FOREWORD BY THE SECRETARY-GENERAL

Thirty-one years have passed since the leaders of Africa adopted in July 1964, at Cairo, the pioneering resolution of the First Ordinary Session of the OAU Summit, which declared Africa a denuclearized zone. That resolution has been reaffirmed by the General Assembly in the relevant resolutions it has adopted since December 1965.

I am gratified by the historic decision taken by the African Heads of State during the thirty-first Ordinary Session of the OAU Summit in June 1995 at Addis Ababa, whereby they adopted the Final text of the African Nuclear-Weapon-Free-Zone Treaty. The establishment of An African nuclear-weapon-free zone will advance global norms and contribute to efforts to prevent the proliferation of nuclear weapons and strengthen the international non-proliferation regime.

An African nuclear-weapon-free zone will also contribute greatly to the stride towards a world free from nuclear weapons. It is a promising example to others wishing to contribute to broadening the areas of the world from which nuclear weapons will be forever proscribed. I encourage the establishment of additional nuclear-weapon-free zones.

In an "Agenda for Peace", I have made it clear that the maintenance of international peace and security is a shared undertaking, a partnership between the United Nations and regional organizations and arrangements. In disarmament, the "globalization" of the subject means that it should be understood as a global enterprise, involving regional organizations, States and the international community as a whole. The African Nuclear-Weapon-Free-Zone Treaty has been prepared under "United Nations auspices" in cooperation with the Organization of African Unity (OAU). The United Nations stands ready to help its Member States to fulfil the wish of the international community to turn the logic of non-proliferation into concerted action.

The Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons continues to provide an indisputable framework for the global non-proliferation efforts. I have already had occasion to refer to developments which demonstrate the interaction between global and regional dimensions of arms control and disarmament. It is my conviction that an African nuclear-weapon-free zone will enhance global as well as regional peace and security.

The year 1995 has already witnessed the indefinite extension of the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons. There is no doubt that the historic decision of the African leaders to adopt the Final text of the African Nuclear-Weapon-Free-Zone Treaty would be a most welcome way to commemorate the Fiftieth Anniversary of the United Nations.

As we pay tribute to African leaders, let us not forget that the most safe, sure and swift way to deal with the threat of nuclear arms is to do away with them in every regard. This should be our vision of the future. No more testing. No more production. No more sales or transfers. Reduction and destruction of all nuclear weapons and the means to make them should be humanity's great common cause.

I wish to express my appreciation to the OAU/United Nations Group of Experts to Prepare a Draft Treaty on an African Nuclear-Weapon-Free-Zone Treaty for completing this important undertaking.

2 August 1995

Sir,

I have the honour to refer to General Assembly resolution 49/138 of 19 December 1994 on the establishment of an African nuclear-weapon-free zone. In paragraph 9 of that resolution, the Assembly requests the Secretary-General, in consultation with the Organization of African Unity, to take appropriate action to enable the Group of Experts designated by the United Nations in cooperation with the Organization of African Unity to meet jointly with the Intergovernmental Group of Experts of the Organization of African Unity early in 1995 at Pretoria in order to finalize the drafting of a treaty on a nuclear-weapon-free zone in Africa, and to submit the text of the treaty to the General Assembly at its fiftieth session under the item entitled "Final text of a treaty on an African nuclear-weapon-free zone".

Following this resolution, the United Nations, in cooperation with the Organization of African Unity (OAU), organized the Joint Meeting of OAU/United Nations Group of Experts and the Intergovernmental Group of Experts to finalize the drafting of a treaty on a nuclear-weapon-free zone in Africa. PELINDABA TEXT OF THE AFRICAN NUCLEAR-WEAPON-FREE
ZONE TREATY

The Parties to this Treaty,

Guided by the Declaration on the Denuclearization of Africa, adopted by the Assembly of Heads of State and Government of the Organization of African Unity (hereinafter referred to as OAU) at its first ordinary session, held at Cairo from 17 to 21 July 1964 (AHG/Res.11(1)), in which they solemnly declared their readiness to undertake, through an international agreement to be concluded under United Nations auspices, not to manufacture or acquire control of nuclear weapons,

Guided also, by the resolutions of the fifty-fourth and fifty-sixth ordinary sessions of the Council of Ministers of OAU, held at Abuja from 27 May to 1 June 1991 and at Dakar from 22 to 28 June 1992 respectively, (CM/Res.1342 LIV) and CM/Res.1395 (LVI)), which affirmed that the evolution of the international situation was conducive to the implementation of the Cairo Declaration, as well as the relevant provisions of the 1986 OAU Declaration on Security, Disarmament and Development,

Recalling United Nations General Assembly resolution 3472 B (XXX) of 11 December 1975, in which it considered nuclear-weapon-free zones one of the most effective means for preventing the proliferation, both horizontal and vertical, of nuclear weapons,

Convinced of the need to take all steps in achieving the ultimate goal of a world entirely free of nuclear weapons, as well as of the obligations of all States to contribute to this end,

Convinced also that the African nuclear-weapon-free zone will constitute an important step towards strengthening the non-proliferation regime, promoting cooperation in the peaceful uses of nuclear energy, promoting general and complete disarmament and enhancing regional and international peace and security.

Aware that regional disarmament measures contribute to global disarmament efforts,

Believing that the African nuclear-weapon-free zone will protect African States against possible nuclear attacks on their territories,

Noting with satisfaction existing NWFZs and recognising that the establishment of other NWFZs, especially in the Middle East, would enhance the security of States Parties to the African NWFZ,

Reaffirming the importance of the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons (hereinafter referred to as the NPT) and the need for the implementation of all its provisions,
