(c) Differentiation of actions to be taken by developed countries and those to be taken by developing countries, keeping in mind that the responsibility for containing, reducing and eliminating global environmental damage must be borne by the countries causing such damage, must be in relation to the damage caused and must be in accordance with their respective capabilities and responsibilities;

(d) Identification of responsibilities for actions to be performed by international and regional organizations;

(e) Full recognition of the specificities and realities of the developing countries, including their social, economic and developmental needs;

3/3. Human settlements

At its 53rd meeting, on 4 September 1991, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development,

1. Recalled section I, paragraph 12 of General Assembly resolution 44/228, which affirmed that the environmental issues to be considered by the Conference would include, inter alia:

"(h) Improvement of the living and working environment of the poor in urban slums and rural areas, through the eradication of poverty, inter alia, by implementing integrated rural and urban development programmes, as well as taking other appropriate measures at all levels necessary to stem the degradation of the environment;

"(i) Protection of human health conditions and improvement of the quality of life";

2. Welcomed the report on human settlements by the Secretary-General of the Conference contained in document A/CONF.151/PC/43, as well as the documentation transmitted by the Commission on Human Settlements in accordance with decision 1/28 of the Preparatory Committee;

3. Recognized that human settlements activities can considerably strengthen the development component of the Conference agenda through their contribution to employment generation, human resources development, industrial growth, and the alleviation of poverty;

4. Noted that integrated planning and management of human settlements can both satisfy growing needs for shelter, infrastructure and services and contribute to minimizing adverse environmental impacts under most of the major issues addressed in General Assembly resolution 44/228;

5. Further noted that the situation of urban agglomerations in developed countries and their quality of life have generally improved in the past two decades, instances of localized deterioration being rather the exception, and aware that, on the contrary, this situation of urban agglomerations in developing countries has steadily deteriorated with most serious and manifold consequences on their populations;

6. Decided that human settlements should be treated as a distinct programme of Agenda 21, and that its programme areas should address human settlements as a substantive framework for sustainable development and that programme areas such as atmosphere, land coastal areas, freshwater and waste management should include the human settlements dimension;

7. Further decided that the implementation of the Global Strategy for Shelter to the Year 2000 should be strengthened and form a major element of the human settlements programme of Agenda 21, aimed at facilitating adequate living conditions for all by focusing on critical elements in the enabling approach of the Strategy;

8. Requested the Secretary-General of the Conference, in cooperation with the Executive Director of the United Nations Centre for Human Settlements (Habitat), to develop the human settlements programme as an integral part of the Agenda 21 document to be presented to the Preparatory Committee at its fourth session in March 1992, in the light of the relevant decisions of the Preparatory Committee on Agenda 21, and further requested the Secretary-General in developing the above-mentioned programme fully to take into account the Vice-Chairman's summary of views submitted (see A/CONF.151/PC/CRP.12) by Member States which, inter alia, include the following:

(a) That the urban environment should be accorded highest priority, while, specifically in connection with predominantly rural countries, full attention should be paid to the need to improve rural settlement environments;

(b) That a new programme area related to human settlements planning in disaster-prone areas be established and developed in cooperation with interested United Nations bodies active in this field, keeping in mind the effects on human settlements, on their residents and on the process of sustainable development of natural and man-made disasters (including wars), technological and other environmental accidents;

(c) That consideration be given to new and innovative human settlement strategies, which take into account the following aspects:

- (i) Generation of employment in human settlements;
- (ii) Promotion of health, education and recreation in human settlements;
- (iii) Research, information and action programmes on adequate technology for human settlements (including technology for building, waste management, administration of human settlements, etc.);
- (iv) Exchange and dissemination of data between cities;
- (v) International cooperation for financing the upgrading of informal settlements and urban infrastructure;
- (vi) Adaptation of codes and regulations to the needs of the poor;
- (vii) Adoption of innovative city planning strategies for adequate sharing of resources (cross-subsidies);

