Proposed programme budget for the biennium 2000-2001Revised estimates: effect of changes in rates of exchange and inflation*Report of the Secretary-General*AddendumSummary*

In the previous report of the Secretary-General on the effect of changes in rates of exchange and inflation on the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2000-2001 (A/54/623), data up to November 1999 were used as the basis of analysis.

Since that report, there has been a significant change in the performance of a number of currencies against the United States dollar. The present addendum provides updated information as of December 1999 on the impact of changes to the operational rates of exchange and post adjustment indices on the proposed programme budget.

In this report the recosted level of the resources proposed under the expenditure sections would therefore amount to $2,561.9 million. Similarly, the estimates of income for 2000-2001 would amount to $363.8 million.

1. Based on existing methodology, the previous report of the Secretary-General on the effect of changes in rates of exchange and inflation on the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2000-2001 (A/54/623) provided information on the basis of data available up to November 1999.

2. Since the issuance of that report, some currencies, notably the Swiss franc and the Austrian schilling, have shifted favourably against the United States dollar. At the same time, a number of other currencies have remained stable or virtually unchanged, for example the Ethiopian birr, the Kenyan shilling, the Lebanese pound and the new shekel.

3. In view of the recent favourable performance of some of the currencies against the United States dollar and bearing in mind the views of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (A/51/7/Add.6, para. 5) that the Administration should use such operational rates of exchange in its recosting exercises as would allow for the lowest estimates, the present report is provided to update the estimates for 2000-2001 based on the December 1999 United Nations operational rates of exchange and associated movements in the post adjustment indices.

4. The table below provides a summary of the results of this recosting encompassing the changes to exchange rates and post adjustment indices. Explanations of those parameters other than those involving post adjustment indices and exchange rates that remain unchanged from the previous report (A/54/623) are not repeated here. The estimated 2000-2001 appropriation may be subject to further revision, as necessary, as a result of specific decisions of the Fifth Committee on programme budget implications and revised estimates.

5. The following annexes to the present report provide the proposed revised recosting factors applied to this recosting and are compared to the assumptions applied in the preliminary recosting included in the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2000-2001:

Schedule I. Rates of exchange and annual rates of inflation by main duty station included in the proposed programme budget and in the present report

Schedule II. Post adjustment multipliers by main duty station

Schedule III. Effect of recosting by section, subsection and main determining factor

6. The foregoing budget factors are also applied to the income sections. The revised estimates for the income sections are summarized below:
