I. QUESTION OF THE NON-SELF-GOVERNING TERRITORIES OF AMERICAN SAMOA, ANGUILLA, BERMUDA, BRITISH VIRGIN ISLANDS, CAYMAN ISLANDS, GUAM, MONTSERRAT, PITCAIRN, ST. HELENA, TOKELAU, TURKS AND CAICOS ISLANDS AND UNITED STATES VIRGIN ISLANDS

A. Consideration by the Subcommittee

1. The Subcommittee on Small Territories, Petitions, Information and Assistance considered the Territories of American Samoa, Anguilla, Bermuda, British Virgin Islands, Cayman Islands, Guam, Montserrat, Pitcairn, St. Helena, Tokelau, Turks and Caicos Islands and United States Virgin Islands en bloc at its 696th to 702nd meetings, from 26 June to 8 July 1996.
2. During its consideration of these items, the Subcommittee had before it working papers prepared by the Secretariat on those Territories (A/AC.109/2041 and Corr.1, 2043, 2044 and Add.1, 2045, 2047 and Add.1, 2050-2053, 2054 and Add.1, 2055 and 2056).
3. The Subcommittee conducted a review of the political, economic and social conditions in each of the Territories in the light of the information contained in the working papers prepared by the Secretariat. The Subcommittee noted that the information contained in the working papers was not always up to date and that the Secretariat relied in some instances on published sources. The Subcommittee requested the administering Powers to cooperate with the Secretariat in furnishing information on the Territories.
4. In the course of its review, the Subcommittee considered all aspects of the issues relating to the Non-Self-Governing Territories and focused attention on the following:
 - (a) Progress or lack of progress in ascertaining the wishes of the population of the Territories regarding their future status;
 - (b) The position of the territorial Governments and political parties and constitutional developments on the question of the future status of the Territories;
 - (c) The general socio-economic developments and specific problems faced by some Territories in respect of environment, drug-trafficking, etc.;
 - (d) The dispatch of visiting missions and participation of representatives of Non-Self-Governing Territories in the work of the Committee so that the Committee can obtain first-hand information on the wishes of the population.
5. The Subcommittee noted that in some cases there was no up-to-date information to ascertain the wishes of the population regarding their future status. It remains convinced that the wishes and aspirations of the people of the Territories should continue to guide the development of their future political status and that referendums, free and fair elections, and other forms of popular consultation play an important role in ascertaining the wishes and aspirations of the people. The outcome of such exercises would help the

Subcommittee in reviewing the list of the Non-Self-Governing Territories with which the Special Committee is concerned. The Subcommittee was aware that some of the Territories were not seeking independence but sought other options of self-determination. The Subcommittee also noted that some Territories attached priority to socio-economic development before making a choice as to their future status.

6. The Subcommittee attached importance to a review of the list of the Non-Self-Governing Territories in the light of the fact that the International Decade for the Eradication of Colonialism by the year 2000 is well past its mid-point.

7. In view of Tokelau's own decision-making agenda and related changes to the legislative framework for Tokelau, the Chairman of the Special Committee was requested by the Permanent Representative of New Zealand to the United Nations to allow the Administrator of Tokelau and the Faipule of Tokelau to appear before the Special Committee to allow it to hear, at first hand, how decisions on Tokelau's future status are being made. Accordingly, the Subcommittee recommended that this year the draft resolution on specific conditions prevailing in Tokelau be considered and adopted by the Special Committee.

8. The Subcommittee reiterated its view that the cooperation of all administering Powers was essential for the discharge of its mandate and resolved that it should seek the cooperation of all administering Powers through demonstration of a practical, flexible and innovative approach. The Subcommittee was conscious of the changes in the international situation and the consequent need to adapt its approach in tune with the changed circumstances. The Subcommittee expressed its readiness to work with the administering Powers in a spirit of constructive cooperation to achieve the goals of the United Nations in respect of the Non-Self-Governing Territories. The Subcommittee hoped that the administering Powers would take note of this new approach and come forward with cooperation.

