NOTE BY THE SECRETARY-GENERAL

The Secretary-General has the honour to refer to resolution 447 (1979) of the Security Council by which he was requested to submit to the Council information obtained from the People's Republic of Angola on the human casualties and material and other damage resulting from repeated acts of aggression by South Africa.

In this connexion, it should be noted that, at the request of the Government of the People's Republic of Angola, the United Nations Under-Secretary-General for Special Political Questions visited Angola in June 1979 in order to discuss questions relating to the preparation of the report.

Enclosed herewith is the text of a letter addressed to the Secretary-General by the Permanent Representative of the People's Republic of Angola to the United Nations, transmitting the information requested by the Security Council in paragraph 6 of its resolution 447 (1979).

Enclosure I

Letter dated 25 July 1979 from the Permanent Representative of Angola to the United Nations addressed to the Secretary-General

On instructions from my Government, I have the honour to transmit herewith a report containing information on the human casualties and the material and other damage resulting from the repeated acts of aggression by the racist régime of South Africa against the People's Republic of Angola.

In this report, the Government has sought to bring together all available information pertaining to these matters. However, the information is by no means complete because the task of assembling all relevant facts has been complicated by the vastness of the areas affected, the scattered nature of the population and the numerous acts of aggression perpetrated by South Africa.

My Government is continuing to gather additional information, particularly concerning the large number of wounded men, women and children, and this will be made available to the Security Council at a later stage.

I would be grateful if you would submit this report in accordance with paragraph 7 of resolution 447 (1979) to the Security Council.

INTRODUCTION

1. South Africa's hostile policy in respect of the territorial integrity and sovereignty of the People's Republic of Angola, as shown by the systematic acts of armed aggression against our country, is a deeply rooted attitude which dates back to the colonial era.
2. Before the Angolan people achieved independence, which they won only after a protracted heroic struggle against Portuguese colonialism, the racist South African régime maintained close ties with the colonial régime in a vain attempt to halt the advance of the national liberation struggle and perpetuate the exploitation of the country's economic resources.
3. When it became obvious that the MPLA was the only movement which had the capacity to form a Government which would defend the true interests and aspirations of the Angolan people, South Africa, acting as the spearhead of other capitalist interests in flagrant violation of international law and order, endangered peace and security in the world by invading Angolan territory with the aim of putting a puppet government in power.
4. That invasion and the subsequent violations, provocations and acts of armed aggression have resulted in the destruction of our country's basic infrastructures and forced our Government to divert a considerable portion of national resources from economic reconstruction to the defence of territorial integrity, for the protection and rehousing of the people who have been victims of the attacks. The systematic series of violations, provocations and acts of aggression are aimed at creating a climate of insecurity and fear, and are part of a concerted plan for the destabilization of political, social and economic life in the People's Republic of Angola in particular and in southern Africa as a whole.
5. In this report the Government of the People's Republic of Angola has brought together all available information on the human casualties and material and other damages resulting from South Africa's continuing acts of aggression. Owing, however, to the vast areas affected, the fact that the population is scattered, and the large number of acts of aggression perpetrated by South Africa makes it difficult to arrive at a definitive assessment, the Government of Angola is continuing to gather additional information which it will communicate to the Security Council at a later stage. Among other things, the Government of Angola is at present establishing a list of the large number of Angolans who suffered permanent disablement, or who died subsequently as a result of wounds inflicted during these attacks.

I. GENERAL BACKGROUND

6. Angola achieved independence on 11 November 1975. As the United Nations Security Council and the international community are aware, on that day South African armed forces were occupying part of our national territory, and only on 27 March 1976 were they forced to withdraw by the defeat inflicted on them by our armed forces. Security Council resolution 387 of 31 March 1979 condemned the South African aggression against the People's Republic of Angola and called upon it to compensate our country for the damage and destruction inflicted on our State. The racist régime has ignored that resolution in the same manner as it has ignored all other United Nations resolutions concerning southern Africa.

7. Although it might have been thought that the disastrous effects of that invasion would have made Pretoria give up its belligerent intentions, as from 30 June 1976 a further series of acts of aggression started.

