Cartas idénticas de fecha 21 de septiembre de 2019 dirigidas al Secretario General y a la Presidencia del Consejo de Seguridad por la Representante Permanente del Pakistán ante las Naciones Unidas

Siguiendo instrucciones de mi Gobierno, tengo el honor de adjuntar una carta de fecha 16 de septiembre de 2019 del Ministro de Relaciones Exteriores del Pakistán, Makhdoom Shah Mahmood Qureshi, en la que subraya, en particular, que la anexión ilegal por la India del territorio ocupado de Jammu y Cachemira, el 5 de agosto de 2019, no solo constituye una grave violación de las resoluciones del Consejo de Seguridad sobre la cuestión sino también una contravención de los compromisos bilaterales de la India con el Pakistán (véase el anexo). La acción de la India también plantea un grave riesgo para la paz y la estabilidad regionales.

Le agradecería que tuviera a bien hacer distribuir la presente carta y su anexo como documento de la Asamblea General, en relación con el tema 31 del programa, y del Consejo de Seguridad.

Anexo de las cartas idénticas de fecha 21 de septiembre de 2019 dirigidas al Secretario General y a la Presidencia del Consejo de Seguridad por la Representante Permanente del Pakistán ante las Naciones Unidas

Carta de fecha 16 de septiembre de 2019 dirigida al Secretario General y a la Presidencia del Consejo de Seguridad por el Ministro de Relaciones Exteriores del Pakistán

Como saben, el 5 de agosto de 2019, actuando de manera ilegal y unilateral, la India revocó el estatuto especial del territorio de Jammu y Cachemira ocupado por la India en un intento de consolidar aún más su ocupación ilegal del territorio. Estas acciones, que constituyen una flagrante violación de las resoluciones del Consejo de Seguridad, tratan de alterar el estatuto objeto de una disputa internacionalmente reconocida de Jammu y Cachemira y modificar la composición demográfica del territorio de Jammu y Cachemira ocupado por la India a fin de transformar a la mayoría musulmana del territorio en una minoría, y evitar así el plebiscito administrado por las Naciones Unidas.

Las acciones de la India estuvieron precedidas por un fuerte cerco de seguridad (que continúa hasta la fecha), con el despliegue en el territorio de Jammu y Cachemira ocupado por la India de casi 200.000 nuevos efectivos de las fuerzas de ocupación indias, con lo que el total de fuerzas indias en el territorio ocupado de Jammu y Cachemira asciende a unos 880.000 efectivos. La comunidad internacional, incluidos el Secretario General, la Oficina del Alto Comisionado de las Naciones Unidas para los Derechos Humanos y prestigiosos medios de comunicación internacionales y organizaciones internacionales de derechos humanos, sigue informando sobre la intensificación de las violaciones de los derechos humanos en el territorio de Jammu y Cachemira ocupado por la India, en particular el arresto y la detención de dirigentes de Cachemira, el uso continuado de armas de aire comprimido por parte de las fuerzas de ocupación indias, el bloqueo de las comunicaciones (suspensión de las líneas telefónicas fijas, los teléfonos móviles e Internet), la supresión de la libertad de expresión, el secuestro de decenas de niños para obligar a sus familias a doblegarse y el uso de la violación como instrumento de represión de Estado, lo que convierte al territorio de Jammu y Cachemira ocupado por la India en la mayor prisión del mundo. Se sigue informando de la escasez de medicamentos y alimentos esenciales, incluidos los alimentos para bebés.

El Pakistán, en sus cartas dirigidas al Secretario General, la Presidenta de la Asamblea General, la Presidencia del Consejo de Seguridad y la Alta Comisionada para los Derechos Humanos los días 1, 6, 13, 21 y 26 de agosto de 2019, informó a la comunidad internacional de las acciones de la India que violaban las numerosas resoluciones del Consejo de Seguridad sobre Jammu y Cachemira y el rápido deterioro de la situación de emergencia humanitaria en el territorio de Jammu y Cachemira ocupado por la India, así como del peligro que esto representa para la paz y la seguridad regionales.

Jammu y Cachemira sigue siendo reconocido internacionalmente como un territorio en disputa. Entre 1948 y 1971, el Consejo de Seguridad aprobó 18 resoluciones sobre Jammu y Cachemira y las cuestiones conexas. Estas resoluciones prevén que “el destino definitivo del Estado de Jammu y Cachemira se definirá de acuerdo con el deseo del pueblo expresado mediante el método democrático de un plebiscito libre e imparcial realizado bajo los auspicios de las Naciones Unidas” y subrayan claramente que cualquier medida adoptada o que se pretenda adoptar por una asamblea constituyente “para decidir la estructura y los vínculos futuros de todo el Estado o de cualquier parte del mismo”, o cualquier medida adoptada por las partes, “no resolvería el destino del Estado”.

