Ministerial declaration

Resources mobilization and enabling environment for poverty eradication in the context of the implementation of the Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the Decade 2001-2010

“We, the Ministers and Heads of Delegations participating in the high-level segment of the substantive session of 2004 of the Economic and Social Council, held in New York from 28 to 30 June 2004,

“Recalling the Brussels Declaration and Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the Decade 2001-2010,<sup>1</sup>

“Recalling also the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration,<sup>2</sup> the Monterrey Consensus of the International Conference on Financing for Development,<sup>3</sup> the outcome of the World Summit on Sustainable Development<sup>4</sup> and the outcomes of other major United Nations conferences, summits and relevant special sessions of the General Assembly,

“Recognizing the weak implementation of the Programme of Action and underlining the need to address that issue,

“Recognizing also that, given current trends, most least developed countries are unlikely to achieve the goals and objectives set out in the Programme of Action, as well as the objective of halving the proportion of people living in extreme poverty and suffering from hunger by 2015 and the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the Millennium Declaration,

“Emphasizing that the realization of those goals in the least developed countries entails developing human, financial and institutional resources and creating an enabling domestic and global environment,

“Having considered the theme ‘Resources mobilization and enabling environment for poverty eradication in the context of the implementation of the Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the Decade 2001-2010’, the report of the Secretary-General on the subject<sup>5</sup> and the contribution of all participants in the preparatory process for the high-level segment, held on 17 February and on 17 and 18 March 2004,

“Have adopted the following declaration:

“1. We reaffirm our commitment to the implementation of the goals and objectives set out in the Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the Decade 2001-2010.<sup>1</sup>

“2. We recognize the need for creating an overall enabling environment for national and international actions to eradicate poverty, promote sustainable development of least developed countries and for the implementation of the Programme of Action.

“3. We reaffirm that good governance at both the national and international levels is essential for the implementation of the commitments embodied in the Programme of Action. In that regard, as well as in the context of development efforts in general, we emphasize the need for solid democratic institutions responsive to the needs of the people and the need to improve the efficiency, transparency and accountability of domestic administration and public spending and the rule of law, to ensure full respect for human rights, including the right to development and to eradicate corruption and build sound economic and social institutions and solid frameworks in the least developed countries for generating resources. Such frameworks should be geared to enhancing the mobilization of domestic resources, the flow of financial resources to developing physical infrastructure and the promotion of human resources development, with particular emphasis on equity and gender equality.

“4. We emphasize, as part of the enabling environment, the significance, inter alia, of food security, fighting the HIV/AIDS pandemic, malaria and tuberculosis, improving access to health care, education and other social services, in particular for women, the poor and other vulnerable groups, and protecting the environment.

“5. We recognize that the primary responsibility for development in the least developed countries rests with those countries themselves. But their efforts need to be given concrete and substantial international support from Governments and international organizations in a spirit of shared responsibility through genuine partnerships, including partnerships with civil society and the private sector.

“6. To that end, we urge each least developed country, with the support of their development partners, to continue the implementation of the actions contained in the Programme of Action by translating them into specific measures, within their national development frameworks and poverty eradication strategies, in particular poverty reduction strategy papers, where they exist, and with the continued involvement of civil society, including the private sector, on the basis of a broad-based inclusive dialogue.

“7. We encourage least developed countries, with the support of their development partners, to improve the enabling environment for the private sector, including for micro, small and medium-sized enterprises, which can play a crucial role in poverty reduction by contributing to economic growth and employment. That should involve creating a favourable business environment, promoting the efficiency of markets and developing financial sectors that include the needs of all people, in particular those living in poverty, within an effective and transparent regulatory and legal system.

“8. We recall the importance of the agricultural sector in the least developed countries and, recognizing the importance of greater security of land tenure and land ownership for resource mobilization and environmental stewardship, particularly for women, we urge the least developed countries to promote the creation of formal property systems, including access to land and natural resources, based on sound land-use plans for the poor and the landless. We call for continued measures to build sustainable productive capacities, in particular in rural areas, and to improve access to, and the transfer of, pro-poor advanced technologies in the field of agriculture, including biotechnologies. We urge efforts to enhance the value added of agricultural commodities in the least developed countries that depend on those products.

“9. We emphasize the need to promote an inclusive financial sector in the least developed countries and access to financial services, such as banking, credit and savings, especially microfinance/microcredit, in particular to those at lower income levels, in order to reduce the domestic savings-investment gap and to promote economic growth.

“10. We recognize the importance of workers’ remittances in mobilizing resources for development in the least developed countries, and in that regard we encourage all Governments to remove obstacles that might prevent the safe, unrestricted and expeditious transfer of earnings, assets and pensions of migrant workers from least developed countries to their country of origin or to any other countries, in conformity with applicable legislation, and to consider, as appropriate, measures to solve other problems that might impede such transfers, and in that regard, we take note of the action plan of the Group of Eight entitled ‘Applying the power of entrepreneurship to the eradication of poverty’.

“11. We reaffirm that official development assistance (ODA) has a critical role to play in support of the implementation of the Programme of Action. We commend those countries that have reached the target of contributing 0.20 per cent of their gross national product (GNP) to the least developed countries and encourage them to maintain that trend. We commend also those countries that have reached the target of contributing 0.15 per cent to the least developed countries and encourage them to undertake to reach the target of 0.20 per cent expeditiously. We urge developed countries that have not done so to make concrete efforts towards reaching the target of contributing 0.15 to 0.20 per cent of their GNP to the least developed countries, as reaffirmed at the Third United Nations Conference on the Least Developed Countries. In that context, we note the report of the Secretary-General on resources mobilization for least developed countries<sup>5</sup> and encourage the least developed countries to build on progress achieved in ensuring that ODA is used effectively to help achieve development goals and targets. We encourage development partners of the least developed countries to harmonize their procedures and to help the Governments of those countries to strengthen their administrative capacity.

“12. We recognize that the serious debt problems of the least developed countries necessitate a comprehensive solution, including the full, speedy and effective implementation of the enhanced Heavily Indebted Poor Countries Initiative and other debt-relief measures as well as measures to address the structural causes of indebtedness and the provision of ODA, with a view to ensuring that those countries do not fall back into arrears. The full implementation of those actions is crucial. Actions taken by multilateral and bilateral creditors to provide faster, deeper and broader debt relief for heavily indebted poor countries are useful steps towards solving serious debt problems. The steps taken by the donor community, particularly by members of the Paris Club and other bilateral creditors, to address external debt problems, including the establishment of a moratorium on debt-service payments by the least developed countries, are welcome. Least developed countries in arrears will aim to maximize benefits from debt relief by creating conducive national frameworks, including fiscal reforms, budgetary frameworks, sectoral adjustments, contributing to poverty eradication and faster economic growth, export growth, increased investment, enhanced productive capacities, employment and productivity, savings and international competitiveness. Efforts should be continued through transparent procedures to monitor and review debt sustainability of the least developed countries on the basis of appropriate and objective criteria.

“13. We emphasize that trade is essential for the least developed countries in order for them to generate the resources to finance their growth and development and to complement ODA and private capital flows. In that regard, we welcome market access initiatives in favour of the least developed countries and urge their development partners to improve preferential market access for them by working towards the objective of duty-free and quota-free market access for all their products. We also welcome the growth in trade among and between the least developed countries and other developing countries, and in that context we call for further improved market access for products of export interest to the least developed countries. We call upon all members of the World Trade Organization to continue efforts towards a successful conclusion of multilateral trade negotiations under the Doha work programme, including the agriculture negotiations, aimed at substantial improvements in market access, reductions, with a view to phasing out, of all forms of export subsidies and substantial reductions in trade-distorting domestic support, as well as negotiations to reduce or, as appropriate, eliminate tariffs on non-agricultural products, which should provide substantial gains to the least developed countries. We also urge all countries to assist the capacity of the least developed countries to trade and to integrate trade in their national development policies, with a view to facilitating effective negotiations and informed participation in the multilateral trading system in order for these countries to reap maximum benefits from it.

“14. We underline the importance of foreign direct investment as an essential component of development finance for the least developed countries and we encourage them to continue to create an enabling environment for attracting international investment flows and technology transfers and to encourage greater domestic investment. Efforts to create such an environment should be supported by the international community by providing, inter alia, technical assistance to increase productive capacity in the least developed countries and promoting foreign direct investment flows to those countries.

“15. We recognize the special needs of the least developed countries emerging from conflict situations. Bearing in mind that national ownership is the key to ensuring sustainable reconstruction and recovery, we urge development partners, multilateral institutions and international financial institutions to work with post-conflict countries to ensure that efforts to mobilize resources are closely integrated with efforts to achieve peace and stability. We emphasize the need to ensure that reconstruction and recovery is an important part of the sustainable development of least developed countries emerging from conflict situations. We also undertake to provide debt relief to post-conflict countries within the flexibility provided under the framework of the Heavily Indebted Poor Countries Initiative.

“16. We stress the importance of the follow-up to the present ministerial declaration and request the Secretary-General to continue to provide information as part of his annual report on the follow-up to the Programme of Action.

“17. We recommit ourselves to undertake increased efforts and speedy measures with a view to meeting the goals and targets of the Programme of Action in a timely manner.”

