Foreword

The mandate of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) spans all three pillars of the United Nations, namely peace and security, sustainable development and human rights, and the Office continues to strengthen support to Member States in advancing justice to fight corruption and crime in all its dimensions, counter the world drug problem and prevent terrorism. The overarching goal of the UNODC programme budget document 2021, supported by nine subprogrammes and aligned with the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, is to drive results and improve effectiveness and efficiency in carrying out the Office's mandates.

Through its global, regional and country operational programmes, which are implemented through the Office's network of field offices and its headquarters in Vienna, UNODC is helping to address the interlinked challenges of drugs, violence, organized crime, terrorism and corruption, while mainstreaming gender and human rights approaches across all mandate areas. In addition, UNODC will continue to empower young people as agents of positive change to help to build a more inclusive world.

In view of the global crisis related to the coronavirus disease (COVID-19), the work of UNODC in 2020 was quickly refocused to support Member States in taking swift action to address the pandemic and the challenges relating to recovery.

At the same time, the Office worked to protect the safety and well-being of staff and other personnel around the world as they adjusted to the realities of remote work, so as to ensure the continued delivery of the Office's mandates. In order to minimize disruptions, UNODC is leveraging innovations and information technology solutions to ensure that no one is left behind and that the people most in need are prioritized.

Another important context for the proposed programme budget document 2021 is the evolving reform of the United Nations development system and identification of thematic priorities by the Secretary-General and Member States. With its strong field presence and delivery capacity in key countries, UNODC serves as a hub for the provision of substantive expertise to Member States, United Nations country teams and other counterparts for the development of locally owned and needs-based United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Frameworks and operational programmes.

UNODC has been able to carry out its work thanks to the support of Member States, the private sector and other donors. Voluntary contributions have risen some 40 per cent over the past five years, a clear recognition of the value of UNODC assistance under its drug- and crime-related mandates.

In 2021, the work of UNODC will continue to play a vital role in international efforts to achieve sustainable development, support human rights, and build peaceful societies to enhance international criminal justice cooperation and to better serve the people most in need.

(Signed) Ghada Waly
Executive Director, United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime

A. Proposed programme plan for 2021 and programme performance for 2019

Overall orientation

Mandates and background

- 16.1 The United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) is responsible for supporting Member States in making the world safer from drugs, crime and terrorism with a view to promoting security and justice for all. The mandate derives from the priorities established in relevant United Nations conventions and General Assembly resolutions, including Assembly resolutions 45/179, 46/152 and 46/185 C. The thematic focus areas of the Office range from transnational organized crime to trafficking; from drug prevention and treatment and alternative development to corruption; from criminal justice reform to terrorism prevention; and from research and trend analysis to policy support. The work of the Office is grounded in a series of international instruments for which the Office acts as guardian and advocate. They include the three international drug control conventions, the United Nations Convention against Corruption, the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime and the Protocols thereto, the 19 international conventions and protocols against terrorism and the United Nations standards and norms in crime prevention and criminal justice. In 2020, transnational organized crime and terrorism continued to pose major threats to security, development, and good governance around the world. Corruption, cybercrime, the use of new technologies, including artificial intelligence, for criminal purposes, trafficking in persons, the smuggling of migrants, environmental crime, particularly unregulated and illegal plundering of non-renewable resources, and trafficking in endangered species of flora and fauna, are linked to State fragility and undermine the rule of law. The illicit cultivation, manufacture and consumption of and trafficking in drugs remain a risk to the health, dignity and hopes of millions of people. They lead to the loss of human life and the depletion of social cohesion and capital. UNODC support, aimed at addressing these challenges and developing the capacity of Governments to formulate and implement coherent policies for sustainable development, while mainly funded through extrabudgetary resources, will also continue to be provided through the implementation of the regular programme of technical cooperation and Development Account projects.

Strategy and external factors for 2021

- 16.2 As a United Nations entity whose mandate spans the three pillars of the United Nations, namely peace and security, sustainable development and human rights, the Office assists Member States in their fight against crime in all its dimensions, in countering the world drug problem, and in preventing international terrorism.
- 16.3 UNODC does so through three broad, interconnected and mutually supportive work streams:
- (a) Normative work, including policy advocacy and legislative assistance to promote the ratification and implementation of the relevant international treaties and the provision of secretariat and substantive services to the treaty-based, governing and other Member State-driven bodies that help to identify areas of focus, challenges, responses and commitments in relevant mandate areas relating to drugs, crime and counter-terrorism;
  - (b) Research and policy support work to expand the evidence base, as well as its interface with the policymaking processes at the national, regional and global levels through increased knowledge and understanding of drug and crime issues;
  - (c) Technical cooperation to enhance the capacity of Member States and other stakeholders to counteract illicit drugs, crime and terrorism at the national, regional and global levels through the Office's extensive field network and headquarters.

- 16.4 Recent developments in the international financial and political landscapes, including the slowdown in major economies and the increase in bilateral collaboration, sometimes at the expense of multilateral solutions, have provided an impetus for UNODC to provide integrated support to Member States, leveraging its thematic leadership and field presence.
- 16.5 At the policy level, the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, the Ministerial Declaration on Strengthening Our Actions at the National, Regional and International Levels to Accelerate the Implementation of Our Joint Commitments to Address and Counter the World Drug Problem, adopted in 2019, and the outcome document of the special session of the General Assembly on the world drug problem held in 2016 have highlighted the Office's mandate areas. In addition, the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice and the Commission on Narcotic Drugs have provided a platform for sharing expertise and experiences in the areas of crime prevention and criminal justice, and of drug control. The mandates emanating therefrom have provided an additional reason for the Office to integrate its programmes into broader initiatives across the United Nations system that will, in turn, foster greater national ownership and sustainability.
- 16.6 In 2021, UNODC will strengthen its efforts in thematic areas prioritized by Member States, providing strategic substantive leadership and expertise, to act as a driver for thematic coherence across the United Nations system, including through United Nations country teams. In addition, the Office will continue to serve as the institutional "hinge", facilitating continuous and adaptable linkages between the normative, operational and research dimensions in its mandated areas. In implementing these initiatives, UNODC will increase the provision and sharpen the focus of advisory services, targeted technical support and policy advice, when and where needed, focusing on responding to the needs of Member States and strategic points of entry for coherent field delivery.
- 16.7 In line with the principles of the United Nations development system reform and the new United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework (formerly the United Nations Development Assistance Framework), rolled out in 2019 and onwards, UNODC is developing programmes aimed at:
- (a) Tailored, field-based, and complementary regional and global assistance to support the needs of Member States;
  - (b) Stronger cross-sectoral integration of all relevant elements of its mandates to support Member States to counter illicit drugs, crime and terrorism;
  - (c) Making a clearer contribution to efforts by Member States to implement the 2030 Agenda, inter alia by leveraging synergies and joint initiatives involving other United Nations entities and partners, working in concert with the revamped United Nations country teams and assisting the new resident coordinator system by providing specialized assistance in its mandate areas.
- 16.8 The Office will leverage its role as an impartial knowledge broker to identify innovative and effective ways of tackling the negative link between all forms of crime and sustainable well-being. Research and analysis will play a fundamental role in better identifying, understanding and shaping responses to drugs and crime challenges. The Office will do so by feeding into common country analyses, which will help to shape United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Frameworks at the national level that will be delivered under the leadership of empowered resident coordinators. The analysis generated in-house will also provide the evidence base for development of its own programmes rooted in mandates provided by its governing bodies, as well as the mechanisms for the review of implementation of the Convention against Corruption and the Organized Crime Convention.
- 16.9 The ongoing changes brought about by United Nations reforms, including the management reform and the reform of the peace and security pillar, and their impact at the field level, amplify the need for UNODC expertise to be targeted at supporting effective delivery on the ground. They also necessitate that the Office identify and respond more rapidly and effectively to strategic needs through the deployment of staff and other technical resources, offering effective, multidisciplinary and impact-oriented delivery in the field. In order to roll out these responses in a more systematic and strategic way, core substantive and programmatic capacity will be maintained and, where needed, strengthened with the aim of ensuring that the progress made in 2019 and 2020 is sustained in 2021.

- 16.10 The Office's focus will be sharpened to specifically address the nodal links between drug use, drug trafficking, transnational organized crime, illicit financial flows, corruption and terrorism, considering them within the broader framework of the increased well-being of people. The delivery of field support and strengthening of UNODC capacity in key thematic areas will contribute to addressing the interlinkages between UNODC mandates and the 2030 Agenda. In addition, improved cross-cutting fundamental roles will help to ensure multisectoral and whole-of-government responses to ensure sustainability. UNODC will also develop results-based technical documents to support strategic coherence in all its thematic areas.
- 16.11 With regard to the external factors, the overall plan for 2021 is based on the following planning assumptions:
  - (a) Extrabudgetary resources, including more funding for fundamental roles through core resources as part of the funding compact, continue to be available, allowing the Office to support Member States to combat the constantly evolving nature and scope of transnational organized criminal networks and their links with corruption and the weakening of State structures;
  - (b) Member States recognize, in their policies, programmes and budgets, that challenges related to security, justice and the rule of law must be addressed as part of an integrated, nationally owned effort to implement the 2030 Agenda;
  - (c) International financial institutions, the United Nations system and other multilateral organizations highlight the importance of strengthening fiscal governance and preventing the leakage of public funds in order to sustainably address issues under the UNODC mandate and implement the 2030 Agenda in a holistic manner;
  - (d) Member States share real-time and other operational data with their counterparts across borders to mount effective, intelligence-led responses to dismantle organized criminal networks.
- 16.12 The Office integrates a gender perspective in its operational activities, deliverables and results, as appropriate. By integrating a gender perspective, UNODC pursues the coherent and coordinated implementation of global commitments on gender equality and the empowerment of women. It does so through the UNODC Strategy and Action Plan for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women (2018–2021), which continues to provide a framework for coherence and guides the Office's support to Member States for the achievement of the 2030 Agenda and, specifically, Goal 5 (on achieving gender equality and empowering all women and girls). Implementation of the Strategy will be evaluated in 2021, with a second phase of implementation scheduled to begin in 2022. A Gender Team is located in the Office of the Director General/Executive Director to coordinate the implementation of the Strategy, thus ensuring that a gender perspective is systematically mainstreamed in programme approval processes; that programme managers integrate gender perspectives in the operational activities of each subprogramme and gender strategy focal points are consulted in programme development; that gender analysis becomes an integral part of all UNODC programming processes; that staff receive and benefit from capacity-building activities and tools to further gender mainstreaming; that lessons learned and good practices emanating from evaluations and relevant forums are exchanged systematically within the UNODC network of gender strategy focal points; and that UNODC stays abreast of new developments in the field of gender equality, through both the system-wide network of gender focal points led by the United Nations Entity for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women (UN-Women) and inter-agency cooperation through the Inter-Agency Network on Women and Gender Equality.
- 16.13 With the enhanced focus on gender-related results, UNODC has strengthened the integration of gender aspects in its mandated areas of work. For example, in 2021, planned activities under subprogramme 5 include vocational training to help female prisoners to develop skills and expertise to secure employment in the construction industry upon their release. Under subprogramme 9, component 1, the Secretariat to the Governing Bodies continues to support the Commission on Narcotic Drugs and the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice by assisting them in the negotiation of resolutions targeting, among other things, gender equality; in enhancing the horizontal cooperation between the Commissions and the Commission on the Status of Women through participation in relevant meetings; and in contributing to the review of the progress on the implementation of, inter alia, Sustainable Development Goal 5, by facilitating the annual contribution of the Commissions to the high-level political forum on sustainable development.

- 16.14 With regard to cooperation with other entities, UNODC is working with other stakeholders, Member States and United Nations sister agencies at the local, national, regional and global levels to help Member States to understand better the nature of the challenges they face and to design coherent programmes and policies to implement the 2030 Agenda. The Office will remain actively involved in the Global Alliance for Reporting Progress on Promoting Peaceful, Just and Inclusive Societies, a coordinating platform enabling Member States, the private sector, civil society and international entities to work together to promote Goal 16 (on promoting peaceful and inclusive societies for sustainable development, providing access to justice for all and building effective, accountable and inclusive institutions at all levels). UNODC is also active in the Pathfinders for Peaceful, Just and Inclusive Societies initiative, in which a group of Member States, international organizations, global partnerships and others come together to focus on the “SDG16-plus forum” on Goal 16, and the 2030 Agenda targets on peace, justice and inclusion. In addition, UNODC has been implementing programmes with an array of international organizations, including the African Union, the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, the Caribbean Community, the Commonwealth of Independent States, the Economic Cooperation Organization, the Council of Europe, the Organization of American States, the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe, and the Shanghai Cooperation Organization, to enhance common approaches.
- 16.15 With regard to inter-agency coordination and liaison, UNODC has established various joint projects and coordination groups that involve other entities of the United Nations system. They include gender equality and women’s empowerment (UN-Women); drug prevention, treatment and rehabilitation (the World Health Organization); law enforcement (the International Criminal Police Organization (INTERPOL)); border management (the World Customs Organization); corruption (the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP)); trafficking in persons and the smuggling of migrants (the International Organization for Migration, the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees and the Inter-Agency Coordination Group against Trafficking in Persons); terrorism prevention (the Office of Counter-Terrorism of the Secretariat and the entities cooperating in connection with the United Nations Global Counter-Terrorism Coordination Compact); access to justice for children (the United Nations Children’s Fund); urban safety governance (the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-Habitat)); and ensuring coherence in the collection of statistics pertaining to its mandates in coordination with the Statistics Division of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the Secretariat. The Office remains an active co-sponsor of the Joint United Nations Programme on HIV/AIDS (UNAIDS) and is the substantive leader in the area of HIV prevention, treatment and care among people who use drugs and in prison settings. In addition to working together, the Office and its partners are also demonstrating to external audiences the support provided by the United Nations system to advance the achievement by Member States of the Sustainable Development Goals, through advocacy, publications and digital communications.

Evaluation activities

16.18 The following evaluations completed in 2019 have guided the programme plan for 2021:

(a) Independent in-depth evaluations:

- (i) Independent in-depth evaluation of the regional programme for South-East Asia and country programmes for Indonesia, Myanmar and Viet Nam (subprogrammes 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5; status: finalized);
  - (ii) Independent in-depth evaluation of the Global Action to Prevent and Address Trafficking in Persons and the Smuggling of Migrants (GLO.ACT) initiative (subprogramme 1; status: finalized);
  - (iii) Independent in-depth evaluation of the Global Programme for the Implementation of the Doha Declaration: Towards a Culture of Lawfulness (subprogramme 3; status: ongoing);
  - (iv) Independent in-depth mid-term evaluation of the Global Maritime Crime Programme (subprogramme 5; status: ongoing);
  - (v) Independent in-depth mid-term evaluation of the Global Firearms Programme: countering illicit arms trafficking and its links to transnational organized crime and terrorism (subprogramme 1; status: ongoing);
  - (vi) Independent in-depth evaluation of the Western Balkans Counter-Serious Crime initiative in the context of the Integrative Internal Security Governance mechanism, including the European Union action entitled “Instrument for pre-accession assistance multi-country action programme 2017: support to the Western Balkan integrative internal security governance”, conducted for the European Union, including a UNODC component (status: finalized);
- (b) Independent evaluations of the following UNODC projects (subprogrammes 1, 2, 3 and 5):
- (i) Enhance government and civil society responses to counter trafficking in persons in Bhutan;
  - (ii) Supporting the establishment of an evidence-based drug dependence treatment and rehabilitation system for the Palestine National Rehabilitation Centre;
  - (iii) Asia-Pacific Joint Action Towards a Global Regime against Corruption;
  - (iv) United Nations Pacific Regional Anti-Corruption Project phase II;
  - (v) Improving the criminal justice response to violence against women in Egypt;
  - (vi) “Fortalecimiento para la seguridad de grupos vulnerables” (Strengthening the safety of vulnerable groups).
- 16.19 The findings of the evaluations referenced in paragraph 16.18 above and the evaluation meta-synthesis 2017–2018 have been taken into account for the programme plan for 2021. In the meta-synthesis, the need was highlighted for the strengthened integration of human rights (see General Assembly resolution 73/207) and gender equality in the design, planning, implementation and reporting of UNODC projects and programmes. An identified best practice in this context related to UNODC efforts to advocate for awareness with national partners on the needs of most-at-risk populations in Central Asia. Furthermore, the need for improved results-based-management frameworks, including more systematic data collection, was identified in this biennial meta-synthesis. As a result of the above-referenced evaluations, subprogrammes within UNODC will continue to strengthen the approach to gender equality.
- 16.20 The following evaluations are planned for 2021:
- (a) Selected areas in UNODC subprogrammes;
  - (b) Selected regions and countries in line with UNODC programming;
  - (c) Independent evaluations covering various subprogrammes and regions.
- 16.21 With regard to participation in joint evaluations, in particular in relation to the principle of common country programming and the assessment of United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation

Frameworks, more strategic evaluations will be conducted at UNODC in coordination with the United Nations Evaluation Group to also contribute to the review mechanism of the Sustainable Development Goals and inform evidence-based decision-making at all levels.

