Carta de fecha 18 de diciembre de 2006 dirigida al
Presidente del Consejo de Seguridad por la Presidenta del Comité del Consejo de Seguridad establecido en virtud de la resolución 1373 (2001) relativa a la lucha
contra el terrorismo

Tengo el honor de escribir con referencia a la resolución 1535 (2004), del Consejo de Seguridad, por la cual el Consejo de Seguridad decidió establecer la Dirección Ejecutiva del Comité contra el Terrorismo, bajo la orientación normativa del Comité contra el Terrorismo, por un período inicial que terminaría el 31 de diciembre de 2007 y con sujeción a un examen amplio del Consejo que se haría a más tardar el 31 de diciembre de 2005. También hago referencia a la declaración posterior del Presidente del Consejo de Seguridad de 21 de diciembre de 2005 (S/PRST/2005/64), en la cual indicó la decisión del Consejo de Seguridad de hacer otro examen amplio de la Dirección Ejecutiva a más tardar el 31 de diciembre de 2006, que sería preparado por el Comité contra el Terrorismo.

Por tanto me complace adjuntar con la presente el informe del Comité contra el Terrorismo al Consejo de Seguridad (véase el anexo) para que el Consejo lo examine como parte de su examen amplio de la Dirección Ejecutiva del Comité contra el Terrorismo, que debe hacerse a más tardar el 31 de diciembre de 2006.

Le agradecería que tuviera a bien hacer distribuir la presente carta y su anexo como documento del Consejo de Seguridad.

(Firmado) Ellen Margrethe Løj
Presidenta
Comité del Consejo de Seguridad establecido en virtud de la resolución 1373 (2001) relativa
a la lucha contra el terrorismo

AnexoInforme del Comité contra el Terrorismo al Consejo de Seguridad para que lo examine como parte de su examen amplio de la Dirección Ejecutiva del Comité contra el Terrorismo*I. Introducción

1. Cuando hizo el examen amplio de la Dirección Ejecutiva en diciembre de 2005, conforme al mandato establecido en la resolución 1535 (2004) del Consejo de Seguridad, el Consejo decidió, sobre la base de las recomendaciones del Comité contra el Terrorismo, que, puesto que la Dirección Ejecutiva había tenido personal completo sólo durante un período corto, sólo era posible sacar conclusiones limitadas. Por tanto, decidió encargar al Comité que preparara otro examen amplio de la Dirección Ejecutiva antes del 31 de diciembre de 2006. El presente informe ha sido preparado por el Comité a fin de ayudar al Consejo a hacer ese examen.

2. En el informe que presentó al Consejo en 2005 como contribución al examen completo (S/2005/800), el Comité decidió evaluar la asistencia que la Dirección Ejecutiva había prestado al Comité para alcanzar los objetivos del proceso de revitalización (véase S/2004/124, anexo, secc. III). En el presente informe se ha hecho lo mismo.

3. En el informe de 2005 el Comité sacó varias conclusiones concretas, que el Consejo hizo suyas (véase S/PRST/2005/64). Además, durante todo el año, el Comité ha dado orientación continuamente a la Dirección Ejecutiva sobre el mejor modo de prestar al Comité la asistencia deseada en el cumplimiento de su mandato de promover y vigilar la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001) del Consejo de Seguridad. Esas conclusiones y esta orientación también sirvieron de base del informe del Comité al Consejo para el examen de la Dirección Ejecutiva.

4. En el programa de trabajo de la Dirección Ejecutiva que abarca el período de julio a diciembre de 2006, adjunto al del Comité (véase S/2006/607, anexo), la Dirección se comprometió a preparar y presentar al Comité, por conducto del Secretario General, un amplio informe semianual sobre la forma en que, basándose en las orientaciones normativas del Comité, ayuda a éste a lograr los objetivos del proceso de revitalización enunciados en el documento S/2004/124 así como la contribución de su labor a la aplicación reforzada de la resolución 1373 (2001) por los Estados (párr. 16). El Comité acoge con agrado este informe que, junto con el informe semianual que abarca los seis primeros meses de 2006, se ha tenido en cuenta en la evaluación que el Comité ha hecho de la labor de la Dirección Ejecutiva. Los informes pueden verse en los apéndices I y II.

5. Además, después del comienzo del proceso de revitalización, el Consejo aprobó la resolución 1624 (2005), que amplió el mandato del Comité. Esta ampliación se refleja también en el presente informe.

6. Finalmente, desde el examen amplio de la Dirección Ejecutiva hecho en 2005, la Asamblea General aprobó la Estrategia global de las Naciones Unidas contra el terrorismo el 8 de septiembre de 2006 (resolución 60/288 de la Asamblea General). Esta estrategia incluye en varios lugares estímulos al Comité contra el Terrorismo y a la Dirección Ejecutiva del Comité sobre las medidas que pueden tomar para aplicar la estrategia. Estas peticiones concretas dirigidas al Comité y a su Dirección Ejecutiva se tendrán en cuenta al fijar la dirección de la futura labor de la Dirección Ejecutiva y del Comité.

II. Dar una dirección clara para la labor futura

7. El mandato del Comité es vigilar y promover la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001) del Consejo de Seguridad. El Comité reafirma que el mandato de la Dirección Ejecutiva está dentro de los parámetros del mandato del Comité. Es un mandato ambicioso, y el Comité opina que las actividades de la Dirección Ejecutiva deben seguir tendiendo a asegurar resultados concretos, prácticos y mensurables dentro de ese mandato.

8. Sobre la base de las prioridades establecidas en el informe del examen amplio del año pasado, el Comité examinó y dio orientación a la Dirección Ejecutiva en las siguientes esferas:

- Plan de ejecución de la asistencia técnica (febrero de 2006)
- Orientación normativa en materia de derechos humanos (mayo de 2006)
- Orientación sobre el uso de estadísticas (enero de 2006)
- Orientación sobre la elaboración de mejores prácticas (marzo de 2006)
- Orientación sobre la cooperación con organizaciones internacionales, regionales y subregionales (marzo de 2006)
- Orientación sobre la cooperación con organizaciones subregionales de África (marzo y julio de 2006)
- Orientación sobre la cooperación con la Comunidad del Caribe (CARICOM) (marzo y octubre de 2006)
- Aprobación de las evaluaciones preliminares de la aplicación y los procedimientos provisionales revisados (marzo, junio y octubre de 2006)
- Orientación sobre la contribución del Comité y la Dirección Ejecutiva a la aplicación de la Estrategia de las Naciones Unidas contra el terrorismo (octubre y noviembre de 2006)
- Orientación sobre visitas, incluido el seguimiento (en relación con el examen de visitas determinadas)
- Orientación sobre la preparación del informe al Consejo sobre la aplicación por los Estados de la resolución 1624 (2005) del Consejo de Seguridad (marzo, junio y julio de 2006)
- Orientación sobre cómo proceder en el trabajo relacionado con la resolución 1624 (2005) del Consejo de Seguridad (diciembre de 2006)
- Orientación sobre comunicaciones (enero y febrero de 2006)

9. El Comité acoge con agrado la carta del Secretario General al Consejo de Seguridad de 15 de diciembre de 2006 con respecto a las relaciones jerárquicas de la Dirección Ejecutiva. Como se sugiere en la carta, y a fin de reflejar mejor el espíritu de la resolución 1535 (2004) y el documento PRST/2005/64, el Comité recomienda al Consejo que considere positivamente las modificaciones de las relaciones jerárquicas de la Dirección Ejecutiva, de manera que la Dirección en lo sucesivo presente sus programas de trabajo, lo mismo que sus informes semianuales, directamente al Comité.

III. Intensificar los esfuerzos de promover y vigilar la aplicación de todos los aspectos de la resolución 1373 (2001) del Consejo de Seguridad aumentando el diálogo sobre la base de los principios rectores de cooperación, transparencia y equidad

Análisis completo de la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001) por los Estados

10. En el examen amplio de 2005, el Comité alentó a la Dirección Ejecutiva a mantenerlo informado de su labor y de los progresos hechos por los Estados en la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001). El Comité también pidió a la Dirección Ejecutiva que le diera una indicación, lo antes posible y a más tardar en el primer trimestre de 2006, con respecto al momento en que los diversos análisis se presentarían para que el Comité los examinara. El Comité observó que estos análisis debían incluir, cuando procediera, propuestas sobre la forma en que el Comité podría prestar más ayuda a los Estados para superar sus dificultades especiales.

11. El Comité ha recibido informes mensuales de la Dirección Ejecutiva que contienen secciones temáticas relativas a diversos aspectos de la aplicación. Además, el primer informe semianual incluía una sección sobre los progresos hechos por los Estados Miembros en la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001). Estos informes han tenido niveles de análisis y recomendaciones diferentes.

12. En 2005 el Comité acordó revisar sus métodos de trabajo para dejar de concentrarse en reunir, examinar y pedir informes. Al hacerlo, el Comité tenía por objeto aumentar su capacidad de vigilar la aplicación por los Estados de la resolución 1373 (2001), facilitar la prestación de la asistencia conexa y tener en cuenta la fatiga en la presentación de informes. El Comité también esperaba recibir de la Dirección Ejecutiva análisis completos y sistemáticos de la aplicación por los Estados Miembros de la resolución 1373 (2001). La Dirección Ejecutiva presentó una matriz para dichos análisis, la evaluación preliminar de la aplicación, que el Comité acogió con agrado e hizo suya en abril de 2006. El Comité pidió a la Dirección Ejecutiva que propusiera procedimientos de trabajo para el uso de la matriz por el Comité y la Dirección Ejecutiva. En octubre se adoptaron nuevos procedimientos sobre la base de una propuesta del Presidente.

13. El programa de trabajo de la Dirección Ejecutiva para abril-junio de 2006 indicaba que la Dirección Ejecutiva haría 100 nuevas evaluaciones preliminares de la aplicación, y el programa de trabajo para julio-diciembre de 2006 indicaba que haría evaluaciones preliminares de la aplicación para 130 Estados Miembros. Hasta la fecha de conclusión del presente informe, la Dirección Ejecutiva había presentado al Comité 42 evaluaciones preliminares de la aplicación, y el Comité entiende que 46 se han preparado pero todavía no se le han presentado. El informe semianual de la Dirección Ejecutiva de diciembre de 2006 dice que la Dirección Ejecutiva ha preparado evaluaciones preliminares de la aplicación sobre varios Estados.

14. El Comité espera recibir un calendario de la Dirección Ejecutiva sobre la preparación del análisis de las evaluaciones preliminares de la aplicación de todos los Estados Miembros, y un calendario para el examen de dichos análisis en subcomités en las próximas semanas y meses.

15. El Comité espera recibir de la Dirección Ejecutiva un análisis, conforme a su mandato según S/2004/124 y sobre la base del análisis hecho en las EPA, de los progresos hechos por los Estados en la adopción y aplicación de las convenciones y protocolos internacionales pertinentes relativos al terrorismo y del estado de la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001) por todos los Estados, incluida una indicación de las lagunas que son motivo de particular preocupación, idealmente a tiempo para la próxima sesión de información del Comité para el Consejo de Seguridad.

16. En el programa de trabajo para enero-marzo de 2006, el Comité pidió a la Dirección Ejecutiva que presentara una propuesta sobre una guía técnica de la resolución 1373 (2001) que indicara los requisitos y las medidas necesarias para aplicar las disposiciones de la resolución. Este instrumento ayudaría tanto al Comité como a los Estados. En el programa de julio-diciembre de 2006, el Comité pidió a la Dirección Ejecutiva que preparara recomendaciones sobre su trabajo de elaboración de normas para medir la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001) por los Estados. El Comité espera recibir recomendaciones a este respecto.

Mejores prácticas

17. En 2005 el Comité encargó a la Dirección Ejecutiva que actualizara la información incluida en el sitio en la web del Comité sobre mejores prácticas internacionales. El Comité también encargó a la Dirección que elaborara las mejores prácticas pertinentes a la resolución 1373 (2001). Finalmente, el Comité alentó a la Dirección Ejecutiva a que recomendara formas de elaborar orientación en esferas en que no existen mejores prácticas o en que dichas prácticas no están bien definidas.

18. En 2006 la Dirección Ejecutiva identificó y presentó al Comité una guía de mejores prácticas, normas y códigos internacionales destinada a ayudar a los Estados Miembros a elevar al máximo sus esfuerzos de aplicar la resolución 1373 (2001). Entre las primeras prioridades determinadas están las relativas a la represión de la financiación del terrorismo, el derecho y el procedimiento penales y la cooperación internacional en esta materia y la prevención del movimiento de personas, armas y equipo relacionados con actividades terroristas. Esta información se incluyó en el sitio en la web del Comité. La Dirección Ejecutiva ha mantenido contacto frecuente con varias organizaciones internacionales y regionales con miras a proseguir la identificación y análisis de mejores prácticas. Finalmente, la Dirección Ejecutiva ha promovido la guía de mejores prácticas durante visitas y en el diálogo con los Estados.

19. El Comité acoge con agrado la guía de mejores prácticas como logro importante, y alienta su difusión y promoción. El Comité considera que la guía es un instrumento práctico sumamente útil para los Estados, que también contribuye a la esfera de la asistencia. El Comité alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a proseguir el trabajo de elaboración de mejores prácticas en todas las esferas principales de la resolución 1373 (2001) y espera recibir una presentación sobre el estado de la labor, que pueda conducir a un debate y a un acuerdo sobre la orientación para el trabajo futuro en este campo.

Visitas

20. En 2005 el Comité subrayó que las visitas habían resultado un buen medio de comprender mejor los progresos que los Estados, habían hecho en el cumplimiento de las obligaciones que fija la resolución 1373 (2001) y un medio de reunir información sobre las necesidades de los Estados. Por tanto el Comité alentó a la Dirección Ejecutiva a que siguiera haciendo visitas a los Estados, con el consentimiento de éstos. El Comité también acogió con agrado que se incluyera la aplicación por los Estados de la resolución 1624 (2005) en el diálogo que la Dirección había tenido con los Estados durante las visitas. Al mismo tiempo, el Comité instó a la Dirección Ejecutiva a aportar al Comité información más sustancial con antelación a fin de asegurar el uso eficiente de los recursos. En 2005 el Comité acogió con agrado la concentración de la atención de la Dirección Ejecutiva en el establecimiento de contacto directo con los Estados mediante dichas visitas. El Comité siguió subrayando que una preparación cuidadosa era parte importante del proceso. El Comité siguió subrayando que era importante un seguimiento detallado con los expertos que se habían reunido con la Dirección Ejecutiva durante la visita y que el seguimiento debía empezar inmediatamente después del fin de la visita.

21. En 2006 la Dirección Ejecutiva hizo en total 10 visitas, a saber: a la República Unida de Tanzania (13 a 17 de febrero de 2006), a la ex República Yugoslava de Macedonia (5 a 10 de marzo de 2006), a Jordania (18 a 22 de junio de 2006), a Malasia (10 a 15 de julio de 2006), a Filipinas (18 a 22 de septiembre de 2006), a Malí (2 a 6 de octubre de 2006), a la India (6 a 13 de noviembre de 2006), a Nigeria (13 y 17 de noviembre de 2006), al Pakistán (17 a 24 de noviembre de 2006) y a Kuwait (2 a 6 de diciembre de 2006). Antes de cada una de estas visitas, el Comité recibió un conjunto de información sobre ellas, incluida la mencionada evaluación preliminar de la aplicación.