Por lo tanto, las recientes acciones de la India para abolir el estatuto especial del territorio de Jammu y Cachemira ocupado por la India, dividiéndola en dos territorios para disminuir su competencia legislativa y crear condiciones que den lugar a transformaciones demográficas fundamentales en los territorios, constituyen una clara violación de las resoluciones del Consejo de Seguridad.

Las acciones de la India no solo constituyen una flagrante violación de sus compromisos internacionales, sino que también contravienen los numerosos compromisos bilaterales, incluidos el Acuerdo de Simla, la Declaración de Lahore (1999), la Declaración de Islamabad (2004), la declaración conjunta de los Asesores de Seguridad Nacional y los Secretarios de Relaciones Exteriores de ambos países (diciembre de 2015) y la declaración conjunta del Pakistán y la India (diciembre de 2015), en la que se reconoció claramente el estatuto objeto de disputa del territorio de Jammu y Cachemira ocupado por la India y se reafirmó el compromiso de alcanzar una solución pacífica.

El Pakistán se ha comprometido a buscar vías pacíficas para hacer frente a la creciente crisis. Estas vías están cada vez más limitadas y cerradas por la falta de cooperación de la India (el país suspendió unilateralmente el diálogo bilateral en 2015, a pesar de la firme posición del Pakistán de que la única manera de resolver las controversias pendientes, incluida la disputa sobre Jammu y Cachemira, es por medios pacíficos y diplomáticos) y, en ciertos entornos internacionales, la reticencia a actuar de algunos, cuya participación ayudaría a disipar el creciente peligro causado por las acciones de la India del 5 de agosto de 2019 en relación con el territorio de Jammu y Cachemira ocupado por la India.

Las acciones de la India también plantean un grave riesgo para la paz y la estabilidad regionales. Las fuerzas de ocupación indias siguen intensificando las tensiones en la línea de demarcación provisional y en la Línea de Control (como consecuencia de las violaciones del alto el fuego en la India hubo 54 shahadats en 2017, 36 en 2018 y 26 hasta la fecha en 2019) para desviar la atención internacional de las atrocidades cometidas por la India en el territorio ocupado de Jammu y Cachemira.

La paz y la estabilidad en Asia Meridional seguirán siendo difíciles de alcanzar si no se resuelve la controversia de Jammu y Cachemira, que lleva mucho tiempo pendiente debido a la intransigencia de la India. El pueblo de Jammu y Cachemira espera el “plebiscito libre e imparcial realizado bajo los auspicios de las Naciones Unidas”, acordado por la India y el Pakistán y que fue objeto de una decisión del Consejo de Seguridad hace 70 años. El Pakistán insta al Consejo de Seguridad a actuar urgentemente de manera decisiva en ese sentido.

En una ficha informativa detallada, que se adjunta a la presente, se reproducen todos los documentos pertinentes, incluidas las resoluciones del Consejo de Seguridad, los acuerdos bilaterales y las cartas dirigidas a las Naciones Unidas de manera secuencial, en las que se exponen la legalidad internacional y los argumentos jurídicos del Pakistán sobre la controversia de Jammu y Cachemira (véase el apéndice)*.

Apéndice

Fact Sheet on Jammu and Kashmir

1. The international legal framework applicable to Jammu and Kashmir Dispute

Jammu & Kashmir remains an internationally recognized disputed area. Between 1948 and 1971, the Security Council adopted 18 resolutions addressing Jammu and Kashmir and related issues.

2. Relevant Security Council resolutions and bilateral agreements

- a) In its very first Resolution on Jammu & Kashmir, Resolution 38 of 17 January 1948 (Flag A), the Security Council called on India and Pakistan to take immediately all measures within their powers to improve the situation and requested both Governments to inform the Council immediately of any material change in the situation and to consult the Council thereon.
- b) By Resolution 39 of 20 January 1948 (Flag B), the Security Council established the United Nations Commission on India and Pakistan (UNCIP), to investigate the facts, pursuant to Article 34 of the Charter, and to exercise a mediatory influence to “smooth away difficulties.”
- c) In the same year, by Resolution 47 of 21 April 1948 (Flag C), the Security Council enhanced the role of UNCIP and set out measures “to create proper conditions for a free and impartial plebiscite to decide whether the State of Jammu and Kashmir is to accede to India or Pakistan.” In paragraph 13 of the Resolution, the Security Council stated explicitly that

“The Government of India should use and should also ensure that the Government of the State also use their best endeavors to effect the withdrawal from the State of all Indian nationals other than those who are normally resident therein or who on or since 15 August 1947 have entered it for a lawful purpose.”

