

General Assembly

Fiftieth Session

99th plenary meeting
Friday, 22 December 1995, 3 p.m.
New York

Official Records

President: Mr. Diogo Freitas do Amaral (Portugal)

The meeting was called to order at 4.35 p.m.

Reports of the Third Committee

The President: The General Assembly will now consider the reports of the Third Committee on agenda items 107, 112 (a) to (e), 165 and 12.

I request the Rapporteur of the Third Committee to introduce the reports of the Third Committee in one intervention.

Mr. Mohamed (Sudan), Rapporteur of the Third Committee: I have the honour to present the reports of the Third Committee on agenda items 107, 112 (a) through (e), 165 and 12.

Under agenda item 107, "Advancement of women", the Third Committee recommends in paragraph 34 of document A/50/630 the adoption of seven draft resolutions and in paragraph 35 the adoption of one draft decision.

The report on agenda item 112 (a) through (e) has been issued in six parts, contained in documents A/50/635 and Add.1 to Add.5, respectively.

Under agenda item 112, "Human rights questions", the Third Committee lists in document A/50/635 the documents before the Committee at its fiftieth session.

Under sub-item (a), "Implementation of human rights instruments", the Third Committee recommends in paragraph 14 of document A/50/635/Add.1 the adoption of three draft resolutions.

Under sub-item (b), "Human rights questions, including alternative approaches for improving the effective enjoyment of human rights and fundamental freedoms", the Third Committee recommends in paragraph 57 of document A/50/635/Add.2 the adoption of 16 draft resolutions.

Under sub-item (c), "Human rights situations and reports of special rapporteurs and representatives", the Third Committee recommends in paragraph 76 of document A.50/635/Add.3 the adoption of 13 draft resolutions and in paragraph 77 the adoption of one draft decision.

Under sub-item (d), "Comprehensive implementation of and follow-up to the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action", the Third Committee recommends in paragraph 8 of document A/50/635/Add.4 the adoption of one draft resolution.

Under sub-item (e), "Report of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights", document A/50/635/Add.5 contains an account of the Third Committee's consideration; it does not contain any recommendation to the General Assembly.

Under agenda item 165, "Implementation of the Outcome of the Fourth World Conference on Women: Action for Equality, Development and Peace", the Third Committee recommends in paragraph 14 of document A/50/816 the adoption of two draft resolutions and in paragraph 15 the adoption of one draft decision.

Under agenda item 12, "Report of the Economic and Social Council", the Third Committee recommends in paragraph 10 of document A/50/625 the adoption of three draft decisions.

There are some corrections arising from typographical errors to which I would like to refer.

Document A/50/635/Add.3 should list the Russian Federation as abstaining in the vote on draft resolution A/C.3/50/L.43, not draft resolution A/C.3/50/L.44. The document will be corrected to reflect this. Other corrections, by the delegation of Canada and the delegation of Japan, have also been duly noted and will be made in the reports.

I should like, in conclusion, to thank the Chairman of the Third Committee for his wisdom, guidance and diplomatic skill, which enabled the Committee's work to reach a successful conclusion. I should also like to thank the two Vice-Chairmen with whom I have had the pleasure to work, Patrick John Rata of New Zealand and Julia Tavares de Alvarez of the Dominican Republic, and all the other colleagues in the Third Committee. This was my first year in the Third Committee, and it was a pleasure for me to work with all my colleagues there. I liked it very much, and I have decided to continue to work in the Third Committee while I am here in New York.

Allow me also to thank the Secretary of the Third Committee, Kate Starr Newell, and her very able staff, particularly Vivien Pliner-Josephs and Alexandre De Barros, who worked with dedication and without complain to make these reports available to the Assembly.

I should also like to thank you, Mr. President, for allowing us to introduce the reports at two meetings, despite the problems of documentation we are now facing. I should also like, through you, to thank the secretariat of the General Assembly for their support and for the work they have done for me.

