NOTE

The resolutions and decisions of the Economic and Social Council are identified as follows:

Resolutions

Until 1977 (up to and including the resumed sixty-third session), the resolutions of the Economic and Social Council were numbered consecutively and were identified by an arabic numeral followed by an indication of the session in parentheses (for example: resolution 1733 (LIV), resolution 1915 (ORG-75), resolution 2046 (S-III), adopted at the fifty-fourth session, the organizational session for 1975 and the third special session, respectively). When several resolutions were adopted under the same number, each of them was identified by a capital letter (for example: resolution 1926 B (LVIII), resolutions 1954 A to D (LIX)). The last resolution so numbered is resolution 2130 (LXIII), of 14 December 1977.

Since 1978, as part of the new system adopted for symbols of Council documents, the resolutions have been numbered on a yearly basis and identified by two arabic numerals separated by an oblique stroke, the first numeral indicating the year, the second the number of the resolution in the annual series (for example: resolution 1990/47).

Decisions

Until 1973 (up to and including the resumed fifty-fifth session), the decisions of the Council were not numbered. From 1974 to 1977 (up to and including the resumed sixty-third session), the decisions were numbered consecutively and were identified by an arabic numeral followed by an indication of the session in parentheses (for example: decision 64 (ORG-75), decision 78 (LVIII), adopted at the organizational session for 1975 and the fifty-eighth session, respectively). The last decision so numbered is decision 293 (LXIII), of 2 December 1977.

Since 1978, as part of the new system adopted for symbols of Council documents, the decisions have been numbered on a yearly basis and identified by two arabic numerals separated by an oblique stroke, the first numeral indicating the year, the second the number of the decision in the annual series (for example: decision 1990/224).

Noting the adoption by acclamation by the Commission, at its sixty-fifth session, held in Geneva from 9 to 11 April 2013, of decision A (65) of 11 April 2013 concerning the outcome of the review of the 2005 reform of the Commission,

Endorses the outcome of the review of the 2005 reform of the Economic Commission for Europe, as set out in the annex to the present resolution.

*22nd plenary meeting
5 July 2013*

Annex

Outcome of the review of the 2005 reform of the Economic Commission for Europe

I. Introduction and general provisions

1. The Economic Commission for Europe reform was adopted on 2 December 2005 and was reconfirmed by Commission decision A (65) of 11 April 2013. Member States decided at the sixty-fourth session of the Commission in 2011 to carry out a review of the reform. The modalities of the 2011–2012 review, which were finalized and adopted by the Executive Committee in July 2011, and are appended to the present text, state that: “Bearing in mind the overall objective of an improved allocation of resources within the Commission (both within the Committees and subprogrammes and between them) based on clearly defined and updated mandates, the reduction of the current overstretch, and an increased emphasis on areas in which the Commission has a clear demonstrable added value, the Executive Committee would review the work and priorities within each of the eight subprogrammes implemented by the Commission.”
2. A series of consultations with all member States was held and the Executive Committee received the reports of all Sectoral Committees. A road map for the review was later developed and another series of consultations was held with interested member States (Friends of the Chair) at which member States expressed broad satisfaction with the work of the Commission and its secretariat. Some member States expressed concerns regarding duplication of work and clear demonstrable added value.
3. All documentation relevant to the review, including information about the financial and human resources per work area of each subprogramme, is available on the website of the Commission and will be regularly updated in the future.
4. The Executive Committee recommended that the Commission adopt the respective decision.

II. Priorities of the programme of work

5. In view of the importance of relevant global conferences and initiatives, such as the United Nations Conference on Sustainable Development, held in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, from 20 to 22 June 2012, and the Sustainable Energy for All initiative of the Secretary-General, and their potential implications for the Commission, the Commission expresses its commitment to play an active part, within its current mandate and existing resources, in the appropriate regional and global implementation of their outcomes, and invites its subsidiary bodies and the secretariat to suggest to the Executive Committee possible ways to enhance their contribution to implementing those outcomes.
6. The following priorities and activities were identified in the review process to be implemented within the existing regular budgetary and additional extrabudgetary resources under the overall guidance and decisions of the Sectoral Committees and the Executive Committee.

A. Environment subprogramme

7. The Environment subprogramme, the Committee on Environmental Policy and related subsidiary bodies work within current mandates in an efficient way, producing concrete results in a regular and ongoing way that have a clear value added for the region and beyond and that attract extrabudgetary funding.

8. On the basis of the above:

(a) The subprogramme and its subsidiary bodies should continue implementing existing mandates under the overall guidance of the Committee on Environmental Policy and the Executive Committee and should, subject to the latter's approval, implement relevant outcomes of the United Nations Conference on Sustainable Development. The subprogramme should also continue its capacity-building activities, from extrabudgetary resources, of particular benefit to the countries in the region;

(b) In allocating regular budgetary resources, full account should be taken of the increasing number of instruments administered by the subprogramme and the Environment Division so that they can continue, without reduction in their resources and capacities, to do their work and service all the subsidiary bodies in an efficient way in the future, while fully recognizing the obligation of the Commission to service the five multilateral environmental agreements.

B. Transport subprogramme

9. The Transport subprogramme is a unique United Nations centre providing a comprehensive regional and global platform for consideration of all aspects of inland transport development and cooperation. The Transport subprogramme, the Inland Transport Committee and related subsidiary bodies work within current mandates in an efficient way, producing concrete results in a regular and ongoing way that have clear value added for the region and beyond.

10. On the basis of the above:

(a) The subprogramme and its subsidiary bodies should continue implementing existing mandates under the overall guidance of the Inland Transport Committee and the Executive Committee. It shall strengthen its focus on the areas of harmonization of vehicle regulations, road safety, transport of dangerous goods, border-crossing facilitation including the Customs Convention on the International Transport of Goods under Cover of TIR Carnets (TIR Convention),<sup>1</sup> unified railway law, implementation of the European Agreement concerning the Work of Crews of Vehicles Engaged in International Road Transport and intelligent transport systems. It will further explore synergies among those areas of work with an overarching goal of promoting sustainable transport that is safe, clean and competitive;

(b) In allocating regular budgetary resources, full account should be taken of the increasing needs of the subprogramme and the Transport Division so that they can continue, with an increase in their resources and capacities, to do their work and service all the subsidiary bodies in an efficient way in the future, in particular in the areas mentioned in subparagraph (a) above.

C. Subprogramme on statistics

11. The subprogramme on statistics, the Conference of European Statisticians and related subsidiary bodies work within current mandates in an efficient way, producing concrete results (methodological principles, recommendations, guidelines and databases) in a regular and ongoing way that have a clear value added for the region and beyond and that attract extrabudgetary funding, including from outside the region.

12. On the basis of the above:

(a) The subprogramme and its subsidiary bodies should continue implementing existing mandates under the overall guidance of the Conference of European Statisticians and the Executive Committee, and should continue the good cooperation with partner organizations such as Eurostat, the Statistical Committee of the Commonwealth of Independent States, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund. Particular attention should be given to the work on measuring sustainable development, and the subprogramme should continue its capacity-building activities from extrabudgetary resources of particular benefit to the countries in the region;

(b) In allocating regular budgetary resources, due regard should be given to the needs of the subprogramme and the Statistics Division so that they can continue, without reduction in their resources and capacities, to do their work and service all the subsidiary bodies in an efficient way in the future.

D. Subprogramme on economic cooperation and integration

13. The subprogramme on economic cooperation and integration produces certain concrete results, in particular in the areas of innovation and public-private partnerships, that have value added for the beneficiary countries and that attract extrabudgetary funding.

14. On the basis of the above:

(a) The subprogramme and its subsidiary bodies should continue implementing existing mandates on innovation and competitiveness and on public-private partnerships under the overall guidance of the respective Committee and the Executive Committee;

(b) Work on public-private partnerships deserves further impetus with a view to delivering concrete results within clear time frames and with more attention given to the exchange of best practices;

(c) Work on intellectual property should be integrated into the work of the Team of Specialists on Innovation and Competitiveness Policies. Recognizing that the World Intellectual Property Organization is the pre-eminent international organization for intellectual property, any technical cooperation activities related to intellectual property should, in principle, be carried out by that organization. To that end, the Commission will continue, until the end of 2014, to carry out, in the interest of its member States, existing technical cooperation activities on the commercialization of intellectual property in close cooperation with the World Intellectual Property Organization, with the understanding that the latter would take over that work. At the conclusion of this transitional phase in early 2015, those activities will be evaluated by the Executive Committee. In the event that the World Intellectual Property Organization is not able, after the end of 2014, to carry out certain technical cooperation activities on the commercialization of intellectual property in the interest of the States members of the Commission, the Executive Committee can agree, on a case-by-case basis and provided extrabudgetary funding is available, that such activities be carried out by the Commission;

(d) In allocating regular budgetary resources, due regard should be given to the needs of the subprogramme and the Trade and Economic Cooperation Division so that they can do their work and service the subsidiary bodies in an efficient way in the future.

