"The General Assembly,

"Recalling its resolutions 56/178 of 21 December 2001, 57/235 of 20 December 2002 and 58/197 of 23 December 2003 on international trade and development,

"Recalling also the provisions of the United Nations Millennium Declaration pertaining to trade and related development issues, as well as the outcomes of the International Conference on Financing for Development, held

* The report of the Committee on this item will be issued in five parts, under the symbol A/59/481 and Add.1-4.

in Monterrey, Mexico, from 18 to 22 March 2002 and the World Summit on Sustainable Development, held in Johannesburg, South Africa, from 26 August to 4 September 2002,

“Recalling further its resolutions 57/250 of 20 December 2002 and 57/270 B of 23 June 2003, in which it invited the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, as well as the Trade and Development Board, to contribute, within its mandate, to the implementation and to the review of the progress made in the implementation of the outcomes of the major United Nations conferences and summits and invited the President of the Trade and Development Board to present the outcomes of such reviews to the Economic and Social Council,

“Considering that an open, transparent, multilateral and equitable international trading system can lead to the increased participation of developing countries, especially the least developed countries, therefore contributing to the generation of resources that will assist in the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals, including in the fight against hunger and poverty,

“Reaffirming the role of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development as focal point within the United Nations for the integrated treatment of trade and development and the interrelated issues in the areas of finance, technology, investment and sustainable development, “Recalling that, to benefit fully from trade, which in many cases is the single most important external source of development financing, the establishment and the enhancement of appropriate institutions and policies in developing countries, as well as in countries with economies in transition, are needed and that, in this context, enhanced market access, balanced rules and well-targeted, sustainably financed technical assistance and capacity-building programmes for developing countries also play an important role,

“Bearing in mind the special needs of the least developed countries, the small island developing States and the landlocked developing countries within a new global framework for transit transport cooperation for landlocked and transit developing countries, as provided, respectively, in the Brussels Programme of Action, the Barbados Programme of Action and the Almaty Programme of Action,

“Noting with concern that a large number of countries, in particular the least developed countries and commodity-dependent countries, continue to remain marginalized in the international trading system and are vulnerable to external shocks, “Reaffirming that agriculture remains a fundamental and key sector for the overwhelming majority of developing countries, and stresses the importance of the successful conclusion of the Doha work programme in this regard,

“Reaffirming also the need, subject to national legislation, to respect, preserve and maintain the knowledge, innovations and practices of indigenous and local communities embodying traditional lifestyles relevant for the conservation and sustainable use of biological diversity, to promote their wider application with the approval and involvement of the holders of such knowledge, innovations and practices and to encourage the equitable sharing of the benefits arising from the utilization of such knowledge, innovations and practices,

“Taking note of the in-depth review undertaken by the Trade and Development Board at its fifty-first session of developments and issues in the post-Doha work programme of particular concern to developing countries following the eleventh session of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, and its contribution to an understanding of the actions required to help developing countries integrate, in a beneficial and meaningful manner, into the multilateral trading system and the global economy and to achieve a balanced, development-oriented and successful conclusion of the Doha negotiations,

“1. Takes note of the report of the Trade and Development Board and the report of the Secretary-General;

“2. Welcomes the outcome of the eleventh session of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, convened from 13 to 18 June 2004 in São Paulo, Brazil, and the adoption of The Spirit of São Paulo and the São Paulo Consensus, which, building upon the Plan of Action adopted at its tenth session, held in Bangkok from 12 to 19 February 2000, reaffirm the continued commitment of the international community to supporting the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development in fulfilling its strengthened mandate and role as a forum for intergovernmental policy dialogue and consensus-building on trade and development;

“3. Notes that the outcome documents of the eleventh session of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development emphasized the importance for all countries of enhancing coherence between national development strategies and global economic processes towards economic growth and development, in particular of developing countries, and, in that context, reinforced the consensus that trade is not an end in itself but a means to growth and development and that the international trading system and trade negotiations must assure development gains;