22. La Dirección Ejecutiva comunicó al Comité en su informe semianual que cuatro de los cinco Estados visitados en 2005 habían empezado a aplicar algunas de las recomendaciones hechas por el Comité, por ejemplo tomando medidas para redactar o sancionar legislación relativa a disposiciones fundamentales de la resolución 1373 (2001), asignando recursos financieros y humanos adicionales y/o haciéndose partes en más instrumentos internacionales contra el terrorismo. La Dirección Ejecutiva comunicó que también había tratado de facilitar la prestación de asistencia técnica que se había solicitado. En cuanto a los Estados visitados en 2006, la Dirección Ejecutiva ha preparado conclusiones preliminares resultantes de todas las visitas y ha preparado o está preparando informes definitivos.

23. El Comité alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a que haga un esfuerzo especial para asegurar que los recursos invertidos en visitas en lo posible conduzcan a mejoras concretas mensurables de la aplicación por el Estado visitado. El Comité aprecia la labor y el tiempo considerables que se dedican a preparar y organizar esas visitas, lo mismo que su seguimiento. El Comité acoge con agrado que el trabajo con los donantes se haya vuelto parte integrante del seguimiento de las visitas. El Comité alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a que, como parte del trabajo que hace después de las visitas, prepare un calendario para la aplicación de las recomendaciones elaboradas durante las visitas. Con respecto a cada visita, el calendario debe indicar las medidas que el Estado visitado y, cuando proceda, el Comité o la Dirección Ejecutiva deban tomar para cumplir las recomendaciones del Comité.

24. En 2005 el Comité reiteró que estaba dispuesto a considerar un enfoque más adaptado y flexible de las visitas a los Estados con el consentimiento de éstos. Una de tales visitas se hizo en 2006. La Dirección Ejecutiva hizo una visita al Paraguay para indicar a las autoridades del Estado la urgencia de aplicar plenamente la resolución 1373 (2001), incluida la penalización del terrorismo y de la financiación del terrorismo. Después de la visita, el Paraguay ha comunicado que se han presentado a la Cámara de Diputados las modificaciones pertinentes del Código Penal.

25. El Comité alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a hacer más visitas flexibles y adaptadas de este tipo en casos en que el Comité cree que esto facilitaría progresos considerables en relación con cuestiones de alta prioridad.

Derechos humanos

26. El Comité reiteró que los Estados deben asegurar que toda medida que tomen para combatir el terrorismo se ajuste a todas las obligaciones que les incumben conforme al derecho internacional y que deben adoptar dichas medidas de conformidad con el derecho internacional, en particular el derecho internacional relativo a los derechos humanos y a los refugiados y el derecho humanitario. El Comité declaró que la Dirección Ejecutiva debía tener en cuenta esto. Sobre la base de una propuesta de la Dirección Ejecutiva, el Comité ha elaborado y adoptado orientación normativa en esta materia. En el informe semianual, la Dirección Ejecutiva declaró que seguía teniendo en cuenta los derechos humanos en el curso de sus actividades. La Dirección declaró además que había mantenido enlace constante con la Oficina del Alto Comisionado de las Naciones Unidas para los Derechos Humanos, había asistido a dos talleres organizados por organizaciones internacionales o regionales pertinentes y mantenido contacto frecuente con varias organizaciones internacionales pertinentes.

27. El Comité acoge con agrado que la Dirección Ejecutiva, en su análisis de la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001) por los Estados, tenga en cuenta los aspectos de derechos humanos pertinentes de conformidad con la orientación normativa del Comité, incluso durante las visitas a los Estados. El Comité alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a seguir aplicando la orientación normativa del Comité.

IV. Fortalecer la facilitación de la asistencia técnica a los Estados como una de las prioridades del Comité

28. En el informe de 2005 al Consejo, el Comité reconoció que una de sus funciones más importantes era ayudar a los Estados a obtener la asistencia técnica que necesitaban para aplicar las disposiciones de la resolución 1373 (2001) y resoluciones conexas. El Comité reiteró su objetivo de conseguir resultados concretos mensurables. Con este fin, el Comité acogió con agrado el proyecto de plan de aplicación de la Dirección Ejecutiva, que fue examinado y aprobado por el Comité. La Dirección Ejecutiva informó de los progresos que se habían hecho con respecto a este plan de aplicación en marzo, junio y diciembre de 2006.

29. El Comité, en su labor en curso, ha dado orientación a la Dirección Ejecutiva sobre la forma de conseguir resultados, incluso en relación con las visitas a los Estados y el seguimiento necesario.

30. En el informe semianual de diciembre al Comité, la Dirección Ejecutiva observó que el plan de acción del Comité era útil para guiar las actividades de la Dirección de facilitación de la asistencia técnica. La Dirección observó además que los resultados tardarían todavía un tiempo en aparecer y se manifestarían en los progresos que hicieran los Estados en la aplicación ulterior de la resolución 1373 (2001). Hasta ahora la Dirección Ejecutiva ha comunicado dos casos en que se ha prestado asistencia técnica como resultado de la facilitación de la Dirección.

31. En sus informes al Comité sobre la aplicación de la orientación normativa sobre asistencia técnica, la Dirección Ejecutiva comunicó en marzo que había analizado las necesidades prioritarias de 91 Estados, en junio que había analizado las de 93 Estados y en diciembre que había analizado las de 96 Estados. En marzo la Dirección Ejecutiva comunicó que se había reunido con 28 Estados para examinar esas prioridades, en junio que se había reunido con 41 Estados y en diciembre que se había reunido o se había puesto en contacto con 52 Estados. Las solicitudes de asistencia se remitieron a la Oficina de las Naciones Unidas contra la Droga y el Delito (ONUDD) (46 hasta marzo y 75 al fin de 2006) y al Fondo Monetario Internacional (25 hasta marzo, 64 hasta junio y 64 al fin de 2006). La Dirección Ejecutiva comunicó en marzo que había tenido reuniones con 10 países donantes; en junio que había establecido contacto con 18 países donantes en total; y al fin de 2006 que se había puesto en contacto con 18 países donantes. En marzo y junio de 2006 la Dirección Ejecutiva comunicó que las necesidades de 65 países se habían remitido al Grupo para la acción contra el terrorismo establecido por el Grupo de los ocho.

32. La Dirección Ejecutiva comunicó en marzo y junio de 2006 que se habían elaborado nueve guías, cada una de las cuales ofrece información sobre las actividades de asistencia de un donante determinado, y en diciembre que se habían elaborado 15 guías de ese tipo. Entre los elementos del plan de aplicación todavía pendientes están una auditoría de la asistencia solicitada y que debe haberse prestado en mayo de 2006. La Dirección Ejecutiva comunicó en marzo que la auditoría se había hecho con respecto a África y al Asia occidental y había dado información sobre 100% de las necesidades prioritarias acordadas pero no satisfechas y propuesto opciones para satisfacerlas, que deben estar recopiladas en diciembre de 2006.

33. Entre otras propuestas hechas por la Dirección Ejecutiva sobre asistencia técnica en sus programas de trabajo están la preparación de propuestas sobre la organización de una reunión oficial de posibles donantes y proveedores de asistencia y la preparación de propuestas sobre la posible organización de talleres de profesionales regionales (las propuestas estaban incluidas en cada uno de los programas de trabajo para enero-abril, abril-junio y julio-diciembre). El Comité sigue pensando que éstas son iniciativas útiles y espera con interés las propuestas de la Dirección Ejecutiva.

34. El Comité reitera que la facilitación de la asistencia técnica para aumentar la capacidad de los Estados de aplicar las disposiciones de la resolución 1373 (2001) y las resoluciones conexas es una de sus prioridades más altas. El Comité sigue dando mucha importancia a su orientación normativa sobre asistencia técnica y a la necesidad de aplicarla. El Comité acoge con agrado el nivel de reuniones, establecimiento de contactos e intercambio de información, tanto con donantes como con los Estados que piden asistencia técnica, que se han iniciado en la esfera de la asistencia técnica.

35. Si bien acoge con agrado el trabajo hecho por la Dirección Ejecutiva hasta ahora, el Comité subraya la necesidad que la Dirección se concentre en la determinación y la satisfacción de las necesidades prioritarias de los Estados. El Comité también asigna importancia a la terminación de una matriz de asistencia técnica actualizada y mejorada.

36. El Comité también sigue asignando importancia al fortalecimiento de las relaciones con la comunidad de donantes, incluidas las relaciones con Estados y otros órganos que todavía no presten asistencia técnica, mediante medidas como el diálogo y la provisión de información. A este respecto, el Comité espera con interés la preparación y celebración de foros oficiosos dirigidos a los donantes y a los proveedores de ayuda.

37. El Comité espera con interés la propuesta de la Dirección Ejecutiva sobre su plan de aplicación de 2007 para cumplir la orientación normativa del Comité sobre asistencia técnica.

38. Como se indica en la orientación normativa sobre asistencia técnica del Comité, es esencial para el cumplimiento de la función del Comité en la esfera de la asistencia técnica que, cuando proceda, la Dirección Ejecutiva tenga en cuenta la información sobre la asistencia aportada a los Estados con miras a mejorar las instituciones y fortalecer el Estado de derecho. Por tanto el Comité acogería con agrado un informe actualizado sobre el estado del trabajo de la Dirección Ejecutiva en esta materia.

39. El Comité reitera la importancia de prestar la asistencia que conduce a una mejora de la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001), como se ha demostrado mediante el instrumento de análisis de la evaluación preliminar de la aplicación. El Comité ve con preocupación que el progreso de los resultados en esta esfera ha sido lento. El Comité propone hacer un debate detallado en el Comité sobre el funcionamiento y los resultados del trabajo de asistencia técnica de la Dirección Ejecutiva, basado en un análisis actualizado de los resultados en esta esfera, en el primer trimestre de 2007.

V. Fortalecer los contactos y la coordinación con otros órganos de las Naciones Unidas

40. En 2005, el Comité alentó a la Dirección Ejecutiva a que intensificara los contactos con otras entidades conexas de las Naciones Unidas, en particular la Oficina de las Naciones Unidas contra la Droga y el Delito. La Dirección Ejecutiva ha informado de que fortaleció su cooperación con la Oficina de las Naciones Unidas contra la Droga y el Delito y facilitó información oportuna sobre las necesidades de los Estados Miembros en materia de asistencia técnica. Por su parte, la Oficina de las Naciones Unidas contra la Droga y el Delito participó también en siete de las visitas realizadas a los Estados en 2006. La Dirección Ejecutiva también participó en seminarios de creación de capacidad, entre ellos el organizado para la Comunidad del África Meridional para el Desarrollo. Por último, la Dirección Ejecutiva también fortaleció la cooperación con el Programa Mundial contra el Blanqueo de Dinero de la Oficina de las Naciones Unidas contra la Droga y el Delito. El Comité acoge con satisfacción esta mayor cooperación y alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva y a la Oficina contra la Droga y el Delito a seguir en esta línea con miras a obtener resultados concretos.

41. La Dirección Ejecutiva prosiguió su cooperación con la Organización de Aviación Civil Internacional (OACI) y la Organización Marítima Internacional (OMI) a fin de definir y promover las mejores prácticas y coordinar la prestación de asistencia técnica. La OMI y la OACI participaron también en algunas de las visitas. El Comité agradece a estas organizaciones que hayan puesto sus conocimientos a disposición del Comité cuando éste realizó sus visitas a los Estados y alienta a ambas a buscar maneras de estrechar la cooperación en el futuro.

42. El Comité acogió complacido la participación de la Dirección Ejecutiva en el Equipo Especial sobre la Ejecución de la Lucha contra el Terrorismo establecido por el Secretario General. A juicio del Comité, la Dirección Ejecutiva desempeña un papel importante en la ejecución de la estrategia de las Naciones Unidas contra el terrorismo aprobada por la Asamblea General el 8 de septiembre de 2006 en su resolución 60/288 y presentada oficialmente a nivel ministerial el 19 de septiembre de 2006. Además, sobre la base de una propuesta de la Dirección Ejecutiva, el Comité dejó claro que, en su opinión, la mejor forma en que ésta podía contribuir a la ejecución de la estrategia era trabajar para lograr resultados dentro de los aspectos básicos del mandato del Comité.

43. En 2005, el Comité alentó a la Dirección Ejecutiva a estrechar la cooperación con proveedores de asistencia como el Programa de las Naciones Unidas para el Desarrollo (PNUD) y los coordinadores residentes de las Naciones Unidas, si procedía. En su informe semestral de diciembre de 2006, la Dirección Ejecutiva informó de que, en sus visitas a los Estados, había celebrado reuniones con los respectivos representantes residentes del PNUD y, en algunos casos, con los equipos en los países. El Comité alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a proseguir sus esfuerzos para estrechar y mejorar las relaciones con el PNUD.

VI. Aumentar la cooperación y la coordinación entre las organizaciones internacionales, regionales y subregionales en la lucha contra el terrorismo

44. Desde su creación, el Comité contra el Terrorismo ha reconocido que la cooperación entre las organizaciones internacionales, regionales y subregionales es de suma importancia para mejorar la aplicación por los Estados de la resolución 1373 (2001) del Consejo de Seguridad. El Comité ha subrayado la importancia de colaborar con esas organizaciones y fomentar su capacidad, de modo que estén en condiciones de ayudar a sus miembros a aplicar la mencionada resolución. A este respecto, el Comité ha dado prioridad a la colaboración con organizaciones que comenzaron a preparar recientemente su programa de lucha contra el terrorismo y al fortalecimiento de esas organizaciones.

45. En su informe presentado en 2005, el Comité dijo que esperaba con vivo interés las propuestas de la Dirección Ejecutiva sobre una estrategia para mejorar la cooperación con las organizaciones internacionales, regionales y subregionales, con arreglo a un planteamiento orientado a resultados. La Dirección Ejecutiva presentó dicha estrategia en marzo de 2006. El Comité subrayó la importancia de cooperar con esas organizaciones a fin de aprovechar al máximo sus posibilidades de brindar y facilitar asistencia.

46. El Comité concluyó sus deliberaciones alentando a la Dirección Ejecutiva a que fuera proactiva en su interacción con otras organizaciones pertinentes, sin olvidar el establecimiento de contactos con organizaciones regionales que estaban preparando programas de lucha contra el terrorismo, y más concretamente con las organizaciones subregionales de África. A este respecto, el Comité indicó a la Dirección Ejecutiva que convenía dar prioridad a una mayor cooperación con el Centro Africano de Estudios de Investigación sobre el Terrorismo, perteneciente a la Unión Africana, y con la Comunidad Económica de los Estados de África Occidental (CEDEAO) y la Autoridad Intergubernamental para el Desarrollo (IGAD). El Comité alienta la cooperación de la Dirección Ejecutiva con la Unión Africana. Por su parte, la Unión Africana también ha compartido su modelo de legislación contra el terrorismo con la Dirección Ejecutiva, la cual está preparando las observaciones oportunas. Finalmente, la Unión Africana ha participado en las visitas del Comité a Estados de la región y está buscando la manera de ayudar a los Estados que van retrasados en la preparación de sus informes al Comité. También se consideró prioritaria la asistencia al Foro de las Islas del Pacífico y a la Comunidad del Caribe (CARICOM) a fin de resolver el problema del retraso en la presentación de informes y el cansancio que experimentan al respecto los pequeños Estados que son miembros de esas organizaciones regionales. Finalmente, el Comité alentó a la Dirección Ejecutiva a proseguir su estrecha cooperación con organizaciones pertinentes como la Unión Europea, el Consejo de Europa, la Organización para la Seguridad y la Cooperación en Europa (OSCE), el Grupo de acción financiera sobre el blanqueo de capitales (GAFI) y la Organización de los Estados Americanos (OEA), entre otras.

