

President: Mr. INSANALLY
(Guyana)

The meeting was called to order at 3.40 p.m.

(b) HUMAN RIGHTS QUESTIONS, INCLUDING ALTERNATIVE APPROACHES FOR IMPROVING THE EFFECTIVE ENJOYMENT OF HUMAN RIGHTS AND FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOMS: REPORT OF THE THIRD
COMMITTEE (PART III) (A/48/632/Add.2, DRAFT RESOLUTION XI)

The PRESIDENT: I call on the representative of France on a point of order.

Mr. MAUBERT (France) (interpretation from French): My delegation would like to state for the record that it had intended to co-sponsor the draft resolution contained in document A/C.3/48/L.65, entitled "Situation of human rights in the Sudan", which was adopted yesterday under sub-item (c) of agenda item 114.

The PRESIDENT: That information is noted.

We have before us draft resolution XI, recommended by the Third Committee in paragraph 88 of part III of its report (A/48/632/Add.2). Action on the other draft resolutions contained in that paragraph was taken by the Assembly at its 85th plenary meeting, on 20 December.

Draft resolution XI is entitled "International Decade of the World's Indigenous People".

I call on the representative of Australia.

Mr. SHARP (Australia): My delegation would like to clarify a revision to operative paragraph 9 of the draft resolution that was contained in document A/C.3/48/L.54 when it was introduced in and adopted by the Third Committee.

As a result of consultations after the draft resolution was submitted and before it was adopted by the Third Committee, it was agreed that in operative paragraph 9 the phrase

"taking fully into account through appropriate channels the views of indigenous people" should be deleted and the phrase

"with Governments and in partnership with indigenous people" should be inserted after the words "to consider".

In order fully to reflect this agreed amendment, the words "through appropriate channels" should be deleted from operative paragraph 9 of draft resolution XI. The paragraph will then read:

This record is subject to correction.

Corrections should be sent under the signature of a member of the delegation concerned within one week of the date of publication to the Chief of the Verbatim Reporting Section, Room C-178, and incorporated in a copy of the record.

Corrections will be issued after the end of the session in a consolidated corrigendum.

When the result of a recorded and/or roll-call vote is followed by an asterisk, see the annex to the record.

Distr. GENERAL

A/48/PV.86
27 January 1994

ENGLISH

"Requests specialized agencies, regional commissions and other organizations of the United Nations system to consider with Governments and in partnership with indigenous people how they can contribute to the success of the Decade, and to transmit their recommendations to the Economic and Social Council."

It will also be necessary to amend paragraph 52 of document A/48/632/Add.2 by substituting the word "deleting" for the word "replacing", and deleting the phrase "with the words 'through appropriate channels'" at the end of the paragraph.

The PRESIDENT: The representative of Australia has submitted an oral amendment to operative paragraph 9 of draft resolution XI. May I take it that it is the wish of the Assembly to adopt the oral amendment to operative paragraph 9 of draft resolution XI?

The oral amendment to operative paragraph 9 of draft resolution XI was adopted.

The PRESIDENT: May I also take it that the Assembly wishes to adopt draft resolution XI, as orally amended?

Draft resolution XI, as orally amended, was adopted (resolution 48/163).

The PRESIDENT: The Assembly has thus concluded this stage of its consideration of sub-item (b) of agenda item 114.

The Assembly has also thus concluded its consideration of all the reports of the Third Committee.

Bearing in mind rule 66 of the rules of procedure, may I take it that the Assembly agrees to discuss that report?

It was so decided.

The PRESIDENT: If there is no other proposal under rule 66 of the rules of procedure, I shall take it that the Assembly decides not to discuss the other reports of the Second Committee that are before the Assembly today.

It was so decided.

The PRESIDENT: Other statements will therefore be limited to explanations of vote.

The positions of delegations regarding the recommendations of the Second Committee have been made clear in the Committee and are reflected in the relevant Official Records.

May I remind members that, under paragraph 7 of decision 34/401, the General Assembly agreed that "When the same draft resolution is considered in a Main Committee and in plenary meeting, a delegation should, as far as possible, explain its vote only once, i.e., either in the Committee or in plenary meeting unless that delegation's vote in plenary meeting is different from its vote in the Committee."

May I remind representatives that, also in accordance with General Assembly decision 34/401, explanations of vote are limited to 10 minutes and should be made by delegations from their seats.

Before we begin to take action on the recommendations contained in the reports of the Second Committee, I should like to advise representatives that we shall proceed to take decisions in the same manner as was done in the Second Committee, unless notified otherwise in advance. This means that where recorded votes were taken in the Committee we shall do the same in the Assembly.

I hope that we may proceed to adopt without a vote those recommendations that were adopted without a vote in the Second Committee.

The Assembly will first consider parts I and XIII of the report of the Second Committee on agenda item 91, entitled "Development and international economic cooperation", in documents A/48/717 and Add.12.

We shall first consider Part I of the Second Committee's report.

