Recalling the obligations of Member States under the international drug conventions to provide information on narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances and precursors,

Aware of the practical difficulties of producing reliable and valid information,

Recognizing the need to rationalize international information systems concerned with drug issues and the importance of cooperation between international organizations to achieve that aim,

Recalling the goal set in General Assembly resolution 45/239 C of a 25 per cent participation rate of women in posts at the D-1 level and above by 1995,

7. Strongly encourages Member States to support the efforts of the United Nations and the specialized agencies to increase the percentage of women in Professional posts, especially at the D-1 level and above, by identifying and submitting more women candidates, encouraging women to apply for vacant posts and creating national rosters of women candidates to be shared with the Secretariat, specialized agencies and regional commissions;

8. Requests the Secretary-General to further develop comprehensive policy measures aimed at the prevention of sexual harassment in the Secretariat;

9. 1994/7. Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women

The Economic and Social Council,

Bearing in mind that the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women 15/ is a key international human rights instrument for the promotion of equality between women and men,

Welcoming the growing number of States parties to the Convention, which now stands at one hundred and thirty-one,

Noting with deep concern that the Convention is still one of the human rights instruments with a large number of reservations, many of which run contrary to the object and purpose of the Convention, despite the fact that some States parties have withdrawn their reservations to it,

Also noting the suggestions and recommendations made by the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women in accordance with its mandate, as demonstrated most recently by the Committee at its thirteenth session, at which it adopted suggestion 6 on the International Conference on Population and Development 16/ and general recommendation 21, relating to articles 9, 15 and 16 of the Convention, as its contribution to the International Year of the Family, 17/

Recalling the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action adopted by the World Conference on Human Rights, held at Vienna in June 1993, in which the Conference stipulated that the human rights of women and of the girl child were an inalienable, integral and indivisible part of universal human rights, 18/

Recalling also that in the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action, the Conference recommended that new procedures to strengthen implementation of the commitment to the equality and human rights of women be adopted and that the Commission on the Status of Women and the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women quickly examine the possibility of introducing the right of petition through the preparation of an optional protocol to the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women, 19/

Recalling General Assembly resolution 47/94 of 16 December 1992,

Recalling its resolution 1993/14 of 27 July 1993 and other relevant resolutions adopted by the General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council relating to support for the Committee, 19/ Ibid., chap. III, sect. II, para. 40.

Noting suggestion 5, on the feasibility of preparing an optional protocol to the Convention, adopted by the Committee at its thirteenth session, 20/

Noting that the workload of the Committee has increased because of the growing number of States parties to the Convention, and that the annual session of the Committee is still the shortest of all the annual sessions of the human rights treaty bodies,

Welcoming the Committee's efforts to further improve its working methods by adopting concluding observations containing specific suggestions and recommendations,

1. Supports the request made by the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women at its twelfth session for additional meeting time, with adequate support from the Secretariat, so as to allow the Committee to meet once a year for three weeks for its fourteenth and fifteenth sessions 21/ and recommends that the request for additional meeting time, made by the Committee at its thirteenth session, 22/ be considered within the existing level of budgetary resources;

2. Requests the Secretary-General to submit to the General Assembly at its forty-ninth session a report on the working methods of the Committee and its capacity to fulfil its mandate effectively, including a comparison with the working situation of other treaty bodies;

3. Requests the General Assembly, in the light of that report, to review the working situation of the Committee and its capacity to fulfil its mandate effectively, and in this context also to consider the possibility of amending article 20 of the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women so as to allow for sufficient meeting time for the Committee;

4. Decides that the Commission on the Status of Women shall examine at its thirty-ninth session, in cooperation with the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women and taking into account the results of any governmental expert meeting on this question that may be convened prior to that session, the feasibility of introducing the right of petition through the preparation of an optional protocol to the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women;

5. Notes with appreciation suggestion 6 on the International Conference on Population and Development and general recommendation 21 on equality in marriage and family relations, adopted by the Committee at its thirteenth session, both of which were transmitted to the Commission on the Status of Women at its thirty-eighth session, and encourages the Committee to continue its work in adopting detailed general recommendations;

6. Once again urges all States that have not yet done so to become parties to the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women;

22/ Ibid., Forty-ninth Session, Supplement No. 38 (A/49/38), chap. I, sect. C.2.

7. Encourages States to consider limiting the extent of any reservation they lodge to the Convention, to formulate any reservation as precisely and as narrowly as possible, and to ensure that no reservation is incompatible with the object and purpose of the Convention or otherwise contrary to international law;

8. Requests States parties to the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women to review their reservations regularly, with a view to withdrawing them expeditiously so that the Convention may be fully implemented;

9. Urges the Secretary-General to continue to publicize widely the decisions and recommendations of the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women.

Welcoming the working paper 27/ and the progress report on the right to adequate housing 28/ submitted by the Special Rapporteur of the Subcommission, Mr. Rajindar Sachar,

1. Decides to extend the mandate of the Special Rapporteur by one year to accord with the practice of the Subcommission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities and to enable him to explore fully the issues arising from the right to adequate housing;

1994/12. Organized transnational crime

The Economic and Social Council,

Alarmed by the expansion and dimensions of organized transnational crime in all its forms and the increasing sophistication and diversification of the activities of organized criminal groups,

Alarmed also by the ability of organized criminal groups to transcend national frontiers, taking advantage of regional arrangements designed to foster free trade and economic and political cooperation and of the gaps in national legislation and international cooperation,

Deeply concerned about the capacity of organized criminal groups to expand their activities, including the use of violence, and to target the security and the economies of countries, in particular developing countries and countries in transition, thereby posing a grave threat to the stability of countries and the viability and further development of their economies,

Convinced of the urgent need for more effective action against organized transnational crime, to be coordinated at the global and regional levels,

Convinced also that such action represents an investment in the future for all societies,

Further convinced that technical assistance in the prevention of organized crime is indispensable and should be given high priority,

Recalling General Assembly resolutions 46/152 of 18 December 1991, 47/87 and 47/91 of 16 December 1992, and 48/102 and 48/103 of 20 December 1993,

Recalling also its resolutions 1992/22 of 30 July 1992 and 1993/29 of 27 July 1993,

1. Takes note of the report of the Secretary-General 29/ on the status of preparations for the World Ministerial Conference on Organized Transnational Crime, to be held at Naples, Italy, from 24 to 26 October 1994;

2. Also takes note of the discussion held on this topic by the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice at its third session and of the document submitted to the Commission by the Government of Italy at that session, annexed to the present resolution, which contains elements useful for the identification of specific matters to be dealt with by the World Ministerial Conference on Organized Transnational Crime, and which is to be used as a basis for the substantive discussion of the objectives of the World Ministerial Conference;

3. Reiterates its request to all Member States to be represented at the World Ministerial Conference on Organized Transnational Crime at the highest possible level;

4. Commends the work done thus far by the Coordination Committee established by the Government of Italy in preparation for the World Ministerial Conference, and recommends that its efforts be continued and intensified to ensure, in close cooperation with the Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Branch of the Secretariat, the finalization of all the necessary preparations;

5. Requests the Secretary-General to submit to the World Ministerial Conference background documents on each of its objectives, listed in paragraph 1 of Economic and Social Council resolution 1993/29, seeking input from Member States, in order to assist the World Ministerial Conference in its deliberations;

6. Recommends that the World Ministerial Conference take into consideration, inter alia, the conclusions and recommendations of the International Conference on Laundering and Controlling Proceeds of Crime: A Global Approach, organized by the Government of Italy in cooperation with the International Scientific and Professional Advisory Council and under the auspices of the Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Branch, to be held at Courmayeur, Italy, from 17 to 21 June 1994, pursuant to Economic and Social Council resolution 1993/30 of 27 July 1993;

DISCUSSION DOCUMENT ON THE WORLD MINISTERIAL CONFERENCE ON ORGANIZED TRANSNATIONAL CRIME

1. The objectives of the World Ministerial Conference on Organized Transnational Crime were defined by the Economic and Social Council in its resolution 1993/29 of 27 July 1993. They represent five areas on which the ministers attending the Conference will debate and make decisions.

2. Taking into consideration the five areas and the political nature of the Conference, it should not only embody the political will of nations to fight organized transnational crime with firmness, but also highlight the fundamental principles of national initiatives and those upon which international cooperation should be based.

3. It is common knowledge that experience in relation to organized crime is characterized both by the extreme seriousness of the phenomenon and by the strong reaction shown by the authorities.

4. In recent years, the fight against organized crime has, in a number of countries, paved the way for the introduction of strict and effective legislative measures and for the organization of new operational instruments that have allowed the authorities to react, often successfully, against the phenomenon, limiting its potential damage to society and individuals.

5. However, through direct experience, especially in the use of the instruments offered by the criminal justice system, Governments have become aware that for national action to be effective there needs to be cooperation from all nations. Governments have also come to understand that organized crime is, due to its nature, a pervasive phenomenon. Therefore, the international community should find ways to cooperate, not only in controlling current illicit behaviour, but also in preventing the expansion of the phenomenon in new areas where defence mechanisms against the spread of such criminal activities are weak.