It has been a pleasure for me personally to work as Rapporteur of the Third Committee, and it has been an honour for my delegation, the delegation of the Sudan, to work in that Committee. We commit ourselves to the further improvement of the work of the General Assembly.

In conclusion, allow me to wish everyone a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

The President: If there is no proposal under rule 66 of the rules of procedure, I shall take it that the General Assembly decides not to discuss the reports of the Third Committee that are before the Assembly today.

It was so decided.

The President: Statements will therefore be limited to explanations of vote or position.

The positions of delegations regarding the recommendations of the Third Committee have been made clear in the Committee and are reflected in the relevant official records.

May I remind members that under paragraph 7 of decision 34/401, the General Assembly agreed that "When the same draft resolution is considered in a Main Committee and in plenary meeting, a delegation should, as far as possible, explain its vote only once, i.e., either in the Committee or in plenary meeting, unless that delegation's vote in plenary meeting is different from its vote in the Committee".

May I remind delegations that, also in accordance with General Assembly decision 34/401, explanations of vote are limited to 10 minutes and should be made by delegations from their seats.

Before we begin to take action on the recommendations contained in the reports of the Third Committee, I should like to advise representatives that we shall take decisions in the same manner as in the Third Committee, unless notified otherwise in advance.

This means that where recorded or separate votes were taken, we will do the same.

I would also hope that we may proceed to adopt without a vote those recommendations that were adopted without a vote in the Third Committee.

Agenda item 107

The President: The Assembly has before it seven draft resolutions recommended by the Third Committee in paragraph 34 of its report and one draft decision recommended by the Third Committee in paragraph 35.

Mr. Fernández (Spain) (interpretation from Spanish): This morning we told the Secretariat that the text that appears in operative paragraph 2 (d) of draft resolution IV is not the text which was agreed on. We thought that that correction was going to be referred to by the Rapporteur, and we would appreciate a clarification of this matter.

The President: I call on the representative of Sudan as Rapporteur of the Third Committee.

Mr. Mohamed (Sudan), Rapporteur of the Third Committee: The representative of Spain is quite right. I am sorry that we missed this correction.

I shall now read out the correct text of operative paragraph 2 (d) of draft resolution IV:

"Undertaking necessary measures to give rural women full and equal access to productive resources, including the right to inheritance and to ownership of land and other property, credit, capital, natural resources, appropriate technologies, markets and information, and meeting their basic requirements in water and sanitation;"

The President: I repeat that draft resolution IV, "Improvement of the situation of women in rural areas", corresponds to Third Committee document A/C.3/50/L.24

The President: The Assembly will now take a decision on the three draft resolutions recommended by the Third Committee in paragraph 14 of Part II of its report.

I call on the representative of China on a point of order.

Ms. Feng Cui (China) (interpretation from Chinese): During the discussion of draft resolution A/C.3/50/L.47/Rev.1 in the Third Committee, we pointed out that the Chinese translation of operative paragraph 20 was not correct. We provided corrections in writing to the Secretariat.

We have just discovered that the Chinese translation of this paragraph — as it now appears in draft resolution II in document A/50/635/Add.1 — is still not consistent with the English version. The English version does not make any reference to the Secretary-General, while the Chinese version does. We request the Secretariat to make the necessary correction to the Chinese translation. We have no problem with the English version. If we are adopting the English version, our delegation would have no difficulty whatsoever.

The President: The Secretariat has taken note of the correction requested by the Chinese delegation.

We shall now proceed to take a decision on draft resolution II, "Effective implementation of international instruments on human rights, including reporting obligations under international instruments on human rights". I repeat that it corresponds to Third Committee document A/C.3/50/L.47/Rev.1.

The President: I call now on the representative of Mexico, who has asked to speak in explanation of vote.

