Annex to the letter dated 28 May 2015 from the Permanent Representative of Denmark to the United Nations addressed to the President of the Security Council

On behalf of the National Coalition of Syrian Revolution and Opposition Forces, it is my grave responsibility to draw to your attention the worsening humanitarian crisis in Syria and the urgent need for decisive Security Council action to stop the killing of innocent civilians and alleviate humanitarian suffering, including through the imposition of a no-fly zone.

Since the Under-Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs and Emergency Relief Coordinator last briefed the Security Council on the humanitarian situation in Syria, the violence perpetrated by Syrian regime forces and terrorist extremist groups has worsened. Syrian regime forces continued to attack civilian areas and facilities, including hospitals and schools, in Idlib, Aleppo, Damascus, eastern Ghouta, Homs and Dar'a, killing men, women and children. Syrian regime helicopters continued to deploy chlorine gas in civilian occupied neighbourhoods, including in Saraqib, Idlib, on 2 May and Janoudieh, Kansafrak and Kafr Batiakh on 7 May (for a more detailed overview of Syrian regime atrocities, see enclosure). As a direct result of the Syrian regime's indiscriminate aerial bombardment, a total of 828 Syrians were killed, representing 45 per cent of the 1,849 Syrians killed by Syrian regime forces and extremist terrorist groups since the Emergency Relief Coordinator last briefed the Council, on 24 April 2015.

Syrian regime forces also continued to prevent and obstruct the delivery of urgently needed humanitarian aid to Syrians in need, as a result of which 12.2 million Syrians remained in need of humanitarian assistance and over 422,000 people remained under siege. As in prior months, Syrian regime forces repeatedly removed medical equipment and supplies from humanitarian aid convoys. On 22 May, anti-regime forces in Idlib posted video of boxes of relief supplies recovered in the Mastouma military base, bearing the logos of international aid agencies, including those of the World Food Programme and the United Nations Children's Fund. The boxes had been confiscated by Syrian regime forces, who continue to pursue a campaign of depriving civilians of food, water and medical care.

As Syrian authorities continued their assault on Syrian civilians, terrorist extremist groups represented by ISIL perpetrated new atrocities, including in Deir-Ezzor province, the Yarmouk refugee camp and Palmyra, detaining, torturing and executing civilians, including women and children. The atrocities perpetrated by ISIL were once again facilitated and exacerbated by Syrian regime forces. In the 2,000 year-old city of Palmyra, classified by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization as a World Heritage Site, regime forces refused to allow civilians safe passage, as ISIL terrorists raided the ancient city. Palmyra was made even more vulnerable when officers abandoned their command, leaving civilians to fend for themselves. In both Palmyra and the Yarmouk refugee camp, Syrian aerial forces indiscriminately bombarded civilian occupied areas. On 28 April and 1 May, regime forces launched air and missile attacks in the Yarmouk refugee camp, killing at least 12 civilians. On 26 May, regime aircraft dropped bombs in the areas surrounding the ancient ruins of Palmyra, resulting in the destruction of residential buildings and the deaths of at least 15 civilians, including women and children.

The atrocities perpetrated by Syrian regime forces and ISIL terrorists violate international humanitarian and international human rights law, including Security Council resolutions 2139 (2014), 2165 (2014) and 2191 (2014), which demanded that Syrian authorities cease their “indiscriminate employment of weapons in populated areas, including shelling and aerial bombardment, such as the use of barrel bombs, and methods of warfare which are of a nature to cause superfluous injury or unnecessary suffering”. The atrocities perpetrated by Syrian authorities can and must be stopped through the resolve and determination of the Security Council and its constituent members. The Syrian Coalition therefore calls on the Security Council to:

- I. Protect civilians through the imposition of a no-fly zone. Indiscriminate aerial bombardment is the leading cause of civilian death in Syria. A no-fly zone would save lives, deter the use of chemical weapons, alleviate suffering and create the conditions needed to begin a political process.
- II. Demand access for the United Nations to Syria’s besieged areas, with or without regime consent. More than 440,000 Syrians live in besieged areas. The Security Council should demand free access to all besieged areas, so that food, water and urgently needed medical care can reach those who need it.
- III. Demand greater transparency in the delivery of humanitarian assistance. Throughout the course of the Syrian crisis, there have been multiple reports that aid kits destined for civilians and delivered by aid agencies are stolen by Syrian regime militias. The United Nations must do more to prevent Assad’s forces from diverting life-saving assistance, including by calling on the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs to publicize its methodology regarding the administration and delivery of humanitarian aid, including that distributed through its partner in Syria, the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies.
- IV. Refer the situation in Syria to the International Criminal Court. Syrian regime forces and terrorist extremist groups such as ISIL continue to commit war crimes and crimes against humanity with impunity. A referral to the International Criminal Court would end impunity, deter further atrocities and bring justice to victims.