6. The necessity for international cooperation is always accompanied by a common concern and by general expressions of political will. Global action does not always follow, however, and sometimes mutual assistance is not even possible in individual cases.

7. It is believed that these difficulties are the result of the great differences that still exist among countries in their understanding and evaluation of the phenomenon and, consequently, in their choice of policies to fight organized crime, as well as the result of the different degree of development of laws and regulations and legislative and organizational measures applied in each country.

8. Therefore, it is hoped that the Conference will contribute towards the creation of a common perception of organized crime within the international community and that it will lead to a generally agreed essential concept of the phenomenon, through which it will be possible to lay down proposals for more homogeneous national measures that will also make cooperation more effective.

9. In order to reach this goal, it should be stressed that, according to current experience, positive results can be achieved in the fight against organized crime not by focusing on one or another type of "definite" crimes committed by criminal groups, for example, drug trafficking, extortion, illegal gambling or trafficking in arms. It is important to use normative and organizational measures that can be applied to every aspect of criminal activity. In other words, there is a need to devise strategies related to the structural characteristics of organized crime which, besides the essential element of having more individuals organized in a group, include the goal of profit-making; the use of violence, intimidation and corruption; the hierarchical link or personal relationships that make it possible to closely control the activities of the group; the economic control of whole territories; the laundering of illicit profits in order not only to organize other criminal activities but also to set up legal businesses (with the consequent effect of corrupting them); the great potential of expansion beyond national boundaries; and the tendency to organize international operations together with other groups of different nationalities.

10. In this perspective, the Conference and the subsequent actions of the United Nations in promoting crime prevention and criminal justice should take into account the above-mentioned elements.

11. The analysis of the above-mentioned structural characteristics highlights the importance of adopting a series of measures against organized crime, both in the area of substantive and procedural penal law and in the area of international cooperation. It is hoped that the issues presented below will receive particular attention from the Governments and competent international organizations attending the Conference.

12. As far as substantive penal law is concerned, particular attention should be paid to the "criminalization" of participation in a criminal organization. The existence of specific crimes such as the "association of criminals" of French law or the "criminal association" or "Mafia association" of the Italian penal code or the various types of "conspiracy" of other criminal laws, should be used as an example. In Italy, for example, the "association" crimes have played a key role in criminal justice intervention against organized crime.

13. The use in all nations of similar, if not identical, types of incrimination for members of criminal organizations can help reduce the spread of organized crime and will facilitate legal cooperation, especially when it is based on the principle of "dual criminality".

14. The accumulation of large amounts of capital originating from criminal activities, not only from drug trafficking, and the resulting need of criminal organizations to launder those profits and invest them in legal businesses leads, as far as substantive penal law is concerned, to the necessity of criminalizing such acts in relation to any kind of profit-making criminal activity. Particular attention should also be given to correct and well-defined incrimination of economic crimes.

15. For the same reason, it is important not to neglect preventive measures, ensuring a clear definition of the position of the owners of companies and accurate control of acquisitions and transfers; a high ethical standard in public administration and financial institutions; and cooperation between the authorities in charge of regulating financial and economic sectors, and those in charge of applying the penal code.

16. The fight against organized crime is based on strategies aimed at defeating the economic power of criminal organizations, which should also involve criminal law measures, in particular in the field of appropriate sanctioning and sentencing.

17. Measures such as the confiscation of illicit proceeds are of great importance to the achievement of those goals. Such measures can prevent the accumulation of illegal profits and make a great contribution towards the destabilization of criminal groups by targeting their resources.

18. It should be noted that in some countries - under specific conditions and always through judicial proceedings - it is possible to confiscate illegal profits even without a guilty verdict, or to confiscate sums that are definitely higher than those relating to the crime for which judgement has been passed. This possibility should be taken into consideration when discussing the enactment of new legislation relating to confiscation or the modification of existing legislation.

19. As far as police action and criminal proceedings are concerned, it should be pointed out that in criminal proceedings related to organized crime offences, the investigative aspect and the identifying and securing of evidence present particular difficulties. Three main issues should be stressed: the increase of "intelligence"; the introduction and development of investigative methods that make it possible to "penetrate" criminal organizations; and investigative methods and legal measures aimed at preserving illicit profits, thus facilitating their confiscation.

20. As far as intelligence is concerned, it is clear that organized crime is a phenomenon that needs to be studied and understood more than other less structured crimes. It is crucial to obtain more information on the general organization of criminal groups, on the types of activities on which those groups thrive, on the interrelationships of the various groups, on the means that they commonly use to sustain themselves and on anything else that provides a better view of this very complex combination of activities, people and means.

21. Specialized investigative units should be created to fulfil the investigative requirements. Measures should also be adopted in order to facilitate the use of means of information-gathering, such as the interception of communications, controlled delivery and testimony of cooperating witnesses.

22. In promoting the use of these measures for gathering intelligence and collecting evidence, it is necessary to keep in mind the fact that the limits of the law must not be exceeded. In some countries, these measures have proved to be of the utmost importance for the successful outcome of investigations.

23. The Conference should also discuss the issue of financial investigations. Three main requirements should be emphasized: the development of a technical understanding of the financial operations involved, by the relevant police departments and among prosecutors (and as far as trials are concerned, also among judges); the need to eliminate obstacles created by the law during investigations in relation to the operations of financial institutions; and the need to assign an active role to financial institutions (and, when appropriate, to other economic entities, which are often used in money-laundering) in the first steps of an investigation of suspicious transactions.

24. It should be noted that the strategy of "penetrating" criminal organizations, both for intelligence purposes and for purposes related to gathering of evidence, strongly depends on the testimony of members of criminal organizations. This should lead to the introduction of measures that can encourage such testimony, provide the cooperating witnesses and their families with the necessary protection, through adequate protection programmes, and - within the limits imposed by national laws - provide "rewards" in the form of penalty reductions for witnesses who are also charged with criminal offences.

25. One final important issue that should be discussed by the Conference is international cooperation during investigations and judicial proceedings. The analysis and consideration by the Conference should be developed along four fronts. Because of the importance of bilateral and multilateral assistance (with particular reference to extradition and mutual assistance in investigation and gathering of evidence), the lack of relevant agreements critically hinders the development of effective cooperation.

26. First, the Conference should take into account this problem and should promote the development of international agreements in the above-mentioned areas. More widespread promotion of "model" treaties adopted by the United Nations could help foster the rapid conclusion of such agreements.

27. The second front is improving the practical application of existing agreements. This could be achieved by informal arrangements and operational instruments - such as the publication and exchange of manuals for a better understanding of national procedures, the creation of "central national authorities" in charge of interstate affairs and specialized in solving particular problems raised by them; the creation of "contact points", in the relevant public offices, which should facilitate the proceedings.

28. The third front - perhaps the most difficult one - is devising adequate ad hoc measures of international cooperation that are aimed specifically at fighting organized crime and are more specific than those generally applicable to other crimes. Such measures should take into account the above-mentioned structural characteristics of organized crime and could benefit from a comparative study between what is described in the "model treaties", and frequently contained in existing agreements, and the provisions of more specialized and advanced conventions concerning serious criminal offences such as those in United Nations conventions on drug trafficking.

29. The fourth front is the international exchange of intelligence, also as a preventive measure. Among other things, a study of the most adequate forms of international assistance among "non-police administrative bodies" could be useful; such bodies would include, for example, the administrative bodies of financial sectors that are competent in such areas as the analysis of financial flows and/or in the investigation of suspicious transactions.

30. The Conference should be concerned with the general problem of researching and passing on information, at the international level, on organized crime and on legislative and organizational regulations set up in individual countries. The role of the United Nations in this matter should be of great importance and the Conference should outline the tasks of the Commission and of the programme in this area. Moreover, this activity could be the foundation for the development of technical cooperation with countries that are in need of such assistance.

31. For effective international cooperation against organized crime, there is also a need to initiate activities involving strengthened technical cooperation, in which the more developed countries will have to show their strong commitment by investing the necessary resources. No action at the international level can achieve positive results if developing countries are not given an opportunity to create and improve an appropriate judicial system and to use proper tools for investigations, evaluations, intervention, interchange, incrimination and the carrying out of penalties.

32. Awareness of the seriousness of this international challenge can be encouraged by the systematic exchange of experiences, by the proper training of police and judicial staff and by the use of effective countermeasures. All this awareness will have a positive effect on the operational plans and legislative reforms that will have to be gradually carried out in order to fight organized crime at the international level.

33. This prospect becomes more evident when considering the fact that criminal organizations are inclined to expand their illegal activities in developing regions as long as more effective countermeasures are adopted elsewhere. In such a situation, organized crime will concentrate on those countries where the financial and economic sectors show lower resistance to criminal infiltration.

34. It is, therefore, of fundamental importance that all existing technical, bilateral and multilateral activities involving technical cooperation be well focused and that the means for coordinating such activities be studied in order to avoid overlapping.