Comment

A primary and expressly stated purpose of the actions by India on 5 August 2019 is to enable non-residents of Jammu and Kashmir to take up residence in the territory in violation of the special status of that territory to change the demography, reducing the Muslim majority of the state to a minority, to preempt a UN plebiscite, in violation of the UNSC Resolutions.

- d) On 13 August 1948 (Flag D) UNCIP adopted a Resolution urging both India and Pakistan separately and simultaneously to issue a ceasefire order and appointed military observers (UNMOGIP) to supervise the cease-fire order.
- e) On January 5, 1949, (Flag E) UNCIP adopted a second Resolution, which noted that both India and Pakistan had accepted that the accession of the state to Pakistan or India would be determined through the ‘democratic method of a free and impartial plebiscite in J&K.’
- f) The cease-fire Resolution was implemented after the Karachi Agreement (Flag F) of July 27, 1949. By its express terms, this Agreement was rooted in the work of the UNCIP. The UNCIP invited the military representative of the Indian and Pakistani governments on July 2, 1949 to a military conference in Karachi, in order to establish the Cease-fire Line (CFL) in Jammu & Kashmir. The resulting agreement ‘between the Military Representative of India and Pakistan regarding the establishment of a ceasefire line in the State of Jammu and Kashmir was signed in Karachi on July 27, 1949.

Pursuant to the Karachi Agreement, UNCIP was mandated to station observers where it deemed necessary. The cease-fire line described in, and drawn in accordance with, the Karachi Agreement was subsequently designated as the “line of control” by the Simla Agreement and remains the line separating Indian and Pakistani forces in Jammu & Kashmir today.

- g) By Resolution 80 (Flag G) of 14 March 1950, the Security Council called upon India and Pakistan to make immediate arrangements, without prejudice to their rights or claims, to prepare and execute a programme of demilitarization. By paragraph 2 of the Resolution, the Security Council appointed a UN Representative for the purposes, inter alia, of assisting in the preparation and supervising the implementation of the programme of demilitarization and, at the appropriate stage, arranging for the assumption by the Plebiscite Administrator (Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz) of the functions assigned to the latter under agreements made between the parties.
- h) By Resolution 91 (Flag H) of 30 March 1951, the Security Council reaffirmed that “the final disposition of the State of Jammu & Kashmir will be made in accordance with the will of people expressed through the democratic method of a free and impartial plebiscite conducted under the auspices of the United Nations”, and decided that the Military Observer Group shall continue to supervise the cease-fire in Jammu and Kashmir. These military observers, first deployed by UNCIP, became the UN Military Observer Group in India and Pakistan (UNMOGIP). It also affirmed that “the convening of a constituent assembly as recommended by the General Council of the All Jammu & Kashmir National conference and any action that assembly might attempt to take to determine the future shape and affiliation of the entire state or any part thereof would not constitute a disposition of the state” and was not a replacement for the UN Plebiscite.

Comment

Notwithstanding India’s argument, that UNMOGIP’s mandate has lapsed, the UN Secretary-General opined that UNMOGIP could only be terminated by a decision of the Security Council. In the absence of a decision by the Council, UNMOGIP remains operational and deployed today along the Line of Control with the task of monitoring observance of the ceasefire of 17 December 1971. Pakistan allows unfettered access to UNMOGIP which is not allowed to function by India on the Indian side by the Indian Government (This is a blatant violation of UNSC resolutions). Major General José Alcáin of Uruguay, the Head of Mission and Chief Military Observer of UNMOGIP since 20 July 2018, briefed the UN Security Council in its meeting on 16 August 2019.