“4. Reaffirms the fundamental importance of, and its commitment to, achieving the objectives set out in the United Nations Millennium Declaration, as reaffirmed in the São Paulo Consensus, of upholding and safeguarding a universal, open, equitable, rule-based, predictable and non-discriminatory multilateral trading system in pursuit of sustained economic growth, sustainable development and poverty eradication;

“5. Stresses the importance of striving for equity and justice in the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals by addressing asymmetries in benefits and costs arising from multilateral rules and commitments through effective implementation of existing commitments, transfer of resources to developing countries and addressing their specific development concerns as identified in paragraph 68 of the São Paulo Consensus;

“6. Underscores that it is particularly important for developing countries, bearing in mind development goals and objectives, that all countries take into account the need for an appropriate balance between national policy space and international disciplines and commitments, and stresses the need to provide policy space to the developing countries in formulating and executing their national economic policies;

“7. Stresses the importance of enhancing South-South trade and cooperation in the context of an emerging new trade geography that complements North-South trade and cooperation, and welcomes the decision, adopted in June 2004, to launch the third round of the Global System of Trade Preferences among Developing Countries;

“8. Emphasizes the importance of developing human, institutional, regulatory and research and development capacities and infrastructures aimed at enhanced supply-side capacity and competitiveness, as well as ensuring conducive international policy frameworks and supportive measures for the full and beneficial integration of developing countries into the international trading system;

“9. Reaffirms the commitment made at the Fourth Ministerial Conference of the World Trade Organization, held in Doha from 9 to 14 November 2001, to place development at the heart of the Doha work programme and to undertake concrete positive steps to ensure that developing countries, especially the least developed among them, secure a share in the growth of world trade commensurate with the needs of their economic development;

“10. Emphasizes the importance of rejecting the use of protectionism in the light of growing protectionist tendencies, and stresses the importance of strengthening multilateralism in the face of unilateralism and security measures, which have a considerable negative impact on trade flows from developing countries, the ongoing negotiations of the World Trade Organization and the achievement and further enhancement of the development dimension of the trade negotiations;

“11. Stresses the importance of open, transparent, inclusive, democratic and more orderly processes and procedures for the effective functioning of the multilateral trading system, including in the decision-making process, so as to enable developing countries to have their interests fully reflected in the outcome of trade negotiations;

“12. Welcomes in this regard, the adoption by the General Council of the World Trade Organization of its decision of 1 August 2004 on frameworks for further negotiations, which reaffirms the value of multilateralism, re-establishes the viability of the Doha negotiations, reconfirms the centrality of development concerns and allows the members of the World Trade Organization to re-engage and move forward in the negotiations;

“13. Stresses the need to develop the frameworks outlined in the above-mentioned decision of the General Council of the World Trade Organization in an inclusive and transparent manner into concrete, detailed and specific modalities for the early conclusion of the negotiations while ensuring balance and parallelism within and between areas under negotiation so as to effectively respond to the needs and concerns of the developing countries and ensure a fair, equitable and development-oriented outcome of the Doha work programme;

“14. Emphasizes, in regard to the decision of the General Council of the World Trade Organization of 1 August 2004, and consistent with the Doha work programme, the following issues of particular interest and concern to the developing countries:

“(a) Addressing effectively, comprehensively, meaningfully and expeditiously the core development issues of special and differential treatment and implementation issues and concerns of developing countries in the negotiations by July 2005, as provided for in the decision;

“(b) In the elaboration of modalities under the framework on agriculture, as contained in annex A to the decision of 1 August 2004: the adoption of an appropriate tariff reduction formula that effectively eliminates tariff peaks and tariff escalation for products of export interest to developing countries in order to achieve substantial improvement in market access; the elimination of all forms of export subsidies by a credible early date; substantial reductions in trade-distorting domestic support; incorporation of effective, operational and usable development flexibility and special and differential treatment for developing countries, such as requiring reduced tariff reduction commitments or tariff quota expansion commitments, special products and special safeguard mechanisms, in support of agriculture development, food security and livelihood and rural development; and the effective implementation of paragraph 4 of the Marrakesh Ministerial Decision on Measures Concerning the Possible Negative Effects of the Reform Programme on Least Developed and Net Food-importing Developing Countries;

“(c) Implementing concretely the commitment to address cotton issues ambitiously, expeditiously and specifically and in a manner that does not compromise the importance that many countries attach to speedily and substantially addressing both the trade-related and development-related aspects of the cotton initiative;

“(d) Addressing seriously the difficulties faced by commodity-dependent developing countries owing to the continuing volatility of world commodities prices, with a view to assisting such countries to restructure, diversify and strengthen the competitiveness of their commodity sectors, and in this regard welcomes the formation of an international task force on commodities by the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development;

“(e) In the elaboration of full modalities for negotiations on market access for non-agricultural products as contained in annex B to the decision of the World Trade Organization of 1 August 2004: ensuring reduction or elimination of tariff peaks, high tariffs and tariff escalation, as well as non-tariff barriers, in particular on products of export interest to developing countries; establishing a correct formula, which is effective, simple, transparent, least costly and equitable and which incorporates special and differential treatment and less than full reciprocity within its structures; allowing the developing countries the flexibility to implement the formula; and ensuring that the modalities to be finalized fully reflect the concerns of the developing countries related to loss in tariff revenues and unemployment, sensitivity of certain sectors and de-industrialization, accentuation of poverty and adjustment costs;

“(f) Enhancing market entry conditions for the exports of developing countries by addressing effectively non-tariff barriers arising from product standards, abusive and arbitrary application of anti-dumping measures, complex rules of origin and other trade-distorting measures;

“(g) Agreement on measures to address effectively the concerns of developing countries in respect of the erosion of preferences and the impact of liberalization on their tariff revenues, including through compensatory mechanisms;

“(h) Implementing fully, in the negotiations, on trade in services, the development provisions of the Guidelines and Procedures for the Negotiations on Trade in Services of the World Trade Organization with regard to the General Agreement on Trade in Services, including through commercially meaningful multilateral commitments on service sectors and modes of supply of export interest to developing countries, with emphasis on the liberalization of the temporary movement of natural persons under mode 4 of the General Agreement on Trade in Services, and due attention to infrastructure services, professional and all other services that can be carried out from distant locations (business process outsourcing services), including in connection with the provision of essential services;

“(i) Expediting the clarification and improvement of agreements in the areas of anti-dumping, subsidies and countervailing measures, taking into account the needs of developing countries, while preserving the basic concepts, principles and effectiveness of those agreements;

“(j) Expeditiously completing the review of the dispute settlement understanding;

“(k) The modalities on negotiations on trade facilitation, as contained in annex D of the decision of 1 August 2004, stressing that the results of the negotiations shall take into account the principle of special and differential treatment for the developing and least developed countries, recognizing that the provision of technical assistance and capacity-building is vital for developing and least developed countries in order to enable them to fully participate in and benefit from the negotiations, emphasizing that the developing and least developed countries would not be obliged to undertake investments in infrastructure beyond their means and that their trade facilitation needs and priorities would be identified and concerns related to the costs implications of proposed measures addressed in the negotiations, requesting that the developed countries commit themselves to ensuring adequate support and assistance to developing and least developed countries in the negotiations, and, also requesting that, where such support and assistance for infrastructure is not forthcoming and where the developing and least developed countries lack the necessary capacity, implementation of such infrastructure-related commitments not be required;

“15. Emphasizes that issues related to trade, debt and finance and transfer of technology duly covered in the Doha work programme should be urgently addressed in the negotiations, with a view to safeguarding the multilateral trading system from the effects of financial and monetary instability and in order to enhance the sustainable development of the developing countries;

“16. Reaffirms the full implementation of the Agreement on Textiles and Clothing of the World Trade Organization, which provides for the complete phase-out of the Agreement on Trade in Textile Products (the ‘Multi-Fibre Agreement’) by 31 December 2004, and emphasizes that market access to textile exports from the developing countries should not be denied through the use of other measures or trade barriers;

“17. Reaffirms the need to take fully into account the development dimension of the Agreement on Trade-related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights, and in this regard calls on the World Intellectual Property Organization to integrate development dimensions into its activities to promote effective technology transfer to developing countries and a proper balance between intellectual property norms and the respective interests of producers and users of technical knowledge;