8. These attacks against the People's Republic of Angola affect large areas of the country, involving particularly the provinces of Kuando-Kubango, Cunene, Moçâmedes and Huila. The areas affected have a combined population of about 1,050,000 inhabitants; in addition there are thousands of refugees from Namibia who have been forced to leave their homes because of the illegal occupation of their Territory by the South African Government.

9. These areas are of great economic importance in the fields of agriculture, livestock production, industry and fisheries.

10. In agriculture, mention should be made of the significant role of maize, beans, sorghum and finger millet crops, which, together with milk, constitute the main diet of the people in these areas.

11. With regard to livestock production, it should be pointed out that the country's largest livestock herds, particularly cattle and pigs, are to be found in these areas, and that the areas are important producers of meat and milk.

12. Directly related to these agricultural and livestock resources, there is an industrial infrastructure for the processing of such produce; and in the field of industry mention should also be made of the Cassinga iron mines. It has not been possible to restore production at the mines owing to the permanent instability in the areas where they are located caused by South African aggression.

13. In Moçâmedes Province, the fishing and fish processing industry is of outstanding importance. The Province is the country's most productive area, owing to the wealth of fish in its waters.

II. SOUTH AFRICAN AGGRESSION AGAINST THE TERRITORIAL INTEGRITY OF ANGOLA FROM 27 MARCH 1976 TO 11 JUNE 1979

14. As stated, the South African troops were forced to leave the People's Republic of Angola on 27 March 1976. A detailed report on the economic and social consequences of that illegal occupation of our national territory was drawn up, at the appropriate time, and sent to the United Nations. That report assessed the damages sustained by our young country at $6.7 million.

15. The purpose of the present report is to denounce and seek to assess the human and material losses caused by the troops of the South African Army during the period between then and 11 June 1979, a period of about three years during which the South African Army has maintained constant military pressure on our borders, characterized by violations and air bombing of our territory, the landing of heliported troops, border provocations, infantry attacks supported by armoured car units, artillery shelling and the mining of agricultural fields, bridges and highways, in addition to the looting and destruction of varied equipment and means of production.

16. Apart from these actions, which have come to be habitual, there have been combined attacks on settlements and towns, in which it can be seen that there is perfect co-ordination between the UNITA puppets, trained and equipped in military camps situated in Namibia, and the South African troops, which transport UNITA's men and war material inside our national territory and also provide the necessary air cover for such penetration.

A. CASUALTIES RESULTING FROM SOUTH AFRICA'S AGGRESSION

17. In the period under study (27 March 1976 to 11 June 1979), the regular South African Army caused at least 570 confirmed deaths and 594 wounded among the Angolan population, most of them peasants. Among the refugees, they killed 3 and wounded 8 South Africans, killed 198 and wounded 600 Zimbabweans, and killed 612 and wounded 611 Namibians (see annex IV).

18. The loss of human lives described above was the result of 193 armed mining operations, 94 air space violations, 21 infiltrations on the ground, 21 border provocations, 7 artillery bombardments, 25 attacks by ground forces, 24 aerial bombardments and a large-scale combined operation involving ground and air forces.

19. The number of acts of aggression described below may not be complete, since not all acts of aggression have been detected, especially those which may have occurred in 1976 and 1977, for lack of the requisite facilities (see annexes III and IV).

B. ATTACKS MADE BEFORE THE ADOPTION OF SECURITY COUNCIL RESOLUTION 447 OF 28 MARCH 1979

20. Since the withdrawal of South African invading troops in 1976, the territorial integrity of the People's Republic of Angola has been systematically and repeatedly violated by the racist régime of South Africa. The number and intensity of these attacks has increased considerably, including particularly brutal attacks at Dombondola and Naulila on 8 February 1977; at markers 12 and 13 (in the direction of Cuamato) on 5 December 1978; at Cassinga on 4 May 1978; at Catengue on 14 March 1979; and at Cahama on 14 March 1979. These attacks and others which have caused tragic losses of life and serious material destruction are described in detail below.

21. Annex I to this report contains a chronological list of the acts of aggression perpetrated by South Africa against Angola from 30 June 1976 to 11 June 1979. The principal attacks by the Republic of South Africa against the People's Republic of Angola between the time of the withdrawal after the failure of the invasion until the date of resolution 447 (1979) (28 March 1979) were the following:

Attack on Dombondola and Naulila

22. At 0600 hours (GMT) on 8 February 1977, South African troops estimated as constituting two infantry platoons, transported in jeeps and supported by four AML-60 machine-guns, crossed the frontier and attacked the areas of Naulila and Dombondola. They burned 30 houses and killed 16 Angolan farm workers, including four children, and wounded an additional four civilians. This South African force withdrew after five hours.