- 16.22 UNODC recognizes that independent evaluation is an essential tool for accountability, learning and decision-making. The independent evaluation function at UNODC implements the United Nations Evaluation Group norms and standards, quality assurance and management of strategic evaluations. The new web-based application “Unite Evaluations” was developed and rolled out to increase the coverage, efficiency and quality of evaluations. It was highlighted by the Office of Internal Oversight Services as a notable good practice in the United Nations Secretariat. It is an innovative tool that ensures effective follow-up mechanisms for improved programmatic performance and dissemination of lessons learned at an aggregate level to inform decision-making. Moreover, responding to information needs by Member States, the Independent Evaluation Section is working to diversify and improve its evaluation-based knowledge products to enable evidence-based decision-making at all levels. As requested by the General Assembly in its resolution 69/237, the independent evaluation function at UNODC, in coordination with the United Nations Evaluation Group and United Nations country teams, continues its engagement in strengthening national evaluation capacity, contributing to the review mechanism of the Sustainable Development Goals and to strengthen accountability in public institutions, in line with Goal 16.

Programme of work

Subprogramme 1

Countering transnational organized crime

Objective

- 16.23 The objective, to which this subprogramme contributes, is to prevent and combat transnational organized crime and illicit trafficking.

Strategy

- 16.24 To contribute to preventing and combating transnational organized crime and illicit trafficking, the subprogramme will continue to promote international cooperation among relevant authorities within Member States, regional entities and other partners, through global, regional and interregional initiatives. The subprogramme will also continue promoting adherence to and implementation of the international drug control conventions and the Organized Crime Convention and the Protocols thereto. The subprogramme will continue supporting the work of the Conference of the Parties to the Organized Crime Convention, including supporting the Mechanism for the Review of the Implementation of the Convention and the Protocols thereto, through assisting States parties in completing the preparatory phase by servicing informal consultations, preparing several drafts of the self-assessment questionnaires for the Convention and its Protocols that will serve as a basis for the reviews, developing and testing the secure module within the knowledge management portal known as Sharing Electronic Resources and Laws on Crime (SHERLOC), which will be the platform for the review process, devising and testing an effective drawing-of-lots system, collecting information on nominated experts within States parties and substantively servicing meetings of the intergovernmental expert group established in accordance with Conference resolution 9/1, among other things.
- 16.25 The subprogramme will also continue to provide tailored technical assistance to Member States. This work is expected to result in reduced illicit trafficking and organized crime, such as through the seven transregional investigative drug case forums held in 2019, which brought together investigators and prosecutors from source, transit and destination countries to share knowledge of current and changing drug trafficking trends and methodologies, legal frameworks and, moreover, develop post-seizure strategies for significant seizure cases. Those meetings are aimed at optimizing criminal justice outcomes arising from significant seizures and in turn encouraging prosecutions and proceeds of crime action against high-value targets involved in the organization and funding of the seizures.

- 16.26 As further examples, UNODC has also trained prosecutors of requesting Member States on international cooperation in criminal matters, in particular in trafficking cases; trained law enforcement officials on enhancing the effectiveness of mutual legal assistance processes; delivered pre-accession workshops to requesting Member States in relation to the Convention and its Protocols; and provided legislative and drafting assistance to requesting States parties to harmonize their laws with the Convention and its Protocols. The subprogramme also supports Member States in making progress towards relevant Sustainable Development Goals, including Goals 5, 8, 10, 15, 16 and 17. For example, the global programme on strengthening criminal investigation and criminal justice cooperation along the cocaine route in Latin America, the Caribbean and West Africa of UNODC works towards the attainment of Goal 17 by building capacity and promoting strategies aimed at the disruption of organized criminal groups involved in drug trafficking. It promotes the rule of law with its capacity-building incorporating human rights-based and rule-of-law focused content. The Container Control Programme of UNODC helps to promote the rule of law by creating and strengthening partnerships between customs services and other law enforcement agencies, which is directly relevant to Goal 17, as the programme brings together national Governments, the international community, civil society, the private sector and other actors and implements effective and targeted capacity-building in developing countries to support national plans to implement all the Sustainable Development Goals, including through North-South, South-South and triangular cooperation. The subprogramme also supported Alliance 8.7, including through participation at the Alliance 8.7 Global Coordinating Group meetings held in Geneva on 3 April 2019, in New York on 17 July 2019 and in Paris on 12 November 2019, and in a meeting about the African Union draft 10-year action plan to eradicate child labour, forced labour, human trafficking and modern slavery, convened under the auspices of Alliance 8.7 in Addis Ababa on 20 and 21 March 2019, to discuss regional-level support to the initiative.
- 16.27 Through the subprogramme, UNODC also participated in the high-level political forum at which the theme “Empowering people and ensuring inclusiveness and equality” was addressed, in particular the review of Goal 16 (on peace, justice and strong institutions) on 19 July 2019. The high-level political forum also conducted an in-depth review of Goal 4 (on quality education), Goal 8 (on decent work and economic growth), Goal 10 (on reduced inequalities) and Goal 13 (on climate action), in addition to Goal 17 (on partnerships for the Goals), which is reviewed each year. Past results in this area include 95 Member States and one jurisdiction having been assisted in reviewing or developing anti-money-laundering legislation and laws to counter the financing of terrorism and the implementation of related operational practices; and technical assistance and training undertaken in Southern Africa under the Asset Recovery Inter-Agency Network for Southern Africa. In 2018, the proceeds of crime frozen, seized and confiscated exceeded $600 million, which represents an increase of $524 million compared with the total figures for 2017. Moreover, all remaining non-parties to the Convention and its Protocols, many of which are least developed countries, have been contacted and offered support with regard to acceding to the Convention and its Protocols; as an immediate result, one State acceded to the Convention and all its Protocols, thereby bringing the number of parties to 190 (for 2019). All remaining non-parties are currently considering accession, making universal adherence a real possibility. Furthermore, legislative support was provided to seven Member States in reviewing their national drug control legislation and policies through coordination with relevant UNODC country or field offices.
- 16.28 In addition, further to Security Council resolutions 2331 \(2016\) and 2388 \(2017\), on trafficking in persons in conflict situations, and General Assembly resolution 72/1, by which the Assembly adopted the political declaration on the implementation of the United Nations Global Plan of Action to Combat Trafficking in Persons, the UNODC Human Trafficking and Migrant Smuggling Section engaged with the Department of Peace Operations of the Secretariat and the Department of Field Support of the Secretariat and developed a training module. The United Nations Multidimensional Integrated Stabilization Mission in Mali (MINUSMA) was identified as the appropriate peacekeeping mission in which to pilot the training module, and it was tailored to the context in Mali. UNODC organized a training-of-trainers workshop for the induction training team and individual trainers and supported the first two training sessions delivered by the induction training team, in addition to a specialized training session for law enforcement officials in Mali that was independently organized by one of the trained officers on the basis of the UNODC manuals. A session on trafficking in persons and the smuggling of migrants has been integrated into the regular induction training programme offered by the MINUSMA United Nations police induction training team to individual police officers. The subprogramme contributed an increase in the capacity of individual police officers to detect and report on cases of trafficking and smuggling. In the first nine months following the training, trained MINUSMA personnel supported five investigations of possible trafficking in persons cases and five investigations of possible smuggling of migrants cases conducted by the security forces of Mali. UNODC is currently planning to replicate the training in other United Nations field missions, in consultation with the Department of Peace Operations.

Programme performance in 2019 against planned result

- 16.29 A planned result for 2019, which is increased capacity of requesting Member States, with the assistance of UNODC, for effective action against transnational organized crime, including in the areas of money-laundering, combating illicit financial flows, trafficking in persons, trafficking and smuggling of migrants, illicit trafficking in firearms and emerging crime, as referred to in the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2018–2019, was achieved, as evidenced by meeting the target of eight additional legal and operational tools and good practices on transnational crime brokered and/or supported by UNODC. An example is the development and implementation of a training module covering trafficking in persons and the smuggling of migrants as part of the in-mission induction training of United Nations police personnel.

Programme performance in 2019: organized crime knows no borders in a rapidly digitizing world – competent national authorities communicate using data-mining technology to strengthen international cooperation

- 16.30 The subprogramme supported the strengthening and facilitation of communication among central and competent national authorities designated by Member States under the United Nations Convention against Illicit Traffic in Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances of 1988, the Organized Crime Convention and the Protocols thereto, and other applicable legal instruments with a view to enhancing international cooperation in criminal matters. For that purpose, the subprogramme has maintained and expanded the online directory of competent national authorities, a comprehensive database powered by the SHERLOC knowledge management portal, which has served as a bridge-building tool for an ever-growing number of users. Prosecutors, police, customs authorities, judges and law enforcement officials are among the users who, through their personal UNODC accounts, access a large volume of pre-formatted and pre-structured data on more than 1,600 authorities from 190 countries in 16 areas of specialization.
- 16.31 Ultimately, the directory's added value is that it classifies, associates, clusters and tracks patterns of large batches of otherwise unstructured raw data. In other words, it makes it easier for users to access knowledge from a collection of data that UNODC has previously mined (prepared, selected, cleaned and interpreted). As demonstrated by testimonies from users, the directory is being used to narrow down users' search requests in less than one minute instead of hours or days. That significantly increases the speed of access to useful knowledge, including the generation of correlations that the directory already offers, on one user-friendly portal.
- 16.32 Both the General Assembly and the Security Council, in recent resolutions, have entrusted UNODC with enlarging the directory with focal points designated to prevent and combat trafficking in cultural property (Assembly resolution 68/186) and authorities designated for terrorist-related cases (Council resolution 2322 \(2016\)). Likewise, in 2019, the directory was expanded to also include all the authorities designated under the Convention against Corruption. Thus, the directory became a one-stop shop for finding the details of agencies designated under the main treaties of which UNODC is a guardian.

Progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.33 This work contributed to preventing and combating transnational organized crime, as demonstrated by the increased number of State officials as users from 1,132 in 2018 to 1,231 in 2019, as evidenced in the SHERLOC case law database. There was increased cooperation between central and competent authorities with their foreign counterparts.

Performance measure: total number of State officials using the directory of competent national authorities

Planned results for 2021

Result 1: crime in a box – cocaine smuggling (result carried over from 2020)

- 16.34 The Office will continue the work related to the cross-border movement of illicit goods, in line with its mandate, and will provide capacity-building to countries to strengthen institutional capacities and regulatory frameworks that prevent the movement of illicit goods across borders, which is expected to be demonstrated by the performance measure for 2021 below. For 2020, a proxy performance measure is indicated to reflect that the General Assembly, in its resolution 74/251, approved a programme narrative at the subprogramme level that is composed solely of the objectives.

Result 2: mainstreaming digital forensic evidence (new result)

- 16.35 The subprogramme has been working on supporting all Member States to counter cybercrime as a means to effectively prevent and combat transnational organized crime and illicit trafficking committed through the misuse of information and communications technologies.
- 16.36 In that regard, tailor-made technical assistance has been provided to meet the needs of Member States, upon request. In one such case, in 2019, the Office developed and delivered a digital forensic evidence laboratory to the requesting Member State. Through the laboratory, infrastructural support was provided, including laboratory equipment. In addition, training in the use of digital forensic evidence was given to law enforcement professionals, including on ways to more effectively gather and use the digital evidence held on the devices of suspects. This led to more proportionate, legal, accountable and necessary convictions and releases.

Internal challenge and response

- 16.37 The challenge for the subprogramme was to cope with increasing demand for support and effectively respond to the specific needs in the particular context of the requesting Member State. In response, for 2021, the subprogramme will strengthen its ability to provide tailor-made technical assistance, based on a needs assessment exercise, to the requesting Member State to enhance the capacity of national relevant authorities to carry out digital forensic analysis. The subprogramme will acquire suitable resources and, by 2021, will mainstream the work of the digital forensic laboratory into all high-risk transnational organized crime and terrorism operations of the requesting Member State and, taking into account the relatively small size of the laboratory, it will be capable of providing its proportionate share of digital forensic evidence to investigations carried out in cooperation with other Member States.

Expected progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.38 This work is expected to contribute to preventing and combating transnational organized crime and illicit trafficking, which would be demonstrated by more than 2,000 criminal cases analysed with digital media by national police forces, which in turn would lead to more successful convictions, following due process, release of the innocent and consistent and reliable international cooperation through professional digital forensic evidence acquisition. UNODC will continue to provide mentoring, advice, training and support to the digital forensics units of the national police forces for that purpose.

Subprogramme 2*A comprehensive and balanced approach to counter the world drug problem*Objective

- 16.41 The objective, to which this subprogramme contributes, is to ensure comprehensive and balanced responses to the world drug problem through integrated demand reduction and related measures, and supply reduction and related measures and enhanced international cooperation.

Strategy

- 16.42 To contribute to ensuring comprehensive and balanced responses to the world drug problem through integrated demand reduction and related measures, and supply reduction and related measures, the subprogramme will assist Member States, upon request, in establishing and/or expanding drug use prevention approaches and services, drug dependence treatment, HIV/AIDS prevention, treatment and care, and support services for drug users, including for people who inject drugs, in line with scientific evidence. The subprogramme will also assist Member States, upon request, in establishing inclusive social assistance approaches with a shared common responsibility for promoting sustainable livelihoods through alternative development, including, where appropriate, preventive alternative development. The subprogramme will: (a) collaborate with relevant actors, including United Nations country teams and other multilateral organizations; (b) provide technical assistance to Member States to promote coherent policy and institutional responses; (c) support the enhancement of national health and justice systems, including the systems' responses; and (d) implement operational programmes to combat illicit drug cultivation and trafficking.
- 16.43 Progress in each of these areas will be accomplished through advocacy; the provision of technical assistance, capacity-building, regional strategic planning sessions, support for policy development, expert group consultations and conferences; the provision of standards and operational guidelines based on science; and the development and dissemination of manuals, toolkits, reports and issue papers based on science and evidence. This work is expected to result in an increased coverage of evidence-based interventions in the areas of drug abuse prevention, drug dependence treatment, HIV/AIDS prevention treatment and care, and access by beneficiaries to higher-quality services. Past results in this area include the active engagement of 19 Member States in expanding or developing family-based or school-based prevention services, the engagement of 45 Member States in efforts specifically relating to youth participation, the strengthening by 36 Member States of HIV responses to people who use drugs and those in prisons, the improvement, similarly, by 19 Member States of the provision and quality of drug use disorder treatment services and the establishment by 6 Member States of inclusive social assistance approaches with a shared common responsibility in promoting sustainable livelihoods.
- 16.44 The subprogramme promotes rights-based, public health-focused and gender-responsive strategies and policies that are grounded in the principles of the Charter of the United Nations at the global level through programmes that save lives, such as the UNODC "Stop overdose safely" (SOS) initiative, which serves to help Member States to address and prevent overdoses effectively, particularly in places most affected by the opioid crisis, in line with target 3.5 of the Sustainable Development Goals. To promote sustainable alternative livelihoods, the subprogramme supports the production of high-quality coffee, which is then sold for a premium price in cooperation with the private sector. This work is expected to result in an increased quality of life and guaranteed income for families in rural areas, in line with the relevant Goals, including Goals 1 and 8. All operational programming under subprogramme 2 integrates gender responsiveness, equality and the empowerment of women, in line with Goal 5.

- 16.45 To contribute to ensuring comprehensive and balanced responses to the world drug problem and enhanced international cooperation, the subprogramme will support global, regional and interregional cooperation in countering illicit drug trafficking by promoting the exchange of criminal intelligence and promoting multilateral operations that target international criminal organizations involved in drug trafficking, while working in synergy with subprogramme 1, under which Member States are assisted in combating other forms of trafficking. In addition, in coordination with subprogramme 1, the subprogramme will promote the network of law enforcement (police, customs, specialized drug law enforcement agencies and others) training institutions to stimulate the exchange of training curricula, training methodologies, best practices and training materials. This work is expected to result in joint and coordinated work by law enforcement agencies to track and dismantle networks that traffic illicit drugs. Past results in this area include strengthening the criminal investigation capacities and criminal justice cooperation of Member States along drug trafficking routes in Latin America, the Caribbean and West Africa. Those operations led to successful post-seizure investigations, including controlled deliveries of drugs across borders. Furthermore, under a joint programme of UNODC and the World Customs Organization, in 2018, a total of 2,866 officers were trained in 91 ports and airports across 54 countries on various topics including trafficking in illicit drugs and other commodities. In total in 2018, also under that joint programme, 765 seizures were made, including of 51,341 kg of cocaine, 969 kg of heroin, 7.5 kg of opium, 2,564 kg of cannabis, 154 kg of new psychoactive substances, 76,737 kg of precursor chemicals (both for drugs and explosives) and 461 kg of other psychotropic substances.

