"Recalling its resolutions 32/158 of 19 December 1977 adopting the Report of the United Nations Water Conference and approving the Mar del Plata Action Plan 1/ on drinking water supply and sanitation, and other agreements reached at the Conference, 35/18 of 10 November 1980 proclaiming the period 1981-1990 as the International Drinking Water and Sanitation Decade, and 40/171 of 17 December 1985 containing a mid-term review of the Decade,

"Bearing in mind that the Second United Nations Conference on the Least Developed Countries (3-14 September 1990) and the World Summit for Children (29-30 September 1990) among others, reaffirmed the goals and objectives of providing safe water and sanitation for all,

"Deeply concerned that, notwithstanding the achievements attained during the International Drinking Water Supply and Sanitation Decade, the current rate of progress remains slow, owing to economic problems facing developing countries, and would leave a very significant number of poor people in urban and rural areas without suitable services in water and sanitation by the year 2000,

"Recognizing that the 1990s will require an intensification of national efforts and international co-operation to provide adequate and safe drinking water and sanitation for all by the end of the century,

"1. Takes note with appreciation of the report of the Secretary-General on the achievements of the International Drinking Water Supply and Sanitation Decade; 2/

"2. Welcomes the New Delhi Statement 3/ emanating from the Global Consultation on Safe Water and Sanitation for the 1990s, held in New Delhi from 10 to 14 September 1990, hosted by the Government of India and organized by the United Nations Development Programme;

"2/ A/45/327.

"3/ A/C.2/45/2, annex.

"4. Urges Governments, in their efforts to implement the recommendations contained in the report of the Secretary-General and in the New Delhi Statement, to stress the following important objectives:

"(a) To assign greater priority to the allocation of development financing to water supply and sanitation by seeking a better integration of the sector within the overall development planning process;

"(b) To implement programmes aimed at expanding service coverage within the framework of integrated water resources and environmental planning and management, in the context of sustainable national social and economic plans and urban and rural development policies;

"(c) To mobilize additional funds from existing and new sources, including Governments and donors;

"(d) To assess the current status of institutions with a view to strengthening national capacities to plan and manage water supply and environmental sanitation programmes;

"(e) To increase their efforts to improve the efficiency and use of available financial resources by, inter alia, continuing to expand the use of cost-effective appropriate technologies, and to intensify South-South co-operation in that regard;

"5. Calls upon the United Nations system and other relevant organizations, in that regard, to increase their financial and technical support to the national endeavours of developing countries;

"6. Urges donor Governments and multilateral financial and developmental institutions to give favourable consideration to requests for grants and concessional financing arrangements to support water and sanitation programmes in developing countries;

"7. Emphasizes the importance of intensifying the co-ordination of national activities undertaken with the assistance of different agencies in the field of water supply and sanitation through the Steering Committee for Co-operative Action for the International Drinking Water Supply and Sanitation Decade and the Water and Sanitation Collaborative Council;

"8. Decides to review at its fiftieth regular session the progress made during the first half of the 1990s, and requests the Secretary-General to submit a report, through the Economic and Social Council, on further progress achieved towards the ultimate goal of providing safe water and sanitation for all, including proposals for action that are needed for the remainder of the Decade."

"DEFINITIONS AND SCOPE OF APPLICATION

"1. (a) This Code is universally applicable to enterprises, irrespective of their country of origin and their ownership, including private, public or mixed, comprising entities in two or more countries, regardless of the legal form and fields of activity of these entities, which operate under a system of decision-making, permitting coherent policies and a common strategy through one or more decision-making centres, in which the entities are so linked, by ownership or otherwise, that one or more of them may be able to exercise a significant influence over the activities of others and, in particular, to share knowledge, resources and responsibilities with the others. Such enterprises are referred to in this Code as transnational corporations.

"(b) The term 'entities' in the Code refers to both parent entities - that is, entities which are the main source of influence over others - and other entities, unless otherwise specified in the Code.

"(c) The term 'transnational corporation' in the Code refers to the enterprise as a whole or its various entities.

"(d) The term 'home country' means the country in which the parent entity is located. The term 'host country' means a country other than the home country in which an entity other than the parent entity is located.

