimed at the achievement of more desirable rates of population growth and at the acceptance by parents on a voluntary basis of smaller families should be regarded as among the essential aspects of development strategy for the eventual achievement of satisfactory per capita economic growth, which would promote human welfare and dignity.";

3. Requests the Secretary-General to continue to study, in consultation with relevant agencies, the relationship of population growth to economic and social development with special reference to the increase of gross national product and to improving national per capita income and standards of living, and to disseminate widely the major results of such studies.

*1673rd plenary meeting,
3 April 1970.*

1484 (XLVIII). Third World Population Conference

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 2211 (XXI) of 17 December 1966 on population growth and economic development and its own resolutions 1048 (XXXVII) of 15 August 1964, 1084 (XXXIX) of 30 July 1965, 1277 B (XLI) and 1279 (XLI) of 4 August 1967 and 1347 (XLV) of 30 July 1968,

Recalling resolution IV of the General Conference of the International Labour Organisation, of 29 June 1967, resolution 1/67 of the Conference of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations of 23 November 1967, resolutions 1.241, 3.251, 3.252 and 4.241 of the General Conference of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization of 29 November 1966, resolutions WHA18.49 of 21 May 1965, WHA19.43 of 20 May 1966, WHA20.41 of 25 May 1967, WHA21.43 of 23 May 1968 and WHA22.32 of 23 July 1969 of the World Health Assembly, and the decision taken by the Executive Board of the United Nations Children's Fund in 1967,

Taking note of resolution XVIII of the International Conference on Human Rights of 12 May 1968⁶ and Economic and Social Council resolution 1326 (XLIV) of 31 May 1968,

Being aware of its resolutions 435 (XIV) of 10 June 1952, 471 (XV) of 14 April 1953, 820 C (XXXI) of 28 April 1961 and 933 (XXXV) of 5 April 1963, all of which determined the terms of reference of the first and second World Population Conferences,

Considering that issues centering on population trends and structures are relevant to all countries, if in varying degrees—in some in so far as high rates of growth may be intensifying pressures of population on resources and in others in so far as rates of growth may fall short of those deemed to be consistent with economic and social development—and that the global review of population policies and exchange of knowledge and experience in actions will become more urgently needed with the advent of the 1970 census rounds and other sources which will become available from studies and operations carried out in the field of population,

Having regard to General Assembly resolution 2361 (XXII) of 19 December 1967 on major special conferences,

1. Approves the proposal⁷ that a World Population Conference of representatives of Member States of the United Nations and members of specialized agencies be held under the auspices of the United Nations in 1974, and that participants consist of representatives of Member States of the United Nations and members of specialized agencies and their technical advisers as well as of other selected specialists;

2. Decides that the Conference shall be devoted to consideration of basic demographic problems, their relationship with economic and social development, and population policies and action programmes needed to promote human welfare and development;

3. Requests the Secretary-General in connexion with his plans for financing the World Population Conference:

(a) To seek provision in his 1971, 1972, 1973 and 1974 budget estimates for United Nations participation with the hope that adequate resources will be provided by the General Assembly;

(b) To explore the possibility of obtaining contributions from external sources so as to reduce the expenses incurred by the United Nations;

4. Authorizes the Secretary-General, in association with the executive heads of interested specialized agencies, and the non-governmental organizations involved in the study of population and of population problems to establish a small preparatory committee to assist in formulating an agenda based on the suggestions of the Population Commission as set forth in its report of the fifteenth session⁸ and making necessary arrangements for the Conference;

5. Requests the Conference to report to the Economic and Social Council and the General Assembly in 1975 on findings and recommendations of the deliberations at the Conference.

"Convinced that an appropriate way of intensifying the activities of lasting nature is to devote the year 1974 to extensive national and international efforts and undertakings in the field of population, and also to an international review of the achievements in the field,

"Confident that the designation of the year 1974 as such a year of international review will encourage all Member States and interested organizations to intensify their efforts in the intervening years, so as to show the maximum possible progress by that time,

"1. Designates the year 1974 as World Population Year;

"5. Requests the Secretary-General to report on preparatory work to the General Assembly through the Population Commission and the Economic and Social Council, and to prepare a final report on the World Population Year to be submitted to the General Assembly through the Economic and Social Council in 1975."