With regard to the Secretary-General's report "Economic stabilization programmes in developing countries" (A/48/380), which is mentioned in paragraph 3 (c) of part I of the Second Committee's report on agenda item 91, may I take it that the General Assembly wishes - on the proposal of the Rapporteur of the Second Committee - to take note of the report of the Secretary-General?

It was so decided.

The PRESIDENT: May I further take it that the Assembly wishes to take note of part I of the report of the Second Committee?

It was so decided.

The PRESIDENT: We now turn to part XIII (A/48/717/Add.12) of the report of the Second Committee.

The Assembly will now take decisions on the three draft resolutions recommended by the Second Committee in paragraph 16 of part XIII of its report.

Draft resolution I is entitled "Follow-up to the report of the South Commission". The Second Committee adopted draft resolution I without a vote. May I take it that the Assembly wishes to do the same?

Draft resolution I was adopted (resolution 48/164).

The PRESIDENT: Draft resolution II is entitled "Renewal of the dialogue on strengthening international economic cooperation for development through partnership". Draft resolution II was adopted by the Second Committee without a vote. May I take it that the Assembly wishes to do the same?

Draft resolution II was adopted (resolution 48/165).

The PRESIDENT: Draft resolution III is entitled "An agenda for development". The Second Committee adopted draft resolution III without a vote. May I take it that the Assembly wishes to do likewise?

Draft resolution III was adopted (resolution 48/166).

The PRESIDENT: I call on those representatives who wish to speak in explanation of position.

Mr. WISNUMURTI (Indonesia): It is a privilege for me to speak on behalf of the States members of the Non-Aligned Movement on the adoption of draft resolution II in document A/48/717/Add.12, on renewal of the dialogue on strengthening international economic cooperation for development through partnership, which was sponsored by developing countries members of the Non-Aligned Movement and of the Group of 77, by China and indeed by some developed countries and countries with economies in transition.

It is indeed a source a satisfaction for the non-aligned countries and, I believe, for all Members of the United Nations that the Assembly has adopted this draft resolution. We consider it extremely significant that the international community has agreed to give new impetus to the dialogue on international cooperation for development on the basis of a new approach and orientation: mutuality of interests and benefits, genuine interdependence, shared responsibility and partnership. Also of paramount importance is that the dialogue is aimed at promoting economic growth, accelerated development and the eradication of poverty, which for too long has been sidetracked to the periphery of global concern. Regrettably, that is also partly true of the Assembly.

The fact that developed countries and the economies in transition have joined not only in adopting the consensus resolution, but also - many of them - in sponsoring it, sends a strong signal that the time has come for all countries to work together to forge a new compact through partnership for addressing issues of development. The conclusion of the Uruguay Round has given further indications that the process is growing stronger.

There is, however, an abiding need to expand these commitments further, and concretely to implement them in various forums and intergovernmental negotiations on issues of development. To that end, the forthcoming World Conference on Population and Development, to be held in Cairo next September, offers a good opportunity to implement and advance the dialogue as well as to strengthen the partnership for further enhancing international economic cooperation for development, by means of a workable and implementable plan of action in this field.

In conclusion, I would just like to say that we in the Non-Aligned Movement strongly believe in the centrality of the United Nations role in fostering development and in keeping development issues at the top of the international agenda. Therefore, we sincerely hope that the Secretary-General will greatly assist in facilitating this process by guiding our efforts and by recommending ways and means for moving the dialogue forward, as well as by elaborating relevant themes within the context of an agenda for development. That agenda should further facilitate the dialogue and help strengthen the partnership and commitment for promoting international cooperation for development.

Mr. BLANEY (United States of America): My delegation agreed to join in sponsoring draft resolution II in document A/48/717/Add.12 because we wanted to help set a new course for international discussions on development issues based upon mutual interests and shared responsibilities. It is our hope that the resolution will lead to a frank, honest and realistic exchange of views between all parts of the international community. Increasingly, people around the world are coming to accept the need for international cooperation and concerted action to address common global problems.

The preamble to the resolution states that among the most compelling of such problems are the acceleration of development, the eradication of poverty and the need to address disparities between countries. We would add to that list the challenge of integrating former communist countries into the global market economy, the need to expand democracy and human rights and the need to protect the planet for future generations. These issues are all interrelated, and need to be examined and discussed in an integrated fashion.

The United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, held last year in Brazil, and the sweeping reforms in the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development enacted at Cartagena demonstrate what we can accomplish by working together in a spirit of partnership and pragmatism. Next year's World Conference on Population and Development, to be held in Cairo, and the social Summit and the women's Conference to be held in 1995 offer opportunities to build on that progress.

The Secretary-General's report on an agenda for development should provide additional grist for the ongoing development dialogue. Such a dialogue should seek to bridge misunderstandings between countries at different levels of development and to forge consensus on what needs to be done to promote broad-based prosperity. Unfortunately, previous United Nations development dialogues, hampered by a cold-war division of Member States into ideological camps, have tended to produce only rhetorical posturing, polarization and intransigence. We must work together to avoid these pitfalls if this resolution is to succeed. We should avoid lumping States into adversarial groups. The Kearns Group demonstrates how a diverse group of countries can work together to promote shared interests. We must also avoid letting these discussions become bogged down over assistance levels and other resource questions; they should focus instead on substantive areas where we can make progress.

