I. Introduction

1. The budget for the maintenance of the African Union-United Nations Hybrid Operation in Darfur (UNAMID) for the period from 1 July 2009 to 30 June 2010 was set out in the report of the Secretary-General of 12 February 2009 (A/63/717) and amounted to $1,789,411,200 ($1,763,006,300 net). It provided for 240 military observers, 19,315 military contingent personnel, 3,772 United Nations police officers, 2,660 formed police units personnel, 1,548 international staff and 3,437 national staff, including 24 international staff and 14 national staff positions funded under general temporary assistance, 561 United Nations Volunteers and six Government-provided personnel. The Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions, in paragraph 53 of its report (A/63/746/Add.4), recommended that the General Assembly appropriate $1,620,727,100 gross for the period from 1 July 2009 to 30 June 2010.

2. The General Assembly, by its resolution 63/258 B, appropriated an amount of $1,598,942,200 gross ($1,573,881,900 net) for the maintenance of the Operation for the period from 1 July 2009 to 30 June 2010. The total amount has been assessed on Member States.

II. Mandate performance

A. Overall

3. The mandate of the Operation was established by the Security Council in its resolution 1769 (2007) and extended in subsequent resolutions of the Council. The mandate for the performance period was provided by the Council in its resolutions 1828 (2008) and 1881 (2009).

4. The Operation is mandated to help the Security Council achieve an overall objective, namely, to achieve a lasting political solution and sustained security in Darfur.

5. Within this overall objective, the Operation has, during the reporting period, contributed to a number of accomplishments by delivering related key outputs, shown in the frameworks below. These frameworks are grouped by components: peace process; security; rule of law, governance and human rights; humanitarian liaison, recovery and development; and support.

6. The present report assesses actual performance against the planned results-based-budgeting frameworks set out in the 2009/10 budget. In particular, the report compares the actual indicators of achievement, that is, the extent to which actual progress has been made during the period against the expected accomplishments, with the planned indicators of achievement, and the actually completed outputs with the planned outputs.

B. Budget implementation

7. During the reporting period, UNAMID worked with and supported the Joint Chief Mediator in pursuing an effective cessation of hostilities and supporting civil society participation in the negotiations, with a view to advancing the Darfur peace process.

8. The reporting period witnessed some positive developments in the Darfur peace process, including the signing in Doha of a Framework Agreement to Resolve the Conflict in Darfur between the Government of the Sudan and the Justice and Equality Movement (JEM) on 23 February 2010, and of the Framework and Ceasefire Agreements between the Government and the Liberation and Justice Movement (LJM) on 18 March 2010. From early April until early June, after further negotiations were suspended as the Government withdrew its delegation for the electoral period, the Joint Mediation Support Team conducted a series of workshops aimed at enabling the armed movements to strengthen their cohesion and their capacity and readiness to engage in direct negotiations with the Government.

9. While no further progress was made towards a ceasefire implementation protocol or a final agreement between the Government of the Sudan and the Justice and Equality Movement, on 6 June 2010 the Government of the Sudan and the Liberation and Justice Movement agreed on a work programme and formed six committees to negotiate in the areas of power-sharing and the administrative status of Darfur; wealth-sharing, including land rights; compensation and the return of internally displaced persons and refugees; security arrangements; justice and reconciliation; and agreement and the resolution of disputes.

10. Despite these positive developments, significant challenges remain in the peace process, including the ongoing insecurity and allegations of ceasefire violations and the lack of cohesion among the armed movements, despite the efforts made by the Joint Chief Mediator and UNAMID to support the unification process.

11. During the reporting period, UNAMID continued to support the Joint Mediation Support Team, in particular with regard to the participation of civil society in the peace process. In addition to supporting the direct involvement of Darfurians in the talks, UNAMID, in collaboration with the Joint Mediation Support Team, engaged in consultations with representatives of civil society and communities throughout Darfur to incorporate the views and interests of Darfur's diverse communities into any future negotiations. In particular, UNAMID, in collaboration with the Joint Mediation Support Team, organized the participation of representatives at the Doha civil society track 1 and track 2 conferences held in November 2009 and July 2010, respectively. The Doha civil society track 1 conference culminated in the Doha declaration, which detailed the recommendations of civil society for achieving peace in Darfur, covering six thematic areas: power-sharing, wealth-sharing, social and economic development, land and nomadic routes, security arrangements and the role of civil society in the Doha peace process.

12. Modest progress was made regarding the enhancement of the rule of law, governance and human rights, and the provision of assistance to ensure the effective and efficient functioning of State institutions. During the reporting period, UNAMID worked with armed opposition movements and the Government of the Sudan to stop the recruitment of child soldiers. In addition, UNAMID succeeded in gaining greater access to and improving conditions in some prisons. The Operation also provided training on human rights norms to corrections officials.

13. Incidents involving conflict and access restrictions have hampered progress towards improving the humanitarian situation and facilitating humanitarian access to populations in need of assistance. Joint verification and security mechanisms have been put in place between UNAMID, the United Nations country team and the Government to address some of those concerns and challenges.

14. The total expenditure for the maintenance of the Operation for the period from 1 July 2009 to 30 June 2010 amounted to $1,547,855,300 gross ($1,520,571,400 net), compared with the resources approved for the maintenance of the Operation for the period in the total amount of $1,598,942,200 gross ($1,573,881,900 net) under General Assembly resolution 63/258 B.

15. The resource utilization of the Operation for the reporting period resulted in significantly reduced requirements for military and police personnel costs owing to the marked decrease in the ceiling man rate for fresh rations from the budgeted cost of $18 per person-day to the actual cost of $10.83 per person-day; and the delayed deployment of contingent-owned equipment, which resulted in reduced requirements with respect to the costs of reimbursement of troop- and police-contributing Governments for the use of their contingent-owned major and self-sustainment equipment. The self-sustainment capability of most infantry units in Darfur remains a significant challenge.

16. The overall reduced requirements were offset in part by increased resource requirements under operational costs which stemmed from the use of a third-party logistics provider to clear a backlog of United Nations-owned equipment at Port Sudan, and the significant international staff resource requirements owing to the lower-than-budgeted vacancy rate and the higher-than-estimated net base salary.

17. The lower-than-budgeted vacancy rate for international staff during the reporting period was attributable to the increase in the issuance of new entry visas to UNAMID personnel. Nevertheless, the harsh living conditions and isolation in the Operation area still posed challenges in terms of retaining staff. During the 2009/10 period, a total of 193 candidates declined offers of appointment and 274 separated. That represented 42 per cent of the international staff on board. The Operation continued to experience difficulties in the identification and recruitment of qualified national staff, despite various outreach initiatives such as campaigns on the radio, in newspapers, in community centres and on the Internet and internal announcements designed to attract qualified candidates.

