DOCUMENT A/BUR/122

Organization of the fifth session of the General Assembly : memorandum by the Secretary-General

[Original text : English]
[18 September 1950]

The Secretary-General has the honour to place before the General Committee certain observations and suggestions regarding the arrangements for the meetings of the General Assembly and its Main Committees during the fifth session.

SCHEDULE OF MEETINGS

1. It is suggested that both plenary and committee meetings should begin at 10.45 a.m. and 3.00 p.m. In view of the heavy programme, it is urged that delegations should make every effort to arrive at the scheduled meeting place on time.
2. It is proposed that a six-day working week should be established. On Saturdays one extended meeting will normally be scheduled for Committees from 10.45 a.m. to 2.00 p.m.
3. Plenary meetings will be held in the General Assembly hall at Flushing Meadow. The Main Committees will meet in the conference rooms at Lake Success. The General Committee will be scheduled to meet in conference room A in the General Assembly building at Flushing Meadow or at Lake Success as appropriate.

4. The Secretary-General has made arrangements for the servicing of four Main Committees meeting simultaneously. He wishes to suggest that, in the initial stages of the Committees' work, four Main Committees should be scheduled to meet each morning and four each afternoon.

TARGET DATE FOR THE CLOSING OF THE SESSION

5. Rule 2 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly, as amended during the fourth session, states : " On the recommendation of the General Committee, the General Assembly shall, at the beginning of each session, fix a target date for the closing of the session." The Secretary-General wishes to suggest that the General Committee should propose to the General Assembly 30 November 1950 as the target date for the closing of the fifth session.

DEADLINE FOR THE SUBMISSION OF REQUESTS FOR THE INCLUSION OF ADDITIONAL ITEMS IN THE AGENDA

6. To facilitate the planning of the total programme of work of the General Assembly, the Secretary-General suggests that the General Committee should recommend that a date should be determined after which requests for the inclusion of additional items in the agenda of the session could not be made. If it is desired to adopt such a procedure, the Secretary-General proposes 4 October as such a deadline.

VERBATIM RECORDS OF MAIN COMMITTEES

7. The Secretary-General wishes again to bring to the attention of the General Committee the decision of the General Assembly of 20 November 1947, at the time of approval of the third annual budget of the United Nations, that the Secretary-General should be authorized to provide verbatim records " for one Main Committee at a time, the committee which, in the opinion of the General Committee, has the most important items on its agenda " ¹.

8. The General Committee is therefore required to decide for which of the Main Committees verbatim records shall be provided during the fifth session of the General Assembly.

SEATING ARRANGEMENTS

9. At a recent Secretary-General's staff meeting, lots were drawn to choose the Member to occupy the first desk on the Assembly floor from which the alphabetical seating order would begin. Sweden was the name drawn and, consequently, Sweden will sit at the first desk at the extreme right of the President. At the initial meetings of the Main Committees, the same seating order will be observed. There will be, however, a daily rotation of one place in the Main Committees thereafter.

Request for the inclusion of an additional item in the agenda of the fifth session : letter dated 17 November 1950 from the Chairman of the delegation of El Salvador addressed to the President of the General Assembly

[Original text : English]

New York, 17 November 1950

On 14 November, I sent you a telegram from Washington, D. C., reading as follows :

"Acting under instructions received from my Government, I have the honour to request that the following item be added to the agenda of the General Assembly for its present session : 'Invasion of Tibet by foreign forces'. I hope to have an early opportunity at the next plenary meeting of the General Assembly to press for a decision on this important matter.

(Signed) Héctor David CASTRO,
*Chairman of the delegation
of El Salvador*

On the same date, I sent you a letter of confirmation of the text of the telegram by special delivery.

Due to the urgency of the case, it was my hope that the General Assembly could act on this matter without referring it to the General Committee. However, if this procedure cannot be dispensed with in this case, I shall be most willing to accept this fact and to see that the matter is referred to the General Committee for action. I shall be ready to appear before the Committee in order to explain the purposes of my Government in presenting the case for the consideration of the General Assembly.

I enclose herewith a supporting memorandum of facts and a set of copies of the proposed draft resolution.

I request that this letter and enclosures should be circulated as an official document.

I shall be most grateful for your co-operation in handling this matter in the most appropriate manner.

(Signed) Héctor David CASTRO,
of El Salvador*

SUPPORTING MEMORANDUM

The Press of the whole world has published the fact that the peaceful nation of Tibet has been invaded, without any provocation on its part, by foreign forces proceeding from the territory controlled by the government established at Peiping.

The fact that such forces were going to be sent into the territory of Tibet was publicly announced at Peiping. The news was also given out that some plenipotentiaries from Tibet were being sent to Peiping in order to negotiate with the government there for the purpose of settling the differences and avoiding an open conflict. In spite of this peaceful gesture, the forces were sent and have penetrated into the territory of the State of Tibet. The Government of Tibet has appealed to the United Nations to use its good offices in order to obtain a peaceful solution of the already existing conflict. This appeal cannot be ignored, unless the General Assembly of the United Nations is ready to ignore its primary responsibility "to maintain international peace and security" to which paragraph 1 of Article 1 of the Charter refers. It is true that Tibet is not a Member of the United Nations, but it is also a clear fact that the responsibilities of this Organization are not limited to the maintenance of international peace among the Member States but, on the contrary, that they are extended to the whole world.

The Government of El Salvador, in giving instructions to its delegation to request the General Assembly to include in its agenda for its present session the case of Tibet, has stated that it would be fatal to the credit of the United Nations before the eyes of the world if a case of international aggression, such as has taken place in the small country of Tibet, which has an autonomous government, were to be ignored by our Organization.

It has been published in the Press that in some quarters, unknown to me, there are some doubts concerning the independence of Tibet. It has even been suggested that Tibet is a province of China. However, anyone who takes the trouble to look at a map of Asia will realize that Tibet is separate and entirely different from the territory of China. Tibet was a protectorate of China, but at least since 1912 it has enjoyed complete independence. It has an autonomous government which is chosen by the people. This government has not permitted interference of the Chinese Government in its internal affairs. The Chinese Government has been respectful and has not interfered in the political life of Tibet. In this manner, the independence of Tibet has been reaffirmed. It is only at the present time that the government established at Peiping wants to bring into subjection the free people of Tibet. Tibet cannot offer great resistance to the invading forces. It has resorted to the international organization which has been established to "maintain international peace and security" only in order to obtain some assistance that might be of help to that nation to preserve its freedom. Such an appeal cannot be ignored. The delegation of El Salvador has requested that the case of Tibet should be placed on the agenda of the General Assembly. In due time, this delegation will move that a special committee should be appointed by the Assembly to study the case with special reference to the plea of the Government of Tibet, and to suggest any appropriate measures that could be taken by the Assembly.

DRAFT RESOLUTION

The General Assembly,

Taking note that the peaceful nation of Tibet has been invaded, without any provocation on its part, by foreign forces proceeding from the territory controlled by the government established at Peiping,

Decides

1. To condemn this act of unprovoked aggression against Tibet;
2. To establish a committee composed of... (names of nations)... which will be entrusted with the study of the appropriate measures that could be taken by the General Assembly on this matter;
3. To instruct the committee to undertake that study with special reference to the appeal made to the United Nations by the Government of Tibet, and to render its report to the General Assembly, as early as possible, during the present session.

Request by the delegation of El Salvador for the inclusion of an additional item in the agenda of the fifth session :
note by the Secretary-General

[Original text : English]
[24 November 1950]

At the request of the delegation of El Salvador, the Secretary-General has the honour to communicate to the Members of the General Assembly the text of a cablegram dated 11 November 1950 received from the Tibetan delegation Shakabpa (House Kalimpong).

Kalimpong, 11 November 1950

The attention of the world is riveted on Korea where aggression is being resisted by an international force. Similar happenings in remote Tibet are passing without notice. It is in the belief that aggression will not go unchecked and freedom unprotected in any part of the world that we have assumed the responsibility of reporting to the United Nations Organization, through you, recent happenings in the border area of Tibet.

As you are aware, the problem of Tibet has taken on alarming proportions in recent times. This problem is not of Tibet's own making but is largely the outcome of unthwarted Chinese ambition to bring weaker nations on its periphery under its active domination. Tibetans have for long lived a cloistered life in their mountain fastnesses, remote and aloof from the rest of the world, except in so far as His Holiness the Dalai Lama, as the acknowledged head of the Buddhist Church, confers benediction and receives homage from followers in many countries.

In the years preceding 1912, there were indeed close friendly relations of a personal nature between the Emperor of China and His Holiness the Dalai Lama. The connexion was essentially born of belief in a common faith and may correctly be described as the relationship between a spiritual guide and his lay followers ; it had no political implications. As a people devoted to the tenets of Buddhism, Tibetans had long eschewed the art of warfare, practised peace and tolerance, and for the defence of their country relied on its geographical configuration and on non-involvement in the affairs of other nations. There were times when Tibet sought but seldom received the protection of the Chinese Emperor. The Chinese, however, in their natural urge for expansion, have wholly misconstrued the significance of the time of friendship and inter-independence that existed between China and Tibet as between neighbours. To them China was suzerain and Tibet a vassal State. It is this which first aroused legitimate apprehension in the mind of Tibet regarding China's designs on its independent status.

The conduct of the Chinese during their expedition of 1910 completed the rupture between the two countries. In 1911-1912 Tibet, under the thirteenth Dalai Lama, declared its complete independence — even as Nepal simultaneously broke away from allegiance to China— while the Chinese revolution of 1911, which dethroned the last Manchurian Emperor, snapped the last of the sentimental and religious bonds that Tibet had with China. Tibet thereafter depended entirely on its isolation, its faith in the wisdom of the Lord Buddha, and occasionally on the support of the British in India for its protection. No doubt in these circumstances the latter could also claim suzerainty over Tibet. Tibet, notwithstanding Anglo-Chinese influence from time to time, maintained its separate existence, in justification of which it may be pointed out that it has been able to keep peace and order within the country and remain at peace with the world. It continued to maintain neighbourly good will and friendship with the people of China but never acceded to the Chinese claim of suzerainty in 1914.

It was British persuasion which led Tibet to sign a treaty which superimposed on it the nominal (non-interfering) suzerainty of China and by which China was accorded the right to maintain a mission in Lhasa, though it was strictly forbidden to meddle in the internal affairs of Tibet. Apart from that fact, even the nominal suzerainty which Tibet conceded to China is not enforceable because of the non-signature of the treaty of 1914 by the Chinese. It will be seen that Tibet maintained independent relations with other neighbouring countries, such as India and Nepal. Furthermore, despite friendly British overtures, it did not compromise its position by throwing in its forces in the Second World War on the side of China. Thus it asserted and maintained its complete independence. The treaty of 1914 still guides relations between Tibet and India, and China not being a party to it may be taken to have renounced the benefits that would have otherwise accrued to it from the treaty. Tibet's independence thereby reassumed de jure status.

The slender tie that Tibet maintained with China after the 1911 revolution became less justifiable when China underwent a further revolution and turned into a full-fledged communist State. There can be no kinship or sympathy between such divergent creeds as those espoused by China and Tibet. Foreseeing future complications, the Tibetan Government broke off diplomatic relations with China and made a Chinese representative in Lhasa depart from Tibet in July 1949. Since then, Tibet has not even maintained formal relations with the Chinese Government and people. It desires to live apart, uncontaminated by the germ of a highly materialistic creed, but China is bent on not allowing Tibet to live in peace. Since the establishment of the People's Republic of China, the Chinese have hurled threats of liberating Tibet and have used devious methods to intimidate and undermine the Government of Tibet. Tibet recognizes that it is in no position to resist. It is thus that it agreed to negotiate on friendly terms with the Chinese Government.

It is unfortunate that the Tibetan mission to China was unable to leave India through no fault of its own but for want of British visas which were required for transit through Hong Kong. At the kind intervention of the Government of India, the Chinese People's Republic condescended to allow the Tibetan mission to have preliminary negotiation with the Chinese Ambassador to India, who arrived in New Delhi only in September. While these negotiations were proceeding in Delhi, Chinese troops, without warning or provocation, crossed the Dre Chu river, which has for long been the boundary of Tibetan territory, at a number of places on 7 October 1950. In quick succession places of strategic importance such as Demar, Kamto, Tunga, Tshame, Rimochegoty, Yakalo and Markham, fell to the Chinese. Tibetan frontier garrisons in Kham, which were maintained not with any aggressive design, but as a nominal protective measure, were all wiped out. Communist troops converged in great force from five directions on Chamdo, the capital of Skham, which fell soon after. Nothing is known of the fate of a Minister of the Tibetan Government posted there.

Little is known in the outside world of this sneak invasion. Long after the invasion had taken place, China announced to the world that it had asked its armies to march into Tibet. This unwarranted act of aggression has not only disturbed the peace of Tibet, but it is also in complete disregard of a solemn assurance given by China to the Government of India and it has created a grave situation in Tibet and may eventually deprive Tibet of its long cherished independence. We can assure you, Mr. Secretary-General, that Tibet will not go down without a fight, though there is little hope that a nation dedicated to peace will be able to resist the brutal effort of men trained to war, but we understand that the United Nations has decided to stop aggression whenever it takes place.

The armed invasion of Tibet for the incorporation of Tibet in communist China through sheer physical force is a clear case of aggression. As long as the people of Tibet are compelled by force to become a part of China against their will and consent, the present invasion of Tibet will be the grossest instance of the violation of the weak by the strong. We therefore appeal through you to the nations of the world to intercede in our behalf and restrain Chinese aggression.

The problem is simple. The Chinese claim Tibet as a part of China. Tibetans feel that racially, culturally and geographically, they are far apart from the Chinese. If the Chinese find the reactions of the Tibetans to their unnatural claim not acceptable, there are other, civilized, methods by which they could ascertain the views of the people of Tibet, or, should the issue be purely juridical, they are open to seek redress in an international court of law. The conquest of Tibet by China will only enlarge the area of conflict and increase the threat to the independence and stability of other Asian countries.

We Ministers, with the approval of His Holiness the Dalai Lama, entrust the problem of Tibet in this emergency of the ultimate decision of the United Nations, hoping that the conscience of the world will not allow the disruption of our State by methods reminiscent of the jungle.

Administrative and budgetary co-ordination between the United Nations and the specialized agencies : report of the Secretary-General

[7 September 1950]

1. The General Assembly, by resolution 311 A (IV), adopted on 24 November 1949, requested the Secretary-General and the heads of the specialized agencies to continue studies designed to co-ordinate and simplify administrative and financial arrangements, giving special attention to reserve funds, utilization of soft currencies, form of budget, organization of administrative and financial services, and standards of conference services. The United Nations and the several specialized agencies were requested to give continued attention to the relative urgency and productivity of their projects and to a reduction in the total number of meetings, as well as to strive towards a balanced over-all meeting calendar. The resolution also drew the attention of Member States of the United Nations and the specialized agencies to the necessity for prompt payment of contributions to assure the adequate financing of budgets approved by them. Resolution 311 B (IV) stated the belief of the General Assembly that there was room for closer relationship between the assessments of Member States for contributions to the budgets of the United Nations and of the specialized agencies, and authorized the Committee on Contributions to recommend or advise on the scale of contributions for a specialized agency if requested by that agency to do so. In resolution 311 C (IV), the General Assembly noted with concern the situation as regards arrears in contributions, and recommended that each specialized agency should keep its expenditure from its regular budget each year within the amount of funds reasonably expected to be received in respect of that year. By resolution 347 (IV), the General Assembly expressed the hope that all agencies would participate in the common system of external audit which it had adopted on the recommendation of the Secretary-General and of the heads of specialized agencies.

2. While the Administrative Committee on Co-ordination has already reported to the Economic and Social Council on a number of studies conducted under its aegis (E/1682),¹ and the Secretary-General has reported briefly on administrative and budgetary co-ordination in his annual report on the work of the Organization to 30 June 1950,² it seems desirable to present to the General Assembly a comprehensive and up-to-date report on administrative and budgetary co-ordination to assist it in its review of the budgets of the specialized agencies for 1951, as well as in its over-all evaluation of the relations of the United Nations with the specialized agencies.

3. The Secretary-General considers the most concrete accomplishments in this field to have been the drawing up of a common set of permanent financial regulations which will be presented by the head of each agency to the appropriate legislative organs of that organization, and a preliminary agreement on a set of principles to be embodied in the permanent staff regulations of each agency. The Secretary-General is recommending the conclusions reached after long and intensive discussions of these draft regulations to the General Assembly in documents A/1331 and A/1360. The solutions to many of the specific problems referred to the Secretary-General and the heads of the specialized agencies by the General Assembly during the past four years are reflected in these proposed new regulations. If common permanent financial and staff regulations for the United Nations and each of the agencies can be approved during the coming year, a real milestone in administrative and budgetary co-ordination will have been passed.

4. Progress on the specific assignments in the matter of co-ordination made by the General Assembly at its fourth regular session is reported in parts A, B and C below. Other related activities are noted in part D.

A. BUDGETARY CO-ORDINATION

5. Resolution 311 (IV) contained three recommendations relating specifically to the budgets of specialized agencies: (a) an over-all recommendation on budget policy, namely, that budgetary expenditures should be kept within the limits of anticipated annual receipts in respect of each budget year; (b) a request that continued attention should be given to the relative urgency and productivity of each project to ensure the best results from budgetary expenditures, to a reduction in the total number of meetings, and to the achievement of a balanced calendar of meetings; and (c) a request that the Secretary-General and the heads of the agencies should intensify their efforts to achieve a common form of budget, giving particular attention to common definitions of administrative and operational expenses, to the quality of budget justification and to methods for showing estimates of reimbursement for services rendered.

6. In respect of (a), the heads of several specialized agencies brought the recommendation to the attention of their appropriate legislative bodies early in 1950. The World Health Organization and the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization took specific steps to provide for a "plan of expenditure" at a lower level than the approved budgets for those organizations, in view of anticipated arrears in contributions. The Secretary-General, while fully recognizing the necessity for prudence in expenditures in all circumstances, including the problem of arrears, must reiterate the argument advanced in the Fifth Committee of the General Assembly by the Chairman of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions and by several delegations at the time the above-mentioned resolution was adopted:³ that formal action requesting a governing body or council to set up a "plan of expenditure" smaller than the approved budget may encourage default in payments. Furthermore, this type of action deprives the General Assembly or the annual conference of final budgetary control, since in such circumstances the approved budget is not the real authorization to the head of the agency to spend funds for approved programmes. The Secretary-General deems it desirable for the General Assembly to reconsider this point when making its recommendation on the 1951 budgets of the specialized agencies.