35. A final aspect that should be given serious consideration is proper economic compensation for the victims of organized crime. This compensation should be charged to the person responsible for the crimes committed. Consideration should be given to the creation of a special fund to compensate victims when compensation cannot be charged to the person responsible; such a fund might be partially subsidized by confiscated capital.

36. Discussions on the possible close approximation of national legislation with regard to the criminalization of organized crime and related criminal justice measures should be actively pursued.

37. As to technical cooperation, the three following areas of intervention appear to be of particular interest:

(a) Assistance should be provided in drafting legislation in those countries that still do not have a penal system suitable for fighting organized crime;

(b) Special training courses for all personnel involved in the field should be planned and carried out. Specific training should be provided for police staff, investigating judges and magistrates, and all those officials who provide technical cooperation to investigative bodies;

(c) Technical assistance should be provided to those high-risk areas through the gathering, analysis and exchange of data on criminal organizations and related activities.

38. In relation to the question of which instruments are proper for the development of future action, it is believed that bilateral cooperation, especially through agreements between a growing but still limited number of countries, has highlighted inadequacies in the fight against organized crime. Through new agreements, new judicial measures and instruments could be tested. These could involve the whole international community.

39. It is the Conference that will identify the action and decisions to be carried out within the programme of work of the Commission. The Economic and Social Council, in its resolution 1993/29, stated that one of the objectives of the Conference would be to consider the feasibility of elaborating international instruments, including conventions, against organized transnational crime.

40. It is believed that decisions will be taken only when more precise ministerial choices concerning substantive matters become clear. This could lead to the elaboration of binding instruments, as indicated in Council resolution 1993/29, or the opportunity to establish tools other than binding legal agreements, such as models of technical agreements; manuals for police and judicial cooperation; publications or other communication methods, as well as computerized databases for storing and updating information on organized crime and on legal and practical countermeasures adopted in different countries.

The Economic and Social Council,

Alarmed by the scope and growth of proceeds of crime and their impact on national economies,

Convinced that international action against organized transnational crime can be effective only if it devotes particular attention to prevention and control of the laundering of the proceeds of crime and the control of such proceeds,

Convinced also that effective prevention and control of the laundering of the proceeds of crime and the control of such proceeds require concerted global action to curb the capacity of criminal organizations to transfer the proceeds of their activities across national frontiers by taking advantage of gaps in international cooperation,

Convinced further that criminal organizations engage in a multitude of criminal activities generating illicit profits and that international action aimed at controlling the proceeds of crime can therefore be effective only if it takes into account all aspects of the problem,

Deeply concerned about the ability of organized criminal groups to infiltrate the national economies of countries in transition and to use them for the investment of their illicit proceeds,

Recalling its resolution 1993/30 of 27 July 1993 and General Assembly resolution 48/103 of 20 December 1993,

Recalling also the recommendations contained in the Global Programme of Action, adopted by the General Assembly at its seventeenth special session, 30/ on measures to be taken against the effects of money derived from, used in or intended for use in illicit drug trafficking, illegal financial flows and illegal use of the banking system,

5. Also requests the Secretary-General, taking into account the work already carried out by Member States and intergovernmental organizations, to cooperate with them in disseminating principles and issues that should be addressed in substantive and procedural legislation on prevention and control of the laundering of the proceeds of crime and the control of such proceeds, for incorporation in national penal and procedural codes by Member States wishing to do so;

6. Further requests the Secretary-General, within overall existing resources, to organize, or to facilitate the organization of, in coordination with Member States and intergovernmental organizations, regional training seminars, including such seminars for countries in transition, designed to provide criminal justice personnel with the capacity to detect, investigate, prosecute and adjudicate cases involving the laundering and control of the proceeds of crime;

1994/14. Criminal justice action to combat the organized smuggling of illegal migrants across national boundaries

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling that the General Assembly, in its resolution 48/102 of 20 December 1993, requested the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice at its third session, to be held in 1994, to consider giving special attention to the question of the smuggling of aliens in order to encourage international cooperation to address that problem within the framework of its mandate,

Concerned about the increasing activities of transnational criminal organizations that profit illicitly by smuggling humans and preying on the dignity and lives of migrants,

Concentrating its attention on crime prevention and criminal justice, in particular the activities of those who organize and facilitate the smuggling of illegal migrants,

Recognizing that organized international criminal groups are becoming increasingly active in smuggling individuals across national boundaries and that they often convince individuals to migrate illegally by various means for enormous profits that are frequently used to finance numerous other criminal activities, thus bringing great harm to the States concerned,

Aware that such activities endanger the lives of the individual migrants involved and entail severe costs for the international community, particularly for those States that have been called upon to rescue and to provide medical care, food, housing and transportation for such individuals,

Acknowledging that socio-economic factors influence the problem of illegal migrant smuggling and also contribute to the complexity of present international migration,

Noting that smugglers, particularly in the State of destination of the illegal migrants being smuggled, often force migrants into forms of debt bondage or servitude, commonly involving criminal activities, in order to pay for their passage,

Convinced of the need to provide humane treatment and to protect fully the human rights of migrants,

Recognizing that such illegal smuggling activity has high social and economic costs, may contribute to official corruption, and burdens law enforcement agencies in all States where illegal migrants transit or are found,

Recalling the undertaking of States parties to the Supplementary Convention on the Abolition of Slavery, the Slave Trade, and Institutions and Practices Similar to Slavery, done at Geneva on 7 September 1956, 32/ to take all practicable and necessary legislative and other measures to bring about progressively and as soon as possible the complete abolition or abandonment of the practice of debt bondage, 32/ United Nations, Treaty Series, vol. 266, No. 3822, p. 3.

Reaffirming respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all States, including their right to control immigration flows,

Concerned that the smuggling of illegal migrants undermines public confidence in policies and procedures for lawful immigration and for ensuring the protection of genuine refugees,

Noting that the smuggling of illegal migrants can involve criminal elements in many States, including the State or States where the smuggling scheme was planned, the State of nationality of the aliens, the State where the means of transport was prepared, the flag State of any vessels or aircraft that transport the aliens, States through which the aliens transit to their destination or in order to be repatriated, and the State of destination,

Noting that some States have enacted effective domestic legislation permitting seizure and forfeiture of all property, both real and personal, that is knowingly used in organized crime activities to smuggle illegal migrants, as well as all property, both real and personal, that constitutes, or is derived from, the proceeds of the smuggling, illegal transport or harbouring of illegal migrants,

1. Condemns the practice of smuggling illegal migrants in violation of international standards and national law, and without regard for the safety, well-being and human rights of the migrants;

2. Recognizes that the smuggling of illegal migrants is a widespread international criminal activity frequently involving highly organized international syndicates that traffic in human cargo, without regard for the dangerous and inhumane conditions to which illegal migrants are subjected, and in flagrant violation of domestic laws and international standards;

3. Acknowledges the substantial role played by organized transnational crime in illegal migrant smuggling activities in many parts of the world;

4. Requests States to share information, coordinate law enforcement activities and otherwise, if their law permits, cooperate in order to trace and arrest those who organize the smuggling of illegal migrants and to prevent the illegal transport by smugglers of third-country nationals through their territory;

5. Calls upon Member States and relevant specialized agencies and international organizations to take into account socio-economic factors and to cooperate at the bilateral and multilateral levels in addressing all aspects of the problem of the organized smuggling of illegal migrants;

6. Reaffirms the need to observe fully international and national law in dealing with the smuggling of illegal migrants, including the provision of humane treatment and strict observance of all human rights of migrants;

7. Emphasizes that international efforts to prevent the smuggling of illegal migrants should not inhibit legal migration or freedom of travel, or undercut the protection provided by international law to refugees;

8. Urges States to take prompt and effective steps to frustrate the objectives and activities of those who organize the smuggling of illegal migrants, thus protecting would-be migrants from exploitation and loss of life;

9. Calls upon all States to take effective and expeditious measures, such as the enactment or amendment if necessary of domestic criminal law, providing appropriate penalties to combat all aspects of organized crime activities constituting the smuggling of illegal migrants, including all elements of the organization of smuggling and transport of illegal migrants, such as the production or distribution of false travel documents, money laundering, systematic extortion and misuse of international commercial aviation and maritime transport, in violation of international standards;

10. Encourages Member States and relevant specialized agencies and intergovernmental organizations to respond promptly to the invitation of the General Assembly, contained in its resolution 48/102, to report to the Secretary-General on the measures they have taken to combat the smuggling of aliens, in sufficient time for their contributions to be included in his report to the General Assembly at its forty-ninth session;

11. Decides that the ever-growing problem of organized smuggling of illegal migrants requires the continuing scrutiny of the international community in general and should be considered by the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice at its fourth session in the context of the broader problem of organized transnational crime.