18. A total of 206 quick-impact projects were approved in support of the rehabilitation efforts of communities against the budgeted resource requirements of $4 million. Those projects were aimed at addressing the immediate needs of the population of Darfur in areas related to education, the environment, water, the empowerment of women, sanitation, health and community development. The Operation was able to complete two projects during the reporting period, while substantial progress was made in the implementation of the remaining 204 projects following the signing of a memorandum of understanding with project beneficiaries. The noticeably slow implementation rate of the projects was attributable primarily to the difficulties encountered by the Operation in gaining access to project sites for monitoring and evaluation purposes as a result of severe security restrictions on the movement of staff. Poor infrastructure and difficult terrain across Darfur further restricted access to remote project locations. Those difficulties were exacerbated by a lack of adequate capacity and knowledge of administrative requirements among local implementing partners. The Operation has taken a number of steps to overcome these difficulties, including the use of military and police personnel and the establishment of partnerships with local and international non-governmental organizations to help in the monitoring and evaluation of projects in remote locations.

C. Mission support initiatives

19. The geographical expanse of the region, the long and difficult supply route and the poor infrastructure, along with the volatile security situation, continued to pose challenges for the Operation. To overcome the problem of the backlog of containers in Port Sudan and El Obeid, a third-party logistics contract was signed. The contract provided for holistic transportation services, including surface transport, airlift, securing customs clearances and ground handling capabilities.

20. The engineering plan was geared towards the construction of hard-wall accommodation for eligible military, police and civilian personnel as well as the refurbishment of team sites. It was envisioned that accommodation would be provided for 60 per cent of military observers, staff officers and liaison officers, United Nations police and civilian personnel. The originally envisaged multi-year engineering plan for the construction of new camps comprised three stages: (a) a short-term workplan, up to December 2008; (b) a medium-term workplan, from January to June 2009; and (c) a long-term workplan, from July 2009 to June 2010. The short-term workplan entailed the preparation of an austere camp, which included basic ground preparation, the provision of field defence stores, the identification of water points and the construction of pit latrines. In the medium-term workplan, these facilities should be improved through the further hardening of field defence stores, the provision of hard-walled ablutions, septic tanks, and kitchen and dining facilities. Subsequently, under the long-term workplan, each camp should be brought up to United Nations standards through the provision of hard-walled accommodations. In accordance with the requirements of the short- and medium-term workplans, the long-term workplan of construction projects included the planned construction of 7 military camps, 10 enabling military camps and 3 camps for the formed police units personnel, as well as the hardening of 16 camps for the formed police units.

21. However, the short- and medium-term workplans for construction projects were severely hindered by various logistical challenges, including a lengthy customs-clearance process, long land transport and supply lines from Port Sudan (2,250 kilometres), which were compounded by the harsh conditions and the poor infrastructure in Darfur in a market with a limited number of local contractors. In addition, the prevailing phase IV security conditions caused delays in the movement of materials and core equipment at construction sites. Accordingly, priority was given to enhancing building security and defensive infrastructure, which resulted in delays in construction projects. During the reporting period, the Operation completed the construction of 4 military camps and 3 formed police unit camps, as well as the hardening of 9 camps for the formed police units. In addition, 2 military camps were under construction, in advanced stages of completion, while the remaining camp could not be built owing to the deteriorating security situation in the area. Following a reassessment carried out by the police component, the number of planned community policing centres was reduced from 83 to 70. Of the 25 centres envisaged as being constructed in 2009/10, 12 centres were fully completed and 2 were in the final stages of completion. Asphalt roads in the four supercamps and gravel roads, linking 15 team sites to major roads, were commenced in 2009/10 to ensure that a majority of the camps are connected to major cities or townships. This was expected to result in better road facilities and reduced maintenance on UNAMID vehicles.

22. The Operation's engineering plan also included the expansion and/or renovation of aprons, taxiways and airstrips, including parking areas and terminal facilities in Nyala, El Fasher and El Geneina, as well as the planned construction of 24 helipads. During the reporting period, the rehabilitation of 12 helipads and the construction of the airfield in Nyala were completed, while rehabilitation work on the air terminal in El Fasher was still in progress. The Operation was awaiting approval from the Sudan Civil Aviation Authority for the construction of a new airport terminal in El Geneina. The slow progress made in the construction of taxiways and airstrips was attributable to the difficulties encountered in identifying land, obtaining governmental permits and preparing the proper documents for tender processes. To mitigate the shortage of contractors, UNAMID handed over construction material to the Sudan Civil Aviation Authority to expedite the construction process of El Geneina airstrips and taxiways.

23. Some of the projects, such as the construction of community policing centres and asphalt access roads to supercamps and helipads, slipped beyond their expected completion dates and will continue into 2010/11, owing to a lack of necessary technical information as a result of capacity constraints in terms of engineering; to land issues, which in some cases have remained unresolved even after the awarding of contracts; and to security constraints, which have delayed the mobilization of contractors to the sites. In particular, during the reporting period, a $31.8 million contract awarded for the construction of 24 helipads ($6.3 million), 19 camps ($22.7 million) and seven community policing centres ($2.8 million) was revoked owing to the inability of the contractor to mobilize the required resources and resolve the logistical challenges related to the remoteness of building sites, the volatile security situation and the poor infrastructure. An alternative mission support plan was rapidly developed in order to allow for the timely completion of the Operation's construction projects, using in-house engineering capacities.

24. The scarcity of water in Darfur remains a particular concern for UNAMID. To improve the accessibility to water resources and meet daily needs, the Operation undertook projects that involved the drilling and installation of water wells at 25 different locations, as well as water conservation projects, including (a) the construction of earth dams and rainwater harvesting projects in 10 locations; (b) the operation and maintenance of existing water supply lines; and (c) the reduction of water wastage at supply points. During the reporting period, the Operation drilled two boreholes in two locations and mobilized a drilling rig to commence the development of water projects for the general population of Darfur in conjunction with the Ministries of Urban Planning and Public Utilities of three Darfur States, the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) and the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP). The Operation also conducted 40 hydrogeological surveys, identified 80 potential drilling sites and operated and maintained 15 wastewater-treatment plants, which led to a significant reduction in the overflow of wastewater; this is in addition to the existing 33 boreholes mission-wide. However, the volatile security situation in the sectors had a negative impact on the delivery of water and wastewater management services by limiting access to potential drilling sites. In addition, the shortage was compounded by decreased yields of boreholes due to lower rainfall in Sectors North and West.