Programme performance in 2019 against planned result

- 16.46 A planned result for 2019, which is the increased and balanced application of a continuum of measures aimed at drug demand reduction, as well as vulnerability to HIV/AIDS and other blood-borne diseases, with the assistance of UNODC, as referred to in the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2018–2019, was achieved, as evidenced by the implementation by 15 additional countries (compared with a target of 10) of drug use prevention interventions, in line with relevant international treaties and based on scientific evidence, with the assistance of UNODC.
- 16.47 In addition, in 2019, the subprogramme also assisted 20 countries in implementing drug dependence treatment, rehabilitation and social reintegration interventions, in line with relevant international treaties and based on scientific evidence. The subprogramme also assisted 26 countries in developing, adopting and implementing strategies and programmes on HIV/AIDS as related to drug users, particularly people who inject drugs.
- 16.48 The balanced application of drug demand reduction in Latin America and the Caribbean was exemplified through parenting and family skills interventions in Panama and other countries in the region. In addition, Brazil built the capacity of health-care workers, government officials and civil society partners to address the increased risks of communicable diseases, particularly focused on HIV and viral hepatitis contracted through stimulant drug use.

Programme performance in 2019: drug demand reduction and related measures for people who are at risk to use drugs or are using drugs in Asia

- 16.49 The subprogramme has contributed to ensuring a comprehensive and balanced response to the world drug problem, including in several countries in Asia.
- 16.50 In Indonesia, the prevention of drug use was strengthened through the piloting of the “Family united” programme for families living in challenging settings. In addition, UNODC built the capacity of medical and psychosocial professionals working in the field of substance use disorder treatment through the implementation of the universal treatment curriculum, which comprises modules on the physiology and pharmacology of substance abuse, and on counselling for the treatment of substance abuse disorders (125 participants), through Treatnet Family intervention, and through the encouragement of standards for the quality assurance for drug use disorder treatment services and systems.
- 16.51 In Viet Nam, the quality and coverage of HIV counselling and testing was increased in 25 prisons and 15 pretrial centres in high-burden provinces. The activity was conducted in close collaboration with the Ministry of Health, the Ministry of Public Security, the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria, civil society partners and relevant UNAIDS co-sponsoring organizations.
- 16.52 In the Lao People’s Democratic Republic, the cultivation of coffee as a long-term, high-income crop was started with the first commercial harvest in the second half of 2019. The aim is to reduce the reliance of communities on the cultivation of opium poppy. The subprogramme has used innovative story-telling to link alternative development products to the global market by combining the community behind the product, the history of the country, future aspirations and the human factor to tell a compelling story that lets consumers identify with the product they are buying.

Progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.53 This work contributed to ensuring comprehensive and balanced responses to the world drug problem, as demonstrated by the integrated demand reduction and related measures, supply reduction and related measures implemented by Indonesia, the Lao People’s Democratic Republic and Viet Nam.

Planned results for 2021

Result 1: addressing drug use, drug use disorders and related consequences in Kenya (result carried over from 2020)

- 16.54 The Office will continue the work related to alternative approaches, as opposed to incarceration or punishment, in line with its mandate, and will support countries in increasing their capacity to prevent drug use, adopt treatment as an alternative to incarceration or punishment for people with drug use disorders and establish relevant legal, policy and strategy instruments to enhance the response to HIV, which is expected to be demonstrated by the performance measure for 2021 below. For 2020, a proxy performance measure is indicated to reflect that the General Assembly, in its resolution 74/251, approved a programme narrative at the subprogramme level that is composed solely of the objectives.

Abbreviation: N/A, not applicable.

Result 2: a balanced, integrated drug demand reduction and supply reduction approach to be applied by selected countries in Africa (new result)

- 16.55 The subprogramme has been working in several regions to contribute to comprehensive and balanced responses to the world drug problem, integrating demand reduction and related measures, and supply reduction and related measures. In 2021, the subprogramme will pilot an accelerated integrated approach in selected countries in Africa, representing each subregion of the continent. UNODC headquarters, together with its field presences, has undertaken a number of activities and plans to continue, under this subprogramme, to: conduct assessments at the country level related to demand reduction and supply reduction; build capacity among the health-care workforce, as well as among law enforcement officials, prison officials and other relevant authorities at the national level; continue to assist Member States in engaging and empowering civil society and community-based organizations at the national and regional levels; and integrate with relevant regional bodies such as the African Union, the Southern African Development Community and the League of Arab States.

Internal challenge and response

- 16.56 The challenge for the subprogramme was that activities were sometimes overlapping and synergies or links were not sufficiently identified before the event and capitalized on after the intervention, for example in the crime prevention and drug prevention areas. In response, the subprogramme will deploy innovative approaches such as joint calendars and the joint planning of activities across subprogrammes using web-based or other electronic tools to ensure that it can better leverage the internal capabilities of UNODC while avoiding overlap.

Expected progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.57 This work is expected to ensure comprehensive and balanced responses to the world drug problem through integrated demand reduction and related measures, supply reduction and related measures, and enhanced international cooperation, which would be demonstrated by an increased number of countries with integrated services.

Table 16.7

Subprogramme 3

Countering corruption

Objective

- 16.60 The objective, to which this subprogramme contributes, is to prevent and combat corruption in line with the Convention against Corruption.

Strategy

- 16.61 To contribute to preventing and combating corruption in line with the Convention against Corruption, the subprogramme will provide policy and legislative advice, build the capacities of relevant actors and facilitate the transfer of expertise. The subprogramme will also continue to assist Member States, upon request, in enhancing public sector institutions and strengthening the role of civil society, parliamentarians, the private sector, academia and the general public in the prevention of corruption, including by providing technical assistance to States in the follow-up to country reviews conducted under the Mechanism for the Review of Implementation of the United Nations Convention against Corruption, as well as other types of technical assistance under article 13 of the Convention against Corruption. The subprogramme will also continue to coordinate the implementation of mandates given by treaty-based organs, in particular the Conference of the States Parties to the Convention and other governing bodies, and support related intergovernmental processes, including in preparation for the special session of the General Assembly on corruption, to be held in 2021. This work is expected to result in the improved capacity of States to combat corruption and improved regional and international cooperation among States. Past results in this area include strengthened anti-corruption legislative frameworks of many States owing to the adoption of new laws. In 2019, UNODC implemented more than 320 activities at the national, regional and global levels, including direct country-level support to more than 70 countries. To date, approximately 12,000 participants (including anti-corruption practitioners) received such assistance, which included advisory services for legislative and policy drafting, workshops, training events and expert meetings aimed at building capacity in the public and private sectors, and in civil society. Past results in this area also include the provision by UNODC of case-related and general capacity-building support on asset recovery to 22 countries, including through the joint UNODC/World Bank Stolen Asset Recovery (StAR) Initiative, and support to various regional asset recovery networks. Moreover, at its eighth session, held in December 2019, the Conference adopted a record number of 15 resolutions and one decision on a vast variety of thematic areas, as well as on the organizational arrangements and the preparatory process for the special session of the General Assembly on corruption, to be held in 2021.
- 16.62 To contribute to preventing and combating corruption in line with the Convention against Corruption, the subprogramme will also promote international cooperation regarding the investigation, prosecution and adjudication of corruption and related offences. Furthermore, the subprogramme will help develop and disseminate knowledge products about the implementation of the Convention and assist Member States, upon request, in producing data and conducting statistical and analytical studies and research into corruption, including in collaboration with academia and other stakeholders, to enable informed policy decisions and progress with the international anti-corruption reform agenda. Based on the experiences of Member States in the implementation of the Convention, the subprogramme will share good practices and encourage the exchange of knowledge. This work is expected to result in progress towards the attainment of relevant Sustainable Development Goals, including Goal 16, in particular by substantially reducing corruption in all its forms, strengthening the recovery and return of stolen assets, promoting the rule of law at the national and international levels, and ensuring equal access to justice for all, developing effective, accountable and transparent institutions at all levels, ensuring responsive, inclusive, participatory and representative decision-making at all levels, broadening and strengthening the participation of developing countries in the institutions of global governance and strengthening relevant national institutions, including through international cooperation, so as to build capacity at all levels, in particular in developing countries. Past results in this area include the organization, in the framework of the UNODC Global Programme on Promoting a Culture of Lawfulness, of over 20 direct capacity-building activities by the Global Judicial Integrity Network. Results also include the provision by UNODC of case-related and general capacity-building support to 22 countries with regard to asset recovery, including through the StAR Initiative, and support to various regional asset recovery networks. Moreover, the deployment of anti-corruption advisers has been a particularly effective way to ensure South-South cooperation and the sharing of knowledge and good practices at the national and regional levels.

Programme performance in 2019 against planned result

- 16.63 A planned result for 2019, which is enhanced support of UNODC to the Conference of the States Parties to the United Nations Convention against Corruption and its subsidiary bodies to facilitate decision-making and policy direction, as referred to in the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2018–2019, was achieved, as evidenced by 24 countries (compared with a target of 15) drafting or revising domestic legislation, with assistance from UNODC, and policies to incorporate provisions of the Convention against Corruption.

Programme performance in 2019: improved capacity of Member States to prevent and combat corruption

- 16.64 The subprogramme contributed to the improved capacity of Member States to prevent and combat corruption in line with the Convention against Corruption, including through the analysis of recommendations and technical assistance needs emerging from country reviews conducted under the Implementation Review Mechanism.

Progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.65 This work contributed to preventing and combating corruption in line with the Convention against Corruption, as demonstrated by 84 submissions by States parties of their completed self-assessment checklists.
- 16.66 There has been an increased number of countries drafting or revising domestic legislation, with assistance from UNODC, to incorporate provisions of the Convention against Corruption, as well as in the number of countries developing capacity to prevent corruption, and/or developing anti-corruption strategies and/or action plans, with assistance from UNODC. Data are available in relation to the countries assisted in 2019 in two specific areas: (a) technical assistance, including training events in follow-up to country reviews conducted under the Implementation Review Mechanism and the identification of technical assistance needs in the reviews; and (b) other types of technical assistance. All activities in those two areas fall within the scope of the activities planned for 2019. According to available data, 24 activities, 16 of which are in follow-up to a recommendation emerging from the Implementation Review Mechanism and technical needs identified, have been carried out to support anti-corruption legislation; 8 activities have been carried out in support of the development of national anti-corruption policies. On average, over 90 per cent of participants in the capacity-building and technical assistance events were satisfied with the training, based on surveys administered at the conclusion of those events.
- 16.67 In addition, the Conference of the States Parties, at its eighth session, held in Abu Dhabi in December 2019, adopted 17 resolutions on a wide range of topics in the anti-corruption area, as well as a decision on the extension of the Implementation Review Mechanism until 2024. The Conference also approved a draft resolution for adoption by the General Assembly on the preparatory process for the special session of the Assembly on corruption, to be held in April 2021. Throughout 2019, the subsidiary bodies of the Conference met to discuss substantive issues of relevance to preventing and combating corruption, including technical assistance. On average, over 90 per cent of participants were satisfied with the services provided by the secretariat to these policymaking processes, based on surveys administered at the conclusion of those meetings.

Result 1: reviewing the implementation of the United Nations Convention against Corruption to spearhead national anti-corruption reforms (result carried over from 2020)

- 16.68 The Office will continue the work related to the implementation of the Convention against Corruption, in line with its mandate, and will support States in the timely completion of country reviews, which is expected to be demonstrated by the performance measure for 2021 below. For 2020, a proxy performance measure is indicated to reflect that the General Assembly, in its resolution 74/251, approved a programme narrative at the subprogramme level that is composed solely of the objectives.

Abbreviation: N/A, not applicable.

Result 2: fast-tracking the implementation of the United Nations Convention against Corruption by States parties (new result)

- 16.69 The subprogramme has been working on the establishment of fast-tracking platforms composed of policy- and decision makers, focusing specifically on accelerating the implementation of the Convention against Corruption at the global, regional and national levels, while also taking into account the outcomes of the country reviews conducted under the Implementation Review Mechanism. However, more remains to be done. This approach enables participating States parties to identify and focus on specific priority themes in their fight against corruption. It also enables States parties to leverage South-South cooperation for a broader range of technical assistance support. In seeking to strengthen its effectiveness, the subprogramme will continue to assist States in implementing the Convention more effectively.
- 16.70 In order to advance and accelerate the implementation of the Convention, the subprogramme will support four regional platforms, which will comprise 35 States parties from four regions. More specifically, the subprogramme will organize at least two regional workshops and conduct at least five national-level activities on financial investigation and asset recovery matters in South-East Asia. In addition, two national workshops will be organized in the thematic area of prevention of corruption (particularly, procurement). In East Africa, capacity-building and mentorship activities will be provided in three countries with regard to public procurement matters. Capacity-building activities in whistle-blowing protection will continue in at least five countries. On-site assistance in financial investigations will be provided to at least three countries. Mentorship will be provided to five parallel investigations linked to wildlife crime. At least one main regional workshop will be organized in East Africa to discuss all the thematic areas of the project. In the newly created platform for South America and Mexico, activities at the national level will be conducted in at least three countries for each thematic area. Twelve national activities will be conducted, as well as at least one regional workshop. In Southern Africa, 12 national activities and one regional workshop will be conducted. These efforts are intended to provide capacity-building activities on relevant themes to the States that are members of the regional platforms and to catalyse a broader range of support to enable fast-tracking of the implementation of the Convention.

Internal challenge and response

- 16.71 The challenge for the subprogramme was to better integrate the outcomes of country reviews into the technical assistance provided to States. In the course of carrying out activities relating to the Implementation Review Mechanism, it has emerged that States wished to implement the Convention in a more expeditious manner. In response, for 2021, in addition to increasing the number of training activities made available to Member States and the tailor-made advisory services, including workshops, on-site assistance, mentorship activities and trainings to an increased number of countries, the subprogramme will explore ways to further improve and intensify assistance to States parties in their efforts by better adapting and scaling up the assistance provided.

Expected progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.72 This work is expected to contribute to preventing and combating corruption in line with the Convention against Corruption, which would be demonstrated by 31 country-level activities to fast-track implementation of the Convention.

Subprogramme 4 Terrorism prevention

Objective

- 16.75 The objective, to which this subprogramme contributes, is to strengthen a criminal justice regime against terrorism that is effective and is implemented by Member States in accordance with the rule of law.

Strategy

- 16.76 To contribute to a strengthened criminal justice regime against terrorism that is effective and is implemented by Member States in accordance with the rule of law, the subprogramme will respond to requests from Member States to provide normative and capacity-building support to prevent terrorism and violent extremism as and when conducive to terrorism<sup>2</sup> by initiating and supporting the development of cooperation frameworks with Member States at the national, regional and global levels, based on the strategic objectives of Member States in preventing terrorism; developing and implementing results-based projects on terrorism prevention; and strengthening the impact of field delivery through coordination, and integrated planning and implementation with partners that support Governments with terrorism prevention, in particular the Global Counter-Terrorism Coordination Compact and its working groups.
- 16.77 This work is expected to result in the ratification by Member States of an increased number of international legal instruments against terrorism, their revision, accordingly, of domestic counter-terrorism legislation, and their development of strategies and action plans for combating terrorism; criminal justice officials' increasingly effective investigation, prosecution and adjudication of terrorism cases in line with the relevant international legal instruments and norms, standards and good practices; and increased national, regional and international cooperation between law enforcement and judicial entities. These outcomes support Member States in the implementation of relevant Sustainable Development Goals, including Goal 16. Past results in this area includes the deposition by Member States, in 2019, of 38 instruments of ratification, accession, approval, acceptance or signature regarding the 19 international legal instruments against terrorism and the ratification of the 2014 Protocol to amend the Convention on Offences and Certain Other Acts Committed on Board Aircraft by 22 States parties. UNODC has been implementing a project aimed at building the capacity of law enforcement officials to implement human rights-compliant special investigative techniques in the Middle East, which has led to an increase in the number of such investigations conducted in several countries in the region. In Africa, UNODC assisted criminal justice officials by providing legal guidance and training on the revision of terrorism case files and in ways which to effectively build cases for prosecution, while respecting human rights. Judges trained by UNODC revised the cases of thousands of persons associated with terrorism, many of whom were discharged of the accusations against them and released, while more than 300 were convicted. In Asia, where UNODC has implemented a regional workshop on the investigation, prosecution and adjudication of cases involving foreign terrorist fighters, a Member State reported that it had directly applied the skills acquired in the compilation of several cases. Three convictions were handed down and almost 100 suspects are awaiting their trials.

Programme performance in 2019 against planned result

- 16.78 A planned result for 2019, which is the improved capacity of UNODC to support Member States to prevent terrorism in accordance with the rule of law at the national and international levels, as referred to in the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2018–2019, was achieved, as evidenced by the 3,000 national criminal justice officials who were trained with respect to implementing international conventions and protocols relating to terrorism, compared with a target of 2,300 for 2019.