7. The problem of establishing priorities within the programmes of each agency and also among broad fields of work has been dealt with at length in the Economic and Social Council and in the Administrative Committee on Co-ordination during 1950; the results of these discussions are reflected in the reports of each agency to the United Nations, the report of the Council to the General Assembly, and in the budgets themselves. It will be noted that the modest increases which are to be seen in the budgets of some of the specialized agencies are primarily the result of automatic increases in establishment costs, but that, in general, the size of staffs has been stabilized largely on account of more careful scheduling of programmes and meetings.

8. A considerable effort has been made by technical working parties of the ACC in seeking a common form of budget. The Secretary-General is glad to report agreement on model budget justifications, on methods for showing estimates for reimbursements for services rendered by other international organizations, and on standard budget summaries for 1951. However, in the time at its disposal, the ACC has not been able during 1950 to arrive at a common definition of administrative and operational budgets. The problem has been complicated by the addition of special budgets for technical assistance and other activities financed from voluntary contributions. As indicated in the report of the Advisory Committee on the 1951 budget estimates of the United Nations,⁴ the form of the United Nations budget has not yet been entirely stabilized; this is also true of each of the newer specialized agencies. It is hoped that another year or two will produce a model budget form acceptable to the General Assembly and to the legislative bodies of each of the agencies.

B. FINANCIAL ARRANGEMENTS

Scales of assessment

9. In accordance with the request of the General Assembly in resolution 311 B (IV), the Secretary-General notified the specialized agencies that they might call upon the Committee on Contributions to recommend or advise on their scale of contributions. When the Committee met in August 1950, requests for information and data had been received from three agencies. Details of the action of the Committee are available in its report to the General Assembly.⁵

Utilization of soft currencies

10. In accordance with the terms of resolution 311 A (IV), the Secretary-General and the heads of the specialized agencies have exchanged information regarding methods for increasing the utilization of soft currencies by their organizations over the direct expenditures made in support of regional or branch offices; each agency has agreed to review its expenditure programme, particularly for certain items such as salaries, printing and other procurement, and travel, where greater possibilities for the utilization of soft currencies might be found. The United Nations has been able to substantially increase its utilization of soft currencies, particularly in printing, and in the purchase of furnishings, fixtures and equipment for the permanent Headquarters. The Secretary-General invited the payment of assessments in currencies other than United States dollars up to 22 per cent in 1950—15 per cent in Swiss francs and 7 per cent in ten other currencies.

11. At the same time, several specialized agencies pointed out that the use of numerous soft currencies involved increases in the administrative and financial work-loads and, in some cases, actually resulted in some increase in total expenditures. This problem has led to the consideration of a plan for the collection and disbursing of soft currencies which would limit the number of soft currencies to be collected. Studies of the feasibility of the plan are being made with the help of technical experts in this field. It is hoped and expected that results will be available before the next series of annual conferences of the specialized agencies in 1951.

Arrears in contribution

12. The Secretary-General and the heads of the specialized agencies welcomed the action of the General Assembly in urging the prompt payment of contributions by Member States. The problem continues to be a serious one for several specialized agencies. There has been some exchange of information concerning techniques used in collection, but the problem does not lend itself to solution at the Secretariat level. The Secretary-General is presenting full information to the General Assembly on the arrears for 1949 in respect of all agencies for which data is available.⁶

Funding arrangements

13. In response to the specific request of the General Assembly, contained in paragraph 4 in resolution 311 A (IV), the Secretary-General and the heads of specialized agencies made an intensive study of the reserve funds of the United Nations and the agencies' including their adequacy and simplicity of arrangements, and the purposes and conditions for the use of these funds. As regards the question of adequacy of existing funds, attention was given to the experience of several organizations with regard to the collection of contributions. It was considered that there was not yet sufficient common experience in the collection of contributions to ascertain theoretically the adequacy of any percentage amount to meet requirements for working capital. The fact that, in certain organizations, the present working capital provisions were inadequate, as a result of serious arrears in contributions, was shown in the present financial position of those organizations. However, each member of the Administrative Committee on Co-ordination agreed to transmit the following principles to the appropriate legislative bodies of his organization.

(a) Each organization should have a working capital fund for the financing of:

- (i) Delays in the receipt of contributions;
- (ii) Unforeseen and extraordinary (contingency) expenses which cannot be met from current budgetary provisions;
- (iii) Other financing requirements outside the normal scope of the operation of the budget appropriations.

(b) The working capital fund should be the subject of regular resolutions by the organization's Conference or Assembly establishing:

- (i) The amount of the fund;
- (ii) Purpose of the fund and conditions for its use.

(c) The amount of the fund should be assessed on the members in accordance with a scale of assessments to be determined by the Conference or Assembly.

(d) Payments into the fund by members should be considered as advances to the fund. Such advances would be carried to the credit of the members making such payments.

⁶ Ibid., Supplement No. 5a (Annex IV to the budget estimates for 1951).

(e) The amount of the fund should be determined periodically by the Conference or Assembly on the basis of a realistic appraisal of needs, as demonstrated by experience, taking into consideration the rate of disbursements, the rate of collection of contributions, the nature and size of unforeseen and extraordinary expenses, and the size of other authorized demands on the fund.

These principles have been embodied in the draft permanent financial regulations submitted to the General Assembly (A/1331).

Joint panel of auditors

14. In resolution 347 (IV) the General Assembly adopted, for the United Nations, the common audit principles as agreed by the Administrative Committee on Co-ordination, together with certain recommendations made by the Economic and Social Council, and approved the principles regarding a joint panel of auditors for the United Nations and the specialized agencies. The General Assembly nominated the members of the Board of Auditors of the United Nations to the Joint Panel, and expressed the hope that such of the specialized agencies as had not yet agreed to the common system of external audit would do so.

15. Real progress has been made in the implementation of this plan. The International Labour Organization, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, the World Health Organization, the Food and Agriculture Organization and the International Civil Aviation Organization have adopted the audit principles referred to above. ILO and WHO have chosen a common auditor (Mr. Brunskog) for their 1950 accounts and have nominated him to the Joint Panel; UNESCO has selected a new auditor (Sir Frank Tribe) and has nominated him to the Panel. The Director-General of FAO will propose the selection of the same auditor by the Council of that organization at the next session. The Council of ICAO has requested the Secretary-General of that organization to discuss the question with the Auditor-General of Canada (who is already a member of the Panel as Chairman of the United Nations Board of Auditors) and with the Secretary-General of the United Nations, with a view to making suitable arrangements for ICAO to co-operate in the scheme. The first meeting of the Panel to plan the audits for 1950 will be held in early October.

16. It may also be noted that the Technical Assistance Board has reached the following agreement concerning the external audit of the special account for the Expanded Programme of Technical Assistance for economic development :

(i) Planning of the audits and final co-ordination between them should be effected through the Joint Panel of Auditors of the United Nations and the specialized agencies;

(ii) The Central Fund should be audited by the United Nations Board of Auditors;

(iii) The audit of distributed funds should be carried out by the regular auditors of the participating organizations;

(iv) The report should be submitted to the appropriate governing body of each agency, with a copy to TAB.

C. ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES

17. The General Assembly also requested, in paragraph 6 of resolution 311 A (IV), further study of the organization of administrative and financial services and standards of conference services, in order to achieve a maximum of economy and efficiency. It is gratifying to report that no difficulty has been encountered in the United Nations and most of the agencies in agreeing on the functions necessary to maintain proper administrative and financial control and general organizational relationships between those functions. The degree of decentralization of these functions continues to vary from agency to agency according to its size, its constitutional arrangements and financial and staff regulations. All the agencies concerned agree that administrative, financial and personnel services should be as small as is consistent with sound administrative and financial control. The Secretary-General is of the opinion that little is to be gained by further consideration by the Administrative Committee on Co-ordination of this subject at the present time.

18. On the other hand, preliminary studies on standards of conference services indicated that fruitful work might be done in this field, particularly in the area of documentation. Standardization of these services would not only result in savings in the United Nations and several of the agencies, but would contribute to the solution of the vexing problem of inter-agency charges for services.

19. In this connexion, the Secretary-General wishes to call attention to paragraphs 25 and 26 of the report of the Board of Auditors for the year ended 31 December 1949.⁷ The Secretary-General has been concerned for some time over the slow progress made in implementation of the provision in the agreements between the United Nations and the specialized agencies which stresses the desirability " in the interest of administrative and technical uniformity and of the most efficient use of personnel and resources, of avoiding whenever possible, the establishment and operation of competitive or overlapping facilities and services... ". While it is impossible to separate this issue from that of the location of headquarters, there do still exist possibilities for greater economy with some sacrifice of convenience. In accordance with this recommendation and those of the Economic and Social Council at its eleventh session [resolution 324 (XI)] the Secretary-General intends to press the matter during the coming year, particularly in respect of regional and branch offices.

D. PERSONNEL ADMINISTRATION

20. In addition to the specific tasks given to the Secretary-General by resolution 311 (IV), a considerable amount of time has been devoted to the subject of common standards for personnel administration in the United Nations and the specialized agencies. This work was materially assisted by the deliberations of the International Civil Service Advisory Board at its session in ⁷ Ibid., Supplement No. 6.

March 1950. Its report on recruitment methods and standards has been published under the symbol COORD/CIVIL SERVICE/2/Rev.1, and is available as an unrestricted document.

21. Representatives of the Secretary-General and of the Directors-General of the specialized agencies met in early September in Paris to review again the proposed salaries, allowances and leave systems of the United Nations and the specialized agencies in the light of the observations and recommendations of the Advisory Committee⁸ on the report of the Committee of Experts. The results of this meeting will be made available to the Fifth Committee of the General Assembly prior to its discussion of the question.

22. As noted in the annual report of the Staff Pension Committee on the United Nations Joint Staff Pension Fund (A/1335), agreements for participation in the Fund have been concluded with WHO and FAO, and decisions to participate have been taken by the governing bodies of UNESCO, ICAO and ILO. This represents a considerable improvement over the position a year ago. Separate systems still exist for the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the International Monetary Fund, the Universal Postal Union, the International Telecommunication Union and for a part of the International Labour Organisation. The first session of the Joint Staff Pension Board is expected to be held during the last quarter of 1950.

23. On the whole, the Secretary-General believes that progress has been made in the administrative and budgetary co-ordination of the family of United Nations organizations during 1949 and 1950. The adoption of permanent staff and financial regulations, patient attention to the details of co-ordination by the administrative officials of the various organizations and co-operation between the several administrative and financial control bodies of the United Nations and the agencies will produce the results which Member States have a right to expect.

[26 September 1950]

1. At its fourth session, the General Assembly, in resolution 310 (IV), adopted on 24 November 1949, resolved, inter alia,

“ 1. To urge Member States to refrain from initiating new projects other than those which are urgently required and which can be effectively carried out;

“ 2. To draw the attention of the competent organs of the United Nations and of the specialized agencies to the recommendations contained in the annex to resolution 259 (IX)⁹ of the Economic and Social Council of 9 August 1949, with special attention to paragraph 2 of section 1 relating to a greater concentration of effort and resources;

“ 3. To request the Secretary-General, through the Administrative Committee on Co-ordination, to assist the Economic and Social Council in the discharge of its responsibility in this regard by putting before it any relevant recommendations;...”

2. In accordance with the request contained in paragraph 3 of the above resolution, the Secretary-General submitted to the Economic and Social Council, on 10 May 1950, a report on the concentration of effort and resources of the United Nations and the specialized agencies, prepared in consultation with the specialized agencies.

3. At its eleventh session, the Council, by resolution 324 A (XI) adopted on 9 August 1950, decided, inter alia, to transmit the above report to the General Assembly. This report is available as document E/1683.¹⁰

DOCUMENT A/1441

Administrative budgets of the specialized agencies for 1951 : sixth report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

[16 October 1950]

1. In accordance with the provisions of Article 17, paragraph 3, of the Charter of the United Nations and resolution 14 A (I) adopted by the General Assembly on 13 February 1946, the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions has examined, on behalf of the General Assembly, the administrative budgets of those specialized agencies which have formal agreements with the United Nations providing for the transmittal of their budgets for examination by the Assembly.

2. The following agencies have submitted their budgets or budgetary estimates for 1951 to the United Nations : International Labour Organisation, United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, World Health Organization, Food and Agriculture Organization, International Civil Aviation Organization, International Refugee Organization (for the supplementary period 1 July 1950-31 March 1951) and Universal Postal Union.

3. The budget estimates for 1951 of the International Telecommunication Union were not available in time for consideration by the Advisory Committee. The Committee therefore limited its review to the relevant parts of the annual report presented by ITU to the United Nations together with the amended budget for 1950.

4. The Agreements concluded with the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and the International Monetary Fund provide that "... in the interpretation of paragraph 3 of Article 17 of the Charter, the United Nations will take into consideration that the Bank [Fund] does not rely for its annual budget upon contributions from its members, and that the appropriate authorities of the Bank [Fund] enjoy full autonomy in deciding the form and content of such budget". The budgets of these organizations are not submitted to the United Nations for examination.

5. Details of the budgets or budgetary estimates of the United Nations and certain specialized agencies appear in Information Annex IV to the Secretary-General's budget estimates for 1951 (A/1267/Add.1), as required by the provisional financial regulations. The gross totals of the 1951 budgets or budgetary estimates are shown in the table below, together with the corresponding figures for the preceding financial year :

	1950 US dollars	1951 US dollars
International Labour Organisation	6,023,526	6,269,506
United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization	8,010,000	8,210,000
Food and Agriculture Organization	5,000,000	5,000,000 ¹²
International Civil Aviation Organization	2,670,552	2,727,273
World Health Organization	7,501,500	7,300,000
International Refugee Organization	4,500,000	2,506,893 ¹³
Universal Postal Union	322,964	291,305
Sub-total (specialized agencies) ..	34,028,542	32,304,977
United Nations	49,641,773	45,450,800
GRAND TOTAL ...	83,670,315	77,755,777

6. Contributions from States members of ITU to its 1951 budget are expected to add a figure of about $1,500,000 to the above total, while the operational budget of IRO has been approved at a figure of $52,658,553 for the period 1 June 1950-31 March 1951.

7. Before offering its comments on the individual budgets, the Advisory Committee wishes to bring to the attention of the General Assembly of the United Nations and the legislative bodies of the specialized agencies certain problems which are common to most or all of the agencies.

8. Of these problems, perhaps the most important concerns the control of technical assistance funds and other extra-budgetary funds, as well as the form of presentation of the relevant estimates. At present, such funds are not incorporated in the annual budgets of the agencies and, except in the case of WHO, even the presentation of the estimates for technical assistance is entirely separate from the annual budgets.

9. As a consequence of this procedure, the annual budgets do not reflect the whole of the activities of the organization for the year to which they refer, and a comprehensive appraisal can be made only by reference to a number of separate documents.

10. The Advisory Committee therefore suggests that the specialized agencies should be requested to include, as information annexes to their annual budget documents, the estimates and plans for expenditure of any other funds which may be available for use during the year covered by the regular budget estimates.

11. As regards the control of technical assistance expenditures, the Advisory Committee notes that under Economic and Social Council resolution 222 A (IX) the Secretary-General of the United Nations and the executive heads of the organizations participating in the technical assistance programme " shall, after consultation, make appropriate arrangements for the audit of contributions and expenditures under this programme ". The Committee recommends that in addition, a consolidated audit report on the expenditures connected with the programme should be submitted for examination and approval to the General Assembly of the United Nations, and the appropriate audit reports to the general conferences of the specialized agencies.

12. A second problem to which the Advisory Committee directs attention concerns the collection of contributions, which appears to be causing serious financial difficulties in most of the specialized agencies. Default or delay in the payment of contributions assessed against States members of the specialized agencies may result in a severe drain on the Working Capital Funds of those agencies, and hamper the execution of programmes approved in the budgets. The General Assembly may wish to invite the specialized agencies to give special consideration to this problem. Precise information on the status of contributions may be found in Information Annex IV to the 1951 budget estimates of the United Nations (A/1267/Add.1).

13. It was this problem which led the General Assembly to recommend in resolution 311 C (IV) " to each specialized agency that it keep its expenditure each year from its regular budget within the amount of funds reasonably expected to be received in respect of that year". Furthermore, several agencies can never expect to receive the full amount of the assessments on their members, inasmuch as their scale of contributions includes States which have not joined, or have given notice of withdrawal from, the organization, as well as States which, for other reasons, are in arrears or have defaulted on their contributions. In so far as the latter group is concerned, the Committee had noted that any plan of expenditure based on the assumption of non-payment of contributions may have undesirable effects. An examination of the 1951 estimates of those agencies which have found it necessary to adopt a plan of expenditure substantially below the approved budget raises some doubt concerning this technique of financial control. In such circumstances, the budget estimates become a theoretical target, and it is suggested that the Secretary-General, in consultation with the administrative heads of the agencies and the Advisory Committee, might also study and report on alternative procedures for attaining the objectives of the General Assembly.

14. In addition, the Advisory Committee draws attention to the unsatisfactory position in regard to common administrative services for organizations situated in the same area. While efforts have been made to secure a measure of co-ordination in this field among the specialized agencies with headquarters in Geneva and the European Office of the United Nations, the results so far achieved are, in the opinion of the Committee, inadequate. It suggests that the Secretary-General of the United Nations and the administrative heads of the agencies concerned might consider the desirability of setting up in Geneva a joint management board to undertake a survey of existing administrative services and to determine the possibility of creating joint service units. Similar efforts in Paris, Bangkok, Cairo, New Delhi and Santiago should also prove fruitful.

15. The Advisory Committee suggests that consideration should also be given to the question of uniformity in the presentation of resolutions adopted by the main legislative bodies of the specialized agencies and the General Assembly of the United Nations, as a means of facilitating the review of budgets in relation to programmes both by the specialized agencies and by the General Assembly. This question might, in the opinion of the Committee, appropriately be studied by the Consultative Committee on Administrative Questions. Further progress might also be made in developing a standard terminology and a common form of presentation of the budgets of the several agencies.