Attack on the Cuamato zone

23. At 0500 hours on 5 December 1978, South African artillery launched a violent barrage against the areas located between markers 12 and 13, in the direction of Cuamato, hitting cultivated fields and destroying 15 houses of farm workers and one supply warehouse of the troops of the Frontier Guard. Grenade explosions resulted in 14 deaths and 5 wounded, all Angolan civilians.

Attack on Cassinga

24. The attack on the town of Cassinga, which is located in the province of Huíla and had an estimated population of 4,200, occurred on 4 May 1978 when South African troops penetrated Angolan territory and killed 612 persons. More than 600, most of them children and women, were wounded. Many were severely maimed.

25. The victims included Namibian refugees to whom the Angolan Government had given a haven, Angolan civilians from the nearby town and Angolan soldiers who had hastened to the scene to repel the common enemy. In addition to the loss of lives and destruction of homes, community buildings and health centres, about 160 hectares of cultivated land and 100 head of cattle were destroyed. The direct losses in property, equipment and food supplies are listed in detail below.

26. The attack on Cassinga was also documented by international observers, in particular representatives of UNICEF and WHO, two United Nations specialized agencies which were involved in assisting the victims of this brutal attack. The report of these observers on their analyses of the consequences of the attack, which was transmitted to the Government of the People's Republic of Angola, the Secretary-General of the United Nations and all diplomatic missions and voluntary agencies in Angola, is annexed to the present report (see annex V).

27. The brutality of the attack on Cassinga will be realized all the more clearly when it is taken into account that it constituted a "search and destroy operation".

28. The aircraft dropped high-explosive bombs, rockets, fragmentation bombs and paralysing gas, followed by parachutists who indiscriminately killed the stunned inhabitants.

29. The attack began at 0530 hours (GMT) and the enemy forces totalled 200 parachutists, 2 C-130 transport aircraft, 14 Alouette SA-330 "PUMA" helicopters, 9 Mirage III aircraft, and F-1 and 2 CESSNA reconnaissance monoplanes. After laying mines at the approaches to Cassinga, they dropped incendiary and fragmentation bombs. The operation ended at 1200 hours when troops of FAPLA (People's Armed Forces for the Liberation of Angola) opened fire against the parachutists, who hastily withdrew in helicopters; in the encounter 12 Angolan soldiers died and 63 were wounded.

30. In addition, four Namibian women were abducted by the racist forces and taken to an unknown destination. It is still not known what happened to them. Several persons were also found dead from pistol shots in the nape of the neck.

31. The total number of victims of this brutal attack was as follows:

612 Namibians killed (147 men, 167 women and 298 children)
12 Angolan soldiers killed
3 Angolan civilians killed
611 Namibians wounded
63 Angolan soldiers wounded
15 civilians wounded
4 Namibian women abducted

Attack on Boma

32. At 0615 hours (GMT) on 26 February 1979, in a joint Rhodesia/Republic of South Africa operation, jets of the Rhodesian Air Force attacked a refugee school at Boma, situated near the town of Iwena, province of Moxico, with a population of 4,000.

33. Seven aircraft, including four Canberra and three Mirage III aircraft, dropped 30 tons of bombs, mostly anti-personnel fragmentation bombs. It was observed that the Canberra fighter-bombers were protected by the South African Mirage III fighters; in any case, two of the Mirage III aircraft fired rockets against the camp. The material losses in installations, including 47 dwellings and one church, equipment, food-stuffs, clothing, medical and school supplies and transport were estimated at $US 4,451,957. This does not include the additional costs borne by the Angolan Government for relocating the population elsewhere. The relocation of the population of Boma and of Cassinga, Catengue and other affected areas became imperative for various reasons; the destruction of the infrastructure in the area attacked; fear of new attacks; the moral and emotional condition of the refugees. Casualties amounted to 198 dead and 600 wounded.

