Explanatory note by the secretariat

1. This compilation has been prepared by the secretariat at the request made on 8 March 2001 by the inter-sessional open-ended working group of the Preparatory Committee for the World Conference, and with the guidance of the Bureau of the Preparatory Committee and the regional group coordinators. It is made up of five documents: the secretariat's draft declaration and programme of action (A/CONF.189/WG.1/3), and the final documents of the regional inter-governmental meetings held in Strasbourg (A/CONF.189/PC.2/6), Santiago de Chile (A/CONF.189/PC.2/7), Dakar (A/CONF.189/PC.2/8) and Tehran (A/CONF.189/PC.2/9). The compilation is divided into three sections: the paragraphs of the Preamble; the paragraphs constituting the Declaration; and the paragraphs setting out the Programme of Action, under the five themes of the World Conference. Certain preambular paragraphs, referring to regional or international events and resolutions, could not be subsumed within the five themes and have therefore been placed at the beginning of the text.

2. Headings, where shown, were taken from the relevant document to facilitate the identification of the relevant topic. The following abbreviations are used in the text:

PRE - Preamble

DECL - Declaration

POA - Plan of Action/ Programme of Action/ Recommendations for a Programme of Action or General Conclusions

The secretariat's draft declaration and programme of action is referred to by the abbreviation "Secr.", while the final documents of the intergovernmental regional meetings are referred to by the name of the city in which they took place.

3. Where headings are being used in the text these are taken from the relevant document to facilitate the identification of the topic, wherever appropriate. Headings were only used in the secretariat's document, and the final documents of Strasbourg and Santiago. Lines appear in the document to group subjects of a similar nature. No sub-themes have been added to the text by the secretariat as this is a subject that is still under discussion and negotiation by the States themselves. The order of appearance of references in the text within the divisions made by lines starts with the secretariat's document, and then proceeds with each of the regional inter-governmental meetings in the order in which it occurred. This approach was taken since these meetings did not always take place according to the regional political groupings in the United Nations.

4. For the convenience of the user footnotes referring to specific paragraphs in the various documents are reproduced in italics immediately below the paragraph in question and with the numbering that was given to them in the original document. Thus, the numbering may not be consecutive.

PRE/Tehran, para. 15

Bearing in mind that the adequate and clear resolution of the past problems caused by racially and ethnically discriminatory policies and practices could contribute to the prevention of the recurrence of such policies and practices and to the friendship and peaceful relations among peoples and nations,

DECLARATION

I. SOURCES, CAUSES, FORMS AND CONTEMPORARY MANIFESTATIONS OF RACISM, RACIAL DISCRIMINATION, XENOPHOBIA AND RELATED INTOLERANCE

DECL/Secr, para. 1

All human beings are born equal in dignity and rights. Any doctrine of racial superiority is, therefore, scientifically false, morally condemnable, socially unjust and dangerous, and has no justification whatsoever;

DECL/Secr, para. 2

We all constitute one human family striving for the full exercise of our human spirit, the reawakening of all its inventive, creative and moral capacities, enhanced by the equal participation of men and women. Recognizing this can make the twenty-first century an era of genuine fulfilment and peace;

DECL/Secr, para. 5

We are conscious that humanity's history is replete with terrible wrongs inflicted through lack of respect for the equality of human beings manifested through wars, genocide, slavery, holocaust, apartheid, ethnic cleansing and other atrocities, and we understand the quest of the victims and their heirs for justice, dignity, respect and correction of the continuing consequences of historical wrongs. We call for open national and international dialogue to address these concerns;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 1

Reaffirm that Europe is a community of shared values, multicultural in its past, present and future; tolerance guarantees Europe's pluralist and open society, in which cultural diversity is promoted;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 2

Reaffirm that all human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights and with a potential to contribute constructively to the development and well-being of our societies;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 22

We are conscious of and alarmed at the dangers of indifference to manifestations of racism;

General; DECL/Santiago, para. 1

Express our conviction that any doctrine of superiority based on racial differentiation is scientifically false, morally condemnable, socially unjust and dangerous, and that there is no justification for racial discrimination, in theory or in practice, anywhere;

General; DECL/Santiago, para. 2

Reaffirm that ignoring the existence of discrimination and racism, at both the State and the society level, contributes directly and indirectly to perpetuating the practices of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

General; DECL/Santiago, para. 3

Recognize and admit that conquest, colonialism, slavery and other forms of servitude were a source of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance in the Americas, and condemn the injustices that were committed, especially against indigenous peoples and Africans and their descendants. The political, socio-economic and cultural structures imposed in the context of those processes permitted and encouraged racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance. Their effects persist in many of our societies and are a source of systemic discrimination that still affects large sectors of the population;

General; DECL/Santiago, para. 3 bis

Concerned also that the use of the term “peoples” in this document can not be construed as having any implications as to the rights which attach to the term under international law. The rights associated with the term “indigenous peoples” have a context-specific meaning that is appropriately determined in the multilateral negotiations in the texts of declarations that specifically deal with such rights,

DECL/Dakar, para.16

Recall that without the necessary political will to recognize and assume responsibility for historical injustices and their contemporary forms and repercussions, programmes of action against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, as well as the anti-racist slogans and measures taken at the World Conference and at the regional and national levels, will not change deeply ingrained prejudices or reach the noble goal of a genuine human family based on equal dignity and equal opportunities;

DECL/Dakar, para. 17

Affirm that the first logical and credible step to be taken at this juncture of our collective struggle is for the World Conference to declare solemnly that the international community as a whole fully recognizes the historical injustices of the slave trade and that colonialism and apartheid are among the most serious and massive institutionalized forms of human rights violations;

DECL/Tehran, para. 1

Reaffirm that all human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights, and that any doctrine of racial superiority is, therefore, scientifically false, morally condemnable, socially unjust and dangerous, and has no justification whatsoever;

DECL/Tehran, para. 2

Recognize that colonialism and slavery have been the prime sources and manifestation of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and stress the need for all States which were engaged in such practices to acknowledge the grave human suffering caused by colonialism and slavery and the heinous racist acts committed in the context of colonialism and slave trade;

---

DECL/Secr, para. 20

We affirm that the slave trade, particularly of Africans, was an appalling tragedy in the history of humanity, not only because of its abhorrent barbarism but also in terms of its enormous magnitude, its institutionalized nature, its transnational dimension, and especially its negation of the essence of the victims, and further note that the practice of slavery is now recognized as a crime against humanity.

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 12

Reaffirm that suffering caused by slavery or which arose from colonialism must be remembered;

DECL/Santiago, para. 4

Repudiate the brutal crimes and injustices that were committed against indigenous peoples and Africans and their descendants who were subjected to slavery, the transatlantic slave trade and other forms of servitude that today could constitute crimes against humanity;<sup>1</sup>

DECL/Dakar, para. 10

Affirm that the slave trade, particularly of Africans, is a unique tragedy in the history of humanity, a crime against humanity which is unparalleled, not only because of its abhorrent barbarism but also in terms of its enormous magnitude, its institutionalized nature, its transnational dimension, and especially its negation of the essence of the human nature of the victims;

DECL/Dakar, para. 11

Also affirm that the consequences of this tragedy, accentuated by those of colonialism and apartheid, have resulted in substantial and lasting economic, political and cultural damage to African peoples and are still present in the form of damage caused to the descendants of the victims by the perpetuation of prejudice against Africans in the continent and people of African descent in the Diaspora;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 15

We are conscious of and alarmed at the continued and violent occurrence of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, antisemitism and related intolerance, including contemporary forms of slavery, in Europe and in other regions of the world, despite efforts undertaken by the international community and national governments ;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 19

We are conscious of and alarmed at the persistence and development of aggressive nationalism and ethnocentrism which can lead to serious and large-scale violations of human rights;

---

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 25

We are conscious of and alarmed at the use of new technologies of mass communication for the dissemination of racist messages.

DECL/Dakar, para. 14

Also reaffirm that the stigmatization of people of different origins by acts or omissions of public authorities, institutions, the media, political parties or national or local organizations is not only an act of racial discrimination but also an incitement to the recurrence of such acts, thereby resulting in the creation of a vicious circle which reinforces racist attitudes and prejudices; such acts should be declared offences and crimes punishable by law;

DECL/Dakar, para. 15

Express our concern that the complicating dimension of this vicious circle contributes to and intensifies racially discriminatory social attitudes which cannot be criminalized by law;

DECL/Tehran, para. 3

Condemn all forms of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, and related intolerance in the context of the realization of civil, political, economic, social and cultural rights;

---

DECL/Secr, para. 11

We reaffirm that racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance threaten democratic societies and our fundamental values;

DECL/Secr, para. 12

We express our conviction that political platforms based on racism, xenophobia or doctrines of racial superiority and discrimination must be condemned as incompatible with democracy and transparent and accountable governance, and that racial discrimination condoned by governmental policies violates human rights and may endanger friendly relations among peoples, cooperation among nations, and international peace and security;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 6

Reaffirm that racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance threaten democratic societies and their fundamental values;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 23

We are conscious of and alarmed at the hostility expressed by certain media and politicians towards vulnerable groups;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 24

We are conscious of and alarmed at the support for political parties and organisations disseminating xenophobic ideology in Europe and in other regions of the world;

General; DECL/Santiago, para. 7

Also condemn all forms of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related forms of intolerance concerning civil and political rights and other related matters, including the right to participate in the electoral process, the right to seek public office, to participate in the administration and conduct of public affairs, the administration of and access to justice, and application of the law;

Democracy and political rights/tolerant societies and mutual respect; DECL/Santiago, para. 8

Express our conviction that political platforms based on racism, xenophobia or doctrines of racial superiority and discrimination must be condemned as incompatible with democracy and transparent and accountable governance, and that racial discrimination condoned by governmental policies violates human rights and may endanger friendly relations among peoples, cooperation among nations, and international peace and security;

Democracy and political rights/tolerant societies and mutual respect; DECL/Santiago, para. 9

Condemn legislation, political platforms, practices and organizations based on racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance. They must be condemned and are incompatible with democracy and with transparent and responsible management of public affairs. Racial discrimination justified by governmental policies violates human rights and may jeopardize friendly relations among peoples, cooperation among nations, as well as international peace and security;

DECL/Dakar, para. 3

Express our concern that beyond the material progress of racism is the disturbing fact that contemporary forms and manifestations of racism are striving to regain political, moral and even legal recognition in many ways, including through legislative prescriptions such as those relating to the freedom of expression, the platforms of some political parties and organizations, and the dissemination through modern communication technologies of ideas based on racial superiority;

DECL/Tehran, para. 4

Also condemn past and current policies, practices, propaganda and organizations based on ideas or theories of racial and national superiority, hatred, discrimination and xenophobia, which are massive and flagrant violations of all human rights and fundamental freedoms, comprising civil, political, economic, social and cultural rights and the right to development;

DECL/Tehran, para. 5

Strongly condemn the resurgence of fascism in all its forms and manifestations;

DECL/Tehran, para. 13

Recognize that equitable participation by all groups and countries in the formulation of a just, equitable, democratic and inclusive international order can contribute to a world free from racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

DECL/Tehran, para. 14

Call for international efforts to promote an understanding between different civilizations and cultures so as to counter attempts at cultural and civilizational domination and imposition motivated by racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

DECL/Tehran, para. 15

Reaffirm that dialogue among cultures and civilizations facilitates the promotion of a culture of tolerance and respect for diversity through cooperation and mutual enrichment in various fields of human endeavour;

DECL/Tehran, para. 16

Express our conviction that ideologies based on racial superiority contradict the letter and spirit of international human rights instruments and endanger regional and international peace and security;

DECL/Tehran, para. 17

Emphasize that racist and exclusivist ideologies based on race, colour, descent, culture, language or national or ethnic origin are responsible for fomenting, promoting and spreading racial discrimination, xenophobia and stereotyping;

DECL/Tehran, para. 18

Express our conviction that political platforms and systems based on racism, xenophobia or doctrines of racial superiority and discrimination must be condemned as incompatible with democracy and transparent and accountable governance, and that racial discrimination condoned by governmental policies violates human rights and may endanger friendly relations between peoples, cooperation among nations, and international peace and security;