25. CarLog implementation remained in progress, with the aim of minimizing and eventually eliminating the use of manual trip tickets and introducing an effective monitoring mechanism for vehicle usage and fuel consumption. During the reporting period, a total of 3,181 United Nations-owned vehicles were operated and maintained, in addition to workshop equipment and tools. However, the Operation has yet to have service contracts owing to the lack of suitable service providers to carry out the necessary repair and maintenance work. In addition, the Operation witnessed an increase in banditry involving carjacking, directed mainly at the Toyota Land Cruiser hard-top troop carriers, commonly known as Buffalos, which appeared to be the four-wheel-drive vehicle most attractive to bandits. The subsequent withdrawal from service of those vehicles in high-risk areas has further limited the patrolling capability of United Nations police and placed added pressure on the already limited fleet of heavy vehicles (minibuses and buses), which are also used as shuttle buses for the transportation of United Nations personnel from their accommodations to their place of work.

26. With regard to air operations, the difficult terrain in Darfur and the limited road and rail infrastructure resulted in heavy reliance on aviation support to meet the operational and logistical requirements. The Operation contracted a total of 11 fixed-wing and 33 rotary-wing aircraft, including five tactical helicopters. However, the Operation faced a number of challenges related to delays in the deployment of aircraft fleet and the limited parking space at various airports in the Darfur region. In addition, UNAMID operations were significantly hindered by restrictions on freedom of movement, including a ban on United Nations helicopter flights (military and civilian) in and out of Nyala, Southern Darfur; the denial of security clearance, on security grounds; and flight restrictions on tactical MI-35 helicopters. Those issues adversely affected the Operation's ability to provide essential support to team sites.

27. Communications and information technology remained the main area of focus to ensure a fast, reliable and secure means of communication to all of the Operation's personnel, which is essential for the performance of day-to-day functions. During the reporting period, the Operation successfully maintained and operated a satellite network with one earth station that linked all the regions, Khartoum, Entebbe and Addis Ababa with Operation headquarters for voice, fax, video and data communications, in addition to supporting and maintaining very-small-aperture-terminal (VSAT) systems. With regard to information technology, the Operation established and improved Internet connectivity and provided support and maintenance to 120 local-area networks and wide-area networks for 5,000 users in camps and central locations throughout the mission area.

28. In addition, the Operation continued to provide mission-wide medical services and medical evacuation services. The Operation operated and maintained five United Nations-owned level-I clinics and one United Nations level-II hospital in El Fasher, and military level-II and level-III hospitals in El Geneina and Nyala, respectively. Furthermore, mission-wide land and air evacuation arrangements for all locations, including to six level-IV hospitals (2 in Nairobi, 3 in Egypt and 1 in Dubai) were in place. During the reporting period, the Operation implemented a surveillance system that reports suspected influenza A (H1N1) cases to mission headquarters. It also constructed fever clinics for the treatment of confirmed cases at the 15 sites within the mission area and released a public health alert following an increase in the number of cases of upper respiratory tract infection, which is caused by the prevailing dry and dusty winds.

D. Regional mission cooperation

29. In accordance with its mandate, UNAMID provided advice and logistical support to UNMIS in preparation for the April 2010 elections. The logistical support provided included: (a) the transportation/delivery of elections materials to 1,498 locations throughout Darfur; (b) the training of 10,350 Government of the Sudan police personnel in elections-related activities, such as crowd control; (c) the provision of communications equipment to facilitate contact with field locations; (d) the airlifting of election materials and monitors; and (e) the establishment of an electoral joint operations centre at UNAMID headquarters to support elections monitoring and related activities.

30. In addition, the regional mission coordination activities of UNAMID were characterized by inter-mission coordination with the United Nations Mission in the Sudan (UNMIS), the United Nations Mission in the Central African Republic and Chad (MINURCAT) and the United Nations Organization Mission in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (MONUC). The activities included cooperation in the areas of security, evacuation and logistics plans. In terms of support, MONUC assisted UNAMID with the storage and movement of cargo destined for Darfur transiting through the MONUC logistics hub. The airlifting of cargo from the MONUC logistics hub to Darfur helped UNAMID to: (a) improve the timely delivery of goods and services as well as of contingent-owned equipment and United Nations-owned equipment for the construction of accommodation facilities; (b) mitigate the difficulties associated with the terrain, the poor infrastructure and the long supply route from Port Sudan to Darfur; and (c) significantly reduce the backlog of cargo at Port Sudan.

31. With regard to movement control and air operations, UNAMID and UNMIS shared three fixed-wing aircraft, which allowed both missions to effectively carry out their respective air operations at a lower cost. The dedicated United Nations passenger terminal, jointly funded by the two missions, enabled both missions to effectively manage their passenger-handling services in a timely and cost-efficient manner. In addition to accommodating UNAMID liaison office staff at its headquarters in Khartoum, UNMIS continued to provide maintenance services to the UNAMID fleet of vehicles in Khartoum. Furthermore, UNMIS provided security and clearing services to UNAMID at Port Sudan and El Obeid.

E. Partnerships and country team coordination

32. In the context of its protection mandate, UNAMID worked to increase its support for the early recovery efforts of the United Nations country team through the provision of a safe and secure environment on the main routes throughout Darfur and in areas emerging from conflict. For instance, three areas in Northern Darfur (Kuma Garadayat, Tangarara and Um Kededel), which have been determined by the International Organization for Migration to be appropriate for voluntary returns of internally displaced persons, has been included in UNAMID patrol schedules.

33. Access to the urban areas outside the three Darfur State capitals has improved slightly as a result of the presence of UNAMID team sites and the intensification of short- and long-range patrolling activities in more remote areas. With the gradual increase in the deployment of UNAMID military and police personnel, patrolling activities have been expanded in terms of both scope and time frame, allowing the commencement of night patrols in more than 2,000 towns and settlements across Darfur.

34. To define the scope for early recovery opportunities in Darfur, a high-level retreat was held in Kigali, on the initiative of UNAMID, that brought together the special envoys for the Sudan of the permanent members of the Security Council and of the European Union, as well as representatives of the United Nations country team. A dual-track approach, combining the delivery of humanitarian relief assistance with activities conducive to early recovery in Darfur, was endorsed.

35. In addition, to maximize areas of mutual synergy across humanitarian assistance and recovery, UNAMID has been supporting the World Food Programme with the construction of 15 water reservoirs for rural communities in Northern Darfur. UNAMID has also been providing security for a World Food Programme verification exercise aimed at updating the list of beneficiaries in camps for internally displaced persons.

36. During the reporting period, UNAMID also continued to facilitate cooperation between the African Union and the United Nations through the strengthening of operational activities. In addition, the collaboration between the Joint Support and Coordination Mechanism in Addis Ababa and the African Union focused on substantive political and recovery and development issues. Furthermore, UNAMID provided logistics and expert support to the African Union High-Level Panel on Darfur, chaired by the former President of South Africa, Thabo Mbeki, which held broad-based consultations with both Sudanese and international stakeholders on the situation in Darfur.

F. Results-based-budgeting frameworks

Component 1: peace process

37. Progress towards the achievement of a comprehensive political solution to the conflict was limited by, inter alia, weak support for the Darfur Peace Agreement and the failure of the parties to the conflict to enter into any subsequent agreements. Despite those setbacks, some progress was made in increasing participation in the peace process, in particular among civil society and community leaders, through the civil society conferences held in Doha and the associated consultations held in Darfur. During the reporting period, UNAMID, in collaboration with the Joint Mediation Support Team, assisted civil society representatives in travelling to and participating in the Doha civil society (track 1) conference held in November 2009. In addition, UNAMID conducted 32 conferences and public meetings throughout Darfur to disseminate the November 2009 Doha civil society declaration on Darfur and to mobilize support among the population. Civil society consultations have been expanded to include the nomadic communities and trade unions as well as the diaspora and refugee communities. For the Doha civil society track 2 conference (28 June to 15 July 2010), a total of 44 workshops were held on the Darfur peace process for 4,659 participants from diverse civil society groups, such as the native administration, women and youth groups, internally displaced persons and refugees.

38. Additionally, UNAMID worked effectively on the implementation of conflict-resolution mechanisms for local communities. The Joint Mediation Support Team and UNAMID facilitated workshops with the Liberation and Justice Movement on ceasefire implementation. The Operation also continued to support an inclusive reconciliation process at the grass-roots level through the provision of technical and logistical support to the Darfur-Darfur Dialogue and Consultation. This included support for the organization of peace and reconciliation workshops in preparation for the Doha peace process. In parallel, UNAMID provided support to the Transitional Darfur Regional Authority and continued to assist in the capacity-building of civil society organizations in Darfur through workshops and reconciliatory support meetings as well as the provision of transportation and accommodation.

39. In the absence of a radio broadcasting license, communications and public information activities were restricted to community outreach and radio broadcasts via local radio stations. The broadcasts included live debates from El Fasher and Nyala universities and covered the issues of security; the peace process; elections; disarmament, demobilization and reintegration; human rights; gender; education; water and sanitation; child soldiers; and traditional music for peace. In addition, UNAMID organized workshops to raise awareness about its mandate and to build capacity in peace negotiation and conflict resolution. In that context, community outreach programmes were undertaken that targeted civil society and opinion leaders, including tribal leaders (umada), women's groups, religious leaders, youth and culture leaders.

Component 2: security

40. The area of operations continued to witness sporadic violent clashes between Government forces and rebel movements in all three States of Darfur, especially in areas around the corridors of Jebel Marra and Jebel Moon (Sector West and parts of Sector South). The clashes became more intense following the period of the Justice and Equality Movement's suspension of its participation in the Doha negotiations early in May 2010. In Southern and Western Darfur, there were widespread incidents of inter-tribal fighting, which hampered humanitarian access to the areas affected during most of the reporting period. As a result, certain parts of the mission area remained in security Phase IV.

41. During the reporting period, the Operation facilitated safe humanitarian access to approximately 60 per cent of the conflict-affected populations in Darfur. Despite the substantial progress made in the deployment of military and police personnel, only 13 out of the authorized 19 formed police units were fully operational. The Operation's military operational capabilities continued to be constrained by the lack of critical military enabling and force multiplier units, including three utility helicopter units comprising 18 helicopters, an aerial surveillance unit and two medium transport units. Throughout the reporting period, the Operation's freedom of movement was undermined substantially by restrictions imposed by the belligerent parties, including repeated incidents in which patrols were denied access to locations affected by violence. Community policing volunteers provided a crucial liaison between UNAMID and Government of the Sudan police, especially in resolving crime-related issues. The community policing initiative was further expanded during the reporting period through the training of 1,440 community policing volunteers.

42. In collaboration with UNICEF, the Operation conducted mine-risk education for 40,202 civilians throughout Darfur. Training on mine risk was also provided for 289 teachers and community leaders and volunteers from various villages in Northern and Western Darfur. A mine-awareness day on the theme "Together we protect our children against the risk of explosive remnants of war/unexploded ordnance", was organized on 7 April 2010. To this effect, UNAMID provided information and maps on potentially dangerous areas, including weekly threat maps, which were also distributed to other United Nations agencies. Mine-awareness information was also provided to agencies and international non-governmental organizations on a weekly basis.

43. With a view to the promulgation of the Darfur-specific disarmament, demobilization and reintegration programme in anticipation of the conclusion of a peace agreement under the auspices of the Joint Chief Mediator, UNAMID conducted consultations on various issues, including the planning and implementation of community security and arms control activities, with the State authorities. However, despite continued efforts by UNAMID and its partners, the disarmament, demobilization and reintegration programme for Darfur has yet to be established owing to the absence of an inclusive Darfur peace agreement and agreed policy framework on the ongoing Government of the Sudan disarmament exercise. On 1 April 2010, the Government of the Sudan concluded a discharge exercise involving 900 former combatants in Nyala (Southern Darfur), as part of its plan to discharge 5,000 former combatants affiliated with signatories to the Declaration of Commitment to the Darfur Peace Agreement, the Sudanese Armed Forces and the Popular Defence Forces. UNAMID provided technical assistance and logistical support for the exercise, including security and transport. In the meantime, of 2,000 registered children associated with armed groups, 957 from various armed movements were released and demobilized.

44. Overall, inadequate deployment levels of force protection, security and safety concerns, the lack of an enforceable peace agreement between the parties, delays in the disarmament, demobilization and reintegration process and restrictions on the freedom of movement of troops imposed operational limitations on planned mandated activities under component 2.

Expected accomplishment 2.1: stable and secure environment in Darfur

Planned indicators of achievement	Actual indicators of achievement
2.1.1 Zero serious violations of the Darfur Peace Agreement and subsequent complementary agreements (2007/08: 30; 2008/09: 0; 2009/10: 0)	The Darfur Peace Agreement was not fully implemented and subsequent complementary agreements were not in place During the reporting period, there was a noticeable increase in tribal clashes between the parties to the conflict as well as disturbances among internally displaced persons with different views of the peace process
2.1.2 Higher percentage of refugees and internally displaced persons who return voluntarily and in safety to their place of origin as per agreements with the United Nations system (2007/08: 0; 2008/09: 10 per cent of 250,000; 2009/10: 50 per cent of 1,250,000)	The non-cessation of hostilities reduced voluntary returns. The United Nations country team indicated that 25,000 internally displaced persons had returned to their places of origin during the reporting period
2.1.3 Minimal civilian casualties resulting from unexploded ordnance accidents (2007/08: 30; 2008/09: 15; 2009/10: 30)	There was no cessation of hostilities. A total of 37 civilian casualties related to unexploded ordnance accidents were reported
2.1.4 Humanitarian access to all conflict-affected populations in Darfur (2007/08: 75 per cent; 2008/09: 100 per cent of 2,500,000; 2009/10: 100 per cent of 2,500,000)	UNAMID was able to guarantee humanitarian access to approximately 60 per cent of the conflict-affected populations in Darfur. The remaining 40 per cent was either outside the control of the Government of the Sudan and the armed movements or was inaccessible owing to the harsh terrain

Component 3: rule of law, governance and human rights

45. During the reporting period, UNAMID focused on the development of a transparent, accountable and inclusive local civil service administration, land-dispute resolution and the transfer of resources from the Government of the Sudan to the three Darfur States, along with the relevant institutions and legislation. Emphasis was placed on the provision of assistance with respect to the incorporation of customary law into the legal system of Darfur, taking into account international law and practices, as well as on promotional efforts related to the protection of human rights in Darfur.

