to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change,⁹ the thirtieth special session of the General Assembly on the world drug problem,¹⁰ the United Nations Conference on Housing and Sustainable Urban Development (Habitat III),¹¹ the Summit of the Future and other major United Nations summits, conferences and special sessions, and reaffirming further that their full, effective and accelerated implementation is integral to achieving the internationally agreed development goals, including the Sustainable Development Goals,

Reaffirming further that gender mainstreaming is a globally accepted strategy for achieving gender equality and the empowerment of all women and girls and constitutes a critical strategy in the full, effective and accelerated implementation of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action¹² and the outcomes of the twenty-third special session of the General Assembly, entitled “Women 2000: gender equality, development and peace for the twenty-first century”,¹³ in the full implementation of the Programme of Action of the International Conference on Population and Development¹⁴ and for catalysing progress, where applicable, on the outcomes of their reviews, as well as in the full implementation of Security Council resolution 1325 \(2000\) of 31 October 2000 and its subsequent resolutions on women and peace and security,

Recognizing that the implementation of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action and the outcomes of the twenty-third special session of the General Assembly and the fulfilment of the obligations of States parties under the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women¹⁵ are mutually reinforcing in achieving gender equality and the empowerment of all women and girls, as well as the realization of their human rights,

Recalling that mainstreaming a gender perspective is the process of assessing the implications for women and men of any planned action, including legislation, policies or programmes, in all areas and at all levels; it is a strategy for making women’s as well as men’s concerns and experiences an integral dimension of the design, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of policies and programmes in all political, economic and societal spheres so that women and men benefit equally and inequality is not perpetuated, and recalling also that it does not replace the need for targeted, women-specific policies and programmes or positive legislation, nor does it substitute for gender units or focal points,

Underlining the catalytic role played by the Commission on the Status of Women and the important roles played by the Economic and Social Council and the General Assembly, taking note of the agreed conclusions and decisions of the Commission related to the promotion and monitoring of gender mainstreaming within the United Nations system, and reaffirming the political declaration on the occasion of the thirtieth anniversary of the Fourth World Conference on Women, adopted by the Commission at its sixty-ninth session,¹⁶

Recalling General Assembly resolution 79/226 of 19 December 2024 on the quadrennial comprehensive policy review of operational activities for development of the United Nations system, in which the Assembly emphasized that realizing gender equality and the empowerment of women and girls will make a crucial contribution to progress across all the Goals and targets of the 2030 Agenda, and called upon all entities of the United Nations development system to continue to promote gender equality and the empowerment of all women and girls by enhancing and accelerating gender mainstreaming through the full implementation of the System-wide Action Plan on Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women, developed under the leadership of the United Nations Entity for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women (UN-Women), as well as the United Nations country team performance indicators for gender equality and the empowerment of women (the UNCT SWAP “scorecard”) in particular with regard to gender-responsive performance management and strategic planning, and to enhance the collection, availability and use of sex-disaggregated data, reporting and resource tracking, and drawing on available gender expertise in the system at all levels, including in UN-Women, to assist in mainstreaming gender equality in the preparation of the United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework, through a gender equality outcome, where appropriate and relevant in the country context and ensuring that gender equality expertise is available throughout the United Nations development system at all levels,

Recognizing that the full realization of all human rights and fundamental freedoms is essential for the achievement of gender equality and the empowerment of all women and girls and sustainable development,

Reiterating the request of the General Assembly, in its resolution 79/226, for the United Nations development system to support Member States, upon their request and in line with national priorities, taking into account the needs of women and children, in their response to demographic trends and realities, and in this regard taking into consideration the needs and empowerment of older women,

Reaffirming the central role and the importance of the active and full participation of national Governments in the preparation, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of the United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework, or equivalent planning framework, in order to enhance national ownership and achieve full alignment of operational activities with national priorities, challenges, planning and programming, and in this sense encouraging national Governments to consult with relevant stakeholders, including civil society and non-governmental organizations,

Recognizing the important contribution of civil society actors, including non-governmental organizations, in advancing the implementation of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action and in supporting gender mainstreaming into all policies and programmes in the United Nations system,

Recalling the section of General Assembly resolution 64/289 of 2 July 2010 entitled “Strengthening the institutional arrangements for support of gender equality and the empowerment of women”,

Recognizing that, in the process of gender mainstreaming, it is important to address the issue of harassment in the workplace, including sexual harassment, bearing in mind that it impedes the achievement of gender parity in the United Nations system and can have a negative impact on the achievement of gender equality,

Recognizing also the efforts undertaken by the United Nations entities to implement the zero-tolerance policy on sexual exploitation and abuse, and that sexual exploitation and abuse by United Nations personnel has a negative impact on the credibility of the United Nations and can undermine the efforts to effectively mainstream a gender perspective,

Reiterating its serious concern that, while some progress has been made in achieving gender parity in the United Nations system, especially at the senior and policymaking levels, with full respect for the principle of equitable geographical distribution, in conformity with Article 101, paragraph 3, of the Charter of the United Nations, progress remains insufficient, with negligible improvement in some parts of the system, and taking note with appreciation of the ongoing efforts of the Secretary-General, and in this regard taking note of the system-wide strategy on gender parity launched in September 2017,

Welcoming the updated United Nations system accountability frameworks for promoting gender equality and the empowerment of women, launched in November 2024, consisting of the System-wide Action Plan 3.0 (UN-SWAP 3.0) and the UNCT SWAP scorecard,

Noting that increased investments and attention to results continue to be needed in the implementation of UN-SWAP 3.0 and the UNCT SWAP scorecard to address persistent structural areas of weakness, including the unequal representation of women and men, resource allocation and capacity assessment, to ensure their successful implementation,

Noting also the launch of the United Nations System-wide Gender Equality Acceleration Plan, with the aim for all parts of the United Nations, and at all organizational levels, to deliver, together with Member States, accelerated and concrete results on gender equality and the empowerment of all women and girls across the world, as well as on their human rights and fundamental freedoms,

Noting further the establishment by the Secretary-General of the High-level Task Force on Financing for Gender Equality in 2018 to review and track United Nations budgets and expenditures across the United Nations system and make recommendations on how resources for gender equality may be meaningfully allocated,

Noting the adoption in 2022 by the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination of the gender equality marker standard, which introduces a common methodology and format for tracking the contribution of United Nations activities to gender equality and the empowerment of women and girls, and the subsequent decision by the Chief Executives Board in 2024 to mandate the reporting of gender equality marker data in its financial statistics, in order to enable more consistent and comparable reporting across United Nations entities,

Welcoming the membership of UN-Women in the Inter-Agency Standing Committee and its contribution to mainstreaming gender equality and the empowerment of all women and girls into the planning and implementation of humanitarian response,

Recognizing multi-stakeholder efforts on the achievement of gender equality and the empowerment of all women and girls, and the realization of their human rights, and taking note of all international, regional and national initiatives, including those convened in cooperation with United Nations entities, to advance gender mainstreaming and bridge the most critical and persistent gender equality gaps and fulfil the promise of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action and achieve the Sustainable Development Goals,

Recognizing also the potential adaptability of the methodology of the System-wide Action Plan to relevant national institutions,

1. Takes note with appreciation of the report of the Secretary-General¹⁷ and the recommendations contained therein, and appreciates that it continues to include comprehensive and systematic system-wide data collection and evidence-based analysis, allowing for comprehensive follow-up on progress made throughout the United Nations system in the implementation of resolutions of the Economic and Social Council on gender mainstreaming;