DECL/Secr, para. 7

We also understand that intolerance and racial discrimination breed and fester in inequitable political, economic and social conditions, and that genuine equality of opportunity for development is fundamental for the eradication of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance. We therefore call for urgent national, regional and international measures to provide the chance for a decent life for all the peoples of the world in their magnificent diversity;

DECL/Secr, para. 17

We recognize that although globalization, as an ongoing process, is a powerful and dynamic force with the potential to help achieve the goal of development and prosperity for all of humankind, there is a need to manage it properly to guard against adverse trends, including growing economic disparity and cultural homogenization, which, by marginalizing certain countries and groups, could, inter alia, contribute to maintaining and strengthening racist attitudes;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 9

Reaffirm that the fight against marginalisation and social exclusion must be continued;

General; DECL/Santiago, para, 5

Observe that poverty is often closely associated with racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, and that these practices aggravate the conditions of poverty, marginality and social exclusion of individuals, groups and communities;

General; DECL/Santiago, para, 6

Condemn all forms of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related forms of intolerance concerning economic, social and cultural rights and other related matters, including access to employment, government benefits, access to capital, credit, technology, education and vocational training, housing, health care, the environment, cultural activities, the protection of heritage, equal access to public services and other types of services, and national immigration policies;

Globalization; DECL/Santiago, para. 10

Express our determination to prevent and mitigate the negative effects of globalization. These effects may contribute to, inter alia, cultural homogenization, economic inequality within and between States which may occur along racial lines, or may be based on the social and economic exclusion of peoples, communities and groups, especially those who continue to endure the legacy of slavery and colonialism. Also express our determination to maximize the benefits of globalization through strengthening cooperation to create increased opportunities for trade, economic growth and sustainable development, global communications through the use of new technologies and increased inter-cultural exchange through the preservation and promotion of cultural diversity, which may contribute to the eradication of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

Poverty; Victims of aggravated or multiple discrimination; DECL/Santiago, para. 59

Note with great concern that the descendants of racial and ethnic groups which were the victims of past acts of racial discrimination often find themselves amongst the poorest segments of the population in the States of the region; and recognize the close correlation between racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and extreme poverty;

DECL/Dakar, para. 4

Regret the flagrant contradiction that, in an era when globalization and technology have contributed considerably to bringing people closer together, the international community is evidently receding from the notion of a "human family" based on equality, dignity and solidarity;

DECL/Dakar, para. 34

Note with grave concern the negative effects on health and the environment of environmental racism suffered, in particular, by countries in Africa, including the illicit dumping of toxic wastes and substances, hazardous working and living conditions and dangerous methods of extracting natural resources.

DECL/Tehran, para. 7

Reject the concept of regional fortresses, bolstered by political and economic accords amongst some developed countries, that generate a climate in which foreigners are racially discriminated against and are regarded as rivals or competitors and a threat to local prosperity, culture and identity;

DECL/Tehran, para. 8

Recognize the economic, social and cultural injustice emanating from racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, and related intolerance and call for concerted and continuous efforts to eradicate these evils;

DECL/Tehran, para. 9

Emphasize that poverty and economic disparities between various parts of the world which owe their existence in part to colonial exploitation contribute significantly to the persistence of racist attitudes;

DECL/Tehran, para. 10

Recognize that although globalization, as an ongoing process, remains a powerful and dynamic force with the potential to assist in achieving the goal of development and prosperity of all humankind, there is a need to manage it properly to guard against adverse trends, including growing economic disparity and cultural homogenization, which, by marginalizing certain countries and groups, could, inter alia, contribute to sustaining and strengthening racist attitudes;

DECL/Tehran, para. 11

Recognize that interregional migration has increased as a result of globalization and stress that policies towards such migration from the South to the North should not be based on discrimination on the grounds of race, colour, descent, or national or ethnic origin;

DECL/Tehran, para. 12

Resolve to extend cooperation to maximize the benefits of globalization with a view to the realization of economic, social and cultural rights and the right to development as a major contribution to the fight against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

---

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 13

Reaffirm that all States must reject ethnic and religious cleansing and genocide, in Europe and in other regions of the world, and work together to prevent their recurrence;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 14

Reaffirm that the Holocaust must never be forgotten.

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 20

We are conscious of and alarmed at the recent examples of ethnic and religious cleansing in Europe and in other regions of the world;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 36

We therefore commit ourselves to combat ethnic and religious cleansing in Europe and in other regions of the world;

DECL/Dakar, para. 33

Recognize that the number of recent and on going conflicts around the world reveals that racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance of peoples, groups and individuals are among the root causes of conflict and are very often also among its consequences, and in this regard recall that non-discrimination is a fundamental principle of international humanitarian and human rights law;

DECL/Tehran, para. 6

Condemn all acts and practices of social violence arising out of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, and related intolerance;

---

Other victims of racism ; DECL/Santiago, para. 46

Confirm with deep concern the increase in anti-Semitism and hostile acts against Jews in some countries in the region and in other parts of the world, as well as the emergence of radical and violent movements based on racism and discriminatory ideas concerning the Jewish community;

---

Other victims of racism ; DECL/Santiago, para. 47

Also confirm with deep concern the existence of Islamophobia and hostile acts against Arabs, which are evidenced in some countries in the region and in other parts of the world;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 21

We are conscious of and alarmed at the continued occurrence, in many forms, of intolerance on grounds of religion and belief;

---

DECL/Tehran, para. 19

Recognize Jerusalem as a city of reverence and religious sanctity for three major religions of the world, and call for an international effort to bring foreign occupation, together with all its racial practices, to an end, mainly in holy shrines dear to the three religions;

DECL/Tehran, para. 20

Affirm that a foreign occupation founded on settlements, its laws based on racial discrimination with the aim of continuing domination on the occupied territory, as well as its practices which consist of reinforcing a total military blockade, isolating towns, cities and villages under occupation from each other, totally contradict the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations and constitute a serious violation of international human rights and humanitarian law, a new kind of apartheid, a crime against humanity, a form of genocide and a serious threat to international peace and security;

DECL/Tehran, para. 21

Recall with deep regret the practices of racial discrimination against the Palestinians as well as other inhabitants of the Arab occupied territories which have an impact on all aspects of their daily existence such that they prevent the enjoyment of fundamental rights, express our deep concern about this situation and call for the cessation of all the practices of racial discrimination to which the Palestinians and the other inhabitants of the Arab territories occupied by Israel are subjected;

II. VICTIMS OF RACISM, RACIAL DISCRIMINATION, XENOPHOBIA AND RELATED INTOLERANCE

DECL/Secr, para. 6

We salute the memory of all victims of racism and racial discrimination, colonialism and apartheid all over the world;

DECL/Secr, para. 10

In reviewing progress made in the fight against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance since the adoption of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, we note that despite the development of international, regional and national laws underpinning equality, racist attitudes remain deeply entrenched and that political, economic and social conditions often inhibit their implementation. We also note with sadness that minorities, indigenous people, migrants, asylum-seekers and refugees and others still suffer from widespread inequality and racial discrimination. The obstacles to equality lie in the mind and the spirit as well as in political, economic and social conditions. Education, development, and the faithful implementation of international human rights norms are the keys to future action for equality and non-discrimination;

DECL/Secr, para. 19

We underscore the need to promote strategies, programmes and policies, which may include measures of affirmative action, for furthering the realization of the civil and political rights of victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, including through more effective access to the political, judicial and administrative functions of institutions, as well as the need to increase access to the administration of justice in all its forms, free from racial discrimination of any kind;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 16

We are conscious of and alarmed at the fact that such occurrences target, notably on grounds related to language, religion or national or ethnic origin, persons such as migrants, asylum-seekers, refugees, displaced persons, non-nationals, indigenous peoples; or, on grounds related to belonging to minorities, persons such as Roma/Gypsies and Travellers;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 17

We are conscious of and alarmed at the related degrading treatment and discriminatory practices;

Victims of racism: general; DECL/Santiago, para. 11

Recognize that in the Americas the victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance are the indigenous peoples, people of African descent, migrants and other ethnic, racial, cultural, religious and linguistic groups or minorities affected by those scourges;

Victims of racism: general; DECL/Santiago, para. 12

Also recognize the value and contribution to the development of the societies of the Americas of the traditions, cultures and specific identities of indigenous peoples, people of African descent, migrants and other victims;

Victims of racism: general; DECL/Santiago, para. 13

Confirm, at the same time, that in many countries the sectors where poverty is most intense are those made up of indigenous peoples, people of African descent, migrants and other victims;

Victims of racism: general; DECL/Santiago, para. 14

Express our deep concern that indigenous peoples, people of African descent, migrants and other victims of racism frequently suffer a disproportionate burden with regard to industrial pollution, degradation of the environment and the transfer of toxic waste to disposal sites, which adversely affects their quality of life and health;

Victims of racism: general; DECL/Santiago, para. 15

Also express our deep concern that indigenous peoples, people of African descent, migrants and other victims of racism have economic and social indicators for education, employment, health, housing, infant mortality and life expectancy which are inferior to the average for the population in the States of the Americas;

Victims of racism: general; DECL/Santiago, para. 16

Underscore the need to promote strategies, programmes and policies, which may include measures of affirmative action, for furthering the fulfilment of civil and political rights for victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, including through more effective access to the political, judicial and administrative functions of institutions, as well as the need to increase access to the administration of justice in all its forms, free from racial discrimination of any kind;

Victims of racism: general; DECL/Santiago, para. 17

Also underscore the need to promote strategies, policies and programmes, which may include measures of affirmative action, for increasing the protection of the economic, social and cultural rights of indigenous peoples, people of African descent, migrants and other victims of racism, and for affording greater opportunities to such groups to share in the prosperity and wealth of the societies of the Americas, as well as for guaranteeing that the benefits of development, science and technology contribute effectively to the improvement of the quality of life of these populations;

Victims of racism: general; DECL/Santiago, para. 18

Recognize that in many countries of the region, ethnic or racial criteria are not used in censuses or other data-collection exercises, which makes certain sectors of the population invisible in official statistics;

DECL/Dakar, para. 1

Salute the memory of all victims of racism and racial discrimination, colonialism and apartheid all over the world;

DECL/Dakar, para. 2

Note with grave concern that, despite the efforts of the international community, the principal objectives of the two Decades for Action to Combat Racism and Racial Discrimination have not been attained and that millions of human beings continue to this day to be victims of varied, evolving and sophisticated contemporary forms of racism and racial discrimination, in particular nationals of different origins, migrant workers, asylum-seekers, refugees and foreigners;

DECL/Dakar, para. 26

Express our conviction that applying a victim-oriented approach to victims of racial discrimination at both the national and the international level reaffirms the human values of tolerance and solidarity and thus strengthens the foundations of human rights law;

DECL/Dakar, para. 30

Affirm in that spirit that all human beings are equal and that all scourges and injustices should, therefore, be addressed with the same emphasis and that such fairness is a fundamental prerequisite for the creation of the peace of mind of all parties involved, which gives future efforts better chances of success;

DECL/Tehran, para. 22

Recognize the individuals, groups and nations affected by policies and practices, such as colonialism, slavery and ethnic cleansing that are based on theories of racial or national superiority, hatred, and distinction as to race, colour, descent, culture, language, or national or ethnic origin as victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

DECL/Tehran, para. 23

Underscore the need to promote at the national level strategies, programmes and policies, including affirmative action, for the full realization of the civil and political rights of victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, including through more effective access to the political, judicial and administrative institutions, as well as the need to promote access to justice free from racial discrimination of any kind;

DECL/Tehran, para. 24

Recognize that States shall, when the circumstances so warrant, take special and concrete measures in the social, economic, cultural and other fields to ensure the adequate development and protection of certain racial groups or individuals belonging to them, for the purpose of guaranteeing them the full and equal enjoyment of human rights and fundamental freedoms; these measures shall in no case entail as a consequence the maintenance of unequal or separate rights for different racial groups after the objectives for which they were taken have been achieved;

DECL/Tehran, para. 25

Underscore the need to promote at the national level strategies, policies and programmes, including affirmative action, for the promotion and protection of the economic, social and cultural rights of all victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and for affording greater opportunities to that group to share in the prosperity and wealth of the societies they live in, as well as for guaranteeing that the benefits of development, science and technology contribute effectively to the improvement of the quality of life of such victims;

DECL/Tehran, para. 26

Stress the importance of the promotion and protection of the human rights of ethnic, national, linguistic, racial and cultural minorities, indigenous people and migrants, including their rights to maintain their cultural identity and observe their values and traditions;