ANNEX

"RECOMMENDATION A: THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A RECONSTITUTED COMMITTEE FOR PROGRAMME AND CO-ORDINATION"

"Nature of the future Committee"

"20. After discussing the advantages and disadvantages of various alternatives, including the possibility of transforming the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination into a smaller and more nearly full-time and professional 'expert committee on programmes' with members acting in their personal capacity as experts, the Enlarged Committee for Programme and Co-ordination recommends that the present intergovernmental character of the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination should be retained.

"21. The Enlarged Committee recommends that the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination be reconstituted as follows: The Committee should be composed of twenty-one States Members of the United Nations to be elected by the Economic and Social Council from among all Member States of the Organization with due regard to equitable geographical distribution and to the necessary balance between the claims of continuity and of rotation, i.e., one third of the members should be elected annually for three-year terms. Member States so elected should choose representatives to serve on the Committee, bearing in mind the desiderata set forth in paragraph 3 of Council resolution 1187 (XLI).¹⁵ If a Member State no longer wishes to participate in the Committee's work, it would be free to withdraw from it on the understanding that another Member State from the same geographic region would be elected to replace it.

"22. The Enlarged Committee considers that the amount of time and the frequency and place of meetings of the reconstituted Committee for Programme and Co-ordination should be adjusted, if necessary, to enable it to carry out effectively its proposed functions.

"23. When necessary, the Committee may select from among its members special rapporteurs to prepare detailed studies and to submit recommendations on topics designated by the Committee. The Committee may find it necessary to request the rapporteurs to travel to various offices of the United Nations, and, accordingly, a modest financial provision may have to be made within the budget for these expenses. It is recognized that the selection of studies to be undertaken by the special rapporteurs will have to be made in the light of the reports prepared, or being prepared, by the Joint Inspection Unit, the specialized agencies and other bodies in the United Nations system.

"24. If in exceptional cases, special expertise were not available from amongst the membership of the Committee, the Committee might request the Secretary-General to engage outside consultants. Financial arrangements would have to be made for this purpose. The Committee should also bear in mind the possibilities of enlisting the assistance of the United Nations Institute for Training and Research in respect of research that may be required in matters of programme or of evaluation and co-ordination.

"25. The Enlarged Committee proposes that arrangements be made to provide appropriate assistance to the reconstituted Committee and its rapporteurs and suggests that professional officers at the appropriate level of seniority be appointed to assist the Committee in its work on a continuous and exclusive basis.

"26. The Enlarged Committee emphasizes that the effective discharge of the duties of the reconstituted Committee is dependent upon the existence of the closest working relationship between the various units of the Secretariat dealing, respectively, with inter-agency affairs and economic and social affairs. The Committee would also have to work in close collaboration with the Administrative Committee on Co-ordination and the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions.

"27. The Enlarged Committee proposed that arrangements for joint consultations and collaboration between the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination and the Joint Inspection Unit should be established and it recommends accordingly that the General Assembly should amend the existing procedures for handling reports of the Joint Inspection Unit to provide that:

"(a) Reports of the Joint Inspection Unit concerning the economic, social and human rights programmes of the United Nations, under the general responsibility of the Economic and Social Council, together with the comments of the Secretary-General, should be submitted through the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination to the Economic and Social Council and the General Assembly, as well as to the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions;

"(b) Reports dealing with the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations Children's Fund, the United Nations Industrial Development Organization, the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees and the United Nations Institute for Training and Research should be submitted without any delay, and with executive comments, to the governing organs of the programmes concerned, as well as to the organs referred to under subparagraph (a) above;

"(c) The comments of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions should be transmitted to the Council and the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination, and to the governing organs of United Nations programmes, in time for them to be taken into account before final consideration of the reports;

"(d) The Committee should be kept informed constantly of the action taken on the recommendations of the reports of the Joint Inspection Unit;