E. Subprogramme on sustainable energy

15. The subprogramme on sustainable energy, the Committee on Sustainable Energy and relevant subsidiary bodies continue to provide member States with a platform for international dialogue and cooperation and are mandated to carry out a programme of work in the field of sustainable energy with a view to providing access to affordable and clean energy to all, in line with the Sustainable Energy for All initiative of the Secretary-General, and to help reduce greenhouse gas emissions and the carbon footprint of the energy sector.

16. On the basis of the above:

(a) The Committee on Sustainable Energy and the subsidiary bodies will, under updated mandates and work programmes in accordance with the outcome of the informal consultations on sustainable energy reflected in appendix II hereto, focus on issues related to energy efficiency, cleaner electricity production from fossil fuels, renewable energy, coal mine methane, the United Nations Framework Classification for Fossil Energy and Mineral Reserves and Resources 2009 and natural gas. The Committee will continue its energy security dialogue;

(b) In allocating regular budgetary resources, due regard should be given to the needs of the subprogramme and division, including the new objectives, areas of work and activities as reflected in appendix II, so that they can continue to do their work and service the subsidiary bodies in an efficient way in the future, without jeopardizing the level of resources and capacities needed to implement the updated mandates and workplans.

F. Subprogramme on trade

17. The subprogramme on trade undertakes value added standard-setting work through Working Party 6 (regulatory cooperation) and Working Party 7 (agricultural quality standards) and through the United Nations Centre for Trade Facilitation and Electronic Business, which has a global participation and its own structure in which decision-making is centred in its Bureau and Plenary.

18. On the basis of the above:

(a) The subprogramme should continue implementing its standard-setting mandates and strengthen its standard-setting activities in Working Parties 6 and 7 under the overall guidance of the Committee on Trade, and in the United Nations Centre for Trade Facilitation and Electronic Business under the overall guidance of the Executive Committee.<sup>2</sup> Capacity-building and technical assistance activities to help countries in the region to implement standards developed under the subprogramme may be decided by the Executive Committee if they are financed from extrabudgetary resources, demand-driven, results-oriented, time limited and closely coordinated with other international actors, such as the World Trade Organization, the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development and the International Trade Centre;

(b) Standard-setting bodies should improve communication and emphasize the practical and political importance of their technical outputs (e.g., in terms of facilitating trade, improving the quality of food, making harbours in the world work efficiently, etc.);

(c) In allocating regular budgetary resources, due regard should be given to the needs of the subprogramme and the Trade and Economic Cooperation Division so that they can continue to do their work and service the subsidiary bodies in an efficient way in the future.

G. Subprogramme on timber and forestry

19. The subprogramme on timber and forestry, the Timber Committee and related subsidiary bodies work within current mandates in an efficient way, producing concrete results in a regular and ongoing way that have clear value added and that attract extrabudgetary funding. They benefit from well-established, long-term cooperation between the Commission and the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations and the implementation of an integrated work programme.

20. On the basis of the above:

(a) The subprogramme and its subsidiary bodies should, under the guidance of the Timber Committee and the Executive Committee, continue implementing current mandates and, together with the Food and Agriculture Organization, implement the integrated work programme, taking into account the results of the ongoing 2013 Economic Commission for Europe/Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations Strategic Review, to which member States will provide further input;

(b) The Timber Committee is renamed the “Committee on Forest and Forest Industry”, following the recommendations of the Timber Committee at its seventieth session, held in Geneva, from 16 to 19 October 2012. The new name is consistent with the current mandate and therefore the name change does not imply change in the mandate of the Committee;

(c) In allocating regular budgetary resources, due regard should be given to the needs of the subprogramme and the Timber and Forestry Unit so that they can continue, without reduction in their resources and capacities, to do their work and service the subsidiary bodies in an efficient way in the future.

H. Subprogramme on housing, land management and population

21. The subprogramme on housing, land management and population, the Committee on Housing and Land Management and the subsidiary bodies work within current mandates and produce certain useful concrete results that attract extrabudgetary funding.

<sup>2</sup> At the end of 2014, the Executive Committee may decide, after evaluation, whether it is desirable for the United Nations Centre for Trade Facilitation and Electronic Business to report to the Committee on Trade.

22. On the basis of the above:

(a) The work of the component on housing and land management should continue under the guidance of the Committee on Housing and Land Management and the Executive Committee with a particular focus on sustainable housing and urban development, especially in the light of the outcome of the United Nations Conference on Sustainable Development;

(b) The work on population should continue under the guidance of the Executive Committee, taking into account the outcome of the Ministerial Conference on Ageing, held in Vienna, on 19 and 20 September 2012, while avoiding duplication of work of other international actors such as the United Nations Commission for Social Development, the International Labour Organization, the International Organization for Migration and the United Nations Population Fund;

(c) In allocating regular budgetary resources, due regard should be given to the needs of the subprogramme and the subsidiary bodies so that they can continue to do their work in an efficient way in the future.

I. Gender issues

23. Work on gender issues should continue within the current mandate, not exceeding existing resources, and under the overall guidance of the Executive Committee.

III. Relations with other organizations

24. Member States emphasized the importance of a more structured and systematic cooperation with other relevant United Nations programmes and agencies, as well as other relevant organizations, to achieve synergies and complementarity of efforts, and to avoid possible overlap and duplication.

IV. Management (Office of the Executive Secretary)

25. Member States emphasized the important role of the Office of the Executive Secretary in providing overall direction to the secretariat of the Commission, promoting synergies among different subprogrammes and making timely proposals to the Executive Committee to ensure tangible and effective contributions towards the outcomes of the relevant United Nations and other regional and global conferences and initiatives. The Office of the Executive Secretary also bears overall responsibility for sound management and allocation and use of available human and financial resources.

V. Evaluation and reporting

26. Member States emphasized the importance of internal controls, oversight and evaluation functions carried out by the Office of the Executive Secretary, as well as the interaction between the Executive Committee and the Sectoral Committees, inter alia, through proper evaluation,<sup>3</sup> reporting and discussion on evaluation of subprogramme performance. Reports on the use of human and financial resources and on ongoing activities, as well as on possible future activities and the possible future use of resources, as provided to the Executive Committee in the framework of the review process, shall be regularly updated and forwarded to that Committee for possible action.

VI. Harmonizing procedures and practices

27. The Executive Committee should see to it that all subsidiary bodies and the secretariat apply the guidelines on procedures and practices for Commission bodies, as contained in appendix III hereto.

VII. Communication and public outreach

28. Member States noted the communication strategy issued by the secretariat, which aims at making communication materials more adapted to a targeted audience and at making a better use of the Internet, suggests a more client-oriented approach and proposes ways to electronically enhance the visibility of products and services of the Commission beyond the region. Member States expect that the strategy will help to further improve the image of the Commission, attract more attention to its achievements and allow the secretariat to enhance its communications, public relations and contacts with the media. Member States noted their responsibility for the implementation of the strategy.

29. Member States stressed the importance of timely distribution of the information and documentation for Commission meetings in all three working languages. The secretariat should also make the necessary effort to ensure the equal treatment of all working languages for the purpose of information dissemination and news coverage with special attention to the official website of the Commission.

VIII. Resources

30. Member States expressed their satisfaction with the overall level of transparency on the past use of resources generated in the course of the review process, and encouraged the secretariat to continue providing requested information.