Programme performance in 2019: Middle Eastern and North African countries disrupt terrorist activity in the region

- 16.79 The subprogramme established a network for Member States known as the Multi-Agency Task Force of the Middle East and North Africa Region to strengthen law enforcement and criminal justice cooperation with regard to terrorist cases, specifically those related to foreign terrorist fighters. In the light of its experience in establishing similar mechanisms, the subprogramme organized a series of regional coordination meetings to connect the focal points of the Task Force with those of other networks prior to its establishment. Most notably, this work helped to equip the focal points with the tools required to build an effective and sustainable mechanism.
- 16.80 The Task Force, which is composed of security and judicial focal points in the participating countries, is responsible for the investigation and prosecution of terrorist cases. The network facilitates cooperation between regional counterparts, including for joint investigations, mutual legal assistance and extradition. It offers a platform that allows the focal points to work together to identify and analyse operational challenges in ongoing foreign terrorist fighter cases and, in parallel, exchange good practices. In some instances, those exchanges have enabled the focal points to identify links across cases that subsequently led to new leads and new investigations. With the subprogramme's support, the focal points of the Task Force developed a practical guide to drafting cooperation requests intended for countries participating in the Task Force, with specific guidance for each country, as well as draft rules of procedure, which are intended to serve as terms of reference to guide the work of the focal points within the Task Force.

Progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.81 This work contributed to a strengthened criminal justice regime against terrorism that is effective and is implemented by Member States in accordance with the rule of law, as demonstrated by an increase in the number of arrests of individuals suspected of involvement in terrorist activities and the seizure of precursor chemical materials suspected to be destined for use in an improvised explosive device for a terrorist attack. Furthermore, the Task Force enabled the exchange of judicial information, which led to the expedited sending of extradition requests by some of the countries of the Task Force.

Planned results for 2021*Result 1: progress in the prosecution and adjudication of members of Islamic State in Iraq and the Levant (Da'esh) (result carried over from 2020)

- 16.82 The Office will continue the work related to criminal justice systems, in line with its mandate, and will assist countries in the strengthening of their national criminal justice systems, which is expected to be demonstrated by enhanced capacities to handle domestic cases relating to Islamic State in Iraq and the Levant (ISIL, also known as Da'esh) while upholding fundamental rights. For 2020, a proxy performance measure is indicated to reflect that the General Assembly, in its resolution 74/251, approved a programme narrative at the subprogramme level that is composed solely of the objectives.

Result 2: strengthened capacity of criminal justice officials to prevent terrorism (new result)

- 16.83 The subprogramme has been working on strengthening a criminal justice regime against terrorism that is effective and is implemented by Member States in accordance with the rule of law. As an example, in the case of Sri Lanka, following the terrorist attacks in the country on 21 April 2019, the subprogramme supported the authorities in their criminal justice responses against terrorism, promoting the application of international norms, standards and good practices in countering terrorism in line with the United Nations Global Counter-Terrorism Strategy. Regional and national activities, online training courses and train-the-trainers workshops will contribute to the long-term sustainability and impact of the project. The approach to capacity-building will follow best practices, including simulations of investigations and prosecutions and sustained mentoring support.

- 16.84 Specifically, the subprogramme will provide support to the development of national policy, strategic and legal frameworks, and action plans to prevent and counter terrorism.<sup>3</sup> Furthermore, the subprogramme will train criminal investigators, prosecutors and judges on supporting effective, compliant and fair investigations, prosecutions and adjudications of terrorism-related criminal cases in accordance with applicable international law, taking into account the proper collection and evaluation of evidence. The subprogramme will also support strengthened inter-agency and regional cooperation between law enforcement and judicial officials to facilitate the operational exchange of information and mutual legal assistance.

Internal challenge and response

- 16.85 The challenge for the subprogramme was a lack of gender mainstreaming considerations in relevant activities, as stipulated in an audit by the Office of Internal Oversight Services. In response, the subprogramme will actively work to ensure that a gender component is incorporated across all areas of project development. In line with the relevant recommendation, the subprogramme will continue to ensure that all capacity-building activities contain didactic material in relation to the gender dimensions of the criminal justice responses to terrorism and ultimately work towards contributing to a strengthened criminal justice regime against terrorism that is effective and implemented in accordance with the rule of law.

Expected progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.86 This work is expected to contribute to a strengthened criminal justice regime against terrorism that is effective and is implemented by Member States in accordance with the rule of law, which would be demonstrated by the ability of criminal justice officials to process terrorism cases effectively and in accordance with applicable international law, including gender norms.

Subprogramme 5 Justice

Objective

- 16.89 The objective, to which this subprogramme contributes, is to prevent crime and ensure more effective, fair, humane and accountable criminal justice systems as a basis for the rule of law and sustainable development.

Strategy

- 16.90 To contribute to preventing crime and ensuring more effective, fair, humane and accountable criminal justice systems as a basis for the rule of law and sustainable development, the subprogramme will continue to promote the development of United Nations standards and norms in crime prevention and criminal justice and facilitate their application through working with all relevant sectors in national criminal justice systems and all actors involved in crime prevention and criminal justice reform.
- 16.91 The subprogramme will also provide assistance to Member States, upon request, by enabling knowledge transfer, institution-building, capacity-building and advice on crime prevention and criminal justice reform, including through developing and disseminating reference and operational tools, guidance notes, handbooks, training curricula, model legislation, studies, good practices and information technology resources on the following core components: police reform; the functioning of prosecution services and the judiciary; sentencing policies and the use of alternatives to imprisonment; access to legal aid; prison reform, including improving prison conditions and supporting social reintegration of offenders upon release; relevant oversight mechanisms; and cross-cutting issues related to victims and witnesses, gender in the criminal justice system, including violence against women and girls, and the treatment of female offenders and prisoners, violence against children in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice, and justice for children. This work is expected to help Member States to make progress towards relevant Sustainable Development Goals such as Goals 5, 11 and 16.
- 16.92 This work is also expected to result in, inter alia, improving coordination mechanisms between justice actors, for example, better coordination between police officers, defence lawyers and investigating judges to address excessive and arbitrary pretrial detention; better prosecution and adjudication of cases of violence against women and girls; increasing access to justice for the vulnerable sectors of society, including through countrywide legal aid services that are accessible to all and are tailored to the rights and needs of certain groups, such as women and children, by leveraging existing capacities and using new technology; the building of capacity among judges to better apply alternatives to imprisonment in appropriate cases through the exchange of best practices; the strengthening of operational programmes for education, vocational training and work activities in prisons to support prisoners' social reintegration and prevent recidivism; and the prevention of victimization by establishing sustainable projects for crime prevention that address risk factors for offending and reoffending and make communities safer, including by focusing on young people and the teaching of life skills, and empowering women and girls. Past results in this area include a significant increase in awareness of the rationale and benefits of using alternatives to imprisonment in appropriate cases and the recognition of the need to provide gender-responsive non-custodial measures and support countries in their efforts to develop the capacity of police, prosecutors and judges to apply non-custodial measures for female offenders. Progress has also been made in developing prison-based rehabilitation programmes, including for female prisoners. In 2019, for example, owing to a focus on education, vocational training fostered the employability and successful reintegration into society of 240 prisoners in 11 countries. Also in 2019, 724 stakeholders, in particular prison staff and policymakers, were trained on the implementation of international standards in relation to prisoners' social reintegration. In the area of access to justice, legal aid has become more broadly available at all stages of the criminal justice process, particularly in Africa and Asia. Overall, budgetary allocations have increased and more strategies to maximize the use of available resources have been developed and, as confirmed in the UNDP/UNODC Global Study on Legal Aid, tailored assistance for groups with specific rights and needs in the justice system has been provided more frequently, such as for children, persons with disabilities and female victims of violence.

Programme performance in 2019 against planned result

- 16.93 A planned result for 2019, which is crime prevention and criminal justice system reform initiatives within the UNODC mandate being developed and implemented in accordance with international standards and norms in crime prevention and criminal justice, as referred to in the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2018–2019, was fully achieved and surpassed, as evidenced by 98 additional countries (as compared with a target of 3) having been assisted by UNODC in utilizing tools, manuals and training materials and advisory services for improving crime prevention strategies and measures, and criminal justice procedures and practices regarding the treatment of prisoners.

Programme performance in 2019: a global response to children recruited and exploited by terrorist groups

- 16.94 The subprogramme has been supporting Member States in dealing with a particularly serious form of violence, namely the recruitment and exploitation of children by terrorist and violent extremist groups.<sup>4</sup> Child recruitment and exploitation violates the rights of children and causes long-lasting physical, developmental, emotional and mental harm. In some cases, children subjected to recruitment and exploitation are led to commit criminal offences, including acts of terrorism, war crimes and crimes against humanity.<sup>5</sup> Member States face challenges in combining effective prevention and responses to this form of violence against children, while also ensuring accountability mechanisms and robust justice systems to uphold the rule of law and the maintenance of public security.
- 16.95 Based on its expertise in and mandates related to violence against children and counter-terrorism, UNODC has stepped up its efforts to prevent and respond to violence against children committed by terrorist groups. The General Assembly, in its resolution 72/194, requested UNODC to continue to provide assistance to Member States in addressing challenges related to the treatment of these children.
- 16.96 In that regard, UNODC has been supporting Member States through awareness-raising activities; the strengthening of legal and policy frameworks in accordance with applicable international law; technical assistance needs assessments to identify gaps and opportunities to strengthen existing laws, practices and the capacity of professionals; support for institution-building through regional, national and online capacity-building for justice and child protection professionals; the advancement of the coordination and interoperability between child protection, justice and other relevant systems; and the promotion of international and regional cooperation to support the effective treatment of children in contact with the justice system.
- 16.97 At the regional level, UNODC has undertaken nine capacity-building events on various aspects of dealing with the phenomenon attended by 308 participants from the child protection, justice and counter-terrorism sectors from over 32 countries in West Africa, the Sahel, East Africa, the Middle East and North Africa, South-East Asia and Central Asia. At the national level, the subprogramme also supported the Government of the Niger in strengthening its capacity to deal with children allegedly recruited by terrorist groups, such as Boko Haram. A technical assistance needs assessment was undertaken, and legal advisory services, advocacy and tailor-made comprehensive training cycles were provided in partnership with the national training school. UNODC also supported the strengthening of the specialized juvenile justice system, in particular the operationalization of rehabilitation centres for alleged child offenders.
- 16.98 The subprogramme has furthermore developed a comprehensive training package on ways to deal with and treat the children affected. It comprises the Handbook on Children Recruited and Exploited by Terrorist and Violent Extremist Groups: The Role of the Justice System, which is the first United Nations publication offering guidance on the multiple legal frameworks related to this issue and on the design of coherent, comprehensive and effective policies for the prevention and treatment of the children affected; and three training manuals on prevention, justice responses to, and rehabilitation and reintegration of the children affected, primarily addressing practitioners from the justice system, and policymakers and professionals from other systems such as health, education and child protection. The training package is further complemented by the Roadmap on the Treatment of Children Associated with Terrorist and Violent Extremist Groups and is the result of four years of technical assistance work provided to Member States under the subprogramme.

<sup>5</sup> See A/69/926-S/2015/409, A/HRC/30/67 and A/70/836-S/2016/360.

Progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.99 This work contributed to progress towards preventing crime and ensuring more effective, fair, humane and accountable criminal justice systems as a basis for the rule of law and sustainable development, as demonstrated by the national training modules developed by national training schools and the training-of-trainers sessions delivered with the support of the subprogramme. The training events were attended by 128 national justice professionals in the field of treatment of child victims of violence with a focus on recruitment and trafficking, and 129 professionals in the field of treatment of alleged child offenders, with a focus on diversion and alternatives to detention. A clearer legal and policy framework was created, establishing that the children affected should be considered primarily as victims of crimes and treated as such, thereby overcoming the dichotomy between preserving public safety and protecting child rights. In addition, as a result of joint efforts of multiple United Nations system agencies, over 100 children deprived of liberty due to their association with Boko Haram were released and transferred to child protection authorities to commence a process of reintegration in their communities. The work, carried out jointly with the national judicial training institutions, has multiplied the knowledge of local trainers and produced tailored national training material ensuring the long-term results of capacity-building efforts.

Planned results for 2021

Result 1: helping women prisoners in the Plurinational State of Bolivia prepare for their lives after prison (result carried over from 2020)

- 16.100 The Office will continue the work related to rehabilitation and post-incarceration support, in line with its mandate, and will assist countries in implementing programmes aimed at increasing post-incarceration prospects, which is expected to be demonstrated by the performance measure for 2021 below. For 2020, a proxy performance measure is indicated to reflect that the General Assembly, in its resolution 74/251, approved a programme narrative at the subprogramme level that is composed solely of the objectives.

Result 2: communities are more resilient to crime and violence (new result)

- 16.101 The subprogramme has been working on supporting Member States in introducing policies and programmes that help to prevent crime, as a contribution to their efforts to reach targets of relevant Sustainable Development Goals, including Goals 5, 11 and 16, which concern the reduction of crime and violence, including violence against women and girls, and the promotion of peaceful and inclusive societies. The United Nations crime prevention standards, including the United Nations Guidelines for the Prevention of Juvenile Delinquency (the Riyadh Guidelines), the guidelines for cooperation and technical assistance in the field of urban crime prevention and the Guidelines for the Prevention of Crime, provide strategic guidance to authorities on ways to avert crime and victimization. In addition, United Nations standards in criminal justice more broadly include important guidance regarding prevention and the need to address risk and to strengthen protective factors, for example in the domains of access to legal aid, violence against women and children, and penal reform.
- 16.102 Research and good practices from countries around the world indicate that crime prevention efforts that include the engagement of local communities and the promotion of programmes that have been shown to address the conditions that give rise to antisocial behaviour and crime before these problems arise are particularly effective. These may include, community mobilization initiatives, gang prevention and intervention, the creation of opportunities for mentoring, vocational training and employment for young people, after-school recreation, parenting programmes, and problem-oriented approaches to policing.
- 16.103 Supporting the implementation of the above-mentioned standards and norms, and taking into account international best practices, the subprogramme is working to support national and local stakeholders in countries in Latin America and the Caribbean, Africa, the Middle East and North Africa, and Central and South-East Asia in identifying and addressing risk factors for crime, including youth crime. It supports participatory crime diagnoses, the development of local and national crime prevention strategies and action plans, and the introduction of evidence-based prevention initiatives targeting at-risk youth, families and/or communities. Recognizing that men and women are affected differently by crime and violence as victims and tend to play different roles as offenders, the subprogramme promotes gender-sensitive approaches to the prevention of crime and violence.

Internal challenge and response

- 16.104 Further to research and lessons identified as part of consultations with experts at the national and local levels, the challenge of the subprogramme was to mobilize sufficient expertise and resources to tailor and scale up crime prevention initiatives to low-resource settings. In response, the subprogramme will make available know-how and networks to assist requesting States in the global South to design, implement and evaluate evidence-based crime prevention measures that respond to the safety and security needs in their communities and assist them in scaling up these initiatives and to integrate crime prevention considerations in relevant national policies and strategies.

Expected progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.105 This work is expected to contribute to the prevention of crime and to ensuring more effective, fair, humane and accountable criminal justice systems as a basis for the rule of law and for sustainable development, which would be demonstrated by the development and implementation by 10 States of gender-sensitive crime prevention policies and programmes that serve to encourage collaboration among community stakeholders, and support evidence-based interventions that have been shown to reduce risk and enhance protective factors for behavioural problems. More specifically, the result is expected to strengthen the use made by Member States of effective crime prevention approaches to reduce violence and crime with a focus on enhancing community resilience, in particular that of young people.

Subprogramme 6 Research, trend analysis and forensics

Objective

- 16.108 The objective, to which this subprogramme contributes, is to ensure that Member States have enhanced knowledge of trends on drugs and crime for effective scientific and evidence-based policy formulation.

Strategy

- 16.109 To contribute to ensuring that Member States have enhanced knowledge of trends on drugs and crime for effective scientific and evidence-based policy formulation, the subprogramme will continue to provide timely and accurate statistics and analyses of world drug and crime problems, with particular attention to specific manifestations of crime and its transnational dimensions. The subprogramme will also provide support and capacity-building to Member States, upon request, to produce, disseminate and analyse drug and crime data and statistics, including targeted assistance to increase capacity to produce data and monitor progress towards relevant Sustainable Development Goals.
- 16.110 The subprogramme will also assist Member States, upon request, in identifying trends, emerging issues and priorities in drugs, crime and corruption; convene consultations with Member States and international organizations, with the participation of other relevant stakeholders, on the global review mechanism for Sustainable Development Goal targets that fall under UNODC mandates; provide technical assistance and expert advice to drug-testing laboratories and forensic institutions and assist Member States in forensics standard-setting and the exchange of quality forensic data and services for policy- and decision-making. The subprogramme will continue to support countries in the collection of and reporting on data regarding drugs and crime as required to monitor progress against certain Sustainable Development Goals and targets, in particular Goals 3 and 16, as they relate to illicit trafficking, justice, crime and drug use. The subprogramme will include, in addition to its traditional focus, special efforts to provide data and analysis to spur transformative change as agreed upon by Member States. Furthermore, the subprogramme will include elements related to crime statistics and crime reports, including data on illicit financial flows, through the facilitation of the establishment of a standard definition of illicit financial flows for statistical purposes by Member States, developing a methodology to implement it, and supporting countries in piloting it and embedding it into their national statistical systems as a sustainable approach to monitoring progress towards target 16.4 (to significantly reduce illicit financial and arms flows, strengthen the recovery and return of stolen assets and combat all forms of organized crime by 2030).