Last week in Geneva negotiators from 117 countries completed the most comprehensive package of trade liberalization agreements in world history. Meanwhile, in this hemisphere the United States, Canada and Mexico are preparing to implement the historic North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), a unique partnership for development between developed and developing countries.

The success of NAFTA and the Uruguay Round is cause for celebration. However, the political debates over those agreements highlight the anxieties inherent in more liberal trade and closer economic integration, especially between countries at different stages of development. People in all countries are facing painful economic adjustments today in response to global developments. We must cooperate to contain the resulting tensions so that they do not unduly complicate international relations. The recent elections in Russia are a case in point.

The forces of economic globalization and the information revolution are making our world an ever more democratic place. Issues of environmental protection, democracy and human rights, including labour and women's rights, are increasingly being brought into our trade and development discussions. These are very sensitive areas, but their linkage is unavoidable. It is best that we discuss them frankly and openly. Let this resolution be a rallying call for such a dialogue.

The PRESIDENT: We shall now consider Part III of the report (A/48/717/Add.2) of the Second Committee on agenda item 91 (a), entitled "Trade and Development". Members will recall that the Assembly considered a report (A/48/717/Add.1) of the Second Committee on agenda item 91 (a) at its 75th plenary meeting, held on 10 December.

I call on the representative of Belgium, who wishes to speak in explanation of position on behalf of the European Union.

Mr. PORTOCARERO (Belgium) (interpretation from French): It is my honour to address the Assembly on behalf of the European Union concerning draft resolutions III and IV under this item.

The European Union will join in the consensus on these two texts, as it did in the Second Committee, although we have difficulties with both. Clearly, cooperation for development must extend to all developing countries, whether land-locked or transit countries. In that context, we are playing a constructive role in the work aimed at tackling this range of problems, which are of concern to us, particularly in the framework of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, and we support programmes of assistance to the countries to which I have referred.

None the less, we firmly reiterate that this in no way implies that a new category of country should be created, particularly at the institutional level within the United Nations system. Moreover, the explicit reference to a sub-category of land-locked countries causes us additional difficulties. We admit that the reference here is to a distinct group of land-locked countries, those with economies in transition, but that only strengthens our opposition regarding the introduction of new groups and, even more so, new sub-groups demanding special attention.

For those reasons, we wish all the more that it had been possible to merge the two texts and to be more open to the land-locked countries.

The PRESIDENT: The Assembly will now take a decision on the four draft resolutions recommended by the Second Committee in paragraph 23 of Part III of its report (A/48/717/Add.2) and the draft decision recommended by the Second Committee in paragraph 24 of the same document.

The Assembly will first turn to the four draft resolutions. Draft resolution I is entitled "International code of conduct on the transfer of technology". The Committee adopted draft resolution I without a vote. May I take it that the Assembly wishes to do the same?

Draft resolution I was adopted (resolution 48/167).

Mr. FERNANDEZ-PITA (Spain) (interpretation from Spanish): My delegation has not been able to obtain document A/48/717/Add.5 in Spanish. It was not provided to the Spanish Mission, nor is it available from the documents services in this Hall. In these circumstances, in order not to interrupt the examination of the matters at hand,

In accordance with the decision taken under rule 66 of the rules of procedure, I now call on the representative of the United States of America.

Mr. BLANEY (United States of America): My delegation is honoured to speak on behalf of the sponsors and supporters of the draft resolution before us today, "Entrepreneurship and privatization for economic growth and sustainable development". I am pleased to report that since publication of the text additional sponsors have been forthcoming, so that there are now over 65 of them.

The draft resolution reflects a world that now understands that market liberalization unleashes economic growth and enables individuals to influence their own economic destinies. This increase in economic opportunity for all will also help create and sustain an environment in which democracy and human rights can flourish.

Specifically, the text directs the United Nations system in concrete ways to assist the rehabilitation and development of the private sector as an engine of growth of the world economy. It builds on previous texts in which countries universally agreed that the legal, regulatory and financial environment must be private-sector friendly. In sum, this reflects a new willingness to be cooperative because of the common desire for a better quality of life.

Upon realizing that the previous separate initiatives - one on entrepreneurship and the other on privatization - both addressed the importance of the market and the private sector for the efficient functioning of economies, the sponsors decided to merge the two initiatives and to biennialize future General Assembly consideration. This was decided in the spirit of improving the working methods of the Second Committee. The sponsors expect that this will make for more efficient intergovernmental deliberations, United Nations-system implementation and Secretariat reporting regarding the entrepreneurship and privatization initiatives.

The text before us this afternoon represents several months of open-ended consultations among interested parties, and the sponsors are grateful for Secretariat responsiveness and assistance.

The PRESIDENT: The Assembly will now take a decision on the draft resolution recommended by the Second Committee in paragraph 6 of part XI of its report (A/48/717/Add.10). The draft resolution, entitled "Entrepreneurship and privatization for economic growth and sustainable development", was adopted by the Committee without a vote. May I take it that the Assembly wishes to do the same?