- i) On December 23, 1952, Resolution 98 (Flag I) recalled the acceptance of India and Pakistan to the UNCIP Resolutions provision for the accession of the State to India or Pakistan to be decided through an impartial plebiscite. It also urged both sides to “enter into immediate negotiations, under the UN Representative for India and Pakistan, to reach agreement on the specific number of forces to remain on each side of the cease-fire line at the end of the period of demilitarization, this number to be between 3000 and 6000 armed forces remaining on the Pakistan side of the cease-fire line and between 12,000 and 18,000 armed forces remaining on the Indian side of the cease-fire line.” The presence of Pakistani troops is in line with this Resolution.
- j) India started renegeing on its commitments in 1954, when it convened sham state elections in IOJ&K and ‘ratified’ the “accession” of Jammu and Kashmir to India by the so-called state constituent assembly, which “approved” a constitution in 1957). These illegal Indian actions were rejected by Resolution 122 (Flag J) of 24 January 1957, whereby the Security Council reaffirmed, that as defined in UNSC Resolution 91, any action taken or attempted by a constituent assembly “to determine the future shape and affiliation of the entire State or any part thereof”, or any action by the parties, “would not constitute a disposition of the State”, thus categorically stating that the final disposition of Jammu and Kashmir was to be made in accordance with the will of the people expressed in a free and impartial plebiscite conducted under the auspices of the United Nations.

Comment

The recent actions by the Government of India of 5 August 2019 to abrogate the special status of Indian occupied Jammu and Kashmir, to partition it into two territories, to diminish their legislative competence, and to create conditions that will result in fundamental demographic changes in the territories, are again in clear violation of this Resolution.

- k) By Resolution 123 (Flag K) of 21 February 1957, the UNSC requested the President of the Council ‘to examine, with India and Pakistan, any proposals which, in his opinion, are likely to contribute towards the settlement of the dispute, having regard to the previous resolutions of the Security Council and of the United Nations Commission for India and Pakistan’
- l) By Resolution 126 (Flag L) of 2 December, 1957, the UNSC requested India and Pakistan to refrain, inter alia, from any acts which might aggravate the situation and reaffirmed the determination of the will of the people through a free and fair plebiscite.
- m) Pursuant to deteriorating situation along the ceasefire line in Jammu & Kashmir in August 1965, the Security Council adopted Resolution 209 (Flag M), on 4 September, 1965, which called on both sides to take all steps for an immediate ceasefire and for the two Governments to cooperate fully with UNMOGIP for its observance of the ceasefire.
- n) By Resolution 210 (Flag N) of 6 September 1965, the Security Council called upon the parties to cease the then ongoing fighting and withdraw all armed personnel. The Council went on to request the Secretary General to ‘strengthen the UNMOGIP’ and decided to keep the issue “under urgent and continuous review so that the Council may determine what steps may be necessary to secure peace and security in the area.”
- o) By Resolution 211 (Flag O) of 20 September 1965, the Security Council, inter alia stated:

“4. Decide[d] to consider ... what steps could be taken to assist towards a settlement of the political problem underlying the present conflict, and in the meantime calls upon the two Governments to utilize all peaceful means, including those listed in Article 33<sup>1</sup> of the Charter of the United Nations, to this end.”

Despite Pakistan’s commitment to resolve the J&K dispute India, however, has sought to block any recourse to Article 33 mechanisms.

- “1. The parties to any dispute, the continuation of which is likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security, shall, first of all, seek a solution by negotiation, enquiry, mediation, conciliation, arbitration, judicial settlement, resort to regional agencies or arrangements, or other peaceful means of their own choice.
- 2. The Security Council shall, when it deems necessary, call upon the parties to settle their dispute by such means.”

- p) By Resolution 303 (Flag P) of 6 December 1971, the Security Council, taking into account the lack of unanimity of its permanent members, decided to refer the situation to the General Assembly in accordance with the Uniting for Peace Resolution Pursuant to Resolution 303<sup>2</sup>, the matter was referred to the General Assembly which considered it at its 2003rd plenary meeting on 7 December 1971 and adopted Resolution 2793 (XXVI)<sup>3</sup> which called upon both India and Pakistan to take all measure for an immediate ceasefire, (Flag Q), and remitted the matter back to the Security Council for action. Pakistan and India were at war during this time.
- q) By Resolution 307<sup>4</sup> (Flag R) of 21 December 1971, the Security Council, noting General Assembly Resolution 2793 (XXVI), inter alia, called upon all Member States to refrain from actions, which might aggravate the situation in the sub-continent and endanger international peace. The Council further decided to remain seized of the matter and to keep it under active consideration.
- r) By Resolution 1172 (Flag S) of 6th June, 1998, the Security Council urges Indian and Pakistan to resume the dialogue between them on all outstanding issues, particularly on all matters pertaining to peace and security, in order to remove tensions between them, and encourages them to find mutually acceptable solutions that aggress the root causes of those tensions, including Kashmir.”

