ANNEX
STATEMENT
BY THE MINISTRY OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS OF
DEMOCRATIC KAMPUCHEA
ON THE INTENSIFICATION BY HANOI OF THE USE OF CHEMICAL WEAPONS AND OTHER ACTIVITIES TO EXTERMINATE THE KAMPUCHEAN PEOPLE

5 February 1980

Being driven into an impasse in its aggression in Kampuchea, at grips with increasing difficulties in all fields and bogged down deeper and deeper in the military field, unable to control Democratic Kampuchea and to break down the determination of fighting of the Kampuchean people, Hanoi is redoubling its efforts to exterminate the people of Kampuchea.

As it cannot reach the regions under the control of the Democratic Kampuchea Government, of the guerilla bases and zones, the Vietnamese army is increasingly resorting to toxic chemical products. In addition to the air-spreadings of these toxic chemical products, the Vietnamese army has conducted the systematic shellings of poison gas in every place. For instance, from 29 January 1980, such shellings have taken place every day in the regions surrounding the Pailin front. Kamrieng and the mountainous area of the Bavel district (Battambang province) have also been the targets. In the provinces of Rattanakiri and Mondulkiri, in the mountains of Kampong Cham, Kampong Thom and Siemreap, in Oddar Meanchey, Preah Vihear, Koh Kong, in the Western part of the district of Leach, in the Cardamomes Chains; in brief, in all the regions aloof from the world's knowledge, the Vietnamese troops have intensified the use of chemical weapons and their war of racial extermination, for example at Pailin and Kamrieng, by always increasing the daily number of victims among the innocent population, elderly people, children and pregnant women.

Furthermore, in the regions temporarily occupied, famine and the systematic destruction for over a year of cultures, cattle, means of production and working tools have caused countless victims. The survivors, whose food consists of leaves and wild roots, die at the rate of 5 to 6 every day in each village, which adds up to thousands throughout the country. In some places, 70 to 80 per cent of houses are not occupied, for almost all the population has been decimated. This is the concrete situation in the villages located not far from highways in the province of Kampong Speu (in particular in the commune of Choam Sangke, district of Phnom Sruoch, and in the commune of Phong, district of Kong Pisei) and in the communes of Sre Knong and Trapeaing Reaing (district of Chhouk, province of Kampot). In the East of highway No. 3 where the density of the population is relatively high, only 50 to 60 per cent of houses are occupied. All this without including the remote regions of Rattanakiri, Mondulkiri and Preah Vihear.

Such is the tragic situation Hanoi is doing its utmost to hide from the world's knowledge by preventing the United Nations and various competent international organizations from directly distributing humanitarian relief to the Kampuchean people. As for the relief sent to Phnom Penh, the Le-Duan clique has totally appropriated to itself and used it as a means of pressure to enlist soldiers, but still without much success. The population is not entitled to any distribution of humanitarian aid. Rice is exchanged for gold at a rate of about 3 grams of gold for about 20 kilograms of rice. But now, few are the Kampuchean who still have gold to exchange for food.

By so doing, Hanoi is using the humanitarian relief intended for the people of Kampuchea as a weapon to pursue its special war of racial extermination in Kampuchea, and at the same time to seize all gold the people have. As for the small quantity of rice the people have grown in difficult conditions, the Le-Duan clique has sent its troops to reap the harvest for themselves or to mine the rice fields in order to prevent the people from having access.

Moreover, the Vietnamese occupying forces are committing large-scale massacres and murders. In many districts of Stung Trang (Kampong Cham province), Baray (Kampong Thom province) and in the districts of Preah Vihear province, they have installed many guillotines openly in the very centre of the chief towns. Some guillotines are manual, some others are automatic and very often, Kampuchean people are guillotined in order to sow terror and prevent any revolt.

At a time when the Le-Duan clique is intensifying its acts of extermination, its propaganda machine redoubles its campaigns of lies and claims that "there is no more famine in Kampuchea", that "the situation is improving", etc... but in vain, because world public opinion is well aware of its perfidy, its hypocrisy and its cruelty.

The Government of Democratic Kampuchea is convinced that Governments, political organizations, mass organizations and prominent personages who cherish peace and justice in the world will carry on their efforts and seek every means of ensuring that humanitarian relief reaches the Kampuchean people and that the genocidal famine created by Hanoi is stemmed. It is also convinced that all of them will condemn vigorously the use of chemical weapons by the Le-Duan clique and take necessary measures to stop in time its criminal hand and to compel it to implement the resolution adopted by the United Nations General Assembly at its thirty-fourth session demanding the withdrawal of all Vietnamese troops from Kampuchea.

Democratic Kampuchea, 5 February 1980.