- 16.111 The strategy is expected to result in enhanced knowledge among Member States, the international community and other relevant stakeholders about formulating strategic responses to existing and emerging drugs and crime issues, and in an increased capacity of Member States to produce and analyse statistical data on trends, including trends in specific and emerging drug and crime issues. The strategy is also expected to result in an improved scientific and forensic capacity of forensic service providers to meet internationally accepted standards of performance through quality assurance, and in an increased percentage of institutions in receipt of UNODC assistance that report enhanced scientific and forensic capacity together with efficient and well-integrated research activities in the various areas of work of UNODC. Past results in this area include the production of global flagship reports, including the World Drug Report 2019 and the Global Study on Homicide 2019. The usefulness of the global research reports was evidenced by the increase in the total number of references to global research reports in peer-reviewed journals, from 8,249 in 2018 to 9,359 in 2019.

Programme performance in 2019 against planned result

- 16.112 A planned result for 2019, which is increased capacity to produce, analyse and exchange statistical data on trends, including those in emerging drug and specific crime issues, as referred to in the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2018–2019, was achieved, as evidenced by the fact that 26 Member States (compared with the target of 26) received targeted training or other forms of technical assistance on data collection and analysis on issues under the UNODC mandate, including reviewing progress towards relevant Sustainable Development Goals.

Programme performance in 2019: Member States enabled to create evidence-based policies and programmes addressing drug use

- 16.113 To understand the global patterns and trends in drug use, policymakers require data generated at the national level. The global and regional estimates of the number of people using drugs are heavily shaped and influenced by estimates of drug use in countries with large populations.
- 16.114 In 2019, the subprogramme has therefore focused on building capacity, particularly in low-resourced countries, to generate quality data on drug use indicators through the establishment of drug information and monitoring systems and the implementation of national-level surveys on the extent and pattern of drug use.

- 16.115 Two recent examples of that work are the drug use surveys in India and Nigeria, two States with large populations. In India, the subprogramme provided indirect methodological support in the design and implementation of the drug use survey in the country, while in Nigeria, the subprogramme worked directly with the National Bureau of Statistics and other national counterparts to design and implement the first-ever comprehensive survey on drug use in Africa. The results of the national drug use survey in Nigeria showed that the estimated number of drug users was 14.4 per cent, or 14.3 million people aged between 15 and 64 years. The data suggested that the prevalence of past-year drug use in Nigeria was 14.4 per cent, more than twice the global average of 5.6 per cent. The report revealed the true extent to which prescription opioids, mainly tramadol and cough syrups, had been used for non-medical purposes in the previous year, namely by 4.6 million people. This placed Nigeria among the countries with high estimates of non-medical opioid use globally.

- 16.116 This work contributed to the enhancement of knowledge regarding trends on drugs and crime for effective scientific and evidence-based policy formulation, as demonstrated by the 20 per cent increase in the share of the global population for which data on drug use were available. The two recent surveys, of high scientific quality, in India and Nigeria, have led to major improvements in the data coverage of the populations in their respective regions. The new surveys in Nigeria and, in particular, India, have had a considerable influence on improving the estimates of drug use globally for the 2019 reporting period. The impact is especially visible for the numbers on opioids, opiates and the prevalence of drug use disorders among the population. Thus, in the World Drug Report 2019, the estimate for the number of opioid users around the world was reviewed upward by 35 per cent based on the new findings, while the estimates for Africa and Asia were doubled. This information has led to a better understanding of the extent of opioid use and the need for a better-informed response by Member States to address the situation.

Performance measure: share of the global population for which information on opioid use is available

(Percentage)

Planned results for 2021

Result 1: estimating the number of hidden victims of trafficking in persons (result carried over from 2020)

- 16.117 The subprogramme will continue the work related to the measurement of trafficking in persons, in line with its mandate, and will assist countries in developing and piloting methodologies to prepare robust and comparable estimates for the prevalence of trafficking in persons, which is expected to be demonstrated by the performance measure for 2021 below. For 2020, a proxy performance measure is indicated to reflect that the General Assembly, in its resolution 74/251, approved a programme narrative at the subprogramme level that is composed solely of the objectives.

Performance measure: number of countries initiating studies to estimate the prevalence of trafficking in persons, including non-detected victims

Abbreviation: N/A, not applicable.

Result 2: countries more effectively respond to the threat posed by synthetic drugs (new result)

- 16.118 UNODC has been working to improve the scientific and forensic capacity of Member States to analyse and identify synthetic drugs in a manner that meets professional standards, including through the increased use and dissemination of scientific information and laboratory data for inter-agency cooperation, strategic operations, and policy- and decision-making.
- 16.119 The subprogramme has been working on addressing the ongoing synthetic opioid crisis, mainly affecting North America, with fentanyl and its analogues, and parts of Africa, Asia and the Middle East with tramadol, through the launch of its integrated opioid strategy in 2018. The work brings existing in-house programmes together under one umbrella for a timely Office-wide integrated response that leverages a set of coordinated activities and resources under five pillars: early warning and trend analysis; rational prescribing and ensuring access to opioids for medical and scientific use; prevention and treatment of opioid-use disorders; international law enforcement operations to disrupt trafficking in opioids; and national and international counternarcotic forensic capacity.
- 16.120 In collaboration with international partners such as the World Health Organization and the International Narcotics Control Board, UNODC launched the United Nations Toolkit on Synthetic Drugs as part of its opioid strategy. The Toolkit is a centralized source of guidance on response to the opioids crisis that has been identified as promising, such as taking legislative and administrative measures; reducing supply for non-medical use while ensuring access for medical and scientific purposes; reducing the supply of precursors used in the illicit manufacture of synthetic drugs; and enhancing national forensic capacity. The Toolkit has four modules for health, forensics and research professionals. Each module is specifically developed for a different group: experts, practitioners, policymakers and decision makers. It is designed to be interactive and user-friendly so as to maximize the benefit to Member States.

Internal challenge and response

- 16.121 The challenge for the subprogramme was to develop a comprehensive response to the threats posed by synthetic drugs, given the increasing complexity of drug markets involving the use of the Internet and the darknet, the use of cyberspace and cryptocurrencies, and the shipping of synthetic drugs using air cargo, postal services and courier companies. In response, the subprogramme will develop four new dedicated modules of the Toolkit over a period of 18 months in collaboration with international partners, including the World Customs Organization, the Universal Postal Union and the International Civil Aviation Organization, and will strengthen the capacity-building efforts of UNODC in the field.

Expected progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.122 This work is expected to contribute to the enhancement of knowledge by Member States of trends on drugs and crime for effective scientific and evidence-based policy formulation as a response to the threat posed by synthetic drugs, which would be demonstrated by an increase in the number of specialized modules and specific resources within them, as well as an increase in the number of countries and sectors that strengthen their responses to synthetic drugs.

Subprogramme 7

Policy support

Objective

- 16.125 The objective, to which this subprogramme contributes, is to advance institutional reform and strengthen policy and operational responses by Member States on drug control, crime prevention and criminal justice.

Strategy

- 16.126 To contribute to advancing institutional reform and strengthening policy and operational responses by Member States on drug control, crime prevention and criminal justice, the subprogramme will facilitate and provide interdivisional headquarters and field-based assistance, including through United Nations country teams, related to institutional reforms and ensuring policy coherence to enable the effective implementation of UNODC mandate areas.
- 16.127 This will involve further strengthening strategic engagement with Member States, regional entities and United Nations system and multilateral bodies in promoting the rule of law, security and justice under the framework of the 2030 Agenda; conducting dialogues with donor Governments, Member States, international organizations and private sector entities to mobilize resources; building the capacity of civil society, academia and the private sector to assist Member States in meeting their obligations, including through increasing their knowledge, skills and networks; carrying out targeted advocacy and communication activities through the use of traditional and new media in substantive areas such as combating transnational organized crime, trafficking in drugs and corruption; undertaking policy analysis and providing coherent advice, upon request; and coordinating with other United Nations agencies on issues related to drugs, crime and terrorism in all its forms and manifestations. In particular, the Office will strengthen collaboration with the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-Habitat) in implementing the New Urban Agenda and will strengthen cooperation with the reinvigorated resident coordinator system.
- 16.128 These actions are expected to result in increased awareness of and capacity to address the interlinked issues of drug control, crime prevention and criminal justice by Member States, including at the urban level, complemented by more coherent country teams and the United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework that reflect UNODC mandates. More specifically, these actions are expected to result in increased local, national and regional awareness of and capacity to: (a) implement mandated areas of the international normative framework that address cross-cutting, systemic issues, such as illicit financial flows, corruption and economic crime; and (b) achieve progress towards the implementation by Member States of the relevant Sustainable Development Goals and targets thereof and other commitments (such as the Addis Ababa Action Agenda). Past results in this area include the training, in 2018, of representatives of 92 civil society organizations globally on the Mechanism for the Review of Implementation of the United Nations Convention against Corruption; 42 per cent of those representatives were women. The training equipped participants with substantive expertise on the provisions of the Convention against Corruption and provided them with information about the methodology for country reviews or implementation. In addition, following the completion of multi-stakeholder workshops in Ethiopia in April 2019, representatives of civil society organizations who had received the training reported on follow-up local initiatives to curb corruption. Furthermore, some 500 representatives of civil society organizations participated in intergovernmental sessions on United Nations mandates and engaged in some 50 joint meetings with UNODC management and/or Member States. The participation of civil society in the highest international forums allows for connections between the local and the global levels, strengthening both the civil society organizations, in terms of enhanced expertise, and UNODC, in its ability to create direct impacts. In addition, past results include multimedia campaigns developed for social media channels for the three General Assembly-mandated world days (International Day against Drug Abuse and Illicit Trafficking, World Day against Trafficking in Persons, and International Anti-Corruption Day) and the introduction of a weekly video summary about the work of UNODC, “The week in 60 seconds”, which is widely distributed through the Office’s social media channels. These have led to increased visibility for the mandate areas of UNODC which, in turn, enable increased engagement from Governments, civil society, the private sector and the wider public, to raise awareness and inspire action.

Programme performance in 2019 against planned result

- 16.129 A planned result for 2019, which is increased public awareness of issues related to drugs, crime and terrorism in all its forms and manifestations, as well as of the relevant United Nations legal instruments, standards and norms in crime prevention and criminal justice, as referred to in the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2018–2019, was achieved, as evidenced by the increase in unique visitors accessing information from the UNODC website, from 5.89 million in 2018 to 6.49 million in 2019, and in the number of users following UNODC on social media, from 360,964 in 2018 to 433,561 in 2019 (compared with the targets of 290,000 and 257,000, respectively).
- 16.130 The UNODC corporate website had 6,489,016 unique visitors in 2019 (a 10 per cent increase compared with 2018) and, on average, 540,751 unique visitors per month. Between December 2018 and August 2019, all UNODC corporate social media channels saw an increase in followers. The number of followers on Twitter increased from 112,277 to 123,389 and the number on Facebook from 203,848 to 217,919. The number of followers of the corporate Twitter accounts in French, Spanish and Russian rose by 23 per cent, 3.5 per cent and 7 per cent, respectively. Increased efforts on social media to promote UNODC flagship reports led to a higher number of downloads from the Office’s website: by 30 August 2019, The World Drug Report had been downloaded 269,901 times, the Global Study on Homicide had been downloaded 98,851 times and the Global Report on Trafficking in Persons had been downloaded 301,622 times.

Programme performance in 2019: Member States increase civil society involvement in their anti-corruption policies and measures

- 16.131 The subprogramme has been working to advance the capacities of non-governmental actors to support Member States in implementing relevant international conventions and standards and norms under the UNODC mandate, particularly on corruption. Capitalizing on the successes of three multi-stakeholder workshops on the Convention against Corruption and its Implementation Review Mechanism for relevant stakeholders in South-Eastern Europe, the fundamental importance of the active participation of individuals and groups outside the public sector in the prevention of and the fight against corruption was affirmed in the outcome statement of a meeting organized by UNODC in Belgrade in February 2019. This document contains specific and practical steps to take towards strengthened cooperation in the areas of training and knowledge, implementation of the Convention and its Implementation Review Mechanism and collective action. Notably, 67 per cent of the stakeholders trained by UNODC in South-East Europe had already worked with their Governments on implementation of the Convention.
- 16.132 Through a multi-stakeholder workshop held in Addis Ababa and round-table meetings held in Addis Ababa, Manila and Cartagena, Colombia, 115 representatives of civil society, the private sector and Governments were trained on the Convention against Corruption and how to support its implementation. A multi-stakeholder workshop in Addis Ababa enabled participants to understand the Implementation Review Mechanism process pertaining to the second cycle and equipped them with the knowledge and tools to work collaboratively with their governmental counterparts. A civil society round table for East Africa, held in Addis Ababa, served as a reporting meeting on whistle-blower protection and public procurement, a civil society round table for South-East Asia, held in Manila, strengthened the network of civil society organizations and better informed future activities, and a regional conference on fast-tracking implementation of the Convention against Corruption in Latin America, held in Cartagena, Colombia, integrated civil society organizations into the nascent regional platform.

- 16.133 Civil society organizations, through the various capacity-building workshops and round tables, have been able to develop lasting partnerships with their government counterparts. Constructive relationships are deliberately fostered through role reversals in the multi-stakeholder workshops, during which the government representatives take on the role of the representatives of civil society organizations, and vice versa. This allows the participants to better understand the situation of their counterparts and fosters better future collaboration. Subsequent joint activities between civil society organizations and Governments showcase the usefulness and effectiveness of such workshops. Civil society organizations were also enabled to contribute meaningfully to the promotion of the Convention against Corruption through the establishment of e-tools such as an anti-corruption e-platform for Latin America, as well as through the other e-platforms existing for Africa, South-Eastern Europe and South-East Asia.

- 16.134 This work contributed to advancing institutional reform and strengthening policy and operational responses by Member States on drug control, crime prevention and criminal justice, as demonstrated by the increased involvement of civil society organizations and/or other stakeholders in Member States under review in the second cycle of the Implementation Review Mechanism (2016–2021). In 2019, 93 per cent (25 out of 27) of country visits as part of that cycle involved civil society organizations and/or other stakeholders, such as academics.

Performance measure: percentage of Member States involving non-governmental stakeholders in country visits as part of the Mechanism for the Review of Implementation of the United Nations Convention against Corruption

Planned results for 2021

Result 1: whole-of-government approaches to safer, more inclusive and more resilient societies (result carried over from 2020)

- 16.135 The subprogramme will continue the work related to inclusive and resilient societies, in line with its mandate, and will engage with local governments and other stakeholders and assist them in developing and implementing cross-sectoral and coherent responses to urban challenges, leading to safer, more inclusive and more resilient cities, which is expected to be demonstrated by the performance measure for 2021 below. For 2020, a proxy performance measure is indicated to reflect that the General Assembly, in its resolution 74/251, approved a programme narrative at the subprogramme level that is composed solely of the objectives.

Result 2: urban safety governance – local governments adopt integrated and inclusive policies for safer urban areas (new result)

- 16.136 The subprogramme has been working on a new urban safety governance initiative. The initiative is premised on the safety governance approach, which recognizes that challenges to urban safety emerge from a complex interaction of risk factors at the local, national and global levels. There is increased recognition that inclusive, safe and resilient societies are a crucial factor of sustainable development, as reflected in the 2030 Agenda. Recently, at high-level meetings (e.g., the New Urban Agenda and its implementation plan, adopted by the United Nations Conference on Housing and Sustainable Urban Development (Habitat III)), Member States have called for innovative approaches to address crime in a consultative and participatory manner, and have stressed the need for measures on crime prevention and public safety in cities, including by engaging relevant local communities and non-governmental actors. In line with United Nations guidelines on crime prevention, in the New Urban Agenda, Member States stressed the importance of engaging with various levels and sectors of government, as well as civil society and other relevant stakeholders for safe and inclusive societies. The safety governance approach provides policymakers with a more inclusive framework within which to address the intersection of global threats and local dynamics in order to reverse risk factors for urban safety, including through strengthening legitimate governance, reducing inequality and promoting inclusion and individual and community resilience.
- 16.137 Through a series of consultations across the Office and with other United Nations entities, civil society organizations and experts, the subprogramme developed the urban safety governance guidance tool, a hands-on guide that offers general and practical guidance on conducting safety governance assessments in urban areas. In the guidance, it is emphasized that those assessments must be conducted using a participatory approach involving a wide range of local and national stakeholders, placing special emphasis on the needs of populations in situations of vulnerability. On the basis of the guidance tool, the subprogramme, through UNODC field offices, is conducting safety governance assessments in urban areas in Central Asia, Latin America and East Africa. These assessments will enable a holistic understanding of the challenges and opportunities in urban areas and, in turn, enable the development and implementation of appropriate policies aimed at improving urban safety governance.