The draft resolution was adopted (resolution 48/180).

The PRESIDENT: May I also take it that it is the wish of the General Assembly to conclude its consideration of sub-item (i) of agenda item 91?

It was so decided.

The PRESIDENT: The Assembly will now consider part XII of the report (A/48/717/Add.11) of the Second Committee on sub-item (j) of agenda item 91, entitled "Integration of the economies in transition into the world economy".

The Assembly will now take a decision on the draft resolution recommended by the Second Committee in paragraph 5 of part XII of its report. The draft resolution, entitled "Integration of the economies in transition into the world economy", was adopted by the Second Committee without a vote. May I take it that the Assembly wishes to do the same?

The draft resolution was adopted (resolution 48/181).

We take note of the explanations given by the Secretariat during the informal consultations relating to this point. We believe that the commitments to be entered into by the Secretariat will be fully in keeping with this interpretation.

The PRESIDENT: May I take it that it is the wish of the General Assembly to conclude its consideration of sub-item (j) of agenda item 91 and of agenda item 91 as a whole?

The PRESIDENT: I shall now call on those representatives who wish to make statements in explanation of position.

Mr. PORTOCARERO (Belgium) (interpretation from French): I am speaking on behalf of the European Union.

The European Union attaches great importance to the quest for a solution to the external-debt problems of the most seriously indebted developing countries. The Union welcomes the fact that late in the work of the Second Committee we were able to prepare a text that could be supported by us and by virtually all other Member States.

However, we feel that the resolution does not reflect adequately the progress made on the basis of a debt strategy which has evolved in a flexible manner over the years. This strategy, which takes account of the specific features of each seriously indebted country, is opening up access to international financial markets in many cases, and, in our opinion, it is the only basis for subsequent progress. We trust that a more thorough awareness of the benefits of this approach in this forum will lead to a more realistic treatment of the problem in the future.

Mr. BLANEY (United States of America): We welcome this opportunity for an exchange of views on the external debt situation.

My delegation believes that heavy debt burdens may indeed impair countries' ability to secure the benefits of economic growth. However, we must underscore that the problem of debt burdens is only one of a host of factors that may limit a country's growth potential. In this regard, we have major difficulties with this resolution before us today.

First, the resolution calls for decisions on debt policy that really should be formulated outside this forum. The World Bank and the International Monetary Fund (IMF) are the appropriate forums, since they possess the needed expertise and experience to develop the necessary reform programmes for developing countries to implement. This is not to say that the General Assembly should remain silent on debt issues, but we believe that the Organization is ill-equipped to deal with such intricacies as the level of debt reduction necessary to stimulate viability - the countries' internal and external balances consistent with sustainable growth.

The resolution, moreover, calls for the treatment of multilateral debt to alleviate debt and debt-service burdens. This is an issue that more appropriately should be raised in the executive boards of the international financial institutions, taking into consideration what effect this move would have on the credit ratings of those international financial institutions that raise the loanable resources in the international credit markets.

Furthermore, whether additional debt relief should be provided on bilateral debt owed to official creditors should best be left to discussions among the members of the Paris Club.

We do support, however, the resolution's call for the maintenance of financial flows to debtor countries in support of economic reforms. In addition, we welcome the successful conclusion of the Uruguay Round, as called for in the resolution, and trust that it will stimulate an open and expanding world trade market, to the mutual benefit of both the developing and the developed countries.

Having cast this negative vote, I want to underscore that my Government, the Governments of both developed countries, and developing countries and the international financial institutions have cooperated to bring about strong progress in dealing with international debt issues. Under the international debt strategy for addressing commercial-bank debt, progress has been very substantial. The strategy has encouraged debt and debt-service reduction by the banking community for heavily indebted countries undertaking macroeconomic and structural reforms. Creditor Governments have also taken a number of steps to assist severely indebted poorest countries, including substantial reduction of payment obligations.

I think it is appropriate to provide to the Assembly an overview of the progress that has been made. The Brady Plan, proposed in the spring of 1989, has encouraged substantial debt and debt-service reduction by commercial banks as an alternative to new money for countries undertaking IMF and World Bank reform programmes. A key feature of the strategy has been the availability of IMF, World Bank and Inter-American Development Bank financial support to collateralize the new reduced-debt instruments. Twelve countries have reached debt-reduction or refinancing agreements with their commercial banks, accounting for over 92 per cent of the $260 billion in outstanding commercial bank debt of the 16 major debtor nations. Recently, the Dominican Republic and Jordan, not counted among the 16 major debtors, also completed agreements with their banks.

The combination of debt reduction and economic reforms has helped jump-start Latin American economies and has produced major capital flows and fiscal benefits. Debt ratios have fallen sharply, moving the group as a whole out of the heavily indebted category even prior to completion of the Brazilian agreement. The Latin American region, in its remarkable turnaround in private capital inflows, gained new private finance on a gross basis of about $60 billion in 1992 alone. Growth for the Latin American region as a whole averaged 3 per cent in 1992. Inflation has fallen by nearly two-thirds, and reserves have doubled.

Commercial banks have increased capital and substantially reduced exposure to the major debtors, thus reducing the risk to the financial community in the event of default. Other developing countries in the process of negotiating restructuring packages with their commercial banks include Albania, Ecuador, Nicaragua, Panama, Peru, Poland, Sao Tome and Principe, Sierra Leone, Tanzania and Zambia.

Regarding the poorest countries, over the past several years the Paris Club has been moving towards greater flexibility and greater concessionality. Following the 1987 Venice summit, the Paris Club extended maximum repayment terms with 20-year maturity and 10 years' grace to five countries. Greater concessionality was provided by Toronto terms agreed to at the 1988 Toronto summit. More recently, the Paris Club agreed, in December 1991, to enhanced Toronto terms for the poorest countries with heavy debt burdens. Under these terms, creditors are offered four options for treating the principal and interest payments on non-concessional debt coming due during a 12- to 18-month period. The Paris Club also indicated that it would consider treatment of the stock of non-concessional debt in three to four years for performing countries. Concessional debt will be rescheduled over 30 years, with 12 years' grace on principal repayments.

So far, 16 of the poorest countries have benefited under these enhanced Toronto terms. These include Benin, Bolivia, Burkina Faso, Equatorial Guinea, Ethiopia, Guinea, Honduras, Malawi, Mauritania, Mozambique, Nicaragua, Sierra Leone, Tanzania, Togo, Uganda and Zambia.

The 1993 Tokyo summit communiqué has invited the Paris Club to continue reviewing the question of debt relief for the poorest countries, especially with regard to earlier reduction in the stock of debt on a case-by-case basis. Furthermore, it welcomed United States efforts to join the other G-7 creditors in non-concessional debt reduction. We are pleased that we have secured Congressional authorization and funding enabling the United States to join the rest of the international community in reducing the non-concessional debts of the poorest nations in line with existing enhanced Toronto terms. Fifty per cent of the debt service coming due will be reduced, followed by a 50 per cent stock reduction if the debtor's economic programme remains on track for three years.

We believe that this will be an important step to recipients of International Development Association Funding with heavy debt burdens which are making good-faith efforts to reform their economies. It complements the substantial efforts we and other creditor countries have made to forgive the concessional debts of the poorest countries which have undertaken economic reform. Since 1989, we have forgiven over $2.6 billion of concessional debts bilaterally, pursuant to legislation directed at the poorest countries. We would encourage other major creditor countries to adopt our policy of providing financial assistance to the poorest through grants rather than loans.

We are not focusing only on the poorest countries or those countries with large outstanding commercial debt as a percentage of their total debt. Another group, the lower-middle-income countries, deserves our attention. The Paris Club agreement on Houston terms in the fall of 1990 provides longer repayment terms for both concessional and non-concessional debt for lower-middle-income countries, as well as provisions for various debt swaps. Under these terms, consolidated concessional loans may be rescheduled over 20 years, with a 10-year grace period. Consolidated export credits and loans, other than concessional, will be rescheduled over 15 years, including up to eight years' grace. Conventional maximum-repayment terms offered by the Paris Club to middle-income countries had been a 10-year maturity, including 5 years' grace.

Lower-middle-income countries that have received these more generous terms include Cameroon, Côte d'Ivoire, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, Jamaica, Jordan, Morocco, Nigeria, Peru and the Philippines. I should like to add that the United States has also undertaken debt reduction under the Enterprise for the Americas initiative, a comprehensive programme for the Latin American and Caribbean region focusing on trade, investment, debt relief and the environment. Over $260 billion in food-aid debt has been reduced under this initiative for countries which have met the economic-reform criteria, including providing a welcoming environment for foreign investment.

In conclusion, we have made substantial progress, but substantial debt and debt-service reduction is only one element needed in the drive to support economic growth in the developing world. The most crucial element, however, is economic reforms, including efforts to attract private flows, and the responsibility for this rests with the developing countries themselves.

Mr. HJELMAKER (Sweden): Sweden and the Nordic countries voted in favour of the resolution on external debt contained in paragraph 11 of document A/48/718. We did so, however, with some hesitation, and I shall briefly comment on our reasons.

The debt problem varies in nature in different developing countries. We therefore strongly believe that there is a need for action on a case-by-case basis according to how that approach is defined in various forums. This approach is motivated by the importance of considering how much each country's debt stock and composition affect its possibilities for further growth and sustainable development. Debt-relief measures should be tailored to specific country needs. Across-the-board solutions, covering all debtor countries irrespective of the gravity of their debt problems and income levels, are neither called for nor applicable.

The Nordic countries would have liked to see some stronger language in the resolution on both the link to structural adjustment programmes and the need for a case-by-case approach. I also take this opportunity to reiterate our view that the United Nations is not the best place to negotiate debt issues. These issues must be decided upon elsewhere, in forums that have been entrusted with the responsibility and equipped with the tools to do so. The Nordic countries have long argued along those lines.