Attack on Catengue

34. At 0600 hours (GMT) on 14 March 1979, five South African Mirage aircraft, after a low-altitude approach flight over Angolan territorial waters, attacked and completely destroyed the refugee camp at Catengue, Benguela province, about 500 km from the Angolan frontier with Namibia.

35. As a result of the heavy bombing, three persons died and eight were wounded. After the Cassinga attack, the majority of the refugees at Catengue spent the greater part of each day away from their houses and this precaution proved to be absolutely justified; only 3 of the 600 persons living there lost their lives.

36. However, the material losses were high, for all the equipment at the camp - buildings, adjacent rail line and food-stuffs, clothing and medicines - were destroyed.

37. At Catengue only one wall was left standing, a mute accusation against the racist "way of life".

Attack on Cahama

38. At 1600 hours on 14 March 1979, Canberra and Mirage aircraft of the Republic of South Africa bombed the area around Cahama for about 10 minutes.

39. They destroyed two schools, one people's store, 12 field tents, 4 tons of teaching material, 30 tons of rice, 40 tons of sugar, 35 tons of beans, 20 tons of tinned foods, shoes and other merchandise. In response to that attack, the FAPLA anti-aircraft defence brought down four Canberra aircraft and two Mirage III fighters.

C. FURTHER ATTACKS SINCE ADOPTION OF SECURITY COUNCIL RESOLUTION 447 (1979)

Attack in the area of Marker XII

40. At 0600 hours (GMT) on 29 March 1979, two Mirage III aircraft bombed the area of Marker XII with napalm bombs, killing two Angolan herdsmen, burning 150 hectares of cultivated land and destroying about 100 accessories for agricultural machinery. The attack lasted five minutes.

Attack on Cuamato

41. At 0945 hours (GMT) on 12 April 1979, four Mirage III aircraft of the Republic of South Africa attacked the commune of Ombala-Yo-Mungo, Cuamato, killing one civilian and one member of FAPLA and also wounding two Angolan soldiers.

42. They partly destroyed the Communal Commissariat and the frontier guard barracks and completely burned three warehouses containing the possessions of 300 persons.

Attack on Humbe

43. On 11 June 1979, at about 0630 (GMT), three Canberra and three Mirage III aircraft of the South African Air Force bombed the population of Humbe, aiming in particular at the Civil Engineering Camp situated there. The attack, lasting about three minutes, killed eight Angolan civilians, including one woman, and wounded 14 civilians, including three women and one child; four of the wounded are in serious condition. The material damage resulting from the attack includes the following: 15 brick houses completely destroyed, 6 residences of permanent construction, 1 two-room school for 180 students partly destroyed (there were no student casualties because the bombing took place 30 minutes before school opened) and a three-section permanent building partly destroyed. Losses of equipment were as follows:

2 TATRA trucks (with 6,000 km), 16 tons and 20 tons, completely destroyed
1 VOLVO truck, 10 tons, completely destroyed
1 SCANIA truck, 8 tons, completely destroyed
1 40-ton platform partly destroyed
1 ISUZU truck, 5 tons, partly destroyed
1 "Moto-Scrapper" 623 partly destroyed
1 MEXICAN 475 P loading shovel partly destroyed

44. Also destroyed were:

8,000 litres of gas oil
200 litres of S.3.30 oil
400 litres of EP.90 valvoline
400 litres of P.40 valvoline
600 litres of 10 W oil

45. The bombing completely paralysed the normal functioning of the Civil Engineering Camp.

III. SOCIO-ECONOMIC CONSEQUENCES OF SOUTH AFRICAN AGGRESSION

46. A socio-economic assessment of the material and human losses caused by the constant acts of military aggression referred to above is fairly difficult to make, owing to the vastness of the areas affected, which cover about 401,373 sq km (Kuando-Kubango; 192,076 sq km; Cunene: 75,955 sq km; Huila; 77,393 sq km; Moçâmedes; 55,9486 sq km), and also to the complex nature of the elements needed for certain types of calculation.

47. It should therefore be taken into account that the following estimates to a great extent sin by default, since they cover only the most significant attacks and material and other damages.

