ORGANIZATIONS IN CONSULTATIVE STATUS WITH THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL, CATEGORIES I AND II

Quadrennial reports, 1990-1993

Report submitted through the Secretary-General pursuant to Economic and Social Council resolution 1296 (XLIV) of 23 May 1968

Addendum

* E/C.2/1995/1.

Note

In accordance with Economic and Social Council resolution 1296 (XLIV) on arrangements for consultation with non-governmental organizations, organizations in consultative status in categories I and II shall submit to the Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations, through the Secretary-General, every fourth year a brief report of their activities, specifically as regards the support they have given to the work of the United Nations. Based on findings of the Committee's examination of the report and other relevant information, the Committee may recommend to the Council any reclassification in status of the organization concerned as it deems appropriate.

At its 1981 session, the Committee decided that quadrennial reports submitted by non-governmental organizations should be limited to no more than two single-spaced pages. At its 1989 session, the Committee stressed the need for non-governmental organizations required to submit quadrennial reports to provide the Secretariat with clear and timely information, including, inter alia, a brief introductory statement recalling the aims and purposes of the organization.

At its 1991 session, the Committee emphasized the need for non-governmental organizations requested to submit quadrennial reports to provide a clear picture of their activities as they related to the United Nations. The Committee further noted that the reports should conform to the guidelines elaborated by the Non-Governmental Organizations Unit pursuant to the relevant decisions of the Committee (see E/1991/20, para. 47). The Committee decided that only those reports elaborated in conformity with the guidelines and submitted to the Non-Governmental Organizations Unit no later than 1 June of the year preceding the Committee's session would be transmitted to the Committee for consideration. The Committee recalled that organizations failing to submit adequate reports on time would be subject to reclassification in status that the Committee might deem appropriate, in conformity with paragraph 40 (b) of Council resolution 1296 (XLIV) (see E/1991/20, para. 48). Pursuant to these decisions, the Secretariat, in December 1991, communicated to all relevant organizations guidelines for the completion of quadrennial reports.

The material issued in the present series of documents (E/C.2/1995/2 and addenda) has been reproduced as submitted and therefore reflects the policies and terminology of the organizations concerned. The designations employed do not imply the expression of any opinion whatsoever on the part of the United Nations Secretariat concerning the legal status of any country, territory, city or area or of its authorities, or concerning the delimitation of its frontiers or boundaries.

Supplementary material, such as annual reports and samples of publications, is available in the Non-Governmental Organizations section of the Department for Policy Coordination and Sustainable Development of the United Nations Secretariat.

2. EDUCATION INTERNATIONAL (EI)

(Category II)

A. Introduction

Educational International (EI) was formed on 26 January 1993, and maintained consultative status with the Economic and Social Council, category II, formerly applicable to the World Confederation of Organizations of the Teaching Profession (WCOTP). EI's formation was the result of an agreement between WCOTP and the International Federation of Free Teachers' Unions (IFFTU). Whereas in January 1993 WCOTP had 177 national member organizations representing 12 million teachers in 113 countries, in December 1993 EI had 236 national member organizations representing 18 million teachers and other educational employees in 130 countries. The aims of EI include furthering the cause of organizations of teachers and education employees, promoting their status, interests and welfare, and defending their trade union and professional rights; promoting the application of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights through the development of education and of the collective strength of teachers and education employees; seeking recognition of the trade union rights of workers in general and of teachers and education employees in particular, and promoting international labour standards; combating all forms of racism, bias or discrimination in education and society; and encouraging the leadership role and involvement of women in society, in the teaching profession and at all levels of education.

EI is governed by a World Congress, comprising delegates from national member organizations, and held every three years, and an Executive Board of 23 persons elected by the Congress. The Board must have at least two members from each of five regions: Africa, Asia and the Pacific, Europe, Latin America, North America and the Caribbean. At least one Board member from each region, and at least two of the four Vice-Presidents must be women. There are regional conferences and committees. The next World Congress will be held in Harare, Zimbabwe, in July 1995.