16. It is recognized that basic comparability of the estimates depends upon common financial regulations concerning the estimates, treatment of budgetary surpluses, treatment of revenue, and other matters. The Advisory Committee therefore trusts that the permanent financial regulations eventually adopted by the General Assembly will be favourably considered by each of the agencies.

17. The General Assembly has previously invited the specialized agencies to review their programmes of meetings with a view to reducing the number of formal meetings of governmental representatives and, in particular, to consider whether a full-scale conference is necessary (resolution 210 (III)). In the opinion of the Advisory Committee, it would be desirable to call further attention to this matter, to which reference is also made in paragraph 45 below.

OBSERVATIONS REGARDING THE BUDGETS OR BUDGETARY ESTIMATES OF SPECIFIC AGENCIES

International Labour Organisation

US dollars

1951 appropriation	6,269,506 (gross)
1950 appropriation	6,023,526 (gross)
1949 expenditure	5,034,154

19. Estimated expenditure during 1951 is distributed under the following main heads, as compared with corresponding figures for 1950 :

	1951 US dollars	1950 US dollars
I. Meetings	855,712	878,177
II. Personal services	4,167,469	3,979,926
III. General services	803,781	791,394
IV. Special projects and activities	75,000	75,000
V. Equipment purchase	81,659	76,485
VI. Property account	26,385	100
VII. Other budgetary provisions	259,500	222,444
	GROSS TOTAL	6,269,506

Less : Casual revenue	50,000	40,000
Distribution of one-fifth of original Working Capital Fund	245,715	—

20. The Advisory Committee was informed that adequate attention is being given by the Director-General and by the legislative bodies of ILO to the question of relative priority of projects to be undertaken by that organization; and, further, that the terms of reference of existing commissions and committees are kept under constant review for the purpose of determining the necessity for their continuation. It is suggested that a similar review might profitably be undertaken by other specialized agencies.

21. As regards the recommendation made last year by the Advisory Committee concerning a possible amalgamation of the Working Capital Fund and the Reserve Fund, the Committee was informed of the action taken in respect of the reorganization of the Working Capital Fund. While appreciating the difficulty of undertaking the proposed amalgamation concurrently with such a reorganization, the Committee nevertheless recommends that further consideration be given to its proposal.

22. The question of printing documents in countries other than Switzerland was also examined by the Advisory Committee. Although it notes that efforts are being made to allocate printing orders in various European countries, it suggests that continuing attention be given to increasing the volume of printing undertaken in soft-currency countries.

23. The Advisory Committee takes note of the administrative and financial arrangements made by ILO in connexion with the grant from certain members of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation for the financing of certain activities in the field of migration. The Committee suggests that ILO may wish to consider attaching information about such grants to the annual budgetary estimates, so that the budget document may reflect a comprehensive picture of ILO activities.

1950 appropriation	8,010,000 (gross)

24. The total appropriations voted by the UNESCO General Conference for 1951 show an increase of $200,000 by comparison with the 1950 figure. The Advisory Committee notes that this increase is due to (a) the addition of Spanish as a working language of the General Conference; (b) expanded programmes in Germany and Japan; and (c) expanded activities in the field of human rights.

25. The effort to maintain the annual expenditure at about the same level is apparent in the various discussions held during the examination of the 1951 budget estimates, and is the subject of a specific reference in the report on the 1951 estimates submitted by the Executive Board. An increase in appropriation was nevertheless deemed unavoidable, and is reflected in an increase in the number of posts from 824 in 1950 to 855 in 1951.

26. The Advisory Committee has previously expressed the view that a concentration of the programme on fewer projects would be beneficial to UNESCO. The elimination of completed and less urgent projects would in the view of the Committee facilitate this concentration of programme within the limits of the existing budget.

27. The budget appropriation for 1951 is distributed among the following main heads, as compared with the 1950 appropriation :

	1951 US dollars	1950 US dollars
I. Meetings	216,940	297,656
II. Personal services	5,205,841	4,729,120
III. General services	1,573,940	1,722,369
IV. Special projects	1,210,050	1,168,739
V. Equipment purchase	103,229	92,116
GROSS TOTALS	8,310,000	8,010,000
Less : Casual revenue	20,000	10,000
Savings due to institution of local salary system and other changes in salary and allowance systems	100,000
Contribution by the Government of Cuba to the Regional Office in the Western Hemisphere	10,000	10,000
NET TOTALS	8,180,000	7,990,000

28. The Advisory Committee was informed that UNESCO is at present negotiating for additional office space. Since some of its offices have in the past been made available to national delegations, the Committee suggests that before the additional space is rented, consideration should be given to the possibility of releasing such offices to the UNESCO secretariat. In the event that the proposed renting of additional premises entails expenditure for improvement of premises, purchase of equipment, and similar items, such expenditure should be included for amortisation, on an appropriate basis, in the rentals charged by UNESCO to national delegations requesting office accommodation.

29. The Advisory Committee took note of the resolutions adopted by the UNESCO General Conference concerning the transfer of certain items to the 1951 income estimates of the organization (resolutions 19.421-425), in order to make up for the estimated deficit in the collection of contributions. It is clear that such measures, being of an exceptional and, for the most part, non-recurring character, cannot offer a lasting solution to the problem at issue. The solution can be found only in the prompt and full payment of contributions assessed against the members of the organization.

30. The Advisory Committee notes with satisfaction that UNESCO has adopted a practice under which any proposals for activities to be undertaken by that organization are accompanied by a statement to the legislative body concerned of the financial implications of such proposals.

31. The decision to hold a session of the Budget Committee of the General Conference one week prior to the opening of the Conference seems likely to make for a fuller and more careful examination of the annual estimates and work programme of the organization.

Food and Agriculture Organization

1951 proposed budget	5,000,000
1951 plan of expenditure	4,500,000
1950 appropriation	5,000,000
1949 expenditure	4,654,519

32. The Advisory Committee notes that the estimates for FAO for 1951, as prepared by the Director-General, conform to the following recommendation made by the Council of FAO at its ninth session (May 1950) :

“ The Council recommends that in framing the budget for 1951 the Director-General should

“ (a) While assuming that the budget of the organization will continue to be $5,000,000, plan the expenditure so that it does not exceed the expected income of the organization, and that he assume an income figure of $4,500,000. ”

33. The above recommendation results from the difficulty hitherto experienced by FAO in collecting the full amount of assessments made against its members and, while the Advisory Committee recognizes the desirability in the circumstances of limiting 1951 expenditures to the level of anticipated income, it draws attention to the general observation on this problem contained in paragraph 12 above.

34. FAO's estimates of expenditure for 1951 are distributed among the following main heads :

	1951		1950 US dollars
	Proposed budget US dollars	Plan of expenditure US dollars
I. Meetings	264,185	202,565	171,780
II. Personal services	3,315,111	3,070,520	3,608,585
III. General services	881,172	792,062	1,081,000
IV. Special projects	—	—	1,000
V. Equipment purchase	39,500	31,500	33,780
VI. Other budgetary provisions .	500,032	403,353	103,855
GROSS TOTAL	5,000,000	4,500,000	5,000,000

35. It is clear from a review of the budget estimates that the adoption of the $4,500,000 ceiling of expenditure calls for a certain reduction in activities planned for 1951, as compared with those approved for 1950. The number of posts proposed under the expenditure ceiling, 593, contrasts with an approved total of 701 for 1950.

36. The Advisory Committee was informed of the status of various grants which have been made to FAO for the execution of specified activities. The Committee believes that an account of the administrative and financial status of such grants might be included as an annex to the FAO annual budget estimates, in order to provide, in a single document, reference to all activities to be undertaken by the organization during a given year.

1950 appropriation	2,670,552

37. The provision made for the years 1950 and 1951 under the various parts of the budget of ICAO is shown in the following table :

	US dollars ¹⁴	US dollars ¹⁴
I. Meetings	90,909	143,727
II. Personal services	1,936,364	1,882,041

VII. Other budgetary provision	77,273	8,182
TOTAL	2,727,273	2,670,552
NET TOTALS	2,556,364	2,555,097

38. While the programme of meetings for 1951 represents an appreciable increase by comparison with 1950, the budgetary provision for part I—meetings—at approximately $53,000 less, reflects the savings anticipated on the 1951 ICAO Assembly session, which will be devoted solely to questions of an administrative character. The increase of some $69,000 in part VII is due to the provision of retirement benefits for the Secretary-General.

39. In its final report to the fourth session of the ICAO Assembly, the Administrative Commission referred to the widespread concern which had been in evidence during its deliberations over the upward trend of expenditures, particularly in relation to the mounting cost to States of participation in all international organizations. “ It was emphasized ”, states the report, “ that extraordinary means of financing, such as appropriations from the Working Capital Fund, would not continue to be available, and it was apparent that there was a general desire for eventual stabilization of the cost of the organization to States ”.

40. The ICAO Assembly, in approving the budget estimates for 1951, directed that the gross expenditure of $2,727,273 should be financed in the following manner :

	US dollars
I. By assessment to contracting States ...	2,363,636
II. By appropriation from the Working Capital Fund	120,000
III. By appropriation from the General Fund Reserve	72,727
IV. By income from casual revenue (estimated)	170,910
	2,727,273

41. The ICAO Assembly, at its fourth session, suspended the voting power of six of its members which had “ failed to discharge completely their financial obligations to the organization ” in respect of the period ending on 30 June 1948. The Assembly further adopted a resolution authorizing the Council, at its discretion, and subject to appropriate safeguards for the safety, regularity of efficiency of international air navigation, to suspend from the States in question, so long as their voting power is in suspense, a part of the general services furnished to contracting States.

42. The Advisory Committee notes that the Council of ICAO, which had not previously found it possible to accept the joint system or external audit recommended by the General Assembly for the United Nations and the specialized agencies, has now requested the Secretary-General of ICAO to discuss with the Auditor-General of ¹⁴ Conversion from Canadian dollars made at rate of dollar (Canadian) 1.10 : dollar U.S. 1.00.

Canada and the Secretary-General of the United Nations the possibility of ICAO's participating in the joint system while retaining the services of commercial auditors.

43. Since 1 July 1950, the system of deductions in lieu of income tax has been replaced by a staff assessment plan similar to that of the United Nations. The Advisory Committee was informed that, in view of the fact that the scale of assessment under the plan exceeds the present rate of Canadian income tax, the Canadian tax authorities have agreed to offset against the assessment income tax on salaries received by Canadian staff members from ICAO in respect of the period subsequent to 1 July 1950.

44. The third Assembly of ICAO (1949) recommended that the Council review the ICAO salary and allowance scales "in the light of all relevant factors." The Advisory Committee takes note of the reports of the Council to the effect that while its Finance Committee had this matter under study, there was not sufficient time to complete the task before the 1950 Assembly.

45. In paragraph 17 above, reference is made to the question of the appropriate frequency of full-scale annual conferences. The Advisory Committee therefore draws attention to the following resolution (resolution A4-6) on the character and scope of future sessions of the ICAO Assembly, which was adopted by the fourth Assembly (1950):

" 1. That plans should be made to hold a major session of the Assembly once every three years, each such session to be convened in the year in which the election of Council Member States takes place, except that the agenda of intervening limited sessions convened to deal with budgetary and administrative matters required by the Convention should allow for examination of any type of problem which the Council may decide is of urgent importance;

" 2. That the question of character and scope of sessions of the Assembly should be reviewed at the next major session of the Assembly in the light of experience gained."

World Health Organization

	US dollars
1951 appropriation	7,300,000
1950 appropriation	7,501,500
1949 expenditure	4,776,608

46. The figures recorded above in respect of the years 1950 and 1951 represent the budgetary totals approved by the World Health Assembly. In view, however, of the unsatisfactory status of contribution, the Executive Board of WHO has found it necessary to establish an expenditure ceiling of $6,300,000 for 1950, and of $6,150,000 for 1951.

47. The estimated expenditure for 1951 is distributed under the following main heads, as compared with the corresponding figures for 1950:

	1951 US dollars	1950 US dollars
I. Meetings	277,758	266,858
II. Personal services	4,423,530	4,450,923
III. General services	1,432,021	1,499,167
IV. Special projects and activities	1,033,933	1,073,533
V. Equipment purchases	132,758	211,019
	7,300,000	7,501,500

48. The establishment of expenditure ceilings points to the difficulties experienced in collecting the total of assessments made against the members of WHO. The planning of expenditure in such a manner as to obviate an excess of expenditure over income is in accordance with recommendations made by the General Assembly in 1949. Nevertheless, in the case of WHO, the difference between the approved budget and the expenditure ceiling—$1,150,000—tends to make the budgetary estimates unrealistic.

49. The Advisory Committee notes that WHO has adopted the practice of printing some of its documents in countries other than Switzerland. Since this procedure increases the proportion of expenditure incurred in soft currencies, the Committee suggests that every effort should be made to develop and extend the practice.

50. As regards the co-ordination of common administrative services in Geneva, a statement was made to the Advisory Committee on behalf of the Director-General of WHO concerning the use made by his organization of such services. The facts presented were helpful in pointing out the difficulties encountered in this field, and the Committee took note that, in spite of these difficulties, WHO has at certain points made progress towards a fuller use of services in common with the European Office of the United Nations and with other agencies situated in Geneva. While the text of the statement is too lengthy for reproduction in the present report, it can, on request, be made available to the General Assembly.

51. Nevertheless, WHO has recently made arrangements for the accommodation in the Palais des Nations of a travel agency, which will handle travel and hotel reservations in return for office space and other services. The Committee feels that such arrangements may be open to objection and that, in the specific case under consideration, continuation of the common travel service with the European Office of the United Nations would have been preferable in the interest of co-ordination.

1949/50 plan of expenditure approved	4,500,000

52. The appropriation for IRO for 1950/51 covers the period 1 July 1950-31 March 1951, during which the Organization is expected to liquidate its activities. Part of such activities (legal protection of refugees) will then be taken over by the High Commissioner's Office for Refugees, established by resolution 319 (IV) of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

53. As noted in the report of the Advisory Committee on the 1949/50 appropriation for IRO (A/1005, paragraph 50) the present administrative arrangements of the organization have been adapted to a temporary existence, during which an exceptionally large operational programme had to be undertaken.

54. The Advisory Committee last year recommended that the heads of specialized agencies should hold open any offers of employment to IRO officials until the termination of the organization's activities, in order that staff of the highest quality might be retained in the closing stages of the organization's life. It now seems opportune to recommend that consideration be given by the United Nations and the specialized agencies to the possible utilization of the services of those staff members of IRO who have proved themselves as international civil servants.

55. In accordance with a resolution adopted by the Administrative Council, the budget estimates of ITU are submitted to the United Nations "as approved by the Administrative Council". The Council was scheduled to meet during September of the current year and the approved budget had not yet been transmitted to the United Nations at the time of the review by the Advisory Committee. The latter understands that the Secretary-General of ITU transmitted to the United Nations a copy of the estimates which he proposed to submit to the Administrative Council; these estimates were not received in sufficient time to be examined by the Committee.

56. The Advisory Committee once again desires to point out that, so long as the Administrative Council adheres to its present calendar arrangements, it will clearly not be possible for ITU to comply with the request of the General Assembly for the transmission of budgets or budgetary estimates to the United Nations by 1 July; nor will it be possible for the General Assembly to obtain a complete picture of the financial obligations likely to fall upon Member States during a following year.

57. The Advisory Committee notes that the level of expenditures of ITU is extremely variable from year to year, the basic reason being that conferences and other meetings are held at indeterminate intervals. Thus, the extraordinary expenditures for one year may be entirely disproportionate to those incurred in a following year. Thus, a number of large conferences—such as the Administrative Telegraph and Telephone Conference in Paris and the International High Frequency Broadcasting Conference in Mexico City—were held in 1949, calling for substantial expenditures, far beyond those required in the preceding or succeeding years.

58. It appears to the Advisory Committee that the costs of such special conferences, as well as the arrears in contributions, might be financed by some less expensive method than the present one consisting in borrowing at 6 per cent interest.

59. An examination of the amended 1950 budget for ITU indicates that the form of budgeting offers scope for improvement. The presentation of three different sets of estimates—"ordinary", "extraordinary" and "printed matter" renders an appraisal of the over-all budget unnecessarily difficult, and the consolidation of these different parts in a single statement would, in the opinion of the Committee, be advantageous.

60. The Advisory Committee suggests that, in view of the fact that a large number of specialized agencies have agreed on a common set of financial regulations, ITU may wish to give consideration to the principles contained therein, as well as to the actual drafting of the regulations before introducing modifications in its existing regulations. A similar consideration also applies to the question of staff rules and regulations. It appears undesirable to the Committee that, when revising its financial and personnel rules and regulations, ITU should adopt procedures at variance with those agreed upon by the United Nations and specialized agencies, except if such procedures are dictated by exceptional or peculiar circumstances.

61. The Advisory Committee notes with regret that ITU has not found it possible to enter the United Nations Joint Staff Pension Fund, and has instead decided to introduce an independent pension scheme. The Committee has on previous occasions stressed the importance of achieving the greatest possible measure of uniformity in personnel arrangements among the United Nations and the specialized agencies.

62. In its report on the 1950 estimates of UPU, the Advisory Committee recommended that the accounting system and the form of the budget should be studied with a view to facilitating comparisons between expenditures of previous years and budget estimates. The Committee is glad to note that, accordingly, the budget estimates for 1951 have, in fact, been prepared in the form of the standard budget summary approved for specialized agencies; it is thus in a position to examine the estimates in detail and to make comparison with the expenditures of previous years.

63. The estimates for 1951 appear to reflect the stability which has been achieved in the level of expenditures. The total amount estimated falls short of the 1950 appropriation and is on virtually the same level as actual expenditures in 1949.

64. In examining the status of the pension fund of UPU, the Advisory Committee was struck by what appears to be an unduly large difference between total assets and total liabilities, and it suggests that UPU review the structure of the Fund, with a view to determining whether or not the rate of annual contributions should be adjusted.

