Overall orientation

21.1 The General Assembly, by its resolution 302 (IV) of 8 December 1949, established the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) as a separate entity within the United Nations system and mandated it to provide continued assistance for the relief of Palestine refugees. Since starting its work in 1950, UNRWA has become the largest operational agency in the Middle East, demonstrating its capacity to adapt and enhance its programmes as required to meet the evolving needs of refugees and to cope with developments in the region. It stands ready to continue doing so during the biennium 2006-2007 in accordance with the triennial mandate it receives from the General Assembly, the most recent of which was resolution 56/52 of 10 December 2001, by which the Assembly extended UNRWA's mandate until June 2005.

21.2 UNRWA reports directly to the General Assembly. Overall review of UNRWA programmes and activities is undertaken by the 10-member Advisory Commission, which includes representatives of the Agency's major donors and host Governments.

21.3 The strategic objectives of UNRWA for the biennium 2006-2007 are to sustain its investment in the human resources of Palestine refugees, to support the social and economic development of their communities and to provide targeted relief and support for refugees experiencing special hardship. The Agency also provides emergency assistance to vulnerable refugee communities in situations of acute distress. Beginning in 2000, over and above its regular services to refugees, the Agency provided emergency assistance to over 1.2 million refugees affected by the strife in the occupied Palestinian territory. It plans to continue these services as necessary. Should the strife in the occupied Palestinian territory continue or intensify, the deteriorating economic conditions of the refugees, the restrictions on the flow of goods, services and staff members and the heavy demands of emergency operations on staff will affect service provision to the refugees. Should the peace talks resume and lead to a settlement, the Agency may be asked to assume new tasks.

21.4 During 2006-2007, UNRWA will also provide, on an exceptional basis, services to the non-refugee poor living within refugee communities, in keeping with past practice. Under the responsibility of its Commissioner-General, UNRWA aims to achieve its objectives by maintaining provision of a targeted blend of education, health, relief, social, and microfinance services to eligible Palestine refugees. Eligible registered Palestine refugees, who are located in Jordan, Lebanon, the Syrian Arab Republic, the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, are projected to number some 4.4 million in 2006. Gender issues remain a major concern of the Agency in all its programme areas. In 2006-2007 UNRWA will build on key achievements in this area by further developing its gender-mainstreaming practices. A key activity in this regard is the development and implementation, during the biennium 2004-2005, of an Agency-wide gender strategy, through which the Agency expects to realize identifiable accomplishments in 2006-2007.

21.5 The Palestine refugees rely on the Agency to provide a range of basic services for their well-being. The Agency, which is entirely dependent on voluntary funding to implement its programmes, and which has contended with chronic funding shortfalls in recent years, will continue to maintain efficient and cost-conscious management and to carry out strategic planning and programme assessments, as necessary, in order to preserve the quality and scope of its services for a rapidly growing refugee population. To engage the international community on, inter alia, ensuring funding and UNRWA programme needs, the Agency is planning a major international conference to be hosted by the Government of Switzerland in June 2004. Furthermore, in early 2004, the Agency prepared a five-year strategic plan (2004-2008) to identify the activities and resources necessary to upgrade services and rehabilitate infrastructure. In each subprogramme area, including general education, technical and vocational educational training, maternal and child health care, disease prevention, poverty alleviation and microfinance, the Agency has sought to achieve programme results consistent with the targets and commitments established by the United Nations system, such as the Millennium Development Goals and the Beijing Platform for Action, as well as concepts and strategies developed by the World Health Organization (WHO). UNRWA will continue to maintain its efforts to achieve this consistency throughout 2006-2007.