47. En su informe semestral de diciembre de 2006, la Dirección Ejecutiva facilitó información actualizada sobre sus actividades de cooperación. El Comité acoge con agrado los progresos hechos al respecto, en particular la participación pertinente de las organizaciones regionales en las visitas a los Estados. El Comité alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a que forje estrechos lazos de colaboración con las organizaciones regionales pertinentes con miras a mejorar la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001). El Comité expresa su reconocimiento a las organizaciones que han aportado su tiempo y sus conocimientos a las visitas de la Dirección Ejecutiva a los Estados.

48. En el informe que presentó al Consejo en 2005, el Comité alentó a la Dirección Ejecutiva a presentar un informe sobre las maneras en que se había ejecutado el Programa de Acción de Almaty (aprobado por el Comité y los participantes en la cuarta reunión especial del Comité con organizaciones internacionales, regionales y subregionales). El Comité dijo también que aguardaba con interés la presentación de un plan de ejecución para alcanzar algunos de los objetivos enunciados en el Programa de Acción de Almaty que no se hubieran alcanzado todavía y para dar continuidad a actividades de ejecución relacionadas con objetivos convenidos en los documentos finales de las tres reuniones especiales anteriores, incluidas medidas para mejorar el intercambio de información con las organizaciones internacionales, regionales y subregionales, y de éstas entre sí. El Comité reitera su petición de que se le presente dicho informe.

49. El Comité contra el Terrorismo acoge complacido la labor de la Dirección Ejecutiva en preparación de la quinta reunión especial del Comité con organizaciones internacionales, regionales y subregionales. El Comité está deseoso de ver el plan de acción y espera vivamente que esta quinta reunión arroje resultados concretos.

50. En el programa de trabajo del Comité correspondiente al período comprendido entre julio y diciembre de 2006, se pidió que la Dirección Ejecutiva ayudara al Comité a preparar y organizar debates temáticos sobre la necesidad de intensificar esfuerzos para limitar la movilidad de los terroristas. El Comité preferiría celebrar dichos debates antes de la quinta reunión especial.

51. En 2005, el Comité alentó a la Dirección Ejecutiva a que prosiguiera y estrechara la fructífera cooperación con el Grupo para la acción contra el terrorismo establecido por iniciativa del Grupo de los Ocho. La Dirección Ejecutiva informó de que había seguido cooperando periódicamente con el Grupo para la acción contra el terrorismo y había participado en reuniones para tratar cuestiones de asistencia técnica y otras cuestiones de interés común. La Dirección Ejecutiva recibió del Grupo las matrices preliminares de asistencia e indicó que en breve plazo facilitaría su propia matriz actualizada. La Dirección Ejecutiva también informó de que se había reunido con representantes locales del Grupo durante sus visitas. El Comité acoge complacido la cooperación de la Dirección Ejecutiva con el Grupo y la alienta a proseguir y estrechar dicha cooperación, incluida la celebración de las reuniones mencionadas durante las visitas.

VII. Mejorar la capacidad de reunir información con miras a supervisar la labor de los Estados Miembros en su lucha contra el terrorismo y la capacidad de prestar la asistencia técnica apropiada, incluso mediante visitas autorizadas por el Estado interesado

52. La reunión de información sigue siendo indispensable para el Comité y constituye una base sólida para sus tareas de supervisión y promoción de la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001) del Consejo de Seguridad. Gracias a las visitas a los Estados y a un diálogo más fluido, ha aumentado la capacidad de la Dirección Ejecutiva para reunir información. El Comité tiene presentes las inquietudes de quienes mencionan cansancio en relación con la presentación de informes. Por ello, el Comité subrayó la necesidad de seguir mejorando la cooperación y el intercambio de información entre la Dirección Ejecutiva, el Equipo de Vigilancia del Comité establecido en virtud de la resolución 1267 (1999) y los expertos del Comité establecido en virtud de la resolución 1540 (2004). En la sección II supra se analizan cuestiones específicas relativas a las visitas y al diálogo con los Estados.

53. El Comité ha llegado a la conclusión de que sus nuevas evaluaciones preliminares en materia de aplicación facilitan análisis exhaustivos, sistemáticos e imparciales de la aplicación por los Estados de la resolución 1373 (2001). El Comité ha alentado a la Dirección Ejecutiva a que adopte un planteamiento uniforme en relación con dichos análisis y aproveche al máximo los conocimientos especializados de que dispone sobre cuestiones específicas a las que hace referencia la resolución 1373 (2001).

VIII. Mejorar la capacidad del Comité contra el Terrorismo para formular recomendaciones al Consejo de Seguridad en todos los ámbitos relativos a la aplicación de su resolución 1373 (2001)

54. El Comité reconoció que solo había dado los primeros pasos cara a este objetivo, principalmente debido a lo mucho que se había tardado en dotar de personal a la Dirección Ejecutiva. No obstante, el Comité manifestó su esperanza de poder aumentar su labor al respecto una vez cubiertos todos los puestos de la plantilla de la Dirección Ejecutiva. El Comité reiteró que, sin abandonar los principios fundamentales de cooperación, transparencia e imparcialidad, tenía la intención de hacer más sistemáticos, coherentes y amplios los análisis de las actividades de los Estados, fortaleciendo de ese modo su capacidad de ayudar de manera efectiva a estos últimos a aplicar cabalmente la resolución.

55. En el programa de trabajo correspondiente al período comprendido entre julio y diciembre de 2006, la Dirección Ejecutiva indicó que ayudaría al Comité a preparar y organizar debates temáticos sobre la necesidad de intensificar esfuerzos para limitar la movilidad de los terroristas. El Comité opina que esos debates temáticos serían muy valiosos, especialmente con miras a poder formular recomendaciones apropiadas al Consejo en relación con la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001).

IX. Agilizar la labor y simplificar los procedimientos

56. El Comité reconoció la necesidad de reexaminar las prácticas vigentes en materia de presentación de informes y manifestó su interés en conocer qué sugerencias concretas tenía al respecto la Dirección Ejecutiva. En el examen correspondiente a 2005, el Comité alentó a la Dirección Ejecutiva a proseguir su cooperación con otros órganos subsidiarios del Consejo competentes en la lucha contra el terrorismo (concretamente los Comités establecidos en virtud de las resoluciones 1257 (1999) y 1540 (2004), respectivamente) y con sus respectivos expertos y proponer al Comité modalidades para que la labor del Consejo en la materia saliera fortalecida de esa cooperación con una utilización eficiente de los recursos y una mínima superposición de tareas. A tal fin, la Dirección Ejecutiva informó al Comité de que, gracias a la cooperación con el Equipo de Vigilancia del Comité establecido en virtud de la resolución 1257 (1999) y los expertos del Comité establecido en virtud de la resolución 1540 (2004), había mejorado el intercambio de información sobre la aplicación por los Estados de las resoluciones pertinentes, se había facilitado el acceso recíproco a las bases de datos de los respectivos órganos y se habían utilizado al máximo los recursos de información disponibles, incluidos los informes de los Estados Miembros.

57. El Comité también señaló que acogería con beneplácito las propuestas que la Dirección Ejecutiva preparara en cooperación con expertos de los demás órganos subsidiarios del Consejo de Seguridad competentes en la lucha contra el terrorismo sobre maneras de simplificar la presentación de informes con arreglo a lo dispuesto en el Documento Final de la Cumbre Mundial 2005 (resolución 60/1).

58. En respuesta a la petición del Comité, el Director Ejecutivo escribió al Comité el 23 de marzo informándole de la labor realizada por los tres grupos de expertos sobre la cuestión del retraso en la presentación de informes por parte de los Estados. En primer lugar, ello abarcaba un mayor intercambio de información entre los grupos de expertos. En segundo lugar, dijo que se había acordado que los tres grupos de expertos estudiarían también la posibilidad de satisfacer los requisitos de presentación de informes respondiendo a un solo conjunto de preguntas. En tercer lugar, se acordó que los grupos coordinarían un enfoque común en materia de cooperación con las organizaciones regionales. En septiembre, la Dirección Ejecutiva presentó un nuevo documento conjunto sobre una estrategia común en relación con los Estados que no habían presentado o presentaban con retraso sus informes. El Comité reitera su petición de que la Dirección Ejecutiva le informe de los resultados obtenidos en la aplicación de esa estrategia.

59. El Comité alentó a la Dirección Ejecutiva a proseguir su cooperación con los demás órganos subsidiarios del Consejo de Seguridad competentes en la lucha contra el terrorismo y con sus respectivos expertos y a proponer al Comité modalidades para que la labor del Consejo en la materia saliera fortalecida de esa cooperación con una utilización eficiente de los recursos y una mínima superposición de tareas, inclusive en relación con las visitas a los Estados.

60. El Comité sigue concediendo gran importancia a la coordinación con expertos de los demás órganos subsidiarios del Consejo de Seguridad competentes en la lucha contra el terrorismo en lo que respecta a la preparación de las visitas y la simplificación de los procedimientos de presentación de informes.

X. Aplicación de la resolución 1624 (2005) del Consejo de Seguridad

61. En la resolución 1624 (2005), el Consejo encomendó al Comité que le informara, en un plazo de 12 meses, sobre la aplicación de la resolución por parte de los Estados. El Comité pidió a la Dirección Ejecutiva que preparara un informe sobre la base de los informes presentados por los Estados Miembros. Al concluir la redacción de dicho informe, habían presentado informes al Comité 69 Estados. El Comité toma conocimiento con aprecio de la labor de la Dirección Ejecutiva en relación con el informe sobre la aplicación por los Estados de la resolución 1624 (2005).

62. De conformidad con el mandato, la Dirección Ejecutiva también incluyó en su diálogo con los Estados Miembros la labor que llevaban a cabo para aplicar la resolución, inclusive en relación con las visitas a los Estados.

63. A fin de aportar elementos para el debate del Comité sobre la continuación de su labor relativa a la resolución 1624 (2005), la Dirección Ejecutiva preparó un documento de debate teniendo en cuenta que solo un tercio de los Estados Miembros habían respondido al cuestionario del Comité.

64. El Comité alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a proseguir su labor sobre la aplicación de la resolución 1624 (2005), con arreglo a las pautas señaladas por el Comité.

XI. Adoptar una estrategia de comunicación proactiva

65. El Comité alentó a la Dirección Ejecutiva a centrar su atención en presentar a los Estados Miembros una visión clara de la labor del Comité y su Dirección Ejecutiva. El Comité subrayó que la piedra angular de su estrategia de comunicación seguía siendo un sitio web actualizado.

66. La Dirección Ejecutiva preparó un plan de aplicación que fue debatido y aprobado por el Comité. La Dirección Ejecutiva remozó el sitio web del Comité y puso a punto un juego de material de prensa. Asimismo, el Director Ejecutivo concedió entrevistas a varias agencias de noticias durante el período comprendido en el presente informe y se celebraron conferencias de prensa al término de tres de las visitas a los Estados Miembros. Por último, la Dirección Ejecutiva organizó varias sesiones informativas acerca de la labor del Comité.

67. El Comité acogió con beneplácito el sitio web actualizado y el juego de material de prensa, y reiteró la importancia de poner al día periódicamente el sitio web para que tuviese siempre la máxima actualidad.

XII. Alcanzar y mantener un alto nivel de conocimientos en todos los ámbitos de la resolución 1373 (2001) del Consejo de Seguridad, inclusive mejorando las condiciones de trabajo de los expertos del Comité contra el Terrorismo

68. En 2005, el Comité alentó a la Dirección Ejecutiva a que aprovechara al máximo sus conocimientos recién adquiridos para promover la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001) y a que hiciera gala de una mayor transparencia en la forma en que utilizaba dichos conocimientos.

69. En 2005, el Comité alentó también a la Dirección Ejecutiva a asegurarse de que el personal de su plantilla tuviese la preparación y la experiencia necesarias para garantizar los más altos niveles de eficiencia, competencia e integridad, prestando la debida atención a la importancia de contratar personal sobre una base geográfica lo más amplia posible.

70. El Comité reitera su petición de una mayor transparencia en la labor que la Dirección Ejecutiva realiza con el Comité y con los Estados Miembros de las Naciones Unidas.

71. El Comité reitera la importancia que concede al más alto nivel de conocimientos en los ámbitos a que se refiere la resolución 1373 (2001). El Comité atribuye particular importancia a la capacidad de la Dirección Ejecutiva de aplicar esos conocimientos de manera uniforme a todos los aspectos de su labor. El Comité acoge con beneplácito la participación de los expertos de la Dirección Ejecutiva en cursos de formación apropiados.

XIII. Conclusiones

72. La Dirección Ejecutiva prestó un valioso apoyo al Comité a lo largo de todo el año. La Dirección Ejecutiva preparó programas de trabajo ambiciosos y siguió avanzando para alcanzar su objetivo, enunciado en el proceso de revitalización. El Comité celebró debates exhaustivos y minuciosos de los que se extrajeron las conclusiones que se especifican a continuación.

73. El Comité reafirma sus prioridades, enunciadas en su informe de 15 diciembre de 2005 al Consejo (véase S/2005/800, anexo) y sus principios rectores de cooperación, transparencia, imparcialidad y uniformidad de criterios.

74. El Comité destaca que el mandato de la Dirección Ejecutiva dimana de su propio mandato. El Comité alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a trabajar con la atención bien centrada en el logro de resultados concretos, es decir, resultados en la aplicación por los Estados de la resolución 1373 (2001), como se demuestra en el análisis de la Dirección Ejecutiva. El Comité alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a centrarse en sus mandatos básicos y acometer sus actividades en orden de prioridad. El Comité también subraya la necesidad fundamental de un enfoque orientado a la acción y de uniformidad de criterios y transparencia en general para garantizar la eficacia de la labor de la Dirección Ejecutiva sobre la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001).

75. El Comité subraya la importancia de redoblar esfuerzos para supervisar y promover la aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001). A tal efecto, el Comité ha formulado recomendaciones específicas a la Dirección Ejecutiva a lo largo del presente informe. En este sentido, el Comité espera con interés un análisis general del estado de aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001) sobre la base del análisis realizado mediante evaluaciones preliminares de la aplicación de dicha resolución por todos los Estados.

76. El Comité acoge con beneplácito los logros de la Dirección Ejecutiva en 2006, en particular la presentación de la propuesta relativa a las evaluaciones preliminares en materia de aplicación y del repertorio de las mejores prácticas.