DECL/Tehran, para. 29

Reiterate the need for all States to fulfil without any racial discrimination, their obligations under the Vienna Conventions on Diplomatic Relations and Consular Relations;

Indigenous peoples; DECL/Santiago, para. 19

Recognize the value and diversity of the cultures and the heritage of indigenous peoples, whose singular contribution to the development and cultural pluralism of the societies of the region and full participation in all aspects of society, in particular on issues that are of concern to them, are fundamental for political and social stability, and for the development of the States in which they live;

Indigenous peoples; DECL/Santiago, para. 20

Also recognize the special relationship that indigenous peoples have with the land as the basis for their physical and cultural existence;

Indigenous peoples; DECL/Santiago, para. 21

Firmly reiterate the determination of the countries in the region to promote the economic, social and cultural well-being of indigenous peoples and their enjoyment of the benefits of sustainable development, fully respecting their distinctive characteristics and their own initiatives. We also reiterate the conviction that the full realization by indigenous peoples of their human rights and fundamental freedoms is indispensable for eliminating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

Indigenous peoples; DECL/Santiago, para. 22

Recognize that the indigenous peoples of the Americas have been victims of discrimination for centuries and affirm that they are free and equal in dignity and rights and should not suffer any discrimination whatsoever, and particularly not on the basis of their indigenous origin and identity;

Indigenous peoples; DECL/Santiago, para. 23

Emphasize that, in order for indigenous peoples freely to express their own identity and exercise their rights, they should be free from all forms of discrimination, which necessarily entails respect for their human rights and fundamental freedoms. Efforts are now being made to secure universal recognition for those rights in the Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, including the following: to call themselves by their own names; to participate freely and on an equal footing in a country's political, economic, social and cultural development; to maintain their own forms of organization, lifestyles, cultures and traditions; to maintain and use their own languages; to maintain their own economic structures in the areas where they live; to take part in the development of their educational systems and programmes; to manage their lands and natural resources, including hunting and fishing rights; and to have access to justice on a basis of equality;

Indigenous peoples; DECL/Santiago, para. 24

Fully recognize all of the rights of the indigenous peoples in conformity with the principles of the sovereignty and territorial integrity of States; in concert with them the necessary constitutional, administrative, legislative and judicial reforms must be promoted, including those derived from applicable international instruments;

Indigenous peoples; DECL/Santiago, para. 25

Express our concern that inherited political and legal structures based on colonial structures or institutions persist in the States of the region, that they do not always correspond to the multi-ethnic, pluri-cultural and pluri-lingual characteristics of the population and that, in many cases, they constitute the paramount factor of discrimination in the exclusion of indigenous peoples;

Indigenous peoples; DECL/Santiago, para. 26

Welcome the creation of the Permanent Forum for Indigenous Issues within the United Nations system, giving concrete expression to major objectives of the International Decade of the World's Indigenous People and the Vienna Programme of Action, and urge States and the United Nations system, in consultation with indigenous peoples, to take all necessary administrative and budgetary measures to establish the Permanent Forum at the earliest possible date;

Indigenous peoples; DECL/Tehran, para. 27

Welcome the creation of the Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues within the United Nations system, giving concrete expression to major objectives of the International Decade of the World's Indigenous People and the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action;

People of African descent; DECL/Santiago, para. 27

Recognize that people of African descent have for centuries been victims of racism, racial discrimination and enslavement and of the denial by history of many of their rights. Assert that they should be treated with fairness and respect for their dignity and should not suffer discrimination of any kind based on origin, culture, skin colour or social condition. Recognition should therefore be given to their rights to culture and their own identity; to participate freely and on equal conditions in political, social, economic and cultural life; to development in the context of their own aspirations and customs; to keep, maintain and foster their own forms of organization, their mode of life, culture, traditions and religious expressions; to maintain and use their own languages; to the protection of their traditional knowledge and their cultural and artistic heritage; to their ancestrally inhabited land; to the use, enjoyment and conservation of the natural renewable resources of their habitat and to active participation in the design, implementation and development of educational systems and programmes, including those of a specific and characteristic nature;<sup>2</sup>

*<sup>2</sup>Canada stated that it could not support part of this paragraph. For the text of its intervention, see Annex IV of the report. People of African descent; DECL/Santiago, para. 28

Also recognize that the legacy of slavery has contributed to perpetuating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance against people of African descent throughout the region. Also note the disastrous consequences of slavery, which are at the root of the situations of profound social and economic inequality which generally victimize people of African descent in the Americas;

People of African descent; DECL/Santiago, para. 29

Consider it essential for all countries in the region to recognize the existence of their population of African descent, the cultural, economic, political and scientific contributions made by that population and recognize the persistence of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance that specifically affect them. Recognize that, in many countries, their longstanding inequality in terms of access to, inter alia, education, health care and housing has been a profound cause of the socio-economic disparities that affect them;

People of African descent; DECL/Santiago, para. 30

Note that the population of the Caribbean region of the Americas is comprised of a majority of people of African descent and several minority racial groups, and that the Caribbean nations as a group have taken deliberate steps to address racial tensions through negotiations thereby promoting the development of relatively tolerant multi-racial societies;

People of African descent; DECL/Santiago, para. 31

Recognize that the racism and racial discrimination that people of African descent have historically suffered throughout the Americas is at the root of the situation of marginalization, poverty and exclusion that affects the majority of them in many countries of the continent and that, despite the many efforts made, this situation persists, in varying degrees;

People of African descent; DECL/Santiago, para. 32

Also recognize the value and diversity of the cultural heritage of people of African descent and affirm their full participation in all aspects of society, particularly in the affairs that directly concern them and that are considered to be essential;

DECL/Dakar, para. 5

Bear in mind that although the African continent has regrettably suffered ethnic violence, including instances of genocidal acts, it is not an exclusively racial phenomenon but has many deeply rooted national and international dimensions;

DECL/Dakar, para. 6

Express our deep concern that the socio-economic development of our continent is being hampered by widespread internal conflicts which are due, among other causes, to violations of human rights, including discrimination based on ethnic or national origin and lack of democratic, inclusive and participatory governance;

DECL/Dakar, para. 7

Also express our concern in this regard that external interference, mainly linked to the exploitation of minerals and the arms trade, an unfavourable international economic environment and foreign debt, are the main contributing factors in the spread of conflicts and instability in Africa;

DECL/Dakar, para. 9

Recall the historical fact that among the most hideous manifestations of racial discrimination the African continent and Diaspora have suffered, namely the slave trade, all forms of exploitation, colonialism and apartheid, were essentially motivated by economic objectives and competition between colonial powers for strategic territorial gains, appropriation, and control over and pillage of natural and cultural resources;

DECL/Dakar, para. 12

Stress the negative economic consequences of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, conscious that the economic difficulties of Africa cannot be explained exclusively by foreign factors and historical events and aware that it is nevertheless a reality that those factors and events have had profound crippling effects on the economic development of Africa and that justice now requires that substantial national and international efforts be made to repair the damage;

---

Migrants; DECL/Santiago, para. 33

Recognize the positive economic and cultural contributions made by migration to both countries of origin and of destination;

Migrants; DECL/Santiago, para. 34

Note with concern the manifestations and acts of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and other forms of related intolerance against migrants;

Migrants; DECL/Santiago, para. 35

Reaffirm the responsibility of Governments to safeguard and protect the human rights of migrants living in their territory and under their jurisdiction against illegal acts by their agents or by individuals or groups motivated by racism, xenophobia or related intolerance;

Migrants; DECL/Santiago, para. 36

Express our concern and indignation that, despite the measures taken by the international community, racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance against migrants are on the increase, as are the stereotypes usually applied to them;

Migrants; DECL/Santiago, para. 37

Recall the vulnerable situation in which migrants often find themselves, because, among other things, of the difficulties they face owing to gender and to differences in language, religion, habits and culture, as well as legal, economic and social obstacles;

Migrants; DECL/Santiago, para. 38

Highlight the importance of creating conditions conducive to greater harmony, tolerance and respect between migrants and the rest of society in the country in which they find themselves, in order to eliminate manifestations of racism and xenophobia against migrants;

Migrants; DECL/Santiago, para. 39

Recall that, in its resolution 45/158 of 18 December 1990, the United Nations General Assembly approved and opened for signature, ratification and accession the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families;

Migrants; DECL/Santiago, para. 40

Recognize the efforts made by several States to penalize and combat the international traffic in persons and the smuggling of migrants and to protect the victims of those illegal activities, and highlight again the need to adopt legal, administrative and judicial measures against the persons responsible for international traffic in persons and the smuggling of migrants;

DECL/Dakar, para. 13

Reaffirm that the discriminatory treatment of foreigners and migrant workers established or practised in certain countries, inter alia concerning granting visas, work permits, conditions of family members, housing and access to justice, based on race, colour, descent or national or ethnic origin, are human rights violations which seriously contradict the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination and the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families;

DECL/Dakar, para. 32

Bear in mind the situation of vulnerability in which migrants frequently find themselves, owing, inter alia, to their absence from their State of origin and to the difficulties they encounter because of differences in language, customs and culture, as well as economic and social difficulties and obstacles to the return of migrants who are undocumented or in an irregular situation;

DECL/Tehran, para. 28

Condemn manifestations and acts of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance that may take place against migrants and stress the need for their fair, just and equitable treatment in the society and in the workplace;

DECL/Tehran, para. 30

Recognize that while the formulation of immigration and citizenship laws is the prerogative of the States concerned, those laws that are motivated by racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance ought to be condemned and repealed;

Other victims of racism; DECL/Santiago, para. 48

Recognize with concern that the Roma and Sinti are victims in some countries of the region of stigmatization and discrimination, as in other parts of the world;

Other victims of racism; DECL/Santiago, para. 45

Recognize that refugees, asylum seekers and internally displaced persons are particularly vulnerable to manifestations of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and/or related forms of intolerance;

DECL/Dakar, para. 31

Also affirm the commitment by States to comply with their obligations relating to the promotion and protection of the human rights of refugees, asylum-seekers and internally displaced persons;

DECL/Tehran, para. 31

Recognize that refugees, asylum-seekers and internally displaced persons are, under certain circumstances, vulnerable to manifestations of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

DECL/Tehran, para. 32

Reiterate that the international response and policy, including financial assistance, towards refugee situations in different parts of the world should not be guided by consideration of race, colour, descent, culture, language, or national or ethnic origin of the refugees concerned, and in this context urge the international community, to extend assistance as requested by concerned States towards resolving the refugees' situation, especially in the developing countries, through economic and financial assistance aimed at, inter alia, removing the root causes of the displacement of such people;

DECL/Tehran, para. 33

Express deep concern at the plight of Palestinian refugees and displaced persons who were forced to leave their homes because of war and racial policies of the occupying power and are prevented from returning to their homes and properties because of a racially based law of return, and recognize the right of return of the Palestinian refugees as established by the General Assembly, in their resolutions particularly in resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948, and call for their return to their homeland in accordance with and in implementation of this right;

DECL/Tehran, para. 34

Re-emphasize the responsibility of the international community to provide international protection for the Palestinian people under occupation against aggression, acts of racism, intimidation, and denial of fundamental human rights including the right to life, liberty and self-determination;

---

Other victims of racism; DECL/Santiago, para. 41

Recognize the existence of a mestizo population of different ethnic and racial origins, to a large extent as the result of the history of colonization and slavery in the American continent, in which unequal relations of race and gender were joined;

Other victims of racism; DECL/Santiago, para. 42

Also recognize the valuable contribution of the mestizo population which continues to incorporate different human groups from other continents;

Other victims of racism; DECL/Santiago, para. 43

Condemn the discrimination of which mestizos are in many cases the victims because of their different ethnic and racial origins or their different varieties of skin colour;

Other victims of racism; DECL/Santiago, para. 44

Express our deep concern at the pernicious nature of the discrimination of which many mestizos are victims. The often subtle nature of such discrimination may lead to the denial of its existence and thus tend to perpetuate it;

Other victims of racism ; DECL/Santiago, para. 49

Recognize the history of persons of Asian descent in the Americas as one often characterized by systemic and overt discrimination that violated their human rights, a history that manifests itself in ongoing racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance. Despite the difficulties and barriers, people of Asian descent have contributed and continue to contribute significantly to the economic, social, political, scientific and cultural life of the hemisphere;

