ANNEX

Summary of developments in the people's war of resistance by
Democratic Kampuchea against the Vietnamese aggression

The revolutionary army of Democratic Kampuchea and the Kampuchean guerrillas are continuing their attacks throughout the country in order to destroy the enemy's vital forces to the greatest possible extent, particularly on the following fronts:

1. Kompong Cham-Kompong Thom (30 April-9 May 1979)

The Vietnamese armed forces of aggression suffered major losses at Chhoeu Toeun, Chrauy, Banteay and Trapeang Sangkê, in the vicinity of Chamcar Maysak near Phum Dei Kraham, east of Boeng Ket, Arak Thnot, Tuol Sambuor and Srê Kandal, near Khtuoy and Srê Porpel, at the Stung Trang market-place, at the chief town of Speu, between Speu and Srê Veal, at Baliang and Ta Aung, at the Prêk Kak hevea plantation, between Rumporng and Taing Kauk, on the Kompong Thmar-Chamcar Andaung road, and at Andaung Steay.

2. Stung Tréng-Kratié (5-20 May)

Attacks were launched at Phum Phlong and east of Siempang in the Stung Tréng region. In the Kratié region, there were attacks at Phum Samraung, Srê Sap and Phum Chroap, between the Sambaur district and Phum Pramê, at Srê Khtum, on National Route No. 7 between Kratié and Snuol and in the vicinity of Svay Chrès, at Srê Phes, and at Phum Khlek Klak between Mondulkiri and Kdol.

3. Battambang

On 12, 20 and 21 May, the revolutionary army of Kampuchea and the Kampuchean guerrillas wiped out large elements of the enemy armed forces at Phum Takong, in Phum Malay and west of Mak Hoeun.

4. South-western zone, south of National Route No. 4

During the period 1-5 May, attacks were launched along National Route No. 4 near Phum Sbek Preal, Trapeang Keat, Anlong Phnheav, Phum Ta Am and Dambauk Khpos.