“The Economic and Social Council,

“Guided by the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations and the Universal Declaration of Human Rights,

“Recalling the determination expressed in the Preamble to the Charter to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, to establish conditions under which justice and respect for obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law can be maintained, to promote social progress and better standards of life in larger freedom, to practice tolerance and good neighbourliness and to employ international machinery for the promotion of the economic and social advancement of all peoples,

“Guided by the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment and other basic instruments regarding the international protection of human rights as well as universal humanitarian norms, as set forth in the Geneva Conventions of 12 August 1949,

“Recalling Commission on Human Rights resolutions 2004/44 of 19 April 2004 and 2004/87 of 21 April 2004,

“Reaffirming that every human being has the inherent right to life and the right not to be subjected to torture or to cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, and deeply concerned on alleged and documented cases of violations of human rights and of international humanitarian law in the context of international military operations launched to combat terrorism,

“Deeply concerned that the above-mentioned alleged and documented violations of human rights and international humanitarian law in the context of international military operations launched to combat terrorism includes: extrajudicial executions; enforced disappearances; arbitrary detentions, including massive arrests; torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment such as beatings, electric shocks, sleep deprivation, prolonged forced standing and kneeling, humiliation, psychological abuse, hooding, use of dogs to frighten and intimidate detainees with threats of attack, keeping detainees naked for several days at a time, threatening and sodomizing detainees and prolonged solitary confinement in cells devoid of daylight; sexual abuse; coercive interrogation practices; taking pictures of dead detainees; excessive use of force against persons deprived of their liberty; and holding them in dangerous places where they are not protected from shelling,

“Recalling that freedom from torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment is a non-derogable right that must be protected under all circumstances and that the prohibition of torture is explicitly affirmed in all relevant international instruments,

“Deeply concerned that according to reliable information an undisclosed number of persons detained in the context of international military operations launched to combat terrorism are held at present in detention camps, in a situation of deprivation of some of their fundamental human rights,

“Concerned at the consequences to the protection of human rights of the growing involvement and participation of military private corporations and individuals under private contracts in tasks of protection and security in the context of international military operations launched to combat terrorism,

“Reaffirming its unequivocal condemnation of all acts, methods and practices of terrorism, in all forms and manifestations, wherever and by whomsoever committed, regardless of their motivation, as criminal and unjustifiable, and renewing its commitment to strengthen international cooperation to prevent and combat terrorism,

“Taking note of recent positive measures adopted by States to promote respect and to ensure compliance with their obligations under international instruments of human rights and international humanitarian law in the context of international military operations launched to combat terrorism,

“Noting in particular general comment 31 of the Human Rights Committee, adopted on 29 March 2004, and the joint statement on the protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms in the context of anti-terrorism measures of the participants at the eleventh annual meeting of the special rapporteurs, representatives, independent experts and chairpersons of working groups of the special procedures of the Commission on Human Rights and of the advisory services programme,

“1. Reaffirms that States should respect and ensure compliance with their obligations under international instruments of human rights and international humanitarian law in the context of international military operations launched to combat terrorism;

“2. Demands that States and other actors in international military operations launched to combat terrorism prevent the occurrence of extrajudicial executions, enforced disappearances, torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment and other grave violations of international human rights and humanitarian law and take effective action to combat and eliminate any violation of this kind in all forms and manifestations;

“3. Reiterates the obligation of all States to conduct exhaustive and impartial investigations into all suspected cases of violations of international human rights and humanitarian law in the context of international military operations launched to combat terrorism, to identify and bring to justice those responsible, while ensuring the right of every person to a fair hearing by a competent, independent and impartial tribunal established by law, to grant adequate compensation within a reasonable time to the victims or their families and to adopt all necessary measures in order to bring an end to impunity and to prevent the recurrence of such violations;

“4. Urges States and other actors in international military operations launched to combat terrorism to undertake all necessary and possible measures, in conformity with human rights law and international humanitarian law, to prevent the loss of life of civilian persons, in particular the lives of women and children;

“5. Appeals to States and other actors in international military operations launched to combat terrorism to ensure that all persons deprived of their liberty are treated with humanity and with respect for the inherent dignity of the human person, in accordance with the relevant international instruments of human rights and humanitarian law;

“6. Condemns all forms of torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment and any action or attempt by States or public officials to legalize or authorize them under any circumstances, which are and shall remain prohibited at any time and in any place whatsoever and can thus never be justified, and calls upon all Governments to implement fully the prohibition of torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment;

“7. Requests all States and other actors engaged in international military operations launched to combat terrorism to pay special attention to the procedures and practices used by their respective agents to obtain information from detainees or from civilians, particularly during the interrogation of detainees, so that they can ensure that these procedures are in compliance with the international instruments of human rights and of international humanitarian law;

“8. Encourages all United Nations bodies, including the human rights treaty bodies, acting within their mandates, and the specialized agencies, as well as governmental, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations, and the special representatives, special rapporteurs and working groups of the Commission on Human Rights to pay particular attention to, exchange information on, and provide the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights with, all relevant information in their possession on violations of human rights in the context of international military operations launched to combat terrorism;

“9. Requests the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights to prepare and submit to the fifty-ninth session of the General Assembly, a comprehensive report on the basis of information and comments received from Governments, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations, the specialized agencies, special procedures of the Commission on Human Rights