Internal challenge and response

16.138 The challenge for the subprogramme was that it had been unable to leverage complementarities between its organizational units charged with assisting Member States on a wide range of issues related to safety and governance at the urban, local and/or community levels. In response, the subprogramme will utilize the urban safety governance initiative as a vehicle for comprehensive, cross-thematic support to enable integrated, targeted technical assistance and advisory services to improve policies and programmes related to urban safety by adopting more inclusive and integrated approaches, and will further develop the technical and managerial capacities of local and national governments. It will also undertake capacity-building to improve data collection on risk and resilience factors affecting urban safety; this will be done at both the municipal and the national levels. UNODC will also expand partnerships with other United Nations entities and development partners to provide technical assistance and advisory services through the United Nations country teams. This will build harmonization and coherence of approaches towards addressing urban safety governance issues, not only within the Office but also among various development actors.

Expected progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

16.139 This work is expected to contribute to advancing institutional reform and strengthening policy and operational responses by Member States on drug control, crime prevention and criminal justice, which would be demonstrated by six cities adopting integrated and inclusive approaches to enhance urban safety governance as a result of UNODC support.

Outreach programmes, special events and information materials: campaigns to observe the International Day against Drug Abuse and Illicit Trafficking, World Day against Trafficking in Persons, and the International Anti-Corruption Day; promotional materials on UNODC mandate areas, including on the Commission on Narcotic Drugs and the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice; and fundraising initiatives and strategic partnerships with international financial institutions, international organizations and the private sector (5).

External and media relations: press events (2); and development of new fundraising initiatives and strategic partnerships with international financial institutions, international organizations and the private sector in support of the United Nations United Nations voluntary trust fund for victims of trafficking in persons, especially women and children.

Digital platforms and multimedia content: design, maintenance and update of the UNODC website and social media channels; and social media packages, including audiovisual and text content (10).

Subprogramme 8 Technical cooperation and field support

Objective

- 16.142 The objective, to which this subprogramme contributes, is to strengthen Member State-owned programmes countering drugs, crime and terrorism.

Strategy

- 16.143 To contribute to strengthening Member State-owned programmes countering drugs, crime and terrorism, the subprogramme will continue to provide policy advice, strategic guidance and coordination for the development and implementation of integrated operational programmes and ensure their full implementation, notably through synergies with other areas of work in UNODC. The UNODC field offices will provide support, according to their mandates and at the request of interested Member States, and ensure the inclusion of governance, security, and drug and crime control interventions with a human rights perspective in the implementation of joint United Nations programmes that will support Member States in addressing the development and health components of the relevant Sustainable Development Goals, which include Goals 3, 5, 16 and 17.
- 16.144 The main work and approaches of the subprogramme will include developing and implementing an integrated programme approach, thereby enabling the effective and coordinated delivery and impact of the normative and technical assistance mandates of the Office. Through policy dialogue and coordination, as well as strategic partnership development aimed at strategizing suitable programmatic interventions, the subprogramme will support the development of regional operational programmes promoting the joint pursuit of justice, public security and development and serving as a common platform for joint efforts with United Nations partners, international financial institutions, other multilateral bodies and civil society. In addition, the subprogramme will support UNODC field work to establish South-South dynamics and devise interregional cooperation among partner countries through well-designed regional and country operational programmes, including ensuring full ownership by regional entities. The subprogramme will also ensure operational accountability and programmatic efficiency, including by engaging in the development of business operational strategies, monitoring risks and ensuring the inclusion of solid theories of change and effective results-based management in planning, monitoring and reporting.
- 16.145 This work is expected to result in selected beneficiary countries benefiting from a UNODC field presence that is fully aligned with the United Nations development system reform and able to effectively and efficiently deliver capacity-building to counter drugs, crime and terrorism. Past results in this area include the adoption of an approach focusing on increased strategic direction in field operations geared towards enhancing the ability of UNODC to better assist Member States and contribute to United Nations-wide responses in priority field contexts. Through the deployment of surge capacity, UNODC provided urgent assistance to Ecuador in strengthening its anti-corruption response; supported Iraq by promoting the need to rebuild functioning criminal justice and health institutions; supported the development of a road map in Mozambique to effectively counter organized crime, corruption and terrorism; enhanced the response of Indonesia to violent extremism, as and when conducive to terrorism, by bringing together wider United Nations support under a strategic coordination structure led by the Resident Coordinator; supported Ethiopia to combat trafficking in persons, at both the national and the regional levels, through joining the Blue Heart Campaign against Human Trafficking; and enhanced the response of Guinea-Bissau to trafficking in drugs and organized crime. Renewed cooperation and coherence with offices of the United Nations resident coordinators enhanced the support of UNODC to Member States, in particular in priority areas for UNODC mandates, through taking a United Nations-wide lead role and delivering shared results across the United Nations system. At the same time, the subprogramme contributed to improved UNODC support to Member States in field contexts across the board through a rigorous review of capacities and responsibilities as well as potential efficiency gains across the field office network to ensure that field offices are fit for purpose and able to fulfil their role at a time when the United Nations as a whole increasingly focuses on results and impact achieved on the ground.

Programme performance in 2019 against planned result

- 16.146 A planned result for 2019, which is strengthened cooperation between and among Member States, regional entities and partners in drug and crime control matters, as referred to in the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2018–2019, was achieved, as evidenced by more than 115 countries participating in integrated programmes implemented in the field (compared with a target of 115). Those countries implemented new drug and crime control measures that were initiated under the relevant regional and country programmes, all of which were tailored to the needs and environments of the participating Member States.

Programme performance in 2019: improved cross-border security in West Africa

- 16.147 The subprogramme has been collaborating with Member States in West Africa on issues related to organized crime and drug abuse in the region. West Africa remains a region vulnerable to many forms of trafficking, including drug trafficking. The difficulty of protecting borders facilitates the transnational nature of those crimes and highlights the need for a coordinated and harmonized response between law enforcement agencies. In response, in 2015, the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) and UNODC, as the custodian of the United Nations drug control conventions and the Organized Crime Convention, jointly launched an action plan on drug trafficking, related organized crime and drug abuse in West Africa and collaborated with Member States in West Africa to that end.
- 16.148 Within the framework of the regional programme for West Africa, UNODC contributed to the operationalization of joint initiatives aimed at creating an environment conducive to security and development. Operation Benkadi, which means “stronger together” in Malinké, is part of these efforts and is aimed at tackling cross-border crime and related insecurity in Burkina Faso, Côte d’Ivoire and Mali. Operation Benkadi is implemented as part of the UNODC project to support the implementation of the Regional Action Plan to Address the Growing Problem of Illicit Drug Trafficking, Organized Crime and Drug Abuse in West Africa. Taking into account the cross-cutting themes covered and to maximize benefits, the activity is implemented in synergy with the UNODC Sahel Programme and the West Africa Coast Initiative. With the aim of strengthening cross-border cooperation and coordination on trafficking in drugs and other illicit items, while also reinforcing specialized investigative techniques, the operation was implemented from April to September 2019. In that context, Burkina Faso, Côte d’Ivoire and Mali held strategic and operational meetings, specialized training sessions for border crossing officers on investigation techniques and means of communication, and simultaneous joint cross-border operations supported by the subprogramme's work. During the operation, three UNODC experts were deployed to the field to provide mentoring. Officers from the International Criminal Police Organization (INTERPOL) Stolen Motor Vehicle Task Force were also present and 42 Blue Helmets from the United Nations police provided security support. Fifteen UNODC drug testing kits were delivered and used.

- 16.149 As a result of enhanced subregional operational cooperation, nearly 320 officers from 18 law enforcement agencies participated in the operation, which covered 19 land border crossings and focused on the exchange of information and the search of people and vehicles.

Progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.150 This work contributed to strengthening Member State-owned programmes countering drugs, crime and terrorism, as demonstrated by the joint operational results. In particular, the operation resulted in the arrest of 15 people, the identification and rescue of 33 potential child victims of trafficking in persons for exploitation in gold mines in Mali, and the seizure of 17 kg of cannabis, over 1 kg of amphetamines, 6.5 tons of fraudulent medicine, 33 sticks of dynamite, 10 detonators, 50 kg of explosive wicks, one rifle with 789 pieces of ammunition, 18 stolen cars and 10 unauthorized military uniforms.

Planned results for 2021

Result 1: switching from opium to coffee in Myanmar (result carried over from 2020)

- 16.151 The subprogramme will continue the work to support Member States in their efforts against the cultivation and production of drugs, in line with its mandate, and will assist countries in reducing dependence on illicit crop cultivation, contributing to improved security and peace conditions and market links in the project areas, diversified crops and sustainable production, which is expected to be demonstrated by the performance measure for 2021 below. For 2020, a proxy performance measure is indicated to reflect that the General Assembly, in its resolution 74/251, approved a programme narrative at the subprogramme level that is composed solely of the objectives.

Result 2: improved regional security through strategic expertise and integrated programming in Mozambique (new result)

- 16.152 Following the adoption by the General Assembly of resolution 72/279, on repositioning the United Nations development system in the context of the quadrennial comprehensive policy review of operational activities for development of the United Nations system, the subprogramme has been repositioning the UNODC field presence in selected countries. This prioritization allows UNODC to focus its resources in locations where it has a strong and clear mandate from United Nations governing bodies and where national counterparts have expressed a clear wish for greater technical assistance and engagement from UNODC, amounting to political momentum.
- 16.153 An example of this strategic work is in Mozambique. With heroin from West Asia arriving and transiting through the region, and ivory and timber leaving its ports to reach Asian markets, Mozambique and the surrounding region are increasingly affected by the dire consequences of trafficking for fragile economies and vulnerable societies. Mozambique has one of the highest HIV/AIDS prevalence and death rates in the world and its life expectancy at birth is one of the world's lowest, further complicating the vicious cycle if these threats persist. Reports highlight the presence of terrorist and violent extremist (as and when conducive to terrorism) groups in the country's most northern territory. Other reports point to countries in the Mozambique Channel becoming entry points for illicit goods (and possibly smuggling of persons). Subregional cooperation is insufficiently developed and would require strategic support. Wildlife and forest crime are a major funding source for transnational organized criminal syndicates: in East and Southern Africa, criminal groups make billions of dollars annually; this constitutes a large part of the $90 billion a year that is generated from transnational organized crime in the region as a whole. In addition, following powerful tropical cyclones in March and April 2019, terrorist and organized criminal groups are taking advantage of the precarious situation to undertake their illicit trade or recruit locals who are desperate to compensate for their losses.
- 16.154 On this basis, UNODC has prioritized Mozambique, within the framework of its capacity surge, by placing a representative on the ground to bring together other streams and coordinate a comprehensive approach, as well as to scale up UNODC assistance on counter-terrorism, border management, health and governance. This is expected to enhance the capacity of rule of law institutions and to enhance resilience in terms of addressing and preventing these emerging threats. This engagement with counterparts in Mozambique led to the adoption, in early 2020, of the Maputo Road Map, a clear strategic workplan for UNODC engagement with Mozambique for the near future. The peace agreement signed recently between the Government and the opposition (the Mozambique National Resistance (RENAMO)) also places the United Nations in general, and UNODC in particular, in a unique position to provide support in the implementation of the peace agreement and bring about a process of genuine and lasting reconciliation and sustainable development in Mozambique.

Internal challenge and response

- 16.155 The challenge for the subprogramme was that, while UNODC has been implementing a number of activities in Mozambique under different regional and global projects, the assistance remained fragmented and at a rate that was not sustainable owing to its small scale. In response, the subprogramme will leverage the presence, since 2019, of a representative in the country to enable the work of UNODC to be elevated to a level matching the magnitude of both the challenges and the opportunities in the country (and the region) and to ensure its alignment with the United Nations country team context and United Nations initiatives on the ground (especially within the new common country analysis and the new United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework for post-2019 assistance to the country).
- 16.156 This responds to the request of the authorities of Mozambique for re-engagement with UNODC and for the development of a comprehensive operational programme to strengthen the capacities of law enforcement, criminal justice and health agencies and the establishment of enablers for the security-development nexus.

- 16.157 This work is expected to contribute to strengthening Member State-owned programmes countering drugs, crime and terrorism, which would be demonstrated by Mozambique and neighbouring countries establishing operational inter-agency mechanisms for more effective cross-border responses to transnational organized crime and related emerging threats. For example, the Governments of Mozambique, South Africa and the United Republic of Tanzania, with UNODC support, developed a trilateral strategy to counter drug trafficking on maritime routes. The trilateral strategy was endorsed at a ministerial meeting in Maputo in March 2019. The strategy supports the establishment of a trilateral planning cell to enhance cooperation between drug enforcement agencies in the three States.
- 16.158 These mechanisms will address and prevent threats to the coast of Mozambique, an entry point for illicit goods, including drugs trafficked along the “southern route” from Afghanistan, which links West Asia and East Africa and countries of the Southern Africa Development Community, as well as fostering regional cooperation on security issues aimed at improving operational coordination and policy dialogue among countries in the subregion.
- 16.159 The Governments are expected to make progress towards Sustainable Development Goal 16 and to create a conducive environment for socioeconomic and trade development, including by strengthening resilience in justice and health institutions to the emerging threats of trafficking and related drug abuse, and HIV/AIDS.

Subprogramme 9

Component 1: provision of secretariat services and substantive support to the Commission on Narcotic Drugs, the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice and the United Nations congresses on crime prevention and criminal justice

Objective

- 16.162 The objective, to which component 1 of this subprogramme contributes, is to ensure the effective and efficient functioning of the United Nations intergovernmental bodies dealing with issues relating to drugs, crime and terrorism, as well as the effective and efficient functioning of the standing open-ended intergovernmental working group on improving the governance and financial situation of UNODC and of the United Nations congresses on crime prevention and criminal justice in fulfilling their advisory roles.

Strategy

- 16.163 To contribute to ensuring the effective and efficient functioning of the United Nations intergovernmental bodies dealing with issues relating to drugs, the component will continue to provide substantive and technical support to the Commission on Narcotic Drugs and its five subsidiary bodies (the Subcommission on Illicit Drug Traffic and Related Matters in the Near and Middle East and the regional meetings of heads of national drug law enforcement agencies). This work is expected to result in enhanced cooperation among Member States in accelerating the implementation of international drug policy commitments made over the past decade, thereby contributing to the implementation of relevant Sustainable Development Goals, including Goals 3, 5, 8, 10 and 17. Past results in this area include the facilitation of the interactive, inclusive and transparent discussions involving different stakeholders during the sixty-first session of the Commission on Narcotic Drugs, in 2018, which was attended by over 1,700 participants (representing 126 States, 19 intergovernmental organizations and 93 non-governmental organizations). During the regular part of that session, the Commission adopted 11 resolutions and 12 decisions, and over 90 side events were held. Past results in this area also include the facilitation of the discussions during the sixty-second session of the Commission, in 2019, which included a ministerial segment and was attended by over 2,300 participants (representing 140 States, 22 intergovernmental organizations and 92 non-governmental organizations). During the regular part of that session, the Commission adopted 8 resolutions and 14 decisions, in addition to the Ministerial Declaration on Strengthening Our Actions at the National, Regional and International Levels to Accelerate the Implementation of Our Joint Commitments to Address and Counter the World Drug Problem, and over 100 side events were organized. Support was also provided for the successful organization and conduct of the meetings of the subsidiary bodies of the Commission, which were attended by 310 participants in 2018 and by 460 participants in 2019, and which resulted in a number of concrete and action-oriented recommendations on various aspects of addressing and countering the world drug problem.