46. In collaboration with the United Nations country team (and in particular UNDP) and local and international stakeholders, UNAMID continued to support, through advisory meetings with corrections management, the judiciary, the prosecution and the Bar Association, capacity-building for prisons and judicial staff, as well as infrastructure upgrades and the supply of office equipment and furniture to improve living and working conditions in prisons in Darfur. In February 2010, UNAMID and the Government of the Sudan signed a memorandum of understanding and a joint plan of action that led to the establishment of the Prison Development Committee. Several meetings were held with the Bar Association, the Prosecutions Office and other stakeholders in all three Darfur States, focused on the restoration of judicial services in courts closed owing to conflict, the establishment of mobile courts in selected localities and capacity-building for judges in formal and informal courts. Those meetings resulted in the establishment of UNDP-sponsored legal aid offices in Northern and Southern Darfur central prisons and the launch of a legal aid programme for the inmates of Ardamata prison (Western Darfur), which was supported by the provision of basic office equipment and the development of a system to report and monitor cases and statistics on legal aid provisions and requirements. Mobile courts were established in targeted locations, including Al Salam, Greida and Abularinka (Sector South). In collaboration with UNDP, UNAMID conducted training for judges and prosecutors to strengthen their capacity to prosecute sexual and gender-based violence offences in line with the Criminal Procedures Act of the Sudan and international law.

47. UNAMID finalized the reform and restructuring implementation plan (2009-2011) to facilitate the reform and restructuring of the Government of the Sudan police and conducted 38 security committee meetings in the three States of Darfur aimed at facilitating the restructuring of the national police service. Eight security committees were formed with the Government of the Sudan police, one in each State, and five at team sites. Three security committees were formed with movement police (one in each sector). In order to improve coordination and communication between the two institutions, one Government of the Sudan police officer was appointed at each of the three State police headquarters as a Government of the Sudan police/UNAMID coordinator, and an agreement was reached to co-locate Government of the Sudan police officers with UNAMID in each of the three States and at Zalingei. UNAMID police continued to provide advice while co-located with personnel in the family and child protection units in El Geneina and El Fasher and at the crime prevention unit in El Fasher. The construction of four Government of the Sudan police training centres was initiated by UNAMID to serve as co-location sites during the preparation and submission of policy guidelines on co-location to Government of the Sudan police for approval. Owing to funding constraints, gender desks were not established in six Government of the Sudan police stations in Southern Darfur as had been initially planned. Project proposals for the establishment of gender desks were, however, presented to various donors for financial support.

48. In addition, UNAMID was able to accomplish capacity-building training programmes for the Government of the Sudan police. In particular, in collaboration with UNDP, UNAMID conducted elections security training for 9,651 Government of the Sudan police officers and training in crowd-control techniques for 290 such officers. Steps were taken towards the establishment of four Government of the Sudan police training centres, which are expected to be operational during the next reporting period. In order to reduce the high crime rate and incidents of rape in camps for internally displaced persons, the UNAMID police component established a special investigation and crime prevention unit to assist and provide advice to the Government of the Sudan in dealing with such crimes, and also conducted intensified awareness programmes in the areas of human rights and gender. That resulted in an overall 12.8 per cent increase in the reporting by victims of sexual and gender-based violence crimes (141 cases in 2008/09 and 159 in 2009/10), and a 45 per cent reduction of reported criminal activities in camps for internally displaced persons (5,724 cases in 2008/09 against 3,139 cases in 2009/10).

49. The Operation intensified its engagement and consultative meetings throughout the three States of Darfur with women's groups, including women legislators, women representatives of the native administration and women leaders from among internally displaced persons. The discussions focused on transparency and inclusive participation in governance institutions. UNAMID also held meetings with the Darfur Reconstruction and Development Fund and the Darfur Community

Peace and Stability Fund on ways to enhance cooperation in project identification with respect to priority areas and funding. The Operation engaged the Darfur Land Commission and the Rehabilitation and Resettlement Commission and provided logistical support for information-gathering on land use; the incorporation of gender issues in the analysis of data on land use and land tenure; and the facilitation of 16 land-use workshops in targeted localities. A further 12 ad hoc meetings were organized with the Land Commission to discuss land tenure issues. However, the Rehabilitation and Resettlement Commission had not been fully resourced to process property claims. Through the meetings held with youth groups, a youth forum in Southern Darfur was formed to facilitate regular discussions on the concerns of youth in both internally displaced person camps and the host community. In June, the Operation convened two three-day workshops on the theme “Gender mainstreaming and gender analysis” for 66 Transitional Darfur Regional Authority personnel and on the theme “Conflict resolution and peaceful coexistence” for 125 participants. Participants included officials of the native administration, representatives of women’s and youth groups, religious leaders, local government officials and Government of the Sudan security forces. UNAMID also held workshops for a total of 678 Darfurian civil society organization participants on the role of civil societies in the democratic process.

Humanitarian liaison, recovery and development activities in the Sudan were coordinated on behalf of the United Nations by the Resident Coordinator/Humanitarian Coordinator in Khartoum, who also served as Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General/Resident Coordinator/Humanitarian Coordinator of UNMIS. UNAMID activities with the United Nations country team and the High-level Committee were conducted through the Operation's Humanitarian Liaison Office, which has offices in the three Darfur states. UNAMID maintained coordination with the humanitarian community on humanitarian issues, including the provision of humanitarian assistance, the protection of civilians and the voluntary return of refugees and internally displaced persons and HIV/AIDS. In particular, UNAMID completed the preparation of early-recovery pilot projects aimed at creating a safe and secure environment for the voluntary, safe, dignified and sustainable return of civilians for implementation in conjunction with the United Nations country team and other partners. Six consultation meetings with representatives of civil society, local institutions, quick-impact project implementing partners, and women leaders in all sectors were held to discuss the most pressing needs of returnees. Opportunities to engage in early recovery efforts, income-generating projects and an assessment of early economic recovery projects to increase the participation of women were discussed in particular. The component maintained a close liaison with the area country team through the weekly area humanitarian country team meetings, led by the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, in all three Darfur states, and with the country team and non-governmental organizations through participation in weekly meetings held in Khartoum. UNAMID held 15 meetings with representatives of armed movements to discuss and resolve issues related to humanitarian access and the protection of civilians. Assistance was provided with respect to the establishment of the Darfur joint verification committee and the subcommittees for security, programme and procedures; and for the establishment of the joint state service committees in December 2009 as a mechanism for promoting integrated security planning in the three states of Darfur.

51. The Government of the Sudan criminalized child trafficking in its new Federal Child Act of February 2010. In collaboration with the United Nations country team and UNICEF in particular, UNAMID conducted 16 field missions across Darfur and participated in inter-agency missions to conflict-affected locations in Northern Darfur to monitor violations against children following reports of fighting between the Government and movement forces. The Operation conducted four prison assessments in Northern Darfur to follow up on cases of children imprisoned with their convicted mothers. Several advocacy meetings were conducted in Northern Darfur with tribal leaders of camps for internally displaced persons on violations committed against children. The Operation also participated in the training of 127 police prison officers from Northern Darfur on juvenile justice and children in conflict with the law, and, in collaboration with UNICEF and UNMIS, held consultations with officers of the Sudanese Armed Forces to discuss a commitment to the action plan to end the recruitment and use of child soldiers.

Component 5: support

52. As detailed in the frameworks below, during the reporting period an average of 15,880 military personnel, 4,431 police personnel and 4,019 civilian staff, including 5 corrections officers, were provided with the necessary logistical, administrative and security services in support of the implementation of the Operation's mandate. The Operation continues to face difficulties in attaining the planned deployment levels, owing to the harsh living conditions and the unpredictable security situation in Darfur.

53. The Operation was able to complete the infrastructure renovations and reconstruction projects for all buildings to meet the required minimum operating security standards. Furthermore, UNAMID staff provided passenger handling as well as landing and ground handling services in El Fasher (Sector North), Nyala (Sector South), El Geneina (Sector West) and Zalingei (Sector West).

54. During the reporting period, UNAMID responded to threats posed by unexploded ordnance by conducting emergency assessments, destroying unexploded-ordnance devices and surveying kilometres of roads for possible contamination by such ordnance. The recent resurgence of military confrontation has led to the recontamination of previously cleared areas, which will therefore need to be reassessed.

55. UNAMID continued its activities aimed at mitigating the stresses that its deployment and operations have placed on the fragile environment of Darfur. Fifteen of 80 potential drilling sites in and around its team sites have been developed, and the water extracted is being shared with the local communities.

56. The multi-year construction projects of the Operation were delayed owing to the harsh conditions and poor infrastructure in Darfur, the long land transport and supply lines from Port Sudan (2,250 kilometres), the long customs-clearance processes and the security constraints that have delayed the mobilization of contractors to the sites, as well as the difficulties encountered in identifying land and obtaining governmental permits.

57. Restrictions on movement continue to hamper the Operation's activities throughout Darfur. UNAMID also continued to experience the adverse operational effects of shortfalls in aviation capability, in particular with regard to five military medium-utility helicopters.

Expected accomplishment 5.1: increased efficiency and effectiveness of logistical, administrative and security support to the Operation

20 per cent of required water was recycled from the 15 wastewater treatment plants that have been installed mission-wide

The lower-than-planned generation of water through wastewater management was due to the lack of the materials necessary to construct the platform required for the installation of wastewater plants. The situation was further compounded by the volatile security situation, which restricted movement of the plant equipment (excavator and forklifts) to team sites

5.1.4 Reduction in the number of major car accidents (2008/09: 238; 2009/10: 119)

There were 151 major car accidents, a 37 per cent decrease compared with the 2008/09 period

The higher-than-planned-for number of major accidents resulted from the poor road conditions in Darfur

5.1.5 Reduction in the vehicle off-road percentage (2008/09: 40; 2009/10: 15)

16 per cent of vehicles off-road

The higher-than-planned-for number of vehicles off-road stemmed from delays in the receipt of the spare parts required to carry out the necessary repair and maintenance work

B. Summary information on redeployments across groups

(Thousands of United States dollars)

Group	Appropriation
	Original distribution	Redeployment	Revised distribution
I. Military and police personnel	739 434.5	(65 672.8)	673 761.7
II. Civilian personnel	241 615.5	28 798.4	270 413.9

Total	1 598 942.2	—	1 598 942.2
Percentage of redeployment to total appropriation			4.1

58. The redeployment of funds from military and police personnel was carried out to address: (a) the significant international staff resource requirements resulting from the lower-than-budgeted vacancy rate and the higher-than-estimated net base salary; and (b) the unbudgeted services of a third-party logistics provider to clear the backlog of United Nations-owned equipment at Port Sudan.

59. Reduced requirements with respect to military and police personnel were attributable to lower actual expenditures for the purchase of ration packs.

C. Monthly expenditure pattern

60. Higher expenditures in August 2009 reflect the recording in the Operation's accounts of obligations for rations and the rental and operation of its aircraft fleet. Higher expenditures in October 2009, March 2010 and May 2010 are attributable to reimbursements to troop- and police-contributing Governments for standard costs, contingent-owned major equipment, and transportation of contingent-owned equipment. The substantial increase in expenditure in June 2010 reflects actual disbursements and obligations approved in the Operation's accounts for the acquisition of equipment to carry on the Operation's engineering infrastructures throughout Darfur.

IV. Analysis of variances¹

	Variance
Military observers	$358.5	3.1%

61. The unutilized balance resulted primarily from reduced requirements for travel on emplacement, rotation and repatriation, owing to the slower-than-anticipated deployment of military observers (an average vacancy rate of 17.4 per cent, compared with the budgeted vacancy rate of 10 per cent) and the higher number of military observers arriving from neighbouring countries; as well as reduced requirements for the purchase of reserve ration packs resulting from the utilization of existing stocks.

62. The unspent balance was offset in part by additional requirements for the payment of the full amount of mission subsistence allowance to all deployed military observers (an average of 198 military observers, compared with the lower number of 86 military observers used in the cost estimates), as no accommodation was provided during the 2009/10 period owing to delays in the construction programme.

Military contingents	$67 700.5	13.2%

63. The unspent balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements for rations due to: (a) a decrease in the ceiling man rate for fresh rations from the budgeted cost of $18 per person-day to the actual cost of $10.83 per person-day based on the prevailing contract terms; (b) lower actual warehousing, refrigeration and transportation costs of $27,405,600 compared with the budgeted cost of $41,519,000; and (c) the substitution of 2 days of fresh rations with reserve ration packs over each 28-day consumption period. In addition, the reduction was also attributable to the lower actual requirements for the reimbursement of troop-contributing Governments for providing equipment owing to the delayed deployment of contingent-owned equipment for five infantry battalions and three companies; and to the lower-than-planned travel costs, with a higher proportion of troops arriving from neighbouring countries.