31. In the framework of the reform review process, member States:

(a) Agreed that the mobilization, allocation and use of extrabudgetary resources should be done in accordance with United Nations rules and procedures, in support of the mandate of the Commission and subject to the Executive Committee's approval of extrabudgetary projects. To assure transparency and accountability on the use of these resources, the Executive Committee should be informed, throughout the project cycle, of the use of resources and the concrete results achieved;

(b) Identified three posts at present allocated to the Global Trade Solutions Section of the Trade Division and used for capacity-building activities (2 P-4 posts and 1 P-2 post), and agreed that two of the posts could, after completion of their present activities and at the latest by January 2014, be transferred to the Transport Division, to be used primarily to service Working Party 29, whereas the remaining post should be reallocated internally in the Division to service the standard-setting activities;

(c) Agreed to merge, by January 2014, the Division on Trade and the Division on Economic Cooperation and Integration into the Division on Trade and Economic Cooperation. That merger would free one D-1 post and a General Service post which could, possibly after a renaming, be reallocated to those activities in the organization that suffer from an overstretched use of their current resources and which should help to respond to budget cuts imposed by Headquarters in New York. Member States encourage the secretariat to identify other personnel and resource efficiencies that could result from this merger. The merger should not negatively affect the output of the work programme of the merged divisions;

(d) Agreed on the need for a reorganization of the different divisions with a view to creating a flatter and more harmonized internal management structure, so as to free up management posts, that should, possibly after a renaming, be reallocated to those activities in the organization that suffer from an overstretched use of their current resources and which should help to respond to budget cuts imposed by Headquarters in New York;

(e) Agreed on the urgent need to establish contacts with the regional office of the United Nations Population Fund in Istanbul, Turkey, to start cooperation between the Population Unit of the Commission and that regional office, with a view to freeing up, where possible, Commission resources currently allocated to population-related activities for reallocation to those activities in the organization that suffer from an overstretched use of their current resources;

(f) Agreed that the secretariat should investigate the possibilities of merging the activities on gender and population with a view to freeing up resources that could, possibly after a renaming, be reallocated to those activities in the organization that suffer from an overstretched use of their current resources;

(g) Agreed that the Trade Committee and the Committee on Economic Cooperation and Integration will, from 2013 onwards, organize their two-day annual meetings back to back, in the same week. Member States agree in principle that both Committees should further synergize their work. The secretariat is invited to draw up a report by the summer of 2014 so as to allow the Executive Committee to take a decision, before 1 December 2014, on whether or not to merge the two Committees.

32. Member States emphasized the importance of continued effective and efficient use of the limited budgetary and human resources of the Commission as well as of further efforts to ensure an adequate level of regular budget resources for the Commission to fulfil its mandate.

33. Member States, other partners and organizations are encouraged to support mandated activities and work programmes of the Commission with additional resources in accordance with the existing rules, regulations and practices.

Appendix I

Modalities of the 2011–2012 review of the 2005 Economic Commission for Europe reform

Background

1. The Economic Commission for Europe, at its sixty-fourth session, held in Geneva from 29 to 31 March 2011, recalled the Commission reform adopted on 5 December 2005, welcomed its implementation and achievements, and underlined the importance of its first five-year review, that would take place in 2011–2012, with a view to drawing conclusions on the future work priorities of the Commission.

2. The Commission reaffirmed the strategic directions adopted by the 2005 reform, without prejudice to the outcome of the 2011–2012 review of that reform, which should make use of lessons learned and best practices.

3. The Commission requested the Executive Committee to duly consider the outputs, as appropriate, of the discussion at the sixty-fourth session of the Commission when it reviewed the work programmes of the Sectoral Committees during the intersessional period, and similarly requested the respective Sectoral Committees to duly consider the said outputs, as appropriate. The Commission also invited the Executive Committee to consider how to better interact with the Chairs of the Sectoral Committees with the aim of ensuring its role in terms of governance and oversight in the intersessional period.

4. The Commission invited the Executive Committee to decide on the modalities of the upcoming review which it will carry out with a view to proposing decisions on the matter to be taken by the Commission at its next session (in 2013).

5. In May 2011, the secretariat presented to the Executive Committee, in an informal document and as requested by the Commission at its sixty-fourth session, information on the current allocation and use of resources provided to the Commission in the 2010–2011 programme budget under all main thematic areas of work within the subprogrammes implemented by the Commission<sup>4</sup> with a link to all main products and services delivered in 2010, along with information on the availability of non-staff resources provided under the regular budget (section 19). Information was also provided, in an informal document containing a report on technical cooperation activities, on work carried out and resources available in 2010 from the Regular Programme for Technical Cooperation (section 22) and the United Nations Development Account (section 35), as well as extrabudgetary resources.

6. The modalities for the review, as specified below, were adopted on 21 July 2011 through a silence procedure, following discussions of informal documents by the Executive Committee on 10 May and 24 June 2011.

Principles

7. The review process will be based on a number of good principles or practices, including transparency, resource efficiency, clarity about why the Commission should engage in an activity, what the Commission's value added is, identification of duplication of work and of possible savings both within the Commission and with other United Nations and international organizations, etc. The review process as well as its outcomes should be results-oriented.

Modalities of the review

Review of subprogrammes

8. Bearing in mind the overall objective of an improved allocation of resources within the Commission (both within the Committees and subprogrammes and between them) based on clearly defined and updated mandates, the reduction of the current overstretch, and an increased emphasis on areas in which the Commission has clear demonstrable added value, the Executive Committee would review the work and priorities within each of the eight subprogrammes implemented by the Commission. The Executive Committee may wish to decide on the schedule/timing of these reviews. A possible period is from autumn 2011 to summer 2012.

9. In a first step, the secretariat will provide the Executive Committee with a clear picture of the current mandates of the Committees and the subsidiary bodies; the extent to which these mandates have been carried out over the past years in a resource-efficient way; and their added value vis-à-vis activities currently undertaken by other United Nations bodies or international organizations. For this, a complete picture of the activities, the input (human and financial resources) and the output (list of results) per subsidiary body would be useful, building on the informal document on resources.

10. The secretariat would solicit inputs from the Chairs of the Sectoral Committees and, through them, the main subsidiary bodies (e.g., working parties, teams of specialists, etc.). The purpose would be to identify within each subprogramme:

- (a) Priority areas of current work and results achieved;
- (b) Possible new and emerging issues and expected results;
- (c) Possibilities for streamlining and synergizing activities within each of the expected results;
- (d) Ways of improving efficiency and methods of work;
- (e) Expected results and related activities that may need to be reoriented/refocused to better reflect priority demands of member States;
- (f) Possible optimization of the structure of the programme of work;
- (g) Ways of improving communication and public outreach.

This should take into account the results of the evaluations of the subprogrammes, in particular those carried out by the respective Sectoral Committees, after the 2005 reform. It should also take into account the results of regular priority-setting processes carried out within the Sectoral Committees. The Executive Committee will request the Sectoral Committees to carry out their priority-setting bearing in mind the elements listed above.

11. In a second step, for each subprogramme the secretariat will prepare, for consideration by the Executive Committee, documents which will identify possible future work priorities and the desirable and projected outputs in each area (objectives should as much as possible be formulated in a way that allows results to be measured, and each activity could have a sunset clause when appropriate, linked in particular to the achievement of a previously defined objective). An effort should be made to determine the activities that need to be enhanced and those that may be abolished, in order to better reflect the evolving needs and priorities of member States, as decided by the Executive Committee. Any identified duplication of work between the Commission and other United Nations bodies and international organizations should not automatically lead to the abolishment of the work area in question. Careful consideration should be given to the comparative advantages, cooperation and synergies, relevance to the mandate, efficacy, efficiency, sustainability and impact of the work. These considerations should guide the review process and member States' decision in order to enable the Commission to focus its activities and resources on areas in which it has maximum impact, relevance, visibility and legitimacy.

12. The Chairs/Bureaux of Sectoral Committees could be invited to participate in meetings of the Executive Committee when the respective subprogrammes will be reviewed.

Review of programmatic activities reported directly to the Executive Committee

13. The Executive Committee would also carry out a review of programmatic activities which are reported directly to it (e.g., ageing, gender), taking into account provisions of paragraphs 8 to 12 above, as appropriate.

Finalization of the review

14. In a third step, in the second trimester of 2012, after the conclusion of the review of subprogrammes and their activities as outlined above, the Executive Committee would carry out a cross-sectoral review and formulate recommendations on the future work priorities to be submitted for approval by the Commission in 2013. Key criteria for the cross-sectoral review include relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, impact and sustainability. Workplans for any activities should clearly define the end objectives and provide for sunset clauses when appropriate.

Appendix II

Outcome of the informal consultations on sustainable energy<sup>5</sup>

I. General

The Committee on Sustainable Energy is an intergovernmental body that provides member States with a platform for international dialogue and cooperation and is mandated to carry out a programme of work in the field of sustainable energy with a view to providing access to affordable and clean energy to all, in line with the Sustainable Energy for All initiative of the Secretary-General, and to help reduce greenhouse gas emissions and the carbon footprint of the energy sector. The Committee and its subsidiary bodies will carry out concrete and results-oriented activities with the aim of achieving the specific objectives identified for each priority area, and they will work in accordance with the Executive Committee's guidelines on procedures and practices for Economic Commission for Europe bodies.

