CONSEJO DE DERECHOS HUMANOS

Quinto período de sesiones

Tema 2 del programa

APLICACIÓN DE LA RESOLUCIÓN 60/251 DE LA ASAMBLEA
GENERAL, DE 15 DE MARZO DE 2006, TITULADA
"CONSEJO DE DERECHOS HUMANOS"

Carta de fecha 14 de junio de 2007 dirigida al Presidente del
Consejo de Derechos Humanos por el Presidente del Comité
Coordinador de los Procedimientos Especiales

Tengo el honor de dirigirme a usted en mi carácter de Presidente del Comité Coordinador de los Procedimientos Especiales para comunicarle que los miembros del Comité Coordinador han elaborado una nota* (véase el anexo) como contribución a las deliberaciones sobre un posible código de conducta que se vienen realizando en el marco del Consejo de Derechos Humanos.

La nota fue redactada sobre la base de consultas organizadas por miembros del Comité Coordinador con otros titulares de mandatos que participan en los debates que están teniendo lugar acerca del rumbo futuro del sistema de procedimientos especiales. (No obstante, la nota no refleja necesariamente la posición de todos y cada uno de los titulares de mandatos.)

Celebro que se mantenga un espíritu de flexibilidad en la redacción del código de conducta y espero con interés que ese proceso arroje resultados que se basen en un consenso y en los que realmente se tengan en cuenta las sugerencias formuladas por el Comité Coordinador en consulta con los titulares de mandatos.

En nombre del Comité Coordinador de los Procedimientos Especiales, tengo a bien pedirle con todo respeto que haga distribuir la presente carta y su nota anexa a todos los Estados miembros del Consejo de Derechos Humanos y a otros interesados como documento oficial del Consejo.

* El anexo se distribuye como se recibió, en el idioma original únicamente.

Annex

Comments by the Coordination Committee on the Code of Conduct, Rev.2

The Coordination Committee, representing the Special Procedures mandate-holders, wishes to bring to the attention of members of the Human Rights Council a number of comments relating to the Draft Resolution on a Code of Conduct, Rev.2, of 13 June 2007.

The comments are divided into two parts. Part I consists of five amendments which are essential if the Code is to be consistent with the stated objective of assisting the mandate-holders in the performance of their mandates. Part II identifies several technical changes which should be made in order to ensure the accuracy and coherence of the draft text.

Part I – Essential Revisions

(i) Article 4 (c), as currently drafted, enables national law to simply override any or all of the arrangements established by the Council in relation to the Special Procedures. Its inclusion in its present form would thus negate the basic objectives of the Code. It should therefore be amended to read:

“c) Consistent with these privileges and immunities, the mandate-holders shall take full account in carrying out their mandate of the national law of the country in which they are conducting a mission and of the obligations and commitments of that country in relation to its cooperation with the United Nations and the Human Rights Council.”

(ii) Article 6 (c) identifies the standards to be applied by mandate-holders. They are “universally recognized human rights standards” and ratified treaties. The reference to “universally recognized” raises a factual issue as to whether a particular standard, such as the Declaration on Human Rights Defenders and a wide range of other comparable declarations adopted and reaffirmed by UN organs, have been universally recognizable. In order to avoid such debates the formulation should be changed to refer to “applicable human rights standards”.

(iii) Article 13 on modes of communication with Governments fails to take into account the demonstrated problems that have arisen where Permanent Missions in both Geneva and New York have proved to be uncontactable. In order to avoid creating a vacuum that would defeat the purposes of the procedures an additional provision should be added to the end of the existing text. It would read:

“Where communication through the Permanent Mission in Geneva or New York proves impossible or ineffective, the mandate-holder shall, as a last resort, adopt other appropriate channels of communication.”

(iv) Article 14 on Urgent Appeals, as currently drafted, privileges a limited range of civil and political rights violations, to the virtual exclusion of economic, social and cultural rights issues. It should accordingly be amended to read:

“Mandate-holders may resort to urgent appeals in cases of alleged violations of civil, cultural, economic, political or social rights where the alleged violations are time-

sensitive and involve loss of life, life-threatening situations, or imminent damage to victims that cannot be addressed in time by the procedure under Article 9.”

(v) Article 15 deals with accountability to the Council. This provision should address the responsibilities of the mandate-holders and facilitate the implementation of the code. An additional sentence should thus be added so that the revised Article would read:

“In the fulfillment of their mission, mandate-holders are accountable to the Council. The principal responsibility for the implementation of this Code lies with the mandate-holders themselves, including through an appropriate facilitative role that might be played by the Coordination Committee.”

(vi) While we note the amendment to the last preambular paragraph concerning State’s obligation to cooperate, we would strongly suggest that this language also appear in the operative paragraphs of the Code.

Part II – Technical Amendments

Article 3 (g) should read: “conduct themselves consistently with their status, at all times.”

Article 6 (d) should refer not to “the fulfillment of their prerogatives” but “to the fulfillment of their mandates”.

Article 9 (c) should use the accepted international law standard of “not be abusive” but should not introduce an entirely new and subjective notion of “derogatory”.

Article 9 (d): The final phrase should refer to “direct or reliable” rather than “direct and reliable”. It must be considered sufficient if the information is “reliable” even if it is not direct.

Article 12 (a) should indicate that a non-response or delayed response cannot be used to impede the expression of views by the mandate-holders. It should thus read “while reporting fairly on any available responses of the concerned State”.