77. El Comité toma conocimiento con aprecio de la labor de la Dirección Ejecutiva en relación con el informe sobre la aplicación por los Estados de la resolución 1624 (2005) y alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a proseguir su labor sobre la aplicación de dicha resolución con arreglo a las pautas señaladas por el Comité.

78. El Comité también acoge con beneplácito las actividades de la Dirección Ejecutiva en relación con las visitas, la asistencia técnica y una mayor cooperación con las organizaciones internacionales, regionales y subregionales. El Comité acoge complacido el mucho trabajo invertido en esos ámbitos y espera disponer de resultados más concretos en cada uno de ellos para su comparación con las metas convenidas.

79. El Comité alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a mantener e intensificar su diálogo con los Estados sobre la labor que llevan a cabo para aplicar la resolución 1373 (2001). Dicho diálogo es de particular importancia para la preparación y el seguimiento de las visitas.

80. El Comité sigue considerando fundamental su labor de prestación de asistencia técnica a los Estados para facilitarles el cumplimiento de sus obligaciones en virtud de la resolución 1373 (2001). El Comité es plenamente consciente de que se puede hacer más y alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a prestar más asistencia a los Estados que la necesitan para poder cumplir sus obligaciones en virtud de lo dispuesto en dicha resolución, de conformidad con la orientación normativa y el plan de aplicación conexo, a fin de que sean cada vez más los Estados que reciben la asistencia necesaria para impulsar su aplicación de la resolución 1373 (2001). La Dirección Ejecutiva debería centrarse en definir las necesidades prioritarias y esforzarse por atender esas necesidades. También se alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a que, en su cooperación con los donantes, colabore con Estados y organizaciones que tal vez no hayan prestado asistencia en ese ámbito. El Comité vería con muy buenos ojos una propuesta, presentada sin demora, sobre cómo obtener, dentro de los límites de los recursos existentes, más resultados al respecto.

81. Por último, el Comité alienta a la Dirección Ejecutiva a que siga estrechando sus relaciones con otras partes del sistema de las Naciones Unidas. En particular, el Comité subraya que para agilizar la labor y simplificar los procedimientos es absolutamente necesaria la máxima coordinación con los expertos de los demás órganos subsidiarios del Consejo de Seguridad competentes en la lucha contra el terrorismo.

Appendix I

Semi-Annual Comprehensive Report on the Work of the Counter-Terrorism Committee Executive Directorate for the Period 1 January to 30 June 2006

Introduction

As requested in paragraph 15 (e) of the report of the Counter-Terrorism Committee on its revitalization (SC/2004/124), endorsed by the Security Council in its resolution 1535 (2004), the Counter-Terrorism Committee Executive Directorate (CTED) hereby submits to the Committee, through the Secretary General, its semi-annual comprehensive report for the period 1 January to 30 June 2006.

The report is divided into two parts; the first provides a general analysis of Member States' progress in the implementation of Security Council resolution 1373 (2001) while the second covers CTED's activities pursuant to its mandate and to the Committee's policy guidance.

Special consideration is given to the new tools that the Committee has developed in order to enhance its dialogue with States and to address the problem of reporting fatigue that the Chairman brought before the Security Council in her presentation of the Committee's work programme for its nineteenth 90-day period (in February 2006). A review of the reporting regime is under way and the new preliminary implementation assessment (PIA) will be a useful analytical tool during this process. The new PIA will allow the Committee to better evaluate Member States' progress in implementation of the resolution and will improve CTED's facilitation of technical assistance by helping identify the priorities and needs of each Member State. CTED is working with donors and recipients to direct assistance towards those areas and to seek feedback from both providers and recipients.

The importance of international, regional and subregional organizations cannot be overemphasized. They are special partners in the work of the Committee and its Executive Directorate, and their role as participants in the visits to Member States and as assistance providers is extremely valuable. At present, CTED, under the Committee's guidance, is preparing for the fifth special meeting with international, regional and subregional organizations.

Part I: Member States' progress in the implementation of resolution 1373 (2001)

Since the adoption of Security Council resolution 1373 (2001) and the establishment of the Counter-Terrorism Committee with a mandate to monitor its implementation, Member States in all regions of the world have made significant progress in enacting laws and establishing policies in order to better combat terrorism. Some regions have made more rapid progress than others, but the Committee's role in monitoring States' implementation and facilitating technical assistance to those that may benefit from it has been useful in all regions.

Over 150 Member States have taken steps to combat money laundering and/or the financing of terrorism since September 2001. These include legislative, institutional and operational measures such as the adoption or amendment of financial laws; the creation of financial intelligence units (FIUs) and the development of increasing cooperation among them; and the regulation of banking activities with penalties for non-compliance. The strengthening of customs and border controls was the second most widespread trend; over 75 countries have implemented measures such as stricter standards for airport, seaport and border security, amended asylum legislation and the introduction of tamper-proof machine-readable travel documents.

Some 50 States have progressed beyond the adoption of anti-terrorist-financing laws by more closely supervising the activities of charitable organizations, denying terrorists access to weapons and prohibiting recruitment to terrorist groups. The slowest progress has been made in areas that depend on bilateral action, such as extradition treaties, early warning and cooperative arrangements; less than a fifth of the States which reported to the Committee have taken action in that regard. Since September 2001, over a third of Member States have ratified the majority of the international counter-terrorism instruments.

However, the resolution has not been implemented uniformly; some regions have moved quickly while others have lagged behind for a variety of reasons. The following is a regional breakdown of progress in the implementation of resolution 1373 (2001), including Member States' initiatives for, inter alia, preventing the financing of and provision of support for terrorism, increasing inter-State cooperation in order to bring terrorists to justice, preventing the movement of terrorists and ratifying the international counter-terrorism instruments.

Western European and Other States

With their highly developed economic and legal systems, the members of the Group of Western European and Other States have made the greatest progress in implementing resolution 1373 (2001). Nevertheless, because these States are at high risk for terrorist attacks and have a large volume of financial transactions and the heaviest concentration of air and sea traffic in the world, several of them have benefited from the Committee's guidance in their efforts to improve their financial regulations and domestic security policies.

Almost all these countries have taken new or additional measures to specifically criminalize the financing of terrorism and prevent the provision of financial, logistical and material support for terrorist groups, particularly by regulating the acquisition, possession, sale, import and export of weapons and ammunition and auditing the financial records of charitable organizations. About half of them have introduced new or stronger anti-money-laundering legislation allowing for the freezing of funds and assets; this is particularly noteworthy in the case of several European countries with stringent bank secrecy laws. Since many countries in this Group had already adopted extradition and mutual legal assistance legislation within the framework of membership in the European Union, little additional progress in this area has been reported. However, more than half of them have improved their customs and border control institutions and regulations (in order to prevent terrorists from exploiting refugee status) and are phasing in new machine-readable passports with the ability to carry biometric data chips that make them virtually impossible to counterfeit.

Most of the States in this Group are technical assistance providers; however, a few of them have received technical assistance in the areas of law enforcement, specialized training and other operational aspects of implementation of the resolution.

Eastern European States

The Eastern European countries' progress in implementation of the resolution is similar to that of the Group of Western European and Other States. Three-quarters of the countries of Eastern Europe have made progress in preventing money laundering, a chronic problem in the region, and an equal number have taken measures to strengthen their border controls, aviation and port security and asylum legislation. More than two-thirds of the countries in this Group have introduced or implemented laws criminalizing the financing of terrorism and about half of them have adopted stricter laws on the proliferation of weapons, trafficking in drugs and persons and prevention of support for terrorists and their sympathizers. Cooperation with regional bodies such as the European Police Office (Europol) and the International Police Organization (Interpol) has also increased.

The Committee has focused on some States of this region which are vulnerable to arms and drug trafficking and to regional instabilities by conducting visits to Albania and The former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia. While progress in these two countries has been ongoing, the visits have given the Committee and the participating international and regional organizations a better idea of the gaps in their implementation of the resolution and of their technical assistance needs and those of the broader subregion.

Western European States have been the primary source of technical assistance to Eastern Europe. Much of this assistance has been delivered through institutional mechanisms such as the expanded Poland and Hungary Assistance for Restructuring their Economies (PHARE) Programme and the Community Assistance for Reconstruction, Development and Stability in the Balkans (CARDS), which facilitate the recipients' eventual entry into the European Union. Another donor with which the Committee has been engaged in the region is the European Union, including the European Commission and the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE).

Latin American and Caribbean States

After Europe, the Latin American and Caribbean States have made the most consistent progress in their implementation of the resolution. More than two thirds of the countries of this region have adopted anti-money-laundering legislation and nearly a fifth have established FIUs. Several Caribbean countries have made particularly good progress in combating the financing of terrorism through technical assistance provided by the Commonwealth Secretariat; this is a notable achievement in light of the vulnerability of offshore banking to terrorists seeking to hide ill-gotten wealth or to transmit funds covertly to their confederates.

Improvements in customs and border control measures have also been significant. Some Caribbean countries have taken note of the Committee's promotion of best practices in the areas of port and aviation security and have implemented stricter security guidelines retroactively by recalling and reissuing all personnel passes. Other Latin American countries have revised port security measures in order to make them more fully compliant with the International Maritime Organization (IMO) International Ship and Port Security (ISPS) Code.

The European Commission and other donors have provided technical assistance in the areas of legislative drafting, training for law enforcement officials and delivery of technologically advanced equipment for the prevention, protection and punishment of organized criminal activities, especially those related to drug trafficking, counterfeiting of currency and forgery of travel documents. The technical assistance delivered by the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) and the Committee's focus on ratification of the international counter-terrorism instruments have also borne fruit. Over a third of the countries in this region have become parties to the majority of these instruments since September 2001. Latin America has the second highest level of ratification in this area, following Europe; many of these countries also have counter-terrorism-related bills currently before Parliament.

Africa

Progress in the implementation of resolution 1373 (2001) has been notable in North Africa, some countries of East Africa and a few countries of Southern Africa. Overall, however, Africa's rate of progress in this regard has been the slowest of any region. This is a consequence of several factors, most notably the high levels of poverty and disease that require African governments to prioritize development over counter-terrorism efforts. Several regions of the continent are mired in instability and civil war, which affect counter-terrorism efforts at a broader level in affected countries and their neighbours.

According to the Executive Directorate's records, 38 African countries are late in submitting their reports to the Committee. A total of 14 States have not submitted a second report and 15 are late in submitting their third reports; most of these are overdue by two or three years. Hence, there is limited information on which to base a comprehensive evaluation of the African States' progress in implementation of the resolution. However, it is clear from the reports submitted by May 2006 that even in the case of countries that have made no significant progress in implementing the resolution and where conditions for the impact of technical assistance are not ideal, donors have prioritized the aspects of implementation for which technical assistance is most needed in order to minimize the chances of terrorists exploiting specific weaknesses. For example, IMO has provided training for port security and cargo officials in Liberia, which maintains the world's second largest shipping registry.

Most African countries have focused primarily on anti-money-laundering and financing-of-terrorism measures and on improving customs and border controls. Over a third of African countries have enacted new or improved anti-money-laundering laws while somewhat fewer have taken additional measures, such as establishing or empowering FIUs. More countries have joined the Eastern and Southern Africa Anti-Money Laundering Group (ESAAMLG), which has helped its members improve their legislation and regulate cash couriers, a major weakness in the region, effectively. In the case of some countries, which have enacted counter-terrorism laws that lack critical elements for the effective prevention and punishment of terrorists, the Committee has worked with governments to amend existing legislation.

In accordance with paragraphs 2 (g) and 3 (a) of the resolution, over a quarter of the African States have enhanced their customs and border control policies at the operational level through measures that vary from increasing coordination between immigration checkpoints to implementing the Personal Identification Secure Comparison and Evaluation System (PISCES) for checking data on entering and exiting passengers against lists of known terrorists. Other States have upgraded their cargo search equipment and adopted supply chain protocols in accordance with World Customs Organization (WCO) standards, and several States have amended their immigration laws by including measures to prevent the misuse of refugee and asylum status by terrorists. Accession to the international counter-terrorism instruments has also risen sharply since the Committee's establishment; roughly half the African States have become parties to the majority of these instruments since September 2001.

As at June 2006, the Committee had conducted visits to Morocco, Kenya, Algeria and the United Republic of Tanzania, the highest concentration in any region; these visits have resulted in improved implementation of resolution 1373 (2001). The participation of other international and regional organizations in the Committee's visits has been useful, not only by giving the host country a more constructive evaluation of its laws, institutions and policies but also by increasing major donors' awareness of the specific needs and limitations of the countries visited.

Progress in other areas of implementation, such as improved cooperation with other States and the adoption of measures aimed at bringing terrorists to justice, has been limited. Various bills are in the pipeline; most of them pertain to money laundering and the financing of terrorism, but others are more comprehensive and target all or most of the areas relevant to the resolution. African countries have also joined or increased contact with Interpol, through which they can exchange information on terrorists and their movements. In the past five years, several additional States have become parties to the 1999 Organization of the African Union Convention on the Prevention and Combating of Terrorism; this should facilitate the extradition of terrorists. Some countries have established high-level committees to advise their ministries, judiciary, law enforcement bodies and financial institutions on their counter-terrorism responsibilities or to facilitate implementation of the resolution by identifying gaps and addressing them.

In addition to the major donor countries of Europe, North America and Asia, the Commonwealth Secretariat, UNODC, the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), the International Monetary Fund (IMF), the World Bank and IMO are among the prominent technical assistance providers in Africa and the Committee's frequent exchange of information on technical assistance needs with these organizations has resulted in numerous seminars, workshops and evaluations in African countries.

Asia

The Committee's progress in facilitating implementation of the resolution in Asia, which is the largest regional group and includes a number of subregions, varies significantly across the continent; even within regions, there is noticeable contrast. In Western Asia, for example, the countries of the Eastern Mediterranean region have focused primarily on anti-money-laundering and -financing-of-terrorism laws and institutions while in the Gulf region, implementation of the resolution is considerably more broad-based and includes not only financing, but also measures for bringing terrorists to justice, strengthened security along borders and at ports and airports and criminalization of the provision of assistance to terrorists.

Generally speaking, anti-money-laundering laws and efforts to combat the financing of terrorism have made the strongest headway in Asia. Over two thirds of the Asian States have criminalized money laundering, and more than a third have adopted laws against terrorist financing in accordance with article 2 of the International Convention on the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism. More than a quarter of Asian States have established or strengthened their FIUs and some have signed bilateral information exchange agreements. Several of these countries have issued legally enforceable Central Bank regulations on suspicious transactions, alternative funds transfer methods and customer identification. Others have taken note of the Committee's emphasis on the urgency of adopting financial regulations by issuing temporary stop-gap measures until more permanent mechanisms can be implemented. New laws on extradition and mutual legal assistance have been introduced in the East Asian region, especially in the Pacific Islands, where progress in the implementation of paragraph 2 (e) and (f) of the resolution at the legislative level is almost universal.