Mrs. Espinosa (Mexico) (interpretation from Spanish): The Government of Mexico supports respect for the principles of national sovereignty and non-interference in the internal affairs of States in their electoral processes, and therefore voted in favour of draft resolution I, on that subject, contained in the report of the Third Committee (A/50/635/Add.2). We wish, however, to state that paragraph 4 should be understood within the context of other resolutions adopted by the General Assembly on this matter. We therefore understand the provisions of that paragraph not to conflict with or constrain activities for technical assistance provided by the Electoral Assistance Division upon the explicit request of the countries concerned.

The President: We have thus concluded this stage of our consideration of sub-item (b) of agenda item 112.

(c) Human rights situations and reports of special rapporteurs and representatives

Report of the Third Committee (Part IV)
(A/50/635/Add.3)

The President: The Assembly has before it 13 draft resolutions recommended by the Third Committee in paragraph 76 of Part IV of its report and a draft decision recommended in paragraph 77.

I shall call first on those delegations wishing to speak in explanation of vote or position before action is taken on these recommendations.

Mr. Alaideroos (Yemen) (interpretation from Arabic): I wish to put on record the position of my delegation on the draft resolutions recommended by the Third Committee under agenda item 112 (c), which relate to the human rights situation in various States. Since its founding, the Republic of Yemen has consistently pursued a policy of respect for and of upholding human rights. It has opted for democracy and political pluralism; it has laid down laws and legislative rules that enable its citizens to exercise their intellectual, social, economic and political rights and freedoms in accordance with prevailing laws and the Constitution.

Mr. Lamamra (Algeria), Vice-President, took the Chair.

It conducted the first free parliamentary elections in 1993, and it is now preparing for local government elections under the law on local government. In addition, it paved the way for freedom of the press and for the political pluralism that has given rise to the emergence of more than 20 political organizations and parties.

At the international level, Yemen acceded to and ratified most human-rights conventions and other instruments, thus demonstrating its absolute commitment to respect for human rights, fundamental freedoms, democracy and social justice for the individual. On this basis, it consistently expresses grave concern over and denunciation and condemnation of violations and breaches of human rights, regardless of where they occur. In this regard, Yemen makes no distinction between one case and another.

When we examine the draft resolutions that are before the Assembly we notice that some of them embody a process of politicization of human rights, and that such politicization serves the interests of certain States at the expense of others, and thus flouts the Universal Declaration of Human Rights of 10 December 1948 and its annexes, the two international Covenants, the Vienna Declaration and other international human-rights instruments. This is the result of selectivity — failure to abide by norms and standards. The methods used are devoid of impartiality and objectivity. In some cases, there is interference in the internal affairs of States, and national sovereignty is infringed. This weakens credibility and endangers the concepts of human rights.

Consequently, my delegation emphasizes the need to respect national sovereignty, to avoid interfering in the internal affairs of States and to respect the beliefs, traditions and religious creeds of peoples. The extent of respect for human rights should always be measured with the same yardstick. There should be no selectivity or double standards or politicization in the case of any State. This assertion stems from our belief that commitment by States to such an approach would enhance and protect human rights and fundamental freedoms and would lead to the establishment of equitable international relations based on mutual respect and belief in the common good, in a world where justice, democracy, progress and peace prevail.

Consequently, the Republic of Yemen, which believes in and cherishes the basic principles of human rights and tries to promote and protect them and, thus, to remain impartial when faced with selective, two-faced, politicized positions, will contribute to the application of standard norms and concepts in all cases, without selectivity or politicization, by not participating in the vote on draft resolutions or proposals concerning human rights in States, with the exception of those adopted by consensus.

Mr. Borda (Colombia) (interpretation from Spanish): My delegation would like to state, for the record, that with regard to draft resolution XI, entitled “Situation of human rights in Cuba”, on which the Assembly will take action, the Government of Colombia is pleased at the positive progress that has been made in Cuba in the area of human rights. I refer in particular to the cooperation extended by the Government of Cuba — something that is recognized by the Special Rapporteur in his report. The ratification of the United Nations Convention against torture, the visit to the country by some non-governmental human-rights organizations and the visit by the High Commissioner for Human Rights in November 1994 are all evidence of this cooperation.