EI is financed by dues paid by its national member organizations, and also administers funds provided for cooperative projects in developing countries. The present report refers to activities of both EI and its predecessor in consultative status, WCOTP.

B. Participation in the Economic and Social Council and its subsidiary bodies

WCOTP participated in the Conference of Non-Governmental Organizations in Consultative Status with the Economic and Social Council (CONGO) in 1991, and was elected to the Board. Subsequently the Secretary-General of WCOTP (later Executive Director of EI) was elected to the position of First Vice-President of CONGO.

In his capacity he addressed the substantive session of the 1993 Economic and Social Council on relations with non-governmental organizations. EI also accepted an invitation to convene the CONGO facilitating committee at the World Summit for Social Development.

C. Cooperation with United Nations programmes and bodies and specialized agencies

EI maintained consultative status with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), Category A, previously applicable to WCOTP and IFFTU, and was recognized as a workers' organization by ILO. Interventions were made at the UNESCO General Conference in 1991 and 1993, and at the International Labour Conference in 1990, 1991, 1992 and 1993. WCOTP and IFFTU, and then EI, participated in many UNESCO and ILO meetings during the four-year period, and cooperated with those specialized agencies in programmes to promote education for all, the status of women, education for human rights, and the application of the ILO/UNESCO Recommendation concerning the Status of Teachers.

Cooperation was also developed during this period with UNICEF, UNHCR, WHO and the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), as well as the World Bank.

D. Other relevant activities

WCOTP and EI have acted throughout the period to promote implementation of United Nations resolutions in favour of human rights, and the status of women, and against racism and apartheid. Major support was given to the formation of the South African Democratic Teacher Union (SADTU) which played an important role in the struggle for democracy.

In his CONGO-related capacity, the Secretary-General of WCOTP met the Secretary-General of the United Nations in December 1992. Consultations were maintained with many United Nations officials, and in December 1993, a delegation of EI representatives met Under-Secretaries-General Sorensen, Annan and Eliasson.

EI has conveyed to the Secretary-General of the United Nations resolutions on the Middle East, Israel, the West Bank and Gaza; Bosnia and Herzegovina, Serbia and Kosovo; Somalia, Liberia, Chad, Rwanda, East Timor, and Haiti.

5. INTERNATIONAL COUNCIL OF SOCIETIES OF INDUSTRIAL
DESIGN (ICSID)

(Category II)

The International Council of Societies of Industrial Design (ICSID), was formally established in London in 1957, and has grown into a global force of industrial design. It is governed by a body of 113 professional, promotional and associate members representing 43 different countries.

Aim

The overall aim of ICSID is to advance the discipline of industrial design. It fosters a greater understanding of industrial design through international cooperation, communication and promotion. The Council collects and disseminates information about industrial design to its members, as well as to Governments, to institutions, to industry and to the general public. ICSID stimulates creativity and establishes the highest standards of quality and excellence in the practice of industrial design. It also contributes to the study of industrial design at academic and research institutions.

UNIDO

For many years there have been intensive contacts between the representatives of UNIDO and ICSID. A meeting was held in Vienna on 13 November 1991 between the representatives of UNIDO and the president, secretary-general and UNIDO liaison of ICSID.

Working Group

During the meeting it was agreed that a UNIDO-ICSID Working Group would be nominated to prepare an annual plan of action for the collaboration. The UNIDO-ICSID plan of action will be prepared on a long-term policy basis. Emphasis: activities will be studied and special commitments made, for example, with ICSID member societies in developing countries and with non-member organizations in Latin America and Africa. The utilization of industrial design expertise is seen as a valuable investment in these areas.

Cooperative structure

The ICSID representatives of the Working Group visited UNIDO in December 1992 and discussed the cooperation structure according to three distinct areas:

(a) Awareness activities: promotion to entrepreneurs and government officials in developing countries of the importance of industrial design in the manufacturing process;

(b) Institutional strengthening of design capability: ICSID-UNIDO regional workshops in countries where design awareness is weak or non-existent;

(c) Training: training design engineers in specific industrial sectors to improve the design capability for export-oriented industries.

The Working Group proposed that the ICSID Board should hold one Board meeting in 1994 in the region of Central Africa. The Board meeting should be combined with a one-day design seminar with Board members lecturing on design issues to representatives of government, commerce and other fields related to industrial design.

The ICSID liaison to UNIDO in Vienna later contacted UNIDO to get assistance in searching for professional, promotional or educational design associations/institutions in Africa. It is the intention of ICSID to establish contacts with these societies for the promotion of industrial design following the ICSID-UNIDO structure of collaboration.

ICSID regional programmes

To promote industrial design and to increase ICSID membership especially in Latin America have been an important issue in the agenda of the 1992-1993 Executive Board. Agreements have been established with international non-governmental organizations to create design awareness in this region. New members have joined ICSID from Brazil, Argentina, Colombia, Mexico and Cuba. Close cooperation with Chile and Uruguay was started at the end of the period.

1992-1993 programme

Regional design events to promote industrial design have been developed in collaboration with the new members. New links and partnerships have been set up favouring cooperation on the professional, promotional and educational level. The 1992-1993 programme consisted of the following issues:

(a) To organize an ICSID Interdesign Workshop in Brazil in 1993, on "Creative Use of Reforested Pine-Wood";

(b) To update the Latin American Directory of Educators and Researchers in Design;

(c) To organize an international forum on "Design and Cultural Diversity" in Brazil in 1994;

(d) To promote the consolidation of regional cooperation and of a Latin American network of design;

(e) To assist in the establishment of new postgraduate design courses;

(f) To support the establishment of new design centres and laboratories;

(g) To promote development of joint research projects;

(h) To extend the number of institutions associated with ICSID.

WIPO

In 1991 ICSID was granted observer membership with the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO). The growing economic importance of industrial design is making the problem of legal practices more acute. Design protection represents a wide and problematic area in the design field. A special session on design protection was therefore organized in connection with the Seventeenth ICSID World Congress, held in Ljubljana in May 1992.

The ICSID legal adviser in Design Protection Law and Practice represented ICSID and the interests of industrial designers at the Committee of Experts Meeting on the Updating of the Hague Agreement Concerning the International Deposit of Industrial Designs, held in Geneva from 27 to 29 April 1992. It was decided that ICSID would cooperate with the International Council of Graphic Design Associations (ICOGRADA) and the International Federation of Interior Architects/Interior Designers (IFI) on the subject of design protection.

ICSID was represented in 1992-1993 by its legal adviser at the following WIPO meetings:

(a) The WIPO committee discussing the revision of the Hague Agreement on international design registration;

(b) A working party of non-governmental organizations which was considering ways of resolving international disputes in the intellectual property field;

(c) WIPO's annual consultation with its recognized non-governmental organizations about its future work programme.

The ICSID official adviser in design protection law and practice has represented ICSID regularly at WIPO meetings and symposia. ICSID's observer status has considerably strengthened ICSID's role when working for the further development of design protection.

6. INTERNATIONAL UNION OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES (IULA)

(Category I)

Introduction

Founded in 1913, the International Union of Local Authorities (IULA) is the oldest and largest world-wide association of local Governments. IULA is dedicated to strengthening and improving local Governments and to promoting cooperation and the flow of information between communities across the globe.

In the 1980s, in accordance with its own policy of regionalization, IULA reorganized, and its current world-wide network is made up of a World Secretariat and six Regional Sections serving the interests of local Governments. Through the latter, services for, and programmes with, national associations and related institutions are coordinated. By the end of 1993, IULA had a membership extending to more than 80 countries world wide.

Participation and cooperation

IULA has a Permanent Representative to the United Nations who regularly keeps contact with officials in several United Nations agencies. IULA's Secretary-General has also made visits to New York for the express purpose of attending United Nations meetings and conferring with United Nations offices.

In April 1992, IULA's Permanent Representative was invited to speak at the plenary session of the United Nations Round-table meeting on "Understanding the Role of International NGOs: Challenges and Opportunities for the United Nations and Non-Governmental Organizations" organized by the Committee on Non-Governmental Organizations.