- (viii) Adoption of land-use planning techniques for a more efficient use of limited land resources;
 - (ix) Adoption of new programmes to slow down the growth of megacities through the creation of intermediate cities and the industrialization of rural areas;
 - (x) Adoption of programmes which actively promote shelter upgrading and delivery of increased housing stock through community participation;
 - (xi) Stimulation of the locally available intellectual, financial and private-sector potential for human settlements planning and management;
 - (xii) Shelter provision for the "no-income" groups of population and the critically poor;
 - (xiii) Research, development and use of indigenous building materials;
 - (xiv) Encouragement to Governments to mobilize funding from all possible sources through new and innovative mechanisms;
- (d) That certain programme area targets should be more clearly defined, for example:
- (i) By setting a target for providing drinking water for all by the year 2000;
 - (ii) By setting a target to provide land for all (minimum plot);
 - (iii) By setting a target to eliminate the world housing deficit by the year 2020;
 - (iv) By harmonizing human settlements policies with population and urbanization policies;
- (e) That such targets, as may be set to supply adequate shelter and related infrastructure, be credible in order both to mobilize public interest and support and to monitor, measure and promote progress in meeting them.

3/4. Financial resources

At its 53rd meeting, on 4 September 1991, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, having discussed the issue of financial resources in accordance with General Assembly resolution 44/223 of 22 December 1989,

(a) Took note of documents A/CONF.151/PC/L.43, 51, 86, 93 and held discussions on A/CONF.151/PC/L.41;

(b) Decided to annex the Vice-Chairman's compilation of views on these discussions to the present decision;

(c) Decided that negotiations on the issue of financial resources at its fourth session should be based on document L.41 without prejudice to the status of proposals from delegations, including A/CONF.151/PC/L.43, 86 and 93;

(d) Decided further that priority should be given to this issue in the scheduling of meetings of the fourth session, and that time from the beginning of the fourth session should be given to the negotiation of this issue, with a view to reaching a final agreement before the end of the session;

(e) Requested the Secretary-General of the Conference, taking into account the views expressed on this issue during the third session, to provide concrete proposals based on cost evaluations for the implementation of each programme area of Agenda 21 which would assist the negotiation of financial requirements at the fourth session of the Preparatory Committee.

ANNEX

Vice-Chairman's compilation of views on financial resources

The draft decision on financial resources proposed by Ghana (on behalf of the States Members of the United Nations that are also members of the Group of 77) and China was extensively discussed in informal sessions of the Plenary during the third session of the Preparatory Committee. The following is a compilation of the views expressed by delegations on each of the paragraphs of L.41.

Preamble

There was general agreement that any decision on financial resources should reflect the importance of this issue for the outcome of UNCED.

Paragraph (a)

There was general agreement that financial resources from external sources will be needed to help developing countries meet the costs of achieving sustainable development.

Delegations discussed how agreement could be reached over the incremental costs which should be covered by external funding and how such incremental costs could be calculated.

Some delegations argued that the distinction between local and global environmental problems would be useful in reaching such an agreement.

Other delegations disagreed, arguing that such a distinction could not be made given the global consequences of all environment and development problems. Furthermore, it was argued that the identification of "global problems" was being made by developed countries on the basis of their own national concerns and priorities - which might not be shared by all developing countries. The priority concerns of developing countries should not be considered as local problems, particularly if there is to be a global partnership in the interests of sustainable development.

Delegations also discussed the appropriateness of reallocating flows from existing development assistance programmes to meet incremental costs for sustainable development.

Some delegations stated that any reallocation of external financial flows would be inappropriate. Concern was also expressed about the potential reallocation of resources from domestic budgets due to meet commitments under international environmental agreements.

Other delegations argued that a reallocation of flows away from unsustainable development towards sustainable development should be a major outcome of UNCED. Such a reallocation could be combined with additional funding, from different sources, depending on the specific funding needs.

Some delegations also pointed out that reallocation to meet changing priorities is a constant factor of existing financial flows.

Some delegations also observed that it is difficult to make a distinction in practice between the "environmental" and "developmental" components of projects over the life-time of the project.

Paragraph (b)

There was general agreement that funding would be required to help developing countries meet their commitments under conventions.

Delegations discussed in general the appropriate funding mechanisms for conventions.

Some delegations suggested the need to create a separate fund for each convention.

Other delegations recommended that consideration be given to using a more general fund with separate mechanisms for channelling funding under each convention.

Paragraph (c)

There was general agreement that funding would be required to help developing countries implement the programmes contained in Agenda 21.