Colombia cannot but welcome the agreements on migration reached by Cuba and the United States of America. These meet the need that has been felt to provide a sensible framework for migration flows. In addition, Colombia welcomes the economic reforms recently undertaken by the Cuban Government, as these will promote the well-being of Cuban society and of the Cuban people.

All of this is proof that it is possible, through dialogue and international cooperation, to make progress in the area of human rights.

Given these facts, and convinced that the promotion, protection and full enjoyment of all human rights and fundamental freedoms must be governed by the principles of non-selectivity, impartiality and objectivity and that they should never be used for political purposes, Colombia will abstain in the vote on draft resolution XI.

Mr. Fernández Palacias (Cuba) (interpretation from Spanish): I should like to explain the vote that Cuba will cast on draft resolution XI, entitled "Situation of human rights in Cuba".

The General Assembly is about to enter a new stage in an exercise that has been one of the worst injustices in the recent history of this Organization, thought up and imposed by the super-Power which does not conceal its efforts to crush the ideals of freedom and social justice that have inspired our country.

The Government of the United States is utterly devoid of the necessary political and moral authority to proclaim itself the arbiter of human rights in Cuba. In fact, despite mammoth efforts and diplomatic pressures, it has not been able to universalize its anti-Cuba concoction.

How can those who have financed, organized and promoted all kinds of aggression against our people talk about human rights in Cuba? How can those who continue even to deny millions of children, women and old people access to food and medicines talk about human rights in my country?

Cuba will continue to move forward along its historic road of independence and social justice; it will continue the sovereign process of changes now under way, on the basis of the consensus of the people; and it will faithfully cooperate with the United Nations, guided by the principles of objectivity, impartiality and non-selectivity in respect of all human rights, everywhere in the world.

The international community should put a stop to this exercise, which contributes nothing to the protection and enjoyment of human rights in Cuba. Why should such waste of so much material and human effort continue to be allowed? Why should procedures that are so necessary to the promotion and protection of human rights be allowed to be so discredited?

Cuba will never accept this crude draft, however much it may be dolled up. Cuba will never accept a special rapporteur, however much he may be disguised as a neutral and independent person.

For all these reasons, Cuba will vote against draft resolution XI.

Mr. Gambari (Nigeria): I wish to speak in explanation of vote on draft resolution XII, "Situation of human rights in Nigeria".

My delegation would like to state how unhappy it is to observe that the General Assembly has been asked to take action on a draft resolution which seeks to address a domestic issue in a Member State. The issue in question is the execution of nine Nigerians who were found guilty of murder after due process and in line with the laws of the land and the Constitution of my country.

The General Assembly has just celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the United Nations, and during that celebration it affirmed the commitment of Member States to the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations. It is now being asked, through immense diplomatic pressure on several Member States of our Organization, to act contrary to the spirit and the letter of Article 2, paragraph 7, of that Charter.

The sovereign right of a Member State to enact its own laws within acceptable international standards is being challenged, and the retention by Member States of capital punishment for serious offences is also being questioned as uncivilized — as if there were a violation of human rights under the Covenant on Civil and Political Rights. This is an unacceptable irony of events.

The principal sponsors of this draft resolution have not only launched a campaign of disinformation but have also demonstrated an unusual arrogance of power, seeking to prescribe who governs Nigeria, when and how. With all due respect, we submit that the change from one form of government to another is the business of the people of Nigeria. In this connection, my delegation would like to reaffirm that the democratic principle is not alien to Nigeria, and much has been done already by Nigerians themselves about the promotion of that system of governance on a sustainable basis.

It would be unfortunate if the General Assembly — which under Article 13 of the Charter of the United Nations should make recommendations for promoting international cooperation and for assisting in the realization of human rights and fundamental freedoms for all without distinction — were to agree to take selective actions to deny Nigeria the right to development and to deprive Nigerians of their right to free movement in and out of some Member States of this Organization.

My delegation would like to state that the highly emotive reaction to the rejection of the plea of clemency for the convicted Nigerians cannot justify the manipulation of the procedures of the General Assembly by some relatively more powerful Members of our Organization. By acting on the present draft resolution, the Assembly will be acting contrary to Article 62 of the Charter, which gives the Economic and Social Council the responsibility to “make recommendations for the purpose of promoting respect for, and observance of, human rights and fundamental freedoms for all”.

What Nigeria needs is international understanding, international accommodation and international cooperation so as to facilitate the faithful implementation of its political programme within its established time frame for a return to civil rule and the promotion of human rights for all in Nigeria. In this connection, we very much welcome any genuine assistance from friendly Member States towards the achievement of this goal.

Based on the foregoing observations, my delegation rejects the draft resolution, and in particular its fourth and fifth preambular paragraphs and operative paragraphs 1, 2, 4, 5 and 6.

Mr. Dlamini (Swaziland): Our statement in explanation of vote relates to the human rights in Kosovo in the Balkans.

We should like simply to state that we are going to change our position after due consultation with our Government.

Mr. Afonso (Mozambique): We have been following with keen interest the consideration of the issue before us concerning the situation of human rights in Nigeria.

Since our independence, we in Mozambique have consistently fought for and abided by strict observance of and respect for internationally accepted principles and norms governing human rights — not only in political spheres but also in social, economic and cultural spheres. Under the 1990 Constitution, the death penalty in Mozambique was abolished. At the same time, we are taking measures aimed at further strengthening peace, unity and national reconciliation, while preserving our independence. Our stand in the international arena is in conformity with our internal political and moral values. We therefore join all those who work for the promotion and respect of human rights and fundamental freedoms.

We deplore the events which have occurred in Nigeria, especially the sentencing to death of the nine defendants on 10 November 1995. In this context, our aim is to promote dialogue, with a view to encouraging our brothers and sisters in Nigeria to find political solutions to their problems. Any action we might undertake should take into account the need to prevent the worsening of the situation in that country. We should encourage the Nigerian forces to continue working for democracy and human rights.

It is within this framework that we welcome the communiqué of the Commonwealth Ministerial Action Group on the Harare Declaration, issued in London on 20 December 1995. Conscious of the fact that a culture of democracy and of respect for human rights is a process that cannot be imposed from the outside, we believe that time and patience will be needed to fully settle an issue of the magnitude and complexity of that of Nigeria. This is our understanding of the time-frame agreed upon by the Commonwealth Summit in Auckland.

Accordingly, my Government is of the view that we should contribute, to the best of our abilities, to preventing the exacerbation of misunderstandings between Nigeria and the international community at large. Efforts should be deployed in order to ensure that this state of affairs does not reach uncontrollable proportions. We are not convinced that measures in response to human rights violations should be pursued to the last consequence before other possible actions are considered in detail. Instead, we should stand together and devise a common strategy which can assist that sister country in solving its problems and enabling it to return to the family of respected sons and daughters of Africa, whose contribution has been vital in the common struggle for the liberation of our continent.

It is also our understanding that the solution lies on the path of principles and traditions which our continent — the African continent — has followed for so many years. This has preserved our sovereignty and reaffirmed our commitment to democracy, respect for human rights and non-interference in internal affairs.

For the foregoing reasons, my delegation will abstain on this draft resolution concerning the situation of human rights in Nigeria.

Ms. Wahbi (Sudan) (interpretation from Arabic): The delegation of the Sudan wishes to clarify its position on all draft resolutions on human rights in certain States which have been selectively targeted for political reasons that have nothing at all to do with human rights as such.