"(e) The Joint Inspection Unit should be informed of problems of special interest to the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination with the aim of enlisting its co-operation in undertaking studies of interest to the Committee. The Joint Inspection Unit would naturally be free to accept or reject any such suggestions;

"(f) The Joint Inspection Unit should be invited to bring to the attention of the Committee any problem which it considers important within the scope of the Committee's responsibilities;

¹⁵ In accordance with these desiderata, persons serving on the Committee should have "a high degree of experience and competence in: (a) The United Nations and related organizations in the economic, financial and social areas; (b) The governing bodies of the specialized agencies and subsidiary bodies of the United Nations".

"(g) Representatives of the Joint Inspection Unit should be free to participate in meetings of the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination, and arrangements should be made for periodic joint consultations.

"28. With respect to the reports dealing with more than one agency and with system-wide problems, the Enlarged Committee wishes to support the following arrangements agreed on at the Joint Meetings of the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination and the Administrative Committee on Co-ordination held in July 1969 and endorsed by the Council: the reports should be transmitted to the Council through the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination on the basis that:

"(a) The executive heads should have the opportunity to comment on all inspection reports involving their organizations before the reports are made public, such comments to be made available to the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination as well as to the governing organs concerned, within a period of not more than three months after the reports are submitted;

"(b) In cases where reports involve issues that require consideration by governing bodies, the Committee for Programme and Co-ordination should postpone final action until the governing bodies concerned have had an opportunity to formulate and present their own comments thereon. However, the delay should not in any case exceed one year from the time the report was originally submitted.

1474 (XLVIII). Conference of Plenipotentiaries for the Adoption of the Protocol on Psychotropic Substances

The Economic and Social Council,

Reiterating its conviction that the problem of the widespread abuse of psychotropic substances not under international control, urgently requires to be regulated by international agreement in the form of a treaty,

Recalling its resolutions 1293 (XLIV) and 1294 (XLIV) of 23 May 1968 and 1401 (XLVI) of 5 June 1969, and World Health Assembly resolutions WHA 18.47 of 20 May 1965, WHA 20.42 and WHA 20.43 of 25 May 1967 and WHA 21.42 of 23 May 1968, and also General Assembly resolution 2433 (XXIII) of 19 December 1968, which refer to this problem,

Recalling also its resolution 1402 (XLVI) of 5 June 1969 in which it had noted the progress made by the Commission on Narcotic Drugs in elaborating

a draft Protocol for the control of the psychotropic substances and had authorized the Commission to meet as early as possible in 1970 to prepare a revised draft Protocol for submission to the Council,

Recalling also that the General Assembly, by resolution 2584 (XXIV) of 15 December 1969, had requested the Council to call upon the Commission on Narcotic Drugs at its special session to proceed without delay to complete the draft Protocol for the control of the psychotropic substances,

Having received the report of the Commission on Narcotic Drugs on its first special session,²¹

Noting that this report contains the text of the revised draft Protocol²² referred to in Council resolution 1402 (XLVI) and General Assembly resolution 2584 (XXIV),

1475 (XLVIII). Steps towards early international control of psychotropic substances

The Economic and Social Council,

Having decided by its resolution 1474 (XLVIII) of 24 March 1970 to convene a conference of plenipotentiaries to adopt an international agreement on the control of psychotropic substances,

Convinced that the general adoption of effective control measures in regard to psychotropic substances is essential to the fight against the abuse of these substances,

Believing that the existence of such control measures would also help bring about the early entry into force of an international agreement by making it easier for Governments to ratify or accede to the agreement,

Convinced that all feasible steps should be taken by Governments to prepare for the bringing into effect as soon as possible of a widely accepted system of international control of psychotropic substances,

Recalling its resolution 1401 (XLVI) of 5 June 1969 in which Governments, pending the entry into force of an international instrument, were recommended to apply urgent control measures to certain stimulant drugs,

Recommends that Governments should give consideration to the adoption at the earliest possible date of additional measures for the national as well as international control of psychotropic substances and take measures to prevent the abuse of these substances.