"(e) The term 'country in which a transnational corporation operates' refers to a home or host country in which an entity of a transnational corporation conducts operations.

"2. For the application of this Code, it is irrelevant whether or not enterprises as described in paragraph 1 (a) above are referred to in any country as transnational corporations.

"3. The Code is universally applicable in all States, regardless of their political and economic systems or their level of development.

"4. The provisions of the Code addressed to transnational corporations reflect good practice for all enterprises. Subject to the provisions of paragraph 52, wherever the provisions of the Code are relevant to both, transnational corporations and domestic enterprises shall be subject to the same expectations with regard to their conduct.

"5. Subject to the relevant constitutions, charters or other fundamental laws of the regional groupings of States concerned, any reference in this Code to States, countries or Governments, also includes regional groupings of States, to the extent that the provisions of this Code relate to matters within these groupings' own competence, with respect to such competence.

"6. In their interpretation and application the provisions of this Code are interrelated and each provision should be construed in the context of the other provisions.

I. Draft resolutions A/C.2/45/L.25 and L.51

42. At the 28th meeting, on 31 October, the representative of Sweden, introduced a draft resolution (A/C.2/45/L.25) entitled "Prevention and control of acquired immunodeficiency syndrome (AIDS)", on behalf of Australia, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Guatemala, Iceland, Italy, Japan, Lesotho, Mexico, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Spain, Sweden, Thailand, Trinidad and Tobago, Uganda, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, Zaire and Zambia, subsequently joined by Bulgaria, Canada, Colombia, Costa Rica, Ireland, Liechtenstein, Luxembourg, Turkey and the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic. The draft resolution read as follows:

"The General Assembly,

"Recalling its resolution 44/233 of 22 December 1989, Economic and Social Council resolution 1990/86 of 27 July 1990 and relevant resolutions of the World Health Assembly and other organizations of the United Nations system,

"Taking note of the Paris Declaration on Women, Children and the Acquired Immunodeficiency Syndrome (AIDS), adopted on 30 November 1989, the discussions of the Sixth International Conference on AIDS held in San Francisco, United States of America, from 20-24 June 1990, the Fifth International Conference on Aids and Associated Cancer, held at Kinshasa, Zaire, from 10-12 October 1990 and the declaration adopted by the World Summit for Children on 30 September 1990,

"Noting with appreciation the established leadership and co-ordinating role of the World Health Organization, and the efforts of other organizations of the United Nations system, Governments, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations and the public and private sectors, in combating the spread of AIDS,

"Stressing the need to take full advantage of the World Health Organization/United Nations Development Programme Alliance to Combat AIDS and to strengthen its role in facilitating implementation at the country level of the global strategy for the prevention and control of AIDS,

"Acknowledging that AIDS can have severe social and economic consequences, particularly in countries with a high incidence of infection from the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), overburdened public health services and limited financial, developmental and skilled labour resources,

"Concerned that AIDS has become a major cause of death for women aged 20-40 in major cities in the Americas, Western Europe and sub-Saharan Africa, that over 3 million women of child-bearing age have been infected with HIV, that the World Health Organization estimates that during the 1990s a cumulative figure of over 25-30 million people is expected to be infected with AIDS, that over 10 million infants and children will become infected with HIV, the vast majority of whom will have died by the year 2000 and that 10 million

uninfected children under the age of 10 years will be orphaned during the 1990s as a consequence of AIDS,

"Considering that the behaviour and life-style practices that place individuals at risk of HIV infection are likely to be established in adolescence or young adulthood and that the relatively slow progression from HIV infection to AIDS suggests that many HIV-infected individuals over 25 years acquired the infection in adolescence or young adulthood,

"Stressing therefore the importance of information, sex education and other support targeted to young people to encourage behavioural change and to enable them to remain uninfected,

"Emphasizing the crucial importance of a supportive socio-economic environment to ensure the effective implementation of national AIDS prevention programmes and the humane care of affected persons,

"Reiterating the need to respect the human rights and dignity of all people, including those affected by HIV, their families and those with whom they live,