B. Draft general resolution

9. Having considered the question of the Non-Self-Governing Territories of American Samoa, Anguilla, Bermuda, the British Virgin Islands, the Cayman Islands, Guam, Montserrat, Pitcairn, St. Helena, Tokelau, the Turks and Caicos Islands and the United States Virgin Islands, the Subcommittee has decided to recommend the following draft resolution for action by the Special Committee:

The Special Committee,

Having considered the questions of the Non-Self-Governing Territories of American Samoa, Anguilla, Bermuda, the British Virgin Islands, the Cayman Islands, Guam, Montserrat, Pitcairn, St. Helena, Tokelau, the Turks and Caicos Islands and the United States Virgin Islands, hereinafter "the Territories",

Having examined the report of the Subcommittee on Small Territories, Petitions, Information and Assistance,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 1514 (XV) of 14 December 1960, containing the Declaration on the Granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples, and all resolutions and decisions of the United Nations relating to those Territories, including, in particular, the resolutions adopted by the General Assembly at its fiftieth session on the individual Territories covered by the present resolution,

Recognizing that the specific characteristics and the sentiments of the peoples of the Territories require flexible, practical and innovative approaches to the options of self-determination, without any prejudice to territorial size, geographical location, size of population or natural resources,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 1541 (XV) of 15 December 1960, containing the principles that should guide Member States in determining whether or not an obligation exists to transmit the information called for under Article 73 e of the Charter of the United Nations,

Expressing its concern that even three and a half decades after the adoption of the Declaration there still remains a number of Non-Self-Governing Territories,

Conscious of the need to ensure the full and speedy implementation of the Declaration in respect of the Territories, in view of the target set by the United Nations to eradicate colonialism by the year 2000,

Recognizing that in the decolonization process there is no alternative to the principle of self-determination as enunciated by the General Assembly in its resolutions 1514 (XV), 1541 (XV) and other resolutions,

Noting with appreciation the continuing exemplary cooperation of New Zealand, as an administering Power, in the work of the Special Committee, and welcoming the recent constitutional developments in Tokelau,

Welcoming the stated position of the Government of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland that it continues to take seriously its obligations under the Charter of the United Nations to develop self-government in the dependent Territories and, in cooperation with the locally elected Governments, to ensure that their constitutional frameworks continue to meet the wishes of the people, and the emphasis that it is ultimately for the peoples of the Territories to decide their future status,

Noting the stated position of the Government of the United States of America that it supports fully the principles of decolonization and takes seriously its obligations under the Charter of the United Nations to promote to the utmost the well-being of the inhabitants of the Territories under United States administration,

Aware of the special circumstances of the geographical location and economic conditions of each Territory, and bearing in mind the necessity of promoting economic stability and diversifying and strengthening further the economies of the respective Territories as a matter of priority,

Conscious of the particular vulnerability of the small Territories to natural disasters and environmental degradation,

Aware of the usefulness both to the Territories and to the Special Committee of the participation of appointed and elected representatives of the Territories in the work of the Special Committee,

Convinced that the wishes and aspirations of the peoples of the Territories should continue to guide the development of their future political status and that referendums, free and fair elections, and other forms of popular consultation play an important role in ascertaining the wishes and aspirations of the people,

Convinced that any negotiations to determine the status of a Territory must not take place without an active involvement and participation of the people of that Territory,

Recognizing that all available options for self-determination are valid as long as they are in accordance with the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned and in conformity with the clearly defined principles contained in General Assembly resolutions 1514 (XV), 1541 (XV) and other Assembly resolutions,

Mindful that United Nations visiting missions provide an effective means of ascertaining the situation in the Territories, and considering that the possibility of sending further visiting missions to the Territories at an appropriate time and in consultation with the administering Powers should be kept under review,

Mindful also that the holding of the seminars in the Caribbean and Pacific regions alternately and at United Nations Headquarters or any other venue, as appropriate, provides an effective means for the Special Committee to discharge its mandate and promote the goals of the International Decade for the Eradication of Colonialism by the year 2000,

Mindful further that some Territories have not had any United Nations visiting mission for a long period of time,

Noting with appreciation the contribution to the development of some Territories by specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system, in particular the United Nations Development Programme, and regional institutions such as the Caribbean Development Bank,

1. Approves the report of the Subcommittee on Small Territories, Petitions, Information and Assistance relating to American Samoa, Anguilla, Bermuda, the British Virgin Islands, the Cayman Islands, Guam, Montserrat, Pitcairn, St. Helena, Tokelau, the Turks and Caicos Islands and the United States Virgin Islands;