DECL/Secr, para. 18

We recognize that certain persons and groups may experience other forms of discrimination on the basis of their gender, age, disability, genetic condition, language, religion, sexual orientation, economic status or social origin, and that in addition they may experience acts of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance. We note that this situation can result in such persons being victims of multiple forms of discrimination, and stress that special attention should be given to the elaboration of strategies, policies and programmes, which may include affirmative action, for such persons;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 18

We are conscious of and alarmed at the existence of multiple discrimination;

General; Victims of aggravated or multiple discrimination; DECL/Santiago, para.51

Recognize that certain persons and groups may experience other forms of discrimination on the basis of their gender, age, disability, genetic condition, language, religion, sexual orientation, economic status or social origin, and that in addition they may experience acts of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance. Note that this situation can result in such persons being victims of multiple forms of discrimination; and stress that special attention should be given to the elaboration of strategies, policies and programmes, which may include affirmative action, for those persons who may be the victims of multiple forms of discrimination;

DECL/Tehran, para. 35

Recognize that special attention needs to be given to the elaboration of strategies, policies and programmes for persons subject to multiple discrimination which combines racism and racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance with other forms of discrimination;

Women; DECL/Santiago, para. 52

Also recognize the need to integrate a gender perspective into programmes of action against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related forms of intolerance, in order to address the phenomenon of multiple discrimination against women;

Women; DECL/Santiago, para. 53

Consider that racism, racial discrimination and xenophobia reveal themselves in a differentiated manner for women, causing their living conditions to deteriorate, generating multiple forms of violence, and limiting or denying them the benefit and the exercise of their human rights;

Women; DECL/Santiago, para. 54

Recognize within the cultural, ethnic and racial diversity, the existence of gender relations that translate into discriminatory practices against women, and for this reason affirm the need to make efforts to transform stereotypes that perpetuate this situation;

Women; DECL/Santiago, para. 55

Note with concern the trafficking in and sexual exploitation of women and girls, whose victimization is aggravated by migration and armed conflict;

DECL/Tehran, para. 36

Also recognize that racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance manifest themselves in an aggravated and differentiated manner for women, causing their living standards to deteriorate, generating multiple forms of violence, and limiting or denying them the benefit and the exercise of their human rights, and in this regard urge States to consider this phenomenon in the formulation of strategies and programmes against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

DECL/Tehran, para. 37

Note with concern that instances of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance lead to trade in and/or sexual exploitation of women and girls;

Children; DECL/Santiago, para. 56

Observe with concern the large number of children, girls and young people among the victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related forms of intolerance in the region. Note the need to consider these situations of discrimination when designing strategies and programmes for, inter alia: (a) abandoned children; (b) children who live or work in the street; (c) child victims of trafficking and economic exploitation; (d) sexually exploited children; (e) children affected by armed conflict; and (f) child victims of poverty;

Children; DECL/Santiago, para. 57

Stress the need to incorporate the principle of the best interests of the child in programmes against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, in order to give priority attention to the situation of children and young people who are victims of these practices;

DECL/Tehran, para. 38

Also note with concern the large number of children, especially girls, and young people among the victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and stress the need to consider this factor in the design of strategies and programmes for child welfare, as well as the importance of incorporating the principle of the best interests of the child in the formulation of strategies and programmes against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

HIV/AIDS; DECL/Santiago, para. 58

Note with great concern that, in many countries of the Americas, people infected or affected by HIV/AIDS, as well as those who are presumed to be infected, belong to vulnerable groups in which racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance have a negative impact and impede access to health care and medication. Urge that programmes be designed to prevent and treat these diseases;

---

III. MEASURES OF PREVENTION, EDUCATION AND PROTECTION AIMED AT THE ERADICATION OF RACISM, RACIAL DISCRIMINATION, XENOPHOBIA AND RELATED INTOLERANCE AT THE NATIONAL, REGIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL LEVELS

DECL/Secr, para. 14

DECL/Secr, para. 15

We express deep concern about the use of new information technologies, such as the Internet, to propagate racial hatred, xenophobia, racial discrimination and related intolerance, and that children and youth have access to this material;

DECL/Secr, para. 16

The new technologies, including the Internet, should contribute to combating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and should also be used to promote tolerance and respect for diversity;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 7

Reaffirm that stability and peace in Europe and throughout the world can only be built on tolerance and respect for diversity;

We note with satisfaction the efforts made at national and local levels to take preventive action to combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, especially in promoting human rights education, including intercultural education.

Educational and training measures; DECL/Strasbourg, para. 35

We therefore commit ourselves:

Prevention: education, public information, media, Internet; Victims of aggravated or multiple discrimination; DECL/Santiago, para. 61

New technologies; Victims of aggravated or multiple discrimination; DECL/Santiago, para. 62

Express deep concern about the use of new information technologies, such as the Internet, to encourage racial hate, xenophobia, racial discrimination and related intolerance, including access to this information by children and youth, and recognize that these new information technologies can and must be used to promote tolerance and respect for diversity;<sup>3</sup>

<sup>3</sup>The United States of America expressed a reservation concerning the interpretation of this paragraph. For the text, see Annex IV of the report.

DECL/Tehran, para. 39

Recognize that education is the key to the promotion of respect for the racial, ethnic, cultural and linguistic diversity of societies and for promotion and protection of democratic values which are essential to prevent the spread of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

DECL/Tehran, para. 40

Reaffirm that education is one of the principal means of preventing and eradicating racism and racial discrimination and raising awareness of human rights, particularly among children and young people, and in this context stress the need to amend suitably the textbooks that perpetuate racial stereotypes or encourage xenophobia;

DECL/Tehran, para. 41

Emphasize the importance and necessity of teaching about the past and recent history of colonialism, racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance to prevent the recurrence of similar policies and practices;

DECL/Tehran, para. 42

Recognize the necessity of increasing appropriate preventive measures in order to eliminate all forms of racial discrimination and the important role that Governments, international organizations, the media, non-governmental organizations and civil society can play in developing such measures and building confidence between different racial and ethnic groups;

DECL/Tehran, para. 43

Reaffirm the responsibility of Governments for safeguarding and protecting the rights of individuals within their jurisdiction against crimes perpetrated by racist or xenophobic individuals or groups;

DECL/Tehran, para. 44

Express deep concern at the use of new information technologies, such as the Internet, to propagate racial hatred, xenophobia, racial discrimination and related intolerance and that children and youth have access to this material;

DECL/Tehran, para. 45

Recognize that the use of the new information technologies, including the Internet, should contribute to combating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and that they should also be used to promote tolerance and respect for diversity;

DECL/Tehran, para. 46

Note with concern the widening use by some groups and organizations of the opportunities provided by print, audio-visual and electronic media as well as scientific and technological progress, such as the Internet, to promote racist and xenophobic propaganda aimed at inciting societies throughout the world to racial hatred, and in this connection urge all Governments to take necessary measures against such incitement;

DECL/Tehran, para. 49

Resolutely condemn any ideologies and practices based on racial discrimination or superiority which entail abuse of human rights and fundamental freedoms, and affirm that all States have the obligation to take all available means to combat ideologies, activities and practices based on racial discrimination or superiority;

---

DECL/Secr, para. 3

All peoples and all human groups have contributed to the progress of civilization and cultures which constitute the common heritage of humanity;

DECL/Secr, para. 4

For too long diversity has been treated as threat rather than gift, and too often that threat has been expressed in racial contempt and conflict, in exclusion, discrimination and intolerance. We must refocus our understanding, discern in diversity of race and culture the potential for mutual enrichment, and realize that it is the interchange between great traditions of human spirituality that offers the best prospect for the human spirit itself;

---

DECL/Secr, para. 13

We reaffirm that all initiatives aiming at greater political, social and cultural participation, especially of persons belonging to vulnerable groups, should be encouraged;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 10

Reaffirm that all initiatives aiming at greater political, social and cultural participation, especially of persons belonging to vulnerable groups, should be encouraged;

DECL/Dakar, para. 8

Express our firm conviction that the development of democratic systems of government in Africa, which guarantee full access and representation of all sectors of our societies, respect for and protection of all human rights and fundamental freedoms, equitable distribution of wealth and access to economic advancement, active promotion of peace, preventive diplomacy and conflict resolution and an equitable international economic environment, is an essential prerequisite for the prevention of conflicts and instability in Africa;

DECL/Secr, para. 9

We recognize the important role of civil society in proposing strategies for the fight against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and in assisting Governments in their implementation;

DECL/Secr, para. 23

We also recognize that international exchange and dialogue among youth is an important element in building intercultural understanding and respect and will contribute to the elimination of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 29

We note with satisfaction the results of the “All different all equal” European Youth Campaign against Racism and of the European Year against Racism;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 31

We note with satisfaction the contribution of non-governmental organisations and other actors of civil society to combating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance throughout Europe;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 37

We therefore commit ourselves to support non-governmental organisations, strengthening the dialogue with them, with the social partners and other actors in civil society and to involve them more closely in elaborating and implementing policies and programmes designed to combat racism and xenophobia;

NGOs and youth; Victims of aggravated or multiple discrimination; DECL/Santiago, para. 63

Recognize the fundamental role of civil society in the fight against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, in particular by helping Governments develop regulations and strategies against such forms of discrimination and follow up implementation;

NGOs and youth; Victims of aggravated or multiple discrimination; DECL/Santiago, para. 64

Also recognize that international exchange and dialogue among young people is an important element of building intercultural understanding and respect, and will contribute to the elimination of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

NGOs and youth; Victims of aggravated or multiple discrimination; DECL/Santiago, para. 65

Stress the particular importance of involving the young people of the Americas in the preparatory process leading to the World Conference, note the importance of paying special attention to new manifestations of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance to which they might be exposed. Underline the usefulness of involving young people in the development of forward-looking national, regional and international strategies and in policies to fight racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

DECL/Tehran, para. 47

Recognize the important role played by civil society in the fight against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance by proposing strategies against such forms of discrimination and assisting Governments in their implementation;

DECL/Tehran, para. 48

Also recognize that international exchange and dialogue among youth is an important element in building intercultural understanding and respect and will contribute to the elimination of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

IV. PROVISION OF EFFECTIVE REMEDIES, RECOURSE, REDRESS, [COMPENSATORY] AND OTHER MEASURES AT THE NATIONAL, REGIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL LEVELS

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 3

Reaffirm that all persons are equal before the law and are entitled to the equal protection of the law;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 4

Reaffirm that full and effective implementation of all human rights without any discrimination or distinction, as enshrined in European and other international human rights instruments, must be secured;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 5

Reaffirm that racism and racial discrimination are serious violations of human rights in the contemporary world and must be combated by all lawful means;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 8

Equal dignity of all human beings and the rule of law must be respected and equality of opportunity promoted;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 27

We note with satisfaction the key role of the Council of Europe in combating racism, xenophobia, antisemitism and intolerance as affirmed at the highest political level and demonstrated by:

- the European Convention on Human Rights and its additional Protocols, as well as the European Court of Human Rights and its case law;
- the adoption by the Committee of Ministers of Protocol No. 12 to the Convention, which introduces a general prohibition of discrimination;
- the Organisation's other human rights and legal instruments providing for equality and non-discrimination, including the Framework Convention for the Protection of National Minorities;
- the action of the European Commission against Racism and Intolerance (ECRI);
- the contribution of the Commissioner for Human Rights;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 28

We note with satisfaction the European Union's commitment to combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance across the range of its policies, notably through the European Monitoring Centre on Racism and Xenophobia, the anti-discrimination regulations in the Treaty establishing the European Community and other relevant EC legislation, in particular Council Directive 2000/43 implementing the principle of equal treatment between persons irrespective of racial or ethnic origin, as well as global activities in this regard;

Legal measures; DECL/Strasbourg, para.33

We therefore commit ourselves to take further steps, having in mind in particular the General Conclusions of the European Conference, to prevent and eliminate racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, antisemitism and related intolerance, and to monitor and evaluate such action on a regular basis. These shall include:

legal measures

- to implement fully and effectively at national level the relevant universal and European human rights instruments and to consider signing and ratifying , as soon as, and wherever, possible without reservations, those instruments for which such action has not yet been taken;
- to adopt and implement, wherever necessary, national legislation and administrative measures that expressly and specifically counter racism and prohibit racial discrimination in all spheres of public life;