Delegations discussed whether there is a requirement for a general fund to serve the sustainable development needs of developing countries, including Agenda 21.

Some delegations argued in favour of such a fund. Other delegations thought that existing funding mechanisms should be used.

Delegations discussed whether the Global Environmental Facility (GEF), as it is presently structured, could serve as a general fund. Some delegations mentioned that the GEF could perhaps serve as a general fund, provided that its governance was made more transparent and democratic.

Some delegations argued that it could not and that there should be a general fund, separate from the GEF, to cover activities not included in separate conventions. The factors cited in favour of separating a general fund from the GEF included: the GEF's current mandate which is limited to four "global problems"; the voluntary basis for contributions; its governance based on weighted voting; and the influence on its operations of the culture of the World Bank.

Other delegations suggested that the discussion of a new separate fund should be left for later negotiations.

Many delegations noted that the governance of funding programmes and mechanisms could be separated from the administration of the funds, and could be assigned to separate agencies. The example of the Montreal Protocol Multilateral Fund was cited in this regard.

Delegations discussed whether mandatory contributions were appropriate for any general fund and whether they would increase the predictability in the flow of funds and the volume of funding available.

Some delegations noted the importance of finding innovative sources of funds, in particular from non-government sources. Such innovative sources would most likely have to be voluntary, rather than mandatory.

Paragraph (d)

There was general agreement that the governance of funding mechanisms needs to be transparent.

Many delegations argued that the governance of funding mechanisms should be more democratic.

There was general agreement on the need for Governments to set priorities for funding under Agenda 21.

Delegations discussed the applicability of mutual responsibility for funding to meet national priorities.

Some delegations expressed concern that there should be no new conditionality imposed on such funding.

Paragraph (e)

Delegations discussed the concept of whether funding from developed to developing countries should be on a compensatory basis. Some delegations expressed the need for further explanation of this concept.

Paragraph (f)

Many delegations expressed an interest in the concept of "partnership in additionality" and supported further examination of this concept.

Paragraph (7)

There was general agreement on the need for a supportive international economic environment which promotes economic growth and development, particularly in developing countries, and which will assist in the alleviation of poverty.

3/5. Women in environment and development

At its 53rd meeting, on 4 September 1991, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, having recalled General Assembly resolution 44/228, in which the Assembly called, inter alia, for the development of human resources, particularly in developing countries for the protection and enhancement of the environment, having noted that the gender dimension is important in implementing that resolution and its decisions 1/24 (Guidelines for national reports), 1/25 (Environment and development), 1/28 and 2/6 (Cross-sectoral issues), and having taken due account of the recommendations on development in the Nairobi Forward-looking Strategies for the Advancement of Women as they relate to the work of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, which state, inter alia, that national and international emphasis on ecosystem management and the control of environmental degradation should be strengthened and women should be recognized as active and equal participants in this process, requested the Secretary-General to undertake the following activities in collaboration with the relevant organizations and bodies of the United Nations system, Governments, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations:

(a) To ensure that key elements relating to women's critical economic, social and environmental contributions to sustainable development be addressed at the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development as a distinct cross-cutting issue in addition to being mainstreamed in all the substantive work and documentation, particularly Agenda 21, the Earth Charter and the Conventions;

(b) To establish mechanisms:

(i) To include a global goal in Agenda 21 promoting the effective participation of women in knowledge generation, decision-making and management at local, national, regional and international levels;

(ii) To recommend specific actions needed in each of the sectoral and cross-sectoral areas of Agenda 21 to ensure that progress towards sustainable development incorporates measures which will have beneficial impacts on women;

(iii) To identify human and material resources and infrastructural support needed from international, regional and national agencies, to promote women's participation in Conference activities at all levels and in each sector;

(c) To ensure that recommendations from relevant meetings held by Governments, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations be made available to the Preparatory Committee.

3/6. Youth in environment and development

At its 53rd meeting, on 4 September 1991, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, having recalled General Assembly resolution 44/228, as well as decision 1/25 on environment and development and decisions 1/28 and 2/6 on cross-sectoral issues, and having recalled also the vital role that youth can and should play in the protection of the environment and the promotion of economic and social development,

(a) Decided to include a global goal in Agenda 21, as well as in the Rio de Janeiro declaration on environment and development, the promotion of the effective participation of youth in the field of environment and development;

(b) Invited the Secretary-General of the Conference to present to the Preparatory Committee at its fourth session concrete recommendations and specific actions needed in each of the sectoral and cross-sectoral areas of Agenda 21 to ensure the effective participation of youth towards the integration of environment and development. In this context special attention should be given to the needs of the youth in developing countries.

3/7. Indigenous people and local communities

At its 53rd meeting, on 4 September 1991, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, having recalled its decision 2/7 of 5 April 1991, and having recognized the important contribution being made by organizations of indigenous people and local communities to the preparations for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development,

1. Decided to incorporate, inter alia, the following elements for the consideration of the Preparatory Committee at its fourth session in the further elaboration of Agenda 21:

(a) Recognizing the traditional knowledge and resource management and conservation practices of indigenous people and local communities as contributions to environmentally sound and sustainable development;

(b) Recognizing that traditional and direct dependence on renewable resources and ecosystems, including sustainable subsistence harvesting, continues to be essential to the cultural, social, economic and physical well-being of indigenous people and local communities;

(c) Recognizing the need to protect the habitats of indigenous people and local communities from environmentally unsound development projects and from inappropriate integration processes;

(d) Strengthening the viability and sustainability of traditional management practices in the context of environmentally sound development, including by means of collaboration between Governments and the people and communities concerned;

(e) Supporting capacity-building for indigenous people and local communities based on the adaptation and exchange of traditional experience, knowledge and resources management practices within and between regions;

(f) Supporting their development of alternative, environmentally sound means of production, to ensure the improvement of their quality of life so that they can participate in sustainable development;

(g) Mobilizing international technical and financial cooperation for the self-development of these people and communities, as a first step by means of the opportunity provided by the International Year for the World's Indigenous People;

2. Invited the Chairman of the Working Group on Indigenous Populations of the Commission on Human Rights to contribute to the work of the secretariat, and to participate in the further deliberations on this topic by the Preparatory Committee and the Conference.

3/8. Poverty, sustainability and demographic pressures, health and education

At its 53rd meeting, on 4 September 1991, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, having recalled General Assembly resolution 44/228,

1. Took note with appreciation of the reports of the Secretary-General of the Conference on poverty, sustainability and demographic pressures, health and education (A/CONF.151/PC/45 and 46 and A/CONF.151/PC/54 and 55) and of the Vice-Chairman's summary of discussions on these subjects at the current session contained in the annex to the present decision;

2. Requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to continue work on these issues and to prepare and submit to the Committee at its fourth session proposals for action on relevant issues pertaining to poverty, sustainability and demographic pressures, health and education, to be included in Agenda 21 in accordance with its agreed structure as contained in decision 3/2, taking into account views expressed at the current session.

ANNEX

1. Poverty is closely interrelated with the processes of environmental degradation and development. The alleviation of poverty is crucial for sustainable development. Specific goals and targets for alleviating poverty should be included in Agenda 21.

2. Efforts of developing countries for the alleviation of poverty should be supported by an international economic environment which promotes rather than impairs growth and development. In addition, bilateral and multilateral assistance for poverty alleviation programmes should be greatly increased.

3. Because people are the subject and object of development, the programmes of action should focus on people, with the goal of improving their ability to participate fully in development.

4. Health is a fundamental condition for development and therefore the protection and improvement of the health of women, children and all people should be integrated in all poverty alleviation, as well as other appropriate programmes.

5. Achieving sustainable development and alleviating poverty imply the improvement of the welfare and productivity of the poor with a concern for the protection of the environment. In this respect, the options that could be considered are:

(a) Specific programmes for the promotion of sustainable livelihoods for the poor;

(b) The approach of Primary Environmental Care (PEC).

In either case, the focus is on providing income-earning opportunities for the poor, satisfying basic needs, ensuring optimal utilization and protection of the environment and empowering groups and communities.

6. Population pressure and distribution can have immense impact on prospects for conservation and sustainable development. Options for action in the field of population should strive to build national capacities and provide support for each country in measures which enable it to achieve a sustainable balance between its population, its environment and resource endowments and the standard of living to which its people aspire.