65. With a view to facilitating any action which the General Assembly may wish to take on the recommendations contained in the present report, the Advisory Committee submits the following draft resolution :

Draft resolution

" The General Assembly,

" Having received the sixth report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (A/1441) on the budgets of the specialized agencies for 1951,

" 1. Requests the specialized agencies to continue their efforts to stabilize their regular budgets by elimination or deferment of less urgent projects;

" 2. Draws the attention of all States members of the United Nations and of the specialized agencies to the necessity for prompt payment of contributions to assure the adequate financing of budgets approved by them;

" 3. Requests specialized agencies participating in the Technical Assistance Programme to provide information concerning the estimates for expenditure of technical assistance funds, as well as other extra-budgetary funds, in their regular budget documents, and to agree to the transmittal of the audit reports relating to expenditure of technical assistance funds allocated from the Special Account to the General Assembly of the United Nations for examination and approval, after approval of the appropriate audit reports by the general conferences of the specialized agencies;

" 4. Requests the specialized agencies to consider at an early date the adoption of common financial regulations and staff regulations modelled on those adopted by the General Assembly at its fifth session so far as their constitutional arrangements will permit;

" 5. Requests the Secretary-General, after consultation with the heads of the specialized agencies and with the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions, to report to the next regular session of the General Assembly in respect of progress made in achieving a common salary system, in developing common budgetary policies and a common form of budget, in increasing the utilization of soft currencies, in efficiencies and economies to be achieved through further development of common services, and in dealing with arrears in contributions."

The General Assembly,

Considering the importance of the studies entrusted to the Sub-Commission on the Prevention of Discrimination and the Protection of Minorities, and having regard to the fact that, in order to enable the Sub-Commission to continue those studies, the term of office of its members was extended by three years by decision of the Commission on Human Rights, dated 16 May 1949,

Considering that the last meeting of the Sub-Commission was held in January 1950, Requests the Economic and Social Council to rescind its decision (resolution 336 (XI)) to hold no session of the Sub-Commission in 1951—which would mean that the Sub-Commission would not have held a session for more than two years.

Communication dated 2 October 1950 from the Acting Permanent Representative of Czechoslovakia to the Secretary General

New York, 2 October 1950

I have been directed by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Czechoslovakia to transmit to you the protest of the Lawyers Association of Czechoslovakia and to request you to circulate to the delegations to the United Nations this protest which is enclosed.

(Signed) J. NOSEK
Acting Permanent Representative of Czechoslovakia to the United Nations

PROTEST OF THE LAWYERS' ASSOCIATION OF CZECHOSLOVAKIA ADDRESSED TO THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL

At the end of its meeting held on 19 July 1950 the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations decided to discontinue its co-operation under Article 71 of the Charter of the United Nations with the International Association of Democratic Lawyers, and to withdraw consultative status from that Association.

As a member of the International Association of Democratic Lawyers, the Lawyers' Association of Czechoslovakia wishes to condemn this unjustified decision and vigorously protests against it. Instead of helping to maintain peace—at the time of the American imperialists' aggression against Korea—this organ of the United Nations is excluding an international organization whose task is to unite all progressive lawyers throughout the world and whose work is fully in accordance with its motto "Law in the service of peace". The Economic and Social Council has taken advantage of the absence of the representatives of the U.S.S.R. and the democratic countries—which are fully entitled to refuse sitting in the presence of the representative of the Kuomintang régime, who does not represent anybody at all—deliberately to exclude from co-operation world-wide progressive organizations representing millions of people, so as to be able to carry out more easily the orders of the American imperialists. This procedure only proves its intention to support the criminal plans of the capitalists, the instigators of a new war.

The Lawyers' Association of Czechoslovakia expresses its profound indignation at this infamous and unjustifiable procedure, which is aimed directly against the peace, and hereby states that it will give all the more support to that world peace movement, which is becoming increasingly powerful and extensive.

Chapter IX of the report of the Economic and Social Council—Inter-governmental organizations : International Penal and Penitentiary Commission; report by the Secretary-General under resolution 333 H (XI) of the Economic and Social Council

[5 October 1950]

1. At its ninth session, in connexion with its review of inter-governmental organizations in the economic and social fields, the Council adopted resolution 262 B (IX) with respect to the International Penal and Penitentiary Commission.

2. The Secretary-General communicated the text of this resolution to sixty-eight governments (States members of the United Nations and of the IPPC) with the request that they should submit their comments and suggestions on the subject by 31 December 1949. Twenty-two replies were received to the Secretary-General's communication.¹⁵ The majority of the governments consulted stated that they were in favour of the eventual integration of the IPPC within the United Nations.

3. Furthermore, in pursuance of that same resolution, the Secretary-General invited the International Penal and Penitentiary Commission to enter into consultation with him, and on 7, 8, 9 and 16 June 1950 his representatives held a series of meetings with three duly accredited representatives of the IPPC.

4. Taking into account the views expressed at the ninth session of the Economic and Social Council, the principles set forth in section II of the resolution of the International Penal and Penitentiary Commission of 3 August 1949, and the comments later transmitted by governments, the representatives of the IPPC and of the Secretary-General of the United Nations prepared a draft plan providing for the integration of the International Penal and Penitentiary Commission within the United Nations.

5. A report (E/1735)¹⁶ containing the draft plan, accompanied by a note with respect to the financial implications involved (E/1735/Add.1),¹⁶ was submitted by the Secretary-General to the Economic and Social Council, at its eleventh session.

6. In considering this report,¹⁷ the Economic and Social Council adopted resolution 333 H (XI).

7. On 12 August 1950, the International Penal and Penitentiary Commission also adopted a resolution¹⁸ approving the above-mentioned draft plan with respect to the transfer of the functions of the IPPC to the United Nations. This resolution was transmitted to the Secretary-General of the United Nations by letter dated 25 August 1950 from the Secretary-General of the IPPC.¹⁹

8. In deciding that the functions of the IPPC should be transferred to the United Nations, the General Assembly will be maintaining its previous policy which is clearly expressed in resolution 310 (IV) and particularly in paragraphs 6 and 7 thereof.

9. For the convenience of the General Assembly the following draft resolution, giving effect to the recommendations of the Economic and Social Council, is submitted for consideration :

" The General Assembly,

" Noting resolutions 262 B (IX) and 333 H (XI) of the Economic and Social Council and the resolution adopted by the International Penal and Penitentiary Commission on 12 August 1950,

" 1. Approves the plan contained in the report prepared by the Secretary-General, in consultation with the IPPC, concerning the transfer of the functions of the IPPC to the United Nations and which is annexed to the present resolution;

" Notes the decision of the IPPC with respect to its residual assets;

" Expresses its appreciation to the IPPC for donating its library and its archives to the United Nations on the conditions specified in the above-mentioned plan;

" Notes that these arrangements do not involve the assumption by the United Nations of responsibility for any liabilities of the IPPC;

" Authorizes the Secretary-General, in consultation with the Secretary-General of the IPPC, to make arrangements for the transfer of the functions of the IPPC, and its library and archives to the United Nations on a mutually satisfactory date prior to 31 December 1951;

" 2. Pays tribute to the accomplishments of the IPPC during the long period of its existence in the field of the prevention of crime and the treatment of offenders. "

APPENDIX I

DRAFT PLAN PREPARED BY THE SECRETARY-GENERAL OF THE UNITED NATIONS IN CONSULTATION WITH THE INTER-NATIONAL PENAL AND PENITENTIARY COMMISSION

(a) All Members of the United Nations, and all existing members of the IPPC, which are not members of the United Nations, and any other States designated by the Economic and Social Council, should be invited by the Council to appoint one or more representatives of expert qualifications or experience, professional or scientific, in the field of the prevention of crime and the treatment of offenders. The experts so appointed should act in the first instance as individual correspondents with the United Nations Department of Social Affairs.

(b) They should also be called upon to meet together in appropriate groups (in the composition of which ethnical, legislative and customary affinities should be taken into account) to consider questions of particular interest to such groups, as well as those which may be submitted by the participating governments, by the Economic and Social Council, the Social Commission or by the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The experts so appointed should constitute "United Nations consultative groups" in the field of the prevention of crime and the treatment of offenders. The groups should meet biennially, or more often if required. The first group set up should be composed of the present members of the IPPC. Pending the establishment of other groups, new members may be added to the first group. As other groups are set up, any members of the first group may join such groups as is most appropriate. With respect to the composition of groups to study questions of special importance to the less developed areas it might be practicable to utilize the procedure employed for United Nations seminars, under General Assembly resolution 58 (I). Findings of fact and recommendations as to policy approved by the experts appointed under (a) or by the expert group meeting under (b) should be transmitted to the Secretary-General of the United Nations for publication, for communication in appropriate cases to the policy-making bodies, or such other action as he considers necessary.

(c) The Secretary-General should invite each group to submit names from among its members to assist the Secretary-General in selecting a small international ad hoc advisory committee of experts. The purpose of such a committee would be to advise the Secretary-General and the Social Commission in devising and formulating programmes for study on an international basis and policies for international action in the field of the prevention of crime and the treatment of offenders and also to advise on the co-ordination of the work of the United Nations consultative groups. It is hoped that such a committee could meet annually at the Headquarters of the United Nations.

(d) The United Nations should convene every five years an international congress similar to those previously organized by the IPPC. Resolutions adopted at such international congresses should be communicated to the Secretary-General and, if necessary, to the policy-making bodies.

(e) The expenses of attendance of the international ad hoc advisory committee of experts at meetings convened at the Headquarters of the United Nations would be borne by the United Nations. The expenses of experts who participate in the biennial group meetings and in the quinquennial congresses would be borne by the respective governments. The United Nations would be financially responsible for furnishing the services required for the efficient organization of such meetings when held at the Headquarters or at the regional headquarters of the United Nations. When such meetings, on the invitation of a government, are held away from Headquarters, the financial responsibility for the furnishing of similar services should be met otherwise.

(f) The United Nations should publish an international review which should include the recommendations and the findings of the groups mentioned under (b) and the committee mentioned under (c), as well as a legislative and administrative series on the prevention of crime and the treatment of offenders.

(g) The United Nations would welcome the transfer of the library of the IPPC to the library of the United Nations in Geneva. Should the IPPC decide on the transfer, suitable measures would be taken to indicate that the volumes donated originated from the IPPC, by arranging for appropriate markers to be used, and the preservation of the library as an entity so far as practicable.

The archives of the IPPC should also be transferred to the archives of the United Nations and should be available to delegations and to other interested parties.

(h) In view of the enlargement of the functions of the United Nations, and in order to maintain continuity in the work, the United Nations should invite the services of two professional officers at present employed by the IPPC. One officer specialized in the field of the prevention of crime and the treatment of offenders should be detached for duty at the European Office of the United Nations in Geneva.

(i) While it is for the IPPC to decide as to the disposition of its residual assets, the United Nations would welcome a decision to transfer those assets to the United Nations. Such a decision would not, however, involve the assumption by the United Nations of responsibility for any liabilities of the IPPC. In the event of the transfer of the assets and proceeds realized, all such funds would become part of the general revenue of the United Nations unless the IPPC would prefer that they be added to the capital of the library endowment fund. The resulting increase in the income of the library endowment fund would make it possible for the United Nations library to become one of the most complete and up-to-date libraries in the field of social defence. The setting aside of the residual assets of the IPPC in a special fund in the United Nations is not desirable from the point of view of United Nations policy and practice, nor is such a fund necessary to ensure the continuation within the United Nations of the objectives and purposes described in article I of the Constitutional Regulations of the IPPC.

(j) The transfer should take place at such time as may be agreed upon between the Secretary-General of the IPPC and the Secretary-General of the United Nations and, in any case, before the end of 1951.

APPENDIX II

RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY THE INTERNATIONAL PENAL AND PENITENTIARY COMMISSION ON 12 AUGUST 1950

Representatives of the IPPC pursuant to its resolution of 3 August 1949, and of the United Nations Secretariat pursuant to the resolution of the Economic and Social Council of 10 August 1949, having met at Lake Success on 7-9 June 1950, drafted an agreement.

The International Penal and Penitentiary Commission

1. Approves this Agreement;
2. Instructs its Secretary-General, if the Agreement is approved by the Fifth General Assembly of the United Nations, to make the necessary arrangements for the transfer of functions to the United Nations before the end of 1951;
3. Declares that as soon as the Executive Committee certifies, prior to 31 December 1951, to the members of the Commission that the provisions of the Agreement and other decisions of the Commission have been carried out, the IPPC is dissolved and ceases to exist as an inter-governmental organization;
4. Agrees to donate its library and its archives to the United Nations on the conditions specified in the Agreement mentioned under paragraph 1;

5. Observing that the Agreement provides that the setting aside of the residual assets of the IPPC in a special fund in the United Nations is not desirable from the point of view of United Nations policy and practice, nor is such fund necessary to ensure the continuation within the United Nations of the objectives and purposes described in Article 1 of the Constitutional Regulations of the IPPC, therefore decides to place all its residual assets into a trust fund to be expended for purposes consonant with the purposes of the IPPC and in accordance with plans proposed by a special committee and submitted for the consideration of the members of the Commission at its final meeting in 1951;

6. Instructs the Secretary-General to communicate this resolution to the Secretary-General of the United Nations and to the governments of all member countries.

APPENDIX III

LETTER, DATED 25 AUGUST 1950, FROM THE SECRETARY-GENERAL OF THE INTERNATIONAL PENAL AND PENITENTIARY COMMISSION TO THE SECRETARY-GENERAL OF THE UNITED NATIONS

In accordance with the instructions of the IPPC, I hereby transmit to you a copy of the resolution adopted by the Commission on 12 August, 1950.

The delegates of sixteen of the twenty-four member States were present and the vote was unanimous.²⁰ Although the Constitution of the IPPC requires that all the member States, whether present or absent at a meeting, cast a vote on a motion to dissolve the Commission or transfer its assets, and the final result of the vote of the eight absent member States has not yet been completely recorded, the affirmative vote of sixteen constitutes the required two-thirds majority which makes the decision final. The decision is therefore not affected by the vote of the absent members.

I have been instructed by the Commission to say that in the course of discussion on this resolution, the Commission expressed the hope that the United Nations, in the application of the agreed plan, would take account of the following wishes expressed by the Commission. These suggestions are made with the sincere desire to ensure the most effective possible organization of the work for the future.

²⁰ In a letter dated 22 September 1950 the Secretary-General of the IPPC informed the Secretary-General of the United Nations that three additional countries (Egypt, Finland and Greece) had voted in favour of the integration of the IPPC within the United Nations.

(1) That all studies and researches of the Commission in progress at the date of integration should be continued by the first consultative group to be set up in accordance with the plan.

(2) That facilities should be afforded to the consultative group to carry out studies, where necessary, through the method of sub-committees.

(3) That the officer of the United Nations Secretariat to be stationed at Geneva should be authorized to act as Secretary of the group and in that capacity to correspond directly with its members.

(4) That the group should be at liberty to elect a small executive committee and a President who would not only preside at the meetings of the group but act as may be necessary between meetings to further the business of the group.

(5) That the international consultative group which will be set up by the United Nations be given a specific title which in an appropriate manner will describe the scope and nature of its work.

If the draft agreement referred to in the resolution is adopted by the Fifth General Assembly of the United Nations, I shall be glad to discuss with you at the earliest possible moment the ways and means of effecting the transfer of functions, the transfer of our library and archives and the appointment of my professional assistants to fill appropriate positions in your Secretariat.

Communication dated 20 October 1950 from the Assistant Director-General for Administration and Finance of the World Health Organization to the Secretary-General, concerning the use of common services in Geneva

[24 October 1950]

New York, 20 October 1950

I have the honour to transmit herewith a statement on the use of services utilized by WHO in Geneva in common with the United Nations European Office and with other specialized agencies. The Director-General of the World Health Organization wishes this statement placed before the General Assembly of the United Nations in connexion with the report of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions on the administrative budgets of the specialized agencies for 1951.

(Signed) Milton P. SIEGEL
Assistant Director-General Administration and Finance

Statement on behalf of the Director-General of the World Health Organization to the United Nations Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

REGARDING PARAGRAPHS 217 AND 316 OF THE SECOND REPORT OF 1950 TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY (A/1312)

WHO has made and will continue to make consistent efforts to utilize services in Geneva in common with the United Nations European Office and with other specialized agencies with offices there. WHO would agree with the suggestion contained in paragraph 26 of the Report of the Board of Auditors on the 1949 accounts of the United Nations (A/1256), that a study be made of services which are common to the United Nations and the specialized agencies " to determine (a) which among them are susceptible to consolidating; and (b) whether the European Office or a specialized agency is better adapted to operate a common service on a reimbursement basis ". WHO suggests that this study might well be made as a joint management survey by the United Nations and the specialized agencies concerned, and would welcome an opportunity for WHO to participate in such a study.

It is recognized that the statements which appear in paragraphs 217 and 316 of the Second Report of 1950 to the General Assembly are of a general nature, and WHO wishes the Advisory Committee and the General Assembly to have specific information regarding its use of services in common with other agencies in Geneva. The Director-General is therefore presenting that information, and would like it distributed to Members of the General Assembly. It is believed that this statement might appropriately be incorporated in the report of the Advisory Committee on its examination of the WHO Program and Budget for 1951 and that the Advisory Committee may prefer to have it reach the Members of the General Assembly in that form.

There are set forth below the details of the use made by WHO of services in common with other agencies in Geneva.

1. Travel and transportation—Very recently, arrangements have been made for a travel agency to be installed in the Palais des Nations which will carry out all of the arrangements for travel, at a considerable saving to WHO. The travel agency will provide its own staff, and will handle all travel and hotel reservations at no service cost to the agency.

WHO is using services of the United Nations for packing, shipping, reception and handling of all official freight by rail, sea or air.

2. Procurement—WHO is co-operating with the United Nations and other agencies in Geneva in a study of markets and an exchange of information about rates, prices, etc. WHO uses United Nations services in some instances for the purchase of its administrative supplies and equipment. WHO and the United Nations are jointly studying this problem, including storekeeping; if the study reveals that an economy will result, WHO would be disposed to agree to the establishment of a supply service in common with the other agencies.

3. Translation—WHO has made occasional use of the United Nations Translation Service for the translation of non-technical material. The United Nations has shown every willingness to co-operate, but only accepted the work on the condition that it be revised by WHO staff, since 50 per cent of the translation work of WHO is technical, 35 per cent is " semi-technical " and only 15 per cent is of general text; translators therefore need to be in close and uninterrupted contact with the special fields and work of

WHO. It should be noted that any agency could be expected to require especially trained staff to deal with its special technical translation work. In some cases, it has been found desirable to commission translation of technical medical texts from outside medical experts who have the necessary linguistic proficiency.

