2. Recognizes that the World Trade Organization provides the framework for an open, rule-based, equitable, secure, non-discriminatory, transparent and predictable multilateral trading system and stresses that all members of the World Trade Organization should implement their commitments in respect of the Uruguay Round agreements in a full, timely, faithful and continuous manner and

4. Emphasizes the importance of the strengthening of, and the attaining of greater universality by, the international trading system and welcomes the process directed towards accession to the World Trade Organization of countries that are not members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, and emphasizes the necessity for providing assistance to non-World Trade Organization members so as to facilitate their efforts with respect to accession in an expeditious manner, and thereby contribute to their rapid and full integration into the multilateral trading system;

5. Also emphasizes the importance of the inaugural Ministerial Conference of the World Trade Organization, to be held in Singapore, in regard to reviewing the implementation of the Uruguay Round agreements and its built-in agenda with a view to helping set the future direction of a rule-based multilateral trading system;

9. Emphasizes the need for a balanced and integrated approach to environment, trade and development issues, through the examining of trade and environmental issues from a developmental perspective which should be mutually supportive, while stressing that environmental policies and measures with a

III

1. Recognizes the important progress made in understanding the relationship between trade and environment in the Committee on Trade and Environment of the World Trade Organization, as well as in the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, and in the Commission on Sustainable Development, including the recommendations made at its fourth session, and the need to maintain the momentum generated through these deliberations, and requests the Conference, within this context, to examine outstanding issues with a view to recommending future work on trade and environment;

2. 5. Also reaffirms the need to give priority to the problems facing the least developed countries and, in particular, special attention to help enable the least developed countries to maximize their potential opportunities and minimize possible risks arising from the Uruguay Round agreements;

7/ Report of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, Rio de Janeiro, 3-14 June 1992, vol. I, Resolutions Adopted by the Conference (United Nations publication, Sales No. E.93.I.8 and corrigendum), resolution 1, annex II.

8/ Resolution 46/151, annex, sect. II.

7. Strongly invites preference-giving countries to continue to improve and renew their Generalized System of Preferences schemes in keeping with the post-Uruguay Round trading system and with the objective of integrating developing countries, especially least developed countries, into the international trading system, while avoiding linking eligibility to non-trade considerations and thereby detracting from the original principles of Generalized System of Preferences schemes;

8. Stresses that Governments, as well as international organizations, should extend technical assistance to developing countries to enable them to participate more effectively in the international trading system, including assistance in their service sectors to help ensure that they reap the maximum possible benefits from the liberalization of trade in services;

9. Also stresses that the forthcoming South-South conference on finance, trade and investment, to be held in San José, Costa Rica, will provide an opportunity for developing countries to advance initiatives related to "A Partnership for Growth and Development", and invites the international community to provide support to the conference.