Finally, the Nordic countries attach high priority to addressing the debt problem of the developing countries and the need for further debt relief for the poorest among them. Over the years, we have allocated a considerable amount of aid resources for debt-reduction schemes and activities, and we continue to argue that debt reduction of up to 80 per cent of the stock of official and officially guaranteed bilateral debt should be granted to the poorest developing countries. Such debt reduction, however, should be clearly linked to a good track record of economic reforms.

The PRESIDENT: May I take it that it is the wish of the General Assembly to conclude its consideration of agenda item 92?

Draft decision II was adopted.

Mr. PORTOCARERO (Belgium) (interpretation from French): The European Union joined in the consensus on draft resolution I, which proclaims 1996 the International Year for the Eradication of Poverty. We are pleased that the resolution is universal in scope and that it decides to devote the year 1996 to the struggle against poverty and war throughout the world.

However, in this equally universal forum we feel bound to state that we are not in favour of the proliferation of all kinds of commemorations and celebrations of subjects and causes, worthy and meritorious as they may be, enshrined in proclamations of "days," "months" or "years". We believe that the publicity and activities surrounding such commemorations consume an undue portion of funds that could be better devoted to creating plans and strategies to realize those praiseworthy goals, in this case through specific and targeted actions aimed at eradicating poverty.

The PRESIDENT: Draft resolution V is entitled "Global Conference on the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States". The Second Committee adopted this draft resolution without a vote. May I take it that the Assembly wishes to do likewise?

Draft resolution V was adopted (resolution 48/193).

The PRESIDENT: Draft resolution VI is entitled "United Nations Conference on Straddling Fish Stocks and Highly Migratory Fish Stocks". The Second Committee adopted it without a vote. May I take it that the Assembly wishes to do the same?

Draft resolution VI was adopted (resolution 48/194).

The PRESIDENT: We shall now turn to the draft decision contained in paragraph 30 of the report. May I take it that the Assembly wishes to adopt this draft decision, entitled "Reports requested in General Assembly resolutions 42/186 and 42/187"?

The draft decision was adopted.

The PRESIDENT: I now call on the representative of Tunisia, who wishes to speak in explanation of position.

Mr. JOMAA (Tunisia): We have supported draft resolution VI, on the United Nations Conference on Straddling Fish Stocks and Highly Migratory Fish Stocks, and during the first session of the Conference we supported the proposal to have two further sessions of the Conference. We have, however, made clear this reservation: we do not want the programming of those sessions to overlap with other major follow-ups to the Rio Conference.

In so far as the two further sessions of the Conference on straddling fish stocks - particularly the date of the next session, that is, from 14 to 31 March 1994 - we joined the consensus on this draft resolution only to accommodate concerns related to the overlapping of other dates with those for the session of the Preparatory Committee for the International Conference on Population and Development. However, we wish to express our deep regret here that the date for the next session overlaps with the date of another major meeting - namely, a meeting of the Intergovernmental Negotiating Committee for the Elaboration of an International Convention to Combat Desertification. Hence, this programming is detrimental to a meeting of interest to African countries and the African region. This is not the first time this has happened. Meetings of interest to Africa are often programmed so that they overlap with other meetings of interest to Africa. We deeply regret that, and, although we joined the consensus on draft resolution VI, we hope that such overlapping will not be repeated in the future.

The PRESIDENT: In accordance with General Assembly resolution 3208 (XXIX) of 11 October 1974, I now call on the Observer for the European Economic Community.

Mr. McDONALD (European Economic Community): As at the last session of the General Assembly, the resolution on straddling and highly migratory fish stocks has given rise to profound differences of interpretation as to the scope of the Conference on these fish stocks, despite the absolute clarity of the Conference mandate.

The European Commission deeply regrets that we have not been able to arrive at a satisfactory solution on the text of the resolution. We regret in particular that we could not find neutral language in paragraph 7 of this resolution and a willingness to compromise which would have enabled both the Commission and our negotiating partners to live with the resolution with equanimity.

We are very concerned that this Conference will be conducted in a manner which disregards the essential interests of some partners. We feel that if this is the attitude that prevails at the Conference it will be extremely difficult, and may indeed be impossible, to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion.

In our view the Conference must firmly address the environmental issue for which it has been convened - that is, to protect straddling and highly migratory fish stocks throughout the area of their distribution. This means that both the parties fishing on the high seas and those fishing within the economic zones will have to undertake obligations to conserve and manage those fish stocks in a sustainable manner.

The European Commission has, throughout this Conference, sought to advance a reasonable position which takes full account of the interests of both high-seas and coastal-fishing States. We feel that only a responsible attitude by both can make a difference in the important task of conserving these fish stocks.

We continue to hope that this Conference will succeed under the able chairmanship of Ambassador Nandan and we look forward to cooperating with him in the coming months.

The PRESIDENT: I now call on the representative of Canada, who wishes to speak in explanation of position.

Mr. STRAUSS (Canada): Discussion of draft resolution VI, entitled "United Nations Conference on Straddling Fish Stocks and Highly Migratory Fish Stocks", started at the beginning of November, at a meeting chaired by Ambassador Nandan of Fiji, who is Chairman of the Conference.