In some countries, legislation has been amended after deficiencies or loopholes were pointed out by the Committee and technical assistance providers. At the operational level, countries of the region have mentioned in their reports successful seizures of illegal arms, drugs and funds potentially linked to terrorism, suggesting that increased scrutiny and awareness among border and customs officials has made it harder for terrorists to move supplies and persons illegally. Pursuant to paragraph 2 (d) and (g) of the resolution, several States have developed stricter procedures for granting citizenship and residency permits and have introduced tamper-proof machine-readable passports, and a few have established Interpol National Central Bureaus to prevent the entry of known or suspected criminals. States have also informed the Committee of new mechanisms for improving inter-agency coordination; some have reported the detection and arrest of counterfeiting rings and groups responsible for forging travel and identity documents. As at June 2006, the Committee has conducted country visits to Thailand and Jordan.

Regional organizations in Asia have also played a steadily increasing role in counter-terrorism activities. The Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC), the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) and the Organization of the Islamic Conference (OIC) have issued major counter-terrorism declarations and conventions since 2001. As more countries recognize the seriousness of the terrorist threat, new organizations with a greater focus on counter-terrorism, such as the Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO), have gained prominence.

Donor States in Europe, North America and Asia have played a crucial role in providing technical assistance to Asian States, while international organizations such as the European Union, the Commonwealth Secretariat, IMO, ICAO, the World Bank, IMF and UNODC have provided specialized training in their respective areas of expertise. Several small countries, especially the Pacific Island States, have benefited greatly from technical assistance, as seen from the uniformity of their progress in implementing the resolution and ratifying the international counter-terrorism instruments.

Part II: CTED's activities from 1 January to 30 June 2006

1. Monitoring the implementation of resolution 1373 (2001) by Member States

Under the Committee's guidance, CTED is implementing new tools for its work with Member States. One such tool is a more sophisticated preliminary implementation assessment (PIA), which provides the Committee with a detailed picture of each State's progress in the implementation of resolution 1373 (2001) and identifies areas in which technical assistance may be needed. Following the Committee's adoption of the new PIA template, CTED began using it to prepare new PIAs for each of the 192 Member States. This process will be completed by the end of 2006.

The PIAs will be the cornerstone of a CTED database containing information on Member States' implementation of the resolution, currently in preparation. They will also facilitate the more tailored approach that the Committee has decided to adopt by addressing specific areas of vulnerability such as the financial sector, border controls and law enforcement for each State.

In the case of countries which lack the capacity to report to the Committee, CTED will initiate a programme of teleconferences or short expert visits in order to find ways of gathering the necessary information and identifying gaps and basic assistance needs in cooperation with national officials.

Visits to Member States

The Committee's visits are one of its most important tools in evaluating the status of implementation of resolution 1373 (2001) by Member States. The cooperation of other international organizations is critical to this endeavour.

The visit reports and the recommendations that they contain initiate the follow-up phase, during which CTED works with the State in order to improve its counter-terrorism capacity. At this stage, the facilitation of technical assistance plays an important role in meeting the country's needs, as has been seen in the Committee's visits to Morocco, Albania, Thailand, Algeria and Kenya; in the last of these visits, representatives of CTED and UNODC made a follow-up visit to Nairobi in order to assist the Government in its implementation of the recommendations contained in the report.

During the reporting period, CTED conducted visits to the United Republic of Tanzania (13-17 February 2006), The former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia (5-10 March 2006) and Jordan (18-22 June 2006). As with previous visits, the cooperation of the international organizations invited to participate was greatly appreciated. CTED has also been actively engaged in preparations for the visits to Malaysia and to eight other States that have been approved by the Committee.

2. Facilitation of technical assistance

The facilitation of technical assistance to Member States is one of the most important functions of the Committee and its Executive Directorate. The Committee has adopted policy guidance on this matter and has approved CTED's implementation plan, which is designed to produce concrete, measurable results (see Annex 1).

CTED analyses Member States' technical assistance needs in the context of their implementation of resolution 1373 (2001) and engages in dialogue with them in order to agree on prioritized areas for technical assistance. Its technical assistance work is an integral part of its visits and outreach to States, its cooperation with international, regional and subregional organizations and its work on the identification, promotion and use of best practices. The new PIA enhances its ability to identify more accurately and comprehensively the technical assistance needs of Member States.

As at 30 June 2006, the Executive Directorate has analysed the needs of 93 States and has met with 41 of them, including 6 late submitters, to discuss priorities. It has also arranged referrals to donors and international organizations capable of providing assistance in the areas identified. Thus, CTED has referred 46 States to UNODC for technical assistance in the areas of legislative drafting and ratification and implementation of the international counter-terrorism instruments; thus far, UNODC has contacted 13 of these States. Similarly, CTED has referred 64 States to IMF for technical assistance in establishing and strengthening their FIUs and training in money laundering and terrorist financing investigation techniques.

CTED has met and established contacts with 18 donor countries. As a result of these contacts, formal and informal referrals have been made to seven of these countries with a view to the provision of technical assistance in areas such as customs, border controls and law enforcement. In addition, the assistance needs of 65 countries have been shared with the Group of Eight Counter-Terrorism Action Group (CTAG). CTED conducts proactive follow-up to its referrals in order to ensure that the needs of Member States are met and that they have the capacity to implement resolution 1373 (2001) effectively.

Best Practices

In accordance with the relevant provisions of Security Council resolutions and with the Committee's policy guidance, as contained in its report to the Security Council for the latter's consideration as part of its comprehensive review of CTED (S/2005/800) and in the 90-day reports of the Committee, CTED has been working on the collection, identification, analysis, development and dissemination of best practices related to resolution 1373 (2001). It has submitted to the Committee a number of draft documents, including an action plan on the framework for this exercise and a list of priority areas in which the need for best practices is the greatest.

Under this action plan (see Annex 2), CTED was to prepare, by the end of June 2006, “recommendations on specific best practices within the areas of priority which could be considered for promotion by the Committee” and “recommendations on best practices which are not exactly in line with the provisions of resolution 1373 (2001), including recommendations on the international, regional or subregional organization with which to consider these differences and on how to take the issue forward”.

After consulting with the relevant international organizations, in particular ICAO, IMO and WCO, CTED has prepared a set of draft recommendations on available best practices in three priority areas: (1) suppression of the financing of terrorism; (2) criminal law and procedure and international cooperation; and (3) preventing the movement of terrorists and their weapons and equipment. Following consideration by the Committee, this document will be placed on the website.

During the reporting period, CTED has been incorporating the application of best practices into its discussions with national officials during visits to Member States and has referred to this issue in the draft letters of reply to States’ reports on their implementation of the resolution and in its dialogue with these States.

3. Human rights and counter-terrorism

CTED has continued to take human rights into account in the course of its activities in accordance with the directive, contained in the Committee’s report to the Security Council for its consideration as part of its comprehensive review of the Counter-Terrorism Committee Executive Directorate of 16 December 2005 (S/2005/800), which was endorsed by the Council. On 25 May 2006, the Committee adopted policy guidance for CTED regarding the incorporation of human rights into its work programme. The Committee concluded that CTED should, as appropriate, provide advice to the Committee on international human rights, refugee, and humanitarian law in connection with the identification and implementation of effective measures to implement resolution 1373 (2001); advise the Committee on how to ensure that any measures States take to implement the provisions of resolution 1624 (2005) comply with their obligations under international law; and liaise with the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights and, as appropriate, with other human rights organizations in matters related to counter-terrorism. The Committee also stated that CTED should incorporate human rights into its communications strategy, as appropriate. CTED is moving ahead with its work in this area, following the Committee’s policy guidance.

4. Cooperation with the Monitoring Teams of the Security Council Committee established pursuant to resolution 1267 (1999) and the experts of the Security Council Committee established pursuant to resolution 1540 (2004)

The Executive Directorate cooperates with the experts of the other two Security Council Committees working in the field of counter-terrorism in a number of ways.

In analysing the reports submitted by Member States pursuant to resolution 1373 (2001) and in preparing PIAs, CTED consults the reports that these States have submitted pursuant to Security Council resolutions 1455 (2003) and 1540 (2004) in order to avoid overlapping and duplication and to ensure full use of all available sources of information.

In addition, the Executive Directorate provides the Monitoring Team of the Security Council Committee established pursuant to resolution 1267 (1999) (the “1267 Committee”), before its visits to Member States, with a comprehensive overview of issues of concern regarding their implementation of resolution 1373 (2001). Similarly, the Monitoring Team informs CTED, prior to the Committee’s visits to Member States, of its concerns regarding the State in question so that the delegation can raise them with the national authorities. The Monitoring Team participated in the Committee's visit to Tanzania.

The Monitoring Team also transmits to CTED requests for technical assistance which it receives during its visits, and the CTED experts share information and documents with the experts of the Security Council Committee established pursuant to resolution 1540 (2004) (the "1540 Committee") who are mandated to facilitate the provision of technical assistance within the framework of that resolution.

CTED invites the Monitoring Team and the experts of the 1540 Committee to attend expert meetings that it organizes in New York. A common strategy for addressing the problem of States which are late in submitting their reports to the three Committees is currently under discussion by CTED, the Monitoring Team and the experts of the 1540 Committee.

5. Cooperation with international, regional and subregional organizations

Cooperation with international, regional and subregional organizations, as set forth in Security Council resolution 1535 (2004), is one of the pillars of CTED's work and is crucial in promoting the broader implementation of Security Council resolutions 1373 (2001) and 1624 (2005) and the delivery of technical assistance. CTED has established contacts with a wide range of organizations selected for their ability to use their geographic, political, technical and financial leverage in support of States' implementation of the resolutions. Over the past six months, CTED has improved the flow of information with and among these organizations and, because some of them are involved in the preparation of technical standards in areas related to counter-terrorism, it has worked with them to ensure broader dissemination of these best practices. CTED has also developed relationships with organizations in a position to provide technical assistance to States and other organizations in areas related to implementation of the resolutions. The participation of experts from these organizations in the Committee's country visits benefits CTED, the organization and the host country since the information obtained during the visit makes it possible to gain a better idea of gaps in implementation and to better target the delivery of technical assistance. The following is a summary of CTED's dealings with selected international, regional and subregional organizations and of the progress achieved during the reporting period.

Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE)

CTED has maintained ongoing contact with the OSCE Action against Terrorism Unit (ATU) in order to discuss the organization of workshops and conferences and the delivery of technical assistance in matters relevant to the implementation of Security Council resolutions 1373 (2001) and 1624 (2005). A CTED expert attended a workshop on extradition and mutual legal assistance that was organized under the joint auspices of OSCE and UNODC and held in Vienna on 23 and 24 March 2006. The workshop brought together leading jurists and prosecutors from Eastern European and Central Asian countries and presented an in-depth review of the provisions of the counter-terrorism instruments and resolutions pertaining to extradition and mutual legal assistance. The workshop proved most useful and further training in these subjects is planned in order to facilitate the investigation and prosecution of terrorist offences. CTED maintains regular contact with the OSCE Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights (ODIHR), which has shared resource materials and provided country-specific input in relation to the Committee's visits to OSCE member States.

North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO)

In February and March 2006, a CTED expert met with Ms. Eirini Lemos-Maniaty of NATO's Political Affairs and Security Policy Division in order to discuss areas where NATO-CTED cooperation could be expanded. This dialogue was further enhanced by the visit of Mr. Martin Erdmann, Assistant Secretary General for Political Affairs and Security Policy, who addressed the Committee on 30 March 2006. In follow-up to this visit, the Executive Director addressed the Senior Political Committee at NATO Headquarters on 3 April 2006. Since then, contacts have been ongoing but further collaboration in the exchange of information and possible provision of technical assistance in the areas of border security and reduction of small arms and light weapons has been put on hold pending preparation of the United Nations comments on the draft joint NATO-United Nations declaration.

Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO) Regional Anti-Terrorism Structure (RATS), Tashkent

In April, 2006, Mr. Vyacheslav Kasymov, Director of the RATS Executive Committee, wrote to the Chairman of the Committee with a view to the conclusion of a memorandum of cooperation. This proposal did not meet with the Committee's approval.

World Customs Organization (WCO)

CTED worked with WCO to clarify and evaluate the latter's best practices in areas relevant to resolution 1373 (2001). The participation of WCO experts in the Committee's country visits and the possibility that WCO could provide States with technical assistance with implementation of the resolution have been discussed.

International Maritime Organization (IMO)

In June 2006, CTED worked with IMO to clarify and evaluate Parts A and B of the International Ship and Port Facility Security (ISPS) Code with a view to presenting them as best practices for maritime security in the context of implementation of resolution 1373 (2001). IMO participated in the Committee's visits to the United Republic of Tanzania and Jordan. In addition, CTED plans to enhance its expertise in the area of maritime security by sending some of its experts to take the "train the trainer" course offered by IMO.

International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO)

CTED is working with ICAO to develop best practices in areas relevant to the implementation of resolution 1373 (2001) and to discuss the provision of technical assistance in that connection. ICAO participated in the Committee's visit to Jordan.

Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN)

CTED has exchanged information on counter-terrorism-related matters with the ASEAN secretariat on a number of occasions and approached the secretariat regarding the possible participation of one of its experts in the Committee's visit to Malaysia. The secretariat informed CTED that it does not monitor progress in the implementation of resolution 1373 (2001) on a regional basis as this is a direct obligation of Member States to the United Nations.

International Criminal Police Organization (Interpol)

CTED held discussions within the framework of the 1997 Cooperation Agreement between the United Nations and Interpol in order to establish modalities for the exchange of information in the context of effective implementation of resolutions 1373 (2001) and 1624 (2005). CTED has been meeting with Interpol National Central Bureaus (NCB) during country visits in order to obtain information on, inter alia, the impact of international legal assistance and the frequency with which Interpol's database is consulted. Interpol has participated in almost all the Committee's country visits.

European Union

CTED maintains regular consultations with the Council of the European Union Working Party on Terrorism (COTER), composed of representatives of the Ministries of Foreign Affairs of States members of the European Union, and the Counter-Terrorism Working Group (CTWG), composed of representatives of their Ministries of the Interior and Defence. The Executive Director met with COTER and CTWG during his visit to Brussels on 3 and 4 April 2006 and the President of CTWG, Ms. Martina Koger, addressed the Committee on 25 May 2006. In order to develop closer linkages with the European Union in the provision of technical assistance, CTED met with Mr. Esa Paasivirta of the Permanent Observer Mission of the European Commission to the United Nations on 7 June 2006. European Union officials also participated in the Committee's visit to The former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, conducted from 5 to 10 March 2006.

Council of Europe

A CTED expert attended the tenth meeting of the Council of Europe Committee of Experts on Terrorism (CODEXTER), held in Strasbourg from 19 to 21 June 2006, as part of its effort to provide input into the Council's plans and strategies and to ensure that they appropriately reflect the provisions of resolutions 1373 (2001) and 1624 (2005). CTED also maintains regular contact with the Council's Directorates of Legal Affairs and Human Rights in order to encourage the development and dissemination of best practices, to obtain documentation on public security and the rule of law and to keep abreast of the latest developments in Council members' implementation of the resolutions.

Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR)

Pursuant to the Committee's revitalization plan and to its policy guidance in the area of human rights, CTED maintains regular liaison with OHCHR with respect to general human rights issues in the area of counter-terrorism and to country-specific findings of the United Nations human rights mechanisms.

Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR)

In May 2006, a CTED expert met with the Protection Policy and Legal Advice Section of UNHCR's Department of International Protection in order to develop modalities for future coordination on policy guidance and technical assistance relating to counter-terrorism. In March 2006, UNHCR provided CTED with its interpretation of resolution 1624 (2005) as it concerns asylum seekers and refugees. CTED has requested UNHCR to emphasize the need for scrupulous application of the exclusion clauses in all its technical assistance programmes for State officials involved in refugee status determination as from the second half of 2006, to develop and disseminate best practices for preventing terrorists from obtaining refugee status and to prepare appropriate guidelines by the end of the current year. In May 2006, UNHCR agreed to provide CTED with feedback on best practices for granting asylum status and on related developments. More significantly, in May 2006, UNHCR agreed to provide information and assistance in connection with the Committee's country visits.

United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO)

In June 2006, a UNESCO representative briefed the CTED staff on UNESCO's efforts to promote dialogue between civilizations and its relevance to the implementation of resolution 1624 (2005). UNESCO plans to update the counter-terrorism portal on its website and to link it with the Committee's website during the second half of 2006.

Intergovernmental Authority on Development (IGAD)

In order to assess the terrorist threat and to enhance capacity building and cooperation between their organizations, IGAD and the Institute for Security Studies (ISS), a non-profit African research institute, launched the IGAD Capacity Building Programme Against Terrorism (ICPAT) on 21 June 2006; in that connection, ISS has opened an office in Addis Ababa. CTED is following up with Mr. Daniel Yifru, Director of IGAD, and Mr. Hiruy Amanuel, Programme Head of ICPAT, on progress regarding this counter-terrorism project in order to explore ways of assisting IGAD members in their implementation of resolutions 1373 (2001) and 1624 (2005).

United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC)

CTED has facilitated the delivery of technical assistance by making country referrals to UNODC and has worked with the UNODC experts to identify priority areas for legislative drafting assistance in the context of implementation of the international counter-terrorism instruments. The two bodies also share mission and technical assistance reports. CTED experts attended workshops in Panama and Vienna in March 2006 and UNODC participated in the Committee's visits to the United Republic of Tanzania and The former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia. UNODC has designated a focal point in New York to follow up with CTED staff. The two bodies coordinate and exchange information on a daily basis.

African Union: African Centre for the Study and Research on Terrorism (ACSRT)

CTED participated in the Trans-Sahara Counter-Terrorism Topical Seminar in Algiers, held from 19 to 24 February 2006 under the joint auspices of the Africa Centre for Strategic Studies (ACSS) (in the United States of America's National Defense University) and ACSRT. CTED works with ACSRT in an effort to help African States become parties to and implement the international counter-terrorism instruments, and ACSRT participated in the Committee's visit to the United Republic of Tanzania. CTED is exploring the possibility that the African Union might co-host the fifth special meeting of the Committee with international, regional and subregional organizations and is working to ensure that the ACSRT focal points in capitals encourage member States of the African Union which are late in submitting reports on their implementation of resolution 1373 (2001) to re-establish dialogue with the Committee.

Group of Eight Counter-Terrorism Action Group (CTAG)

In February and April 2006, CTED participated in CTAG meetings in order to share views on technical assistance and other matters of common interest pertaining to the countries and regions highlighted at these meetings. CTED has access to CTAG's technical assistance matrix and shares its own matrix with CTAG. During its visits to Algeria, The former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, the United Republic of Tanzania and Jordan, CTED met with local CTAG representatives in order to better target States' needs for technical assistance. It has also communicated States' technical assistance needs to CTAG in writing (most recently by letter dated 3 April 2006) and at CTAG meetings.

Financial Action Task Force (FATF)

In February and June 2006, CTED participated actively in meetings of the FATF Plenary, its Working Group on Terrorist Financing and Money Laundering and its Working Group on Evaluation and Implementation by providing guidance and suggestions on the development of standards for the implementation of resolution 1373 (2001). CTED organized discussions in the margins of these meetings, and eight organizations have undertaken to disseminate information on CTED's regional activities and to provide information on technical assistance needs. Post-Plenary briefings were drafted for circulation to the Committee and more detailed internal papers were prepared for the use of CTED's experts in their monitoring of States. In February 2006, two CTED staff members participated in a FATF Evaluators Training Workshop. As from the second half of 2006, FATF has agreed to the participation of its experts in the Committee's country visits.

Commonwealth Secretariat

CTED's experts have maintained ongoing liaison with their counterparts in the Legal and Constitutional Affairs Division and the Criminal Law Division of the Commonwealth Secretariat. Where possible, CTED provides input on the development of model legislation and on technical assistance programmes consistent with resolution 1373 (2001). It has been involved in information exchange and in the coordination of training through capacity-building workshops and the development of manuals. CTED has been informed by the Commonwealth Secretariat that capacity-building programmes for law enforcement officials were scheduled for March 2006, in Jamaica, and June 2006, in Trinidad and Tobago.

Pacific Islands Forum

CTED maintains ongoing dialogue with the Pacific Islands Forum, through the Forum secretariat, with respect to the implementation of resolution 1373 (2001) by States of the region; the facilitation of technical assistance, where needed; and the development of States' capacity for reporting and implementation. CTED and the Forum secretariat have established focal points for dialogue at the State and inter-agency levels. CTED, the Chairman of the Committee and representatives of the 1267 and 1540 Committees participated in the Forum's Counter-Terrorism Working Group Meeting, held in New Zealand in April 2006. The CTED representative provided clarification of the Executive Directorate's work, gained a better understanding of the challenges faced by Forum members in implementing resolutions 1373 (2001) and 1624 (2005) and entered into dialogue with the Forum secretariat on ways of further assisting States in their implementation of resolution 1373 (2001). Working-level cooperation with the Forum secretariat was established during the reporting period, as evidenced by the exchange of information on implementation and existing assistance programmes. During this period, CTED also sought updates from Forum members on difficulties in implementation of the resolution that might be addressed through technical assistance; this information will be compiled and disseminated to potential international and bilateral donors.

United Nations Development Programme (UNDP)

In order to ensure better coordination of the Committee's visits, CTED has involved the directors of the UNDP regional bureaus in New York prior to departure and has met with the Programme's resident staff during the visits themselves. This approach was followed during the visits to the United Republic of Tanzania and Jordan and has proved useful in exploring ways in which counter-terrorism-related technical assistance could be incorporated into the capacity-building programmes administered by UNDP. On 7 June 2006, the Executive Director met with the UNDP Administrator to discuss continued support for CTED's activities.

Caribbean Community (CARICOM)

On 16 and 17 February 2006, CTED, together with an expert from the 1540 Committee, travelled to Georgetown, Guyana to discuss with the CARICOM secretariat and members various aspects of the implementation of resolutions 1373 (2001) and 1624 (2005) and, in particular, ways for the CARICOM countries to benefit from technical assistance in this endeavour and to better fulfil their reporting obligations under resolutions 1373 (2001), 1267 (1999) and 1540 (2004). CTED later wrote to the Secretary General of CARICOM and the Executive Director of the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force (CTAFT) in order to discuss follow-up to this visit, including improved information sharing with CTED and capacity building for States of the region.

Organization of American States (OAS)

CTED was invited to attend the sixth regular session of the OAS Inter-American Committee against Terrorism (CICTE), held in Bogotá, Colombia from 22 to 24 March 2006 on the topic of "Hemispheric Cooperation for Comprehensive Action to Fight Terrorism". CTED's participation in the session provided an update on the work of CICTE and an opportunity for a direct exchange of views on matters related to the implementation of resolution 1373 (2001) and on further cooperation between the Committee/CTED and CICTE.

Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC)

CTED was invited to attend a meeting of the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) Counter-Terrorism Task Force (CTTF), held in Ho Chi Minh City on 26 and 27 May 2006. The CTED representative provided an overview of the mandate of the Committee and its Executive Directorate and explained how the Committee facilitates the provision of technical assistance for the implementation of resolution 1373 (2001).

Asia-Europe Meeting (ASEM)

CTED was invited to attend the Fourth Asia-Europe Meeting (ASEM) Conference on Counter-Terrorism, held in Copenhagen on 26 and 27 June 2006. Its representative made a presentation in one of the working groups, urging support for the role of the United Nations and the work of the Committee. The event provided an opportunity for CTED to share its experience with ASEM members in the context of their common counter-terrorism effort.

Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS)

CTED contacted ECOWAS representatives at the Trans-Sahara Counter-Terrorism Topical Seminar, held in Algiers from 19 to 24 February under the joint auspices of ACSRT and ACSS, and is exploring ways to enhance cooperation with this organization. The Committee's visit to Nigeria will provide an opportunity to meet with ECOWAS representatives at its headquarters.

Fifth special meeting of the Committee with international, regional and subregional organizations

In keeping with the Committee's decision to further enhance its cooperation with international, regional and subregional organizations, the Executive Directorate proposed that a fifth special meeting with these organizations should be organized. It will be recalled that four previous meetings have been held in New York (March 2003), Washington, D C. (October 2003), Vienna (March 2004) and Almaty, Kazakhstan (January 2005). Building on the outcome of these meetings, which focused primarily on topics such as terrorist financing and international cooperation, and in line with the desire for a results-oriented approach, CTED proposed that the fifth special meeting should address key issues related to the need to secure borders against penetration by terrorists and the perpetration of terrorist acts. On 18 May 2006, the Committee welcomed this proposal and accepted the suggested theme: "The prevention of terrorist movement and effective border security." The dates of the meeting have yet to be determined. All United Nations Member States will be invited to attend as observers. The Executive Directorate is currently consulting with Interpol, ICAO, IMO, WCO and UNHCR on issues relating to preparations for the meeting, including modalities for discussion, expected outcomes and types of activities to be included in a follow-up plan of action. CTED has also approached the African Union regarding its possible co-sponsorship of the event.

6. Monitoring the implementation of Security Council resolution 1624 (2005) by Member States

In its resolution 1624 (2005), the Security Council calls on States to adopt a range of counter-terrorism measures, including prohibition and prevention of incitement to commit terrorist acts, and to report to the Counter-Terrorism Committee, as part of their ongoing dialogue, on steps they have taken to implement the resolution. It also directs the Committee to include in its dialogue with States their efforts to implement the resolution, to work with States to help build capacity and to report to the Council in 12 months on implementation of the resolution.

During the reporting period, letters requesting information on their implementation of resolution 1624 (2005) were prepared and sent to all Member States. As at 30 June 2006, 42 replies had been received. On 8 June 2006, the Executive Director provided a detailed briefing to the Committee, highlighting the trends identified in the first replies received.

On 2 June 2006, in order to develop its approach to the Committee's mandate pursuant to the resolution, CTED held an in-house workshop in which staff and invited guests, including representatives of other United Nations bodies and academics, shared perspectives on the incitement of terrorism. The workshop focused on two elements of the resolution: prohibition of incitement to commit terrorist acts and enhancement of dialogue among civilizations.

7. Communications strategy

- The Committee's English and French websites have been updated periodically. Following the imposition of a budget cap on the Organization in December 2005, updating of the website in the other official languages was deferred to the second half of 2006.
- The Chairman held a briefing on the Committee's work for non-members of the Security Council on 8 May 2006.

- Both the Chairman and the Executive Director have held regular consultations with Member States and regional groups.
- The press kit has been completed and the Committee has approved it for distribution.
- The Executive Director conducted interviews with various news outlets during the reporting period and briefed media representatives during CTED trips to China, Japan, Argentina, Belgium and Spain; a press conference was also held at the conclusion of the Committee's visit to the United Republic of Tanzania. There was no press event for the Committee's visit to The former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia or, on the advice of the Department of Security and Safety, for the visit to Jordan.
- The CTED and DPI contact list has been updated periodically. DPI has continued to provide a valuable, greatly appreciated daily media monitoring service on terrorism-related news.
- Discussion of the timing of DPI's participation in the production of a video on the work of the Committee and CTED is ongoing.
- At the request of DPI, a representative of CTED briefed student groups periodically, during their visits to United Nations Headquarters, on the work of the Committee and CTED. A total of 502 people were briefed at eight events during the reporting period: East Christian High School (11 January 2006), the University of Copenhagen (2 February 2006), Lehigh University (1 March 2006), Aoyama Gakuin University (14 March 2006), European Study Tours (23 March 2006), Vienna University (11 April 2006), Langstaff Secondary School and Ethical Cultural Fieldston School (20 April 2006), and Soka University of America and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee (9 June 2006).

8. Administrative matters

The Executive Directorate has implemented the three remaining recommendations contained in the Office of Internal Oversight Services Management Audit of 3 November 2005 (AP2005/560/04). In response to one of these recommendations, a Human Resources Action Plan for CTED has been established. CTED has taken all appropriate steps to implement the other two recommendations, including updating the Directory of Assistance on the Committee's website and reaching agreement with the Office of Human Resources Management on the future recruitment of new CTED staff during the current mandate period. Thus, implementation of all three recommendations has been completed as at 30 June 2006.

Database

CTED has developed an interim Access database in order effectively to manage its assessment, technical assistance and contact data for Member States. The database allows for simultaneous entry, manipulation and search of Member States' information by the Executive Directorate's legal officers. It also offers multiple reporting options for PIA analysis and use of the technical assistance matrix and contact lists, among other functions. These reports can then be filed and managed in CTED's existing QuickPlace database. The Access system's data configuration, combined with QuickPlace's file management structure, will serve as an interim information management system. CTED's application of this interim solution, which will lead to an Enterprise Content Management (ECM) system, will allow for the continuing growth of its documents and facilitate its ability to streamline and standardize its business practices and workflows.

CTED has begun active consideration of the Tower Records Information Management (TRIM) system, which will provide for archiving and records management in a manner consistent with the procedures for classification, storage and archiving of official documents and records that have been established by the United Nations system. The TRIM system is already operational in a number of departments of the Secretariat and in some of the Organization's funds and programmes. It facilitates the management and sorting of both substantive and administrative documents and materials, including searching websites for content and information filed in TRIM. A decision on the TRIM system will be made during the second half of 2006 on the basis of its applicability to CTED's needs and its cost, among other factors.

The 1267 Committee provided CTED with access to its database during May and June 2006. All CTED staff now have on their desktops a direct link to the 1267 Committee database, limited to a maximum of two concurrent users. If CTED decides to adopt the TRIM system, steps will be taken to provide access to the CTED database for the experts of the 1267 and 1540 Committees and the Counter-Terrorism Committee's delegations and to provide public access to parts of the system not already linked to the Committee's website.

Annex 1: Technical assistance activities and outcomes

Identify needs and pursue dialogue with States

Appendix II

Semi-annual report on the work of the Counter-Terrorism Committee Executive Directorate 1 July to 31 December 2006

I. Introduction

As requested in paragraph 15(e) of the report of the Counter-Terrorism Committee on its revitalization (SC/2004/124), endorsed by the Security Council in its resolution 1535 (2004), and taking into account the Committee's report to the Council as part of its comprehensive review of the Counter-Terrorism Committee Executive Directorate (S/2005/800), the Executive Directorate (CTED) hereby submits to the Committee, through the Secretary-General, its semi-annual comprehensive report for the period 1 July to 31 December 2006. The report contains an overview of the activities that CTED has carried out, in accordance with its mandate, under the policy guidance of the Committee.

