ADMINISTRATIVE INSTRUCTION

To: Heads of departments and offices

From: The Under-Secretary-General for Administration and Management

Subject: RESTRUCTURING OF SECRETARIAT DEPARTMENTS AND OFFICES

1. In connection with the implementation of section I.E of General Assembly resolution 48/218 A, of 23 December 1993 on the review of the efficiency of the administrative and financial functioning of the United Nations, the Secretary-General submitted to the General Assembly, at its forty-ninth session, his report entitled "Establishment of a transparent and effective system of accountability and responsibility" (A/C.5/49/1).

2. In paragraph 27 of that report, the Secretary-General, inter alia, stated that "A number of Secretary-General's bulletins in the ST/SGB/Organization series have been reviewed and revised as necessary, particularly those relating to areas of the Secretariat that have been affected by the restructuring. The work is continuing and it is expected that, by the end of the year [1995], most of the required bulletins will be issued". Accordingly, it is essential that programme managers submit, in line with their approved medium-term plan/revised medium-term plan and the guidelines provided in the new format for the medium-term plan (1998-2001), in particular, paragraphs 6, 10 and 11, a draft of their authorized functions along with the proposed organizational structure to this Office no later than 30 September 1995. The instruction does not apply to those organizational units for which the appropriate section of ST/SGB/Organization has been issued since 1993.

3. Starting with departments and offices affected by structural changes, the updating of most of the Organization Manual is targeted for completion by December 1995. Requests for revisions to the approved organizational structure and functions of the Secretariat departments and offices shall be based on the stipulation of regulation 3.11. 1/ This regulation provides, inter alia, that the medium-term plan shall be revised as necessary every two years to incorporate required programme changes, and that the proposed revisions shall be as detailed as required to incorporate the programme implications of the resolutions and decisions adopted by the intergovernmental organs or international conferences since the adoption of the plan.

4. In order to maintain a uniform approach in preparing and drafting the Organization Manual, the programme managers should follow the attached guidelines. The Organization Management Unit which is established in the Office for Human Resources Management will provide advice on the preparation of the Organization Manual and will ensure that proposals for reorganization meet established guidelines and norms and assist the departments and offices in eliminating duplication of activities and overlap within, and with, other organizational entities performing similar tasks.

5. Authorized and approved texts of the functions and organizational structure of departments and offices are published in separate sections which will constitute the final form of the Organization Manual of the Secretariat.

6. The present administrative instruction supersedes document ST/AI/346 of 5 November 1987, effective immediately.

Notes

1/ Regulations and Rules Governing Programme Planning, the Programme Aspects of the Budget, the Monitoring of Implementation and the Methods of Evaluation (ST/SGB/PPBME Rules/1(1987)).

Annex

GUIDELINES FOR THE PREPARATION OF ST/SGB/ORGANIZATION

1. A compilation of guidelines and procedures for the preparation of the Organization Manual is provided below. These guidelines are intended to provide a standardized road map for programme managers in establishing an organizational structure along functional lines, minimizing duplication and overlap within, and with, other organizational entities performing similar tasks.

2. The Organization Manual is a management tool and should contain standardized descriptions of the functions, overall responsibilities and the structure of those departments/offices that are financed fully or partly from the regular budget of the United Nations. It does not, therefore, include descriptions of functions and organization of units that are exclusively supported by extrabudgetary funds or are autonomous.

How to prepare the Organization Manual

3. The step-by-step instructions provided below should be followed in the preparation of various segments of the draft organizational structure and functions of the departments/offices of the Secretariat:

(a) Overview

A brief historical background of the office/department and a reference to its legislative authority;

(b) Mandate

A statement of goals and objectives of an organizational entity as approved by the General Assembly and as identified in the medium-term plans/revised medium-term plans;

(c) Description of functions

Each organizational element should be properly linked with the implementation of its mandated tasks. The nature of its mandated tasks are identified in the medium-term plans/revised medium-term plans. The tasks assigned to an organizational entity should be in conformity with its mandated output. According to instructions providing for the new format of the medium-term plan for 1998-2001, subprogrammes should correspond to organizational units, normally at the level of a division, in order to ensure appropriate coordination, and to avoid duplication of activities within and with other organizational elements of an office or department. An overall coordination mechanism in the immediate "Office of the Head" is essential to ensure proper monitoring, oversight and accountability functions;

(d) Main organizational elements

This section should contain a description of functions entrusted to the following entities:

- (i) "Head" of the department/office (Under-Secretary-General/Assistant Secretary-General);
- (ii) Office of the Head;
- (iii) Executive/administrative unit(s);
- (iv) Other components, i.e.: Centre, Division, Branch, Section, Unit;

A model statement is provided in appendix I:

Special functions of the Head

4. The general administrative and managerial tasks of the Head of a department/office are described in the Introduction to the Organization Manual and, therefore, need not to be repeated in the draft submission. All specific/substantive functions performed by the Head, however, may be listed in this section;

Special functions of the Deputy

5. Similarly, the description of common responsibilities assigned to a Deputy is also provided in the Introduction to the Organization Manual. All substantive and specialized functions assigned to this post, should, however, be enumerated;

Office of the Head

6. The Office of the Head of the department/office (Office of the Under-Secretary-General, Office of the Executive Secretary, etc.) is a separate entity from the position of Under-Secretary-General/Assistant Secretary-General. Normally, in such offices, there are one or two Professional staff members who provide staff support services to the Head. This may typically include a Special Assistant. Exceptionally, individual posts/organizational elements bearing a collective name (unit, section, etc.), with specific substantive functions, may be located within such offices if the functions of the individual post(s)/organizational elements do not fit into any of the line elements or if the elements are too small to be set up as a discrete line element. The description of functions of these posts/elements should, therefore, be included in the tasks of these offices. Appendix II provides various options;

Executive office or administrative unit

7. The functions of an executive office or administrative unit are also described in the Introduction to the Organization Manual. The usual practice for these units is to report directly to the Head of an organizational entity. If administrative officers attached to the department/office are not identified by any collective term (e.g. unit), their functions should be included in the description of the Office of Under-Secretary-General/Assistant Secretary-General of the Department;

Other components/organizational elements

8. In describing the functions of the substantive and specialized units, it is essential that the objectives of the programme/subprogrammes and the course of actions specified for their implementation in the medium-term plan be taken into account. Appendix I may serve as a model;

Organizational chart

9. The narrative on the organizational structure and the functions should be accompanied by an organizational chart identifying the structure, substructures of a department/office, its administrative hierarchies and its chain of command (a sample chart is provided in appendix III). It is important to ensure that the description of functions follows the chain of command of the organizational elements. In preparing an organizational chart, the organizational nomenclature standards should be applied (see appendix IV):

Basic information required for review of ST/SGB/Organization submissions

10. In accordance with the provisions of bulletin ST/SGB/150/Rev.1, the draft organizational structure and description of functions of all organizational entities should be submitted to the Office of the Under-Secretary-General for Administration and Management for review and approval. It is essential, therefore, that the draft submissions are accompanied by the following documents, wherever feasible:

(a) A detailed incumbency/staffing table, including an appropriate title for each post, its source of funding (regular/extrabudgetary) and the duration for which such posts are made available to the organizational unit;

(b) Job descriptions: official job descriptions (if available) for head of department/office, the deputy, staff office, executive office/administrative unit and line supervisors;

(c) A combined organizational chart and staffing resources for each organizational element;

(d) Copies of relevant portions of medium-term plan/revised medium-term plan, General Assembly resolutions and other legislative instruments and directives;

(e) Clear definition of each substantive unit and specific elements of medium-term plan and its assigned output.

Publication and distribution

11. Upon completion and approval by the Secretary-General of the document containing the text of the organizational structure and functions (ST/SGB/Organization), it will be issued in the six official languages of the United Nations and published as an official document of the Secretariat.

12. The Organization Manual is addressed to members of the staff. This includes all members of the staff appointed by the Secretary-General under the Staff Regulations and Rules who should have easy access to the Manual and should know of its existence and availability. Distribution of the Manual and related material within departments is the responsibility of executive/administrative officers. Supervisory personnel at all levels are expected to retain a copy of the Manual for reference purposes.
