HUMAN RIGHTS COMMITTEE

Forty-fifth session

SUMMARY RECORDS OF THE 1149th TO 1176th MEETINGS

Held at the Palais des Nations, Geneva, from 13 to 31 July 1992

Corrigendum

PUBLIC MEETINGS

The present document contains the corrections received from members of the Human Rights Committee and from the Secretariat applying to the English text of the summary records of the public meetings of the Committee at its forty-fifth session (CCPR/C/SR.1149-1157, 1158-1160, 1162, 1166-1167, 1171, 1172-1173, 1174-1176 and 1176/Add.2).

The Committee also held 12 closed meetings. The summary records of those meetings (CCPR/C/SR.1157/Add.1, 1160/Add.1, 1161, 1163-1165, 1168-1170, 1171/Add.1, 1173/Add.1 and 1176/Add.1) were issued in restricted distribution. The corrections received to the records of the closed meetings do not apply to the English text.

With the issuance of the present corrigendum the summary records of the meetings held by the Human Rights Committee at its forty-fifth session are to be considered as final.

"citizenship". The draft Constitution referred to "nationality" in a context where most Western legal systems - in Europe as well as in America - would use "citizenship", implying that a person must fulfil certain requirements that would permit him to exercise his political rights. In that sense, he understood the legal term "nationality" to apply to the majority of persons simply by an act of birth, whereas "citizenship" must be seen as having certain requirements, such as reaching legal age. How did the delegation of Belarus understand the concepts of "nationality", "citizenship" and "exercise of political rights"? The report also referred to "national groups". How could members of national minorities acquire the