¹ Resource variance amounts are expressed in thousands of United States dollars. Analysis is provided for variances of at least plus or minus 5 per cent or $100,000.

64. The unutilized balance was offset in part by additional requirements with respect to: (a) the freight and deployment of contingent-owned equipment, owing to the deployment of contingent-owned equipment that had been assumed to be in-theatre before the beginning of the reporting period, and higher-than-planned costs of intra-theatre movement due to security reasons and lack of infrastructure; (b) the payment of mission subsistence allowance at the full amount for an average of the 413 staff and liaison officers, compared with the lower number of 134 staff and liaison officers used in the cost estimates, owing to the delays in the construction programme for United Nations-provided accommodation; and (c) standard troop cost reimbursements, owing to the higher average deployment of 15,269 military contingent personnel (exclusive of staff and liaison officers), compared with the budgeted deployment of 14,894 military contingent personnel (exclusive of staff and liaison officers).

United Nations police	($4 711.5)	(3.2%)

65. The additional requirements were attributable primarily to the payment of the full amount of the mission subsistence allowance for an average of 2,723 police officers compared with the lower number of 1,083 police officers used in the cost estimates, as no accommodation was provided during the 2009/10 period owing to delays in the construction programme.

66. The increased requirements were offset in part by: (a) the lower-than-planned travel costs for the deployment of United Nations police personnel, by chartered flight compared to planned deployment by commercial carrier, with a higher proportion of police personnel arriving from neighbouring countries and with a less-than-projected actual personnel effect; (b) and reduced requirements for the purchase of reserve ration packs owing to the utilization of existing stocks.

Formed police units	$20 539.0	29.2%

67. The unspent balance resulted primarily from lower actual requirements for the reimbursement of formed police unit-contributing Governments for the use of major equipment owing to the delayed deployment of formed-police-owned equipment; and rations owing to a decrease in the ceiling man rate for fresh rations, lower actual warehousing, refrigeration and transportation costs, and the substitution of 2 days of fresh rations with reserve ration packs over each 28-day consumption period.

68. The unutilized balance was offset in part by increased requirements for the unplanned deployment of formed-police-owned equipment, which was assumed to be in-theatre before the beginning of the reporting period, and higher-than-planned costs for travel on emplacement, and rotation and repatriation for formed police units from distant countries.

	Variance
International staff	($27 738.1)	(17.2%)

69. The additional requirements were attributable primarily to the faster-than-anticipated recruitment of international civilian personnel. While the approved budgetary resources were based on a vacancy rate of 35.0 per cent, the actual vacancy rate for the reporting period averaged 28.6 per cent. In addition, the variance was attributable to higher requirements for international staff salaries and related costs than originally estimated in the 2009/10 budget, pursuant to General Assembly resolution 63/250 on human resources management.

	Variance
National staff	$4 255.6	7.6%

70. The unspent balance resulted primarily from reduced requirements with respect to hazardous duty station allowance paid to staff, owing to the higher-than-planned number of national staff taking their leave entitlements; the higher-than-anticipated vacancy rates for National Officers (a budgeted vacancy rate of 30 per cent compared with the actual average of 43.5 per cent) and national General Service staff (a budgeted vacancy rate of 20 per cent compared with the actual average of 26.2 per cent); and the lower exchange rate of local currency against the dollar during the period.

	Variance
United Nations Volunteers	$192.1	1.0%

71. The unspent balance was attributable primarily to delays in the deployment of United Nations Volunteers. While the approved budgetary resources were based on a vacancy rate of 25 per cent for international United Nations Volunteers, the actual vacancy rate for the reporting period averaged 28.5 per cent. In addition, whereas the cost estimates assumed no vacancies for national United Nations Volunteers, the actual vacancy rate for the reporting period averaged 41.7 per cent.

	Variance
General temporary assistance	($379.7)	(8.8%)

72. The overall additional requirements were attributable primarily to the recording of expenditures related to the discontinued 54 temporary positions (28 international staff and 26 national staff), which were replaced by posts in the Humanitarian Liaison Office, against the national staff budget line items, and against the common staff costs budget line item for international staff.

73. The above increased requirements were offset in part by reduced actual requirements for international staff salaries, pursuant to General Assembly resolution 63/250 on human resources management and the higher-than-planned number of international staff away from the mission area who were not paid a hazardous duty station allowance.

	Variance
Government-provided personnel	($26.7)	(11.0%)

74. The variance under this heading was attributable to additional requirements for mission subsistence allowance owing to the faster-than-planned deployment of Correction Officers, with an actual vacancy rate for the reporting period averaging 19.4 per cent compared with the 25 per cent budgeted for the period; and owing to the payment of the full amount of mission subsistence allowance to the five deployed correction officers, compared with the lower number of two correction officers used in the cost estimates, as no accommodation was provided during the 2009/10 period because of delays in the construction programme.

	Variance
Consultants	($249.7)	(52.0%)

75. The additional requirements resulted primarily from unbudgeted consultancies aimed at: (a) developing a partnership and resource-mobilization strategy for a railway project as an alternative to the use of third-party logistics providers; (b) conceptualizing, planning and implementing the overall workplan of the Darfur-Darfur Dialogue and Consultation, with special emphasis on issues related to land, natural resources, security, reconciliation, democracy, rehabilitation and the participation of tribal chiefs in the peace process; (c) implementing the travel management contract; (d) designing information materials; (e) and assisting the UNAMID hostage crisis committee to ensure the secure and unconditional release of hostages.

76. The increased requirements resulted also from the engagement of consultants to carry out supplementary training activities mainly on fuel operations management, administration and technical management of the Operation website, competency-based selection and interviewing skills, as well supervisory and communication skills.

	Variance
Official travel	($5 364.7)	(117.6%)

77. The additional requirements were attributable to the higher-than-estimated costs of non-training-related travel undertaken within and outside the mission area. The increased requirements for official travel within the mission area relate to the increased logistical, administrative and substantive support provided to team sites in connection with the inspection of ammunition/explosives, the convoy of United Nations-owned equipment, customs clearance of equipment, the investigation of cases, and the installation and maintenance of engineering equipment. Additional requirements for official travel outside of the mission area related to: (a) the mediation for an inclusive and comprehensive settlement to the conflict in Darfur, in particular support for the Joint Mediation Support Team during the peace talks and the related political consultations for the Doha peace process, as well as meeting with various regional and international partners of the Darfur peace process; (b) predeployment visits; (c) procurement planning and contract management; and (d) other related administrative functions, including the escort of the remains of military and police personnel as well as personnel requiring medical treatment outside the mission area.