Agriculture and livestock

48. The provinces of Huila, Cunene, Kuando-Kubango and Moçâmedes play an important role in the production of maize, beans, wheat, potatoes, sorghum, finger millet, vegetables and fruit. As a result of the repeated aggressions by South Africa, the areas under cultivation have been reduced, and part of the expected crops, as well as various equipment and agricultural machinery, have been destroyed.

49. The areas attacked are also important for livestock, most of the cattle in Angola being located in these four provinces. The indiscriminate stealing and killing of cattle is delaying the development of meat and milk production, thereby imposing on Angola a high expenditure of foreign exchange for the importation of cattle to reconstitute the herds, and for large imports of food-stuffs to ensure supplies for the population. The damages incurred by our country's agricultural and livestock sector during three years of South African aggression are assessed at $US 142,500,000.

Construction sector

50. The systematic attacks and violations by the South African armed forces have caused enormous material damage by the destruction of equipment used in civil engineering, such as trucks, caterpillar tractors, motorscrapers and others, and have essentially paralysed the work of the building brigades in the affected areas.

51. The non-completion of newly programmed construction works and the necessary construction, reconstruction and maintenance of roads, bridges, airports, etc. has resulted in enormous losses to the country, estimated at $US 21,650,000.

Transport facilities, machinery and diverse equipment

52. The destruction of trucks, vehicles, tractors, agricultural equipment, construction equipment, railway lines, communications equipment, equipment for the supply of electric energy, various accessories etc. has resulted in preventing the movement of people and goods, isolating the areas affected from the rest of the country and causing their economic stagnation.

53. Replacement of this equipment, which is essential for the economic reconstruction of those areas and of the country as a whole, will necessitate expenditure by the Government of the People's Republic of Angola of an estimated $US 52,797,000.

Fisheries

54. The fishing sector in the province of Moçamedes has not sustained any physical destruction of the means of production, but it has suffered from the climate of instability caused by South African armed attacks which have made normal fishing activity impossible. The long periods during which the fishing boats must remain at their moorings has reduced the fish catch and prevented the people from getting regular supplies, thereby depriving them of an important element of their diet.

55. This situation has blocked the development of this sector, which our Government regards as a starting point in economic development. It also forces the Government to expend large sums of foreign exchange for the import of food-stuffs in order to meet the people's nutritional needs. This expenditure is estimated at $US 17,750,000.

Commercial sector

56. The efforts made by the Government of the People's Republic of Angola to re-establish the trade and distribution network with a view to improving the living conditions of the Angolan people, have been completely jeopardized by the destructive actions of the South African Army, which prevent the regular collection of the surplus produced by the population and the free circulation of goods. In addition, a large number of commercial establishments, stores and shops have been destroyed, together with stocks of food-stuffs, clothing, footwear and other consumer items.

57. Total losses in the commercial sector are estimated at $US 14,285,000.

Administration and public services

58. Destruction of public buildings, hospitals and schools, including their material and equipment, has deprived the population in the affected areas of such essential services as medical care and medicines, education and administrative services. The destruction of the hospitals in those areas has forced the Government to make special efforts to provide alternative health care for the population, including transport of the victims of aggression to hospitals in other parts of the country for treatment of their wounds, at a cost of about $US 3 million. The total of the material damage in this sector is estimated at $US 44,322,000.

59. The destruction and damages incurred during the period under study, which are itemized above, amount to an estimated grand total of $US 293,304,000. To these losses can be added other losses of a human and social character which, because they are so extensive, cannot be assessed in terms of monetary value. These are, for example:

Loss of lives;

Enforced displacement of the population in the affected areas;

Interruption of schooling;

Unemployment caused by the destruction of means of production;

Insufficient provision of social services to the population;

Serious nutritional and material deficiencies among the population of the affected regions;

Non-completion of socio-economic projects and programmes in the affected regions and its reflection in the national economy as a whole.

IV. CONCLUSION

60. Despite these constant acts of aggression and violations, despite the dead and wounded and the material damages sustained by our country, the Government of the People's Republic of Angola continues to be firmly determined to be governed by the principles enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations, particularly as regards peaceful coexistence and non-interference in the internal affairs of other countries.

61. It is the most profound desire of the People's Republic of Angola to continue to be the guarantor of the inalienable right of its people to live in peace, to continue freely to determine their political, economic and social life and to enjoy the benefits of their economic resources.

