20.1 The activities programmed under the present section are under the responsibility of the United Nations Centre on Transnational Corporations and its joint units with the five regional commissions. The original mandate of the Centre emanates from Economic and Social Council resolution 1913 (LVII) of 5 December 1974, which established the Commission on Transnational Corporations. The role of the Centre is further defined in Economic and Social Council resolution 1980/60 of 24 July 1980, which states that "the United Nations Centre on Transnational Corporations is the central unit in the United Nations system at the Secretariat level for work on the matters related to transnational corporations".

20.2 The programme of work in the present section is derived from Programme 23, Transnational corporations, of the medium-term plan for the period 1992-1997 (A/45/6/Rev.1). Under this programme, the Centre will serve as a secretariat to the Commission, undertake technical research on substantive issues, prepare background documents and specialized studies, organize seminars and conferences and disseminate information, in particular, the information regarding agreed standards and guidelines, and assist Governments, especially those of developing countries in order to enhance their capacity to deal with transnational corporations. Each joint unit will, within the overall programme of work adopted by the Commission and the Economic and Social Council, be the focal point for the activities of the Centre in the region, especially in the field of research, information and liaison with Governments. The Centre will continue to collaborate with the World Health Organization (WHO), the International Labour Organisation (ILO), the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO), the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), the United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO), the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP), the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) and other organizations of the United Nations system on issues of mutual concern. It will also continue to work with organizations of the international business community and the international trade union movement.

20.3 The intergovernmental body providing overall direction to the work of the Centre is the Commission on Transnational Corporations which is a subsidiary body of the Economic and Social Council. The Commission meets annually. It is composed of 48 members elected by the Council. Members travel at the expense of their Governments. The Commission is assisted by 16 expert advisers, who, in accordance with Council resolution 1913 (LVII) are selected, from both developed and developing countries, by the Commission in consultation with the Secretary-General, on the basis of their practical experience, particularly from trade unions, business circles, public interest groups and universities. The expert advisers serve in their individual capacity. The Commission is also assisted by the Intergovernmental Working Group of Experts on International Standards of Accounting and Reporting for the consideration of issues of accounting and reporting that fall within the scope of the work of the Commission. Both the Commission and the Intergovernmental Working Group require substantive services from the Centre.