Sudan refers to draft resolution X on human rights in the Sudan. We reaffirm our position of rejection of this unjust draft resolution, which ignores all positive and political developments in Sudan. We have asked for a separate vote on operative paragraphs 2, 4 and 12, regardless of our position on the draft resolution as a whole, because those paragraphs sow the seeds of discord in Sudan with the aim of fragmenting the country and represent blatant interference in the internal affairs of Sudan, in complete contravention of the United Nations Charter, which applies to every Member here today. Moreover, these paragraphs completely ignore the Sudan's continued official and other clarifications concerning the Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in Sudan.

Consequently, we shall vote against that draft resolution and we call upon all countries that uphold the principle of the sovereignty of nations to follow suit.

Mr. Hasan (Iraq) (interpretation from Arabic): Our delegation has been deprived of its right to vote in the General Assembly because my country has not paid its contributions in view of the comprehensive sanctions regime imposed against it. This has prevented Iraq from exporting its products and has frozen its assets abroad. Some Powers have rejected Iraq's ongoing attempts to reach a solution exempting it from the application of Article 19 of the Charter.

Had we had the right to vote, we would vote against the draft resolutions on the human rights situations in Iraq, Cuba, Nigeria and Sudan. These draft resolutions are of a political character and in no way serve human rights. On the contrary, they do harm to human rights as human rights are used in this context as a ploy to cover up illegal political activities, including interference in the internal affairs of States and imposing outside choices upon them.

As to the draft resolution on Iraq, I hope to remind the champions of human rights who shed tears over the situation of human rights in Iraq that it is they who are depriving Iraqi civilians of their basic human rights by imposing a comprehensive sanctions regime that has led to deaths of tens of thousands of women and children. These sanctions have denied Iraqis their basic human rights to food, medication, education and other necessities.

Mr. Nsanze Terence (Burundi): My delegation would like briefly to explain the reasons that have led it to oppose the draft resolution on the situation of human rights in Nigeria. Given that we have already set forth those reasons in the Third Committee, I will be very brief.

We would like to emphasize one specific aspect of the issue: our vote is not directed against any State whatsoever but is in strict accordance with the Charter of the United Nations, which in our view has a kind of supremacy over all the other international conventions on human rights.

As far as basic principles are concerned, the position of the delegation of Burundi is in full conformity with the need to safeguard and respect human rights. However, since we believe that the situation in Nigeria could have been dealt with differently as far as procedure is concerned, we feel that our Government should adhere to the principles for which it stands. It should be understood — and we would appeal to all our friends who are in favour of this draft resolution and to its sponsors to understand — that we are not voting against them: we are voting in favour of principles. Just as they are not voting against Burundi, since it is not Burundi but principles that are directly concerned, we earnestly urge them to understand that we should have the right to vote in accordance with our conscience, in accordance with our principles and in accordance with the procedure that we believe to be the right one.

In conclusion, I repeat that we are hostile to nobody but are adhering to a principle which we regard as sacrosanct: the sovereignty of a Member State. Therefore, respecting the right of the sponsors and of those who will vote in favour of the draft resolution, I repeat those sacred principles already enunciated by a historical political figure, Abraham Lincoln:

“With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right”. (Second inaugural address)

The Acting President: May I remind all delegations that those that have explained their vote in the Committee should, as much as possible, refrain from repeating the explanation in the plenary Assembly.

We have heard the last speaker in explanation of vote before the vote.

We turn first to draft resolution I, “Situation of human rights in the Islamic Republic of Iran”.

[Subsequently, the delegations of Cyprus and the Marshall Islands informed the Secretariat that they had intended to vote in favour.]

The Acting President: Draft resolution XIII is entitled "Situation of human rights in Rwanda".

The Third Committee adopted draft resolution XIII.

May I take it that the Assembly wishes to do the same?

Draft resolution XIII was adopted (resolution 50/200).

The Acting President: We turn now to the draft decision recommended by the Third Committee in paragraph 77 of document A/50/635/Add.3.

The draft decision is entitled "Documents considered by the General Assembly in connection with human rights questions: human rights situations and reports of special rapporteurs and representatives".

May I consider that the Assembly wishes to adopt the draft decision?

The draft decision was adopted.

The Acting President: I shall now call upon those representatives wishing to make statements in explanation of vote.

Mr. Matesić (Croatia): The delegation of Croatia wishes to make a statement in explanation of its vote on the draft resolution entitled "Situation of human rights in the Republic of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Republic of Croatia and the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (Serbia and Montenegro)", which the Assembly has just adopted.

Croatia voted in favour of the draft resolution despite having strong reservations with regard to operative paragraph 6.

First, we wish to state that some of my delegation's concerns were taken into account during the drafting of the text and that this made it possible for us to support the draft resolution. However, we find the wording and placement of operative paragraph 6 unsatisfactory.

The text of the resolution, as it stands, can lead to the misinterpretation that the legitimate military action by Croatian security forces, and certain crimes committed by individuals and groups primarily after the military operation, are equivalent to the actions which are also condemned in the text and which are attributed primarily to the Serb side — such actions as "ethnic cleansing" massive and systematic violations of human rights and international humanitarian law, mass rape and indiscriminate shelling of civilians.

We wish to reiterate that the Croatian military operation referred to in operative paragraph 6 of the resolution was conducted within the internationally recognized borders of the Republic of Croatia in order to restore the authority of the legitimate and democratically elected Government. Secondly, this operation liberated territory which was under the control of brutal and oppressive foreign proxy forces, which had for the past four years conducted a campaign of genocide against Croats and other non-Serb citizens of Croatia. Thirdly, the military operation lifted the siege of the Bosnian city of Bihac and spared tens of thousands of individuals from meeting the same fate as that of the unfortunate victims of Srebrenica.

It should be pointed out that the number of civilian casualties, as well as the amount of property destroyed during the course of this military operation, was extremely small for an operation of such a scale. This provides compelling evidence that the Croatian military and Government undertook significant measures to keep collateral damage to a minimum. We wish to stress that Croatia is proud of the professional conduct of its troops during the military operation and their efforts to prevent civilian casualties.

The Croatian Government is aware that there were criminal acts committed by individuals and groups in the aftermath of the Croatian military operation, resulting in the death of several dozens of individuals — primarily members of the Serb community in Croatia. The Croatian Government condemns these actions and has undertaken measures to remedy them. We wish to refer, however, to a statement by a United Nations spokesman, Mr. Alun Roberts, in regard to these incidents, as quoted in The New York Times of 12 December 1995, that “There, has not been an organized Government campaign to harass, loot and kill people”.

In conclusion, Croatia reaffirms its commitment to respecting human rights and fundamental freedoms and to remaining transparent in its human rights policy. However, we expect any consideration of Croatia’s human rights record to be objective, to reflect the causes of the conflict as well as the complexity of the situation in which Croatia finds itself, and to be guided by sincere concern for human rights and by no other motive. We also wish to stress that if there is need for consideration of Croatia’s human rights record, then the proper forum within the United Nations is the Third Committee and not other forums, including the Security Council. Since the situation of human rights in Croatia does not pose a threat to international peace and security, inordinate scrutiny of Croatia’s human rights record by the Security Council can only be understood as stemming from politically motivated reasons of certain Council members.

While my delegation voted in favour of the entire draft resolution, we wish to stress that had operative paragraph 6 been voted on separately we would not have been able to support it.

Ms. Feng Cui (China) (interpretation from Chinese): We wish to explain our vote on draft resolution III, “Situation of human rights in Kosovo”, which the Assembly has just adopted.

The Chinese delegation maintains that respect for sovereignty and territorial integrity is a fundamental principle enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations. Kosovo is a part of the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia.

Since the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia is a sovereign State, its sovereignty and territorial integrity should be respected.

In view of those considerations, the Chinese Government could not support the draft resolution on human rights in Kosovo, and my delegation therefore abstained in the voting on draft resolution III.

Ms. Murugesan (India): India wishes to explain its vote on draft resolution III, “Situation of human rights in Kosovo”.

India remains committed to the promotion and protection of all human rights in all States. India is also committed to the preservation and protection of the territorial integrity, national sovereignty and independence of Member States of the United Nations. Further, India firmly adheres to the Charter principle of non-intervention in the internal affairs of United Nations Member States.

While firmly in favour of promoting and protecting all human rights in all States, we are equally firmly opposed to the increasing tendency to adopt United Nations resolutions on a part of a territory of a Member State, which we believe is a challenge to the territorial integrity of a State and introduces an unwelcome dimension to the debate on human rights. Such resolutions may also be in violation of Article 2, paragraph 7, of the United Nations Charter. They open the way to selectivity and further politicization of the human rights agenda at the United Nations and in international affairs. We are deeply concerned by the growing tendency of some States not only to encourage or support such selectivity, but also to condone the human rights violations of one of the parties to a conflict in resolutions such as the one under discussion. This is not a healthy approach.

It was for those reasons that we could not support the draft resolution entitled “Situation of human rights in Kosovo”. In our view, the situation in Kosovo should have been addressed in the omnibus draft resolution, under the same agenda item, that dealt with the situation of human rights in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia and the former Republic of Yugoslavia.

The Acting President: We have heard the last speaker in explanation of vote.

May I take it that it is the wish of the General Assembly to conclude its consideration of sub-item (c) of agenda item 112?

The Acting President: We now turn to draft decision II, "Organization of work of the Third Committee and biennial programme of work of the Committee for 1996-1997".

May I take it that the Assembly wishes to adopt draft decision II?

The Acting President: I call on the representative of the Russian Federation on a point of order.

Mr. Sepelev (Russian Federation) (interpretation from Russian): Before our delegation can agree to the adoption of this draft decision, we would like to hear some explanation from the Secretariat as to why the paragraph proposed by the Russian Federation at the meeting of the Third Committee has not been included in the draft document. The relevant decision was taken on 14 December this year. Specifically, I would recall the proposal we made then: resolution 48/155 stated that the Secretary-General should submit a report on the situation of human rights in Latvia and Estonia at a future session, and we insisted that that report be submitted. Our Rapporteur assured us yesterday from this rostrum that our proposal and, if I am not mistaken, the proposal made by India, which for technical reasons had not been included in yesterday's version of the document, would be included today. Unfortunately, however, despite all such previous statements, we have not seen this today, and we would like an explanation from the Secretariat.

The Acting President (interpretation from French): I would like to answer the representative of the Russian Federation by saying that in the absence of a decision by the Third Committee on the question he raised, the General Assembly will take due note of his comments.

Mr. Sepelev (Russian Federation) (interpretation from Russian): Am I to understand that our specific proposal on the implementation of one of the decisions in resolution 48/155 will be included in the programme of work of the Third Committee for the two-year period?

The Acting President: The answer is: Yes.

May I take it that the Assembly wishes to adopt draft decision II?

Draft decision II was adopted.

The Acting President: Draft decision III is entitled "Report of the Economic and Social Council".

May I take it that the Assembly wishes to adopt draft decision III?

Draft decision III was adopted.

The Acting President: May I take it that it is the wish of the General Assembly to conclude its consideration of the chapters of the report of the Economic and Social Council allocated to the Third Committee?

It was so decided.

The Acting President: The Assembly has thus concluded its consideration of all the reports of the Third Committee.

The Acting President: Representatives will recall that on 22 September 1995 the Assembly decided to include this item in the agenda of the fiftieth session of the General Assembly.

It was so decided.

The Acting President: May I take it that it is the wish of the General Assembly to conclude its consideration of agenda item 52?