62. Despite the enormous sacrifices they have had to make, the Angolan people reaffirm their intention to give full support to the heroic struggle of the oppressed peoples of the whole world, and particularly of Namibia, Zimbabwe and South Africa.

63. In conclusion, the Government of the People's Republic of Angola once again calls on the Security Council and the international community to condemn vigorously these acts and take effective measures, using all possible means, to put an end to the aggressive policy of the racist South African régime. The Government of the People's Republic of Angola cannot fail to demand, as its legitimate right, just compensation for all the human and material losses that it has sustained.

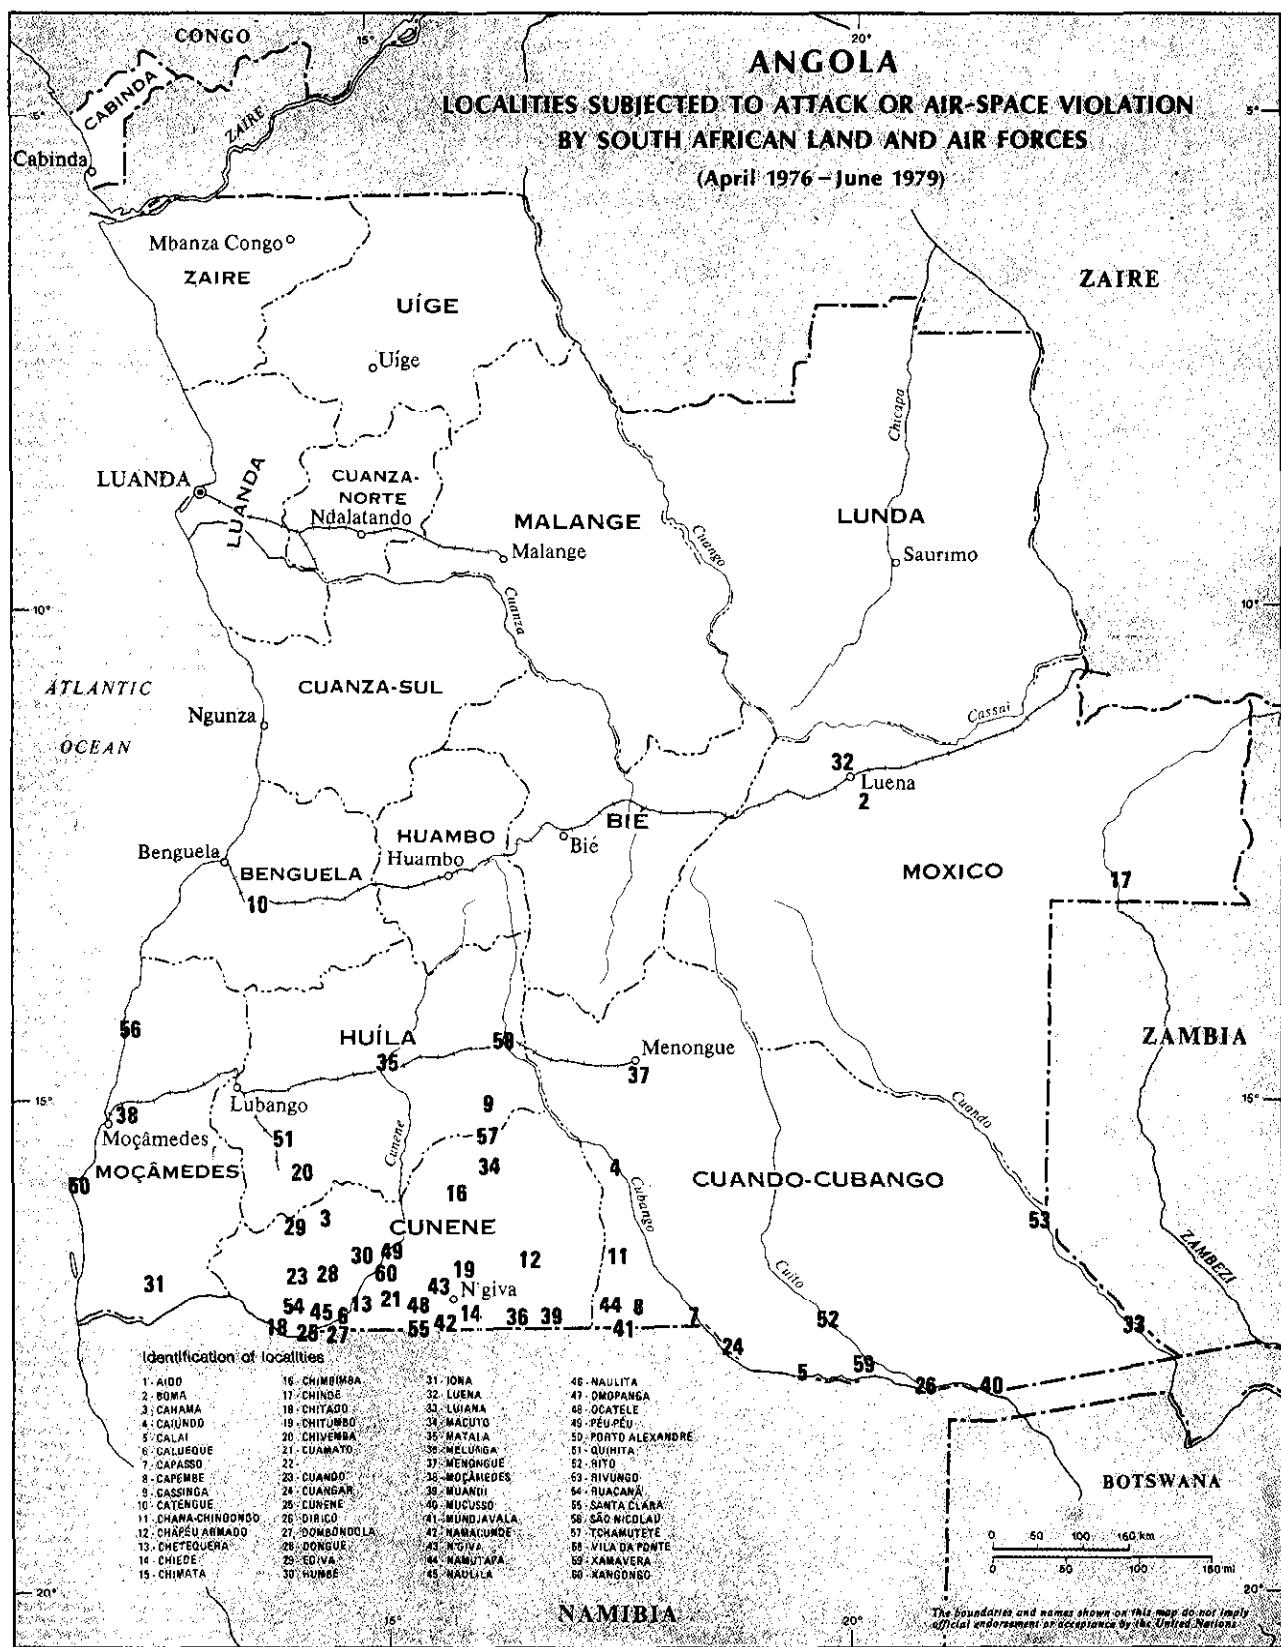

64. The People's Republic of Angola will not be deterred from the great and urgent tasks of national reconstruction and nation building, nor from its devout adherence to the principles contained in the Charter of the United Nations, despite the continued acts of aggression against its territory. The Government of the People's Republic of Angola is confident that, in the pursuit of these objectives, it will receive the support and co-operation of the international community.

List of Angolan nationals killed

Since the end of the second war of national liberation - 27 March 1976 - when the last South African soldier was forced by the action of our glorious armed forces to withdraw from the soil of our country, the People's Republic of Angola has become the target of systematic South African attacks, which up to June 1979 have killed at least 570 Angolan civilians and soldiers and wounded 694. This list includes only those Angolans killed as a direct result of South African attacks. The names of those who subsequently died or who became permanently disabled as a result of wounds received are not readily available and will be included in a further list which the Government is compiling.

Furthermore, in addition to its approved actions against our peaceful population, South Africa has also carried out attacks and bombing raids against camps housing South African, Namibian and Zimbabwean refugees in our country, causing the verified death of 813 men, women and children and the wounding of 1,221; we do not state their identities here, since their families in their respective countries might become the target of reprisals.