4. Reproduction and documents distribution

(a) Reproduction of documents: the United Nations provides mimeograph, multigraph and photostat service for WHO; that system works very satisfactorily.

(b) Printing services: Printing of all WHO publications is undertaken through the United Nations Printing Division which makes contracts with the printers and supervises their work with regard to quality and rapidity of execution. It is also responsible for first reading of proofs, preparation of purchase orders, checking of printers' invoices and purchase of paper supplies.

(c) Documents distribution and sales services: The United Nations distribution service undertakes both free and paid distribution of WHO publications, including distribution to members of WHO secretariat. The United Nations Sales Service is responsible for executing all orders for WHO publications, for correspondence relating to sales and for the maintenance of accounts in connexion therewith.

5. Space—The United Nations provides all building maintenance and operation services for WHO; even in the temporary barracks occupied only by WHO, the United Nations carries out all services.

6. Employment of conference staff—The United Nations employs interpreters for WHO meetings and conferences. The only problem in using those interpreters is that such staff need to have a working knowledge of medical material and of WHO procedure. To meet this problem, WHO expects to reach an agreement with the United Nations to ensure that, wherever possible, the United Nations will supply the same interpreters for various meetings and that it will supply all the interpreters required for the Executive Board and the Assembly, so that WHO will not have to employ " free-lance " interpreters in addition to those supplied by the United Nations. The position on the employment of précis-writers is the same as that for interpreters.

7. Mailing service—All WHO mail is handled by the United Nations service.

8. Library services—It is normal practice at universities and similar institutions to establish the medical library separately from the general library, in order to provide the specialized service and information required by medical people. Even with the separate library, especially services, the present situation whereby the WHO library is physically located at some distance from the medical staff has been very awkward. When new space arrangements are made after completion of the new construction, it is planned to locate the medical library as nearly as possible to the centre of WHO space. Although WHO and the United Nations maintain separate librarians in Geneva, there is in fact no duplication of services between the two organizations. Daily use is made by the WHO Library of services provided by the United Nations Library, including reference to the United Nations library catalogue, bibliographical works, books and periodicals. There is a reciprocal arrangement whereby the United Nations Library borrows books and periodicals in the WHO Library. It is unnecessary for WHO to purchase general reference books which would otherwise be necessary or for the United Nations purchase medical reference works which it might require. WHO is prepared to make a further study of the possibility of taking further joint action, and to make such additional arrangements as appear necessary.

The Advisory Committee has suggested that common disbursement and personnel services may be desirable. WHO wishes to make the following comments on these suggestions :

Disbursement functions : WHO believes that the question of a joint disbursement service should be studied carefully and in detail, with a view to determining whether such joint services would result in a more economical and efficient service, and if so, which agency should provide it.

Personnel functions : WHO believes that the question of joint personnel services requires careful examination in the light of the types of personnel activity carried on at the headquarters of WHO as a world-wide organization. These are, in general terms :

1. Policy and planning functions for the whole organization;
2. Supervision and guidance of personnel activity at offices away from headquarters; and
3. Direct personnel services at headquarters.

The first and second of these activities are an integral part of the over-all management responsibilities of the Director-General and can only be performed by staff intimately familiar with the work of the organization.

In connexion with the third type of activity, it should be noted that important progress has been made in co-ordinating personnel activities among the several organizations in Geneva. The United Nations, ILO, ITO and WHO have, in the past six months, completed a survey of local employment conditions in Geneva and tentatively agreed upon uniform salary, allowance and tenure arrangements for staff locally recruited. This is the essential foundation for any joint personnel activity.

The same agencies, as well as the IRO, have recently established an inter-agency recruitment committee to co-ordinate recruitment activities among the agencies. This committee has already begun functioning and is currently developing plans for joint stenographic examinations. The United Nations, ILO and WHO have for several years operated a single medical service.

As is evidenced by the joint activities now carried on, consideration has been given to personnel activities which can profitably be undertaken jointly. In accordance with the policy which WHO has consistently followed, this agency will continue to participate in joint agency studies of personnel administration, and will urge and participate in such joint action as is found to be appropriate and desirable.

Requests the Secretary-General in co-operation with the administrative heads of the specialized agencies to include in Annex IV to the Secretary-General's Budget Estimates a summary schedule of the estimated costs of the projects provided for in the budget of the United Nations and the specialized agencies; and further,

Having noted the steps taken and progress made by Economic and Social Council, the Secretary-General, the Administrative Committee on Co-ordination and the specialized agencies,

Urges that the efforts which are being made to ensure the fullest co-ordination of the programmes and activities of the United Nations and the specialized agencies be vigorously prosecuted.

Request for information on proposed integration of the International Penal and Penitentiary Commission within the United Nations

[25 October 1950]

(CIRCULATED AT THE REQUEST OF THE DELEGATION OF CANADA)

1. The proposal to integrate the IPPC within the United Nations is based on the commendable desire to simplify the structure of inter-governmental organizations while ensuring that desirable and worthwhile activities are carried out in a more efficient and economical manner.

2. In order for delegations to know whether these objectives will, in fact, be attained under the proposed merger, it is necessary to have more information on the following specific questions:

(a) To what extent do the actual functions and present activity of IPPC duplicate the work performed under the social defence programme of the United Nations in accordance with directives from the Social Commission and the Economic and Social Council?

(b) To what extent will the over-all structure be simplified after integration has been achieved? For instance, will the advisory and legislative organs of IPPC have to be reconstituted within the United Nations Secretariat? To what extent will present staff of the Social Affairs Department now engaged in related work have to be increased?

(c) What will the relation be between the Social Commission, the Economic and Social Council, and such new organs as would be established under the draft plan, i.e., "United Nations consultative groups", "ad hoc advisory committee of experts", quinquennial congresses?"

(d) Will the transfer of the two professional officers mentioned in paragraph (h) of the draft plan,²² to be transferred from the IPPC Secretariat to the United Nations Secretariat, release other Secretariat officers presently employed in related duties for other activities in the Social Affairs Department? Is it intended to replace at Headquarters the officer who will be detached for duty at the European Office in Geneva?

(e) What does the Secretary-General of the IPPC mean in the last paragraph of his letter²³ by "I shall be glad to discuss with you... the appointment of my professional assistants to fill appropriate positions in your Secretariat"?

(f) What will be the financial implications, once integration has been achieved, of the appointment of the individual correspondents with the United Nations Department of Social Affairs mentioned in paragraph (a) of the draft plan?

(g) What will be the financial implications, once integration has been achieved, of the holding of biennial meetings of the United Nations consultative groups and quinquennial congresses in connexion with the servicing of these meetings when held at Headquarters?

(h) Is it intended that such meetings should be held normally at Headquarters or away from Headquarters on the invitation of a government?

(i) Under the draft plan, it is stipulated in paragraph (j) that "The United Nations should publish an international review which should include the recommendations and the findings of... (United Nations consultative groups, quinquennial congresses)..., "as well as a legislative and administrative series on the prevention of crime and the treatment of offenders". What are the anticipated financial implications of such publications?

(j) What will be the residual assets of the IPPC after settlement of any outstanding liabilities?

Inter-governmental organizations: proposed integration of the International Penal and Penitentiary Commission within the United Nations: note by the Secretary-General

[Original text: English]
[1 November 1950]

The following information is presented in response to questions raised in the Joint Second and Third Committee meeting jointly with the Fifth Committee at its meeting on 25 October 1950²⁴ including the questions raised in document A/C.2&3/L.26-A/C.5/L.59. Since a number of these questions were dealt with in the financial statement made in the Committee on behalf of the Secretary-General, that statement is annexed for reference.

Question No. 1. To what extent do the actual functions and present activity of IPPC duplicate the work performed under the social defence programme of the United Nations in accordance with directives from the Social Commission and the Economic and Social Council ?

Answer : The work programme of the United Nations Secretariat, as defined by the Social Commission and approved by the Economic and Social Council, covers almost completely the work programme of the IPPC.

With regard to studies and research, the two programmes are practically identical. With regard to the dissemination of information, the long-range work programme approved by the Economic and Social Council at its eleventh session and voted by the Third Committee of the General Assembly would provide for the publication by the United Nations of an international review on the prevention of crime and the treatment of offenders. The International Penal and Penitentiary Commission has been issuing a similar publication entitled Select Papers on Penal and Penitentiary Affairs.

The United Nations work programme includes a number of activities in which the IPPC is not engaged, among them technical assistance to governments (experts, fellowships, seminars, pilot projects).

Question No. 2

(a) To what extent will the over-all structure be simplified after integration has been achieved ? For instance, will the advisory and legislative organs of IPPC have to be reconstituted within the United Nations Secretariat ?

(b) To what extent will present staff of the Social Affairs Department now engaged in related work have to be increased ?

Answer :

(a) The structure of the IPPC, including its advisory and legislative organs, would cease to exist. However, the United Nations would henceforth set up consultative groups and an international ad hoc advisory committee, and would sponsor a quinquennial congress.

(b) The integration of the IPPC would lead to no increase in the number of posts in the Department of Social Affairs. (See paragraphs 5 and 6 of the Appendix to this document).

Question No. 3. What will the relation be between the Social Commission, the Economic and Social Council, and such new organs as would be established under the draft plan, i.e., United Nations consultative groups, ad hoc advisory committee of experts, quinquennial congresses ?

Answer : The United Nations work and action programme would continue as presently organized and would, as is now the case, remain under the direct guidance and supervision of the Social Commission, the Economic and Social Council and the General Assembly. The consultative groups and the international ad hoc advisory committee to be set up under the plan for integration would give technical advice to the Secretary-General and, through him, to the Social Commission. The quinquennial congress would provide a means for a world-wide exchange of views and the possible framing of recommendations for consideration by the Social Commission.

Question No. 4

(a) Will the transfer of the two professional officers mentioned in paragraph (h) of the draft plan,²⁵ to be transferred from the IPPC Secretariat to the United Nations Secretariat, involve an increase in the total number of established posts within the Department of Social Affairs ?

(b) Would the post in Geneva be additional to the establishment for social defence at Headquarters ?

Answer :

(a) No : See paragraph 5 (d) of Appendix.

(b) No : The Secretary-General would propose the transfer of an existing post from Headquarters.

Question No. 5. What does the Secretary-General of the IPPC mean in the last paragraph of his letter²⁶ by " I shall be glad to discuss with you... the appointment of my professional assistants to fill appropriate positions in your Secretariat " ?

Answer : This statement is assumed to refer to the fact that, in the event of adoption of the draft plan, practical arrangements would have to be made concerning the terms of employment for the officers referred to in question No. 4 above.

Question No. 6. What will be the financial implications, once integration has been achieved, of the appointment of the individual correspondents with the United Nations Department of Social Affairs mentioned in paragraph (a) of the draft plan ?

Answer : No expenditure would be involved.

Question No. 7. What will be the financial implications, once integration has been achieved, of the holding of biennial meetings of the United Nations consultative groups and quinquennial congresses in connexion with the servicing of these meetings when held at Headquarters ?

Answer : See paragraph 5 (b) and (c) of Appendix.

Question No. 8. Is it intended that such meetings should be held normally at Headquarters or away from Headquarters on the invitation of a government ?

Answer : The consultative groups would normally meet away from Headquarters, at the invitation of a government. It is thought that the two first meetings might be organized in Europe and the Middle East. See paragraph 5 (a) of Appendix.

The quinquennial congress would normally meet at Headquarters. See paragraph 5 (c) of Appendix.

If the invitation of a government were accepted by the Economic and Social Council, it would be assumed that necessary services would be provided by the host government, and the United Nations would incur only travel expenses for about four professional staff members.

²⁶ Ibid., Appendix III.

Question No. 9. Under the draft plan, it is stipulated in paragraph (f) that "The United Nations should publish an international review which should include the recommendations and the findings of"... (United Nations consultative groups, quinquennial congresses) ..., "as well as a legislative and administrative series on the prevention of crime and the treatment of offenders". What are the anticipated financial implications of such publications?

Answer: The publication of an international review, referred to in the draft plan for integration, as stated in (1) above, is a part of the long-range programme of the Social Commission approved by the Economic and Social Council in resolution 309 (XI) and now before the General Assembly. The legislative and administrative series would be developed so as to fit into the existing programme and would not entail extra costs.

For the financial implications of the review, see paragraphs 3 and 4 of the Appendix.

Question No. 10. What will be the residual assets of the IPPC after settlement of any outstanding liabilities?

Answer: The Secretary-General has been informed that if all States members of IPPC were to pay their contributions for 1950 and 1951, the residual assets of IPPC including real property would be 450,000 Swiss francs at the end of 1951.

Question No. 11. Would the members of the regional groups and the quinquennial congress appointed by governments act as individual experts or as representatives of their countries?

Answer: Delegates to the consultative groups and to the quinquennial congress, while they should be experts on specific problems, would attend as representatives of governments.

Question No. 12. Why is it proposed that the first consultative group consist of former members of the IPPC?

Answer: There now exists the nucleus of a European consultative group within the active membership of the IPPC itself and the IPPC was most anxious that there should be no break in the continuity of its operation. The intention would be to permit such a group to meet, while attempting to constitute other groups as quickly as possible, according to ethnic, economic and social conditions in various regions.

APPENDIX

FINANCIAL STATEMENT MADE BY THE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE SECRETARY-GENERAL AT THE JOINT MEETING OF THE JOINT SECOND AND THIRD COMMITTEE AND FIFTH COMMITTEE HELD ON 25 OCTOBER 1950

1. In response to the request made to the Secretariat at the end of the last meeting of the Committee, I should like to give the Committee a clear picture of the budget for the United Nations' existing programme in the social defence field, as well as of the financial implications of the draft plan for the integration of the IPPC within the United Nations as approved by the Economic and Social Council.

I. ESTABLISHED SOCIAL DEFENCE PROGRAMME

2. In the budget estimates for 1951 (A/1267),²⁷ continuing provision is made in section 11 (Department of Social Affairs) for the established social defence programme. This provision, which totals approximately $110,000 for 1951 and which has already been acted upon by the Fifth Committee, is not dependent upon the outcome of the proposal for the integration of the IPPC within the United Nations.

3. If the decisions taken by the Economic and Social Council in resolution 309 (XI) on the report of the Social Commission are fully implemented, additional costs of $18,750 would be involved for the preparation of certain highly technical studies and for the employment, beginning in 1951, of a qualified person to edit the proposed international review.

4. This supplemental budget estimate will be put to the Fifth Committee in connexion with the Third Committee's report concerning chapter VI, section IX, of the Economic and Social Council's report to the General Assembly (A/1345).

II. DRAFT PLAN FOR INTEGRATION OF THE IPPC

5. The plan is not expected to come into force until very late next year. No additional costs are expected in 1951. Beginning in 1952, the following costs would arise:

(a) United Nations consultative groups

The United Nations would not pay for the costs of participation of representatives in these groups. The only cost to the United Nations would be that covering travel and subsistence of two professional Secretariat members servicing the meeting. Assuming two meetings a year, the annual cost would be $4,000 beginning in 1952.

(b) International ad hoc advisory committee of experts

This advisory committee would meet at Headquarters. Expenses of members would be paid by the United Nations. Meetings would be scheduled by the Council, as part of the Council's Calendar of Conferences. The annual costs of meeting would be about $7,000, starting in 1952.

(c) Quinquennial congress

The first quinquennial congress under United Nations auspices would take place in 1955. All expenses of delegates would be met by the governments concerned. Assuming that the congress is to meet at Headquarters, the servicing costs could be absorbed within the normal conference programme and the only extra costs would be about $5,000 for printing the proceedings.

(d) IPPC personnel

Following integration, the United Nations would obtain the services of two experienced professional staff members now employed by the IPPC. The annual salary costs involved would amount to about $10,000. It is assumed that this cost could be absorbed in the normal appropriations for 1952 and thereafter.

6. The estimated costs, in 1951 and subsequent years, of implementing resolution 333 H (XI) of the Economic and Social Council are therefore these: 1951, no cost; 1952, about $11,000; 1953 and thereafter, about $11,000 plus the provision in 1955 and every fifth year thereafter, of about $5,000 for printing the proceedings of the quinquennial congress.

7. To sum up, the total additional cost growing out of the plan of integration recommended by the Council would average approximately $12,000 a year, beginning in 1952.

“(a) That the activities from well integrated programmes are comprised of high priority projects, and

“(b) That the financial and personnel resources likely to be available for the economic and social work of the United Nations and the specialized agencies may be utilized most effectively.”

Financial implications of two draft resolutions on item 12 proposed by the Third Committee: note by the Secretary-General

[24 October 1950]

At its 277th and 278th meetings on 3 and 6 October 1950, the Third Committee recommended (A/1440) that the General Assembly invite the Economic and Social Council to reconsider its resolution 336 (XI) with a view to including in its Calendar of Conferences for 1951 a session of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press, as well as a session of the Sub-Commission on the Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities. The following statement of the budgetary consequences of these proposals is submitted to the Fifth Committee for its consideration, in accordance with rule 152 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly.

1. In his budget estimates for 1951, the Secretary-General made provision of $15,900 for one session of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, and of $15,000 for one session of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press (A/1267, section 3, chapters IV and V).²⁸

2. If the proposals of the Third Committee are approved by the General Assembly, the original budget provision for the two Sub-Commissions would be required, pending a final decision by the Economic and Social Council.

3. The Secretary-General wishes to point out that, should the Commission on Human Rights meet in Geneva, he would consider it appropriate that the meetings of both Sub-Commissions should also be held at the same place following the session of the Commission on Human Rights. The staff sent from Headquarters to service this Commission could also furnish services to the Sub-Commissions. The Secretary-General expects that the costs involved could be met within the total provided for in the budget estimates.

The Fifth Committee is informed that the Secretary-General will submit a revised estimate on all of section 3 (the Economic and Social Council, commissions and committees), after the Economic and Social Council during its current session has acted upon the question of place of meeting for its own twelfth session, as well as upon the present proposal of the Third Committee, should this proposal be referred to it.

Report of the Second Committee

[5 December 1950]

1. The General Assembly, at its 284th meeting held on 26 September 1950 decided to place on the agenda of its fifth session the item " Report of the Economic and Social Council " ²⁹ and, at its 285th meeting held on the same day, decided to allocate to the Second Committee for consideration and report chapters II, III and IV of that report.

2. The Second Committee considered the item during its 144th meeting.³⁰

3. No proposals were submitted to the Committee under this item, in view of the fact that the Committee had discussed the major problems covered by chapters II, III and IV of the Council's report under other agenda items³¹ allocated to it by the General Assembly (A/1524 and A/1513).

³⁰ Ibid., Second Committee, 144th meeting.

³¹ Agenda item 28 " Economic development of under-developed countries " and agenda item 65 " Assistance to Libya after achievement of independence ".

4. The Committee decided to recommend that the General Assembly take note of chapters II, III and IV of the report of the Economic and Social Council so that, on the basis of the present report and those of the other Committees concerned, the General Assembly could adopt an appropriate resolution.

5. In connexion with this action by the Committee, the representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics stated that " the Economic and Social Council had no power to make decisions with the participation of a Kuomintang representative who does not represent China and also without the participation of representatives of four of the members of the Council, namely, the U.S.S.R., China, Poland and Czechoslovakia, and that such decisions taken in violation of the United Nations Charter are illegal. " He further stated that he was abstaining from the decision of the Committee to recommend to the General Assembly that it take note of the aforementioned chapters of the report of the Economic and Social Council. The representatives of the Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic, Czechoslovakia, Poland and the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic also indicated their abstentions.

Chapter V (section VI³² and section VII, part 2,³³) of the report of the Economic and Social Council: interim report of the Third Committee

[16 October 1950]

1. The General Assembly, on 26 September 1950, decided to refer to the Third Committee for consideration and report chapters V, VI and VII of the report of the Economic and Social Council.

2. The Third Committee, at an early stage in its discussion of these chapters of the report, considered the decisions taken by the Economic and Social Council at its eleventh session that no session of the two sub-commissions of the Commission on Human Rights should be scheduled for 1951.

3. With regard to the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, the Committee had before it a draft resolution submitted by Haiti (A/C.3/L.45).

³² Section VI: " Prevention of discrimination and protection of minorities ".

³³ Section VII, part 2: " Freedom of information. Report of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press ".

4. As regards the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press, a draft resolution was tabled by Egypt (A/C.3/L.47).

5. Following discussion, during which minor drafting changes were approved, at its 278th meeting, the Committee adopted the first of these draft resolutions by 28 votes to 10 with 9 abstentions. At its 277th meeting the Committee adopted the second draft resolution by 28 votes to 15 with 2 abstentions.

6. In view of the fact that the Economic and Social Council is meeting during the present session of the General Assembly, the Third Committee requests the Assembly to consider the desirability of expressing its opinion on the two draft resolutions submitted herewith and, should it adopt them, of informing the Council of its decision immediately in order to enable the necessary action to be taken. The Third Committee is therefore presenting an interim report on its consideration of chapter V of the report of the Economic and Social Council.

7. The Committee wishes to point out that the budget estimates for 1951 as submitted by the Secretary-General (A/1267) provide a sum of $15,000 for a session of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, and a sum of $15,900 for a session of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press.

8. The Third Committee recommends to the General Assembly for adoption the following draft resolutions :

A

REPORT OF THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL (CHAPTER V, SECTION VI) : PROPOSAL FOR A SESSION IN 1951 OF THE SUB-COMMISSION ON PREVENTION OF DISCRIMINATION AND PROTECTION OF MINORITIES

The General Assembly,

Considering the importance of the studies entrusted to the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, and having regard to the fact that, in order to enable the Sub-Commission to continue those studies, the term of office of its members was extended by three years by a decision of the Commission on Human Rights dated 16 May 1949,

Considering, moreover, that the last meeting of the Sub-Commission was held in January 1950, Resolves to invite the Economic and Social Council to reconsider its resolution 336 (XI) of 16 August 1950, with a view to including in its Calendar of Conferences for 1951 a session of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities.

B

REPORT OF THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL (CHAPTER V, SECTION VII, PART 2) : PROPOSAL FOR A SESSION IN 1951 OF THE SUB-COMMISSION ON FREEDOM OF INFORMATION AND OF THE PRESS

The General Assembly,

Considering it desirable that the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press should continue the study of the agenda items referred to it by the Economic and Social Council for consideration,

Resolves to invite the Economic and Social Council to reconsider its resolution 336 (XI) of 16 August 1950, with a view to including in its Calendar of Conferences for 1951 a session of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press.

Chapters V, VI and VII of the report of the Economic and Social Council : report of the Third Committee

1. The General Assembly, on 26 September 1950, decided to refer to the Third Committee for consideration and report chapters V, VI and VII of the report of the Economic and Social Council (A/1345). Parts of these chapters were also referred to the Committee under five separate items of the agenda of the fifth session, namely : (a) Draft First International Covenant on Human Rights and measures of implementation [63]; (b) Freedom of information [30]; (c) Advisory social welfare services [31]; (d) Long-range activities for children [64]; (e) Refugees and stateless persons [32]; Reports on each of these items have been submitted to the General Assembly (A/1559, A/1630, A/1436, A/1455 and A/1682).

2. At its 277th, 278th and 345th meetings the Third Committee considered those parts of the report of the Economic and Social Council which are not related to the above-mentioned items. An interim report (A/1440) concerning the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities and the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press was presented to the General Assembly at its 314th plenary meeting.

3. At the 345th meeting of the Committee, the representative of Chile submitted a draft resolution

(A/C.3/L.153) suggesting that the General Assembly take note of chapters V, VI and VII of the report.

4. In connexion with the action to be taken by the Committee, the representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, explaining his abstention in the vote, stated that " the Economic and Social Council had no power to make decisions with the participation of a Kuomintang representative who does not represent China and also without the participation of representatives of four of the members of the Council, namely, U.S.S.R., China, Poland and Czechoslovakia ", and that " such decisions taken in violation of the United Nations Charter are illegal ". The representatives of the Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic, Czechoslovakia, Poland and the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic also indicated that they would abstain for the same reasons.

5. The representative of China stated that the remark of the representative of the U.S.S.R. was out of order. China was a Member of the United Nations and it was not for any single other Member of the Organization to judge whether or not the participation of the Chinese delegation in the work of the United Nations was legal. The representatives of Chile and Colombia associated themselves with the Chinese representative's comments.

6. The Third Committee adopted the Chilean draft resolution (A/C.3/L.153) by 43 votes to none, with 5 abstentions.

7. The Third Committee therefore recommends to the General Assembly for adoption the following draft resolution, with the understanding that it would, in due course, be incorporated with similar draft resolutions recommended by other Committees to which other chapters of the report of the Economic and Social Council had been referred, in order to form a single resolution taking note of the report as a whole :

Financial implications of the draft resolutions proposed by the Third Committee (A/1440) on chapter V (section VI and section VII, part 2) of the report of the Economic and Social Council : eleventh report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

[2 November 1950]

1. In accordance with a decision taken by the Fifth Committee at its 252nd meeting on 20 October 1950, the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions has considered a report submitted by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/383/Rev.1) on the financial implications of the draft resolutions proposed by the Third Committee on the subject of the holding during 1951 of one session each of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press and of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities (A/1440).

2. The Advisory Committee desires to draw particular attention to the fact that, at its eleventh session, when adopting the Calendar of Conferences for 1951, the Economic and Social Council decided that no session of either of the above Sub-Commissions should be scheduled for the year 1951 (resolution 336 (XI)). Attention is also called to the reasons which prompted this decision, as set forth in the relevant report submitted to the Council by the Interim Committee on Programme of Meetings (E/1834, par. 6) :

“ While in no way under-estimating the importance of the work of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities and of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press, the Committee recommends to the Council that, in view of the peculiar administrative difficulties confronting the Secretariat in 1951, as stated in paragraph 2 of document E/1789⁸⁴ referred to above, and in order to allow sufficient time for the material to be received and prepared for transmission to the Sub-Commissions, the next sessions of these two Sub-Commissions be postponed until 1952... ”

3. In its second report of 1950 (A/1312, para. 52) the Advisory Committee recommended the total estimate for section 3 of the 1951 budget estimates for provisional approval as submitted by the Secretary-General, subject to appropriate adjustment in respect of sessions which might be eliminated or curtailed. This estimate, which was based on the assumption that sessions would be held at Headquarters, includes provisions in the amounts of $15,900 and $15,000 for one session each of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities and of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press, respectively, and the Committee notes that the Secretary-General has proposed that both sessions, if approved, should be held at Geneva. The cost of servicing the Sub-Commissions would be met within the total budgetary provision for 1951.

4. Although the amount involved ($30,900) is not substantial, the Advisory Committee draws the attention of the General Assembly to the fact that the proposed resolutions appear to contravene the spirit, if not the letter, of General Assembly resolution 310 (IV) of 24 November 1949 concerning the proliferation and overlapping of the programmes of the United Nations and of the specialized agencies. By that resolution the Economic and Social Council and other competent organs of the United Nations and the specialized agencies were requested to take all necessary steps to reduce the schedules of meetings and to eliminate the proliferation of activities.

5. The effect of the two draft resolutions, if adopted, would be that the Economic and Social Council, having taken appropriate action in these cases, partly at any rate in response to General Assembly resolution 310 (IV), would then be requested to review its action.

6. The Advisory Committee therefore suggests that the Fifth Committee may wish to consider the broader policy implications of the proposed resolutions. The ⁸⁴ See Official Records of the Economic and Social Council, Eleventh Session, Annex, agenda item 47.

Committee also calls attention to the view expressed by the Secretary-General in the foreword to his budget estimates for 1951 that it would be in the interest of the Organization as a whole if the number of sessions of commissions and committees were kept at the very minimum during 1951.

DOCUMENT A/1567 and A/1567/Corr.1

Chapters I, VIII (section II) and X of the report of the Economic and Social Council : the problem of the independence of Korea—plans for relief and rehabilitation of Korea : report of the Joint Second and Third Committee

[Original text : English]
[30 November 1950]

1. At its 285th plenary meeting held on 26 September 1950, the General Assembly decided to establish a Joint Second and Third Committee and to refer to it the following items of the agenda of the fifth regular session; item 12, " Report of the Economic and Social Council (chapters I, VIII, IX and X) " and item 29, " Co-ordination between the United Nations and the specialized agencies " (A/C.2&3/91). Chapter IX of the report of the Economic and Social Council and item 29 were considered in joint meetings with the Fifth Committee.

2. Chapters I, VIII and X of the report of the Economic and Social Council deal respectively with :

- (i) Constitutional and organizational matters;
- (ii) General questions, i.e. questions relating to both the economic and social fields;
- (iii) Non-governmental organizations.

3. Following upon the suggestion of the President of the General Assembly (A/C.2&3/91) that the chairmanship of the Joint Second and Third Committee should be decided upon by mutual arrangement between the Chairmen of the Second and Third Committees, it was agreed by the Chairmen concerned that the meetings of the Joint Committee would be presided over by the Chairman of the Second Committee, Mr. G. Gutiérrez (Cuba).

4. The Committee held its 45th, 46th, 47th,³⁵ 52nd, 53rd, 54th, 55th and 56th meetings on 4 and 5 October and 11, 13, 15, 20 and 25 November 1950 respectively.

5. At its 45th meeting, the Committee unanimously elected as Rapporteur Mrs. D. B. Sinclair (Canada).

6. With regard to the order of discussion, the Committee agreed with the suggestions of the Chairman (A/C.2&3/L.15). Accordingly, discussion of section I of chapter VIII of the Council's report, dealing with " Assistance for the civil population of Korea ", was deferred in view of the fact that the question of Korea was then under consideration in the First Committee. At the request of the General Assembly at its 296th plenary meeting, the Joint Second and Third Committee considered separately the following question : " Problem of the independence of Korea : plans for relief and rehabilitation of Korea ", on the basis of the draft resolution submitted by the Economic and Social Council (A/1493, Appendix)³⁶ in pursuance of the General Assembly resolution of 7 November (A/1435). The discussion of this question in the Joint Committee is contained in part II of the present report. The Committee decided to give no separate consideration to section 3 of chapter X, which deals with " Draft rules for the calling of non-governmental conferences ", in view of the fact that this subject formed a separate item on the agenda of the General Assembly and had been allocated to the Sixth Committee. The Committee began with a general discussion held concurrently on chapter I, chapter VIII (section II) and chapter X, followed by consideration of proposals which were submitted on the question of the review of the organization and operation of the Council and its commissions (part I below). It then considered the " problem of the independence of Korea : plans for relief and rehabilitation of Korea " (part II below).

PART I

CHAPTERS I, VIII (SECTION II) AND X OF THE REPORT OF THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL

7. In the general debate, members dealt principally with the question of the organization of the work of the Council and its commissions. The relationship of non-governmental organizations with the Council was also discussed.³⁷

8. The Committee heard Mr. Santa Cruz, President of the Economic and Social Council, who made a comprehensive statement³⁸ on the activities of the Council in the economic, social and co-ordination fields and drew attention to the fact that the Council had established, at its eleventh session, an ad hoc committee to examine in detail the present organization and operation of the Council and its commissions. Mr. Santa Cruz expressed the hope that members of the Joint Committee would make their views known on this question.

9. With respect to the organization of the work of the Council and its commissions, several members of the Committee, while paying tribute to the achievements of the Council, voiced the opinion that there was, however, an imperative need for the United Nations and the specialized agencies to review their economic and social activities. They felt that the General Assembly itself should lay down a policy which would permit the establishment of an order of priorities for economic and social projects and a distinction between the tasks to be undertaken immediately and those which were not of pressing importance. In their opinion, stabilization or reallocation of budgets for the economic and social activities of the United Nations and of the specialized agencies would greatly facilitate the determination of priorities and result in substantial economies.

³⁵ The 48th, 49th, 50th and 51st meetings were held jointly with the Fifth Committee.

³⁸ Ibid., 45th meetings.

10. On the other hand, several representatives, although they were in favour of any measures which would eliminate proliferation of separate organizations with overlapping functions, expressed concern about any scheme which, for reasons of economy, might curtail the vital functions of the Council. Some members felt that the importance of the tasks of the Council justified the United Nations spending the bulk of its income on economic and social matters.

11. On the subject of constitutional and organizational questions, various representatives expressed their opinion on questions relating to membership of the Council, the importance of the principle of geographical distribution in the membership of commissions, the possible rearrangement of the sessions of the Council, the advisability of maintaining certain functional commissions and sub-commissions of the Council.

12. As regards the relationship of the Council with the non-governmental organizations, resolution 288 (X) of the Council on the review of consultative arrangements with non-governmental organizations was generally praised as improving the efficiency of the machinery for consultation. Several representatives, however, strongly objected to this modified statute, and, in particular, to the provisions relating to the new procedure to be followed by non-governmental organizations in category A in submitting their proposals for the inclusion of items in the provisional agenda of the Council.

13. In the course of the general debate, the representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics asked to have his statement recorded that the Economic and Social Council had no power to take decisions with the participation of a Kuomintang representative who did not represent China and also without the participation of representatives of four of the members of the Council, namely the U.S.S.R., China, Poland and Czechoslovakia and that such decisions taken in violation of the United Nations Charter were illegal.

Draft resolutions on the review of the organization and operation of the Council and its commissions

14. At the conclusion of the general debate, the Committee proceeded to a discussion³⁹ of the following draft resolutions and amendments thereto :

(i) Draft resolution submitted by Brazil, Chile, Cuba, India, Mexico, Lebanon and Yugoslavia (A/C.2&3/L.16) ;

(ii) Draft resolution submitted by Egypt (A/C.2&3/L.17 and A/C.2&3/L.17/Add.1) ;

(iii) Draft resolution submitted by Argentina (A/C.2&3/L.18/Rev.3).

15. The joint draft resolution (A/C.2&3/L.16) called for the maintenance of the regional economic commissions, although recognizing that their organization and terms of reference might shortly have to be revised. In the course of the discussion, which generally indicated approval of the work of these commissions, some members doubted whether the General Assembly should express an opinion on their maintenance before it had received the report of the Economic and Social Council on the question. To do so would, in effect, be to predetermine the findings of the Ad Hoc Committee of the Economic and Social Council which was appointed to examine the organization and operation of the Council and its commissions. Some representatives expressed their agreement with the draft resolution, on the understanding that the work of the regional economic commissions would be co-ordinated with that of other inter-governmental bodies. One representative asked for a separate vote on each paragraph and another requested a roll-call vote on the second paragraph.

The first paragraph was approved unanimously.

The second paragraph was adopted by 31 votes to 4, with 8 abstentions.

The joint draft resolution as a whole was adopted by 32 votes to 3, with 7 abstentions (see draft resolution I, A, annexed to the present report).

16. The draft resolutions submitted by the representative of Egypt (A/C.2&3/L.17 and A/C.2&3/L.17/Add.1) and the representative of Argentina (A/C.2&3/L.18/Rev.3) were discussed together. The Egyptian proposal was designed to recommend to the Council to draw the attention of its Ad Hoc Committee, appointed to review the organization and operation of the Council and its commissions, to the necessity of taking into consideration General Assembly resolution 207 (III) concerning the distribution of membership in subsidiary organs of the Council; to draw the attention of Members of the United Nations to the necessity of implementing General Assembly resolution 208 (III) concerning the participation of Member States in the work of the Economic and Social Council; and to request the Secretary-General to submit a report to the General Assembly on the proposals communicated by Member States in pursuance of General Assembly resolution 208 (III). The purpose of the Argentine draft resolution was to suggest to the Ad Hoc Committee of the Council that it was desirable that the largest number of Member States compatible with efficiency should be enabled to participate in the organization and work of the Council and its subordinate bodies. One representative requested that the first paragraph of the operative part of the Egyptian proposal should be voted upon separately.

The first paragraph of the operative part of the Egyptian draft resolution was approved by 24 votes to 5, with 11 abstentions.

³⁹ Ibid., 52nd and 55th meetings.

The draft resolution as a whole (A/C.2&3/L.17 and A/C.2&3/L.17/Add.1) was adopted by 33 votes to 2, with 9 abstentions (see draft resolution I, B, annexed to the present report).

