Introduction

1. By drawing up this list of States which have proclaimed, extended or terminated a state of emergency, the Special Rapporteur has endeavoured, within the limits of the information available to him, to give the Sub-Commission and the Commission as complete a picture as possible of the world situation regarding states of emergency since 1 January 1985. The present composite list contains a summary of information which had already been included in his nine previous reports as well as new information received from Governments, United Nations bodies and other intergovernmental organizations, communicated by non-governmental organizations in consultative status with the Economic and Social Council and published in the press since December 1996.

2. The purpose of this recapitulation is to give an overall view of the world situation regarding states of emergency and at the same time to improve the list prepared by the Special Rapporteur. To that end, it is essential to benefit once more from the cooperation of the Governments concerned, the non-governmental organizations and all those in a position to supply reliable information capable of correcting errors or remedying gaps which may exist in that list.

3. The Special Rapporteur periodically solicits information from all Governments, competent United Nations organs, specialized agencies and other intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations concerned. A list of replies and other communications received is contained in the annex.

4. Whenever the Special Rapporteur has learned, generally through the international press, of the adoption by a Government of emergency measures involving prima facie restriction of the exercise of human rights (partial suspension of the Constitution, curfew, etc.) he has immediately requested from that Government, through the Secretary-General, specific and detailed information on the nature of the measures in force, the legal basis for them and, above all, the effect they are having or have had on human rights in general.

5. In drawing up this list, the Special Rapporteur also took into account those countries which have and apply ordinary legislation empowering the executive to adopt emergency measures (such as administrative or ministerial detention for long periods) without the need for official proclamation of a state of emergency in order to do so.

6. According to the information available to the Special Rapporteur, in the following 100 States and territories, since 1 January 1985, measures have been taken which constituted the proclamation, extension, maintenance or termination of emergency regimes in various forms:

I. COUNTRIES OR TERRITORIES IN WHICH EMERGENCY REGIMES ARE AT PRESENT IN FORCE

Iraq:

The Special Rapporteur had earlier reported that emergency measures had been taken during the armed conflict of 1991 and afterwards, as well as in connection with the events that have taken place in the Kurdish provinces.

In a letter dated 4 March 1993, the Government of Iraq stated, inter alia, that:

"Despite the exceptional situation it has faced as a result of the aggression perpetrated against it by some 30 countries and in spite of the ensuing unrest, Iraq has neither proclaimed a state of emergency nor restricted the implementation of the articles of the Constitution or the laws, nor adopted measures which might undermine respect for human rights in general."

A de facto state of emergency exists at present in the north of the country.

Sources: Letters from the Government dated 23 June 1987 and 4 March 1993; note verbale dated 3 July 1991 from the Permanent Mission of Iraq to the Centre for Human Rights (reproduced in E/CN.4/Sub.2/1991/51); reports on the situation of human rights in Iraq, submitted by Mr. Max van der Stoep, Special Rapporteur of the Commission on Human Rights (A/46/647, para. 60; E/CN.4/1992/31, paras. 22-39 and 151; E/CN.4/1994/58, para. 15; E/CN.4/1995/56, para. 17; E/CN.4/1996/61, para. 17; A/51/496, paras. 87-91; E/CN.4/1997/57, paras. 5, 7, 8 and 41).

Israel: State of emergency in force since May 1948.

Myanmar:

State of emergency proclaimed at Prome on 22 July 1988 and in the Yangon region on 3 August 1988. Terminated on 24 August 1988.

Martial law introduced on 18 September 1988. By end of May 1990, it was lifted in 102 townships.

The curfew imposed on 10 October 1990 was lifted on 10 September 1992.

On 26 September 1992, two martial law orders dated 17 and 18 July 1989 were revoked.

In a letter dated 4 August 1994, the Government stated that "the state of emergency is no longer ... in force in Myanmar since 24 August 1988". It further indicated that "the State and Law Order Restoration Council Order No. 12/92 issued on 26 September 1992 revoked the executive and judicial powers conferred upon the three Military Commanders and at the same time abolished all the Military Tribunals".

The Special Rapporteur has noted that the Commission on Human Rights, in its resolution 1996/80 of 23 April 1996, gravely concerned at "the existence of important restrictions on the exercise of fundamental freedoms, including the freedom of expression and association", encouraged the Government of Myanmar "to continue to lift the remaining emergency measures" (para. 15).

N'diaye, and the Special Rapporteur on the independence of judges and lawyers, Mr. P. Kumaraswamy, on the situation of human rights in Nigeria (E/CN.4/1997/62/Add.1, paras. 49-52 and 70); report of the Human Rights Committee (A/51/40, paras. 270, 278-280, 295). Information received from a non-governmental organization and published in the press.

Peru:

A state of emergency, which was declared for the first time in 1981, is currently in force in a considerable part of the territory; extension of states of emergency in certain provinces and departments and declaration of new states of emergency are periodically reported.

Sources: Notifications of the Government to the United Nations Secretary-General (latest dated 8 February 1995); letters from the Government addressed to the Centre for Human Rights (latest dated 18 August 1993).

On 5 April 1992, the President of the Republic dissolved the Parliament and suspended, temporarily and partially, the Constitution throughout the territory of Peru. This suspension of constitutional rule ended on 30 December 1992.

Sources: Report of the Special Rapporteur of the Commission on Human Rights on extrajudicial, summary or arbitrary executions, Mr. B.W. Ndiaye, on his mission to Peru (E/CN.4/1994/7/Add.2, paras. 16, 21-24, 75, 86-88, 119-120); information published in the press and received from non-governmental organizations.

On 21 February 1997, a state of emergency was declared in 14 provinces of the country.

Source: Letter from the Government dated 28 February 1997.

Republic of Korea:

According to the Special Rapporteur of the Commission on Human Rights on the right to freedom of opinion and expression, Mr. A. Hussain, the wording and implementation of the National Security Law of the Republic of Korea is incompatible with article 19 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (E/CN.4/1996/39/Add.1, para. 21). Thus, it represents a measure of an exceptional character.

Russian Federation:

On 19 April 1991, a state of emergency was introduced in Vladikavkaz (North Ossetia) for a period of one month and subsequently extended until 19 September, 19 December 1991, 19 April and 10 August 1992.