78. The increased requirements with respect to non-training-related travel were offset in part by reduced requirements with respect to training-related travel owing to the use of Entebbe as regional training hub, the use of in-house resources to deliver training courses, and the organization of in-mission training by inviting trainers to accommodate larger audiences at a reduced cost.

Facilities and infrastructure	$26 386.9	10.9%

79. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements for: (a) construction services owing to the cancellation of the contract awarded for the construction of 24 helipads, 19 camps and 7 community policing centres, as the contractor could not mobilize the required resources and logistical arrangements owing to the remoteness of building sites, the volatile security situation and the poor infrastructure; and (b) self-sustainment reimbursements to contributing Governments, owing to the slower-than-anticipated deployment of contingent-owned equipment.

80. The reduced requirements were offset in part by additional requirements for the unplanned acquisition of equipment for the Operation's engineering infrastructures throughout Darfur, which included: (a) 173 modular prefabricated buildings for the upgrading of office and living accommodations to United Nations standards, and to the construction of storage facilities to improve warehouse management efficiency; (b) office furniture for the supercamps and at the team sites spread across the mission area; (c) water bladders and wastewater treatment plants to enhance the existing water-storage capacity within the mission area; (d) 80 generators for three centralized power houses in El Fasher, Nyala and El Geneina, and for private accommodations in areas with very low or no power supply, as recommended by the Department of Safety and Security; and (e) accommodation equipment for facilities in El Fasher, Nyala, El Geneina, Zalingei and team sites, owing to the harsh climatic environment. Additional requirements were also incurred in connection with the reimbursement of security service costs and the acquisition of additional field supplies to comply with minimum operating residential security standards.

Ground transportation	($4 872.9)	(15.5%)

81. The additional requirements resulted from the unforeseen acquisition of: (a) 78 light and medium buses for security reasons as a mitigating measure against the carjacking of four-wheel-drive vehicles and to accommodate larger numbers of passengers; (b) three drilling rigs and compressors to enhance in-house capacity with respect to additional water resources and to reduce dependence on expensive external contractors; (c) 10 garbage trucks in support of water and environment-related activities; (d) CarLog equipment to allow for the adequate control and monitoring of the vehicle fleet; and (e) licence-plate-embossing equipment compatible with mission plate size and acronym.

82. The increased requirements were offset in part by the reduction in fuel consumption, which was due to (a) the delayed deployment of contingent-owned equipment; and (b) the volatile security situation, which prevented the mission from accessing various areas by road and led to the imposition of vehicle curfews as a mitigating measure against carjacking.

Air transportation	$6 432.9	3.1%

83. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements for petrol, oil and lubricants stemming from the non-deployment of three fixed-wing aircraft and five helicopters; an 8.6 per cent decrease in the price of aviation fuel (from the budgeted price of $1.17 per litre compared to the actual price of $1.07 per litre); and reduced operational and maintenance fees from the vendor owing to the slower-than-anticipated mobilization of fuel sites. The unspent balance was also attributable to reduced requirements for the rental and operation of the Operation's helicopter fleet resulting from the non-deployment of the five helicopters; and for airfield and airport ground support services owing to the non-availability of qualified contractors.

84. The reduced requirements were offset in part by additional requirements for the unplanned acquisition of runway lighting systems, instrument landing systems and electronic navigation systems to upgrade the airports and to support 24/7 operations at El Fasher, Nyala and El Geneina, in accordance with the memorandum of understanding signed between UNAMID and the Civil Aviation Authority of the Sudan.

	Variance
Communications	$3 100.8	5.3%

85. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements with respect to: (a) communication services, owing to lower-than-planned charges for low-density VSAT terminals in the community policing centres sites, as services were provided through microwave link; and to the lower-than-planned usage of telephone services owing to the delays in the construction of Operation facilities; and (b) self-sustainment reimbursement to troop-contributing Governments as a result of the slower-than-anticipated deployment of contingent-owned equipment and the lower-than-planned number of items meeting the required self-sustainment standards.

86. The unspent balance was offset in part by increased requirements for the acquisition of additional ultra-high-frequency handsets and base stations to facilitate better end-user communication functions along with advance security features as per operational requirements, and the acquisition of additional stocks of spare parts to ensure that equipment remains functional in the harsh environmental conditions of the region.

Information technology	($1 113.7)	(4.4%)

87. The variance under this heading was attributable to additional requirements for specialized information technology support services due to the size and complexity of the infrastructure in supercamps and remote team sites; and to the acquisition of additional stocks of spare parts to ensure that equipment remains functional in the harsh environmental conditions of the region.

88. The increased requirements were offset in part by reduced requirements for licence fees and the rental of software owing to the delayed implementation and procurement process for new application licences during the reporting period.

	Variance
	<hr/>	<hr/>
Medical	$366.0	1.7%

89. The unspent balance resulted from the deployment of a Level III hospital in Nyala and a Level II hospital in El Geneina through letter-of-assist arrangements as well as the deployment of air-medical-evacuation-capable helicopters and aircraft, which reduced dependence on external sources.

90. The unspent balance was offset in part by higher actual requirements for the reimbursement of contributing Governments for self-sustainment costs based on the signed memorandums of understanding as compared with the projected costs.

	Variance
	<hr/>	<hr/>
Special equipment	($3 043.8)	(80.4%)

91. The higher expenditure was attributable to higher actual requirements for the reimbursement of contributing Governments for self-sustainment costs based on the signed memorandums of understanding as compared with the projected costs.

	Variance
	<hr/>	<hr/>
Other supplies, services and equipment	($30 748.1)	(155.7%)

92. The additional requirements were attributable to: (a) the unbudgeted use of a third-party logistics provider to clear the backlog of shipments of United Nations-owned equipment at Port Sudan through a contract amounting to $24 million (the logistics contract covered customs clearance, freight forwarding, inland transportation and other related services between Port Sudan, El Obeid, Khartoum and Darfur using road, rail or aviation links); (b) the higher-than-planned cost of bank charges and transaction costs outside of Khartoum as the mission continued to expand, with more personnel being deployed ($5.7 million); and (c) the unbudgeted acquisition of body armour and ballistic helmets, which could not be procured during 2008/09 period owing to the expiration of the then-existing system contract.

93. The additional requirements were offset in part by reduced requirements for the disarmament and demobilization of armed members due to the fact that a national disarmament, demobilization and reintegration policy and plans had not been developed owing to the lack of a comprehensive peace agreement.

V. Actions to be taken by the General Assembly

94. The actions to be taken by the General Assembly in connection with the financing of UNAMID are:

(a) To decide on the treatment of the unencumbered balance of $51,086,900 with respect to the period from 1 July 2009 to 30 June 2010;

(b) To decide on the treatment of other income/adjustments for the period ended 30 June 2010 amounting to $124,887,200 from interest income ($13,046,900), other/miscellaneous income ($6,282,900), and cancellation of prior-period obligations ($105,557,400).