The actions I have outlined will save lives and alleviate the suffering of my people. They will also enable the Security Council to fulfil its responsibility to restore peace and stability to Syria. As the Under-Secretary-General, Valerie Amos, embarks on her final days in office, I urge you to act on her appeal to match the scale of the Syrian crisis with an equally bold and courageous response. As she stated in her previous remarks to the Security Council on Syria, “the failure to stop the violence has undermined the credibility of this Council and eroded confidence in the international community to take its responsibilities seriously”. On behalf of all the people of Syria, I urge you to heed her warnings and take the actions necessary to save the lives of my people.

(Signed) Najib Ghadbian
Special Representative to the United Nations

2. Paragraphs 8 and 10: all parties must immediately cease attacks against medical facilities and other civilian objects as well as medical personnel, and prioritize the fullest possible medical attention for those in need. Further demands that all parties demilitarize medical facilities, school and other civilian facilities.

Violation: Syrian regime attacks on medical facilities and medical staff and militarization of medical facilities

Following attacks on or near medical facilities, only 47 per cent of Syria's public hospitals and health centres are today partially functioning, while an estimated 44 per cent are out of service. Since the beginning of the conflict, over 599 doctors and medical personnel and 127 public health-care workers have been killed. There have been 224 attacks on 175 separate medical facilities since the start of the conflict. Since 2011, substantial damage to pharmaceutical plants has led to a 65-70 per cent decline in the domestic production of medicines and medical supplies, while sanctions limit imports.

In the month of April alone, there were reports of at least 14 separate attacks by regime forces on medical facilities in Idlib, Aleppo, Damascus, Deir ez-Zor, Hama and Hasakeh governorates, seven of which were performed using barrel bombs.

27 April In Deir-Ezzor city, regime airplanes attacked a children's hospital, killing five civilians, including two children and two women.

3. Paragraphs 5, 6 and 7: all parties must immediately lift sieges of populated areas and allow unrestricted delivery of humanitarian aid. All parties must promptly allow United Nations humanitarian agencies and partners safe and unhindered access to populations in need.

Violation: Syrian regime continues to besiege civilian communities

An estimated 422,000 Syrians currently reside in besieged areas and 4.8 million in hard-to-reach areas inside Syria. Out of these, 167,500 are besieged by regime forces in eastern Ghouta and Darayya, where they suffer from starvation and a lack of medical care. On 26 April, in the city of Doma in Rif Dimashq province, a child died due to shortage of medicines.

Access to medical supplies and equipment continues to be restricted and its timely delivery is severely hindered by regime-imposed limitations. In the month of April, over 34,000 Syrians were deprived of treatment as a consequence of hindrance or confiscation by regime forces.

4. Paragraphs 1 and 11: [The Security Council] strongly condemns the arbitrary detention and torture of civilians in Syria, notably in prisons and detention facilities (...) and demands the immediate end of these practices.

Violation: Syrian regime continues to torture prisoners

Over the past four years, over 11,427 deaths have been documented, resulting from systematic torture by the Assad regime. Torture has become a regular occurrence since the outbreak of the crisis in 2011, and is only one of the causes of the high number of deaths of the 215,000 Syrians currently in regime prisons. Most prisoners die owing to the lack of medical treatment, falling victim to diarrhoea and the loss of fluids, pneumonia, asthma, heart problems or small injuries that become infected due to lack of treatment. Over the past month, at least 104 people were tortured to death in Syria's prisons by the Damascus regime.

The latest report of the Secretary-General on the implementation of Security Council resolutions 2139 (2014), 2165 (2014) and 2191 (2014) (S/2015/369) reported allegations of torture and ill-treatment in Al-Khatib State Security Branch and Harasta Air Force Intelligence in Damascus, and at the Air Force Intelligence Branch in Homs. Regime forces regularly carry out arbitrary detentions.

26 April A man reportedly died as a result of torture inside a regime jail in Homs province.

29 April Following an arrest 3 months ago, a man from the city of Talbisah died as a result of torture inside regime jails.

30 April In Hama province, a man from al-Latamina was tortured to death in regime prisons.

- 2 May A man from Al-Maadi was tortured to death in regime prisons.
- 20 May A man from Ma'arba, Fares Al Mekdaddied, died as a result of torture in a regime detention centre.
- 22 May Abdo Mohammed Eido Al Semahi from Jebab in Daraa was tortured to death in a regime detention centre.
- 23 May Jalal Al Kafri from Ghasum died as a result of torture in a regime detention centre.
- 24 May Ahmad Al Khatib, a student from Al Jeiza, died as a result of torture in a regime detention centre.