The objectives, areas of work and concrete results-oriented activities indicated under each topic will orient the work of experts, who may suggest additional areas of work and activities within agreed mandates. All activities should have a clear demonstrable value added and be coordinated with and complementary to the work of other relevant international actors without duplicating their work or mandates (appendix I, paragraph 11). Specific activities to be carried out within the overall framework of the objectives and areas of work mentioned in this document shall be decided on in a member States-driven process and be carried out in an efficient and transparent way.

The Committee on Sustainable Energy and its subsidiary bodies will focus on issues related to: energy efficiency, cleaner electricity production from fossil fuels, renewable energy, coal mine methane, the United Nations Framework Classification for Fossil Energy and Mineral Reserves and Resources 2009 and natural gas. The Committee will continue its energy security dialogue.

II. Energy efficiency

Objective

In line with the Sustainable Energy for All initiative of the Secretary-General, the Commission should focus on activities that help to significantly improve energy efficiency in the region, thus contributing to climate change mitigation efforts;

Strengthening regional cooperation in energy efficiency, with a view to reducing greenhouse gas emissions.

Areas of work

Regulatory and policy dialogue addressing financial, technical and policy barriers to improve energy efficiency;

Sharing experience and best practices in the field of energy efficiency in the region, including on strengthening institutional capacity in energy efficiency to reduce greenhouse gas emissions.

Concrete activities

Improving efficiency of distribution by raising awareness regarding smart grids;

Encouraging the exchange of know-how and best practices between relevant experts of all member States, in order to help to attract investments into energy efficiency;

<sup>5</sup> The present text was written by the facilitator in the framework of the review of the 2005 reform process and reflects the consensus reached between States members of the Economic Commission for Europe.

Help to share the experience of the Commission and its members in the area of energy efficiency with member States of other regions, through the Special Representative for the Sustainable Energy for All initiative;

In addition, States members of the Commission could decide to develop other concrete and results-oriented activities within agreed mandates, including specific projects at the regional level, aimed at improving regulatory and institutional frameworks for energy efficiency.

III. Cleaner electricity production from fossil fuels

Objective

The Commission should focus on activities that significantly reduce greenhouse gas emissions from electricity production from fossil fuels. Activities aimed at cleaner electricity production from fossil fuels should be developed and implemented with the active participation of States members of the Commission, representatives from the energy and financial sectors and civil society, independent experts and academia.

Areas of work

Regulatory and policy dialogue;

Sharing best practices in the field of cleaner electricity production from fossil fuels in the region;

Carbon capture, utilization and storage;

Enhanced oil recovery with carbon dioxide;

Advanced fossil fuels technologies for power generation.

Concrete activities

Examples of specific international carbon capture, utilization and storage activities for States members of the Commission to consider are opportunities to collaborate and actively participate in several upcoming Carbon Sequestration Leadership Forum Working Groups on the following topics:

Technical working group activities in carbon dioxide utilization options;

Carbon capture, utilization and storage technology gaps closure;

Carbon capture energy penalty reduction;

Carbon capture and storage with industrial emissions sources;

Technical challenges for conversion of carbon dioxide-enhanced oil recovery to carbon capture and storage;

Identifying and assessing links between technology-related risks and liability;

Competition of carbon capture and storage with other resources;

Stimulating introduction of innovative technologies, notably on electricity with a focus on controlling emissions.

The International Energy Agency, the Global Carbon Capture and Storage Institute and the Carbon Sequestration Leadership Forum each conduct a wide range of activities related to carbon capture, utilization and storage, many of which should be of interest to various States members of the Commission. Rather than propose a specific set of projects at this time, non-duplicative projects that are of the most value could be developed through dialogue between these organizations and the Commission.

The Committee on Sustainable Energy will encourage the exchange of know-how and best practices between relevant experts of all member States in order to attract investments in advanced fossil fuels technologies for electricity generation with a view to supporting industrial and economic competitiveness and achieving low-carbon sustainable development.

Work on cleaner electricity production is not limited to carbon capture, utilization and storage. States members of the Commission could decide to develop other concrete and results-oriented activities within agreed mandates.

IV. Renewable energy

Objective

In line with the Sustainable Energy for All initiative of the Secretary-General, the Commission should focus on activities that help to significantly increase the uptake of renewable energy in the region and that help to achieve the objective of access to energy for all in the region.

Areas of work

Regulatory and policy dialogue and sharing best practices on various renewable energy sources, including biomass, with a view to increasing the share of renewables in the global energy mix.

Concrete activities

The Committee on Sustainable Energy will help member States, at their request, to identify those communities in the region that, at present, have no access to energy, and it will help to suggest ways to ensure that these communities have access to renewable or alternative sources of energy as soon as possible. Energy companies could be asked to help to achieve that objective.

In view of the Commission's existing expertise, the Committee will work:

- (a) On increasing energy production from renewable sources throughout the region;
- (b) On activities that will improve access to heat and power from renewable energy sources in the region, including for the communities referred to above;
- (c) On sustainable development of non-forest-based biomass production.

Encourage the exchange of know-how and best practices between relevant experts of all member States in order to attract investments in energy production from renewable sources, such as wind, solar and hydropower projects as a means of sustainable development and climate change mitigation.

In addition, States members of the Commission could decide to develop other concrete and results-oriented activities of the Committee on Sustainable Energy within agreed mandates. The activities of the sustainable energy subprogramme are complementary to and implemented in cooperation and coordination with other subprogrammes, in particular with the Economic Commission for Europe-Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations Timber and Forestry subprogramme.

V. Coal mine methane

Objective

To promote the reduction of greenhouse gas emissions from coal mines by means of activities that may help the recovery and use of methane in order to reduce the risks of explosions in coal mines.

Areas of work

Best practice guidance for effective methane drainage development and dissemination.

Concrete activities

Electronically disseminate the Best Practice Guidance for Effective Methane Drainage and Use in Coal Mines to all major stakeholders in the region and beyond, as recommended by the Economic and Social Council in its decision 2011/222 of 25 July 2011, before August 2013;

Prepare suggestions, by August 2013, on how to develop, as appropriate, similar best practices guidance for aspects of coal mine methane management that are not covered in detail by the current document, such as best practice drilling or low-concentration methane drainage;

Prepare proposals, by August 2013, for case studies, where appropriate and financed by extrabudgetary resources, on the application of best practice guidance in specific coal mines in different regions of the world.

If the activities carried out by the coal mine methane experts of the Commission reveal broader safety issues, they may communicate them to the International Labour Organization for consideration in its coal mine safety guidelines.

VI. United Nations Framework Classification for Fossil Energy and Mineral Reserves and Resources 2009

Objective

Classification of energy and mineral reserves and resources.

Areas of work

United Nations Framework Classification for Fossil Energy and Mineral Reserves and Resources 2009.

Concrete activities

Electronically disseminate the Framework to all major stakeholders by August 2013;

Finalize the generic specifications by December 2013 to make the Framework operational;

Develop ideas on how the Framework could apply to and integrate renewable energy by December 2013;

Develop proposals on how to conduct ongoing maintenance, technical advice, guidance and periodic updates to the Framework in order to ensure that the system remains relevant and useful and operates efficiently in the light of ongoing technological developments, including in the field of carbon capture and storage.

Guidelines on procedures and practices for Economic Commission for Europe bodies

I. General

1. The work of the Economic Commission for Europe, its subsidiary bodies and the secretariat is based on the Charter of the United Nations, the terms of reference of the Commission as endorsed by the Economic and Social Council, the rules of procedure of the Commission, and relevant United Nations rules and regulations, and is in line with those guidelines on procedures and practices for Commission bodies and the secretariat. It should be ensured, at all administrative levels of the secretariat and for all bodies of the Commission, that the work is carried out in a way that is member-driven, participatory, consensus-oriented, transparent, responsive, effective, efficient, results-oriented and accountable. The Commission and its subsidiary bodies should continue their existing practice of inviting, without a right to vote, other relevant stakeholders such as international organizations, private sector representatives, members of academia or representatives of civil society.

II. Rules of procedure

2. All Sectoral Committees and other subsidiary bodies may adopt their own rules of procedure on the basis of the rules of procedure of the Commission and, where applicable, the rules of procedure of the Economic and Social Council, taking into account these guidelines. Otherwise it will be presumed that they are governed by the rules of procedure of the Commission and, where applicable, the rules of procedure of the Council, and taking into account these guidelines mutatis mutandis.

III. Communication with the member States

3. The secretariat will continue to communicate with the member States in accordance with the official channels of communication. In cases where the secretariat communicates directly with national experts and counterparts, all correspondence will be copied to the permanent representations. Similarly, when the secretariat requires assistance in identifying national experts, it will communicate with the line ministries with a copy to the permanent representations.