CTED has continued to utilize the new tools approved by the Committee with a view to improved monitoring of Member States' efforts to implement Security Council resolution 1373 (2001), identification of their technical assistance needs and facilitation of the delivery of assistance.

Noteworthy in this regard are the new preliminary implementation assessment (PIA) and the visits to Member States, conducted in cooperation with experts from international, regional and subregional organizations and other United Nations bodies. These visits give the Committee a more accurate picture of the situation in, and specific needs of, a particular country and, in many cases, provide an opportunity to resume dialogue with its Government on counter-terrorism-related issues.

CTED has also continued to build States' capacity to combat terrorism, chiefly by facilitating the delivery of technical assistance based on the needs identified during the dialogue with Member States.

II. Monitoring the implementation of resolution 1373 (2001)

A. Preliminary implementation assessment (PIA)

The Committee's adoption of a new preliminary implementation assessment (PIA) has allowed the Executive Directorate to conduct a more systematic, consistent and comprehensive analysis of States' efforts in implementation of the resolution, track progress on each provision and quickly determine potential gaps in implementation, thereby strengthening the links between the identification of needs and the facilitation of technical assistance.

Following its adoption by the Committee and in line with the relevant procedures, the Executive Directorate has prepared PIAs for a number of States while ensuring consistency of analysis among them. It has also made recommendations concerning further action to be taken by each State by sending letters, conducting visits to States (with their consent) and working with international, regional and subregional organizations.

As requested by the Committee, CTED has begun to design an electronic tool that will make it possible to track the sequence for review of Member States' implementation status. This tool will be part of the TRIM database and should be ready in early 2007.

During the reporting period, CTED prepared comprehensive analyses on implementation of the resolution in four regions. These analyses, which were incorporated into the Executive Director's monthly reports, included an overview of implementation of the resolution by the States of Latin America, the European Union, Eastern Europe and West Africa. Where appropriate, the Executive Directorate made proposals on ways in which the Committee could help these countries address the challenges that they face in their efforts to implement the resolution.

At the Committee's request, CTED has also prepared discussion papers in order to assist the Committee in its policy decisions.

B. Country visits

During the reporting period, visits were conducted to seven States: Malaysia (10-15 July 2006), the Philippines (18-22 September 2006), Mali (2-6 October 2006), India (6-13 November 2006), Nigeria (13-17 November 2006), Pakistan (17-24 November 2006) and Kuwait (2-6 December 2006).

These visits were successful in helping the Committee monitor these States' implementation of the resolution and identify and prioritize their technical assistance needs. Through in-depth dialogue, CTED identified gaps in implementation and made recommendations on how they should be addressed. The States that were visited prior to the reporting period have been referred to appropriate assistance providers, and delivery of assistance has begun.

The gaps in implementation most often identified during these visits include a lack of appropriate legislation, including laws criminalizing terrorism and money laundering; weak border controls; and ineffective structures for countering the financing of terrorism. In some cases, the visits have also provided an opportunity to suggest ways in which these States might be able to provide assistance to other countries of their region in specific areas related to the resolution. The visits have also allowed the Committee to renew its dialogue with States which had not reported to the Committees for several years; for example, the recent visits to Mali and Nigeria have proved successful in re-establishing dialogue between the State and the Committee.

Representatives of international organizations such as the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), the International Maritime Organization (IMO), the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), the World Customs Organization (WCO), the International Criminal Police Organization (Interpol), the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) and the World Bank have participated in the visits, providing additional expertise. The visit team also met with the local representative of the Group of Eight Counter-Terrorism Action Group (CTAG) in each country.

CTED is currently preparing to conduct visits to Indonesia and Bangladesh in early 2007 and, as requested by the Committee, has provided a tentative list of States to be visited in 2007, subject to their governments' consent.

1. Follow-up to country visits

Of the five States visited in 2005, four – Algeria, Kenya, Morocco and Thailand – have begun to implement some of the recommendations made by the Committee in its final visit reports. They have taken steps to draft or adopt legislation addressing key provisions of the resolution, including on legal and financial matters; allocated additional financial and human resources to counter-terrorism activities; and become parties to more of the international counter-terrorism instruments. CTED has also sought to facilitate the provision of technical assistance, where requested, through ongoing dialogue with the donor community and the requesting countries.

Following the visits conducted in 2006, CTED has prepared or is in the process of finalizing the draft and final reports for Tanzania, The former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Jordan, Malaysia, the Philippines and Mali. Preliminary conclusions were shared with the Governments of India, Pakistan, Nigeria and Kuwait at the conclusion of those visits. Comments on the final reports have been submitted by several of these governments and some of them have requested assistance in implementing the recommendations.

In the case of Albania, CTED has made repeated but unsuccessful requests for the Government's response to the recommendations contained in the final visit report. These recommendations concern the monitoring of financial systems and funds transfers, identity and travel documents, aviation security, the passage of goods and persons, customs administration and border police cooperation, and the exchange of information.

2. The Committee's visit to Paraguay

In addition to full country visits, the Executive Director, under the Committee's guidance, conducted a visit to Paraguay in order to convey to the national authorities the urgency of fully implementing the resolution, including by criminalizing terrorism and the financing thereof. Following the visit, CTED was informed that the relevant amendments to the Penal Code had been submitted to the Chamber of Deputies for consideration. The Executive Directorate will continue to monitor any further developments.

III. Continuing effectiveness of capacity-building

A. Technical assistance

CTED works directly with Member States to identify their technical assistance needs and, in cooperation with international, regional and subregional organizations, to facilitate its delivery.¹

Having identified the technical assistance priorities for 96 Member States, the Executive Directorate has met with or contacted 52 of them in order to discuss and agree on those needs and, throughout this process, has taken into account the technical assistance provided in the past. It has become clear through this dialogue that the needs of many States often pertain to equipment and hardware as opposed to assistance with legislative matters. Whereas CTED refers requests for legislative drafting assistance to United Nations bodies such as UNODC's Terrorism Prevention Branch (TPB) and Global Programme against Money Laundering (GPML), equipment is frequently provided directly by the donor to the recipient State on a bilateral basis rather than through the Committee or other United Nations bodies.

A total of 75 requests from Member States have been referred to UNODC – 50 to TPB and 25 to GPML – for assistance with implementation of the international counter-terrorism instruments and training in financial law and practice. TPB has contacted 15 of these States directly in order to follow up on CTED's referrals and has activities planned for an additional 22 States.

The Executive Directorate has referred 64 requests to the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and learned that it has active programmes with nine States in the regions from which requests were received (the Americas, the Caribbean, the Pacific and South Asia) and plans to contact 10 more States. CTED met with IMF representatives in order to follow up on these referrals. CTED has also initiated dialogue with 18 donor States by referring to them the technical assistance needs of Member States.

The major donor States of Europe, North America and Asia, the Commonwealth Secretariat, UNODC and IMO are among the main providers of assistance to Africa. CTED's frequent exchanges of information on technical assistance needs have led to the organization of numerous seminars, workshops and evaluations in African countries. Many of the Executive Directorate's referrals have resulted in the drafting of counter-terrorism legislation, particularly with a view to implementation of the international instruments. These activities have enabled some countries to enhance their capacities through training of the judiciary; others have enacted counter-terrorism legislation but need to amend it with a view to the effective prevention and punishment of offences such as terrorist financing. CTED continues to support governments' efforts to amend existing legislation.

Other successful outcomes include the provision of technical equipment to the Kyrgyz Republic, in response to the Government's request, and the delivery of equipment to boost Kenya's capacity in the areas of coastal patrol and surveillance.

Monitoring the outcome of technical assistance depends largely on follow-up with providers and recipients and feedback from them. Experience shows that technical assistance is a long-term process. In Kenya, for example, various donor States, the Commonwealth Secretariat and United Nations bodies, including UNODC and the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), have invested several years in helping the Government draft comprehensive counter-terrorism legislation that has yet to be enacted. Its adoption will require coordination between all stakeholders and, once achieved, will be the outcome of their combined efforts.

While the Committee's action plan provides a useful blueprint for guiding CTED's efforts to facilitate technical assistance, it is important to bear in mind that the outcome must be assessed over time through States' progress in enhanced implementation of the resolution.

B. Best practices

CTED has identified and presented to the Committee a directory of international best practices, standards and codes aimed at helping Member States maximize their efforts to implement the resolution. Among the first priorities identified were those dealing with: (1) suppression of the financing of terrorism, (2) criminal law and procedure and international cooperation and (3) preventing the movement of persons, weapons and equipment in connection with terrorist activities. With the Committee's agreement, this directory has been posted on its website.

As part of the ongoing process of compiling this Directory, CTED has identified a number of best practices not within the areas of priority, including special investigation techniques, the protection of witnesses and victims, and cyber security. It maintains regular contact with several international and regional organizations with a view to the further identification and analysis of best practices.

CTED has been promoting use of the Directory during Committee visits and in its dialogue with Member States and international, regional and subregional organizations and has responded to requests for information about best practices.

IV. Enhancing cooperation with international, regional and subregional organizations, United Nations bodies and other entities

As another pillar of the Committee's work, the Executive Directorate has enhanced its cooperation with international, regional and subregional organizations, particularly in connection with technical assistance, exchanges of information and expertise and training programmes for CTED staff and officials of Member States.

A. International, regional and subregional organizations

CTED submitted to the Committee a progress report on its work with the African Union and its African Centre for the Study and Research on Terrorism (ACSRT), the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) and the Inter-Governmental Authority on Development (IGAD).

The Executive Directorate and the African Union are cooperating in preparation for the fifth special meeting of the Committee with international, regional and subregional organizations. In addition, the African Union has shared with CTED its model counter-terrorism legislation, which is intended to help African States meet their counter-terrorism obligations at the regional and international levels; CTED is preparing comments on this legislation. ACSRT has participated in the Committee's visits to States of the region and is exploring with CTED the possibility that it might assist late-submitters in preparing their reports.

ECOWAS and its Inter-Governmental Action Group against Money Laundering in Africa (GIABA) participated in the Committee's visits to Mali and Nigeria. These contacts led the Executive Directorate to arrange an informal forum so that GIABA's representative could meet with potential technical assistance providers in New York. CTED also provided input to GIABA's draft framework law on the financing of terrorism in order to ensure that its provisions were consistent with the relevant international instruments, Security Council resolutions and best practices for combating money laundering and the financing of terrorism.

The Executive Directorate has stepped up its cooperation with the IGAD Capacity Building Programme Against Terrorism (ICPAT) since that body's creation in June 2006 and, at ICPAT's request, has forwarded a list of best practices on border control issues. CTED is also planning an informal meeting so that an ICPAT representative can meet with potential donors in New York in order to discuss its technical assistance activities. These talks will be vital in addressing the problems of East Africa, a region beset with various armed conflicts, and in gaining lessons on how to effectively implement resolution 1373 (2001) and address capacity building in that region.

Notable developments in other regions include a meeting at which the Committee Chairman and the Executive Director worked with members of the Pacific Islands Forum and key donors to identify the technical assistance needs of Forum States and link donors with potential recipients. Subsequent discussions with Forum representatives have focused on establishing the priority needs of each State. Through analysis of the outcome of these talks, CTED will determine common areas of need among States of this region and develop a suitable, prioritized approach to addressing them. On this project, it is working closely with a consultant offered by New Zealand, who has been helping a number of the Pacific Island States meet their reporting obligations.

In the Caribbean, the Executive Director has worked with the Secretary-General of the Caribbean Community (CARICOM) to identify areas in which CTED might facilitate assistance in ensuring security for the Cricket World Cup (CWC), to be held in that region in March and April 2007.

CTED continues to cooperate regularly with CTAG and has participated in its meetings on technical assistance and other matters of common interest. Continuity in the exchange of assistance matrixes between CTED and CTAG has been essential in enhancing their dialogue and exchange of information. As noted above, CTED has also met with local CTAG representatives during country visits in order to exchange information on the status of counter-terrorism measures taken by the host State and on the technical assistance which has been provided or could be provided in the future.

CTED's cooperation with CTAG has been particularly fruitful in the area of technical assistance: the Philippines, Uganda and Viet Nam have received assistance in connection with the criminalization of terrorist acts and terrorist financing and becoming a party to the international counter-terrorism instruments. CTAG has also undertaken to provide technical assistance at the regional level, including by sponsoring a number of conferences and meetings in Latin America in 2006. These events dealt with such counter-terrorism issues as law enforcement, combating money laundering, migration and illegal immigration, maritime drug trafficking, terrorism and human rights training for prosecutors, and judicial cooperation. In May 2006, a ministerial round table on the legal framework for counter-terrorism was organized for countries of West and Central Africa.

In addition to the activities noted above, CTED's legal officers have participated in a number of bilateral and multilateral meetings with organizations in all regions of the world. These meetings covered topics such as the practical aspects of an overall counter-terrorism strategy; lessons learned in the promotion of effective cross-border cooperation; strengthening international cooperation on matters related to implementation of the international counter-terrorism instruments and relevant Security Council resolutions; issues related to the implementation of Security Council resolution 1624 (2005); policies for countering terrorist financing within the framework of resolution 1373 (2001); coordination of work with that of the Financial Action Task Force (FATF), its associate members, IMF, the World Bank and other observers; irregular migration, visa regulations and border controls; and information exchange.

International, regional and subregional organizations have continued to lend their expertise to the Committee's country visits. Some, however, have expressed concern at budgetary or scheduling constraints that make it difficult for them to continue to participate. CTED has sent some of its legal officers to acquire special training in financial law and practice and in maritime and aviation security, thereby enabling the Committee and its Executive Directorate to maintain an appropriate level of expertise in these areas and to apply this knowledge during its visits. Nevertheless, such training cannot fully compensate for the direct participation of these specialized agencies.

A complete list of organizations with which CTED has worked during the reporting period is provided in Annex II.

B. United Nations bodies

During the reporting period, CTED has strengthened its cooperation with UNODC/TPB and has provided it with timely information on the technical assistance needs of Member States, particularly in connection with incorporation of the international counter-terrorism instruments into domestic law. UNODC/TPB has joined CTED in several country visits, including to Albania, India, Malaysia, Mali, Morocco, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand, The former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia and the United Republic of Tanzania. CTED, for its part, has participated in regional workshops organized by UNODC, including the Legal Counter-Terrorism and Capacity-Building Workshop for the Southern African Development Community (SADC), held in Namibia in December 2006. CTED has also strengthened its cooperation with UNODC/GPML, which provides training in financial law and practice and, as stated above, has referred a number of States to GPML with a view to the provision of technical assistance in these areas. GPML participated in the visits to India, Malaysia, Pakistan and the Philippines.

CTED has continued its cooperation with IMO and ICAO regarding the identification and promotion of best practices and the provision of technical assistance and has discussed with Member States, during country visits and in the letters of reply to their reports, implementation of the maritime security measures provided for in the International Ship and Port Facility Security (ISPS) Code and the standards for civil aviation security. An IMO expert participated in the Committee's visits to Jordan and Malaysia and ICAO experts in the visits to Jordan, Malaysia and the Philippines.