3. Simla Agreement

Following the express and proximate backdrop of Security Council Resolution 307 \(1971\), as well as other applicable Resolutions of the Security Council, Pakistan and India concluded the Simla Agreement (Flag T) on 2 July 1972. Despite all these historical facts, India tries to give a twisted interpretation to the Simla Agreement by claiming that it prevents Pakistan from raising the matter at international forums, such as the United Nations. Paragraphs 1(i), 1(ii) and 4(ii) of the Agreement are central to the present dispute.<sup>5</sup>

<sup>5</sup> 1. The Government of India and the Government of Pakistan are resolved that the two countries put an end to the conflict and confrontation that have hitherto marred their relations and work for the promotion of a friendly and harmonious relationship and the establishment of durable peace in the sub-continent, so that both countries may henceforth devote their resources and energies to the pressing task of advancing the welfare of their peoples.

In order to achieve this objective, the Government of India and the Government of Pakistan have agreed as follows:

(i) That the principles and purposes of the Charter of the United Nations shall govern the relations between the two countries;

(ii) That the two countries are resolved to settle their differences by peaceful means through bilateral negotiations or by any other peaceful means mutually agreed upon between them.

Pending the final settlement of any of the problems between the two countries, neither side shall unilaterally alter the situation and both shall prevent the organization, assistance or encouragement of any acts detrimental to the maintenance of peaceful and harmonious relations;

4. In order to initiate the process of the establishment of durable peace, both the Governments agree that:

...

In Jammu and Kashmir, the line of control resulting from the cease-fire of December 17, 1971 shall be respected by both sides without prejudice to the recognized position of either side. Neither side shall seek to alter it unilaterally, irrespective of mutual differences and legal interpretations. Both sides further undertake to refrain from the threat or the use of force in violation of this line.”

It is important to note that:

By the Simla Agreement, both parties resolved to settle their differences by peaceful means through bilateral negotiations or by other peaceful means mutually agreed upon between them. However, paragraph 1(i) makes it clear that the Purposes and Principles of the UN Charter will govern the relations between the two countries, controlling, including full respect for Resolutions of the Security Council. The Simla Agreement does not and cannot supersede the Resolutions of the Security Council.

India's recent actions itself are in in breach of the Simla Agreement. Paragraph 1(ii) expressly precludes either side from acting unilaterally to alter the situation. By paragraph 4(ii), neither side may take action to unilaterally alter the Line of Control, including, necessarily, its status as a cease-fire line. India's announced 5 August, 2019 actions have both unilaterally altered the situation in Jammu and Kashmir and unilaterally sought to change the status of the Line of Control, as a cease-fire line, and turn it into an international boundary.

The situation in Jammu and Kashmir, and the relationship between the Pakistan and India as regards this matter, is accordingly governed both by applicable Resolutions of the Security Council and by relevant bilateral agreements, as well as by other multilateral conventions that address the conduct of the parties. The Secretary-General, through his Spokesman also expressly affirmed this in August 2019<sup>6</sup> (Flag U).

4. Bilateral Efforts

Pakistan has made consistent efforts to resolve the Jammu & Kashmir dispute with India. Even in bilateral engagements, India has consistently accepted the disputed status of J&K in contrast to its claim of it being an 'integral part of India.' These include:

Through the Lahore Declaration (Flag V) of 2 February 1999, both parties reaffirmed their commitment to the Principles and Purposes of the UN Charter, reiterated their determination "to implementing the Simla Agreement in letter and spirit" and agreed to "intensify their efforts to resolve all issues, including the issue of Jammu and Kashmir."

Islamabad Declaration (Flag W) of January 2004 expressed both sides' confidence in the resumption of the Composite dialogue to 'lead to peaceful settlement of all bilateral issues, including Jammu & Kashmir.'

The Joint Press Statement of the meetings of National Security Advisers and Foreign Secretaries (Flag X) of both sides on 6 December 2015 stressed the vision of leaders of both sides 'for a peaceful, stable and prosperous South Asia' with discussions covering 'Jammu & Kashmir and other issues, including tranquility along the LoC' indicating the resolution of the dispute as being central to peace in the region.