- 16.164 To contribute to ensuring the effective and efficient functioning of the United Nations intergovernmental bodies dealing with issues relating to crime and terrorism, the component will provide substantive and technical support to the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice and to the United Nations congresses on crime prevention and criminal justice, including the follow-up to the Fourteenth Crime Congress. This work is expected to result in enhanced cooperation among Member States in the implementation of comprehensive strategies for crime prevention towards social and economic development and integrated approaches to challenges facing the criminal justice system, thereby contributing to the implementation of relevant Sustainable Development Goals, including Goals 5, 11, 16 and 17. Past results in this area include the interactive, inclusive and transparent discussions involving different stakeholders during the twenty-seventh session of the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, in 2018, which was attended by 1,150 participants (representing 124 States, 14 intergovernmental organizations and 42 non-governmental organizations). During the regular part of that session, the Commission recommended to the Economic and Social Council the approval of three draft resolutions for adoption by the General Assembly, recommended to the Economic and Social Council the adoption of two decisions, and adopted six resolutions and one decision. In addition, 80 side events were organized. Past results in this area also include the facilitation of the discussions during the twenty-eighth session of the Commission, in 2019, which was attended by 1,300 participants (representing 121 States, 18 intergovernmental organizations and 51 non-governmental organizations). During the regular part of that session, the Commission recommended to the Economic and Social Council the approval of six draft resolutions for adoption by the General Assembly, recommended to the Economic and Social Council the adoption of two resolutions and two decisions, and adopted three resolutions and one decision. In addition, over 100 side events were organized. In 2019, five regional preparatory meetings for the Fourteenth United Nations Congress on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice were organized; the European Regional Preparatory Meeting was organized in 2019 for the first time in 25 years. Those meetings provided a platform for Member States to exchange views on preparations for the Fourteenth Crime Congress, including on the elements of the political declaration. At the meetings, which were attended by a total of 550 participants, action-oriented recommendations for the Fourteenth Crime Congress were identified and subsequently brought to the attention of the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice at its twenty-eighth session.
- 16.165 To contribute to ensuring the effective and efficient functioning of the standing open-ended intergovernmental working group on improving the governance and financial situation of UNODC and of the United Nations congresses on crime prevention and criminal justice in fulfilling their advisory roles, the component will continue to provide support to the standing open-ended intergovernmental working group on improving the governance and financial situation of UNODC through facilitating the preparations for and the organization of the formal and informal meetings of the working group. This work is expected to result in regular discussions on the governance of and financial matters relating to UNODC held among Member States in the framework of the meetings of the working group. Past results in this area include the open dialogue between Member States and UNODC, held on a regular basis, on different aspects of the governance and financial agenda, namely: the consolidated budget of UNODC; evaluation and oversight; human resources management; mainstreaming a gender perspective into the practices, policies and programmes of the Office; and progress made by UNODC in implementing its regional and global programmes.

Programme performance in 2019 against planned result

- 16.166 A planned result for 2019, which is effective support to the 2019 review by Member States of the implementation of the 2009 Political Declaration and Plan of Action on International Cooperation towards an Integrated and Balanced Strategy to Counter the World Drug Problem, as referred to in the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2018–2019, was achieved, as evidenced by more than 85 per cent of Member States expressing full satisfaction with the quality and timeliness of the technical and substantive services provided by the Secretariat in the lead up to the 2019 review of the implementation of the Political Declaration and Plan of Action (compared with a target of 85 per cent).

Programme performance in 2019: Member States adopted by consensus the 2019 Ministerial Declaration to accelerate the practical implementation of international drug policy commitments beyond 2019

- 16.167 In March 2019, 10 years after the adoption of the Political Declaration and Plan of Action on International Cooperation towards an Integrated and Balanced Strategy to Counter the World Drug Problem, the international community gathered in Vienna for a ministerial meeting to review progress made in international drug policy in the previous decade. The component supported the Commission on Narcotic Drugs in the successful preparations for and conduct of the ministerial segment held at its sixty-second session, which led to the adoption of the Ministerial Declaration on Strengthening Our Actions at the National, Regional and International Levels to Accelerate the Implementation of Our Joint Commitments to Address and Counter the World Drug Problem.
- 16.168 In assisting the transition from theory to practice, the component has been facilitating the bringing together of the expertise of Member States, United Nations entities, international and regional organizations, civil society and affected populations through its support to the Commission as the forum for addressing the various aspects of the world drug problem, both at its meetings in Vienna and through its subsidiary bodies in all regions of the world.
- 16.169 To ensure that the voices of all interested stakeholders are heard and to foster the exchange of information and good practices, the component webcast the preparatory meetings, facilitated remote participation and managed dedicated online platforms, a good practices portal and social media accounts. With the determination of Member States to accelerate the implementation of existing policy commitments, as highlighted in the Ministerial Declaration, implementation workshops providing guidance for practitioners on how to translate the policy commitments made at the international level into concrete action on the ground were developed by the component. These efforts fostered a culture of dialogue, transforming the Commission on Narcotic Drugs into a place for a truly inclusive exchange on how the international community can jointly live up to the commitments made in the past decade.

- 16.170 This work contributed to the effective and efficient functioning of the United Nations intergovernmental bodies dealing with issues relating to drugs, as demonstrated by a 27 per cent increase in the number of stakeholders from all categories participating in the sixty-second session of the Commission on Narcotic Drugs, in 2019, compared with the number attending the sixty-first session, in 2018. The 2,300 participants in the sixty-second session (compared with the 1,700 participants in the sixty-first) represented 140 Member States, 8 United Nations bodies and agencies, 22 international and regional organizations and 90 non-governmental organizations. In addition, a more diverse composition of delegations (including experts in fields such as law enforcement, health, education and justice) demonstrates increased cooperation towards addressing the various aspects of the world drug problem. The high number of representatives of Member States present at the adoption of the 2019 Ministerial Declaration demonstrates progress towards putting into practice the collective commitment to implement evidence-based, comprehensive and balanced drug policies that translate into tangible results on the ground, in line with the commitment of Member States to accelerate the implementation of existing policy documents beyond 2019.

Planned results for 2021

Result 1: advancing crime prevention, criminal justice and the rule of law towards the achievement of the 2030 Agenda: the Crime Congress returns to Kyoto in 2020 (result carried over from 2020)

- 16.171 The component will continue the work related to secretariat support to the relevant intergovernmental bodies, in line with its mandate, and will assist Member States in advancing negotiations within the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice and the crime congresses towards the implementation of the 2030 Agenda in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice, which is expected to be demonstrated by the performance measure for 2021 below. For 2020, a proxy performance measure is indicated to reflect that the General Assembly, in its resolution 74/251, approved a programme narrative at the subprogramme level that is composed solely of the objectives.

Result 2: strengthened crime prevention, criminal justice and rule of law towards the achievement of the Agenda 2030 (new result)

- 16.172 The component has been working on supporting the preparations for and conduct of the United Nations congresses on crime prevention and criminal justice that have been held in different regions of the globe since 1955, bringing together a growing number of policymakers, legislators, practitioners, youth and representatives of international organizations, civil society and academia to explore ways and means to enhance the international community's responses to crime.
- 16.173 In 2020, policymakers and practitioners in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice from all over the world are scheduled to gather in Kyoto, Japan, for the Fourteenth United Nations Congress on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, 50 years after the fourth Congress, which was also held in Kyoto and was the first to adopt a declaration in which Governments were called upon to take effective steps to coordinate and intensify their crime prevention efforts in the context of economic and social development.
- 16.174 In 2021, acting as the main policymaking body of the United Nations in crime prevention and criminal justice matters, the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice will focus on translating the outcome of the Fourteenth Crime Congress, under the main theme "Advancing crime prevention, criminal justice and the rule of law: towards the achievement of the 2030 Agenda", into policy supporting Member States to develop and implement comprehensive strategies for crime prevention towards social and economic development and integrated approaches to challenges facing the criminal justice system. The follow-up to the Fourteenth Crime Congress will be a key element of the intergovernmental work to be conducted in 2021 with the support of the secretariat to the Governing Bodies.

Internal challenge and response

- 16.175 The challenge for the component was to ensure the active involvement and participation of stakeholders in the comprehensive and sustainable intergovernmental follow-up to the commitments made at the Fourteenth Crime Congress, shaping, through the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, international and national crime prevention and criminal justice policies for the next five years, thereby advancing the implementation of the 2030 Agenda in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice. In response, the component will continue to work with Member States to enrich the work of the Commission and the congresses as important tools for contributing to the implementation of 2030 Agenda in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice.

Expected progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.176 This work is expected to contribute to ensuring the effective and efficient functioning of the standing open-ended intergovernmental working group on improving the governance and financial situation of UNODC and of the United Nations congresses on crime prevention and criminal justice in fulfilling their advisory roles, which would be demonstrated by 70 per cent of Member States responding to the survey expressing full satisfaction with the quality and timeliness of the technical and substantive services provided by the Secretariat in the follow-up to the Fourteenth Crime Congress.

Subprogramme 9*Component 2: provision of secretariat services and substantive support to the International Narcotics Control Board*Objective

- 16.179 The objective, to which component 2 of this subprogramme contributes, is to ensure the effective and efficient functioning of the International Narcotics Control Board in fulfilling its treaty-based mandate of monitoring and promoting the full implementation of and full compliance with the three international drug control treaties. This also includes those provisions that relate to substances under international control, ensuring the availability of internationally controlled substances for licit purposes while preventing their diversion, contributing to the efforts of Member States to prevent the diversion of precursors from licit channels and advancing the global response to trafficking in new psychoactive substances and non-scheduled precursors.

Strategy

- 16.180 To contribute to ensuring the effective and efficient functioning of the International Narcotics Control Board in fulfilling its treaty-based mandate of monitoring full compliance by States parties with the three international drug control treaties, including that related to substances under international control, the component will continue to provide independent secretariat services and substantive support to the Board, including ensuring that the Board is provided with advice on treaty implementation and raising the awareness of Governments and the international community about the implementation of the international drug control conventions, particularly through the publication and dissemination of the treaty-mandated reports of the Board. This work is expected to result in an advancement of the Board's dialogue with Governments to promote the implementation of the drug control conventions and the Board's recommendations and engage on treaty-related matters, thus contributing to relevant Sustainable Development Goals, including Goal 3. Past results in this area include the provision of substantive overviews and in-depth analysis by the secretariat to the Board on the global trade in controlled substances, including on the fulfilment of the obligations of States parties stemming from the three international drug control conventions, to enable the Board to make informed decisions. The secretariat provided substantive support for the conduct of 15 Board treaty monitoring country missions in 2019, and to over 30 further such missions that are currently under preparation and under discussion with Member States. The missions have enabled the Board to provide tailored recommendations and guidance to the Member States that received a mission on implementing the drug control conventions.
- 16.181 To contribute to ensuring the availability of internationally controlled substances for licit purposes while preventing their diversion, the component will raise the awareness of Governments and the international community of the need to develop and implement national policies and regulatory control systems. The component will facilitate the exchange of import and export authorizations, including through the International Import and Export Authorization System (I2ES), and build the capacity of competent national authorities. This work is expected to result in Governments more effectively identifying and reporting on their needs for and consumption of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances for medical and scientific purposes, thereby contributing to Sustainable Development Goal 3. Past results in this area include the establishment of the INCB Learning project, launched in 2016, which is the primary capacity-building initiative of the International Narcotics Control Board, providing technical assistance to countries in meeting their reporting obligations under the three international drug control treaties. During the biennium 2018–2019, 278 officials from 95 countries and territories participated in the initiative and now provide higher-quality data in the country statistical reports sent to the Board, further strengthening the control of drugs in those countries. Additional results include 68 countries registering to use I2ES following the organization of a user group meeting during the sixty-second session of the Commission on Narcotic Drugs, a presentation at a World Trade Organization regional training seminar, webinars conducted for 25 countries and training on I2ES provided during two INCB Learning seminars in Ecuador and the Russian Federation, allowing those countries trained on I2ES to process import and export authorizations for controlled substances more rapidly.

- 16.182 To contribute to the efforts of Member States to prevent the diversion of precursors from licit channels, the component will monitor the international movement of precursors and the illicit use of internationally controlled and non-scheduled precursors, ensuring the worldwide exchange of information on licit and illicit activity, through electronic means such as the Pre-Export Notification Online (PEN Online) system and the Precursors Incident Communication System (PICS), projects Prism and Cohesion, and task force efforts. The component will also provide technical advice to the International Narcotics Control Board in assessing substances for scheduling recommendations under the 1988 Convention. This work is expected to result in a lower volume of precursor chemicals available for the illicit manufacture of drugs, contributing to the achievement of Sustainable Development Goal 3. Past results in this area include active engagement on PEN Online and PICS by 164 and 117 Governments, respectively. This, along with the technical advice provided to the Board, led to its recommendations to place three precursor chemicals under international control during the biennium 2018–2019; those recommendations were then adopted by the Commission on Narcotic Drugs. Other results in this area include the successful reduction, during the period 2018–2019, in the trafficking in and diversion of acetic anhydride through Board-facilitated activities for the exchange of operational information and Government activities.
- 16.183 To contribute to advancing the global response to trafficking in new psychoactive substances and non-scheduled precursors, the component will enhance cooperation among and build the capacity of law enforcement, customs, postal and other national agencies to safely detect and interdict these substances, through Project Ion, the global Operational Partnerships to Interdict Opioids' Illicit Distribution and Sales (OPIOIDS) project and the Project Ion Incident Communication System (IONICS). This work is expected to result in a reduction in the trafficking in and illicit consumption of those substances, and to contribute to the achievement of relevant Sustainable Development Goals, including Goal 3, in cooperation with UNODC. Past results in this area include the training of 350 law enforcement and other officials from 100 Governments to enable them to detect and report over 3,700 incidents of trafficking in new psychoactive substances and non-medical synthetic opioids through IONICS. Other results include workshops with private sector e-commerce operators on the dangers of selling new psychoactive substances and non-medical opioids; operators have committed to not allowing the sale or promotion of such substances through their platforms. In addition, agreements signed with the Universal Postal Union, the World Customs Organization, the Association of Southeast Asian Nations and the Oceania Customs Organization have deepened cooperation with the international community to reach law enforcement agencies and train them on countering trafficking in new psychoactive substances and non-medical opioids.

Programme performance in 2019 against planned result

- 16.184 A planned result for 2019, which is that the International Narcotics Control Board is enabled to monitor and promote compliance with the international drug control conventions, as referred to in the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2018–2019, was achieved, as evidenced by more than 90 per cent of the decisions of the Board being implemented by the Secretariat (exceeding the 90 per cent target) and 91.6 per cent of members of the Board expressing full satisfaction with the quality and timeliness of substantive services provided by the Secretariat to the Board (exceeding the target of 90 per cent).

Programme performance in 2019: improved access to internationally controlled substances for medical and scientific purposes

- 16.185 The component coordinated the provision of substantive inputs to the International Narcotics Control Board to enhance its analysis and decision-making, through the convening, on behalf of the Board, of ad hoc expert group meetings and informal consultations to advise the Board on matters concerning implementation of the drug control treaties. For example, an expert group meeting was held in March 2019 in relation to article 13 of the 1988 Convention, leading to a recommended course of action to counter the diversion of and trafficking in essential equipment in the context of article 13. Also in March 2019, the Commission on Narcotic Drugs adopted the Board's recommendation to schedule a number of substances used in illicit drug manufacture. An informal consultation to review technical issues related to the monitoring of the licit cultivation, production and consumption of and trade in cannabis for medical and scientific purposes was scheduled for the fourth quarter of 2019.

- 16.186 The component contributed to advancing the work of the International Narcotics Control Board to facilitate the international drug control system through the analysis of treaty implementation and data submitted by Member States in accordance with their treaty obligations concerning the system of licit international trade. The component also contributed to advancing the presentation of the subsequent findings of the Board in its annual report, in particular through a thematic chapter on improving substance use prevention and treatment services for young people in the annual report for 2019, its precursors report and its technical publications. These treaty-mandated reports are the Board's main vehicle for communication with Member States and contain recommendations aimed at enhancing the implementation by Member States of the international drug control treaties.

- 16.187 This work contributed to ensuring the effective and efficient functioning of the International Narcotics Control Board in fulfilling its treaty-based mandate of monitoring full compliance with the three international drug control treaties by States parties, including the provisions related to substances under international control, as demonstrated by the publication and dissemination to competent national authorities of the Board's annual report, including a thematic chapter on improving substance use prevention and treatment services for young people in its report for 2019, the precursors report and the technical publications, and as demonstrated by the statements of Member States at the Commission on Narcotic Drugs. This work also contributed to preventing the diversion of precursors from licit channels, as demonstrated by the recent scheduling decisions by the Commission, on the basis of the Board's recommendations, further strengthening the capacity of Member States to address trafficking in drugs and precursor chemicals.

Planned result for 2021

Result 1: safeguarding the capacity of the International Narcotics Control Board to monitor the treaty-mandated reporting by Governments and to prevent diversion of internationally controlled substances (new result)

- 16.188 The component has been working on the monitoring of the global drug control situation to ensure the availability of controlled substances for medical, scientific and industrial purposes while preventing diversion. The primary tool used by the component to conduct that work is the International Drug Control System (IDS), which is an information management system used by the International Narcotics Control Board to analyse the data submitted by competent national authorities in line with their treaty obligations. IDS allows the Board to rapidly process data to facilitate the licit international trade in narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances for medical purposes, and the licit international trade in precursors for industrial purposes. In addition, the system enables the Board to monitor the utilization of internationally controlled substances for medical purposes, identify potential under- or overutilization of controlled substances for medical purposes, and advise Governments, for example through its technical publications.

Internal challenge and response

- 16.189 The challenge for the component was the increasing volume and ever-increasing complexity of licit international trade in controlled substances. The existing tools in IDS, which were developed more than 15 years ago, fall well short of being able to deal with this increasing volume and complexity and monitoring needs, particularly with regard to data management, and the system is no longer serviceable and state of the art. If the vulnerabilities of IDS are not resolved, the ability of the Board to effectively monitor and process requests by Member States, including for import and export verification, would be hampered. This would negatively affect the availability of medicines containing narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, and legitimate trade in precursors. In response, the component will avert potential disruptions to the availability of medicines and will provide support to address those shortcomings in IDS. Ultimately, this would ensure that patients' access to the medicines they need is not impeded.