1994/15. The role of criminal law in the protection of the environment

The Economic and Social Council,

Annex

RECOMMENDATIONS CONCERNING THE ROLE OF CRIMINAL LAW IN PROTECTING THE ENVIRONMENT

Member States should consider adopting the following recommendations concerning the role of criminal law in protecting the environment:

(a) Specific environmental legislation should be further developed on the basis of generally recognized principles, such as the "polluter pays" principle described in principle 16 and the "precautionary principle" described in principle 15 of the Rio Declaration on Environment and Development, adopted by the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, 38/ giving due and balanced consideration to the need to protect the environment in other parts of the law, and in the context of improving political and social conditions for a responsible environmental policy;

(b) National and supranational authorities should be provided with a wide array of measures, remedies and sanctions, within their constitutional and legal frameworks and consistent with the fundamental principles of criminal law, in order to ensure compliance with environmental protection laws. They should include regulatory and licensing powers, incentives, administrative enforcement mechanisms, and punitive administrative, civil and criminal sanctions for impairing or endangering the environment. They should also include provisions for the forfeiture of profits and proceeds of crime, and of property used or employed in the commission of crime, such as vessels, vehicles, tools, equipment and buildings;

(c) Environmental criminal law should be aimed at promoting all the important components of the environment, including human beings and other living species. It should be directed, in particular, to the regulation, control and, where necessary, the complete prohibition of hazardous activities, including the establishment and operation of hazardous installations, and the illegal import, export, movement and disposal of hazardous materials and wastes;

(d) Substantive environmental criminal law should formulate at least certain core criminal offences. These core offences, which could be autonomous and independent of environmental regulatory laws, should include deliberate, reckless or negligent assaults on the environment that cause or create imminent risks of serious damage, harm or injury. In addition, criminal sanctions should be extended to deliberate, reckless or negligent violations of administrative rules where there is a likelihood of serious harm or danger to the environment. In developing such criminal offences, the field guide contained in the annex to the report prepared by the United Nations Interregional Crime and Justice Research Institute and the Australian Institute of Criminology entitled Environmental Crime, Sanctioning Strategies and Sustainable Development 39/ should be taken into consideration;

(e) Subject to relevant international conventions, States should seriously consider enacting legislation prohibiting and sanctioning the export of products that have been banned from domestic use because of their deleterious impact on the environment and human health. Furthermore, Governments might consider the idea of banning the production and import of specific dangerous materials unless sufficient precautionary measures can be taken in respect of their use, treatment or disposal in their countries;

(f) Environmental crimes should cover intentional as well as reckless acts. When serious harm or actual danger of harm has been caused or created, however, negligent conduct should also be a crime if the persons responsible have significantly departed from the care and skill expected of them in the pursuit of their activities. In relatively minor cases, the imposition of finances, including administratively or judicially imposed non-criminal fines, and other non-custodial alternatives should be sufficient;

(g) Support should be given to the extension of the idea of imposing criminal or non-criminal fines or other measures on corporations in jurisdictions in which corporate criminal liability is not currently recognized in the legal systems;

(h) When using criminal law in environmental protection and creating new environmental crimes, consideration should be given to the need for law enforcement resources. Cooperation and coordination between criminal justice agencies and administrative agencies should be promoted, especially in jurisdictions where prosecutions are undertaken by criminal justice agencies. Furthermore, the judiciary should be sensitized to the seriousness of environmental offences and their consequences. Adequate staffing, special training and equipment should be provided to criminal justice agencies;

(i) In designing environmental law enforcement strategies, the legislator should consider in the framework of the constitution and the basic principles of the legal system, the rights of identifiable victims, victim assistance, facilitation of redress and monetary compensation, by removing legal barriers such as standing to sue, participation in proceedings and actions by citizens, including class action suits and citizen suits;

(j) In accordance with various provisions of Agenda 21, adopted by the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, 40/ such as those contained in chapters 8, 38 and 39 thereof, collaboration with non-governmental organizations in efforts aimed at the prevention of environmental crimes and the effective redress of damage to health and the environment should be encouraged. Examples of such efforts are the ombudsman-like functions and alternative methods for resolving disputes currently being developed by the Earth Council, a non-governmental organization referred to in chapter 38 of Agenda 21;

(k) On the basis of proposals put forward by the International Law Commission and the discussions at the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, Member States should consider acknowledging the most serious forms of environmental crimes in an international convention;

(l) States should be encouraged to contribute to the codification work of the International Law Commission, in particular in further refining the concept of international crimes and delicts in article 19 of the draft articles on State responsibility and the concept of environmental crimes in article 26 of the draft Code of Crimes against the Peace and Security of Mankind; 37/

(m) Environmental offences should be framed in such a manner as to cover transboundary and transnational situations. On the one hand, the principle of ubiquity should be taken into consideration in the application of the principle of territoriality. On the other hand, the possibilities of prosecution of crimes of an extraterritorial nature might be extended by applying the principle of nationality, the principle of "extradite or prosecute" or, for example in cases of generally acknowledged international crimes, even the principle of universality;

(n) The use of legal instruments of international cooperation, such as those on extradition, mutual legal assistance and/or transfer of proceedings, should be supported and expanded. Environmental crimes of particular gravity or importance should become extraditable offences;

(o) In order to facilitate the prosecution of international crimes, in particular environmental crimes, States should consider the viability of establishing an international criminal court. Regional initiatives for the establishment of an international court for the prosecution of environmental crimes should be welcomed;

(p) States should consider, at least at the regional level, a minimum harmonization of environmental offences as a basis for international cooperation. In this respect, efforts to promote such harmonization, such as those of the Council of Europe and the Central American States, should be supported;

(q) International cooperation in the enforcement of environmental laws should be fostered by the provision of technical assistance bilaterally, multilaterally and through relevant international agencies, such as the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, the network of institutes of the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme, and similar regional institutes. Further research in this area, including the nature and extent of polluting activities, sanctioning strategies and the appropriate mix of measures in particular situations, should be encouraged.

1994/16. Strengthening the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 46/152 of 18 December 1991, in which the Assembly requested the Secretary-General to give a high level of priority to the activities of the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme,

Recalling also its resolution 1992/22 of 30 July 1992, in section VI of which it accorded high priority to the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme and requested an appropriate share of the overall resources of the United Nations for the programme,

Recalling further its resolution 1993/34 of 27 July 1993, in section II of which it requested the Secretary-General to strengthen the institutional capacity of the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme to enable it to elaborate, execute and evaluate operational activities and advisory services in its area of competence at the request of Member States,

Convinced that the Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Branch can only be effective if it is provided with resources commensurate with its requirements and adequate to allow it to implement its mandates and to respond in a timely and efficient manner to the increasing requests of Member States for its services,

Deeply concerned about the delay in the implementation of General Assembly resolutions 46/152, 47/91 and 48/103 and Council resolutions 1992/22, 1993/31 and 1993/34, with respect to the strengthening of the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme and the upgrading of the Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Branch into a division,

Taking note of the report of the Secretary-General 41/ on progress made in the implementation of Economic and Social Council resolutions 1992/22 and 1993/31,

1. Reaffirms the priority attached to the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme, in accordance with General Assembly resolutions 46/152 and 47/91, and the need for the Assembly to devote to the programme an appropriate share of the existing resources of the United Nations;

2. Requests the Secretary-General, as a matter of urgency, to give effect to General Assembly resolutions 46/152, 47/91 and 48/103 and to Council resolutions 1992/22 and 1993/31 by strengthening the Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Branch, by providing it with the resources required for the full implementation of its mandates and by establishing one post at the D-2 level for the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme, if necessary by redeploying overall existing resources;

3. Recommends that the General Assembly keep under active review the staffing of the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme;

4. Requests the Secretary-General to provide adequate funds to build and maintain the institutional capacity of the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme to respond to requests of Member States for assistance in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice, if necessary through the reallocation of resources;

5. Calls on Member States to contribute to the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Fund in order to enable the Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Branch to provide technical assistance at the request of Member States;

6. Requests the Secretary-General to give consistent consideration to the importance of crime prevention and criminal justice activities in the context of peace-keeping operations and humanitarian assistance in armed conflicts;

7. Calls upon the bodies, specialized agencies and other entities of the United Nations system, including the international financial institutions, in particular the United Nations Environment Programme, the United Nations International Drug Control Programme and the United Nations Development Programme, within the context of their mandates, to give appropriate consideration to the inclusion in their programme activities of crime prevention and criminal justice issues, including the establishment and maintenance of efficient criminal justice systems, as an essential component of all developmental efforts, and to utilize the expertise of the Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Branch in the implementation of such activities;

8. Requests the Secretary-General to provide, within existing overall resources, support and training for the enhancement of the operational capacity of the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme;

1994/17. Proposal for the development of minimum rules for the administration of criminal justice

The Economic and Social Council,

Noting that in many parts of the world there is an urgent need to modernize criminal justice to bring about greater transparency, immediacy, speed and fairness in criminal proceedings,

Recognizing that some written investigative procedures in some instances and in some countries have shown considerable judicial delays accompanied by prison overcrowding and a large number of persons detained without sentence, with frequent violations of fundamental freedoms and rights,

Recalling that the Latin American and Caribbean Regional Preparatory Meeting for the Ninth United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders, held at San José, Costa Rica, from 7 to 11 March 1994, adopted a resolution, in section IV of which it recommended that Member States of the region, if they had not yet done so, study the introduction of oral criminal procedure, since that would make it possible to replace the written investigative and inquisitorial system, with its attendant delays, violation of the rights and fundamental guarantees of accused and convicted persons, and negation of the rights of victims, 42/

42/ A/CONF.169/RPM.4.

Recognizing the importance of ensuring a fair trial, in accordance with resolution 1993/26 of 25 August 1993 of the Subcommission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, 43/

Bearing in mind that no detainee or prisoner should be subjected to cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment,

Stressing that criminal proceedings should take place without undue delay, which will help in many countries to reduce the number of persons detained without sentence and to bring about prompt and more effective justice,

Aware of the Declaration of Basic Principles of Justice for Victims of Crime and Abuse of Power, 44/

Noting that persons in pre-trial detention should be kept separate from convicted prisoners, as provided for in the Standard Minimum Rules for the Treatment of Prisoners, 44/

Recalling the body of principles on arbitrary arrest and detention,

Decides:

(a) To note the draft minimum rules for the administration of criminal justice, 45/ prepared by an expert commission that held four working sessions at Palma de Mallorca, Spain, from 23 to 25 November 1990, from 3 to 5 May 1991, from 5 to 8 September 1991 and from 14 to 16 February 1992, at the invitation of the advisory board to the Presidency of the Balearic Autonomous Community and with the cooperation of the Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Branch of the Secretariat;

(b) To request the Secretary-General to seek comments from all Member States and from other appropriate sources on the desirability of preparing and adopting United Nations minimum rules in the field covered by the draft minimum rules prepared by the expert commission, and to submit a report to the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice at its fourth session;

(c) To request the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, at its fourth session, to follow up this matter.

1994/19. Preparations for the Ninth United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 46/152 of 18 December 1991 on the creation of an effective United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme,

Recalling also its resolutions 1992/24 of 30 July 1992 and 1993/32 of 27 July 1993 on preparations for the Ninth United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders,

Emphasizing that fulfilment of that role requires that the debate and conclusions of the congresses be specifically focused, which can be achieved only through proper and timely preparations on the part of Member States, the Secretariat and other participants, for example through implementation, from the outset, of the new rules of procedure for the congresses, thus allowing Member States sufficient time in advance of the Congress to review draft resolutions in all six official languages of the United Nations,

Recalling that, in its resolution 1993/32, it endorsed the programme of work for the Ninth Congress, including the holding of six demonstration and research workshops, and invited Member States, non-governmental organizations and other relevant entities to support financially, organizationally and technically the preparations for the workshops,

Recognizing the important contribution made to the preparations for the Ninth Congress by the five regional preparatory meetings for the Ninth Congress, as reflected in the reports of those meetings, 52/

Taking note of the initial offer of the Islamic Republic of Iran to act as host for the Ninth Congress, which was later withdrawn in favour of an African country,

Welcoming the agreement reached between the Governments of Egypt and Tunisia with respect to the venue of the Congress,

PROPOSED GUIDELINES FOR COOPERATION AND TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE IN THE FIELD OF URBAN CRIME PREVENTION

A. Design and implementation of cooperation and assistance activities

1. Cooperation projects for urban crime prevention should take account of the principles set out below.

1. Local approach to problems

2. Urban crime is characterized by a multiplicity of factors and forms. A multi-agency approach and a coordinated response at the local level, in accordance with an integrated crime prevention action plan, will often be helpful. This should involve:

(a) A local diagnostic survey of crime phenomena, their characteristics, factors leading to them, the form they take and their extent;

(b) The identification of all the relevant actors that could take part in compiling the above-mentioned diagnostic survey in crime prevention as well as in the fight against crime, for example public institutions (national or local), local elected officials, the private sector (associations, enterprises), the voluntary sector, community representatives etc.;

(c) The establishment, wherever appropriate, of consultation mechanisms promoting closer liaison, the exchange of information, joint work and the design of a coherent strategy;

(d) The elaboration of possible solutions to these problems in the local context.

2. Integrated crime prevention action plan

3. The authors of an integrated crime prevention action plan, in order for it to be comprehensive and efficient, should:

- (a) Define:
 - (i) The nature and types of crime problems to be tackled, such as theft, robbery, burglary, racial attacks, drug-related crimes, juvenile delinquency and illegal possession of firearms, taking into account all the factors that may directly or indirectly cause such problems or contribute to them;
 - (ii) The objectives being pursued and the time by which they should be attained;
 - (iii) The action envisaged and the respective responsibilities of those involved vis-à-vis the implementation of the plan (for example, whether local or national resources are to be mobilized);
- (b) Consider involving a range of actors representing in particular:
 - (i) Social workers, education, housing and health workers, in addition to the police, the courts, public prosecutors and probation services etc.;
 - (ii) The community: elected officials, associations, volunteers, parents, victims' organizations etc.;
 - (iii) The economic sector: enterprises, banks, business, public transport etc.;
 - (iv) The media;
- (c) Consider the relevance to the crime prevention action plan of such factors as:
 - (i) Relationships in the family, between generations or between social groups etc.;
 - (ii) Education, religious, moral and civic values, culture etc.;
 - (iii) Employment, training, measures for combating unemployment and poverty;
 - (iv) Housing and urbanism;
 - (v) Health, drug and alcohol abuse;
 - (vi) Government and community welfare aid for the least fortunate members of society;
 - (vii) Combating the culture of violence and intolerance;
- (d) Consider providing for action at various levels:
 - (i) Primary prevention:
 - a. By promoting situational criminal prevention measures, such as target hardening and opportunity reduction;
 - b. By promoting welfare and health development and progress and by combating all forms of social deprivation;

- c. By promoting communal values and respect for fundamental human rights;
 - d. By promoting civic responsibility and social mediation procedures;
 - e. By facilitating the adaptation of the working methods of the police and the courts;
- (ii) Prevention of recidivism:
- a. By facilitating the adaptation of methods of police intervention (rapid response, intervention within the local community etc.);
 - b. By facilitating the adaptation of methods of judicial intervention and implementation of alternative remedies:
 - i. Diversification of methods of treatment and of measures taken according to the nature and seriousness of the cases (diversionary schemes, mediation, a special system for minors etc.);
 - ii. Systematic research on the reintegration of offenders involved in urban crime through the implementation of non-custodial measures;
 - iii. Socio-educational support within the framework of the sentence, in prison and as preparation for release from prison;
 - c. By giving an active role to the community in the rehabilitation of offenders;
- (iii) After the sentence has been served: aid and socio-educational support, family support etc.;
- (iv) Protection of victims by practical improvements in their treatment by means of the following:
- a. Raising awareness of rights and how to exercise them effectively;
 - b. Reinforcing rights (in particular the right to compensation);
 - c. Introducing systems of victim assistance.

B. Implementation of the action plan

1. Central authorities

4. The central authorities, to the extent consistent with their competence, should:

- (a) Provide active support, assistance and encouragement to local actors;
- (b) Coordinate national policy and strategies with local strategies and needs;

(c) Organize consultation and cooperation mechanisms between the various administrations concerned at the central level.

2. Authorities at all levels

5. Competent authorities at all levels should:

(a) Be constantly mindful of respect for the fundamental principles of human rights in promoting these activities;

(b) Encourage and/or implement appropriate training and information to support all professionals involved in crime prevention;

(c) Compare experiences and organize exchanges of know-how;

(d) Provide a means of evaluating regularly the effectiveness of the strategy implemented and provide for the possibility of revising it.

1994/21. African Institute for the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 46/152 of 18 December 1991, in the annex to which it is stated that the contributions of the regional institutes for the prevention of crime and the treatment of offenders to policy development and implementation and their resource requirements, especially those of the African Institute for the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders, should be fully integrated into the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme,

Recalling also General Assembly resolution 48/101 of 20 December 1993 and Economic and Social Council resolution 1993/33 of 27 July 1993,

Noting that the African Institute for the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders is playing a vital role in promoting United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice activities and in fostering regional cooperation and coordination in this field,

Bearing in mind the Declaration on the African Institute for the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders, 64/ adopted by the African Regional Preparatory Meeting for the Ninth United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders, held at Kampala from 14 to 18 February 1994,

Aware of the financial difficulties that the Institute continues to face as a result of the fact that many States of the African region are among the least developed countries, that they continue to experience drought, famine and civil strife, and that they lack the resources necessary to support the Institute,

Taking into account the fact that many African States are engaged in democratization, strengthening the rule of law, undertaking crime prevention and criminal justice reforms, and laying the foundation for respect for and observance of human rights and fundamental freedoms,

1. Commends the African Institute for the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders for the activities it has undertaken, despite its difficulties in fulfilling its mandate, as reflected in the progress report of the Secretary-General on the activities of the United Nations Interregional Crime and Justice Research Institute and other institutes; 65/

2. Expresses its appreciation to the Government of Uganda for generously providing host facilities to the Institute and for its continuous support;

3. Expresses its appreciation to the Secretary-General and to all other Governments and intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations that have extended support to the Institute;