- to guarantee equality to all without discrimination as to origin, by ensuring equality of opportunity;
- to assure to all victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance adequate information, support and national legal, administrative and judicial remedies;
- to bring to justice those responsible for racist acts and the violence to which they give rise, ensuring the prohibition of racial discrimination in the enjoyment of the right to freedom of expression;
- to combat all forms of expression which incite racial hatred as well as to take action against the dissemination of such material in the media in general and on the internet in particular;

DECL/Dakar, para. 19

Recall that article 6 of the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination already contains the obligation to provide effective protection and remedies for everyone against any acts of racial discrimination which violate human rights and fundamental freedoms, a principle reaffirmed by numerous subsequent human rights instruments including the basic principles and guidelines on the right to a remedy and reparation for victims of violations of international human rights and humanitarian law;

DECL/Dakar, para. 22

Express the deep conviction that the right of everyone to an effective remedy by the competent national tribunals for acts violating the fundamental human rights stipulated in article 8 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, article 6 of the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination and article 7 of the African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights undoubtedly applies to victims of racial discrimination;

Remedies/reparation/administration of justice/crimes against humanity and humanitarian law; DECL/Santiago, para. 66

Express their profound repudiation of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, particularly in penal systems and in the application of the law, as well as in the actions of institutions and individuals responsible for law enforcement, which has contributed to the fact that certain groups, including people of African descent, indigenous peoples and migrants, represent an exaggerated proportion of prisoners in penal institutions and administrative detention centres;

DECL/Dakar, para. 20

Strongly reaffirm that States which pursued racist policies or acts of racial discrimination such as slavery and colonialism should assume their moral, economic, political and legal responsibilities within their national jurisdiction and before other appropriate international mechanisms or jurisdictions and provide adequate reparation to those communities or individuals who, individually or collectively, are victims of such racist policies or acts, regardless of when or by whom they were committed;

DECL/Dakar, para. 21

Also strongly reaffirm that as a pressing requirement of justice, victims of human rights violations as a result of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance should be assured effective protection and remedies as well as legal assistance, including the right to seek and receive just and adequate reparation or satisfaction for material and moral damage as a result of violations in the implementation of human rights standards;

DECL/Dakar, para. 25

Reaffirm that all individual human rights violations and collective violations such as racial discrimination should be condemned and appropriate remedies must be provided;

DECL/Dakar, para. 27

Affirm that, by enhancing the victims' right to benefit from international recognition and protection of their right to remedies and reparation, the international community strengthens its credibility in the cause of human rights, shows faith and human solidarity with victims, survivors and future human generations and reaffirms the principles of the equality and dignity of all human beings, accountability, justice and the rule of law;

DECL/Dakar, para. 28

Also affirm in particular that the victims' right to have access to justice is of special importance to victims of racial discrimination in the light of their vulnerable situation, socially, culturally and economically, and that the principle of equality of victims in legal systems is meaningless unless it is accompanied by affirmative action;

DECL/Tehran, para. 50

Recognize that States which pursued policies or practices based on racial or national superiority, such as colonial or other forms of alien domination or foreign occupation, slavery, the slave trade and ethnic cleansing, should assume the responsibility therefor and compensate the victims of such policies or practices;

DECL/Secr, para. 21

We recognize the need to adopt and implement strictly stringent laws, administrative measures and action plans aimed at countering all forms of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and to carry out exhaustive, timely and impartial investigations of all acts of racism and racial discrimination, to penalize those responsible according to the law and to secure prompt and fair reparation for the victims;

Remedies/reparation/administration of justice/crimes against humanity and humanitarian law; DECL/Santiago, para. 67

Affirm the need to put an end to impunity for all perpetrators of grave and systematic violations of the fundamental human rights and freedoms of indigenous peoples, people of African descent, migrants and other groups and individuals who are victimized by racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance. Underscore the fact that impunity weakens the rule of law and democracy, undermines the rights of the victims and encourages the repetition of such acts;

Remedies/reparation/administration of justice/crimes against humanity and humanitarian law; DECL/Santiago, para. 68

Recall that it is the legal duty of States to carry out exhaustive, timely and impartial investigations of all acts of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia or related intolerance, to penalize those responsible according to the law and to secure prompt and fair reparation for the victims;<sup>4</sup>

DECL/Tehran, para. 51

Also recognize the need to adopt and implement strictly stringent laws, administrative measures and action plans aimed at countering all forms of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and to carry out exhaustive, timely and impartial investigations of all acts of racism and racial discrimination, to penalize those responsible according to the law and to secure prompt and fair reparation for the victims;

DECL/Secr, para. 22

We recognize the importance of national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights and ombudsman institutions in the struggle against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, and reaffirm the need for such entities to be established where they do not exist, and call upon the authorities and society in general in those countries where they are performing their tasks of protection and prevention to cooperate to the maximum extent possible;

National human rights institutions; Remedies/reparation/administration of justice/crimes against humanity and humanitarian law; DECL/Santiago, para. 69

Recognize the importance of national human rights institutions and Ombudspersons in the struggle against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, and reaffirm the need for such entities to be established where there are none, and the need for maximum cooperation by the authorities and society in general in those countries where they are performing their tasks of protection and prevention;

DECL/Dakar, para. 23

Commend the work of national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights in Africa established in compliance with the Paris Principles, especially their role in raising awareness through human rights education and training at the national level and in facilitating protection from and prevention of human rights violations, especially racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and all forms of racially motivated violence;

DECL/Dakar, para. 24

Encourage the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights to continue its support for those African States that are in the process of establishing national institutions by providing training and resources, and strongly advise African States that have not yet done so to consider establishing effective and independent national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights;

DECL/Tehran, para. 52

Further recognize the importance of national human rights institutions, Ombudspersons and other similar entities in the struggle against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and reaffirm the need for such entities to be established where they do not exist, and the need, as provided by law, for the authorities and society in general, to cooperate with such institutions to the maximum extent, in those countries where they do exist;

Reconciliation; Remedies/reparation/administration of justice/crimes against humanity and humanitarian law; DECL/Santiago, para. 70

Acknowledge that the enslavement and other forms of servitude of Africans and their descendants and of the indigenous peoples of the Americas, as well as the slave trade, were morally reprehensible, in some cases constituted crimes under domestic law and, if they occurred today, would constitute crimes under international law. Acknowledge that these practices have resulted in substantial and lasting economic, political and cultural damage to these peoples and that justice now requires that substantial national and international efforts be made to repair such damage. Such reparation should be in the form of policies, programmes and measures to be adopted by the States which benefited materially from these practices, and designed to rectify the economic, cultural and political damage which has been inflicted on the affected communities and peoples;<sup>5</sup>

<sup>5</sup> Canada and the United States of America did not agree to the inclusion of this paragraph. For the text of their interventions, see Annex IV of the report.

DECL/Dakar, para. 18

Also affirm that this recognition would be meaningless without an explicit apology by the former colonial powers or their successors for those human rights violations, and that this apology should be duly reflected in the final outcome of the World Conference against Racism, Racial Discrimination, Xenophobia and Related Intolerance;

DECL/Dakar, para. 29

Note that other groups which were subjected to other scourges and injustices have received repeated apologies from different countries, as well as ample reparations, on a bilateral basis, from both public and private sources and lately through certain international organizations;

---

Remedies/reparation/administration of justice/crimes against humanity and humanitarian law; Crimes against humanity; DECL/Santiago, para. 71

Recall that, pursuant to international law, persecution of a group or community with a particular identity for racial or ethnic motives, as well as institutionalized racism, are serious violations of human rights and, in some cases, may qualify as crimes against humanity;

Humanitarian law; Remedies/reparation/administration of justice/crimes against humanity and humanitarian law; DECL/Santiago, para. 72

Reaffirm that racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance are practices that need to be addressed equally in times of peace and in times of armed conflict and note that States and the international community should remain especially vigilant during periods of armed conflict and continue to combat all forms of racial discrimination;

---

Policy measures; DECL/Strasbourg, para. 34

We therefore commit ourselves:

- to establish national policies and action plans to combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, antisemitism and related intolerance, including through the creation of independent specialised national institutions with competence in this field, or reinforcing such existing institutions;

- to pay specific attention to the treatment of persons belonging to vulnerable groups and to persons who suffer discrimination on multiple grounds;
- to integrate a gender perspective in policies and action to combat racism with a view to empowering women belonging to vulnerable groups to claim respect for their rights in all spheres of public and private life;
- to create conditions for the promotion and protection of the ethnic, cultural, linguistic and religious identity of persons belonging to national minorities where such minorities exist;
- to counter social exclusion and marginalisation, in particular by providing equal access to education, employment and housing;
- to ensure the development of specific measures, which actively involve the host society and encourage respect for cultural diversity, to promote fair treatment for non-nationals and to facilitate their integration into social, cultural, political and economic life;
- to pay increased attention to the non-discriminatory treatment of non-nationals detained by public authorities;
- to reflect on the effective access of all members of the community, including members of vulnerable groups, to the decision-making processes in society, in particular at local level;
- to develop effective policies and implementation mechanisms and exchange good practices for the full achievement of equality for Roma/Gypsies and Travellers;

DECL/Tehran, para. 53

Reaffirm that racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance need to be addressed both in times of peace and during armed conflict, and note that States and the international community should be especially vigilant during periods of armed conflict and continue to combat all forms of racial discrimination;

DECL/Tehran, para. 54

Recall that freedom from discrimination on the ground of race of race is a fundamental principle of international humanitarian law and urge all parties to armed conflicts to abide scrupulously by the rules laid down in this body of law prohibiting adverse distinction;

V. STRATEGIES TO ACHIEVE FULL AND EFFECTIVE EQUALITY, INCLUDING INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION AND ENHANCEMENT OF THE UNITED NATIONS AND OTHER INTERNATIONAL MECHANISMS IN COMBATING RACISM, RACIAL DISCRIMINATION, XENOPHOBIA AND RELATED INTOLERANCE, AND FOLLOW-UP

DECL/Secr, para. 8

We believe that the spirit of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and of the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action should guide the pursuit of equality and non-discrimination in all countries and societies. We affirm that the implementation of economic, social and cultural rights alongside civil and political rights must become the highest priority of Governments, reflecting the aspirations of the peoples of the world;

Other victims of racism ; DECL/Santiago, para. 50

Consider that States should avoid discriminatory practices of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance in employment and occupation by promoting the application and observance of international instruments and norms on workers' rights, and should continue to work to protect the rights of workers who are particularly vulnerable to racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

Regional and international cooperation/regional and international instruments;
DECL/Santiago, para. 74

Express our determination to promote the application of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination, and other instruments, signed and ratified by States, that oppose and combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

DECL/Tehran, para. 56

Recall the importance of international cooperation to promote (a) the achievement of the objectives of the fight against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance; (b) the effective implementation of international treaties and instruments that forbid these practices; and, (c) the implementation of the United Nations and of States' obligations in this regard;

DECL/Tehran, para. 57

Reiterate our determination to promote respect for the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the Vienna Declaration and Plan of Action and the implementation by States parties of the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination and other related instruments that oppose and combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 26

We note with satisfaction the contribution of the United Nations, in particular through the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination and the action of its High Commissioner for Human Rights in combating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 30

We note with satisfaction the contribution of the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE), including the activities of its High Commissioner on National Minorities, its Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights and its Representative on Freedom of the Media;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 38

We therefore commit ourselves to consider how best to reinforce European bodies active in combating racism, discrimination and related intolerance, in particular the European Commission against Racism and Intolerance;

DECL/Strasbourg, para. 39

We therefore commit ourselves to enhance co-operation between relevant European and international institutions so as mutually to reinforce their respective action to combat racism.