Expected progress towards the attainment of the objective, and performance measure

- 16.190 This work is expected to contribute to ensuring the fulfilment by the International Narcotics Control Board of its treaty-based mandate of monitoring the full implementation of and full compliance with the three international drug control treaties and ensuring the availability of internationally controlled substances for medical, scientific and industrial purposes. Progress would be demonstrated by the continued operation by the Board of the international drug control system without disruption. Failing to address the shortcomings of IDS would seriously jeopardize the capacity of the Board to continue to efficiently establish estimates and assessments of licit requirements for narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances and precursor chemicals. This would ultimately lead to medicines containing controlled substances not being available to patients.
- 16.191 This work is also expected to contribute to ensuring the availability of internationally controlled substances for licit purposes while preventing their diversion, which would be demonstrated by the national estimates and assessments of licit requirements for narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances and precursors being established at a sustained rate of 100 per cent by the end of the year, on the basis of the replies received in form B/P and form D.

16.195 Additional details on the distribution of the proposed resources for 2021 are reflected in tables 16.32 and 16.34 and figure 16.XIII below.

16.196 As reflected in tables 16.32 (1) and 16.33 (1) below, the overall resources proposed for 2021 amount to $20,990,700 before recosting, reflecting a net decrease of $636,400 (or 2.9 per cent) compared with the appropriation for 2020. Resource changes result from the technical adjustments relating to the removal of non-recurrent requirements related to the holding of the United Nations congresses on crime prevention and criminal justice, which occur every five years, and the discontinuation of a non-recurrent provision in 2020 for countering the use of information and communications technologies for criminal purposes, pursuant to General Assembly resolution 74/247, partially offset by the annual provision of a new post established in 2020 pursuant to Assembly resolution 74/262. The proposed level of resources provides for the full, efficient and effective implementation of mandates.

Variance analyses by component and subprogramme

Overall resource changes

Technical adjustments

16.197 As reflected in table 16.32 (1) above, resource changes reflect a net decrease of $636,400, under policymaking organs and subprogrammes 1 and 9, as follows:

- (a) Policymaking organs. The decrease of $641,200 relates to the discontinuation of a non-recurrent provision in 2020 for the Fourteenth United Nations Congress on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, falling under travel of representatives ($313,500), travel of staff ($18,700), consultants and experts ($154,600), contractual services ($30,800) and other staff costs ($123,600);
- (b) Subprogramme 1, Countering transnational organized crime. The decrease of $56,100 reflects the discontinuation of a non-recurrent provision in 2020 for countering the use of information and communications technologies for criminal purposes, pursuant to General Assembly resolution 74/247, falling under other staff costs ($34,700) and travel of staff ($21,400);
- (c) Subprogramme 9, Provision of secretariat services and substantive support to the United Nations intergovernmental bodies, the International Narcotics Control Board and the United Nations Congress on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice. The increase of $60,900 reflects the annual provision for one post (1 P-3, Legal Officer) that was established in 2020 in the secretariat of the International Narcotics Control Board pursuant to resolution 74/262.

Extrabudgetary resources

- 16.198 As reflected in tables 16.32 (2) and 16.33 (2) above, UNODC receives both cash and in-kind contributions, which complement regular budget resources and continue to be vital for the delivery of its mandates. In 2021, projected extrabudgetary resources (cash contributions) of $360,763,000, including 545 posts, will be focused on technical cooperation activities. Extrabudgetary resources represent 94.4 per cent of the total resources for this programme.
- 16.199 Anticipated in-kind contributions will provide for donated right of use with an estimated value of $1,400,000, and other services such as expert advice, use of training facilities and provision of equipment, with an estimated value of $1,000,000.

Policymaking organs

- 16.200 The resources proposed under this component would provide for requirements relating to standing intergovernmental organs and expert bodies, special sessions of the General Assembly and intergovernmental processes the servicing of which is the responsibility of UNODC. The provisions for experts serving on committees in their individual capacity are in accordance with Assembly resolution 2491 (XXIII), as amended by resolutions 41/176, 42/25, section VI, and 43/217, section IX, while the provisions for members of the functional commissions are in accordance with Assembly resolutions 1798 (XVII), 2128 (XX) and 2245 (XXI). Table 16.35 below provides information on the standing intergovernmental organs and related resource requirements under the regular budget.

The Board continually examines the functioning of the international drug control regime, identifies shortcomings in its implementation by Governments party to the three main international drug control treaties and formulates recommendations for further action addressed to national drug control agencies and relevant international and regional organizations. Those recommendations, which are aimed at assisting Governments in fully complying with their treaty obligations and at further developing the international drug control regime, are included every year in the annual report of the Board, for dissemination to all Governments. In addition, the Board produces an annual report on the implementation of article 12 of the 1988 Convention and two annual technical publications, on narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances.

Executive direction and management

- 16.202 The Executive Director is responsible for coordinating and providing leadership for all United Nations drug control and crime prevention activities to ensure the coherence of actions within the programme and the coordination, complementarities and non-duplication of such activities across the United Nations system. In that capacity, the Executive Director participates in the work of the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination. The Executive Director acts on behalf of the Secretary-General in fulfilling the responsibility that devolves upon her under the terms of international treaties and resolutions of United Nations organs relating to international drug control or crime prevention. The responsibilities are combined with those of the Director-General of the United Nations Office at Vienna. The Office of the Executive Director is integrated with that of the Director-General and is supported with resources from the regular budget under part C of section 1, Overall policymaking, direction and coordination.
- 16.203 The core functions of the Office of the Executive Director are: (a) to assist the Executive Director in the overall executive direction and management of UNODC; (b) to facilitate inter-office cooperation in the implementation of workplans and administrative matters; (c) to ensure the timely implementation of decisions and the coordination of inputs from all organizational units to the activities of the Office; and (d) to support the Executive Director in the overall leadership and coordination of the activities of UNODC with extensive research and substantive information to advise on issues of policy, resources and results management.
- 16.204 The Office of the Executive Director also coordinates cross-cutting institutional change processes, such as the systematic inclusion of gender equality aspects in all areas of UNODC work and reaching gender parity in staff. To that end, the Office of the Executive Director includes a gender team that coordinates the implementation of the United Nations Office at Vienna/UNODC Strategy and Action Plan for Gender Equality and Empowerment of Women (2018–2021) to ensure delivery of United Nations commitments on gender equality and the empowerment of women, including Sustainable Development Goal 5.

- 16.205 The Independent Evaluation Section reports evaluation results to the Executive Director and Member States and is a functionally and operationally independent part of the Office of the Executive Director. In 2019, 12 evaluations were published on the UNODC website. The Section further developed an innovative web-based evaluation management and knowledge-sharing application, Unite Evaluations, to ensure highly efficient evaluation management, aggregate results reporting in respect of Sustainable Development Goal targets and strengthened accountability through improved tracking of recommendations. The Section has developed dedicated guidance material to ensure that evaluation in UNODC continues to support transformative change. It also supports Member States in strengthening national evaluation capacities in line with General Assembly resolution 69/237 and the 2030 Agenda, including through the development of a master's-level module on evaluation and the Sustainable Development Goals and related e-learning training.
- 16.206 In 2021, in line with the Secretary-General's reform, including the funding compact between Member States and the United Nations Sustainable Development Group, the Independent Evaluation Section will increase its capacity to engage and communicate with Member States and other United Nations evaluation functions for collaborative evaluations, translating United Nations management reform into concrete action. The Section will further focus on increased utilization of aggregate evaluation results in relation to the Office's mandated area of work and improved evaluation-based analysis at the metalevel, using, in particular, Unite Evaluations to tag evaluations related to the Sustainable Development Goals. In addition to managing strategic and joint evaluations, the Section will also continue investing in information technology and innovative knowledge management tools, particularly systems that monitor the uptake of evaluation results and inform long-lasting change.
- 16.207 In accordance with the 2030 Agenda, in particular target 12.6 of the Sustainable Development Goals, in which organizations are encouraged to integrate sustainability information into their reporting cycles, and in compliance with the cross-cutting mandate set out in paragraph 19 of General Assembly resolution 72/219, the Office is integrating environmental management practices into its operations. In 2019, the Vienna-based organizations of the common system improved waste management by treating all waste prior to its entry into the Austrian waste system. The organizations also replaced all cloth hand towel systems in the restrooms with more sanitary, environmentally friendly, recyclable paper towels. The introduction of those measures resulted in a further reduction of the environmental impact of the Vienna International Centre. Further reductions are envisaged in 2021 through installing state-of-the-art heat exchangers and replacing fluorescent lights with light-emitting diodes.
- 16.208 Information on compliance with regard to the timely submission of documentation and advance booking for air travel is reflected in table 16.37 below. In 2020, a directive will be distributed to raise awareness among staff and emphasize the importance of and requirement to comply with the advance purchase rule. Managers are asked to implement preventive and monitoring corrective measures. Compliance rates are monitored and statistics and trends are distributed to managers on a quarterly basis.

Subprogramme 9

Provision of secretariat services and substantive support to the United Nations intergovernmental bodies, the International Narcotics Control Board and the United Nations congresses on crime prevention and criminal justice

16.219 The proposed regular budget resources for 2021 amount to $5,360,700 and reflect an increase of $60,900 compared with the appropriation for 2020. Additional details on the distribution of proposed resources for 2021 are reflected in table 16.47 and figure 16.XXIV below. The proposed increase of $60,900 is mainly a result of the annual provision for one post (1 P-3, Legal Officer) that was established in 2020 in the secretariat of the International Narcotics Control Board.

Annex II

Summary of follow-up action taken to implement relevant recommendations of the oversight bodies

Brief description of the recommendation

Action taken to implement the recommendation

Board of Auditors

A/74/5/Add.10

The main recommendations from the Board are that UNODC: (a) formalize the electronic endorsement by the Programme Review Committee on the basis of proper justification in a revised management instruction on the Committee; and (b) keep a record of the documents (para. 49).

The Board recommends that UNODC strengthen its internal controls in order to ensure the segregation of duties in every project or, at the very least, implement a compensating control (para. 64).

The Board recommends that UNODC review and update the management instruction on field office reporting in accordance with the Programme and Operations Manual (para. 75).

The Board recommends that UNODC perform a management assessment to evaluate whether implementing partners and grantees are providing good value for money. This will provide UNODC with organized information for decision-making (para. 81).

The Board recommends that UNODC strengthen consultation and communication on evaluation planning between project managers and the Independent Evaluation Section, in order to ensure that mandatory evaluations are budgeted for and conducted on time (para. 96).

The Board recommends that UNODC management devise a suitable mechanism to ensure better coordination between the entity and the Office of Internal Oversight Services for the complete and comprehensive reporting of cases of fraud and presumptive fraud (para. 100).

The Board recommends that UNODC project owners review their costs and outstanding commitments more frequently by means of, for example, business

Implementation is in progress. In December 2019, an interdivisional working group was established to review and update the UNODC management instructions, including the one on the Programme Review Committee, and the Programme and Operations Manual.

Implementation is in progress. The current reporting workflow and related guidelines have been reviewed and updated accordingly. The management instruction on field office reporting on programme and operational issues has been revised. The revised management instruction includes a note on segregations of duties. All reporting templates were revised and updated to streamline content.

Implementation is in progress. The management instruction on field office reporting on programme and operational issues has been revised. See also the information on the action undertaken to implement the recommendation contained in paragraph 64 of A/74/5/Add.10.

Implementation is in progress. UNODC is looking to develop an approach on how project managers will assess and evaluate good value for money.

Implementation is in progress. The review and revision of the evaluation policy is still under way. The revision will address the issues brought up in the recommendation.

Implementation is in progress. UNODC is currently working on a standard operating procedure and will share an initial draft with internal stakeholders for consultation and approval.

Implementation is in progress. All divisions of UNODC continue to monitor costs and outstanding commitments.

intelligence reports, which highlight overspent budget lines (para. 29).

The Board recommends that UNODC enhance the overall process of recording all leases in the supplier relationship management database in Umoja (para. 86).

A/73/5/Add.10

The Board recommends that UNODC review the Programme section of the Programme and Operations Manual, update it as soon as possible and keep it up to date and accurate (para. 99).

The Board recommends that UNODC make the knowledge in the Programme and Operations Manual available in such a way that users can easily print a copy (para. 101).

The Board recommends that UNODC integrate the Handbook for Results-Based Management and the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the document entitled “UNODC: the Integrated Programme Approach (IPA): A ‘How To’ Guide” into the Programme and Operations Manual (para. 107).

The Board recommends that UNODC review the Operations section of the Programme and Operations Manual. If UNODC considers the Operations section as no longer helpful, even after an update, the Operations section should be abolished (para. 114).

The Board recommends that UNODC assess its specific fraud risks in headquarters and field offices in a timely manner (para. 119).

The Board recommends that UNODC consider offering additional training on fraud and corruption (para. 122).

The Board recommends that UNODC provide information about fraud and corruption in a special section on its intranet site and that UNODC update its intranet site regularly (para. 124).

The Board recommends that UNODC include in the section about fraud and corruption a statement by its Implementation is in progress. UNODC is still in the process of regularizing all leases.

Implementation is ongoing. In December 2019, an interdivisional working group was established to review the UNODC management instructions and the Programme and Operations Manual.

Implementation is in progress. The revised Programme and Operations Manual will be a user-friendly pdf document with hyperlinks to existing UNODC policy guidelines and programming tools.

Implementation is in progress. UNODC is in the process of updating the Programme and Operations Manual.

Implementation is in progress. UNODC is updating operational documentation using iSeek. In addition, the Information Technology Service is actively implementing Microsoft Teams as part of the Secretariat-wide Unite Workspace project. The combination of iSeek and Teams will provide suitable hosting for the updated Programme and Operations Manual.

Implementation is in progress. UNODC is in the process of assessing its specific fraud risks and will update its enterprise risk management matrix in line with that of the United Nations Secretariat.

Implementation is in progress. A training session on fraud and corruption for the staff at large is included in the training plan for the current year.

Implementation is in progress. The UNODC fraud and corruption risk matrix (which will be integrated in the institutional risk matrix) and the related risk response and treatment plan have been finalized. Upon approval, the relevant documentation on fraud and corruption risk assessment will be uploaded on the UNODC intranet site, under the section on Enterprise Risk Management.

Implementation is in progress. The comments of UNODC relating to the recommendation in paragraph

Brief description of the recommendation

Action taken to implement the recommendation

Executive Director to make the Office's approach to fraud and corruption clear (para. 125).

124 of A/73/5/Add.10 also apply to this recommendation.

The Board recommends that UNODC consider appointing focal points on fraud at its headquarters and field offices (para. 130).

Implementation is in progress. The appointment of focal points on fraud across UNODC divisions and field offices also forms part of considerations on establishing a wider network of focal points for other forms of prohibited conduct. The goal is to have clear points of contact for staff who wish to raise concerns or report potential fraud, avoiding both the duplication of reporting and the creation of confusion and frustration among the staff.

The Board recommends that UNODC disseminate information about the focal points on its intranet site and list them in the "Joint Panel, Body and Focal Point Registry" (para. 131).

Implementation is in progress. The recommendation will be fully implemented, together with the recommendation issued in paragraph 130 of A/73/5/Add.10. The appointment of focal points will be announced to all staff and will also be included on iSeek.

The Board recommends that UNODC make efforts, in liaison with the United Nations Secretariat, to customize the Umoja travel module to facilitate advance travel planning and to pool the overall travel process within Umoja (para. 140).

Implementation is in progress. The internal review of proposed system changes and enhancements is still ongoing.

The Board recommends that UNODC consider requesting a review of the advance purchase policy by the United Nations Secretariat, as well as an evaluation of how best prices for travel can be achieved (para. 144).

The General Assembly has not made any changes to the advance ticket purchase policy. UNODC will review the feasibility of implementing airfare monitoring technologies through its travel management company. It will track ticket prices after issuance and return savings to the Organization, should the ticket price drop prior to departure.

The Board recommends that UNODC regularly evaluate its compliance with the advance purchase policy and immediately initiate corrective actions, when necessary (para. 153).

Implementation is in progress. UNODC will continue to evaluate compliance with the advance purchase policy. In addition, improvements were made in the justifications of late travel requests.

The Board recommends that UNODC develop a training package to deliver comprehensive guidance and advice on how the Sustainable Development Goals could best be integrated into UNODC work, and make the training package available to UNODC staff as an online training course (para. 195).

Implementation is in progress. In addition to the training package already developed and delivered at UNODC headquarters and all major UNODC field offices, an online training module is being developed and is expected to be launched in the first quarter of 2020.

Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

A/74/7

The Committee is of the view that concrete plans and strategies should be developed for achieving ambitious targets for the advance purchase policy for air travel (para. IV.113).

Implementation is in progress. In 2020, a directive will be distributed to raise awareness among staff and emphasize the importance of and requirement to comply with the advance purchase rule. Managers are asked to implement preventive and monitoring corrective measures. Compliance rates are monitored and statistics and trends distributed to managers on a quarterly basis.