4. Requests the Secretary-General to ensure that the Institute is provided with adequate funds, within the overall appropriation of the programme budget and from extrabudgetary resources, and to submit proposals for any necessary additional funding of the Institute, in accordance with paragraph 56 of General Assembly resolution 48/228 of 23 December 1993;

5. Encourages Governments and intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations to provide financial and technical support to the Institute to enable it to fulfil its objectives, particularly those concerning training, technical assistance, policy guidance, research and data collection;

6. Requests the Administrator of the United Nations Development Programme to continue providing appropriate funds for the institutional strengthening of the Institute and the implementation of its programme of work, taking into account the difficult economic and financial situation faced by many countries in the African region;

7. Urges the Governing Board of the Institute to fill the vacant post of Director as soon as possible;

8. Strongly recommends that the Statute of the Institute be revised in order to update the terms of reference of the Institute, with a view to enabling it to respond sufficiently and effectively to the needs of the African region;

9. Requests the Secretary-General to ensure proper follow-up with all concerned on the implementation of the present resolution and to report thereon to the General Assembly at its forty-ninth session and to the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice at its fourth session;

10. Requests the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice to keep the functioning and programme of work of the Institute under active review, aiming at integrating it fully into the overall crime prevention and criminal justice programme, as called for in paragraph 35 of the annex to General Assembly resolution 46/152.

1994/22. Technical cooperation in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice

The Economic and Social Council,

Recognizing that criminality is a major concern of all countries and that it calls for a concerted response from the international community aimed at preventing crime and improving the functioning of criminal justice and law enforcement with due respect for human rights and United Nations standards and norms,

Bearing in mind General Assembly resolution 46/152 of 18 December 1991 on the creation of an effective United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme,

Also bearing in mind General Assembly resolution 48/103 of 20 December 1993, in which the Assembly requested the Secretary-General to provide from existing resources adequate funds to build and maintain the institutional capacity of the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme to respond to requests from Member States for assistance in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice, if necessary through the reallocation of resources,

Recalling that in its resolution 1992/22, section VI, of 30 July 1992, the Council determined that the majority of programme resources should be concentrated on the provision of training, advisory services and technical cooperation in a limited number of areas of recognized need,

Also recalling that in its resolution 1993/34, section II, of 27 July 1993, the Council requested the Secretary-General to strengthen the institutional capacity of the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme by providing the Secretariat with adequate human and financial resources, if necessary by reallocating existing resources, as well as by means of voluntary contributions, to enable it to elaborate, execute and evaluate operational activities and advisory services at the request of Member States,

Convinced that appropriate crime prevention policies are essential to ensuring sustainable development, as crime also affects economic, social and environmental efforts,

Also convinced that developing the skills of crime prevention and criminal justice practitioners is necessary to promote the rule of law and respect for human rights,

Conscious of the relationship between urban and juvenile crime and more sophisticated forms of transnational crime, and the consequent need to fight simultaneously against both phenomena by, among other things, providing technical assistance to countries in need,

Convinced that legal reforms in developing countries and in countries in transition constitute a significant aspect of the process of nation-building in terms of strengthening the rule of law, securing judicial independence and incorporating public involvement in the legal process,

Stressing the fact that providing technical assistance through advisory services, training programmes and the dissemination and exchange of information is one of the most effective means of intensifying international cooperation,

1. Takes note with appreciation of the report of the Secretary-General on technical cooperation and advisory services of the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme, including appropriate mechanisms for the mobilization of resources; 66/

2. Expresses its appreciation to Member States contributing to the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme, through extrabudgetary funding, the provision of associate experts, manuals and training material, and the services of experts for training purposes and advisory missions, and requests those Member States to continue their support;

3. Welcomes the cooperation between the Secretariat and other United Nations entities, as well as non-governmental organizations, in the planning and implementation of training activities, also as a way of promoting United Nations standards and norms in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice and of increasing the impact of the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme, and calls for the continuation of their support;

4. Reaffirms the urgent need to develop and maintain the institutional capacity of the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme for the planning and implementation of operational activities, including training in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice, particularly in line with the priority themes determined by the Economic and Social Council in its resolution 1992/22, section VI, so as to meet the needs of Member States;

5. Endorses the declaration of support for the multilateralization of the Latin American Institute for the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders, adopted by the Latin American and Caribbean Regional Preparatory Meeting for the Ninth United Nations Congress on the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders, held at San José, Costa Rica, from 7 to 11 March 1994; 67/

6. Reiterates its request to the Secretary-General to provide, within the overall appropriations of the programme budget, human and financial resources for the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme in order to develop the institutional capacity of the programme, in accordance with General Assembly resolution 48/103 on crime prevention and criminal justice, and Council resolution 1993/34 on the implementation of General Assembly resolutions 46/152 and 47/91 and Economic and Social Council resolution 1992/22, concerning crime prevention and criminal justice;

7. Welcomes with appreciation the provision of funds from the regular budget for a second Interregional Adviser post to be assigned to the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme, and strongly recommends that that post be retained in the future;

8. Requests the Secretary-General to provide appropriate resources for the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme in order to ensure adequate support for interregional advisory services;

9. Calls upon those States that have benefited from interregional advisory services to ensure appropriate follow-up to the recommendations of the interregional advisers;

66/ E/CN.15/1994/6.

67/ See A/CONF.169/RPM.4.

10. Requests the Secretary-General to take action on requests from Member States, bearing in mind the recommendations of the interregional advisers, by formulating specific projects, and to seek funding from donor Governments and institutions for project execution;

11. Calls upon Member States to provide a basic level of extrabudgetary funds for the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme by contributing to the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Fund;

12. Invites Member States to contribute both financially and in kind to the cooperation projects elaborated within the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme and submitted to Member States for appropriate action;

13. Urges Member States to make every effort to coordinate their multilateral and bilateral technical cooperation projects with the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme to ensure that all assistance provided is used in a cost-effective manner and oriented towards the overall aims of the projects;

14. Requests the Secretary-General to provide the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme with adequate human and financial resources within the overall appropriations of the programme budget to support technical assistance activities in specific fields considered to be of high priority, such as control of the proceeds of crime, pursuant to Council resolution 1993/30 of 27 July 1993, urban crime prevention, pursuant to Council resolution 1993/27 of 27 July 1993, and environmental crime, pursuant to Council resolution 1993/28 of 27 July 1993;

15. NATIONS OF INSTITUTES OR CENTRES AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF
UNITED NATIONS SUBREGIONAL INSTITUTES IN THE FIELD OF CRIME
PREVENTION AND CRIMINAL JUSTICE

I. SUBSTANTIVE CAPABILITIES, SERVICES AND CONTRIBUTION

1. There must to be a clear commitment to fostering and promoting United Nations criminal policy, in the light of and in response to mandates in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice. The envisaged contributions of the new institutes or centres must complement the United Nations crime prevention and criminal justice programme and be capable of being integrated into its activities.

2. The mandates and fields of operation of the new institutes or centres must be clearly defined, ensuring alignment with the goals, objectives and policy perspectives of the programme and, at the same time, suiting and responding to regional and/or subregional needs and operating in the context of unique regional or subregional conditions and characteristics.

3. High-calibre technical and professional staff and services must be maintained.

II. POLITICAL SUPPORT AND VIABILITY

4. Strong political support must be evident from those States that would benefit from the services of the new institutes or centres. Thus, the institutes or centres must demonstrate that they are fulfilling certain needs.

6. The facilities, staff and administration must be financially supported at an appropriate level.

IV. PROGRAMME ACCOUNTABILITY AND COORDINATION

7. A mechanism to ensure programme accountability must be established to allow the Secretariat to influence and review activities. The Secretariat is charged with the task of assisting the Commission in its coordination functions and has its own coordination responsibilities. Programme accountability involves, among other things, prior consultations with the United Nations on programmes of work and evaluation of implementation, full membership of the Secretariat on the board of directors of the institute or centre concerned, regular reporting to the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, and other forms of dissemination of information on the institute or centre (its functions, tasks, activities, expenditure etc.).

V. PERIODIC REVIEW AND EVALUATION

8. A system of objective evaluation and procedures for periodic review, essential to ensuring the effective functioning and quality performance of the institute or centre concerned, must be established.

9. To the same end, a trial period of a minimum of three to a maximum of five years must be established, during which time the performance, viability and future capacity of an institute or centre proposed for affiliation should be subject to review by the United Nations.

8. Also stresses that during the transition process, the ongoing HIV/AIDS activities of each of the six co-sponsors should be maintained and/or enhanced, bearing in mind the need for these activities to fit within national AIDS programmes and the general framework of the joint and co-sponsored programme;

9. Requests the six co-sponsors, through the Committee, to produce the following by January 1995, for the consideration of the Economic and Social Council and other concerned parties: a comprehensive proposal specifying the programme's mission statement and the terms and conditions of co-ownership, and detailing the programme's organizational, programmatic, staffing, administrative and financial elements, including proposed budgetary allocations, and to attach to this proposal an annex containing the proposed legal document that the six co-sponsors will sign to establish the programme formally;

PROGRAMME OUTLINE

1. The co-sponsored United Nations programme on HIV/AIDS represents an internationally coordinated response to the HIV/AIDS pandemic. The programme comprises the following United Nations system organizations: the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations Children's Fund, the United Nations Population Fund, the World Health Organization, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization and the World Bank. The programme has been formally endorsed by the Executive Boards of the World Health Organization (resolution EB93.R5) and the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (resolution 144EX-5.1.5); the other four co-sponsors have also committed themselves to full participation.