7. Environmental and development education and information is an important means for changing attitudes and behaviours towards lifestyles consistent with a sustainable use of resources and sustainable development. Environmental education should deal with both the dynamics of the physical environment and human development. These aims should be achieved not only through formal education but also through all adequate means of communication.

8. The pivotal role of women in sustainable development should be fully recognized and programme design should address their specific needs in terms of employment opportunities, education, health, other means of livelihood and their full participation in decision-making.

9. The role of indigenous peoples in the preservation of traditional knowledge should be recognized and programmes for promoting sustainable livelihoods of indigenous peoples should address the dimensions of cultural identity preservation and full participation in decision-making.

3/9. Sustainability, international economy, integrated-environmental accounting and economic instruments

At its 53rd meeting, on 4 September 1991, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, having recalled General Assembly resolution 44/228,

1. Took note with appreciation of the reports of the Secretary-General of the Conference on sustainability, international economy, integrated economic-environmental accounting and economic instruments (A/CCNF.151/PC/46-50);

2. Requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to continue work on these issues and to prepare and submit to the Committee at its fourth session proposals for action on relevant issues pertaining to sustainability, international economy, integrated economic-environmental accounting and economic instruments, to be included in Agenda 21 in accordance with its agreed structure as contained in decision 3/2, taking into account views expressed by delegations at the current session.

3/10. Transfer of technology

At its 53rd meeting, on 4 September 1991, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, having recalled General Assembly resolution 44/228,

1. Took note with appreciation of the report of the Secretary-General on the transfer of environmentally sound technology (A/CONF.151/PC/53);

2. Requested the Secretary-General of the Conference:

(a) To transmit the text of the Vice-Chairman annexed to this decision to the fourth session for further negotiations;

(b) To continue work on these issues and to prepare and submit to the fourth session draft options for Agenda 21 taking into account the Vice-Chairman's text and the discussions during the Plenary and the informal consultations.

Permission to speak on a motion to reconsider shall be accorded only to two speakers opposing reconsideration, after which the motion shall be immediately put to the vote.

VII. DECISION-MAKING

General agreement

Each State participating in the conference shall have one vote.

Majority required

Rule 35

1. Subject to rule 33, decisions of the conference and its subsidiary organs shall be taken in accordance with the rules of procedure of the General Assembly and its committees, respectively.
2. Except as otherwise provided in these rules, decisions of the Conference on all matters of procedure shall be taken by a majority of the representatives present and voting.
3. If the question arises whether a matter is one of procedure or of substance, the President of the Conference shall rule on the question. An appeal against this ruling shall be put to the vote immediately, and the President's ruling shall stand unless overruled by a majority of the representatives present and voting.
4. If a vote is equally divided, the proposal or motion shall be regarded as rejected.

Meaning of the phrase "representatives present and voting"

Rule 36

For the purpose of these rules, the phrase "representatives present and voting" means representatives casting an affirmative or negative vote. Representatives who abstain from voting shall be regarded as not voting.

Method of voting

Rule 37

1. Except as provided in rule 44, the Conference shall normally vote by show of hands, except that a representative may request a roll-call, which shall then be taken in the English alphabetical order of the names of the States participating in the Conference, beginning with the delegation whose name is drawn by lot by the President. The name of each State shall be called in all roll-calls, and its representative shall reply "yes", "no" or "abstention".
2. When the Conference votes by mechanical means, a non-recorded vote shall replace a vote by show of hands and a recorded vote shall replace a roll-call. A representative may request a recorded vote, which shall, unless a representative requests otherwise, be taken without calling out the names of the States participating in the Conference.
3. The vote of each State participating in a roll-call or a recorded vote shall be inserted in any record of or report on the meeting.

Conduct during voting

The representative of a State sponsoring a proposal or motion shall not speak in explanation of vote thereon, except if it has been amended.

Division of proposals

Rule 40

A representative may move that parts of a proposal be decided on separately. If a representative objects, the motion for division shall be voted upon. Permission to speak on the motion shall be accorded only to two representatives in favour of and to two opposing the division. If the motion is carried, those parts of the proposal that are subsequently approved shall be put to the Conference for decision as a whole. If all operative parts of the proposal have been rejected, the proposal shall be considered to have been rejected as a whole.