2. Reaffirms the inalienable right of the peoples of the Territories to self-determination, including, if they so wish, independence, in conformity with the Charter of the United Nations and General Assembly resolution 1514 (XV), containing the Declaration on the Granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples;

3. Reaffirms also that it is ultimately for the peoples of the Territories themselves to determine freely their future political status in accordance with the relevant provisions of the Charter, the Declaration and the relevant resolutions of the General Assembly, and in that connection calls upon the administering Powers, in cooperation with the territorial Governments, to facilitate programmes of political education in the Territories in order to foster an awareness among the people of the legitimate political status options open to them in the exercise of their right to self-determination;

4. Requests the administering Powers, having ascertained the views of the peoples of the Territories, regularly to report to the Secretary-General on the wishes and aspirations of the people regarding their future political status;

5. Stresses the need to seek further ways and means to enhance the Special Committee's understanding of the conditions and wishes of the peoples of the Territories;

6. Requests the administering Powers and the representatives of the peoples of the Territories to assist the Special Committee by inviting the United Nations visiting missions at appropriate times to monitor the status of the Territories;

7. Reaffirms the responsibility of the administering Powers under the Charter to promote the economic and social development and to preserve the cultural identity of the Territories, and recommends that priority continue to be given, in consultation with the territorial Governments concerned, to the strengthening and diversification of their respective economies;

8. Requests the administering Powers in consultation with the peoples of the Territories to take all necessary measures to protect and conserve the environment of the Territories under their administration against any environmental degradation, and requests the specialized agencies concerned to continue to monitor environmental conditions in those Territories;

9. Calls upon the administering Powers, in cooperation with the respective territorial Governments, to continue to take all necessary measures to counter problems related to drug trafficking, money laundering and other offences;

10. Stresses that the achievement of the declared goal of eradication of colonialism by the year 2000 requires the full and constructive cooperation of all parties concerned, in particular the administering Powers;

11. Urges Member States to contribute to the efforts of the United Nations to usher in the twenty-first century in a world free of colonialism, and calls upon them to continue to give their full support to the Special Committee in its endeavours towards that noble goal;

12. Invites the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system to initiate or to continue to take all necessary measures to accelerate progress in the social and economic life of the Territories;

13. Decides to continue the examination of the question of the small Territories in order to assist the peoples of the Territories to exercise their right to self-determination, and to report thereon to the General Assembly at its fifty-first session.

11. During its consideration of the question of dissemination of information on decolonization, the Subcommittee held consultations with representatives of the Department of Public Information and the Department of Political Affairs of the Secretariat.

B. Statement by the representative of the Department of Public Information

12. In his statement, the representative of the Department of Public Information said that the Department's report covered the activities undertaken by the Department during the period from May 1995 to April 1996. The Department's multimedia activities included a wide range of issues pertaining to decolonization. The adoption of General Assembly resolution 50/40 on dissemination of information was highlighted by the Department's news programmes for broadcasting organizations worldwide and received emphasis in its press releases in English and French.

13. As part of its regular coverage of United Nations activities, the Department issued a total of 48 press releases in English and French on issues relating to decolonization. During 1995, a wide range of information covering all aspects of decolonization was processed by the staff of the United Nations Yearbook for volume 48, covering the events of 1994, as well as for volume 43, a backlog edition covering events in 1989; those volumes were being published in 1996 and 1997, respectively. In the special fiftieth anniversary commemorative edition, published in August 1995, a major section entitled "Emerging nations" covered issues relating to the end of the International Trusteeship system, the status of the remaining Non-Self-Governing Territories, the thirtieth anniversary of the 1960 Declaration, and the dismantling of the colonial system, including case studies on Algeria, Angola, Mozambique, Namibia and Southern Rhodesia. The Department also continued to distribute the poster on decolonization, published in 1994 in English, French and Spanish, entitled "Complete Decolonization by the Year 2000 - Freedom to Choose."

14. The Department produced 48 radio programmes which covered a wide range of activities related to decolonization. Related activities within the United Nations system were also televised and disseminated through feeds and dubs made available to networks and other television stations and through packages of television news and video highlights provided to international news syndicators. The Department's Audio/Visual Library continued to make tapes and cassettes available to correspondents, delegates, United Nations radio producers and outside producers on decolonization issues.