Regional and international cooperation/regional and international instruments;
DECL/Santiago, para. 73

Recall the importance of international cooperation to promote (a) the achievement of the objectives of the fight against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance; (b) the effective implementation of international treaties and instruments that forbid these practices and (c) the implementation of United Nations and States' obligations in this regard;

Regional and international cooperation/regional and international instruments;
DECL/Santiago, para. 75

Recognize that a world-wide strategy against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance can only succeed with the cooperation of States, international organizations, the international financial institutions, regional organizations, non-governmental organizations, individuals and communities. Such success requires specifically taking into consideration the opinions and demands of the victims of such discrimination;

Regional and international cooperation/regional and international instruments
DECL/Santiago, para. 76

Stress the need to promote regional mechanisms to improve substantially the economic, social and cultural situation of the victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

DECL/Tehran, para. 55

Express our solidarity with the peoples of Africa in their continuing struggle against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and recognize the sacrifices made by them as well as their efforts in raising international public awareness of this inhuman tragedy;

DECL/Tehran, para. 58

Recognize that a worldwide strategy formulated by States against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance can only succeed with the cooperation of States, regional and international organizations, non-governmental organizations, individuals and communities; the formulation of such a strategy should take into consideration the opinions and demands of the victims of such discrimination.

DECL/Secr, para. 24

Rallying to the call by the General Assembly for concrete recommendations on ways to increase the effectiveness of the activities and mechanisms of the United Nations through programmes aimed at combating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, we commend a Programme of Action for Equality and Non-Discrimination, grounded in actions at the national, regional and international levels, to be reviewed in five years. The bedrock for the Programme of Action is the opening article of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights which proudly declares that all human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights and that they are endowed with reason and conscience and should act towards one another in a spirit of sisterhood and brotherhood. A key to equality lies in article 28 of the Universal Declaration which calls for a social and international order in which the rights and freedoms in the Declaration can be fully realized;

DECL/Secr, para. 25

We are also guided by the invitation extended by the General Assembly for concrete recommendations for ensuring that the United Nations has the financial and other necessary resources for its action to combat racism, racial discrimination and related intolerance

PROGRAMME OF ACTION

I. SOURCES, CAUSES, FORMS AND CONTEMPORARY MANIFESTATIONS OF RACISM, RACIAL DISCRIMINATION, XENOPHOBIA AND RELATED INTOLERANCE

POA/Tehran, para. 9

Urge all actors on the international scene to build an international order based on inclusion, justice and equity, mutual understanding and respect and to reject outdated doctrines of exclusion based on racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance;

Legal measures; Measures at the national level; POA/Secr, para. 4

The World Conference urges the promotion of forms of good governance based on the principles of the rule of law, equality and non-discrimination and that reflect the full diversity of a given State. A model code of conduct should be developed for political parties so that their members refrain from public utterances that could encourage racism and racist sentiment among the public.

Role of politicians and political parties; Policies and practices; POA/Strasbourg, para.

22

The European Conference underlines the key role that politicians and political parties can play in combating racism, xenophobia, antisemitism and related intolerance, by shaping and leading public opinion. In this respect, it calls upon politicians to provide a clear political message welcoming diversity in European societies and condemning political discourse which incites or attempts to incite racial and ethnic hatred or prejudice. It encourages political parties in Europe to take concrete steps to promote solidarity, tolerance and respect and to explain issues to the general public in such a way as to increase understanding and acceptance of difference. Such steps may include:

- to sign the Charter of European political parties for a non-racist society and follow its principles concerning responsible behaviour on issues of racism, both with regard to the parties' own organisation and to their activities in the political field (see Appendix III);
- to include anti-racist policies in election programmes and to condemn racist exploitation of issues such as immigration and asylum for electoral purposes, ensuring that any candidate for elected office is committed to anti-racist policies;
- to refuse any support, explicit or implicit, to parties that advocate racist and xenophobic positions.

Democracy and political rights/tolerant societies and mutual respect; POA/Santiago, para. 82

Stress that democratic development and promotion of the rule of law constitute fundamental premises for eradicating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, since the building of societies that are more democratic and more respectful of human rights will help to overcome the institutionalized discriminatory practices and others that still persist in the States of the Americas;

Democracy and political rights/tolerant societies and mutual respect; POA/Santiago, para. 83

Urge States to reaffirm their democratic commitment and take the necessary legislative, administrative and judicial measures, in accordance with their obligations under regional and international human rights instruments, to condemn and actively discourage all forms of propaganda, publicity, organizations, associations, political parties or groups inspired by ideas or theories of the superiority of one race or ethnic group and that seek to justify or promote racial hatred, xenophobia or racial discrimination;

POA/Dakar, para. 10

States should ensure the enactment of legislation declaring illegal and prohibiting all political platforms, organizations and propaganda activities which promote and incite racial discrimination and recognizing that participation in such organizations is an offence punishable by law.

POA/Tehran, para. 5

Urge States to adopt and implement strictly stringent laws against political platform and ideologies based on racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance or doctrines of racial or national superiority;

---

POA/Tehran, para. 24

Special attention should be paid to research into the impact of racial discrimination on the enjoyment of those rights, and to the publication of the conclusions.

Remedies POA/Secr, para. 81

The World Conference affirms that the establishment of more effective measures against racial discrimination should include recognition of the need for a package of preventive and deterrent measures. Cultural change to be achieved through educational programmes must be in the forefront of preventive measures but deterrent measures are equally essential, for example: (a) adoption of a law against racial discrimination and its incorporation into national legislation; such a law could be modelled on United Nations publication HR/PUB/96/2; (b) extension of legislative measures prohibiting racial discrimination in all areas of the public and private sectors, including employment, training, education, housing, provision of goods and services, immigration policy, the administration of justice, and law and order; (c) enactment of legislation providing for adequate civil compensation of victims of racial discrimination. The World Conference urges all Governments to conduct nationwide campaigns to raise awareness among State organs, such as the judiciary, and law enforcement agencies, public officials, including legislators, as well as civil society organizations, including associations involved with migrants and other vulnerable groups, concerning the provisions of the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination.

Education, training and public information POA/Secr, para. 15

States should intensify their efforts in the field of education to promote the consciousness of the evil of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, in order to ensure the respect for the dignity and worth of all human beings. Pupils should be given information about how to deal with racist incidents in schools. Innovative measures, such as pupils acting as peer mediators to address issues of racial violence, should be examined.

The European Conference notes that young people from targeted groups are often underrepresented in institutions of higher education and calls for research to be undertaken into barriers to access in this respect.

School and other formal education; Education and awareness-raising, POA/Strasbourg, para. 36

The European Conference recognises that children from different cultural backgrounds may have little knowledge of each other's traditions and family life, which may lead to stereotyping and misinformation. Participating States are urged to promote an increase of knowledge of cultural diversity, for example by facilitating exchange programmes for children in families of different cultural background, in order to overcome ignorance of the lifestyles of others.

To provide a sustained and coordinated approach to raising awareness, in schools, among professional groups and the general public, the European Conference notes that creating a source of training expertise in combating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, antisemitism and related intolerance - possibly locating such a source within an existing specialised body - could provide an effective anti-discrimination mechanism. This training expertise should be developed in consultation with targeted groups and should seek to recruit people from targeted groups as trainers.

Role of non-governmental organisations; Education and awareness-raising, POA/Strasbourg, para. 46

The European Conference welcomes the catalytic role that non-governmental organisations have played in promoting human rights education and raising awareness about racism. It recognises the precarious situation of human rights and anti-racist NGOs in many countries and urges States to lift unnecessary barriers to the functioning of civil society. It calls upon participating States to strengthen co-operation with non-governmental organisations, harnessing their experience and expertise in developing governmental legislation, policies and other initiatives. It also calls upon participating States to provide financial support to human rights education and awareness activities of non-governmental organisations, without compromising their independence.

The Media POA/Secr, para 24

The World Conference recognizes that media should represent the diversity of multicultural society.

The Media POA/Secr, para 25

The World Conference urges States to prevent, by all appropriate means, stereotyping of any ethnic, racial, national, cultural and linguistic group and to encourage objective and balanced portrayals of people, events and history, especially in the media, recognizing the profound influence that such portrayals have on societal perception of groups whose members are frequently victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance.

The Media POA/Secr, para 26

The World Conference draws attention to the power of advertising. In this context, it underlines the usefulness of establishing a code of conduct in the advertising sector which prohibits discrimination on such grounds as race, national or ethnic origin and religion. It furthermore considers that advertisers should also refuse to carry advertising messages which portray cultural, religious or ethnic difference in a negative manner, including by reinforcing sexist or other stereotypes and prejudices.

The Media POA/Secr, para 27

The World Conference urges the media to recognize the value of cultural diversity and to take concrete measures to ensure that marginalized communities have access to the media through, inter alia, the presentation of programmes that reflect the cultures and languages of minority communities, and to ensure that members of groups which are victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance are adequately represented at all levels of their organizational structure.

The Media POA/Secr, para 28

The international media through its relevant associations and organizations at both regional and international levels should consider the elaboration of an ethical code of conduct with a view to prohibiting the proliferation of ideas of racial superiority, justification of racial hatred and discrimination in any form and promoting respect and tolerance among all peoples and human beings.

Information and communication; Information, communication and the media; POA/Strasbourg, para. 47

Information is crucial to the exercise of rights and the principle of transparency. In this respect, the European Conference encourages participating States to set up a service providing free access to public sources of information on the rights of persons who consider themselves victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, antisemitism and related intolerance.

Information and communication; Information, communication and the media; POA/Strasbourg, para. 48

Research, analysis and dissemination of information are also essential to the elaboration of policy and decision-making. The European Conference encourages participating States to collect, record and analyse data concerning racism and related intolerance from a broad range of sources, while endeavouring to establish common indicators and criteria at European level to enable data comparison. Since access to data and transparency in its collection also encourage confidence about the data itself, the European Conference requests participating States to publish and disseminate widely the findings of research into racism and related phenomena. The European Conference furthermore notes that such research can also be conducted in co-operation with European and international institutions and non-governmental organisations. It encourages participating States to take fully into account the recommendations of appropriate monitoring mechanisms at national, European and international levels, including the country-specific approach of the European Commission against Racism and Intolerance (ECRI). In particular, it invites States Parties to the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination to publicise widely their periodic reports to the Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination, as well as the conclusions and recommendations of the Committee following the consideration of these reports.

Information and communication; Information, communication and the media; POA/Strasbourg, para. 49

The European Conference recognises that networks of information are an important tool in the fight against racism and xenophobia. It therefore encourages participating States to organise and support initiatives for regular exchanges of information at local, regional, national and European level as well as to facilitate the role of non-governmental organisations in this respect. It notes that women and men belonging to targeted groups have taken a leading role in networking activities of non-governmental organisations, thus contributing to the empowerment of their groups. All participating States should recognise the importance of community media, in particular community radio, that give a voice to women and men from targeted groups.

Media as a reflection of society; Information, communication and the media; POA/Strasbourg, para. 50

The European Conference recognises that media should represent the diversity of multicultural society.

It considers that media enterprises and journalists organisations could reflect on:<sup>2</sup>

- the importance of the recruitment and presence of journalists from targeted groups in mainstream media, especially television;
- an inclusive coverage of society, using diverse sources of information;
- reporting factually and accurately on acts of racism and intolerance;
- avoiding derogatory stereotypical depiction based on individuals' origins in publications and programme services;
- treating individual behaviour without linking it to a person's origin where this is irrelevant;
- depicting society in its cultural, ethnic and religious diversity in a balanced and objective manner and in a way which also reflects the perspectives and outlook of targeted groups;
- presenting a view of cultural diversity and immigration as a structural and positive component of European societies;
- opening the broadcasting system and programmes for intercultural issues;
- alerting public opinion to the dangers of intolerance as well as deepening public understanding and appreciation of all forms of diversity;
- challenging the assumptions underlying racist or xenophobic remarks made by speakers in the course of interviews, reports, discussion programmes, etc;

- developing a multicultural approach to output specifically geared to children and young people so as to enable them to grow up with the understanding that society is enriched by differences.

Advertising; Information, communication and the media; POA/Strasbourg, para. 53

The European Conference draws attention to the power of advertising. In this context, it underlines the usefulness of establishing a code of conduct in the advertising sector which prohibits discrimination on such grounds as race, national or ethnic origin and religion. POA/Santiago, para. 168

Urge the media to recognize the value of cultural diversity and to take concrete measures to ensure that marginalized communities have access to the media through, inter alia, the presentation of programmes that reflect the cultures and languages of minority communities, and to ensure that members of groups which are victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance are adequately represented at all levels of their organizational structure;

POA/Dakar, para. 8

The Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights should disseminate, in the most accessible manner, through its website and other appropriate means, all the remedies available through international mechanisms to victims of racial discrimination, as well as the national remedies, hopefully enhanced and developed in implementation of the Programme of Action to be adopted by the World Conference.

POA/Dakar, para. 9

The international media, through their relevant associations and organizations at both regional and international levels, should consider the elaboration of an ethical code of conduct with a view to prohibiting the proliferation of ideas of superiority, justification of racial hatred and discrimination in any form and promoting mutual respect and tolerance among all peoples and human beings.

Internet POA/Secr, para 23

The World Conference welcomes the positive contribution the Internet can bring in combating racism through rapid and wide-reaching communication. It calls upon States to examine ways in which the Internet can be used systematically, for example through the creation of a specific site, to provide information about good practices for combating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, anti-Semitism and related intolerance. It also draws attention to the potential use of the Internet to create educational and awareness-raising networks against racism and intolerance, both in and out of school.

Measures at the international levels POA/Secr, para 104

It also draws attention to the potential use of the internet to create educational and awareness-raising networks against racism and intolerance, both in and out of school.

Combating hate speech and racist material on the internet; Information, communication and the media; POA/Strasbourg, para. 55

While recognising the specific characteristics of the internet, and the obstacles these entail for combating the dissemination of racism on the internet, the European Conference urges participating States to apply to the extent possible existing legislation for prosecuting those responsible for incitement to racial hatred on the internet and their accomplices. It further recommends the training of law enforcement authorities in addressing the problem of dissemination of racist material through the internet.

Combating hate speech and racist material on the internet ; Information, communication and the media; POA/Strasbourg, para. 56

The European Conference draws the attention of participating States to the need to coordinate a prompt international response to the rapidly evolving phenomenon of the dissemination of hate speech and racist material on the internet. In this respect, it calls for international judicial co-operation to be strengthened and rapid intervention mechanisms to be agreed. More specifically, the European Conference draws to the attention of participating States, with a view to their individual and joint action:

- the need to distinguish between the function of access provider and host provider and their respective responsibilities;
- the importance of including the issue of combating racism, xenophobia, antisemitism and intolerance in all current and future work at international level aimed at the suppression of illegal content on the internet;
- the need for dialogue with all providers, in order to discuss voluntary measures to counter racist sites: such measures could include blocking sites, a filtering system or refusing anonymity to the authors of sites;
- the need to develop codes of conduct and self-regulatory measures among access and host providers.

Combating hate speech and racist material on the internet ; Information, communication and the media; POA/Strasbourg, para. 57

The European Conference furthermore draws the attention of participating States to the need for more active awareness-raising among decision-makers concerning the problem of the dissemination of racist messages through the internet.

Internet; Prevention: education, public information, media and the Internet; POA/Santiago, para. 169

NGO and Youth Activities POA/Secr, para. 35

The World Conference calls upon States, in partnership with non-governmental organizations, civil society and the private sector, to facilitate an international youth dialogue on racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, through the World Youth Forum of the United Nations system and through the use of new technologies, exchanges and other means.

NGO and Youth Activities POA/Secr, para. 36

By virtue of their independent status, non-governmental organizations, individually and collectively, have an important contribution to make. Through various activities sponsored by them, non-governmental organizations can be effective in identifying and publicizing areas of racial discrimination which otherwise may not come to light, and in helping to create greater practical understanding among young people of the importance of actively combating all forms of discrimination, in their own countries as well as in the international community.

NGO and Youth Activities POA/Secr, para. 37

Non-governmental organizations have the opportunity to create and sustain awareness among their members and in society at large regarding the evils of racism and racial discrimination. Such awareness can be transmitted from a nation to an international organization with all the added benefits of the concrete experience of a particular country. Governments should therefore ensure that non-governmental organizations are enabled to function freely and openly within their societies and thereby make an effective contribution to the elimination of racism and racial discrimination throughout the world.

Co-operation at European and International levels; POA/Strasbourg, para. 59

The European Conference calls upon participating States to include in their national delegations to the World Conference against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance women and youth, as well as to ensure transparency in the constitution of their delegations.

IV. PROVISION OF EFFECTIVE REMEDIES, RECOURSE, REDRESS, [COMPENSATORY] AND OTHER MEASURES AT THE NATIONAL, REGIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL LEVELS

Remedies POA/Secr, para. 82

States are urged, with regard to the procedural remedies provided for in their domestic law, to bear in mind the following considerations: (a) access to such remedies should be as wide as possible; (b) the existing procedural remedies must be made known in the context of the relevant action, and victims of racial discrimination should be helped to avail themselves of them in accordance with the particular case; (c) complaints of racial discrimination must be settled as rapidly as possible, a reasonable time-limit being set for the relevant inquiries; (d) indigent persons who are victims of racial discrimination should receive free legal assistance and aid in the complaint proceedings and, where necessary, provided with the help of an interpreter in civil and criminal cases; (e) States should be urged to create national bodies competent to investigate allegations of racial discrimination; (f) steps should be taken towards the enactment of legislation to penalize discriminatory practices on grounds of race or ethnic origin and provide for adequate compensation of the victims; (g) access to legal remedies should be facilitated for victims of discrimination and the legal capacity of non-governmental institutions or organizations to intervene on their behalf should be recognized by means of legislative reforms; programmes to enable the most vulnerable groups to have access to the legal system should be prepared.

Remedies POA/Secr, para. 83

The World Conference urges States to work with law enforcement agencies in designing, implementing and enforcing effective programmes to prevent, detect and ensure accountability for incidents of police misconduct motivated by race or ethnic origin, to prosecute such police misconduct and to eliminate “racial profiling” by law enforcement officials.

Remedies POA/Secr, para. 84

The World Conference urges States to provide appropriate assistance to victims of hate crimes and public education to prevent future incidents. It urges States to give special attention, when promoting and implementing legislative and judicial policies designed to give workers adequate protection, to the serious situation of lack of protection and, in some cases, the exploitation of groups vulnerable to racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, a situation that allows or facilitates confinement, as in the case of domestic workers and dangerous and badly paid jobs.

Remedies POA/Secr, para. 85

The World Conference urges States to avoid the negative effects of discriminatory practices, racism and xenophobia in employment and occupation by promoting the application and observance of international instruments and norms on workers’ rights, including the Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work of the International Labour Organization. It also urges States to continue their efforts to protect the rights of workers who are particularly vulnerable to racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance.

Remedies POA/Secr, para. 86

The World Conference urges States to design, promote and implement effective legislative and administrative policies against the serious situation experienced by certain groups of workers who are vulnerable to racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, including persons involved in prostitution and others who may be exploited or victims of illegal trafficking.

Remedies POA/Secr, para. 87

The World Conference invites States to consider reforms to their systems for the administration of justice in order to provide free legal assistance, where appropriate, to victims of discrimination so that legal action can be initiated to permit the prosecution and punishment of the perpetrators of such acts.

Remedies POA/Secr, para. 88

The World Conference urges States to adopt the necessary measures to ensure the rights of victims, in particular the right to an effective judicial remedy and to prompt, adequate and fair reparation for acts of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, and effective measures designed to prevent the resurgence of such acts. In this regard, the World Conference invites the Commission on Human Rights to consider the suggestion put forward at the African Regional Conference with regard to a possible international compensation scheme and a development reparation fund.

Legal protection; POA/Strasbourg, Para. 1

The European Conference reaffirms that acts of racism and racial discrimination are serious violations of human rights and should be combated by all lawful means.

General and comprehensive anti-discrimination legislation at national level; Legal protection; POA/Strasbourg, Para. 8

For purposes of effectively combating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance in the civil, political, economic, social and cultural fields, the European Conference recommends to all participating States that the national legislative framework in criminal, civil and administrative law should expressly and specifically prohibit discrimination on grounds of actual or presumed racial, ethnic or national origin, religion and belief and provide effective judicial and other remedies or redress, including through the designation of national, independent, specialised bodies. Such legislation should embrace the concepts of direct and indirect discrimination. It should cover such areas as employment, education, housing, health care, social protection and social security, social benefits, access to the supply of goods and services and to public places as well as access to citizenship. This legislation should clearly cover the functions of public bodies and authorities such as law enforcement personnel, judges and prosecutors, other components in the criminal justice system, local authority enforcement powers, health and safety bodies, child protection, detention under mental health legislation and tax collection, as well as the private sector.

Application of the law and provision of effective remedies; Legal protection; POA/Strasbourg, para. 9

To reinforce protection against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, the European Conference calls upon participating States to ensure that all persons have access to effective and adequate remedies and enjoy the right to seek from competent tribunals just and adequate reparation or satisfaction for any damage suffered as a result of such discrimination.

Application of the law and provision of effective remedies; Legal protection; POA/Strasbourg, para. 10

In improving the effectiveness of criminal law in combating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, the European Conference draws attention to a number of measures participating States could consider. These may include:

- ensuring the criminal prosecution of offences of a racist or xenophobic nature is given a high priority and is actively and consistently undertaken. In this connection, the European Conference underlines the importance of fostering awareness and providing training to the various agents in the criminal justice system to ensure the fair and impartial application of the law;
- ensuring that racist and xenophobic acts are stringently punished, by allowing the racist or xenophobic motives of the offender to be specifically taken into account;
- in accordance with relevant international instruments, and in particular Articles 10 and 11 of the European Convention on Human Rights, ensuring that appropriate and efficient measures are taken to combat racist organisations, as well as to criminalize oral, written, audio-visual and other forms of expression, inciting to hatred, discrimination or violence against targeted groups or persons because of their actual or presumed racial, ethnic or national origin or religion;
- making the offence of Holocaust-denial punishable;
- empowering courts to impose, in addition to the main penalty, ancillary penalties such as fines or community service;
- prosecuting acts of a racist or xenophobic nature ex officio;
- allowing complainants of racist and xenophobic acts to opt for mediation in criminal cases, particularly where the parties are individuals.

Application of the law and provision of effective remedies; Legal protection; POA/Strasbourg, para. 11

The European Conference underlines the importance of access to the law and to the courts for complainants of racism and racial discrimination. With this in mind, it draws attention to the need for judicial and other remedies such legislation should provide to be widely known, easily accessible, expeditious, and not unduly complicated. Among particular measures the European Conference proposes participating States should consider are:

- in certain circumstances, shifting the burden of proof to the defendant in non-penal proceedings - when the plaintiff has established factual evidence of less favourable treatment caused by apparent discrimination;
- ensuring that adequate legal assistance, including legal aid, is available to complainants of discrimination when seeking a legal remedy;
- ensuring the protection against victimisation of complainants of and witnesses to discrimination;
- affording the possibility for non-governmental organisations to support complainants of racism, with their consent, in legal procedures;

- promoting sustained measures to ensure that all members of targeted groups are aware of the remedies available and how to make use of them;
- informing the broader public about legislation to combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, antisemitism and religious discrimination, so that its effects in terms of access to the courts and compensation are supplemented by an educational impact on the general public;
- promoting sustained measures to ensure that persons belonging to targeted groups who have been victims of gender-related crimes, such as rape and other forms of sexual and domestic violence, forced prostitution and trafficking for the purpose of sexual exploitation, are granted adequate legal protection and support, empowered to take action and protected from racism, xenophobia and related intolerance of any form.

Application of the law and provision of effective remedies; Legal protection;

POA/Strasbourg, para. 12

The European Conference draws attention to the importance of collecting and publishing accurate data, broken down by sex and age, on the number and nature of racist and xenophobic incidents or offences, the number of cases prosecuted or the reasons for not prosecuting, and the outcome of prosecutions. The European Conference recommends in this respect that anti-discrimination monitoring services may be established.

Legal protection; POA/Strasbourg, Para. 15

The European Conference recalls that human rights and fundamental freedoms apply to all persons on the territories of all States, irrespective of their nationality or legal status. It advocates that participating States aim to ensure that non-nationals to whom residency has been granted – taking account of length of residence – can enjoy the rights necessary for full integration into the host society. It further notes that integration policies should not be subordinate to other policies such as immigration controls. When awarding nationality, participating States must take care never to discriminate on grounds of racial, ethnic or cultural origin.

Legal measures; Measures at the national level POA/Secr, para. 1

The World Conference against Racism, Racial Discrimination, Xenophobia and Related Intolerance calls upon Governments:

- To adopt and implement, wherever necessary, national legislation and administrative measures that expressly and specifically counter racism and prohibit racial discrimination in all spheres of public life;
- To guarantee equality to all without discrimination by ensuring equality of opportunity;
- To ensure that all victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance receive/have access to adequate information, support, and national legal, administrative and judicial remedies;
- To bring to justice those responsible for racist acts and the violence to which they give rise, ensuring the prohibition of racial discrimination in the enjoyment of the right to freedom of expression.

Ratification and implementation of international norms; Measures at the international level POA/Secr, para. 105

The United Nations should prepare and publicize a systematic collection of national anti-discrimination legislation, in particular with a view to informing those in authority and the public at large of legal means to combat racial discrimination in private relationships, including any available legal and other remedies

Monitoring; Policies and practices; POA/Strasbourg, para. 25

The European Conference strongly recommends monitoring all policies and programmes aimed at combating racial discrimination in order to assess their effectiveness in assisting targeted groups. All data should be broken down by sex and age, and information collected should include issues of multiple discrimination. Such statistical data may be complemented by public opinion surveys and also targeted surveys to ascertain the experience and perception of discrimination and racism from the point of view of potential complainants.

New developments at European and international levels; Legal Protection; POA/Strasbourg, para. 7

The European Conference underlines the importance of combating impunity, including for crimes with a racist or xenophobic motivation, also at international level. In this respect, it fully supports the work of the existing International Criminal Tribunals and the adoption of the Statute of the International Criminal Court. It calls upon all States which have not yet done so to sign and ratify the latter.

Role of independent specialized bodies at national, regional and local levels; Policies and practices; POA/Strasbourg, para. 21

The European Conference underlines the essential contribution of independent specialised bodies at national, regional or local levels in promoting equal treatment irrespective of racial or ethnic origin or religious background. The European Conference points to the range of functions independent specialised bodies may undertake at national, regional and local levels which further government policies in combating racism: offering opinions and advice to government bodies, monitoring the situation in the country, contributing to training programmes for certain key groups, making the general public more aware of discrimination issues and aiding and assisting complainants, including through the provision of legal assistance to enable them to enforce their rights in the courts and other institutions. In some cases, the bodies concerned may hear complaints and applications relating to individual cases and seek a settlement, either by mutual agreement or, within the limits prescribed in law, by legally-binding decisions. It calls upon participating States, as appropriate, to establish such independent specialised bodies, or, in countries where these exist, review and reinforce their effectiveness, while providing them with adequate financial resources, competence and capacity to ensure their effective functioning. It draws attention to General Policy Recommendation No. 2 of the European Commission against Racism and Intolerance (ECRI) which sets out the principles for the establishment and functioning of such bodies (see Appendix II to the General Conclusions).

Criminal justice system; Policies and practice; POA/Strasbourg, para. 23

The European Conference calls upon participating States to take practical measures to make law enforcement officials more sensitive to the situation of targeted groups in order to counter any perceived unfairness in the application of the law and discrimination in the treatment of persons belonging to such groups in the criminal justice system. Such measures may include:

- training courses to promote cultural sensitivity and awareness of prejudice, as well as knowledge of legal aspects of discrimination;
- formal and informal dialogue between the police and targeted groups, for example through confidence-building measures, thereby promoting openness, accountability and mutual trust;

- facilitating access on an equal footing of persons belonging to targeted groups to the police and their auxiliary staff, as well as other professions involved in the criminal justice system, subject to regular review so as to evaluate the levels of recruitment, promotion and retention of staff belonging to targeted groups;

National institutions; Measures at the national level POA/Secr, para. 5

The World Conference urges all Governments to establish, where none exist, and to strengthen, where they do exist, human rights bodies (public defenders, human rights attorneys, ombudsmen, etc.). These bodies should have the following characteristics: (a) they must conform to the principles regarding the status of national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights (the “Paris principles”); (b) they must have a unit specialized in racial discrimination; (c) they must have a broad mandate in terms of both issues and capabilities; (d) they must be visible and accessible to the population; (e) they must be able to initiate investigations, issue recommendations and institute legal proceedings in cases of racial discrimination; (f) their personnel must be representative of the population they serve.

The World Conference:

(a) Urges States to include or reinforce, as part of the mandate of the ombudsman or equivalent institution, jurisdiction over cases of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, as well as foster cooperation of these institutions with other national institutions;

(b) Urges States to take steps to ensure that national human rights institutions reflect the diversity of the country and population, and to ensure that members of groups which are victims of or vulnerable to racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance can participate fully in these institutions;

(c) Urges States to support national human rights institutions or similar bodies responsible for combating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, inter alia by promoting quantitative, qualitative and gender-sensitive research on the subject with the participation of those being researched, the publication and circulation of existing national laws and jurisprudence, and cooperation with institutions in other countries so that knowledge can be gained of the manifestations, functioning and mechanisms of these practices and the strategies designed to prevent, combat and eradicate them;

(d) Also urges States to ensure that national human rights institutions and public institutions responsible for combating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, inter alia, have within their competence the capacity to receive, investigate and mediate complaints and, where appropriate, to refer such complaints to the justice system for appropriate action.

Ratification and implementation of international norms; Measures at the international level POA/Secr, para. 101

The World Conference:

(a) Urges States to take the necessary measures to ensure respect for their obligations under international humanitarian law, particularly those relating to discrimination on the basis of race, colour, descent or national or ethnic origin;

(b) Urges States that have not yet done so to consider acceding, as a matter of urgency and without reservations, to the Geneva Conventions on the protection of victims of war of 12 August 1949 and the two Additional Protocols thereto of 1977, as well as to other treaties of international humanitarian law and to enact, with priority, appropriate legislation, taking the measures required to give full effect to their obligations under international humanitarian law, in particular in relation to the rules prohibiting discrimination.

Acceptance and full implementation of relevant international legal instruments; Legal Protection; POA/Strasbourg, para. 4

The European Conference recognises the need to provide effective protection from acts or situations involving racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance also in times of armed conflict. It stresses the importance of international humanitarian law, which contains many specific non-discrimination rules binding on parties to an armed conflict.

Humanitarian Law; Remedies/reparation/administration of justice/crimes against humanity and humanitarian law; POA/Santiago, para. 199

Urge States to take the necessary measures to ensure respect for their obligations under international humanitarian law, particularly those relating to discrimination on the basis of race, colour, descent or national or ethnic origin;

Humanitarian Law; Remedies/reparation/administration of justice/crimes against humanity and humanitarian law; POA/Santiago, para. 200

Urge States that have not yet done so to consider acceding, as a matter of urgency, and without reservations, to the 1949 Geneva Conventions and their two Additional Protocols of 1977, as well as to other treaties of international humanitarian law and to enact, with priority, appropriate legislation, taking the measures required to give full effect to their obligations under international humanitarian law, in particular in relation to the rules prohibiting discrimination;

All States should carry out their obligation to respect and ensure respect for these fundamental norms.

POA/Dakar, para. 15

States should enact, as a matter of the highest priority, appropriate legislation and take other measures required to give full effect to their obligations under international humanitarian law, in particular in relation to the rules prohibiting discrimination.

POA/Dakar, para. 17

States should also take seriously their humanitarian obligations, without discriminating between the different regions of the world, with regard to the principles of international cooperation, burden-sharing and the resettlement of refugees in their countries and, in this regard, provide additional support to those African countries hosting refugees to enable them better to discharge their humanitarian obligations.

Racism and Poverty POA/Secr, para. 29

The World Conference urges States to prevent and eliminate, where they exist, racially discriminatory policies and practices in access to employment and occupation.

Racism and Poverty POA/Secr, para. 30

The World Conference urges Governments, the private business sector and international financial institutions, particularly the World Bank, to promote participation by minority groups in economic and social decision-making at all stages and levels.

Racism and Poverty POA/Secr, para. 31

The World Conference urges States in their national efforts, and in cooperation with regional and international financial institutions, to promote the use of public and private investment in order to eradicate poverty, particularly in those areas in which indigenous populations, people of African descent, migrants and other ethnic, racial, cultural, religious and linguistic groups or minorities predominately live.

Racism and Poverty POA/Secr, para. 32

The World Conference invites States to promote and support the organization and operation of enterprises owned by indigenous people, people of minority descent, migrants and other ethnic, racial, cultural, religious and linguistic groups or minorities by favouring access to credits and training programmes.

Racism and Poverty POA/Secr, para. 33

The World Conference urges States to adopt measures to provide a proper environment for disadvantaged groups, including action to reduce and eliminate industrial pollution that affects them disproportionately, to take measures to clean and redevelop contaminated sites located in or near where they live and, where appropriate, to relocate, on a voluntary basis and after consultation with those affected, racially and ethnically disadvantaged groups to other areas when there is no other practical alternative for ensuring their health and well-being.

Examining the conformity of new and existing legislation with principles of non-discrimination; Legal protection; POA/Strasbourg, para. 13

The European Conference encourages participating States to establish mechanisms for examining the conformity of draft legislation with principles of non-discrimination on the basis of race, ethnic or national origin, religion or belief, especially in relation to potentially discriminatory effects, including all forms of multiple discrimination, on persons belonging to targeted groups. Concerning existing legislation, the European Conference calls upon participating States to keep their legislative framework under regular review so as to promote equality and guard against any unintended or inadvertent discriminatory impact which may arise. Such legislative appraisal will also help to “mainstream” equality issues.

Positive obligations and impact assessment of legislation as a means of prevention; Legal protection; POA/Strasbourg, para. 14

Equal treatment by itself may not be enough if it does not overcome the weight of accumulated disadvantage suffered by persons belonging to targeted groups. The European Conference therefore calls upon participating States to consider introducing legislative and administrative measures which are necessary to prevent and correct situations of inequality. This would mean a positive duty on public authorities to promote equality and to assess the impact of policy, as well as to prevent and punish violations by any person, organisation or enterprise.

Comprehensive national strategies/action plans, to include mainstreaming the fight against racism in policies and acting in partnership with civil society; Policies and practices; POA/Strasbourg, para. 16

The European Conference believes it is essential for participating States to recognise that combating racism in all its forms, and the discrimination that ensues, is a primary responsibility of government. It therefore encourages participating States to elaborate comprehensive national policies to promote diversity, equality of opportunity and participation of persons belonging to targeted groups. In elaborating such policies, the European Conference further encourages participating States to establish, or reinforce, dialogue with non-governmental organisations, social partners and researchers and to involve them more closely in designing and implementing policies and programmes. The European Conference calls upon participating States to ensure that public funds are not awarded to companies or other organisations which are not committed to non-discriminatory policies.

Integrating a gender perspective; Policies and practices; POA/Strasbourg, para. 17

The European Conference underlines the importance of integrating a gender perspective in all actions and policies against racism, xenophobia and related intolerance, of empowering women belonging to targeted groups to demand respect for their rights in all spheres of public and private life and play an active role in the design and implementation of policies and measures which affect their lives.

Institutions in the field of employment and social affairs; Policies and practices; POA/Strasbourg, para. 24

The European Conference notes that good community relations are generally enhanced by social development and the full realisation of economic, social and cultural rights on the basis of non-discrimination. It calls upon participating States to promote policies in employment and the social sphere which seek to improve the prospects of targeted groups facing, for example, the greatest obstacles in finding, keeping or regaining work, including skilled employment. Particular attention should be paid to persons subject to multiple discrimination. The European Conference draws to the attention of participating States the following considerations:

- policies should be presented so as to enable employers and employees to recognise the benefits of equal opportunity and of diversity;
- the importance of involving the social partners and other non-governmental actors in the design and implementation of training and development programmes;
- public authorities should set an example by making sure they actively seek to recruit and retain persons belonging to targeted groups, which may require reviewing nationality requirements in some instances;
- public officials and all those involved in promoting access to employment should be trained, including by raising their awareness of the barriers to equal opportunity and intercultural sensitivity;
- persons belonging to targeted groups should have access to training, including vocational training, which improves their employability;
- governments can stimulate the development of mission statements, codes of conduct and policies on equal treatment at the workplace aimed at anti-discriminatory practices among employers, service providers and others;
- special attention should be given to protecting foreign domestic workers from discrimination and violence, as well as combating prejudice against them;
- in the field of housing, public and private authorities should promote the successful cohabitation of different social groups at the planning stage of urban development schemes as well as renovate neglected areas of public housing so as to counter social exclusion;
- public authorities should guarantee equal access to health and counselling services without discrimination.