Several amendments to the original draft were proposed, and all but one of them were agreed to. The language complained of was drawn from resolution 47/192 on the subject, which was adopted by consensus last year. The vast majority of States agreed that it should be included again in 1993, in this procedural draft resolution.

To accuse States - in particular, coastal States - of being inflexible is wrong. The record speaks for itself.

We intend to continue to work constructively in the Conference for the adoption of a convention that establishes an international regime for the effective management of straddling and highly migratory fish stocks on the high seas.

The PRESIDENT: In the light of recent experience, I should like to refer to a problem concerning representatives who attempt to indicate that they wish to speak extempore but, for the obvious reason of distance, are not seen. It is the usual practice that, in plenary meetings, delegations register with the Secretariat their intention to speak. That practice ensures that we have ample notice and can provide for an orderly debate.

We shall turn now to the draft decision contained in paragraph 30 of the Second Committee's report in document A/48/725. May I take it that the Assembly wishes to adopt the draft decision entitled "Reports requested in General Assembly resolutions 42/186 and 42/187?"

Mr. SIDI (Nigeria): My delegation welcomes the adoption by consensus of this draft resolution, which was adopted as draft resolution A/C.2/48/L.88 in the Second Committee.

My delegation, which co-sponsored the original draft resolution (A/C.2/48/L.71), would like to make the following clarification and specifically to address paragraph 3 of the resolution. It is the clear intention of paragraph 3 to maintain or to restore, as the case may be, the function and status of those full-time Senior Fellows who were appointed in 1992 and were engaged in an approved and existing project. The paragraph recommends the continuance of their functions and status in the interim, subject to examination of the whole matter by the Board of Trustees, no later than 1 July 1994, for a final decision.

Mr. BIZIMANA (Rwanda) (interpretation from French): Following the adoption by consensus of the resolution on emergency assistance for the socio-economic rehabilitation of Rwanda, I should like, on behalf of my country, to extend our thanks to all States Members - and, indeed, to the international community as a whole - for their demonstration of solidarity with the people of Rwanda. The entire population of Rwanda wishes to express its great appreciation and thanks for this gesture of support, which will strengthen our resolve to rebuild our country, restart our economy and proceed with the peace process.

That process requires, in the framework of consolidating the peace that has been restored, the establishment of a programme to assist Rwanda to restart its economy, see to the settlement of displaced persons, repatriate the refugees and proceed with the democratization already under way and the socio-economic reintegration into civil life of the military personnel who will not be taken in the new national army.

Given the scope of the effort required, Rwanda welcomes and highly appreciates the appeal made today by the General Assembly, supported by all States, in adopting this resolution to provide multifaceted assistance to Rwanda to enable it to deal with the situation.

In conclusion, I should like to thank in particular all the countries that sponsored the draft resolution.

The PRESIDENT: May I take it that it is the wish of the General Assembly to conclude its consideration of agenda item 171?

It was so decided.

The PRESIDENT: The Assembly will now consider Parts I and II of the report (A/48/715 and Add.1) of the Second Committee on agenda item 12, which concerns the report of the Economic and Social Council.

Mr. BLANEY (United States of America): This year has seen historic positive change in the search for peace in the Middle East. The United States firmly believes that the positive changes should find expression in United Nations resolutions. In this regard we had hoped that the draft resolution on economic and social repercussions of Israeli settlements would be deferred.

We believe that the appropriate forum for addressing the issue of settlements is the bilateral negotiations between Israel and the Palestinians and Israel and Syria. The Declaration of Principles signed by Israel and the PLO stipulates that the issue of settlements will be discussed in the context of final-status negotiations. The United Nations has a particular responsibility to support the Declaration of Principles as an important step towards peace and reconciliation. By contradicting the modalities of the Declaration of Principles the draft resolution before us attempts to prejudice the outcome of negotiations.

The General Assembly should support the process of those negotiations in order for all the parties to resolve their differences directly, without prejudging their outcome. At this important moment we want to avoid focusing on issues or statements that divide or polarize. Accordingly, the United States will vote against this draft resolution and urges others to do so as well.

The PRESIDENT: We shall now consider part I of the report (A/48/715) of the Second Committee on agenda item 12.

Draft decision V was adopted.

The PRESIDENT: I shall now call on those representatives who wish to speak in explanation of their votes or positions.

Mr. PORTCARERO (Belgium) (interpretation from French): I am speaking on behalf of the European Union.

The European Union did not object to the consensus adoption of draft decision V. However, we would like to make it clear that nothing in this decision can infringe upon the contents or structure of the revised agenda of the Second Committee adopted by the Assembly within the framework of the restructuring and revitalization of the economic and social sectors. These are two separate exercises, in our view.

More specifically, on item 4 of the programme of work for 1994, we stand by our view that the various items relating to the follow-up to the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development (UNCED) are sub-items under an agenda item covering all the follow-ups to UNCED.

Mr. BLANEY (United States of America): With reference to draft resolution II, "Assistance to the Palestinian people", contained in document A/48/715, I would like to make the following comments.