During the spring of 1992, the representative of IULA served as Convenor and Rapporteur at the Meeting of Experts on Metropolitan Governance in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; in March 1993, IULA's Secretary-General served as Rapporteur at one of the three main sessions of a formal United Nations Conference in Tokyo, Japan, on the same theme. This Conference was co-organized with the Tokyo metropolitan Government.

IULA, and in particular its environmental arm, the International Council of Local Environmental Initiatives (ICLEI), was actively involved in the preparatory process leading up to the 1992 United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, held in Rio de Janeiro. During the World Urban Forum in Curitiba, Brazil, also held in 1992, the Group of Four (IULA, United Towns Organization, Metropolis and the Summit of Largest Cities), together with ICLEI, formally represented local Governments' input and prepared a written statement for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development. The results were reflected in chapter 28 of Agenda 21. During the Conference itself, IULA was also represented. Later, in January and March 1993, IULA co-sponsored the Municipal Leaders' Summits on Climate Change in both New York and Amsterdam. The Secretary-General of IULA addressed the Summit in Amsterdam. Both of these Summits were organized by ICLEI and UNEP.

Along with the Statistical Division of the United Nations Secretariat (UNSTAT) and UNCHS, IULA is one of the partners in the Large Cities Statistical Project.

The Director of IULA is involved in the continuous process of input and review of the Urban Management Programme (UMP) as well as the Municipal Development Programme (MDP), with special focus on the Africa region.

The Secretary-General and various IULA members have given assistance to the newly established secretariat of the Commission on Sustainable Development. The Secretary-General of IULA attended the first session of the Commission on Sustainable Development in June 1993, in New York, on which occasion the Group of Four and ICLEI organized a Cities and Sustainable Development Panel. The Secretary-General of ICLEI and the permanent representative of IULA to the United Nations visited senior staff at the secretariat of the Commission on Sustainable Development to discuss follow-up to its first session.

The IULA World Secretariat and its Middle East Regional Section (EMME) were involved in consultations with UNDP in the design and development of its LIFE Programme. Indeed, EMME eventually received funds from UNDP for LIFE. UNDP has initiated a Clearing House on Decentralization Around the World, and its Expert-in-charge consulted the World Secretariat on this issue.

Since the beginning of 1993, IULA has been very much involved in the preparations for the United Nations Conference on Human Settlements (Habitat II). At the fourteenth session of UNCHS (spring 1993), a policy document was issued on the improvement of municipal management. The IULA World Executive Committee at its autumn meeting in Quito, Ecuador, held discussions on the subject and has since made it formal policy to follow up on such activities.

Other relevant activities

The Biennial World Congresses of IULA: in 1991, IULA's thirtieth Congress focused on the theme of environment, health and lifestyle and this resulted in the adoption of the Oslo Declaration, reflecting the Congress's theme. Two years later, in Toronto, Canada, the Congress was organized around the theme of "Strengthening Communities". During this Congress the IULA Worldwide Declaration of Local Self-Government was adopted, revised and readopted by the IULA Council. Subsequently in June 1993, the Secretary-General and the Mayor of The Hague, a member of the Executive Committee and host of the 1995 IULA Congress, visited the United Nations and presented the Declaration to an Under-Secretary-General of the United Nations, and to United Nations bodies in New York, notably UNDP.

Preparations for the 1995 Congress in The Hague, Netherlands, entitled "A World of Municipalities: the Way to Innovation in International Cooperation", were initiated in 1993. Many international organizations, including United Nations programmes and offices such as the United Nations Capital Development Fund (UNCDF), UNCHS, UNDP, UNICEF and the Division of Public Administration and Development Management of the Department of Development Support and Management Services of the United Nations Secretariat, as well as others, are providing input into the Congress programme.

7. JUNIOR CHAMBER INTERNATIONAL (JCI)

(Category II)

Junior Chamber International (JCI) is a federation of national Junior Chambers comprising more than 350,000 members in 115 countries and territories. JCI's geographical boundaries were expanded during 1990-1993 with the establishment of affiliated organizations in Bulgaria, the Czech Republic, Estonia and Romania in 1990, Uruguay in 1991, Zaire in 1992, and Belarus, the Congo, Costa Rica, Lithuania, Mongolia, the Niger and the Russian Federation in 1993.

