APPEAL

concerning the embargo against Iraq

In accordance with the principles contained in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights in the Charter of the United Nations, the International Covenants on Human Rights, namely the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights and the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, and the provisions of the Geneva Conventions of 12 August 1949, the signatory non-governmental organizations in consultative status with the United Nations Economic and Social Council are deeply concerned over the violation of human rights resulting from the embargo imposed against Iraq and wish to recall that:

The embargo has been in force for more than six years, in spite of the fact that the reasons for the imposition of the embargo are removed.

It is the Iraqi civilian population that suffers the most, particularly the children. The number of deaths of children since the imposition of the embargo in 1990 has reached 560,000 according to the latest report of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, that is, each year six times more than in 1990.

By its prolongation, the health and education systems and economic development have completely broken down, setting the country back to the pre-industrial age.

Consequently, the signatory non-governmental organizations, having already asked the Commission and the Sub-Commission at various times, again exhort this fifty-second session of the Commission on Human Rights to do everything in its power to help bring about the lifting of the embargo which cruelly affects the civilian population and is in direct violation of human rights and humanitarian law. We appeal in particular to the members of the Security Council to lift, as a start, the oil embargo in conformity with article 22 of resolution 687 (1991) of 3 April 1991, with which Iraq has complied. This would permit Iraq to acquire, in the first place, the vital products it needs for its population to survive.