2. The fundamental characteristics that define the programme are set out below.

I. OBJECTIVES

3. The objectives of the programme are to:

(a) Provide global leadership in response to the epidemic;

(b) Achieve and promote global consensus on policy and programmatic approaches;

(c) Strengthen the capacity of the United Nations system to monitor trends and ensure that appropriate and effective policies and strategies are implemented at the country level;

(d) Strengthen the capacity of national Governments to develop comprehensive national strategies and implement effective HIV/AIDS activities at the country level;

(e) Promote broad-based political and social mobilization to prevent and respond to HIV/AIDS within countries, ensuring that national responses involve a wide range of sectors and institutions;

(f) Advocate greater political commitment in responding to the epidemic at the global and country levels, including the mobilization and allocation of adequate resources for HIV/AIDS-related activities.

4. In fulfilling these objectives, the programme will collaborate with national Governments, intergovernmental organizations, non-governmental organizations, groups of people living with HIV/AIDS, and United Nations system organizations.

II. CO-SPONSORSHIP

5. The HIV/AIDS epidemic is a global concern. Inter-agency cooperation is vital for ensuring the mobilization of resources and the effective implementation of a coordinated programme of activities throughout the United Nations system.

6. The programme will draw upon the experience and strengths of the six co-sponsors to develop its strategies and policies, which will be incorporated in turn into their programmes and activities. The co-sponsors will share responsibility for the development of the programme, contribute equally to its strategic direction and receive from it policy and technical guidance relating to the implementation of their HIV/AIDS activities. In this way, the programme will also serve to harmonize the HIV/AIDS activities of the co-sponsors.

7. The programme will be managed by a director, who will focus on the programme's overall strategy, technical guidance, research and development, and the global budget. The co-sponsors will contribute to the resource needs of the programme at levels to be determined. The World Health Organization will be responsible for the administration in support of the programme.

8. Other United Nations system organizations concerned with the HIV/AIDS epidemic may be encouraged to join the programme as co-sponsors in the future.

III. FUNCTIONAL RESPONSIBILITIES

9. The programme will build on the capacities and comparative advantages of the co-sponsors. At the global level, the programme will provide support in policy formulation, strategic planning, technical guidance, research and development, advocacy and external relations. This will include normative activities relating to HIV/AIDS in areas such as social and economic planning, population, culture, education, community development and social mobilization, sexual and reproductive health, and women and adolescents.

10. At the country level, the programme will provide support to the resident coordinator system. Co-sponsors will incorporate the normative work undertaken at the global level on policy, strategy and technical matters into their HIV/AIDS activities, consistent with national plans and priorities. An important function of the programme will be to strengthen national capacities to plan, coordinate, implement and monitor the overall response to HIV/AIDS. The participation in the programme of six organizations of the United Nations system will ensure the provision of technical and financial assistance to national activities in a coordinated multisectoral manner. This will strengthen intersectoral coordination of HIV/AIDS activities and will facilitate further incorporation of these activities in national programme and planning processes.

11. While the programme will not have a uniform regional structure, it will support intercountry or regional activities that may be required in response to the epidemic, utilizing regional mechanisms of the co-sponsors where appropriate.

IV. FLOW OF PROGRAMME FUNDS

12. Funds for programme activities at the global level will be obtained through appropriate common global means. Contributions to the programme will be channelled in accordance with the global budget and work plan.

13. Funding for country-level activities will be obtained primarily through the existing fund-raising mechanisms of the co-sponsors. These funds will be channelled through the disbursement mechanisms and procedures of each organization.

V. FIELD-LEVEL COORDINATION

14. It is recognized that national Governments have the ultimate responsibility for the coordination of HIV/AIDS issues at the country level. To this end, the arrangements of the programme for coordinating HIV/AIDS activities will complement and support national development planning.

15. The coordination of field-level activities will be undertaken through the United Nations resident coordinator system within the framework of General Assembly resolutions 44/211 and 47/199. This will involve a theme group on HIV/AIDS established by the resident coordinator and comprising representatives of the six co-sponsors and other United Nations system organizations. The chairperson of the theme group will be selected by consensus from among the United Nations system representatives. It is intended that the theme group will help the United Nations system integrate more effectively its efforts with national coordination mechanisms. To support the coordination process, in a number of countries the programme will recruit a country staff member, who will assist the chairperson of the theme group in carrying out his or her functions.

VI. ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE

16. A programme director will be appointed by the Secretary-General upon the recommendation of the co-sponsors. This will follow a search process undertaken by the co-sponsors which will include consultation with Governments and other interested parties. The director will report directly to the programme coordinating board, which will serve as the governance structure for the programme. Annual reports prepared by the director will be submitted to the board and will also be made available to the governing body of each of the co-sponsors.

17. The composition of the programme coordinating board will be determined on the basis of open-ended consultations, as outlined in operative paragraph 11 of the present resolution. In exercising its governance role, the board will have ultimate responsibility for all policy and budgetary matters. It will also review and decide upon the planning and execution of the programme. Its detailed responsibilities and meeting schedule will be specified in a document containing its terms of reference, which is currently being prepared.

18. The programme will also have a committee of co-sponsoring organizations, which will serve as a standing committee of the board. It will comprise one representative from each of the co-sponsors. The committee will meet regularly and will facilitate the input of the co-sponsors into the strategy, policies and operations of the programme.

19. Through consultation with interested non-governmental organizations, a mechanism will be established to ensure their meaningful participation in the programme, so that they can provide information, perspectives and advice to the board, based on their experience and involvement with HIV/AIDS issues.

Recalling General Assembly resolution 48/234 of 14 February 1994 on emergency assistance to Madagascar, in which appeals were made to the international community to assist the Government of Madagascar in bringing to a successful conclusion the recovery efforts made following the cyclones and floods which have struck Madagascar,

Having considered the report of the Secretary-General 87/ on the implementation of the above resolution,

Recognizing that these climatic phenomena have led to loss of human life and to the destruction of a number of towns and have caused considerable damage to economic and social infrastructure, particularly in the agricultural, transport, communications and energy sectors,

Taking into account the fact that those sectors are of fundamental importance to the economy of Madagascar,

Noting the efforts made by the Government of Madagascar to assist the victims of the cyclones and floods that struck the country between January and March 1994 and to promote the country's growth and economic and social development,

Noting with satisfaction the emergency aid and assistance provided by a number of States, international and regional organizations, specialized agencies and voluntary institutions, and Peoples, and all other resolutions adopted by United Nations bodies on the subject, including in particular Economic and Social Council resolution 1993/55 of 29 July 1993,

Reaffirming the responsibility of the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system to take all effective measures, within their respective spheres of competence, to assist in the full and speedy implementation of the Declaration and other relevant resolutions of United Nations bodies,

Concerned that the objectives of the Charter of the United Nations and the Declaration on the Granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples have not been fully achieved,

Bearing in mind the extremely fragile economies of the small island Non-Self-Governing Territories and their vulnerability to natural disasters, such as hurricanes, cyclones and sealevel rise,

Stressing that, because the development options of small island Non-Self-Governing Territories are limited, there are special challenges to planning for and implementing sustainable development and that those Territories will be constrained in meeting the challenges without the cooperation and assistance of the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system,

Also bearing in mind the conclusions and recommendations of the Meeting of Governmental Experts of Island Developing Countries and Donor Countries and Organizations held in New York from 25 to 29 June 1990, 91/

3. 4. Expresses its appreciation to those specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system that have continued to cooperate in varying forms and degrees with the United Nations and the regional organizations concerned in the implementation of the Declaration on the Granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples and other relevant resolutions of United Nations bodies, and urges all the specialized agencies and other

6. Requests the specialized agencies and the international institutions associated with the United Nations, as well as regional organizations, to strengthen existing measures of support and formulate appropriate programmes of assistance to the remaining Trust and Non-Self-Governing Territories within the framework of their respective mandates in order to accelerate progress in the economic and social sectors of those Territories;

7. Also requests the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system, in formulating their assistance programmes, to take due account of the text entitled "Challenges and opportunities: a strategic framework", which was adopted unanimously by the Meeting of Governmental Experts of Island Developing Countries and Donor Countries and Organizations; 92/

8. Also requests the specialized agencies to take into account the Programme of Action for the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States, 93/ adopted by the Global Conference on the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States, in particular its application to small island Non-Self-Governing Territories;

9. Urges the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system to formulate programmes that will support the sustainable development of small island Non-Self-Governing Territories and adopt measures that will enable those Territories to cope effectively, creatively and sustainably with environmental changes, mitigate the impact of such changes and reduce the threat they pose to marine and coastal resources;

10. Welcomes the continued initiative exercised by the United Nations Development Programme in maintaining close liaison among the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system, and in providing assistance to the peoples of colonial Territories, and calls upon the governing bodies of the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system to consider contributing to the relief, rehabilitation and reconstruction efforts in the Non-Self-Governing Territories affected by natural disasters and to look to the Programme of Action for the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States for guidance concerning their roles in natural disaster preparedness, mitigation, response and recovery, taking into account the outcome of the International Decade for Natural Disaster Reduction;

11. Encourages the Non-Self-Governing Territories to take steps to establish or strengthen disaster preparedness and management institutions and policies;

92/ See A/CONF.147/5-TD/B/AC.46/4, chap. II.