15. The worldwide network of 68 United Nations information centres and services continued to distribute the Department's information materials relating to decolonization, through the local media, non-governmental organizations and educational institutions. The same materials also formed part of United Nations Information Centres reference library collections. Whenever appropriate, the Centres incorporated such information in their briefings on the work of the Organization as well as in their newsletters. The United Nations Information Centre at Port-of-Spain assisted the Special Committee during the Caribbean Regional Seminar on decolonization held from 3 to 5 July 1995. Audio material recorded during the Seminar, including special interviews, was sent to Headquarters for production of radio programmes for global distribution.

C. Statement by the representative of the Department of Political Affairs

16. In his statement before the Subcommittee, the representative of the Department of Political Affairs reviewed the Department's activities in 1995 in the area of dissemination of information on decolonization. He drew the attention of the Subcommittee members to the provisions of the most recent General Assembly resolution on dissemination of information on decolonization (resolution 50/40) with regard to the functions of Department of Political Affairs.

17. In the light of the provisions of that resolution, the work of the Department in the dissemination of information was focused on three major areas: (a) oral dissemination of information through personal contacts of the Department's officers with leading experts on Non-Self-Governing Territories, representatives from academia and media organizations; (b) the systematic distribution of documents on decolonization issues, in close cooperation with the Department of Public Information, particularly in connection with regional seminars and events in other forums, at United Nations Headquarters and elsewhere; and (c) various contributions prepared by the Department of Political Affairs for recurrent or occasional United Nations publications. All these activities were closely coordinated with the relevant departments and services of the United Nations Secretariat, first and foremost with the Department's longstanding partner, the Department of Public Information.

18. One area in which the contribution of the Department of Political Affairs was considered important was, as in the previous years, the political advice and up-to-date information provided by the Department to the Department of Public Information in the preparation of published materials. Continuing its past practice, the Department cooperated with the Department of Public Information in the preparation of relevant chapters for the 1995 United Nations Yearbook. The questions covered in that contribution included, actions by the General Assembly and its subsidiary bodies, implementation of the resolutions on decolonization by the specialized agencies, foreign economic and other interests in the Territories, scholarship programmes and training for the inhabitants of the Non-Self-Governing Territories and other decolonization issues. In this context the representative of the Department of Political Affairs mentioned the updating of information that the Department undertook for various organizations' Yearbooks, including those distributed through electronic media. He also said that desk officers of the Department responsible for decolonization continued to provide an ongoing consultation for the United Nations tour guides on the decolonization questions for the general public visiting Headquarters.

19. The Department availed itself of the opportunity provided by the seminars organized by the Special Committee away from Headquarters to disseminate information on decolonization. The representative of the Department stated that, given the diminished human resources of the Department of Political Affairs involved in servicing decolonization bodies and providing working documents on decolonization issues to the General Assembly and its subsidiary bodies, it was becoming more and more difficult to attend to various requests from academia, the general public and individuals for specific information on decolonization. The regional seminars provided a unique opportunity to accomplish several major tasks at one time. It helped the Department to collect up-to-date information on the political and constitutional developments in the Territories through discussions with representatives from the Non-Self-Governing Territories, as well as experts and non-governmental organizations active in the field of decolonization; the Department achieved a great deal by directly disseminating in bulk various working documents of the Special Committee and its subsidiary bodies as well as other material published by the Department of Public Information at the venue of the seminar. The recent Pacific Regional Seminar had offered an excellent opportunity for dissemination of information. The direct contact and exchange of information with the administrator of Tokelau, the Chief Minister of Gibraltar and the Deputy Chief Minister of the Turks and Caicos Islands, as well as representatives from New Caledonia, East Timor and the Falkland Islands (Malvinas) and other participants, was useful in rendering the services of the Department on the work of the Special Committee.

