REPORT BY THE SECRETARY-GENERAL ON THE SITUATION
IN THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

Addendum

1. The following information on the situation in the Dominican Republic has been received from the office of my Representative there since the publication of my last report on the subject (S/7338/Add.1) on 15 June 1966.

Elections of 1 June 1966

2. At 10.30 hours on 21 June, the Central Electoral Board held a public session to give over-all information on the results of the elections of 1 June 1966. The President of the Board, Dr. Angel M. Liz, read a statement which set forth the following points:

(a) According to the results given by the provincial electoral boards and the electoral board of the National District (Santo Domingo), the general results of the election for President and Vice-President are as follows:

Votes received by political parties having presented candidates for President and Vice-President

Partido Reformista	759,887
Partido Revolucionario Dominicano	494,570
Partido Revolucionario Social Cristiano	30,660
Unión Cívica Nacional	16,152
Vanguardia Revolucionaria Dominicana	13,855
Partido Demócrata Cristiano	9,378
Partido Liberal Evolucionista	6,540
Partido Acción Revolucionario	5,489
Partido Nacionalista Revolucionario Democrático	4,039

Votes received by candidates for President

Joaquín Balaguer	769,265
Juan Bosch	525,230
Rafael Bonnelly	39,535

Votes received by candidates for Vice-President

Augusto Lora	769,265
Antonio Guzmán	525,230
Abel Fernández Simo	39,535

(b) The Partido Revolucionario Dominicano and the Partido Revolucionario Social Cristiano contested the results of the elections in 189 electoral polling stations, totalling 68,919 votes. After subtracting this number of votes from the total number of votes obtained by Joaquín Balaguer and Juan Bosch, the figures for each of these candidates are as follows:

Joaquín Balaguer	700,346
Juan Bosch	456,311

(c) No other contestations relating to the elections had been presented to municipal electoral boards at the expiry of the period provided for the submission of contestations.

(d) In view of the fact that the above-mentioned contestations of the elections would not alter the results of the election of Joaquín Balaguer and Augusto Lora, the Central Electoral Board declared that Joaquín Balaguer and Augusto Lora had been elected to the offices of President and Vice-President, respectively, in conformity with article 177 of the electoral law.

3. The total number of votes received by each political party having presented candidates for President and Vice-President is set forth in the preceding paragraph. In addition, the final number of votes for the Movimiento Revolucionario 14 de Junio in the National District was reported to be 4,829. The Board also indicated that in the congressional elections the PR won twenty-two seats in the Senate and forty-seven seats in the Chamber of Deputies and the PRD five seats in the Senate and twenty-six seats in the Chamber of Deputies. The breakdown by provinces of the total number of votes obtained by political parties is set forth in the annex to this report.

Maintenance of law and order

4. On 15 June, two bombing incidents took place in Santiago. In the early hours of that day, two gasoline bombs were thrown at a private house. At 2330 hours, a home-made bomb exploded at the residence of a leader of the Partido Reformista. There were no casualties in either case.
5. At 1330 hours on 18 June, a jeep of the United States contingent of the Inter-American Peace Force carrying the driver and three junior officers, all unarmed, stopped at the corner of Calle Juan I. Pérez and Calle Hostos in Santo Domingo. While the three officers were visiting the ruins of a church nearby, the driver was attacked by a group of eight to ten civilians. He was heavily stoned and forced to take cover away from his vehicle, which the crowd attempted to set afire. All United States personnel managed to escape, but the driver sustained head wounds and the jeep was partially burned.