"1. Takes note of the report of the Director-General of the World Health Organization on the global strategy for the prevention and control of AIDS; 1/

"2. Requests the Secretary-General, in view of the serious implications of the AIDS pandemic for development in general in many developing countries, to intensify his efforts, in collaboration with the Director-General of the World Health Organization, the Administrator of the United Nations Development Programme, the heads of the World Bank, the United Nations Population Fund and the United Nations Children's Fund and all other relevant organizations of the United Nations system, to mobilize the cumulative experience of the United Nations system in the strategic planning of multi-sectoral projects and the raising of funds in support of those countries requesting assistance;

"3. Further urges Member States to increase their efforts in combating AIDS and to encourage national and international efforts to prevent the further spread of AIDS;

"4. Calls upon governmental, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations and the public and private sectors to continue paying particular attention to the needs of women, young people and children and to co-ordinate their efforts with those of the World Health Organization for the implementation of the global strategy for the prevention and control of AIDS;

"5. Requests the Secretary-General to invite the Director-General of the World Health Organization, in close collaboration with the other organizations of the United Nations system and without prejudice to ongoing priorities and programmes, to continue to advance the global strategy for the prevention and control of AIDS, and specifically:

"1/ A/45/256-E/1990/58, annex.

"(a) To emphasize the need to strengthen the primary health care system together with education, psychological, social and economic support programmes for women, youth and children;

"(b) To promote the vital role that women and young people can play in national AIDS programmes for the further prevention and control of the disease;

"(c) To encourage the development of services that can meet the particular needs of young people and women for counselling on relationships, contraceptives and sexually transmitted diseases;

"(d) To encourage countries to develop plans to meet the economic and social needs of uninfected children with HIV-infected parents or orphaned by AIDS and of elderly people left without providers and often responsible for orphaned grandchildren;

"(e) To mobilize the necessary resources, both human and financial, in health and other sectors to develop and implement activities and technologies for the prevention of HIV-infection/AIDS and the care of those suffering from the disease;

"(f) To ensure that the particular experience of women and children is used in the search for preventive, curative and palliative therapies so that their special needs can be better met;

"6. Requests the Secretary-General to intensify, through the information capacity of the United Nations system, public information activities with respect to HIV and AIDS;

"7. Further requests the Secretary-General to invite the Director-General of the World Health Organization to report to the General Assembly at its forty-sixth session, through the Economic and Social Council, on the implementation of the present resolution."

III. RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE SECOND COMMITTEE

67. The Second Committee recommends to the General Assembly the adoption of the following draft resolutions:

DRAFT RESOLUTION I

International Drinking Water Supply and Sanitation Decade

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolutions 32/158 of 19 December 1977, in which it approved the report of the United Nations Water Conference and approved the Mar del Plata Action Plan, 5/ concerning drinking water supply and sanitation, and other agreements reached at the Conference, 35/18 of 10 November 1980, by which it proclaimed the period 1981-1990 as the International Drinking Water Supply and Sanitation Decade, and 40/171 of 17 December 1985, concerning the mid-term review of the Decade,

Bearing in mind that the Second United Nations Conference on the Least Developed Countries, held in Paris from 3 to 14 September 1990, the World Summit for Children, held at United Nations Headquarters on 29 and 30 September 1990, and the Global Strategy for Shelter to the Year 2000, 6/ among others, reaffirmed the goals and objectives of providing safe water and sanitation for all,

Deeply concerned that, notwithstanding the achievements attained during the International Drinking Water Supply and Sanitation Decade, the current rate of progress remains slow and would leave a very significant number of poor people in urban and rural areas without suitable and sustainable services in water and sanitation by the year 2000,

Recognizing that in most developing countries a lowering of the rate of population growth will relieve the strains on social services and infrastructures, including services relating to drinking water supply and sanitation,

Recognizing that the 1990s will require an intensification of national efforts and international co-operation to provide adequate and safe drinking water and sanitation for all by the end of the century, which are crucial for health,

1. Takes note with appreciation of the report of the Secretary-General on the achievements of the International Drinking Water Supply and Sanitation Decade; 7/

5/ Report of the United Nations Water Conference, Mar del Plata, 14-25 March 1977 (United Nations publication, Sales No. E.77.II.A.12), chap. I.

6/ Resolution 43/181, annex.

7/ A/45/327.

2. Welcomes the New Delhi Statement, g/ adopted at the Global Consultation on Safe Water and Sanitation for the 1990s, which was held in New Delhi from 10 to 14 September 1990, hosted by the Government of India and organized by the United Nations Development Programme;

3. Endorses the four guiding principles, the actions recommended and the proposed follow-up, as enunciated in the New Delhi Statement, pertaining to the need to protect environment and health, the need for institutional reforms, including the full participation of women, the need to promote community management and the need to adopt sound financial practices and appropriate technologies,

4. Urges Governments, in their efforts to implement the recommendations contained in the report of the Secretary-General and in the New Delhi Statement, to stress the following important objectives:

(a) To assign greater priority to the allocation of development financing to water supply and sanitation by seeking a better integration of the sector within the overall development planning process and to allocate a greater proportion of resources to low-income urban and rural areas, while addressing the deteriorating economic, social and environmental conditions in those areas;

(b) To implement programmes aimed at expanding service coverage within the framework of integrated water resources and environmental planning and management, in the context of sustainable national social and economic plans and urban and rural development policies, and to orient them towards services that reflect community needs and are used by beneficiaries;

(c) To ensure appropriate utilization of existing financial resources and mobilize additional funds from national Governments, donors and non-governmental organizations, and to draw on the resources of the local communities;

(d) To assess and undertake institutional reforms to promote an integrated approach, including changes in procedures, attitude and behaviour, and the full participation of women at all levels in sector institutions;

(e) To assess the current status of institutions with a view to strengthening national capacities to plan and manage water supply and environmental sanitation programmes and to enable them to improve operational and financial efficiency;

(f) To increase their efforts to improve the efficiency and use of available financial resources by, inter alia, continuing to expand the use of cost-effective appropriate technologies, and to intensify South-South co-operation in that regard;

5. Calls upon the United Nations system and other relevant organizations, in that regard, to increase their financial and technical support to the national endeavours of developing countries;

g/ A/C.2/45/3, annex.

6. Urges donor Governments, multilateral financial and development institutions and non-governmental organizations to give favourable consideration to requests for grants and concessional financing arrangements to support water supply and sanitation programmes in developing countries;

7. Emphasizes the importance of intensifying the co-ordination of national activities undertaken with the assistance of all relevant agencies in the field of water supply and sanitation through, in particular, the Interagency Steering Committee for Water Supply and Sanitation and the Water Supply and Sanitation Collaborative Council;

8. Decides to review, at its fiftieth session, the progress made during the first half of the 1990s, and requests the Secretary-General to submit a report, through the Economic and Social Council, on further progress made in attaining the ultimate goal of providing a safe water supply and sanitation for all, including proposals for the action needed for the remainder of the decade, with special emphasis on the efforts made at the national level and on international co-operation.

DRAFT RESOLUTION II

Reaffirming the need for the international community to demonstrate the strong political determination required to mobilize and use existing scientific and technical knowledge to mitigate natural disasters, bearing in mind in particular the needs of developing countries,

Noting with satisfaction that more than seventy Governments have informed the Secretary-General that they have established national committees or focal points for the purpose of attaining the objective and goals of the Decade,

Reconfirming the important responsibility of the United Nations system as a whole for promoting international co-operation in order to mitigate natural disasters, provide assistance and co-ordinate disaster relief, preparedness and prevention,

Taking note of the progress report of the Secretary-General on the Decade, 11/

DRAFT RESOLUTION VII

Prevention and control of acquired immunodeficiency syndrome (AIDS)

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolution 44/233 of 22 December 1989, Economic and Social Council resolution 1990/86 of 27 July 1990, World Health Assembly resolution WHA 43/10 of 16 May 1990 on women, children and AIDS, and other relevant resolutions adopted by the organizations of the United Nations system, 13/ E/1990/94, annex.