20. The Department of Political Affairs also attached great importance to the distribution of information on decolonization, and took particular care to reply to individual requests for information on the work of the United Nations in the field of decolonization, although those requests seemed to have diminished in recent years. The Department maintained regular and fruitful contacts with regional and intergovernmental organizations, both in the Caribbean and the Pacific regions, especially CARICOM, the Eastern Caribbean Development Bank, the Caribbean Development Bank and the South Pacific Forum. The valuable input from those organizations on the issues facing small island Non-Self-Governing Territories enabled the Department to undertake more thorough analysis of the problems faced by those Territories and to reflect them adequately in the working papers. The representative of the Department said that that source was becoming even more important in the absence of up-to-date information on the Territories from some of the administering Powers.

21. The representative of the Department assured the Subcommittee that the Department would make every effort to fulfil the mandate within the limits of its diminished resources and the financial constraints facing the Organization. He concluded by saying that the Department of Political Affairs would take into consideration the guidelines and recommendations the Subcommittee would make at the conclusion of its current session.

D. Week of Solidarity with the Peoples of All Colonial Territories, Fighting for Freedom, Independence and Human Rights (27-31 May 1996)

22. In accordance with the programme of work for 1996 adopted by the Special Committee at its 1454th meeting, on 16 February 1996, the Subcommittee on Small Territories, Petitions, Information and Assistance was to consider the question of the Week of Solidarity at its meetings in May 1996. Since the Pacific Regional Seminar was held from 12 to 14 June 1996, the meetings of the Subcommittee scheduled for May had to be moved to a later date. Since the dates for the Week of Solidarity were in close proximity to the Pacific Regional Seminar, the Chairman found it most appropriate to make the statement on the occasion of the Week of Solidarity at the Seminar on 14 June 1996. The statement was as follows:

"Since 1972, in accordance with General Assembly resolution 2911 (XXVII), the Governments and peoples of the world have been observing annually a Week of Solidarity with the Peoples of All Colonial Territories. This celebration is in full accord with the purposes and tenets embodied in the Charter of the United Nations and is in conformity with the principles enshrined in the Declaration on the Granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples, contained in Assembly resolution 1514 (XV).

"Today, when our Organization takes a closer look at its achievements, its success in the field of decolonization is universally recognized. Hundreds of millions gained their freedom and independence in the surge of decolonization following the creation of the United Nations. Their membership in the United Nations as sovereign States strengthened the fundamental basis of the international community.

"We remember the history of the struggles against colonialism and pay tribute to all those who took part in them. We remain mindful of the sacrifices that made it possible for hundreds of millions of peoples to achieve self-determination and independence.

"However important the success in the field of decolonization, the task is still unfinished in that area and requires further concerted and determined action on the part of all those involved. There are still peoples who have not been able to exercise their right to self-determination. These are mostly peoples of small island Non-Self-Governing Territories located mainly in the Pacific and Caribbean regions. They are confronted, inter alia, by problems of their small size, low population, geographic remoteness, limited natural resources and vulnerability to natural disasters. Their situations require new and innovative solutions geared towards the implementation of the International Decade for the Eradication of Colonialism launched by the General Assembly in 1988.

"Convinced as we are that in the decolonization process there is no alternative to the principle of self-determination, we once again reiterate the legitimacy of all options of self-determination consistent with General Assembly resolutions 1514 (XV) and 1541 (XV) as long as it is ascertained that they are the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned. We should continue to exercise flexibility and realism in our endeavours to complete the process of decolonization. The wishes of the peoples of the Non-Self-Governing Territories should not be ignored when examining once again the options of self-determination available to them.

"In that connection, we further appeal for the strengthened and continued support of the administering Powers, whose cooperation with the Special Committee is essential for the progress of the Territories towards self-determination. We count on the support of the specialized agencies, which should continue to assist the Non-Self-Governing Territories in enhancing their standard of living and promoting their self-sufficiency. We count on regional and international organizations, which should explore new avenues to provide the Non-Self-Governing Territories with legal and political opportunities for participating in programmes that relate to their environment and livelihood. We count on support for our efforts from all Member States and non-governmental organizations.

"We hope and believe that our combined, unrelenting efforts will ensure the fulfilment of the promise for freedom, lasting peace, sustained growth and sustainable development for all the peoples of our planet in accordance with the purposes and principles of the United Nations."

E. Draft resolution on dissemination of information on decolonization

23. Having concluded its examination of the item, the Subcommittee decided to recommend the following draft resolution for action by the Special Committee:
