8. The financial implications of the recommendation with respect to an overall increase of 2.5 per cent for the mobility and hardship scheme for peacekeeping operations and the support account for peacekeeping operations have been estimated at $1,874,700 and $39,600, respectively, for the financial period from 1 July 2011 to 30 June 2012, and at $3,749,400 and $79,200, respectively, for the financial period from 1 July 2012 to 30 June 2013.⁴

⁴ The total expenditures incurred by peacekeeping operations and the support account for peacekeeping operations for the period from 1 July 2010 to 30 June 2011 under the hardship, mobility and non-removal allowances were $95,602,600 and $3,164,300, respectively. Consequently, an increase by 2.5 per cent in the levels of the hardship, mobility and non-removal allowances would lead to an annual increase of $2,390,000 and $79,200, respectively, for the budgets of peacekeeping operations and the support account for peacekeeping operations. As indicated in footnote 3, the total additional costs of $1,764,900 per annum arising from the change in the level of the additional non-family hardship allowance for the United Nations estimated by the Commission could be proportionally estimated at $1,359,400 per annum for the budgets of peacekeeping operations.