The Argentine draft resolution was adopted by 33 votes to none with 9 abstentions (see draft resolution I, C, annexed to the present report).

17. Following the practice of previous sessions, the Committee decided to recommend to the General Assembly that it should take note of chapters I, VIII and X of the report of the Economic and Social Council (A/1345), on the understanding that this recommendation would in due course be incorporated with similar recommendations by other Committees to which parts of the report had been referred, so that the General Assembly could adopt a single resolution "taking note" of the report as a whole. (Section I of chapter VIII was included in this recommendation after the Joint Committee had completed its action on the draft resolution of the Economic and Social Council on the "problem of independence of Korea: plans for relief and rehabilitation of Korea" (A/1493, Appendix).)

THE PROBLEM OF THE INDEPENDENCE OF KOREA : PLANS FOR RELIEF AND REHABILITATION OF KOREA

18. The General Assembly, at its 294th meeting held on 7 October 1950, decided to refer paragraph 3 of its resolution relating to the problem of the independence of Korea to the Economic and Social Council with a request that it report within three weeks on plans for relief and rehabilitation of Korea upon the termination of hostilities. By a decision taken at its 296th plenary meeting, the General Assembly decided to extend the time for the submission of the Council's report to 10 November 1950 and, at the same time, decided that it should be referred to the Joint Second and Third Committee.

19. The Economic and Social Council completed consideration of the question on 7 November 1950.

20. The Joint Second and Third Committee considered the draft resolution submitted by the Council (A/1493, Appendix), which referred to the report of the Temporary Committee on a Provisional Programme for Relief and Rehabilitation Needs of Korea (E/1864), at its 52nd, 53rd, 54th and 56th meetings on 11, 13, 15 and 25 November 1950. The Joint Second and Third Committee agreed that the Fifth Committee should be requested to advise it regarding the financial arrangements for the programme as a whole, including the provisions of paragraph 7 of the draft resolution submitted by the Economic and Social Council. The Joint Committee also agreed to proceed with the general debate but to defer voting on the draft resolution and the amendments thereto pending consideration of the financial arrangements by the Fifth Committee.

21. In accordance with this decision, the Fifth Committee considered the question of financial arrangements for the proposed relief programme at its 268th meeting held on 21 November 1950. Its recommendations were transmitted to the Joint Second and Third Committee by the President of the General Assembly on 22 November 1950 (A/C.2&3/95).

22. The Joint Second and Third Committee had before it the following documents :

A/1435 : Resolution adopted by the General Assembly at its 294th plenary meeting on 7 October 1950;

A/1493 : Letter dated 8 November 1950 from the President of the Economic and Social Council to the President of the General Assembly transmitting the draft resolution of the Council;

A/C.2&3/95 : Letter dated 22 November 1950 from the President of the General Assembly transmitting a letter from Chairman of the Fifth Committee on financial arrangements;

A/C.2&3/L.32 and Rev.2 : Chile : amendment to the draft resolution proposed by the Economic and Social Council concerning plans for the relief and rehabilitation of Korea (A/1493);

A/C.2&3/L.32/Rev.4 : Chile, United States of America and Uruguay : revised draft of Chilean amendment (A/C.2&3/L.32/Rev.2);

A/C.2&3/L.34 : Uruguay : draft amendment to the resolution contained in A/1493;

A/C.2&3/L.35 : United States of America : draft amendment to the resolution contained in A/1493;

A/C.2&3/L.36 : Australia : amendment to the amendment proposed by Chile, the United States of America and Uruguay (A/C.2&3/L.32/Rev.4);

A/C.2&3/L.38 : Amendment to the draft resolution submitted by the Economic and Social Council (A/1493) proposed by the Secretary-General;

E/1864 : Report by the Temporary Committee on Provisional Programme for the Relief and Rehabilitation Needs of Korea.

23. The draft resolution submitted by the Economic and Social Council relating to (i) the establishment of the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency for the Relief and Rehabilitation of Korea and (ii) general policy on Korean relief and rehabilitation, formed the basis for the discussion (A/1493, Appendix). In the course of the general debate, several representatives expressed their appreciation of the work accomplished by the Council, and stressed the urgency of the task of the United Nations in developing and carrying out plans for the relief and rehabilitation of Korea. It was pointed out in this connexion that it was not easy to separate the political and military aspects of the situation from its economic and social aspects.

24. Some representatives expressed their concern with regard to the legal and constitutional relationship between all the various authorities in Korea and feared the possibility of confusion as to the respective spheres of competence of the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency and the United Nations Commission for the Unification and the Rehabilitation of Korea. They also specifically asked for a clear definition of the functions and powers of the Agent General and for clarification of his relationship with the proposed advisory committee (see paragraph 6 of draft resolution II, A, annexed to the present report). On the other hand it was argued that the draft resolution provided for an adequate distribution of authority between the political organs of the United Nations represented by the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea, the financial and advisory bodies meeting at Headquarters, and the administrative, technical and executive organization directed by the Agent General. Some representatives feared that paragraphs 9 and 10 would give the Agent General dictatorial powers and permit foreigners to interfere in Korea's domestic affairs.

25. The representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics proposed the deletion of paragraphs 3 and 4 of the preamble of the draft resolution as infusing political considerations into an economic and social question. Other representatives, in reply, reiterated their arguments in support of decisions of the Security Council relating to Korea and of the General Assembly resolution of 7 October 1950. The proposal of the representative of the U.S.S.R. was rejected by 31 votes to 5, with 5 abstentions.

26. The representative of Chile proposed an amendment to the draft resolution designed to clarify the relations between the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea and the Agent General (A/C.2&3/L.32 and subsequent revisions 1 and 2). In the debate that followed, a general feeling was expressed that the Agent General should have wider executive powers than those envisaged in the Chilean amendment. In view of this, the representative of Chile withdrew his proposal and subsequently a joint text was submitted by Chile, the United States of America and Uruguay (A/C.2&3/L.32/Rev.4). This text, with an additional clause proposed by Australia (A/C.2&3/L.36), was adopted by the Committee by 35 votes to none, with 7 abstentions.

27. The representative of Uruguay submitted five amendments (A/C.2&3/L.34) to the draft resolution, but withdrew three of them (1, 2 and 5) following the adoption of the joint amendment of Chile, the United States of America and Uruguay (A/C.2&3/L.32/Rev.4). The two other amendments (3 and 4 in A/C.2&3/L.34), which dealt with financial procedures and budgetary techniques, were adopted by the Committee, one as amended by Chile by 34 votes to none, with 7 abstentions, and the other as amended by Canada by 33 votes to none, with 5 abstentions.

28. The Secretary-General proposed a reworded text (A/C.2&3/L.38) of paragraph 9 of part B of the draft resolution dealing with the proceeds from the sale of relief and rehabilitation supplies. During the ensuing discussion the representative of the United States withdrew amendments which he had proposed (A/C.2&3/L.35) to the above paragraph. The text, as proposed by the Secretary-General and amended in two respects by Australia and Chile, was adopted by 37 votes to none, with 5 abstentions.

29. The representative of Mexico drew attention to the distinction between the relief and the rehabilitation supplies and proposed an amendment designed to safeguard free distribution of relief supplies. After discussion, the Mexican text as proposed orally, and amended by Chile, was adopted by 37 votes to none, with 5 abstentions, and was placed at the end of paragraph 8 of part B of the resolution.

30. The representative of the United States proposed orally an additional paragraph to invite non-member countries to participate in financing the programme of relief and rehabilitation in Korea. It was accepted by the Committee as paragraph 15 of part A of the resolution.

31. The representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics in explanation of his abstention in the final vote, stated that his delegation, although in favour of the principle of relief and rehabilitation in Korea, could not vote for the draft resolution in view of certain unacceptable provisions contained in it.

32. The draft resolution was adopted by 35 votes to none, with 5 abstentions (see draft resolution II, A, annexed to the present report).

Financial arrangements

33. As regards the financial arrangements, the draft resolution of the Economic and Social Council recommended that the General Assembly should examine the estimates referred to in the report of the Council's Temporary Committee on Provisional Programme for Relief and Rehabilitation Needs of Korea (E/1864) in the light of the development of the military situation in Korea. It also recommended that the methods of financing the proposed programme should be determined by the General Assembly itself. Paragraphs 17 to 22 of the report of the Council's Temporary Committee summarize the conclusions arrived at by the Committee on 1 November 1950 and presented to the Economic and Social Council on 6 November 1950. The paragraphs read as follows :

" 17. The estimates of requirements submitted by the representative of the United States and by the representative of the Secretary-General, for the period ending 31 December 1951, are of approximately the same order of magnitude, when account is taken of the supplies required before the end of 1950. Since these estimates have been prepared by competent authorities of the Unified Command working in close co-operation with representatives of the Government of the Republic of Korea and the ECA in Korea, they constitute the best available estimates of requirements at this moment. However, the Committee has not itself been in a position to examine the assumptions and detailed data on which these estimates are based.

" 18. It should be noted that the estimate of 364 million dollars for the period 25 June 1950 to 31 December 1951 includes not only what is being supplied currently by the Unified Command but also what is being received from Member States, specialized agencies and non-governmental organizations under procedures established jointly by the Unified Command and the Secretary-General. The Unified Command has been unable to give the Committee precise information on the total amount or cost of goods and services supplied for civilian relief and rehabilitation in Korea to date. However, it is thought that the cost will be about 100 million dollars by 1 January 1951.

“ 19. Consideration of the scale of the programme required, and of the period to which it should relate, is complicated by the fact that certain elements in the situation must inevitably be largely unknown at the present time, such as the period in which military operations will still be necessary, the extent of war damage in the North of Korea, the magnitude of the recovery effort of which the Korean people themselves will be capable, including the level of Korean exports as well as production out of Korean resources for home consumption and reconstruction, and the contributions that Member States will be able to provide in response to the emergency requests received from the Unified Command as well as for the programme to be administered by the Agent General to be appointed by the United Nations.

“ 20. In the opinion of the Committee it is not possible at this time to estimate with any degree of accuracy how much of the programme could, in fact, be implemented by 31 December 1951, including the commitment of funds for expenditure on contracts to be completed after that date. A satisfactory estimate will only become possible after the Agent General has set up his organization and proceeded with the necessary surveys.

“ 21. The Committee therefore considers, on the basis of the figures submitted to it, that a programme costing approximately 250 million dollars will be required for a period beginning 1 January 1951 and extending at least into the earlier part of 1952. The Committee recognizes, however, that a final decision on the programme to be financed by the United Nations and the period for which it should apply can only be taken in the light of information as to the amount of contributions which Member States will be able to make in relation to that period. Whatever programme and period are adopted by the General Assembly during its present session, the Committee believes that it will be necessary for the General Assembly, at its sixth session, to re-consider the total programme and to define the period which it should cover.

“ 22. In approving the programme, the General Assembly should also determine what account should be taken of goods or services furnished, or funds contributed prior to 1 January 1951, either by the Unified Command or Member States, under procedures established by the Secretary-General and the Unified Command, for the purpose of meeting requirements in Korea for relief and rehabilitation.”

34. The Fifth Committee, at its 268th meeting, had before it the draft resolution submitted by the Economic and Social Council (A/1493), including the request for advice on financial arrangements together with the Eighteenth Report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (A/1526), to which the request of the Joint Committee was referred for examination and report.

35. The Fifth Committee recommended for inclusion in the draft resolution submitted by the Economic and Social Council paragraphs relating to the financing of the programme, and providing for the establishment of a negotiating committee. It was understood that this committee would be composed of seven or more members appointed by the President of the General Assembly for the purpose of consulting, as soon as possible during the current session of the General Assembly, with Member and non-member States as to the amounts which governments might be willing to contribute on a voluntary basis towards both the proposed relief and rehabilitation programme in Korea and the current and future relief and re-integration programme for Palestine refugees. The President of the General Assembly transmitted the recommendations of the Fifth Committee, contained in the letter addressed to him by the Chairman of the Fifth Committee, to the Chairman of the Joint Second and Third Committee (A/C.2&3/95).

36. The Joint Committee adopted the recommendations of the Fifth Committee, as contained in A/C.2&3/95 by 35 votes to none, with 7 abstentions (see draft resolution II, B, annexed to the present report).

37. The representatives of Argentina and Chile considered that the negotiating committee would conduct preliminary consultations with governments and that tentative proposals made in the course of such consultations would not represent final financial commitments. The final commitments in the field of contributions would be made only after the negotiating committee had completed its preliminary work.

38. The representative of Mexico asked that the Secretary-General should prepare a document showing the estimated figures for relief and the figures for rehabilitation in the first year of the programme. Some other members supported this request.

39. The representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics expressed the opinion that the contributions of each country should be voluntary and that the arrangements agreed upon should be such as to enable them to be made in national currencies for the purchase of goods or services required in Korea for the purposes of the relief and rehabilitation programmes.

As a result of the discussions, the Joint Second and Third Committee recommends to the General Assembly the adoption of the following draft resolutions.

I

ORGANIZATION AND OPERATION OF THE WORK OF THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL AND ITS COMMISSIONS

DRAFT RESOLUTION A

The General Assembly

1. Takes note with satisfaction of the Economic and Social Council's decision to undertake in the near future a complete review of its organization and operation and that of its commissions;

2. Expresses the opinion that the regional economic commissions should be maintained, although their organization and terms of reference may have to be revised in the light of the experience acquired since their establishment.

DRAFT RESOLUTION B

The General Assembly,

Considering resolutions 207 (III) and 208 (III) of the General Assembly of 18 November 1948,

Taking note of resolution 295 (XI) adopted by the Economic and Social Council on 16 August 1950,

1. Recommends the Economic and Social Council to draw the attention of the Committee appointed in pursuance of its resolution 295 (XI) to the necessity of taking into consideration General Assembly resolution 207 (III) concerning the distribution of membership in subsidiary organs of the Economic and Social Council;

2. Draws the attention of Members of the United Nations to the necessity of implementing as soon as possible General Assembly resolution 208 (III) concerning the participation of Member States in the work of the Economic and Social Council;

3. Invites the Secretary-General to give consideration to the proposals which will be communicated to him by Member States in pursuance of General Assembly resolution 208 (III), and to submit a report on this subject to the General Assembly.

DRAFT RESOLUTION C

The General Assembly,

Considering the desirability of laying down guiding principles for the Committee appointed to review the organization and operation of the Economic and Social Council and its commissions,

Bearing in mind General Assembly resolution 208 (III),

Suggests to the Committee that it is desirable that the largest number of Member States compatible with efficiency should be enabled to participate in the organization and work of the Economic and Social Council and its subordinate bodies.

II

DRAFT RESOLUTION A

RELIEF AND REHABILITATION OF KOREA

The General Assembly,

Having regard to its resolution of 7 October 1950 on the problem of the independence of Korea,

Having received and considered a report of the Economic and Social Council submitted in accordance with that resolution,

Mindful that the aggression by North Korean forces and their warfare against the United Nations seeking to restore peace in the area has resulted in great devastation and destruction which the Korean people cannot themselves repair,

Recognizing that as a result of such aggression the people of Korea are desperately in need of relief supplies and materials and help in reconstructing their economy,

Deeply moved by the sufferings of the Korean people and determined to assist in their alleviation,

Convinced that the creation of a United Nations programme of relief and rehabilitation for Korea is necessary both to the maintenance of lasting peace in the area and to the establishment of the economic foundations for the building of a unified and independent nation,

Considering that, under the said resolution of 7 October 1950, the Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea is the principal representative of the United Nations in Korea and hence must share in the responsibility for the work undertaken by the United Nations in furtherance of the objects and purposes mentioned in the said resolution,

Considering that it is nevertheless desirable to set up a special authority with broad powers to plan and supervise rehabilitation and relief and to assume such functions and responsibilities related to planning and supervision, to technical and administrative matters, and to questions affecting organization and implementation as are to be exercised under the plans for relief and rehabilitation approved by the General Assembly, such authority to carry out its responsibilities in close co-operation with the Commission,

Establishment of the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency for the Relief and Rehabilitation of Korea

1. Establishes the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency (UNKRA) under the direction of a United Nations Agent General, who shall be assisted by one or more deputies. The Agent General shall be responsible to the General Assembly for the conduct (in accordance with the policies established by the General Assembly, and having regard to such general policy recommendations as the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea may make) of the programme of relief and rehabilitation in Korea, as that programme may be determined from time to time by the General Assembly;

2. Authorizes the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea :

(a) To recommend to the Agent General such policies concerning the Korean Reconstruction Agency's programme and activities as the Commission may consider necessary for the effective discharge of the Commission's responsibilities in relation to the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic government in Korea;

(b) To determine, after consultation with the Agent General, the geographical areas within which the Agency shall operate at any time;

(c) To designate authorities in Korea with which the Agent General may establish relationships; and to advise the Agent General on the nature of such relationships;

(d) To take such steps as may be needed to support the Agent General in fulfilling his task in accordance with the policies established by the General Assembly for relief and rehabilitation;

(e) To consider the reports of the Agent General to the General Assembly and to transmit any comments thereon to the Economic and Social Council and the General Assembly;

(f) To call for information on those aspects of the work of the Agent General which the Commission may consider necessary for the proper performance of its work;

3. Authorizes the Commission to consult from time to time with the Agent General in regard to the provisional programme adopted by the General Assembly on the recommendation of the Economic and Social Council and especially with regard to the adequacy of that programme to meet the needs of Korea as defined in the statement of general policy, and to make recommendations thereon to the Economic and Social Council;

4. Directs the Agent General :

(a) To co-ordinate his programme with measures taken by the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea to carry out the recommendations of the General Assembly relating to the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic government in Korea, and to support the Commission in fulfilling this task;

(b) To commence the operation of the programme in Korea at such time as may be agreed upon by the United Nations Unified Command, the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea and the Agent General;

(c) To consult with and generally be guided by the advice of the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea on the matters set forth under paragraph 2 (a) and be governed by its advice on the matters covered in paragraphs 2 (b) and 2 (c);

5. Further directs the Agent General, in the carrying out of his functions :

(a) To ascertain, after consultation with the designated authorities in Korea, the requirements for supplies and services for relief and rehabilitation made necessary by the consequences of armed conflict in Korea;

(b) To provide for the procurement and shipment of supplies and services and for their effective distribution and utilization within Korea;

(c) To consult with and assist the appropriate authorities in Korea with respect to measures necessary for the rehabilitation of the Korean economy and the effective distribution and utilization within Korea of supplies and services furnished;

(d) To submit reports to the General Assembly through the Secretary-General, transmitting copies simultaneously to the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea, and to the Economic and Social Council;

(e) To be guided in matters of administration, to the extent consistent with the special requirements of the programme, by the rules and regulations established for the operation of the Secretariat of the United Nations;

Specifically he shall :

(1) Select and appoint his staff in accordance with general arrangements made in agreement with the Secretary-General, including such of the staff rules and regulations of the United Nations as the Agent General and the Secretary-General shall agree are applicable;

(2) Utilize, wherever appropriate, and within budgetary limitations, the existing facilities of the United Nations;

(3) Establish, in consultation with the Secretary-General and the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions, and in agreement with the Advisory Committee established under paragraph 6 below, financial regulations for the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency;

B

Statement of general policy on relief and rehabilitation in Korea

Approves the following statement of general policy :

1. The United Nations programme of relief and rehabilitation in Korea is necessary to the restoration of peace and the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic government in Korea.