93/ Report of the Global Conference on the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States, Bridgetown, Barbados, 26 April-6 May 1994 (to be issued as a United Nations publication), resolution 1, annex II.

12. Urges the administering Powers concerned to facilitate the participation of the representatives of the Governments of Trust and Non-Self-Governing Territories in the relevant meetings and conferences of the agencies and organizations so that the Territories may draw the maximum benefit from the related activities of the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system;

13. Urges the governing bodies of those specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system that have not already done so to include in the agenda of their regular sessions a separate item on the progress made and action to be taken by their organizations in the implementation of the Declaration and other relevant resolutions of United Nations bodies;

14. Urges the executive heads of the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system to formulate, with the active cooperation of the regional organizations concerned, concrete proposals for the full implementation of the relevant United Nations resolutions and to submit the proposals as a matter of priority to their governing and legislative organs;

15. Draws the attention of the Special Committee on the Situation with regard to the Implementation of the Declaration on the Granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples to the present resolution and to the discussion held on the subject at the substantive session of 1994 of the Economic and Social Council;

16. Requests the President of the Economic and Social Council to continue to maintain close contact on these matters with the Chairman of the Special Committee on the Situation with regard to the Implementation of the Declaration on the Granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples and to report thereon to the Council;

17. Requests the Secretary-General to follow the implementation of the present resolution, paying particular attention to cooperation and integration arrangements for maximizing the efficiency of the assistance activities undertaken by various organizations of the United Nations system, and to report thereon to the Council at its substantive session of 1995;

18. Decides to keep these questions under continuous review.

1994/38. Effective implementation of the United Nations New Agenda for the Development of Africa in the 1990s

The Economic and Social Council,

Bearing in mind the memorandum of the Conference of Ministers of the Economic Commission for Africa to the Ad Hoc Committee of the Whole of the General Assembly on the final review and appraisal of the implementation of the United Nations Programme of Action for African Economic Recovery and Development, 1986-1990, 94/

94/ A/46/280, annex.

Recognizing that during the period of the Programme of Action, many African countries have made progress in fulfilling their undertakings and that further progress remains critically dependent on access to financing from the international community, including both official and private resources, in accordance with paragraphs 29 and 30 of the New Agenda,

Noting that the first two years of the New Agenda have been affected by the constrained financial resource flows to Africa,

Mindful of the fact that Africa's social and economic development is primarily the responsibility of the Governments and people of Africa, in concert with the international community, which has accepted the principle of shared responsibility and full partnership with Africa,

Bearing in mind the reports of the Secretary-General concerning the implementation of the United Nations New Agenda for the Development of Africa in the 1990s, 95/ the need for and feasibility of the establishment of a diversification fund for Africa's commodities 96/ and financial resource flows to Africa, 97/ which were submitted to the General Assembly at its forty-eighth session,

Taking into consideration the reports of the secretariat of the Economic Commission for Africa on the implementation of the New Agenda 98/ and on programme evaluation in the Commission 99/ and the report of the Secretary-General on the in-depth evaluation of programme 45 of the medium-term plan for the period 1994-1997, 100/

Noting General Assembly resolution 48/214 of 23 December 1993, in which the Assembly reaffirmed the expectations in the New Agenda and the priority attached to it,

1. Notes with appreciation the sustained efforts of the Secretary-General to ensure that the social and economic development of Africa remains on the agenda of the international community throughout the 1990s;

2. Recognizes the commitment of the Governments of Africa to the long-term sustainable socio-economic development and growth of the region through the

5. Affirms the need to strengthen collaboration between the Organization of African Unity, the African Development Bank and the Economic Commission for Africa in undertaking actions to promote the long-term socio-economic development of the region;

6. Notes with appreciation the goodwill of the Government of Japan in convening the Tokyo International Conference on African Development, held on 5 and 6 October 1993, and the Declaration adopted at that Conference;

9. Invites the Secretary-General, in the framework of the restructuring of the Secretariat, to explore ways and means to strengthen the capacity and capability of the Economic Commission for Africa to fulfil its coordination, follow-up and monitoring role in the implementation of the United Nations New Agenda for the Development of Africa in the 1990s;

10. Requests the Executive Secretary of the Economic Commission for Africa to monitor the implementation of the New Agenda closely, especially those aspects related to the mobilization of resources, and to report thereon to the Conference of Ministers of the Commission at its twenty-first meeting.

The Economic and Social Council,

Recalling General Assembly resolutions 32/197 of 20 December 1977, 33/202 of 29 January 1979, 44/211 of 22 December 1989, 46/235 of 13 April 1992, 47/199 of 22 December 1992 and 48/162 of 20 December 1993, Economic and Social Council resolutions 1987/10 of 26 May 1987 and 1989/6 of 22 May 1989 and resolutions 572 (XXI) of 19 April 1986 102/ and 602 (XXII) of 24 April 1987 103/ of the Conference of Ministers of the Economic Commission for Africa,

Endorsing the findings and conclusions of the self-evaluation of the Economic Commission for Africa on the subprogrammes concerned with natural resources, energy and marine affairs carried out during the biennium 1992-1993, 104/

Mindful of the regrouping of those subprogrammes in the revised medium-term plan for the period 1992-1997 and the programme budget for the biennium 1994-1995 into a single subprogramme aimed at enhancing the interrelationships between the natural resource, energy and marine affairs sectors to ensure greater programme impact,

Aware of the enhanced significance and strategic importance of the present natural resources subprogramme for sustaining the long-term objectives of the medium-term plan, in particular with regard to economic cooperation in the region and the integration of Africa in the context of the Treaty Establishing the African Economic Community, 101/ Agenda 21, adopted by the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, 105/ and the United Nations New Agenda for the Development of Africa in the 1990s, contained in the annex to General Assembly resolution 46/151 of 18 December 1991,

Recognizing the urgency involved in strengthening both the substantive and the operational capacity of the subprogramme in order to enhance its intended impact within the region,

Noting with concern the continued stagnation of available resources, both regular and extrabudgetary, required to carry out activities in support of regional policies, programmes and projects in order to strengthen the capacities and capabilities of the countries of Africa to explore, exploit and develop their natural resources fully, 102/ Official Records of the Economic and Social Council, 1986, Supplement No. 12 (E/1986/33).

Highly appreciative of the initiatives taken by the Secretary-General in the context of decentralization to strengthen the activities of the Economic Commission for Africa in the area of natural resource development, especially in the fields of mineral resources, water resources, cartography and remote sensing, energy and marine affairs,

Convinced that the current process of decentralizing the regular programme activities needs to be supported by a corresponding decentralization of extrabudgetary resources to complement and maximize existing regional capacities,

1. Appeals to all partners in the operational activities for the development of Africa to give due consideration to the priorities assigned to the development of natural resources within the programme of work of the Economic Commission for Africa with a view to funding related project activities;

2. Calls upon member States to facilitate the implementation of the activities of the Commission in natural resource development through effective national institutional mechanisms, in particular with regard to the follow-up of the recommendations of the Commission emanating from the self-evaluation of the subprogrammes concerning marine affairs, natural resources and energy;

3. Calls upon the Secretary-General, within the context of the restructuring of the economic and social sectors of the United Nations, to continue to ensure the effective decentralization of relevant global programmes and activities to the Economic Commission for Africa;

Considering, however, that critical areas remain uncovered by the expertise currently available in the Multinational Programming and Operational Centres and require additional resources on a sustained basis which cannot be met through the regional advisory services programme of the Commission,

Noting with satisfaction the continuous material support of member States in providing the Multinational Programming and Operational Centres, inter alia, with office premises free of charge and seconding national experts to the Centres on a temporary basis,

Recalling that the budgets for the Centres for the biennium 1994-1995 were approved with due regard to current budget constraints in the United Nations and the pressing priorities of member States and their intergovernmental organizations,

Reaffirming the validity in the short, medium and long term of the mandate of the Multinational Programming and Operational Centres as spelt out in the annex to resolution 702 (XXV) of the Conference of Ministers of the Economic Commission for Africa and noting the activities carried out by the Centres towards the rationalization and harmonization of subregional economic groupings, as well as the substantive support to the latter in the formulation and implementation of their multisectoral programmes,
