Promoting regional cooperation for enhanced energy security and the sustainable use of energy in Asia and the Pacific¹

The Economic and Social Council,

Taking note of resolution 67/2 adopted at the sixty-seventh session of the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (annex I), which, inter alia, requests the Executive Secretary to convene in 2013 the Asian and Pacific Energy Forum at the ministerial level to discuss the progress achieved in the Asia-Pacific region in addressing the energy security challenges at the regional, national and household levels, and to facilitate continuous dialogue among member States with a view to enhancing energy security and working towards sustainable development;

Promoting regional cooperation for enhanced energy security and the sustainable use of energy in Asia and the Pacific

The Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific,

Recalling also its resolutions 63/6 on the implementation of intercountry energy cooperation to enhance energy security for sustainable development with a view to widening access to energy services in least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States, and 64/3 on promoting renewable sources of energy for energy security and sustainable development in Asia and the Pacific,

¹ A statement of the programme budget implications for the implementation of this resolution, which was read out at the adoption of the resolution, is provided at annex II to the present resolution.

² Report of the World Summit on Sustainable Development, Johannesburg, South Africa, 26 August-4 September 2002 (United Nations publication, Sales No. E.03.II.A.1 and corrigendum), chap. I, resolution 2, annex.

Taking note of the Ministerial Declaration on Environment and Development in Asia and the Pacific, 2010,³ adopted by the sixth Ministerial Conference on Environment and Development in Asia and the Pacific on 2 October 2010,

Recognizing that energy security is a key development issue for all countries in the Asia-Pacific region, in particular for the least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States,

Recognizing also that nearly 1 billion people in the Asia-Pacific region today do not have access to modern affordable energy services,

Emphasizing the need to improve access to reliable, affordable and environmentally sound energy resources for the achievement of internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals,

Recognizing that energy demand in the Asia-Pacific region is rising faster than in other regions and is projected to almost double by the year 2030 and that fossil fuels are likely to remain the main source of energy for meeting that demand,

Expressing concern that volatile oil prices may threaten the region's nascent recovery from the global economic crisis and its prospects for achieving the Millennium Development Goals by 2015,

Recognizing the potential of various new and renewable energy technologies in meeting the challenges presented by unmet energy demand,

Expressing appreciation for the work of the secretariat of the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific in promoting subregional energy cooperation with a view to enhancing energy security and sustainable development,

Welcoming the ongoing efforts of Governments to promote regional and interregional cooperation for enhanced energy security and sustainable use of energy resources,

1. Calls upon all members and associate members to further promote regional cooperation in addressing energy security challenges and to formulate and implement coherent energy policies based on comprehensive assessments of their environmental and social impacts;

2. Urges members and associate members, as appropriate, to give due attention to supply-side constraints, the management of energy demand and the consequences of price volatility and potential disruptions to energy supply;

3. Calls upon members and associate members to cooperate proactively in the development and deployment of cost-effective new and renewable energy technologies, and to promote cooperation on increasing energy efficiency, in particular, in the context of South-South cooperation;

4. Encourages all members and associate members to develop and strengthen efficient policy and regulatory structures at the national and subnational levels that will encourage private sector investment in energy products;

5. Also encourages members and associate members to actively engage the private sector in order to enhance investments, to generate innovations and to take leadership as a partner in creating a sustainable energy future;

³ E/ESCAP/67/8, chap. I, sect. A.

6. Invites Governments, donor countries, relevant United Nations bodies, agencies, international and subregional organizations, international and regional financial institutions, as well as the private sector and civil society, to actively consider contributing towards the implementation of the present resolution;

7. Requests the Executive Secretary:

(a) To strengthen the role and capacity of the secretariat of the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific in the area of energy security;

(b) To ensure effective coordination with other United Nations bodies and agencies, in particular through UN-Energy, and with multilateral agencies and subregional organizations in working towards enhancing the capacity of States members of the Commission;

(e) To convene, in 2013, the Asian and Pacific Energy Forum at the ministerial level to discuss the progress achieved in the Asia-Pacific region in addressing the energy security challenges at the regional, national and household levels, and to facilitate continuous dialogue among member States with a view to enhancing energy security and working towards sustainable development;

(f) To report to the Commission at its seventieth session on the progress in the implementation of the present resolution.

Annex II

Statement of programme budget implications for implementing resolution 67/2 on promoting regional cooperation for enhanced energy security and the sustainable use of energy in Asia and the Pacific

1. The full implementation of the resolution will require additional extrabudgetary resources estimated at $500,000 per year to support the implementation of the required activities and regular budgetary resources of $50,000 above the proposed programme budget for 2012-2013 for the provision of interpretation and translation services for the Asia-Pacific Energy Forum at ministerial level.

2. The Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific has reviewed the resources proposed for the biennium 2012-2013 and the outputs expected to be delivered with the level of proposed resources and has concluded that it would not be possible to defer, change or discontinue any of these outputs in order to absorb the additional resource requirements resulting from the draft resolution. In other words, it is not possible for the proposed programme budget for the biennium 2012-2013 to absorb the additional resource requirements and there are no extrabudgetary resources foreseen that could finance the interpretation and translation services.

3. The secretariat will formulate the proposed strategic framework for the period 2014-2015, taking into account the request to strengthen the role and capacity of the secretariat of the Commission in the area of energy security and review the staffing needs in this area in the formulation of the regular budget for 2014-2015. To the extent possible, the secretariat will review whether the staffing needs in this area can be addressed through internal redeployments.