Taking note of the Paris Declaration on Women, Children and the Acquired Immunodeficiency Syndrome (AIDS), adopted on 30 November 1989, the discussions of the Sixth International Conference on AIDS held in San Francisco, United States of America, from 20 to 24 June 1990, the Fifth International Conference on AIDS and Associated Cancer, held at Kinshasa, Zaire, from 10 to 12 October 1990 and the declaration adopted by the World Summit for Children on 30 September 1990, 14/

Noting with appreciat on the established leadership and co-ordinating role of the World Health Organization, and the efforts of other organizations of the United Nations system, Governments, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations and the public and private sectors, in combating the spread of AIDS,

Stressing the need to take full advantage of the World Health Organization/United Nations Development Programme Alliance to Combat AIDS and to strengthen its role in facilitating implementation at the country level of the global strategy for the prevention and control of AIDS,

Acknowledging that AIDS can have severe social and economic consequences, particularly in countries with a high incidence of infection from the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV), overburdened public health services and limited financial, developmental and skilled labour resources,

Concerned that AIDS has become a major cause of death for women aged 20 to 40 in major cities in the Americas, Western Europe and sub-Saharan Africa, that over 3 million women of child-bearing age have been infected with HIV, that the World Health Organization estimates that during the 1990s a cumulative figure of over 25 to 30 million people are expected to be infected with AIDS, that over 10 million infants and children will become infected with HIV, the vast majority of whom will have died by the year 2000, and that 10 million uninfected children under the age of 10 years will be orphaned during the 1990s as a consequence of AIDS,

Emphasizing the crucial role that other sexually transmitted diseases can play in facilitating the transmission of HIV infection,

Considering that the behaviour and life-style practices that place individuals at risk of HIV infection are likely to be established in adolescence or young adulthood and that the relatively slow progression from HIV infection to AIDS suggests that many HIV-infected individuals over 25 years of age acquired the infection in adolescence or young adulthood,

Stressing, therefore, the importance of information, education and other support targeted to young people to encourage behavioural change and to enable them to remain uninfected,

Emphasizing the crucial importance of a supportive socio-economic environment to ensure the effective implementation of national AIDS prevention programmes and the humane care of affected persons,

Reiterating the need to respect the human rights and dignity of all people, including those affected by HIV, their families and those with whom they live,

Noting that scientific research is making progress in the development of improved diagnostic, therapeutic and preventive technologies and pharmaceuticals, and stressing the importance of making these technologies and pharmaceuticals available as soon as possible and at an affordable cost,

1. Takes note with appreciation of the report of the Director-General of the World Health Organization on the global strategy for the prevention and control of AIDS; 15/

2. Requests the Secretary-General, in view of the serious implications of the AIDS pandemic for development in general in many developing countries, to intensify his efforts, in collaboration with the Director-General of the World Health Organization, the Administrator of the United Nations Development Programme, the heads of the World Bank, the United Nations Population Fund and the United Nations Children's Fund and all other relevant organizations of the United Nations system, to mobilize the cumulative experience of the United Nations system in the strategic planning of multi-sectoral projects and the raising of funds in support of those countries requesting assistance;

3. Urges Member States to increase their efforts in combating AIDS and to encourage national and international efforts to prevent the further spread of AIDS;

4. Calls upon governmental, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations and the public and private sectors to continue paying particular attention to the needs of women, young people and children and to co-ordinate their efforts with those of the World Health Organization for the implementation of the global strategy for the prevention and control of AIDS;

5. Requests the Secretary-General to invite the Director-General of the World Health Organization, in close collaboration with the other organizations of the United Nations system and without prejudice to ongoing priorities and programmes, to continue to advance the global strategy for the prevention and control of AIDS and, specifically:

(a) To emphasize the need to strengthen the primary health care system together with educational, psychological, social and economic support programmes for women, youth and children;

(b) To promote the vital role that women and young people can play in national AIDS programmes for the further prevention and control of the disease;

(c) To encourage the development of services that can meet the particular needs of young people and women for counselling on relationships, and of means to reduce the risk of AIDS, sexually transmitted diseases and risks associated with intravenous drug use;

(d) To support countries to create or enhance programmes that promote the prevention and treatment of sexually transmitted diseases;