“18. Invites all Member States to effectively implement the decision adopted by the General Council of the World Trade Organization on 30 August 2003 on the implementation of paragraph 6 of the Doha Declaration on the Agreement on Trade-related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights and Public Health through the expeditious establishment of a permanent solution to the problems faced by countries with insufficient or no manufacturing capacity in the pharmaceutical sector in accessing medicines at affordable prices by, inter alia, amending the Agreement on Trade-related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights by March 2005;

“19. Stresses that the adoption or enforcement of any measures necessary to protect human, animal or plant life or health should not be applied in a manner that would constitute arbitrary or unjustified discrimination or a disguised restriction on international trade, and recognizes the need to facilitate the increased participation of the developing countries in the work of relevant international standard-setting organizations as well as the importance of providing financial and technical assistance and capacity-building efforts to enable them to respond adequately to the introduction of any new measures that may have significant negative impact on trade;

“20. Reaffirms the commitments made at the Fourth Ministerial Conference of the World Trade Organization, and at the Third United Nations Conference on the Least Developed Countries, held in Brussels from 14 to 20 May 2001, in this regard calls upon developed countries that have not already done so to work towards the objective of duty-free, quota-free market access for all least developed country exports, and notes that the consideration of proposals for developing countries in a position to do so to contribute to improved market access for the least developed countries would also be helpful;

“21. Emphasizes the importance of the strengthening of, and the attainment of universal membership in, the World Trade Organization, and, in this context, calls for the acceleration of the accession process, without political impediments and in an expeditious and transparent manner, for developing countries applying for membership in the World Trade Organization, as well as the provision of technical assistance by the World Trade Organization and the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, within their mandates, so as to contribute to the rapid and full integration of those countries into the multilateral trading system;

“22. Invites members of the international community to consider the interests of non-members of the World Trade Organization in the context of trade liberalization;

“23. Emphasizes that regional trade arrangements should contribute positively to the multilateral trading system, stresses in this context the importance of clarifying and improving disciplines and procedures under the existing provisions of the World Trade Organization applying to regional trade agreements, in accordance with paragraph 29 of the Doha Ministerial Declaration, taking into account the developmental aspects of those agreements, and urges the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development to assess and evaluate the development interface between the two processes;

“24. Reaffirms the commitment to actively pursue the work programme of the World Trade Organization with respect to addressing the trade-related issues and concerns affecting the fuller integration of countries with small, vulnerable economies into the multilateral trading system in a manner commensurate with their special circumstances and in support of their efforts towards sustainable development, in accordance with paragraph 35 of the Doha Ministerial Declaration;

“25. Recognizes the special problems and needs of the landlocked developing countries within a new global framework for transit transport cooperation for landlocked and transit developing countries, calls for, in this regard, the full and effective implementation of the Almaty Programme of Action, and stresses the need for the implementation of the São Paulo Consensus, adopted at the eleventh session of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development in São Paulo, Brazil, on 18 June 2004, in particular paragraphs 66 and 84 thereof, by the relevant international organizations and donors in a multi-stakeholder approach;

“26. Welcomes the comprehensive and unique mandate of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, which was reaffirmed and enhanced at its eleventh session, and endorses the continued work of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development in support of the effective and beneficial integration of developing countries into the global economy through analysis, intergovernmental consensus-building and technical assistance on assuring development gains from the international trading system and from trade negotiations in goods and services; commodities; trade, environment and development; and trade, competition policy and development;

“28. Calls for enhanced financial resources for the programmes and technical cooperation and capacity-building activities of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development that assist developing countries, especially the least developed countries, countries with economies in transition and countries with small vulnerable economies, in international trade and trade negotiations, in particular in support of their participation in the Doha work programme, including the Integrated Framework for Trade-related Technical Assistance to Least Developed Countries and the Joint Integrated Technical Assistance Programme;

“29. Requests the Secretary-General, in collaboration with the secretariat of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, to report to the General Assembly at its sixtieth session on the implementation of the present resolution and on developments in the multilateral trading system under the sub-item entitled ‘International trade and development’.”
