Commission of Inquiry in Rwanda

I. INTRODUCTION

1. In its resolution 1013 (1995) dated 7 September 1995, the Security Council requested the Secretary-General to establish, as a matter of urgency, an International Commission of Inquiry, with the following mandate:

(a) To collect information and investigate reports relating to the sale or supply of arms and related matériel to former Rwandan government forces in the Great Lakes region in violation of Council resolutions 918 (1994), 997 (1995) and 1011 (1995);

(b) To investigate allegations that such forces are receiving military training in order to destabilize Rwanda;

(c) To identify parties aiding and abetting the illegal acquisition of arms by former Rwandan government forces, contrary to the Council resolutions referred to above;

(d) To recommend measures to end the illegal flow of arms in the subregion in violation of the Council resolutions referred to above.

2. The Council further recommended that the Commission be appointed by the Secretary-General and be composed of 5 to 10 impartial and internationally respected persons, including legal, military and police experts, under the Chairmanship of an eminent person, and assisted by the appropriate support staff. By the same resolution, the Security Council also requested the Secretary-General to report to the Council on the establishment of the Commission, and further requested him to submit, within three months from its establishment, an interim report on the conclusions of the Commission, and, as soon as possible thereafter, to submit a final report, containing its recommendations.

3. By a letter dated 13 March 1996 from the Secretary-General addressed to the President of the Security Council (S/1996/195), the Secretary-General transmitted to the Council the final report of the Commission of Inquiry. As requested by the Council, that report contained the Commission's conclusions, as well as its recommendations regarding possible measures to curb the illegal flow of arms in the Great Lakes region.

4. In resolution 1053 (1996) dated 23 April 1996, the Security Council, inter alia, commended the members of the Commission of Inquiry for the excellent investigation they had conducted; noted that the Commission had received strong indications from its sources that aircraft were continuing to land at Goma and Bukuru with arms for former Rwandese government forces and that senior figures among those forces were still actively raising money, apparently for the purpose of funding an armed struggle against Rwanda; and further noted that the Commission had not yet been able to investigate thoroughly those allegations of continuing violations of the arms embargo. The Council therefore:

(a) Reaffirmed the importance it attached to the work of the Commission, to the investigations it had conducted to date and to continued effective implementation of the relevant Council resolutions;

(b) Requested the Secretary-General to maintain the Commission on the basis set out in paragraph 91 (c) of the report of the Commission (S/1996/195, annex) to follow up its earlier investigations and to stand ready to pursue any further allegations of violations, especially of current and expected armed conflict.

5. The Commission of Inquiry will, as mandated by the Security Council, pursue its investigations in the States of the Great Lakes region, in particular Rwanda, Zaire, Uganda and the United Republic of Tanzania. It will continue to investigate reports of violations of the arms embargo imposed by Security Council resolution 918 (1994) and to gather information relating to those alleged violations in those countries and in Kenya. The Commission would, therefore, need to secure the assistance and cooperation of high-level government officials and thereafter maintain close liaison with police, customs and military officers of those countries. In addition, the Commission will investigate any indication of any new or ongoing violations, including visits to sites of alleged violations in Zaire and/or the United Republic of Tanzania and interviewing airport personnel, local customs, police and military officers and others, as required.

6. In line with the recommendations of the Commission, as approved by the Security Council, the Commission will be composed of a small number of members, four instead of six, including its Chairman. The Commission will be supported by three international staff and five staff at the local level, representing a reduction by five international and one local-level staff.

II. BUDGET OF THE COMMISSION

A. Composition of the Commission

7. As proposed in the report of the Commission (S/1996/195, annex), its size has been reduced and its composition adjusted to take into account the need for maximum cost-effectiveness. The Commission's modus operandi will take into account the need to report to the Security Council by 1 October 1996. The Commission will be composed of four impartial and internationally respected persons, including customs, military and police experts. The Chairman of the Commission will be a United Nations staff member, appointed by the Secretary-General at the D-2 level. The other three members will be made available by Governments, on a non-reimbursable basis, to carry out the activities requested by the Security Council. Their salaries will be paid by their respective Governments. Travel and subsistence allowance in the area of operations would be borne by the United Nations.

The staff member will be responsible for preparing the Commission's regular and special reports to Headquarters; draft the Commission's reports to the Security Council, including recommendations; liaise with permanent missions to the United Nations, as required; assist the Chairman of the Commission in informal consultations concerning the Commission's work; assist the Department of Peace-keeping Operations in liaising with other Secretariat departments in finalizing the report to the Security Council;

(b) The Security Coordinator/Administrative Officer (P-3) will be responsible for the security and safety of United Nations personnel and property assigned to the Commission, including the preparation and implementation of a security plan; assessment of local security conditions; establishment of modalities for reporting security information; and liaison with local authorities. The Security Coordinator will also conduct training and set up a financial plan for security purposes. In performing the functions of Administrative Officer, the staff member, under the supervision of the Chairman of the Commission and in accordance with established policies and procedures, will be responsible for providing effective administrative, financial and logistics support services to the Commission. Responsibilities also include liaison with other United Nations organizations, missions and agencies on matters of mutual interest and concern;

(c) One international General Service staff will provide the necessary support to the Commission;