IV. Accreditation process for participants/representatives to intergovernmental bodies

4. In meetings of subsidiary bodies, member States shall be represented by officially designated representatives whose names shall be communicated to the secretariat by the respective permanent representations and made available by the secretariat.

5. Officially designated representatives of the member States who work in the Geneva permanent representations and are duly authorized, including persons accredited to the Executive Committee, may take part in the meetings without any restrictions and participate in the discussion and in the decision-making process.

6. Officially designated representatives and other participants to all bodies of the Commission should be registered by the secretariat in the respective lists of participants, which will be communicated to the permanent representations.

V. Nomination and election of Chairs and other members of the Bureaux of intergovernmental bodies

7. Candidates for the Bureaux of the Sectoral Committees and other subsidiary bodies shall be nominated by member States based on the person's expertise, professionalism and expected support from the membership. The candidatures for election should be made available to all member States well in advance of the elections and preferably agreed upon.

8. The members of the Bureaux shall be elected by the respective body according to the relevant rules of procedure and following consultations among member States. Elected Bureaux members serve collectively in the interest of all member States. In the absence of rules of procedure of such body, the composition of the Bureau should take into account expertise, with due regard to as wide a geographical representation as possible; the term of office should be up to two years. Bureau members, including the Chair, can be re-elected for an additional term.

9. A Bureau may invite major stakeholders active in the area of the subprogramme to attend the meetings of the Bureau and contribute to its work, without the right to vote.

VI. Functions of the Bureaux

10. The key functions of the Bureaux are:

(a) To monitor and ensure implementation of the programme of work and of past decisions and recommendations during intersessional periods;

(b) To ensure effective and transparent preparations of forthcoming sessions and, for that purpose, to collectively outreach and consult with all member States, and other stakeholders as appropriate;

(c) To ensure effective conduct of business during the sessions in full compliance with their respective rules of procedure, taking into account these guidelines, and to facilitate reaching agreement on decisions and recommendations.

11. In addition to those tasks, the Bureaux help the consensus-building process by means of transparent and inclusive consultations on draft outcomes of the subsidiary bodies, including draft decisions, conclusions and recommendations that might be proposed by representatives of member States.

12. The Bureaux do not adopt the conclusions, recommendations, decisions and meeting reports of the subsidiary bodies.

13. In their activities, the Bureaux should coordinate with the secretariat on all relevant issues.

VII. Procedures for the adoption of decisions and reports of intergovernmental bodies

14. When taking a decision, the Commission and its subsidiary bodies shall continue their existing practice of making every effort to reach a consensus.

On draft decisions

15. Without prejudice to the rules of procedure of the Commission, any draft conclusions, recommendations or decisions which Commission bodies within their competence are expected to discuss and adopt at their meetings, should be prepared in line with items 9 to 12 and distributed by the secretariat to all participants and permanent representations in Geneva at least 10 days before the start of the meeting, for information, so as to allow participants to finalize their position during the meeting in order to adopt conclusions, recommendations and decisions. That does not prejudice the possibility for member States to propose additional agenda items, draft conclusions, recommendations or decisions at the meeting. Should the submission of draft proposals not be possible 10 days prior to a meeting, the prevailing rules of procedure will be used to determine how such draft proposals will be considered in order to not block the decision-making process.

16. The secretariat should make available only those draft conclusions, recommendations or decisions for discussion and adoption that are proposed by one or more member States.

17. The secretariat can make proposals on administrative issues within its prerogatives.

18. Draft conclusions, recommendations and decisions are formally adopted by the subsidiary body at the end of the session. Drafts should be projected on a screen, where possible, and read out by the Chair.

21. Requests the United Nations funds and programmes, and strongly encourages the specialized agencies, to further strengthen their participation in the resident coordinator system and the management and accountability system, including in the areas of information-sharing, performance assessment and the functional firewall;

26. Reaffirms the importance of the United Nations development system identifying and addressing challenges and bottlenecks at all levels that have prevented the United Nations country teams in “Delivering as one” countries from fully realizing efficiency gains under the “Delivering as one” approach, and requests the United Nations funds and programmes, and encourages the specialized agencies, to start reporting annually, as part of their regular reporting to the Council, on progress in this regard;

Expressing deep concern at the increasing challenges to Member States and to the United Nations humanitarian response capacity posed by the consequences of natural disasters, including those related to the continuing impact of climate change, by the ongoing impact of the financial and economic crisis and by the global food crisis and continuing food insecurity, and the potential of those challenges to increase the need for resources for disaster risk reduction, preparedness and humanitarian assistance, including in developing countries, including the steps taken in this respect, and emphasizes the need to continue to address issues of specific interest to each region, focusing on the challenges and obstacles that each may be facing with regard to the implementation of all goals and principles established by the World Summit, with particular attention to information and communications technology for development;

4. Reiterates the importance of maintaining a process of coordinating the multi-stakeholder implementation of the outcomes of the World Summit through effective tools, with the goal of exchanging information among action line facilitators, identifying issues that need improvement and discussing the modalities of reporting on the overall implementation process, encourages all stakeholders to continue to contribute information to the stocktaking database maintained by the International Telecommunication Union on the implementation of the goals established by the World Summit, and invites United Nations entities to update information on their initiatives in the stocktaking database;

5. Highlights the urgent need for the incorporation of the recommendations contained in the outcome documents of the World Summit in the revised guidelines for United Nations country teams on preparing the common country assessments and United Nations Development Assistance Frameworks, including the addition of an information and communications technology for development component;

6. Recalls General Assembly resolution 60/252 of 27 March 2006, in which the Assembly requested the Council to oversee the system-wide follow-up to the Geneva and Tunis outcomes of the World Summit and, to that end, requested the Council, at its substantive session of 2006, to review the mandate, agenda and composition of the Commission, including considering strengthening the Commission, taking into account the multi-stakeholder approach;

7. Notes with satisfaction the holding in Geneva, from 13 to 17 May 2013, of the World Summit on the Information Society Forum 2013, organized by the International Telecommunication Union, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development and the United Nations Development Programme, as a multi-stakeholder platform for the coordination of implementation of the outcomes of the World Summit and to facilitate the implementation of the World Summit action lines;

8. Calls upon all States, in building the information society, to take steps to avoid and to refrain from taking any unilateral measure not in accordance with international law and the Charter of the United Nations that impedes the full achievement of economic and social development by the population of the affected countries and that hinders their well-being;

9. Welcomes the progress highlighted in the report of the Secretary-General on the progress made in the implementation of and follow-up to the outcomes of the World Summit, in particular the fact that the rapid growth in access to mobile telephony since 2005 has meant that more than half of the world's inhabitants have access to information and communications technologies within their reach, in line with one of the World Summit targets, the value of this progress being enhanced by the advent of new services and applications, including m-health, m-agriculture, mobile transactions, m-government, e-government, e-business and development services, which offer great potential for the development of the information society;

10. Notes with great concern that many developing countries lack affordable access to information and communications technologies and that, for the majority of the poor, the promise of science and technology, including information and communications technologies, remains unfulfilled, and emphasizes the need to effectively harness technology, including information and communications technologies, to bridge the digital divide;

11. Recognizes that information and communications technologies present new opportunities and challenges and that there is a pressing need to address the major impediments that developing countries face in accessing the new technologies, such as an appropriate enabling environment, sufficient resources, infrastructure, education, capacity, investment and connectivity, as well as issues related to technology ownership, standards and flows, and in this regard calls upon all stakeholders to provide adequate resources, enhanced capacity-building and transfer of technology and knowledge to developing countries, particularly the least developed countries;

12. Also recognizes the rapid growth in broadband access networks, especially in developed countries, and notes with concern that there is a growing digital divide in the availability, affordability, quality of access and use of broadband between high-income countries and other regions, with the least developed countries and Africa as a continent lagging behind the rest of the world;

13. Further recognizes that the transition to a mobile-led communications environment is leading to significant changes in operators' business models and that it requires significant rethinking of the ways in which individuals and communities make use of networks and devices, of government strategies and of ways in which communications networks can be used to achieve development objectives;

14. Recognizes that, even with all the developments and the improvement observed in some respects, in numerous developing countries information and communications technologies and their applications are still not available to or affordable for the majority of people, particularly those living in rural areas;

15. Also recognizes that the number of Internet users is growing and that in some instances the digital divide is also changing in character from one based on whether access is available to one based on the quality of access, information and skills that users can obtain and the value that they can derive from it, and recognizes in this regard that there is a need to prioritize the use of information and communications technologies through innovative approaches, including multi-stakeholder approaches, within national and regional development strategies;