Amendments

Rule 41

A proposal is considered an amendment to another proposal if it merely adds to, deletes from or revises part of that proposal. Unless specified otherwise, the word "proposal" in these rules shall be considered as including amendments.

Order of voting on amendments

Rule 42

When an amendment is moved to a proposal, the amendment shall be voted on first. When two or more amendments are moved to a proposal, the Conference shall vote first on the amendment furthest removed in substance from the original proposal and then on the amendment next furthest removed therefrom and so on until all the amendments have been put to the vote. Where, however, the adoption of one amendment necessarily implies the rejection of another amendment, the latter shall not be put to the vote. If one or more amendments are adopted, the amended proposal shall then be voted upon.

Order of voting on proposals

Rule 43

1. If two or more proposals, other than amendments, relate to the same question, they shall, unless the Conference decides otherwise, be voted on in the order in which they were submitted. The Conference may, after each vote on a proposal, decide whether to vote on the next proposal.
2. Revised proposals shall be voted on in the order in which the original proposals were submitted, unless the revision substantially departs from the original proposal. In that case, the original proposal shall be considered as withdrawn and the revised proposal shall be treated as a new proposal.
3. A motion requiring that no decision be taken on a proposal shall be put to the vote before a decision is taken on the proposal in question.

Elections

Rule 44

All elections shall be held by secret ballot unless, in the absence of any objection, the Conference decides to proceed without taking a ballot when there is an agreed candidate or State.

Rule 45

1. When one or more elective places are to be filled at one time under the same conditions, those candidates, in a number not exceeding the number of such places, obtaining in the first ballot a majority of the votes cast and the largest number of votes, shall be elected.

2. If the number of candidates obtaining such majority is less than the number of places to be filled, additional ballots shall be held to fill the remaining places.

3/13. Protection of the atmosphere

A. Climate change

At its 54th meeting, on 4 September 1991, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development

(a) Took note of the report of the Secretary-General of the Conference on protection of the atmosphere: climate change (A/CONF.151/PC/57) concerning the ongoing processes related to climate change, and requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to continue to follow those processes in order to ensure that the relevant results are reflected in the work of the Preparatory Committee; of the relevant Working Group and plenary sessions and the decisions of the Preparatory Committee;

(c) Also requested the Secretary-General of the Conference, without duplicating or pre-empting the work of the Intergovernmental Negotiating Committee, to continue to follow the work of that Committee and to keep the INC informed on the interconnections between climate change and other environment and development issues, as they emerge from the preparatory process of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, in particular the elaboration of Agenda 21.

B. Ozone depletion

The Preparatory Committee

(a) Noted the growing concern over the continuing depletion of the Earth's stratospheric ozone layer, expressed satisfaction with the ongoing work within the Framework of the Vienna Convention for the Protection of the Ozone Layer and the Montreal Protocol on Substances that Deplete the Ozone Layer, as amended in London in 1990;

(c) Agreed, in light of its evaluation of ongoing activities under the Vienna Convention and the Montreal Protocol, on the following with regard to Agenda 21 in relation to ozone depletion:

- (i) All States that have not already done so should be urged to ratify, accept or approve the Montreal Protocol and its 1990 amendments, and to pay their contributions towards the Vienna/Montreal Trust Funds and the Interim Multilateral Ozone Fund;
- (ii) All States and relevant international organizations should be encouraged to support further expansion of the Global Ozone Observing System Network coordinated by the World Meteorological Organization, by facilitating - through bilateral and multilateral funding - the establishment and operation of additional monitoring stations, especially in the tropical belt and the Southern Hemisphere;
- (iii) All parties to the Montreal Protocol and relevant international organizations should, with appropriate support to developing countries, be encouraged to participate actively in the continuous assessment of scientific information, health and environmental effects, as well as technological/economic implications of stratospheric ozone depletion;
- (iv) The parties to the Montreal Protocol are invited to consider further actions that prove warranted and feasible on the basis of these assessments;

- (v) The industries concerned and the international business community at large should be urged to contribute fully towards ongoing efforts under the Montreal Protocol and its implementing mechanisms;

(d) Expressed satisfaction with the new and additional financial resources contributed to the Interim Multilateral Ozone Fund and the balanced representation in its management, and took note of the progress made in work to implement the fund, which was established to meet all agreed incremental costs in order to enable developing countries to comply with the provisions of the Protocol.