The Joint Statement of 9 December 2015 (Flag X) agreed to a 'Comprehensive Bilateral Dialogue and directed the Foreign Secretaries to work out the modalities and

<sup>6</sup> "The position of the United Nations on this region is governed by the Charter of the United Nations and applicable Security Council resolutions. The UN Secretary General also recalls the 1972 Agreement on bilateral relations between India and Pakistan, also known as the Simla Agreement, which states that the final status of Jammu and Kashmir is to be settled by peaceful means in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations. The Secretary General is also concerned over reports of restrictions on the Indian side of Kashmir which could exacerbate the human rights situation in the region. The Secretary General calls for all parties to refrain from taking steps that could affect the status of Jammu and Kashmir."

schedule of the meetings under the Dialogue including Peace and Security, Jammu & Kashmir.’ The envisaged dialogue was never started as India backed out of it.

6. Clampdown on 5 August 2019

As can be seen, Pakistan's case on Jammu & Kashmir dispute is enshrined in the UN Security Council Resolutions. Meanwhile, bilateral dialogue remains suspended, unilaterally by India, since 2013 despite Pakistan's consistent position that the only way to resolve outstanding issues, including the Jammu & Kashmir dispute is through a result oriented, uninterrupted dialogue.

Refusal by India to engage with Pakistan, while it continues consolidating its illegal occupation of IOJ&K, including through its actions of 5 August 2019, has not only reduced IOJ&K to the biggest prison on earth and a humanitarian nightmare, but also poses grave risks for regional peace and stability.

Indian occupation forces continue to escalate tensions at the Working Boundary and Line of Control (Indian ceasefire violations resulted in 54 shahdats in 2017, 36 in 2018 and 25 shahdats to date in 2019) to divert international attention from Indian atrocities in IOJ&K.

Pakistan rejects the Indian narrative of 'normalcy' and fabricated allegations about Pakistan fostering 'unrest' in IOJ&K and continues to sensitize the international community about an Indian diversionary false flag operation.

7. Current Impasse

The dispute between Pakistan and India over the rights of the people of Jammu and Kashmir has been the cause of at least three wars between India and Pakistan and the subject of numerous Resolutions of the UN Security Council. It has also been at the core of binding agreements between Pakistan and India that have committed both sides not to take any unilateral action to alter the situation pending the final resolution of the dispute. By its actions, India has violated both the spirit and the letter of the UN Security Council Resolutions and of the agreements between the parties precluding such unilateral action.

Pakistan is committed to pursuing only peaceful avenues to address the growing crisis. These are increasingly limited, closed off by India's unwillingness to engage and a reluctance in some quarters internationally to act on the part of those whose engagement would assist in drawing the world back from the growing peril that it now faces in Indian occupied Jammu & Kashmir. Frustrating avenues of peaceful resolution is in no one's interests.

Pakistan is committed to the rights of the Kashmiri people and to a peaceful resolution of the dispute in accordance with the UN Security Council Resolutions, principles and purposes of UN Charter and of international law. Pakistan would readily submit the matter to the International Court of Justice, and, in accordance with the Charter and the Statute of the Court, commit itself to respecting the outcome. India, however, has sought to close off every avenue that might be pursued to this end, even lodging reservations to the jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice under bedrock conventions of international law such as the Genocide Convention and the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination. Both conventions would address the feared and sadly anticipated ethnic cleansing of sections of the population of Indian occupied Jammu and Kashmir. India is also one of the few States that is not a party to the Convention Against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment, a Treaty that would also addresses India's present conduct in Indian occupied Jammu and Kashmir.

Without the engagement of the international community, there are few, if any, peaceful avenues available to call India to account for its actions. This should be a source of heavy disquiet to all, and should resonate loudly in the corridors and organs of the United Nations and amongst its Member States. Among the fundamental purpose of the United Nations, expressed in the opening paragraph of the Charter, are to take effective collective measures for the prevention and removal of threats to the peace and to bring about by peaceful means, in conformity with the principles of justice and international law, the adjustment or settlement of international disputes or situations which might lead to a breach of the peace. The Charter also commits the United Nations to develop friendly relations among nations based, inter alia, on respect for the principle of self-determination. The respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms is also at the core of the United Nations.

The United Nations, and its Member States individually, have a responsibility, consistent with the UN Charter, with existing Resolutions of the Security Council, and with other instruments of international law, both bilateral and multilateral, to take steps to bring India and Pakistan back from the precipice. Pakistan cannot do this alone. States parties to key multilateral treaties have explicit obligations to prevent atrocities such as ethnic cleansing and to ensure respect for cornerstone principles of international law concerning the treatment of persons. Pakistan calls upon the United Nations and on its Member States to live up to the expectations of its founding generation and to engage with India, and with Pakistan, on equal terms and in accordance with law, to walk the world back from the brink.