16. Takes note of the global report of the Broadband Commission for Digital Development on the state of broadband in 2012 and achieving digital inclusion for all, and notes with interest the continuous efforts of the Broadband Commission in promoting high-level advocacy for the establishment of an enabling environment for broadband connectivity, in particular through national broadband plans and public-private partnerships for ensuring that the development agenda challenges are met with appropriate impact and in conjunction with all stakeholders;

17. Notes that, while a solid foundation for capacity-building in information and communications technology has been laid in many areas with regard to building the information society, there is still a need for continuing efforts to address the ongoing challenges, especially for developing countries and the least developed countries, and draws attention to the positive impact of broadened capacity development that involves institutions, organizations and entities dealing with information and communications technologies and Internet governance issues;

18. Recognizes the need to focus on capacity development policies and sustainable support to further enhance the impact of activities and initiatives at the national and local levels aimed at providing advice, services and support with a view to building an inclusive, people-centred and development-oriented information society;

19. Notes that topics continue to emerge, such as e-environmental applications and the contribution of information and communications technologies to early warning, mitigating climate change, social networking, virtualization and cloud computing and services, mobile Internet and mobile-based services, the protection of online privacy and the empowerment and protection, especially against cyberexploitation and abuse, of vulnerable groups of society, in particular children and young people;

20. Reiterates the importance of information and communications technology indicators as a monitoring and evaluation tool for measuring the digital divide among countries and within societies and in informing decision makers when formulating policies and strategies for social, cultural and economic development, and emphasizes that the standardization and harmonization of reliable and regularly updated indicators capturing the performance, efficiency, affordability and quality of goods and services is essential for implementing information and communications technology policies;

Internet governance

21. Reaffirms that the outcomes of the World Summit related to Internet governance, namely, the process towards enhanced cooperation and the convening of the Internet Governance Forum, are to be pursued by the Secretary-General through two distinct processes, and recognizes that the two processes may be complementary;

22. Also reaffirms paragraphs 34 to 37 and 67 to 72 of the Tunis Agenda for the Information Society;<sup>26</sup>

Enhanced cooperation

23. Recognizes the importance of enhanced cooperation in the future, to enable Governments, on an equal footing, to carry out their roles and responsibilities in international public policy issues pertaining to the Internet, but not in the day-to-day technical and operational matters that do not impact on international public policy issues;

24. Also recognizes that the process towards enhanced cooperation, started by the Secretary-General, involving all relevant organizations by the end of the first quarter of 2006, will involve all stakeholders in their respective roles, will proceed as quickly as possible, consistent with legal process, and will be responsive to innovation; that relevant organizations should commence a process towards enhanced cooperation involving all stakeholders, proceeding as quickly as possible and being responsive to innovation; and that the same relevant organizations shall be requested to provide annual performance reports;

25. Recalls that, in its resolution 67/195, the General Assembly invited the Chair of the Commission on Science and Technology for Development to establish a working group on enhanced cooperation to examine the mandate of the World Summit regarding enhanced cooperation as contained in the Tunis Agenda, through seeking, compiling and reviewing inputs from all Member States and all other stakeholders, and to make recommendations on how to fully implement that mandate, and requested the working group to report to the Commission at its seventeenth session, in 2014, as an input to the overall review of the outcomes of the World Summit;

26. Also recalls that, in its resolution 67/195, the General Assembly requested the Chair of the Commission to ensure that the working group on enhanced cooperation has balanced representation between Governments, from the five regional groups of the Commission, and invitees from all other stakeholders, namely, the private sector, civil society, technical and academic communities and intergovernmental and international organizations, drawn equally from developing and developed countries;

27. Notes the conclusion of the first meeting of the Working Group on Enhanced Cooperation, convened by the Chair of the Working Group in Geneva on 30 and 31 May 2013, also notes that a questionnaire will be issued to gather substantive inputs from all stakeholders and that the next meeting will be held from 6 to 8 November 2013, and takes note of the report on the progress made in that regard;

Internet Governance Forum

28. Recognizes the importance of the Internet Governance Forum and its mandate as a forum for multi-stakeholder dialogue on various matters, as reflected in paragraph 72 of the Tunis Agenda, including discussion on public policy issues related to key elements of Internet governance;

29. Also recognizes that national and regional Internet Governance Forum initiatives have emerged, taking place in all regions and addressing Internet governance issues of relevance and priority to the organizing country or region;

30. Recalls General Assembly resolution 67/195, in which the Assembly requested the Secretary-General to submit, as part of his annual reporting on the progress made in the implementation of and follow-up to the outcomes of the World Summit, information on the progress made in the implementation of the recommendations contained in the report of the Working Group on Improvements to the Internet Governance Forum of the Commission,<sup>27</sup> in particular on enhancing participation of developing countries;

Welcoming the work of the Commission on its two current priority themes, “Science, technology and innovation for sustainable cities and peri-urban communities” and “Internet broadband for an inclusive digital society”,

Recognizing that collaborative learning, cooperation and exchange of best practices are central to innovation, technology transfer and entrepreneurship and involve absorptive and productive capacity-building at the individual and the organizational levels,

Recognizing also that, although rapid industrialization in developing countries is increasing the standard of living for many by offering employment opportunities and services for a better life, it has not been inclusive and has created several cross-sectoral challenges for urban governance, including imbalances in the quality of life and other social issues,

Noting that cities are centres of innovation and that the growth and development of countries as a whole will depend largely on the success, habitability and sustainability of their cities,

Noting also that the challenges faced by cities and peri-urban communities in developing countries, in particular least developed countries and small island States, differ widely from those of developed countries and require special analysis in the context of science, technology and innovation interventions,

Recognizing that science, technology and innovation can help to achieve sustainable urban development through the application of high, low, new and emerging technologies, taking into account innovative approaches to urban planning and institutional innovation, while accounting for the economic, environmental, cultural and social dimensions of urbanization,

Recognizing also that science, technology and innovation are necessary for sustainable urban development, to provide affordable solutions to mitigate the impact of climate change on vulnerable urban populations,

Recognizing further the critical role of institutional reforms, financing and public-private partnerships, in addition to science, technology and innovation, in finding solutions to challenges related to sustainable urbanization,

Noting that architecture and engineering go hand in hand when planning, designing, building, retrofitting and maintaining cities, are holistic, inclusive and mindful of specific requirements of all people, male and female, and ultimately provide places where people can live comfortably,

Noting also the activities of Study Group 5 of the International Telecommunication Union to address environmental dimensions of information and communications technologies in cities and the establishment, by the International Telecommunication Union, of the Focus Group on Smart Sustainable Cities to define the role of information and communications technologies in cities that aim to be environmentally sustainable,

Noting further that the global report of the Broadband Commission for Digital Development on the state of broadband in 2012 and achieving digital inclusion for all is of relevance to sustainable cities and peri-urban communities,

Decides to make the following recommendations for consideration by national Governments, the Commission on Science and Technology for Development and the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development:

(a) Governments, individually and collectively, are encouraged to take into account the findings of the Commission and to consider taking the following actions:

- (i) Establish governance mechanisms that facilitate innovative, integrated and multidisciplinary urban and peri-urban community planning, with urban projects to include targeted end users and participation from relevant departments responsible for spatial planning, housing, water supply, energy supply, mobility, communications, health and sanitation, education and skills training, waste management, environmental protection, security and disaster resilience;
- (ii) Put in place regulatory frameworks, at the national, regional and local levels, that mainstream issues of sustainability into urban projects and support business models that scale innovative solutions;
- (iii) Invite local governments to establish public-private partnerships for mutual benefit, including to support higher education and vocational training in skills needed for an augmented urban workforce;