The purpose of JCI is to contribute to the advancement of the global community by providing opportunities for young people to develop the leadership skills, social responsibility and fellowship necessary to create positive change. Sharing humanitarian goals similar to those of the United Nations, JCI encourages its member organizations to support and, where appropriate, to work with the United Nations and its agencies.

Junior Chamber International is an active member of the non-governmental organizations community. JCI is in consultative status with the Economic and Social Council, category II, and is associated with the Department of Public Information of the United Nations Secretariat. JCI has status with various other organizations of the United Nations, including UNESCO, WHO, ILO and UNIDO.

Participation in United Nations meetings

During the period 1990-1993, JCI representatives participated in the following meetings of the United Nations:

- (a) World Summit for Children, September 1990, New York, New York, United States of America;
- (b) NGO/Department of Public Information conference, September (1990, 1991, 1992), New York, New York, United States;
- (c) United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, NGO Forum, June 1992, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Cooperation with the United Nations and its agencies and other relevant activities

JCI supported various programmes and activities of the United Nations and its agencies, both directly and indirectly, from 1990 through 1993.

To spread the word about the role of the United Nations in the world, JCI has organized a "JCI Day at the UN" on its anniversary (11 December), observed in 1990, 1991, 1992 and 1993. JCI Day at the United Nations is designed to inform members about global concerns and the history of cooperation between JCI and the United Nations through seminars, lectures and activities held at both United Nations Headquarters in New York and Geneva.

As a follow-up to the 1990 World Summit for Children and in preparation for the 1992 Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Junior Chamber International held its first International Model United Nations (IMUN) at United Nations Headquarters in New York. In August 1991, over 500 participants from 91 different States gathered in New York for a week-long programme under the theme "The Age of Global Citizenship". Engaging in role-playing as members of the General Assembly, delegates proposed, discussed and adopted over 40 resolutions in the areas of the environment, economic development and the future of children. Several United Nations programmes and offices were major partners in the organization and speakers programme of IMUN, including UNICEF, the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) and the Department of Public Information of the United Nations Secretariat. JCI, UNICEF and the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO) signed a joint agreement during IMUN that committed these organizations to work together to halt the spread of cholera and diarrhoeal diseases in Latin America and the Caribbean. At the conclusion of the meeting, a written message from the Secretary-General of the United Nations was received congratulating Junior Chamber delegates on their work.

As a follow-up to the resolutions adopted by the General Assembly and the IMUN delegates in the field of the environment, JCI conducted a Global Citizen's Conference for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in June 1992, in conjunction with the Earth Summit. Delegates from 63 countries observed the NGO Forum preceding the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development and discussed ways to protect the global environment from pollution and deterioration. Their recommendations were forwarded to UNEP for consideration.

Junior Chamber International has worked closely with UNICEF since the collaboration agreement signed in 1986, particularly in the field of fund-raising and advocacy for oral rehydration therapy (ORT). In 1990, JCI donated 254,086 Indian rupees to assist UNICEF with ORT activities in India. Many projects at the grassroots level have been run by Junior Chamber members around the world in support of the World Declaration on the Survival, Protection and Development of Children.

During the 1993 JCI World Congress in Hong Kong, JCI renewed its commitment to the children of the world by adopting the JCI-ORT Declaration in collaboration with UNICEF.

8. UNIVERSAL FEDERATION OF TRAVEL AGENTS'
ASSOCIATIONS (UFTAA)

(Category II)

A. Mission and objectives

The Universal Federation of Travel Agents' Associations (UFTAA) gathers together national trade associations or organizations, as well as individual travel agents or travel partners, in some 85 countries around the world. In broad terms, its mission consists in:

(a) Providing to the travel industry an international forum where all matters affecting world-wide tourism can be addressed;

(b) Representing the views and supporting the interests of its members in every appropriate manner.

The Federation's objectives are to encourage travel by people of all nations and to support freedom of travel throughout the world, while fostering an environment as favourable as possible to cost-effective, safe travel. UFTAA also promotes professionalism in the travel agency business through training courses and seminars. UFTAA goals are pursued through permanent contact with member national associations, active involvement from the Board of Directors, and the organization of an annual World Congress, where resolutions are promulgated that define the Federation's policy and a framework for its action.

B. Activities in the period 1990-1993

Support to UNICEF action

Over the past four years, UFTAA and UNICEF have undertaken several joint projects, reinforcing a partnership established in 1986 through a "Declaration of Solidarity" signed to mark their respective twentieth and fortieth anniversaries, which underlined UFTAA's concern for the social and human problems in today's world.

Travel agents contributed in many ways to raising funds to help children world wide, namely through:

(a) Supporting the "Change for Good" programme set up by airlines, whereby travellers donate foreign coins they no longer need at the end of a trip;

(b) Promoting and selling UNICEF greeting cards;

(c) Creative initiatives, notably in Argentina and Australia, where the Australian Federation of Travel Agents (AFTA), a UFTAA member, has for several years held a special auction, selling donated trips and travel packages with the proceeds therefrom benefiting UNICEF.

A UNICEF representative is regularly invited to the UFTAA Annual Congress. When unable to attend, UNICEF's message is read out to UFTAA delegates.

Environmental issues

Since 1990, when a resolution (1990/1) was passed at its Cairo Congress to appoint a Rapporteur to collect information on a charter for the protection of the environment, UFTAA has maintained a close interest in this subject. In 1992, environmental awareness was the theme of its Annual Congress in Cancún, where a resolution (1992/10) and a recommendation (1992/9) were approved, reaffirming the travel agent community's commitment to the preservation of natural and cultural values in tourist areas, and establishing policy guidelines in this respect.

Following a suggestion made thereafter by its Norwegian affiliate, the UFTAA Board approved the principle of linking travel agent associations having environment committees into a network to exchange or share relevant data and form an information pool. UFTAA's member association in Japan also took an interesting initiative in favour of environmental protection, stressing travel agents' commitment to such issues by imprinting envelopes and other stationery with the words "International Traveller, Gentle to the Earth". Last year also, a questionnaire was devised in conjunction with the World Tourism Organization (WTO) and sent to all national associations to try to evaluate the impact of environmental features on clients' travelling behaviour.

The Secretary-General of UFTAA was invited to participate, on 14 December 1993, in a workshop of UNEP in Paris, prepared by the International Institute for Peace Through Tourism, dealing with "Voluntary Environmental Codes of Conduct for the Tourism Industry". Although prevented from actually attending, he was kept informed of the success of this seminar and took great interest in its proceedings and outcome.

ECPAT

In 1993, UFTAA took a firm stand to oppose sex tourism in Asia. A member of the Board of Directors undertook a vigorous campaign on this subject, on behalf of UFTAA, and travel agent national associations in many countries agreed to support the ECPAT ("End Child Prostitution in Asian Tourism") campaign launched and sponsored by major international bodies including WHO, WTO and UNICEF. In France, in particular, an information leaflet has been produced and widely distributed with the specific support of UFTAA and of its French affiliate, the Syndicat national des agents de voyages.

Moreover, in a letter sent to the ECPAT Campaign Coordinator, UFTAA advised him that its 1993 Peace Award, conferred on people or institutions who, within the travel industry, worked towards peace and understanding between nations, would be granted in recognition of ECPAT efforts. An individual from ECPAT-Germany, member of the International Committee, received this award during the twenty-seventh UFTAA Annual Congress held in Malta in November 1993 on behalf of the ECPAT Coordinator.

During this same Congress, in consideration of the fact that the tourist industry must show the greatest respect for the populations of the countries visited, and particularly for their children, a resolution (1993/5) was passed strongly condemning any form of tourism involving child abuse, as well as calling for aid to ECPAT in alerting public opinion and in demanding that laws be passed or better applied, in order to ensure that article 34 of the Convention on the Rights of the Child is duly enforced.
