Social development, including questions relating to the world social situation and to youth, ageing, disabled persons and the family: United Nations Literacy Decade: education for all

Belarus, Cameroon, China, Croatia, Dominican Republic, Ethiopia, Iceland, Japan, Kazakhstan, Kenya, Lao People's Democratic Republic, Mongolia, Republic of Korea, Russian Federation and Senegal: draft resolution

United Nations Literacy Decade: education for all

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolution 56/116 of 19 December 2001, by which it proclaimed the ten-year period beginning on 1 January 2003 the United Nations Literacy Decade, and resolution 57/166 of 18 December 2002, in which it welcomed the International Plan of Action for the United Nations Literacy Decade,

Recalling also the United Nations Millennium Declaration,<sup>1</sup> in which Member States resolved to ensure that, by the year 2015, children everywhere, boys and girls alike, will be able to complete a full course of primary schooling and that girls and boys will have equal access to all levels of education, which requires a renewed commitment to promote literacy for all,

Reaffirming that a basic education is crucial to nation-building, that literacy for all is at the heart of basic education for all and that creating literate environments and societies is essential for achieving the goals of eradicating poverty, reducing child mortality, curbing population growth, achieving gender equality and ensuring sustainable development, peace and democracy,

Convinced that literacy is crucial to the acquisition, by every child, youth and adult, of the essential life skills that enable them to address the challenges they can face in life, and represents an essential step in basic education, which is an indispensable means for effective participation in the societies and economies of the twenty-first century,

Affirming that the realization of the right to education, especially for girls, contributes to the promotion of gender equality and the eradication of poverty,

Noting with deep concern that, while considerable efforts have been made to address the Decade's objectives at various levels, over 100 million children are out of school and some 800 million adults are illiterate today, that the issue of illiteracy is not sufficiently high on the agendas of both the developed and developing countries of the world to generate the kind of political and economic support required to address global illiteracy challenges, and that the world is unlikely to meet those challenges if the present trends continue,

Deeply concerned about the persistence of the gender gap in education, which is reflected by the fact that nearly two thirds of the world's adult illiterates are women,

1. Takes note of the report of the Secretary-General, which was prepared in cooperation with the Director-General of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, on the implementation of the International Plan of Action for the United Nations Literacy Decade;<sup>2</sup>

2. Welcomes the efforts made so far by Member States and the international community in launching the Decade and implementing the International Plan of Action;

3. Appeals to all Governments to regularly review the literacy situation in their countries and establish benchmarks and indicators to monitor progress towards the Decade's goals, backed up by more reliable literacy data and information, and to further reinforce political will, mobilize adequate national resources, develop more inclusive policy-making environments and devise innovative strategies for reaching the poorest and most marginalized groups and for seeking alternative formal and non-formal approaches to learning with a view to achieving the goals of the Decade;

4. Urges all Governments to take the lead in coordinating the activities of the Decade at the national level, bringing all relevant national actors together in a sustained dialogue and collaborative action on policy formulation, implementation and evaluation of literacy efforts, and to report biennially to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization on the progress achieved in implementing their national programmes and plans of action for the Decade;

5. Appeals to all Governments and professional organizations to strengthen national and professional educational institutions in their countries with a view to expanding their capacity and promoting the quality of education, with particular focus on literacy;

6. Appeals further to all Governments and to economic and financial organizations and institutions, both national and international, to lend greater financial and material support to the efforts to increase literacy and achieve the goals of education for all and those of the Decade, through, inter alia, the 20/20 initiative,<sup>3</sup> as appropriate;

<sup>3</sup> See Report of the World Summit for Social Development, Copenhagen, 6-12 March 1995 (United Nations publication, Sales No. E.96.IV.8), chap. I, resolution 1, annex II, para. 88 (c).

7. Invites Member States, the specialized agencies and other organizations of the United Nations system, as well as relevant intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations, to intensify their efforts to implement effectively the International Plan of Action, as well as to substantially integrate those efforts in the Education for All process and in the framework of the internationally agreed developments goals, including those contained in the Millennium Declaration;<sup>1</sup>

8. Requests the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization to reinforce its lead coordinating role in stimulating and catalysing the activities undertaken at the international level within the framework of the Decade in a manner that is complementary to and coordinated with the ongoing process of Education for All, with the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the Millennium Declaration, and with other global initiatives, and to take immediate, concrete steps to address the needs of countries with high illiteracy rates and/or with large populations of illiterate adults, with particular regard to women;

9. Requests the Secretary-General, in cooperation with the Director-General of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, to prepare and submit progress reports biennially on the implementation of the International Plan of Action to the General Assembly, beginning in 2006;

10. Decides to include in the provisional agenda of its sixty-first session, under the item entitled “Social development, including questions relating to the world social situation and to youth, ageing, disabled persons and the family”, a sub-item entitled “United Nations Literacy Decade: education for all”.