  - (viii) Establish regional expansion plans that take into account the estimated demand for basic services and infrastructure of growing populations in cities and surrounding peri-urban and rural zones;
  - (ix) Promote the adoption of urban agriculture technologies as a means to supplement income and food supply;
  - (x) Also promote technologies and business models that scale affordable, resource-efficient housing for lower-income groups living in slums, as well as new inhabitants of urban areas;
  - (xi) Explore potential bilateral, regional and multilateral cooperation, especially between municipalities and other types of local government, on improving the resilience of cities and peri-urban areas against natural disasters and the impacts of climate change, for example, with the help of early warning systems;
- (b) The Commission and the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development are encouraged:
- (i) With respect to the Commission, to continue its role as a torch-bearer for innovation, to provide high-level advice to the Economic and Social Council and the General Assembly on relevant science, technology and engineering for innovation issues, to raise awareness among policymakers about the process of innovation and to identify particular opportunities for developing countries to benefit from such innovation, with special attention being placed on new trends in innovation that can offer novel possibilities for developing countries, especially for local governments, small and medium enterprises and individual entrepreneurs;
  - (ii) To provide a forum for building repositories of best practices, successful local innovation models, case studies and experience on the use of science, technology and engineering for innovation, in symbiotic relationship with information and communications technologies, for sustainability, management of services, and solutions for challenges in key urban sectors in developing countries, considering the special requirements of least developed countries and small island States;
  - (iii) To raise awareness among urban policymakers about the role of science, technology and engineering for innovation, and of information and communications technologies, in facilitating integrated regional planning, spatial design, sustainable resource consumption, and efficient management of services in cities and peri-urban communities, in a gender-sensitive manner;
  - (iv) To establish a systematic approach for strategy development related to science, technology and engineering for innovation, including harmonized norms and definitions;
  - (v) With respect to the Commission and the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, to enhance treatment of information and communications technologies as an integral, empowering asset for science, technology and engineering for innovation within science, technology and innovation policy reviews;
  - (vi) To proactively seek funding for the expansion of science, technology and innovation policy reviews and their implementation in close cooperation with United Nations-related agencies and international organizations;
  - (vii) To plan for periodic updates on progress made in countries for which science, technology and innovation policy reviews have been performed and to invite those countries to report to the Commission on progress made, lessons learned and challenges encountered in implementation of recommendations;

(viii) To encourage the Gender Advisory Board of the Commission to provide inputs to the policy deliberations and documentation of the Commission, to report on progress at the annual sessions of the Commission and to better integrate gender perspectives into science, technology and innovation policy reviews, where appropriate;

(ix) To highlight the importance of the work of the Commission related to the implementation of and follow-up to the areas of science, technology and innovation and information and communications technologies related to the Millennium Development Goals and in the post-2015 development agenda, with the Chair of the Commission to report to appropriate Council reviews and meetings, including those related to the Millennium Development Goals review process and the post-2015 development agenda-setting;

(c) The international community is encouraged:

(i) To explore innovative financing models as a means to facilitate investments in replicating science, technology and innovation-based solutions to pressing societal challenges and infrastructural needs for sustainable development, including the management of cities and peri-urban communities in developing countries;

(ii) To establish science, technology and innovation platforms such as open repositories to share and access knowledge, information, experiences and best practices involving technology developments that address the particular urbanization needs and challenges of developing countries, especially least developed countries and small island States;

(iii) To harness information and communications technologies and related social and scientific networks to foster “brain circulation” and the global knowledge society;

(iv) To facilitate university-to-university collaborations involving students and faculty exchanges, two-way mobility and cooperative research aimed primarily at increasing science, technology and innovation capacities and the cross-border and transregional circulation of knowledge for sustainable development;

(v) To nurture joint collaborations on capacity-building of science, technology and innovation human resources and global research infrastructure.

<sup>70</sup> These include General Assembly resolution 64/267 on World Statistics Day and Economic and Social Council resolutions 2005/13 on the 2010 World Population and Housing Census Programme and 2006/6 on strengthening statistical capacity.

To this end, official statistics that meet the test of practical utility are to be compiled and made available on an impartial basis by official statistical agencies to honour citizens' entitlement to public information.

Principle 2. To retain trust in official statistics, the statistical agencies need to decide according to strictly professional considerations, including scientific principles and professional ethics, on the methods and procedures for the collection, processing, storage and presentation of statistical data.

Principle 3. To facilitate a correct interpretation of the data, the statistical agencies are to present information according to scientific standards on the sources, methods and procedures of the statistics.

Principle 4. The statistical agencies are entitled to comment on erroneous interpretation and misuse of statistics.

Principle 5. Data for statistical purposes may be drawn from all types of sources, be they statistical surveys or administrative records. Statistical agencies are to choose the source with regard to quality, timeliness, costs and the burden on respondents.

Principle 6. Individual data collected by statistical agencies for statistical compilation, whether they refer to natural or legal persons, are to be strictly confidential and used exclusively for statistical purposes.

Principle 7. The laws, regulations and measures under which the statistical systems operate are to be made public.

Principle 8. Coordination among statistical agencies within countries is essential to achieve consistency and efficiency in the statistical system.

Principle 9. The use by statistical agencies in each country of international concepts, classifications and methods promotes the consistency and efficiency of statistical systems at all official levels.

Principle 10. Bilateral and multilateral cooperation in statistics contributes to the improvement of systems of official statistics in all countries.

21. Underlines the importance for African Governments to build the productive capacity of agriculture, as a top priority, in order to increase rural incomes and ensure access to food for net food buyers, and stresses that greater efforts should be made to promote and implement sustainable agriculture, increase access for smallholder farmers, in particular women, to necessary agricultural resources and improve access to infrastructure, information and markets, and that, furthermore, efforts should be made to promote small and medium-sized enterprises that contribute to job growth and increase incomes along the agricultural value stream;

22. Urges Governments, within the framework of the Comprehensive Africa Agriculture Development Programme, to expand investment financing to agriculture to at least 10 per cent of the annual budget of the national public sector while at the same time ensuring necessary action in policy and institutional reforms for enhanced performance of the agriculture industry and systems;

Recalling earlier operational frameworks, such as the World Programme of Action concerning Disabled Persons<sup>111</sup> and the Standard Rules on the Equalization of Opportunities for Persons with Disabilities,<sup>112</sup> in which persons with disabilities are recognized as both development agents and beneficiaries in all aspects of development, <sup>115</sup> In General Assembly resolution 65/186 it is stated that persons with disabilities make up an estimated 10 per cent of the world’s population, of whom 80 per cent live in developing countries. The figure of 80 per cent, which originated from the United Nations Development Programme, was quoted in a discussion paper entitled “Disability and poverty: a survey of World Bank poverty assessments and implications” (Jeanine Braithwaite and Daniel Mont, SP discussion paper No. 0805, World Bank, February 2008).

Appendix

International Guiding Principles on Alternative Development

A. General provisions

1. Alternative development policies are an important component of enhancing development in States affected by, or in some cases at risk of, the illicit cultivation of crops used for illicit drug production and manufacture, and play an important role in national, regional and international development policies and in comprehensive policies of poverty reduction and cooperation.
2. Alternative development, as an integral component of policies and programmes for reducing drug production, is an important, viable and sustainable option for preventing, eliminating or significantly and measurably reducing the illicit cultivation of crops used for the production and manufacture of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances through tackling poverty and providing livelihood opportunities.
3. Alternative development, including in some cases preventive alternative development, constitutes an international policy founded on the principle of shared and common responsibility that seeks to discourage the cultivation of illicit crops in countries affected by that problem and in those countries which are vulnerable to illicit activities.
4. Alternative development, which includes, as appropriate, preventive alternative development strategies and programmes, should be formulated and implemented by taking into account the vulnerability and specific needs of the communities and groups affected by illicit cultivation of crops used for drug production and manufacture, within the broader framework of national policies.
5. Effective alternative development strategies and programmes require, as appropriate, the strengthening of relevant governmental institutions at the national, regional and local levels. Public policies should be supported to the extent possible by, inter alia, strengthening legal frameworks, involving local communities and relevant organizations, identifying and providing adequate financial support, technical assistance and increased investment, and recognizing and enforcing property rights, including access to land.
6. Local communities and relevant organizations should be involved in the design, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of all alternative development programmes in order to truly reflect the needs of targeted communities.
7. Civil society can contribute significantly to the formulation of effective and sustainable alternative development programmes, and its active participation should therefore be encouraged in all phases of alternative development programmes.
8. An integrated and complementary approach to alternative development programmes and strategies is crucial and should be implemented in concert with broader drug control policies, including demand reduction, law enforcement, illicit crop elimination and awareness-raising, taking into account demographic, cultural, social and geographic considerations, as appropriate, and in line with the three drug control conventions.
9. States should ensure the proper and coordinated sequencing of development interventions when designing alternative development programmes, and in that regard should take into account issues related to the establishment of agreements and viable partnerships with small producers, favourable climatic conditions, strong political support and adequate market access.