- (iv) Appropriate international organizations, in cooperation with regional and/or subregional organizations concerned, should be encouraged to identify areas that could benefit from similar cooperative programmes for transboundary air pollution monitoring and abatement, including the environmental impacts of air pollution resulting from natural disasters and the deliberate and/or accidental destruction of natural resources.

3/14. Protection of the atmosphere: options for Agenda 21

At its 54th meeting, on 4 September 1991, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, having considered documents A/CONF.151/PC/60, A/CONF.151/PC/42/Add.1, and A/CONF.151/PC/WG.I/L.25/Rev.2, and having recalled its decision 2/8, in particular paragraph (f),

1. Noted the following:

(a) That document A/CONF.151/PC/WG.I/L.25/Rev.2 contains the following programme areas:

- A. Promoting the energy transition;
- B. Increasing energy efficiency;
- C. Promoting renewable energy sources;
- D. Promoting transport systems which are specifically safe and environmentally sound;

(b) That the proposals contained in programme areas A-D could be a basis for further negotiations. A number of points will, however, need detailed consideration at the next session, particularly those in brackets;

(c) Programme areas on industry, agriculture and forestry, consumption patterns and lifestyles and uncertainties with regard to the atmosphere have not been considered in detail during this session, even though a number of comments were made in the course of the discussion. Negotiation of these programme areas will take place at the fourth session;

(d) It is understood that final agreement on the contents of document A/CONF.151/PC/WG.I/L.25/Rev.2 will be dependent on a satisfactory outcome of the negotiation of Agenda 21 as a whole. Further, in all areas under consideration by the Intergovernmental Negotiating Committee on Climate Change, finalization of the formulation of Agenda 21 will have to reflect the outcome of that process;

2. Requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to submit to it at its fourth session proposals for basis-for-action objectives and activities for the areas mentioned under paragraph 1 (c) above;

3. Also requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to integrate in the proposals provisions for means of implementation in accordance with the general decision of the Preparatory Committee on Agenda 21;

4. Invited Governments to submit any additional comments to document A/CONF.151/PC/WG.I/L.25/Rev.2 to the secretariat of the Conference in writing before 7 October 1991.

3/15. Forests

At its 54th meeting, on 4 September 1991, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, having considered documents A/CONF.151/PC/64, A/CONF.151/PC/65, A/CONF.151/42/Add.3 and decisions 1/14 and 2/13 on forests,

1. Recalled its decision 2/13, and also recalled that there had been in-depth discussion at its present session on such a text as contained in the draft on contact group discussions on land resources: deforestation (A/CONF.151/PC/WG.1/CRP.14) and that comments or additions submitted by Governments to the Chairman during the third session would be included in a revision to that document, which would be considered at the fourth session of the Preparatory Committee;

2. Noted that the report of the Secretary-General of the Conference on Agenda 21 on forests (A/CONF.151/PC/42/Add.3) had not been considered in detail by the Preparatory Committee;

3. Invited Governments to submit to the secretariat of the Conference not later than 1 October 1991 further proposals for Agenda 21 on forests, which proposals and the views expressed at the third session of the Preparatory Committee would be taken into account in a document to be prepared by the secretariat for the fourth session of the Preparatory Committee;

4. Decided that, at the fourth session of the Preparatory Committee:

(a) Negotiations would take place on a set of authoritative principles on the management, conservation and sustainable development of forests; and

(b) A decision should be made on the contents of Agenda 21 with regard to forests against the background of the secretariat document mentioned in paragraph 3 above;

5. Requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to integrate, in the proposals under paragraph 3 above, provisions for means of implementation in accordance with the general decision of the Preparatory Committee on Agenda 21.