During the country visits, CTED held meetings with the UNDP resident representatives and, in some cases, the United Nations country teams. This gave it a better understanding of the situation in each country and of the work of the local UNDP offices in coordinating the technical assistance programmes of UNDP and other United Nations agencies and programmes. Examples of successful cooperation with UNPD are numerous and include a stakeholders' workshop on "Counter-terrorism capacity strengthening for a safer Kenya", organized by UNDP in May 2006 as a direct result of CTED's engagement with the local Office. The workshop helped raise awareness of UNDP's potential role in furthering implementation of the resolution. On a number of occasions, including during the recent visit to Mali, the local Office has been instrumental in facilitating CTED's dialogue with key counter-terrorism players. CTED remains in close contact with these Offices, including those of the States visited, in order to identify areas in which they can provide technical assistance related to implementation of the resolution.

1. The Security Council Committees established pursuant to resolutions 1267(1999) and 1540 (2004)

In accordance with the 2005 World Summit Outcome Document and the Committee's decision to streamline the reporting obligation of Member States, CTED has been working closely with the experts of the 1267 Committee Monitoring Team and the 1540 Committee, including by (a) sharing information on Member States' implementation of the relevant Security Council resolutions; (b) providing access to each others' databases and making full use of all available sources of information, including Member States' reports; (c) exploring the possibility that Member States might submit consolidated reports to the three Committees; and (d) where possible, conducting joint visits.

A common strategy for non-reporting and late submitting States was developed by the three teams of experts with a view to closer coordination of their efforts, use of common resources, minimization of duplication and completion of the current reporting round. While each team is following up on the implementation of this common strategy, discussion among the three teams continues in order to find ways of reducing reporting fatigue for Member States, taking into account the different mandates of the three Committees.

To date, CTED and the 1267 Committee Monitoring Team have conducted joint visits to India, Nigeria, Pakistan, the Philippines and the United Republic of Tanzania. An expert from the 1540 Committee joined CTED in a visit to CARICOM Headquarters in February 2006 and experts from the three teams participated in the Counter-Terrorism Committee Chairman's trip to New Zealand in April 2006, which provided an opportunity for direct dialogue with members of the Pacific Islands Forum.

2. The Counter-Terrorism Implementation Task Force

CTED participates actively in the work of the Counter-Terrorism Implementation Task Force. Following the General Assembly's adoption of the United Nations Global Counter-Terrorism Strategy (A/Res/60/288), CTED made several concrete proposals for implementation during the next 6 to 12 months within the framework of Security Council resolutions 1373 (2001) and 1624 (2005), including suggesting that CTED function as an interface or channel for sharing best practices in areas relevant to the resolutions and work with UNODC to identify focal points for technical assistance in each State.

V. Fifth special meeting of the Committee with international, regional and subregional organizations

As noted above (Section IV (A)), CTED has begun preparations for the fifth special meeting of the Committee with international, regional and subregional organizations, to be held from 7 to 9 March 2007 at the United Nations Office in Nairobi on the topic of "the prevention of terrorist movement and effective border security". The African Union has agreed in principle to co-host this event. CTED has been working closely with ICAO, Interpol, IMO, the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) and WCO on issues relating to the meeting, including the format and modalities for discussion, the expected outcome and the types of activities to be included in the follow-up plan. In addition to the Committee's members and international, regional and subregional organizations, all United Nations Member States which are not members of the Committee will be invited to attend as observers.

VI. Human rights

Pursuant to the directive contained in the Committee's report to the Security Council as part of its comprehensive review of CTED of 16 December 2005 (S/2005/800), which was endorsed by the Council, the Executive Directorate continues to take human rights into account in the course of its activities and to follow the policy guidance adopted by the Committee on 25 May 2006 regarding the incorporation of human rights into its work programme. Regular liaison with the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) is maintained. Thus, in November 2006, CTED was represented at an expert workshop on human rights and international cooperation in counter-terrorism, organized by OHCHR and the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE) in Vaduz, Liechtenstein. On 26 October 2006, the Executive Director met with the United Nations Special Rapporteur on the protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms while countering terrorism in order to discuss relevant issues and possible areas for cooperation. Regular contact is also maintained with the Council of Europe, the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) and other organizations.

VII. Implementation of Security Council resolution 1624 (2005)

In its resolution 1624 (2005), the Security Council called on States to adopt a range of counter-terrorism measures, including steps aimed at prohibiting and preventing incitement to commit terrorist acts. It also called on States to report to the Committee, as part of their ongoing dialogue, on the steps they have taken to implement the resolution and directed the Committee to report back to the Council in twelve months on this matter.

As at 7 September 2006, 69 States had reported to the Committee on their implementation of resolution 1624 (2005). On the basis of these reports, CTED worked with the Committee to prepare the report mandated by the resolution (S/2006/737), which was submitted to the Security Council on 14 September 2006. On the basis of its mandate under the resolution, CTED, on behalf of the Committee, continues to include relevant issues in its ongoing dialogue with States and requests information on their implementation of the resolution in the course of the Committee's country visits.

The resolution also directed the Committee to work with Member States to help build their capacity for implementation of the resolution, including by spreading best legal practices and promoting exchange of information. In November 2006, at the Committee's request, CTED prepared a discussion paper on ways in which the Committee might fulfil this aspect of its mandate.

On 19 and 20 October 2006, CTED attended an expert workshop on incitement and related terrorist activities, organized in Vienna by OSCE and the Council of Europe. The meeting referred extensively to Security Council resolution 1624 (2005) and addressed relevant issues, including incitement, recruitment of terrorists and use of the Internet for related purposes. It provided useful information, from the European perspective, for the Committee's efforts to help States build their capacities on issues related to the resolution.

VIII. Communications strategy

The redesign of the Committee's website was finalized in all six official languages and regular updates were made during the reporting period.

Both the Chairman and the Executive Director held regular consultations with Member States and regional groups in order to inform them of the Committee's activities.

Translation of the press kit into all official languages has begun. The kit was distributed at meetings attended by the CTED legal officers, during the Committee's country visits and to guests and officials visiting the Executive Directorate.

The Executive Director conducted interviews with various news outlets during the reporting period, and press conferences were held at the conclusion of the Committee's visits to the Philippines, Mali and Pakistan.

The CTED and Department of Public Information (DPI) contact list was updated. DPI continues to provide a valuable and greatly appreciated daily media monitoring service on terrorism-related news. Updating of the Directory of Assistance on the Committee's website was pursued and discussions on the production of a video on the work of the Committee and CTED were deferred until 2007.

At the request of DPI, a representative of CTED briefed groups visiting United Nations headquarters on the work of the Committee and its Executive Directorate. A total of 375 people were briefed at seven events devoted to, respectively, the United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth and the Dag Hammarskjold Foundation (3 July); the National Defence University (24 August); Lehman College (10 October); the Christian Brothers Academy (20 October); Lehigh University (8 November); and Old Dominion University (14 November).

IX. Administrative matters

In the Committee's December 2005 report to the Security Council, as part of its comprehensive review of the Executive Directorate (S/2005/800), it called upon CTED to develop and maintain a high degree of expertise in all areas of Security Council resolution 1373 (2001). Consequently, CTED professional staff attended training courses on FATF technical evaluations and assessors, terrorist financing, the IMO train-the-trainer programme and ICAO-mandated airport security and other civil aviation security measures. In 2007, CTED

the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) and WCO on issues relating to the meeting, including the format and modalities for discussion, the expected outcome and the types of activities to be included in the follow-up plan. In addition to the Committee's members and international, regional and subregional organizations, all United Nations Member States which are not members of the Committee will be invited to attend as observers.

VI. Human rights

Pursuant to the directive contained in the Committee's report to the Security Council as part of its comprehensive review of CTED of 16 December 2005 (S/2005/800), which was endorsed by the Council, the Executive Directorate continues to take human rights into account in the course of its activities and to follow the policy guidance adopted by the Committee on 25 May 2006 regarding the incorporation of human rights into its work programme. Regular liaison with the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) is maintained. Thus, in November 2006, CTED was represented at an expert workshop on human rights and international cooperation in counter-terrorism, organized by OHCHR and the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe (OSCE) in Vaduz, Liechtenstein. On 26 October 2006, the Executive Director met with the United Nations Special Rapporteur on the protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms while countering terrorism in order to discuss relevant issues and possible areas for cooperation. Regular contact is also maintained with the Council of Europe, the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) and other organizations.

VII. Implementation of Security Council resolution 1624 (2005)

In its resolution 1624 (2005), the Security Council called on States to adopt a range of counter-terrorism measures, including steps aimed at prohibiting and preventing incitement to commit terrorist acts. It also called on States to report to the Committee, as part of their ongoing dialogue, on the steps they have taken to implement the resolution and directed the Committee to report back to the Council in twelve months on this matter.

As at 7 September 2006, 69 States had reported to the Committee on their implementation of resolution 1624 (2005). On the basis of these reports, CTED worked with the Committee to prepare the report mandated by the resolution (S/2006/737), which was submitted to the Security Council on 14 September 2006. On the basis of its mandate under the resolution, CTED, on behalf of the Committee, continues to include relevant issues in its ongoing dialogue with States and requests information on their implementation of the resolution in the course of the Committee's country visits.

The resolution also directed the Committee to work with Member States to help build their capacity for implementation of the resolution, including by spreading best legal practices and promoting exchange of information. In November 2006, at the Committee's request, CTED prepared a discussion paper on ways in which the Committee might fulfil this aspect of its mandate.

will take an even more proactive role in seeking out specific training courses offered by international organizations and Member States in order to broaden and deepen the knowledge and experience of its staff.

CTED has prepared and submitted its 2007 Special Political Mission budget, which includes new resources for enhancing logistical support for the Committee's visits to Member States, upgrading and maintaining CTED's database, financing online access to counter-terrorism websites in cooperation with other parts of the United Nations Secretariat, and maintaining and upgrading the Committee's website. During the reporting period, CTED took the necessary measures to make its premises compliant with United Nations security standards and to properly secure its files. In addition, it has enhanced support for country visits by reorganizing its support staff.

The Executive Directorate has continued to develop a comprehensive Microsoft Access database for the effective management of PIAs, technical assistance data and contact lists, which became operational last September. It also developed a comprehensive records retention schedule and a set of records management tools in order to ensure compliance with the Organization's archives and records management policies and procedures. The database and records management tools will serve as the foundation for CTED's acquisition of database software architecture by the end of 2006. This software system, TRIM Context 6.0, is a United-Nations-approved electronic recordkeeping, audit and security system. Once populated with real data, the TRIM database will be made accessible, via the Committee website, by a number of actors outside the Executive Directorate. Differentiated levels of access to CTED information will be established for Committee members, experts of the 1267 Committee Monitoring Team and the 1540 Committee, Member States which are not members of the Committee, and international, regional and subregional organizations cooperating with the Committee and CTED.

X. Conclusion

In the first full year since the Committee, in consultation with the Secretary-General, declared CTED operational, the Executive Directorate has endeavoured to fulfil its mandate to assist Member States in their efforts to implement Security Council resolution 1373 (2001). In so doing, it has incorporated the new tools approved by the Committee and bolstered its efforts to facilitate the provision of technical assistance to States in need of it. As highlighted in this report, both regions and individual States have made significant progress in several areas covered by the resolution.

Cooperation between CTED and international, regional and subregional organizations has been solidly strengthened. These organizations have made a valuable contribution to the Committee's country visits and to the provision of technical assistance and the promotion of best practices related to various aspects of the resolution. The fifth special meeting of the Committee with these organizations will provide another opportunity to review the scope of our partnership to and explore new avenues for cooperation.

On 19 and 20 October 2006, CTED attended an expert workshop on incitement and related terrorist activities, organized in Vienna by OSCE and the Council of Europe. The meeting referred extensively to Security Council resolution 1624 (2005) and addressed relevant issues, including incitement, recruitment of terrorists and use of the Internet for related purposes. It provided useful information, from the European perspective, for the Committee's efforts to help States build their capacities on issues related to the resolution.

The Executive Director conducted interviews with various news outlets during the reporting period, and press conferences were held at the conclusion of the Committee's visits to the Philippines, Mali and Pakistan.

The CTED and Department of Public Information (DPI) contact list was updated. DPI continues to provide a valuable and greatly appreciated daily media monitoring service on terrorism-related news. Updating of the Directory of Assistance on the Committee's website was pursued and discussions on the production of a video on the work of the Committee and CTED were deferred until 2007.

At the request of DPI, a representative of CTED briefed groups visiting United Nations headquarters on the work of the Committee and its Executive Directorate. A CTED expert will participate in a seminar, to be held in the Niger in November 2006 in order to finalize GHABA's draft framework law on the financing of terrorism.

A CTED representative will participate in a United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC)-sponsored Legal Counter-Terrorism and Capacity-Building Workshop for the SADC States, to be held in Namibia in early December 2006. The objectives of the workshop are to help these States building their counter-terrorism expertise and capacity.

CTED has disseminated the Committee's Directory of International Best Practices, Codes and Standards to regional/subregional organizations with links to the Committee's webpage.

Informal meetings/contacts are ongoing with a view to formal referrals on counter-terrorism capacity building. Referrals of identified technical assistance needs follow thematic and geographic categories:

1. Thematic: UNODC: (a) becoming a party to the international counter-terrorism instruments; (b) drafting of implementing legislation for these instruments; (c) adoption of legislation on extradition and mutual legal assistance;

IMF and UNODC/Global Programme against Money Laundering (GPML): (a) training in anti-money-laundering investigation techniques; (b) training in terrorist financing investigation techniques; (c) training for financial intelligence unit (FIU) staff

Draft letter to the Permanent Representative of Benin

Excellency,

On behalf of the Security Council Committee established pursuant to resolution 1521 (2003) concerning Liberia, I have the honour to draw your attention to information contained in the latest report of the Panel of Experts on Liberia (S/2006/976), which relates to Benin.

In this connection, I should like to refer you to paragraph 203 of the report (excerpt attached), which states that Mr. Mohammed Salame's Togolese diplomatic passport (which according to the Togolese Government has been withdrawn) held over 125 immigration stamps accrued from September 2002 to November 2004, including for travel to Benin (passport no. XXX296 valid from 21 August 2002 to 20 August 2008).

Mr. Salame (sometimes spelled 'Salami') is subject to the travel restrictions first imposed by Security Council resolution 1343 (2001) and then continued by Council resolution 1521 (2003), pursuant to which all States are obliged to prevent his entry or transit through their territories. The full travel ban list is available on the Committee's web site at the following URL: http://www.un.org/Docs/sc/committees/Liberia3/1521_list.htm.

The members of the Committee have therefore asked me to write to you to request, from the relevant authorities in your Government, any information that could shed further light on these alleged violations of the travel ban, as well as general information on the steps taken by your Government to implement these mandatory measures of the Security Council.

The members of the Committee would welcome receiving your response before the Committee's next quarterly review of the travel ban list in March 2007.

Please accept, Excellency, the assurances of my highest consideration.