(e) To encourage countries to develop plans to meet the economic and social needs of uninfected children with HIV-infected parents or orphaned by AIDS and of elderly people left without providers and often responsible for orphaned grandchildren;

(f) To mobilize the necessary resources, both human and financial, in the health sector and other sectors to develop and implement activities and technologies for the prevention of HIV-infection/AIDS and the care of those suffering from the disease;

(g) To ensure that the particular experience of women and children is used in the search for preventive, curative and palliative therapies so that their special needs can be better met;

6. Also requests the Secretary-General to intensify, through the information capacity of the United Nations system, public information activities with respect to HIV and AIDS;

7. Further requests the Secretary-General to invite the Director-General of the World Health Organization to report to the General Assembly at its forty-sixth session, through the Economic and Social Council, on the implementation of the present resolution.

DRAFT RESOLUTION VIII

Acknowledging the importance of effective, efficient and accountable governance in all countries in setting and implementing national goals in the economic and social spheres,

Acknowledging also the need for an effective and efficient public sector in, inter alia, establishing or improving conditions favourable for private initiative, including sound infrastructure, appropriate policies for the development of human resources, including the expertise and capabilities of the business community, basic health care and the protection of vulnerable groups within society, where appropriate, with the support of the international community,

Recognizing the responsibility of the international community, in particular that of the developed countries, to promote and endeavour to provide an equitable and open international economic environment supportive of the development of developing countries,

Acknowledging the important role of entrepreneurship, notably in small and medium-sized enterprises, in mobilizing resources and in promoting economic growth and socio-economic development,

Calling for international support for specific programmes for private enterprise development in the least developed countries, which should address, inter alia, the promotion of domestic and foreign direct investment, management training, promotion of small-scale ventures and micro-enterprises and the development of entrepreneurial skills, in accordance with relevant provisions of the Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the 1990s,

Cognizant of the importance of entrepreneurship in the growth and development of countries - especially those seeking to develop or revitalize their economies through free enterprise, decentralized decision-making, deregulation, demonopolization of economic activities, simplification of administrative procedures, market opportunities, structural adjustment and market-oriented reform - and of the need to provide the incentives, access to information and new technology, and environment necessary to enable the spirit of entrepreneurship and competition to prosper,

Noting that higher domestic savings and inflows of capital, including new investment and the return of flight capital, depend, inter alia, upon sound micro- and macro-economic policies supportive of entrepreneurship,

Recognizing that public enterprises, in appropriate conditions, can help promote and can engage in entrepreneurship development,

Welcoming the contribution which the United Nations system makes in helping Member States promote entrepreneurship, including foreign direct investment, and encouraging the active participation of private enterprise, where appropriate,

Agrees that entrepreneurship, especially in the context of a fair competitive economy, supportive government policies and an equitable and open international economic environment, contributes to a more efficient world economy and enhances the internationalization of trading markets and financial flows to the benefit of all;
3. Encourages Member States, in accordance with their national policy objectives, to enhance their institutional, legal and regulatory frameworks to ensure greater consistency with market approaches, to make their capital and credit markets more efficient, to foster the expertise and capabilities of the business community and to provide, inter alia, for sound private sector development and its positive benefits for employment opportunities and national wealth;
4. Calls upon Member States to facilitate, consistent with their national laws, the development of co-operation between domestic and foreign enterprises, particularly through contracting, business co-operation and joint ventures, which, inter alia, facilitates market access and the transfer of technology;
5. Looks forward to the outcome of further deliberations of the Development Committee of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, the Interim Committee of the International Monetary Fund and the regional development banks on the issue of strengthening measures across the entire range of operations of the World Bank Group to promote entrepreneurship, including the mobilization of domestic and foreign private capital;
6. Requests the Secretary-General to incorporate in subsequent issues of the World Economic Survey a chapter regarding the role of entrepreneurship as a key element of growth and development and on measures being taken at the national and international levels to promote entrepreneurship, especially in countries seeking to develop or revitalize their economies through free enterprise, decentralized decision-making, market opportunities, structural adjustment and market-oriented reform, as well as suggestions on how the international economic community can support the development of entrepreneurship in the national economy;