3/16. Desertification and drought

At its 54th meeting, on 4 September 1991, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, having considered the report of the Secretary-General of the Conference relating to the issue of desertification and drought in the context of Agenda 21 (A/CONF.151/PC/62),

1. Noted that there is a broad agreement on the contents of document A/CONF.151/PC/WG.1/L.29 and the special annex to this decision, in particular with regard to the broad objectives and programme areas, and that the different activities proposed need further elaboration and thereafter should be considered by the Preparatory Committee at its fourth session;

2. Also noted that, while the problem of desertification is one of the central environmental and developmental issues in its own right, it is also part of the more general problem of how to preserve and manage fragile ecosystems;

3. Invited once more the United Nations Environment Programme to implement the provisions of paragraphs 6 and 7 of General Assembly resolutions 44/172 A and B of 19 December 1989 related to the progress achieved in the implementation of the Plan of Action to Combat Desertification;

4. Requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to elaborate proposals further for action on the subject of desertification and drought taking into account relevant new developments, in particular within the framework of the United Nations Environment Programme, it being understood that the international systems need to give higher priority to desertification;

5. Invited the Secretary-General of the Conference to give detailed proposals for the means and timing of implementing the programmes agreed upon, integrating its decision 3/2 on the general implementation of Agenda 21;

6. Requested the Secretary-General of the Conference, further to his report in document A/CONF.151/PC/62, to submit to the Preparatory Committee at its fourth session a summary of the results of the financial and technical study requested by the General Assembly from the United Nations Environment Programme and information on the action taken within the framework of the Sahara/Sahel observatory, as well as the recommendations on the financial, technical and institutional means of implementing the decisions of the Conference on desertification control;

7. Decided to consider at its fourth session the action to be taken on desertification within the general framework of Agenda 21 and, owing to the particular importance of these problems, to consider it as the first item of Working Group I;

8. Invited Governments to submit any additional comments to document A/CONF.151/PC/WG.I/L.29 in writing to the secretariat of the Conference before 1 October 1991.

3. Further noted that the section on an integrated approach to planning and management of land resources requires further elaboration and requests that the views expressed by Governments and proposals submitted by delegations be incorporated;

4. Noted that issues related to programmes on water resources for agriculture, genetic resources, integrated pest management and rural energy have not been discussed in detail; partly because these issues also touch on other agenda items of the Preparatory Committee;

Elements and policy considerations to be considered by the intergovernmental meeting of experts on the degradation of the marine environment from land-based sources of pollution and activities in coastal areas

1. The results of the Halifax Intergovernmental Meeting of Experts on Land-Based Sources of Pollution, included in document A/CONF.151/PC/71. The main elements to be considered are:

(a) Land-based sources of marine pollution should be seen within the context of a broad, overall concern for the health of our oceans and seas;

(b) A comprehensive, sequential and coordinated approach should be considered, based on action at the global, regional and local levels;

(c) In developing ocean management strategies, there is a continuing need for scientific information, but deficiencies in scientific understanding should not limit our actions;

(d) States should adopt, individually or jointly, and in accordance with their capabilities, precautionary measures to prevent, reduce and control pollution from land-based sources;

(e) Point source pollution should be reduced and controlled at source rather than at the point of environmental release;

(f) The reduction and control of non-point-source pollutants requires broad changes in sewage and waste management, and practices in agriculture, forestry, mining, construction and transportation;

(g) A coherent strategy, whether on a national, regional or global scale, must be based on a commonly accepted set of principles, contain a set of goals to be achieved and prescribe the essential elements of environmental management at the national level;

(h) To include the transfer of technology to developing countries, the integration of economic and financial measures and capacity-building components in the proposed strategy and programme of action to be prepared to address the problem.

2. The views expressed by Governments at the third session of the Preparatory Committee on programme area B, Marine environmental protection, sub-area 2, Prevention, reduction and control of degradation of the marine environment from land-based activities.

3. The existing Montreal Guidelines as an appropriate basis for the programme of action.

4. Draft elements of principles on prevention, reduction and control of degradation of the marine environment caused by land-based activities, based on the Montreal Guidelines.

5. Regional and national frameworks, as appropriate, within a coherent strategy, as mechanisms for the effective implementation of the programme of action.

6. Means of international cooperative action to prevent, reduce and control degradation of the marine environment from land-based activities.

7. How to facilitate the exchange of information on the land-based sources of marine degradation, particularly between neighbouring countries.

8. Integration of the developmental components to the strategy and programme of action.

9. The differences between developed and developing countries in terms of capabilities, human resources, technology and financial conditions.

10. The appropriate economic and regulatory instruments to modify industrial, agricultural and other development activities which produce, as emissions, by-products or residues, potential pollutants or other activities which degrade the marine environment.