If the process of peace in the Middle East is to succeed, a necessary ingredient will be the economic development and reconstruction of the West Bank and Gaza. The United States is firmly committed to this goal, as we demonstrated at the Conference to Support Middle East Peace, held in Washington, D.C., on 1 October. At that Conference, the United States pledged to provide $500 million in assistance to the Palestinian people over the next five years. We continue to urge all to donate as generously as their circumstances permit.

Another necessary ingredient in bringing about a just and lasting peace in the Middle East will be the building of trust between the parties. The General Assembly today, in adopting this resolution on the basis of consensus, has taken a significant step towards building trust between the parties. For it was the mutual desire on the part of both the PLO and Israel to attain consensus on this resolution that brought about such a consensus. The support that all other Member States have given to the building of that consensus should, in the view of the United States, become a model for future discussions of Middle East issues in the General Assembly.

Mr. ELIASHIV (Israel): We have made a genuine effort to reach a consensus on draft resolution II, contained in document A/48/715, which addresses such an important issue as assistance to the Palestinian people. We believe that economic and social progress can be advanced only through cooperation, not confrontation.

However, Israel's participation in the consensus on this resolution should not be construed as implying any position regarding the present status of the territories referred to in the third and fourth preambular paragraphs as "the Occupied Territory". Nor does it carry any implication regarding Israel's position concerning the permanent status of those territories which, in accordance with the Declaration of Principles signed on 13 September 1993, are a matter to be negotiated between Israel and the PLO.

Israel fully supports and encourages economic, financial and technical assistance to the Palestinians in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. Peace and prosperity are indivisible. Economic development and improved living conditions in the territories will encourage peace and stability in the region. We welcome the concerted efforts of Member States, international financial institutions and intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations to extend economic and social assistance to the Palestinian people in order to aid in the development of the West Bank and Gaza.

We welcome the establishment of the United Nations high-level task force focusing on the economic and social development of the Gaza Strip and Jericho, and note with satisfaction the positive results of the international donors Conference held in Washington, which pledged $2 billion.

For many years now, Israel has been fully cooperating with the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and other international organizations in implementing programmes aimed at improving the living conditions of the Palestinian people in the West Bank and Gaza. It is our view that United Nations organizations such as UNDP should increase their efforts in funding to assist the Palestinians in the territories and to facilitate the successful implementation of the Declaration of Principles.

The signing of the Declaration of Principles on Interim Self-Government Arrangements by Israel and the PLO is a momentous breakthrough that opens new vistas for economic and social progress. The agreement outlines in detail envisaged economic cooperation between Israel and the Palestinians, both bilaterally and multilaterally. As stipulated in the Declaration of Principles, a joint Israeli-Palestinian economic cooperation Committee has been established to develop and implement the programmes identified in the agreement, such as those in the areas of finance, trade and industry. Concrete programmes such as these will lay the social and economic foundations that can bring us into a new era of cooperation, prosperity and peace.

Mr. TELLIER (Canada): The Canadian delegation would like to set out its views and interpretation of what the Assembly has just adopted in terms of the programme of work of the Second Committee.

The general objective of the annex II to resolution A/48/L.33 on the programme of the Second Committee, which was adopted yesterday in the plenary Assembly, is to further the restructuring and revitalize the United Nations in the economic, social and related fields. This annex sets out very useful guidelines as to how we should structure and streamline the work of the economic sector of the United Nations. The listing of prospective items is most useful in this regard. Sub-items are subject to change year by year.

The annex to decision V, which we have just adopted, sets out the draft biennial programme of work for the Second Committee for 1994 and 1995 and was drawn up in accordance with the provisions of draft resolution A/48/L.33. This was stated in explicit terms when this draft resolution was introduced in the Second Committee; we adopted this draft several days ago. Accordingly, we expect that the Second Committee's agenda for 1994 will be based on decision V, which we have just adopted. We are pleased with the biennial programme inspired by draft resolution A/48/L.33, and we are hopeful that it will result in more productive and efficient Second Committee sessions over the next two years.

The PRESIDENT: May I take it that it is the wish of the General Assembly to conclude its consideration of parts I and II of the report of the Second Committee on agenda item 12?

It was so decided.

The PRESIDENT: The General Assembly has thus concluded its consideration of all the reports of the Second Committee.

PROGRAMME OF WORK

The PRESIDENT: The next meeting of the Assembly, at which it will take up the reports of the Fifth Committee and other pending matters, such as the draft resolutions on the commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the United Nations and on the United Nations New Agenda for the Development of Africa in the 1990s, will be announced in the Journal. I shall be in contact with the Chairman of the Fifth Committee today to finalize arrangements for the next plenary meeting.

As representatives know, the Fifth Committee is meeting round the clock to complete its work. I am doing my best to see that the process is finalized as soon as possible.

Today's Journal announces a plenary meeting for tomorrow afternoon. I hope to be able, later today, to confirm that. However, representatives should watch the Journal for an announcement of the exact date on which we shall meet to deal with matters relating to the Fifth Committee and with other outstanding issues.

The meeting rose at 6.10 p.m.