10. Alternative development programmes in the areas where crops are cultivated for illicit drug production and manufacture should be undertaken with a clear understanding of the overall objectives, as appropriate, of eliminating or significantly and measurably reducing the supply of drugs while promoting comprehensive development and social inclusion, alleviating poverty and strengthening social development, the rule of law, security and stability at the country and regional levels, taking into account the promotion and protection of human rights.
11. Alternative development programmes should include measures to protect the environment at the local level, according to national and international law and policies, through the provision of incentives for conservation, proper education and awareness programmes so that the local communities can improve and preserve their livelihoods and mitigate negative environmental impacts.
12. Alternative development programmes, including, as appropriate, preventive alternative development programmes, should be designed to address subregional and regional needs and should be integrated, when circumstances require, into broader regional, subregional and bilateral treaties and arrangements.
13. International cooperation, coordination and stakeholder ownership are essential for the successful implementation and sustainability of alternative development programmes. Alternative development should be considered by all parties involved as a long-term commitment whose results may require time to attain.
14. International cooperation programmes aimed at alternative development should take into account the experiences of different countries, including with regard to South-South cooperation, should draw on best practices and lessons learned in alternative development programmes and projects and should take into account the available financial and technical support provided by donors.
15. Alternative development policies, as one of the tools available in the fight against the world drug problem, should be implemented alongside efforts made by States to strengthen the rule of law and promote health, safety and security so as to ensure a comprehensive approach to tackling the challenges that may be posed by the possible links between drug trafficking, corruption and different forms of organized crime and, in some cases, terrorism.
16. Alternative development can be an integral element of an overall development strategy and should complement economic efforts in the fight against poverty.
17. The impact of alternative development programmes should be assessed by taking into account their contribution to the control of illicit crop cultivation, including the eradication of such crops, and through estimates based on human development indices, socioeconomic and environmental indicators and impartial and accurate evaluations.

B. Actions and implementation measures

18. States Members of the United Nations, international organizations, regional organizations, development agencies, donors and international financial institutions, as well as civil society, should apply their utmost efforts, as appropriate:
  - (a) To target illicit cultivation and production of crops used for the production and manufacture of illicit drugs, and address related factors, by alleviating poverty, by strengthening the rule of law and institutional frameworks, as appropriate, and by promoting sustainable development aimed at enhancing the welfare of the population;
  - (b) To build and maintain confidence, dialogue and cooperation with and between stakeholders, from people at the community level and local authorities to leaders at the national and regional levels, so as to ensure participation and ownership for long-term sustainability;
  - (c) To implement long-term projects and programmes to provide opportunities to fight poverty, diversify livelihoods and strengthen development, institutional frameworks and the rule of law;
  - (d) To develop policies and programmes that take into account an evidence- and science-based assessment of the potential impact of alternative development on the illicit cultivation of crops used for the illicit production and manufacture of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, and on rural and socioeconomic development, including the gender dimension related thereto, and the environment;

(e) To take into account the need to promote the diversification of licit crops cultivated and licit economic activities undertaken when implementing alternative development programmes;

(f) Owing to the transnational nature of drug-related crimes, to encourage and support coordinated cross-border collaboration and alternative development activities, where appropriate and feasible, with the support of international cooperation;

(g) To address with specific measures the situation of women, children, youth and other high-risk populations, including, in some cases, dependent drug users, owing to their vulnerability and exploitation in the illicit drug economy;

(h) To provide, within a holistic and integrated development approach, essential basic services and legal livelihood opportunities to the communities affected by, or in some cases vulnerable to, illicit crop cultivation;

(i) To recognize that alternative development, including, as appropriate, preventive alternative development, requires the implementation of articulated short-, medium- and long-term plans and actions from all relevant stakeholders to promote positive and sustainable socioeconomic changes in the affected and, in some cases, vulnerable areas;

(j) To promote coordination and encourage alternative development programmes which contain complementary measures at the local, regional and national levels;

(k) To ensure, when considering crop control measures, that small-farmer households have opportunities for viable and sustainable licit livelihoods so that the measures may be properly sequenced in a sustainable fashion and appropriately coordinated, taking into account the circumstances of the region, country or area concerned;

(l) To ensure that programmes or projects related to alternative development effectively discourage the illicit cultivation of crops used for the illicit production and manufacture of drugs;

(m) To also ensure that drug control programmes are implemented in a comprehensive and balanced manner, so as to avoid the shifting of illicit crop cultivation domestically, as well as from one country or region to another;

(n) To respect the legitimate interests and specific needs of the local affected and, in some cases, vulnerable population when designing and implementing alternative development programmes;

(o) To address basic human needs, in full conformity with the three drug conventions and relevant human rights instruments, in order to promote the welfare of targeted communities;

(p) To integrate those communities which are in marginalized regions into the economic and political mainstream; as appropriate, such integration should involve supporting access to roads, schools, primary health-care services, electricity and other services and infrastructure;

(q) To promote increased coordination and cooperation between relevant governmental agencies, when appropriate, and adopt an integrated approach to drug control that involves all relevant stakeholders;

(r) To ensure that the implementation of alternative development programmes is conducted in a manner that helps to enhance synergy and confidence among national Governments, regional authorities and local administrations and communities with regard to building local ownership and coordination and cooperation;

(s) To promote the strengthening of the justice and security sectors and social development, as well as institutional legal frameworks and anti-corruption measures, in a manner conducive to enhancing alternative development efforts;

(t) To promote governance capabilities, when appropriate, in order to strengthen the rule of law, including at the local level;

(u) To ensure that measures aimed at strengthening the rule of law are included in development-oriented drug control policies in order to, inter alia, support farmers in their efforts to stop, and in some cases prevent, the cultivation of illicit crops;

(v) To apply, in addition to estimates of illicit cultivation and other illicit activities related to the world drug problem, indicators related to human development, socioeconomic conditions, rural development and the alleviation of poverty, as well as institutional and environmental indicators, when assessing alternative development programmes in order to ensure that the outcomes are in line with national and international development objectives, including the Millennium Development Goals, and that they reflect accountable use of donor funds and truly benefit the affected communities;

(w) To utilize objective impact evaluations that examine a broad range of social, economic and environmental factors and incorporate the lessons learned from these evaluations in future projects to ensure that the design and implementation of alternative development programmes are based on a reliable and evidence-based evaluation and thorough analysis of local socioeconomic, geographical and cultural realities, as well as the assessment of benefits and risks;

(x) To undertake further research and strengthen data collection with a view to providing a basis for more effective and evidence-based alternative development programmes, as well as conduct research to assess the factors leading to the illicit cultivation of drug crops used for the production and manufacture of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances;

(y) To utilize data and conduct analysis to identify areas, communities and affected populations that are vulnerable to illicit cultivation and its related illicit activities, and tailor the implementation of programmes and projects to address identified needs;

(z) To encourage partners in cross-border alternative development activities to consider measures to support the implementation of alternative development strategies and programmes, which may include special preferential policies, protection of property rights and facilitation of the import and export of products, in accordance with relevant international law, including trade agreements;

(aa) To enhance technical support, including exchange of expertise, best practices and resources, while seeking to secure long-term flexible funding for alternative development programmes in order to ensure their sustainability;

(bb) To consider the possibility of creating an international fund for alternative development programmes that could be used to face major emergency situations, in order to ensure continuity;

(cc) To recognize that international cooperation resources for the implementation of alternative development programmes should be used in consultation and in coordination with partner countries to support joint efforts to eliminate, reduce and, in some cases, prevent the cultivation of illicit crops through reducing poverty and enhancing rural development in areas affected by, or in some cases vulnerable to, illicit cultivation and engaging in effective law enforcement measures;

(dd) To recognize that long-term cooperation, coordination and the commitment of multilevel and multisectoral stakeholders are essential to a holistic and integrated approach to the effectiveness and sustainability of alternative development programmes;

(ee) To consider voluntary and pragmatic measures in appropriate forums, with a view to enabling alternative development products to gain easier access to international markets, in accordance with applicable multilateral trade rules and treaties and taking into consideration the ongoing negotiation processes in the framework of the World Trade Organization; these might include promoting cost-effective marketing regimes in the field of alternative development, including, as appropriate, preventive alternative development, such as a global stamp for products stemming from alternative development programmes and voluntary certification to support the sustainability of alternative development products;

(gg) To combine local wisdom, indigenous knowledge, public-private partnerships and available resources to promote, inter alia, a legal market-driven product development approach when applicable, capacity-building, skills training of the involved population, effective management and the entrepreneurial spirit, in order to support the creation of internal and sustainable commercial systems and a viable value chain at the local level, when applicable;

(hh) To support policies conducive to cooperation with the international financial institutions and, where appropriate, private sector involvement and investment to help to ensure long-term sustainability, including through the use of public-private partnerships, and to encourage alternative development in rural associations or cooperatives and support their management capacity, in order to maximize value from primary production and to ensure the integration of areas affected by, or in some cases vulnerable to, illicit cultivation into national, regional and, as appropriate, international markets;