2. To this end, it is the objective of the United Nations to provide, subject to the limit of the resources placed at its disposal for this purpose, relief and rehabilitation supplies, transport and services, to assist the Korean people to relieve the sufferings and to repair the devastation caused by aggression, and to lay the necessary economic foundations for the political unification and independence of the country.

3. The United Nations programme of relief and rehabilitation for Korea shall be carried out in practice in such a way as to contribute to the rapid restoration of the country's economy in conformity with the national interests of the Korean people, having in view the strengthening of the economic and political independence of Korea and having in view that, in accordance with the general principles of the United Nations, such assistance must not serve as a means for foreign economic and political interference in the internal affairs of Korea and must not be accompanied by any conditions of a political nature.

4. The United Nations programme is to be a supplement to the general recovery effort that will be undertaken by the Korean people on their own initiative and responsibility, through the most effective utilization of their own resources as well as of the aid which is rendered under the programme.

5. Whilst the programme should be consistent with the pattern of long-term economic development in Korea, it is itself necessarily limited to relief and rehabilitation, and contributions and supplies furnished under this programme shall be used exclusively for that purpose.

6. First priority shall be given to the provision of the basic necessities of food, clothing and shelter for the population of Korea and measures to prevent epidemics. Second highest priority shall be given to projects which will yield early results in the indigenous production of basic necessities; this will include the reconstruction of transport and power facilities. As the programme develops, emphasis should be shifted to the provision of other materials, supplies and equipment for the reconstruction or replacement of war-damaged facilities necessary to the economic life of the country.

7. The necessary measures shall be taken to ensure that distribution shall be so conducted that all classes of the population shall receive their equitable shares of essential commodities without discrimination as to race, creed or political belief.

8. Subject to adequate control, the distribution of supplies shall be carried out, as appropriate, through public and co-operative organizations, through non-profit-making voluntary organizations such as the Red Cross, and through normal channels of private trade. At the same time, measures shall be taken to ensure that the cost of distribution and the profit from the sale of supplies are kept to the minimum. Measures shall be taken to ensure that the special needs of refugees and other distressed groups of the population are met through appropriate public welfare programmes, and accordingly the sale of relief supplies will take place only in justifiable cases and under conditions agreed upon with the Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea.

9. The local currency proceeds derived from the sale of relief and rehabilitation supplies or, at the discretion of the Agent General, an amount commensurate with the value of goods and services supplied, shall be paid into an account under the control of the Agent General. The Agent General, after consultation with the Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea, and in agreement with the Advisory Committee referred to in paragraph 6 of Part A of this resolution, shall use these funds for appropriate additional relief and rehabilitation activities within Korea, for the local currency expenses of the relief and rehabilitation operations of the United Nations, or for measures to combat inflation. The proceeds shall not be used for any other purpose.

10. The necessary economic and financial measures shall be taken by the authorities in Korea to ensure that the resources provided under the United Nations programme, as well as Korean resources, are effectively employed to aid in laying the economic foundations of the country. Among these, special attention should be given to measures to combat inflation, to sound fiscal and monetary policies, to the requisite pricing, rationing and allocation controls (including the pricing of goods imported under the programme), to the prudent use of Korean foreign exchange resources together with promotion of exports, and to the efficient management of government enterprise.

11. Import taxes shall not be imposed on relief and rehabilitation supplies received under the United Nations programme.

12. The authorities in Korea should maintain such records and make such reports on the receipt, distribution and use of relief and rehabilitation supplies as may be determined by the Agent General after consultation with them.

13. All authorities in Korea shall freely permit the personnel of the United Nations to supervise the distribution of relief and rehabilitation supplies, including the examination of all storage and distribution facilities as well as records.

14. The personnel of the United Nations shall be accorded within Korea the privileges, immunities and facilities necessary for the fulfilment of their function.

15. All authorities in Korea and the Secretary-General shall use their best efforts to inform the people of Korea of the sources and purposes of the contributions of funds, supplies and services.

16. In determining Korea's needs for relief and rehabilitation, in drawing up programmes and plans, and in implementing such programmes and plans, the Agency created to administer the relief and rehabilitation programme should consult with and utilize, to the greatest extent feasible, the services of Korean authorities.

DRAFT RESOLUTION B

RELIEF AND REHABILITATION OF KOREA: FINANCIAL ARRANGEMENTS

The General Assembly

1. Requests the President to appoint a negotiating committee composed of seven or more members for the purpose of consulting, as soon as possible during the current session of the General Assembly, with Member and non-member States as to the amounts which governments may be willing to contribute towards the financing of the programme for the relief and rehabilitation of Korea;

2. Authorizes the Negotiating Committee to adopt procedures best suited to the accomplishment of its task, bearing in mind:

(a) The need for securing the maximum contribution in cash;

(b) The desirability of ensuring that any contribution in kind is of a nature which meets the requirements of the contemplated programmes; and,

(c) The degree of assistance which can be rendered by specialized agencies, non-member States and other contributors;

3. Requests that, as soon as the Negotiating Committee has ascertained the extent to which Member States are willing to make contributions, all delegations be notified accordingly by the Secretary-General in order that they may consult with their governments;

4. Decides that, as soon as the Negotiating Committee has completed its work, the Secretary-General shall, at the Committee's request, arrange, during the current session of the General Assembly, an appropriate meeting of Member and non-member States at which Members may commit themselves to their national contributions and the contributions of non-members may be made known.

DOCUMENT A/1547

Co-ordination between the United Nations and the specialized agencies : report of the Joint Second and Third Committee and the Fifth Committee, meeting jointly

[Original text : English]
[23 November 1950]

1. At its 285th plenary meeting held on 26 September 1950, the General Assembly decided to refer the following items for consideration at joint meetings of the Joint Second and Third Committee and the Fifth Committee :

Item 12. Chapter IX of the Report of the Economic and Social Council : questions of co-ordination and relations with specialized agencies (A/1345).⁴⁰

Item 29. Co-ordination between the United Nations and the specialized agencies :

(a) Agreements between the United Nations and the specialized agencies : report of the Economic and Social Council (A/1345, paragraph 399);

(b) Concentration of effort and resources : report of the Economic and Social Council (A/1345, paragraphs 388-396, and a note by the Secretary-General, A/1395);

(c) Administrative budgets of the specialized agencies : report of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (A/1441);

(d) Administrative and budgetary co-ordination between the United Nations and the specialized agencies : report of the Secretary-General (A/1352).

2. Following the suggestion of the President of the General Assembly (A/C.2&3/91) that the chairmanship of the joint meetings should be decided upon by arrangement among the Chairmen of the Second, Third and Fifth Committees, it was agreed by the three Chairmen concerned that the joint meetings would be presided over by the Chairman of the Fifth Committee, the Maharaja Jam Saheb of Nawanagar (India).

3. The joint meetings were held on 23 and 25 October and 4 November 1950 (48th, 49th, 50th and 51st meetings of the Joint Second and Third Committee; and 253rd, 254th, 255th and 260th meetings of the Fifth Committee respectively).

4. At their first meeting, the Committees elected as Rapporteur Mrs. D. B. Sinclair (Canada), Rapporteur of the Joint Second and Third Committee.

5. With respect to the order of discussion, the Committees accepted the suggestion of the Chairman (A/C.2 & 3/L.19-A/C.5/L.52) that, in view of the fact that the items before the Committees represented aspects of co-ordination of the activities of the United Nations and the specialized agencies which were closely inter-connected and much of the documentation was common to all of them, there should first be a general discussion on co-ordination. This would be followed by consideration of any particular proposals raised in the course of the general debate, and of the particular questions on which formal action was necessary.

6. In the course of the general debate, satisfaction was expressed with the progress that had been made in co-ordinating the work of the international organizations and in promoting the concentration of effort and resources in accordance with resolution 310 (IV) adopted by the General Assembly at its fourth session. In regard to priorities, a subject which had received especial emphasis in that resolution, appreciation was expressed of the work accomplished by the Economic and Social Council. The Council, as a first practical step towards achieving the ends which the General Assembly had in mind, had suggested various criteria by which priorities might be established within a given field and had recommended that these criteria should be applied by all the bodies concerned. Some members, however, still felt it desirable that early consideration should be given to the question of priorities between particular fields of activity and the proportion of international resources allotted to the work of each of the international organizations.

7. It was generally considered that caution should be shown in embarking on new projects, and several representatives expressed concern at the continued expansion of agency budgets. They felt that an increasing number of members of agencies might be unable to meet their obligations and that, if the budgets became too large, some States might even have to withdraw from membership.

8. In the matter of administrative and budgetary co-ordination, considerable improvement had occurred since the fourth session of the General Assembly, though further development of uniform practices was urged. The use of common administrative services by agencies situated in the same area was advocated as a means of economizing both personnel and resources. The Committees were informed that the Administrative Committee on Co-ordination had already considered this and had arranged for a survey to be made.

9. The attention of the Committees was drawn to the increased resources available to the United Nations and to specialized agencies under the technical assistance plan. Since these funds were not incorporated in the regular budgets members commented favourably on the recommendation of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions that the agencies should be requested to include, as annexes to their annual reports, information on the manner in which these funds were being used.

10. With regard to the general problem of co-ordination, one member warned against attempts to seek solutions of a purely administrative or financial character. He felt that the aim should be to encourage all efforts that would promote the development of international action by ensuring not only the necessary co-ordination but also the maintenance of the drive essential to the success of that action. Another member felt that a greater degree of independence should be given to the agencies in order to reduce to a minimum the exercise of authority over them by the United Nations for which there was no provision in the Charter.

11. Discussion indicated some doubt as to whether sufficient study was given by the Economic and Social Council to the reports of the specialized agencies.

12. Support was given to an appeal to governments to participate as fully as possible in the work of the specialized agencies.

13. Several members emphasized that really effective co-ordination could only be achieved if there was a greater degree of national co-ordination to ensure that policies advocated by the delegation of a member State in one organization would be followed by that member's delegation attending the meetings of other organizations.

14. At the conclusion of the general debate, the Committees proceeded to a detailed discussion of the draft resolutions before them and amendments thereto. These are described under headings as follows :

A. ADMINISTRATIVE BUDGETS OF THE SPECIALIZED AGENCIES

15. In reviewing administrative and budgetary co-ordination with the specialized agencies, the Committees considered the report of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (A/1441) and the draft resolution contained therein. The Committees also had before them the report of the Secretary-General (A/1352) on the progress that had been made in co-ordination on administrative and financial questions.

16. The Committees noted that progress had been made in the implementation of resolution 311 A (IV) adopted by the General Assembly. The Joint Panel of Auditors had been established, the United Nations Joint Staff Pension Board was holding its first meeting, and the organizations had taken some steps to increase the proportion of their expenditures made in soft currencies. A model set of financial regulations had been developed by the Administrative Committee on Co-ordination, and there had been a co-ordinated approach by the organizations in respect of the proposed salary and allowances scheme and in the development of a common pattern of staff regulations.

17. On the other hand, several members noted that much remained to be done. The Committees' attention was drawn to the fact that at least one large agency had not yet adhered to the Joint System of Audit, and that several agencies had not found it possible to join the Joint Staff Pension scheme. The action which had so far been taken to give member States a degree of relief from contributions in hard currencies was still not as substantial as might be hoped, and it was suggested that further attention should be given to effecting contractual procurement and printing in soft-currency areas.

18. Attention was drawn to the provisions of General Assembly resolution 311 B (IV) making the services of the United Nations Committee on Contributions available to the specialized agencies. This resolution had been adopted in the hope that such action would result in more uniformity in scales of assessments among the various organizations. It was noted that this service would be available to the World Meteorological Organization which would be adopting a scale of assessments at its first Congress to be held in 1951.

19. A further step towards achieving a greater degree of common services was suggested by an Australian and Canadian joint draft resolution (A/C.2&3/L.20-A/C.5/L.53) making available to the agencies the services of the United Nations Investments Committee (see section B).

20. One representative commended those agencies which, in accordance with General Assembly resolution 311 C (IV), had planned their expenditure on the basis of their probable receipts. He had noted that, in their reports, the Advisory Committee and the Secretary-General had pointed out that this meant the setting up of second budgets, but he believed that it had been an essential measure in the financial circumstances in which the agencies had found themselves. He felt that a more realistic method of assessing member States and collecting their contributions was the remedy for the budgetary difficulties of the agencies. It was somewhat unrealistic to assess countries which had formally declared that they were not members of an agency. Secondly, there was need for strict measures against defaulters. He drew the attention of the Committees to the fact that one agency had suspended the voting power of six of its members which had failed to discharge completely their financial obligations to the agency. Lastly, he stressed the need for economy in the budgets of the various international organizations.

21. Attention was drawn to the difficulties resulting from the fact that Member States did not receive the annual accounts and the related audit reports of the specialized agencies in sufficient time to allow careful consideration prior to the meeting of the Assembly or Conference.

22. Members suggested that it would be useful to have more information from the various organizations on the actual number of their staff and the distribution of their staff by grades.

23. The Committees expressed general support of the Advisory Committee's report and the draft resolution contained therein.

24. The representative of Canada, with a view to strengthening paragraph 1 of the draft resolution dealing with the stabilization of the budgets of the specialized agencies and emphasizing the desire of the Committees to avoid duplication of administrative expenses of the international organizations, proposed an amendment (A/C.2&3/L.24-A/C.5/L.57) to the draft resolution.

25. It was recognized that events in Korea had created additional demands on the United Nations and the specialized agencies which they would probably be unable to meet from their present resources. The representative of the United Kingdom therefore introduced an amendment (A/C.2&3/L.22-A/C.5/L.55) urging that every effort should be made to meet these new demands by the deferment of less urgent projects. The Chairman of the Advisory Committee stated that he was in agreement with these amendments, which were adopted by the Committees.

26. The draft resolution as amended was adopted unanimously. The text presented to the General Assembly for adoption is attached as draft resolution A.

B. INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE

27. In the course of the general discussion, an Australian and Canadian joint draft resolution (A/C.2&3/L.20-A/C.5/L.53) was introduced. This draft resolution proposed that the United Nations Investments Committee should be authorized to provide advice to a specialized agency at the request of that agency, and requested the Secretary-General to inform the specialized agencies that the Committee was available for that purpose.

28. The draft resolution was adopted by 46 votes to none, with 2 abstentions. The text presented to the General Assembly for adoption is attached as draft resolution B.

C. CONCENTRATION OF EFFORT AND RESOURCES

29. A draft resolution (A/C.2&3/L.21-A/C.5/L.54) submitted by Australia formed the basis of discussion on this matter. The draft resolution was proposed with a view to the consideration of the present division of the available resources among the major fields of action of the United Nations. It called for the establishment of a fifteen-member committee to consider the programmes and budgets of the specialized agencies and of the United Nations in the economic and social fields. It recommended that, pending the review of the report of this committee at the sixth session of the General Assembly, each specialized agency should keep its estimated expenditure from its regular budget for 1952 within the regular budget for 1951 approved by its conference.

30. In the general discussion, several members expressed disagreement with the suggestion that another body should be created to undertake the functions which should properly be performed by the existing co-ordinating machinery.

31. Mexico, Netherlands and the United States of America jointly presented a draft amendment (A/C.2&3/L.23/Rev.1-A/C.5/L.56/Rev.1) proposing substantial changes to the Australian draft resolution. The joint amendment requested the Economic and Social Council to review, during 1951, the 1952 programmes of the United Nations and the specialized agencies, and requested the agencies themselves to review their own programmes, with the aid of the criteria for priorities established by the Council at its eleventh session. Before adopting new projects, the Council and the agencies would indicate which current projects might be deferred, modified or eliminated, to ensure that the economic and social work of the United Nations and the specialized agencies would be carried on most effectively.

32. In the course of the discussion, one representative requested that the President of the Council should be asked to examine the possibility of convening the Co-ordination Committee some time before the opening of the Council sessions to enable the Committee to submit co-ordinated programmes of work to the Council.

33. A Canadian amendment (A/C.2&3/L.30-A/C.5/L.70) was withdrawn after considerable discussion. A Yugoslav amendment (A/C.2&3/L.27-A/C.5/L.60) was withdrawn without discussion. Various oral amendments were accepted by the representative of Australia and the sponsors of the joint amendment. The Australian representative accepted the joint amendment, but reserved the right to re-open the question at the next session of the General Assembly.

34. The Australian draft resolution, as amended, was adopted unanimously. The text presented to the General Assembly for adoption is attached as draft resolution C.

D. MEMBERSHIP IN SPECIALIZED AGENCIES

35. The representative of Israel introduced a draft resolution (A/C.2&3/L.25/Rev.1-A/C.5/L.58/Rev.1), expressing the hope that those members not participating at the present time in the work of the specialized agencies might assume, or resume, full participation as soon as possible. In introducing the draft resolution, the representative of Israel referred to the Seventh Report of the Administrative Committee on Co-ordination to the Council, which contained a statement reaffirming the validity of the principle of universality of membership. Oral amendments were introduced by the representatives of Mexico and Lebanon. This proposal received general support, and the draft resolution was adopted by 36 votes to none, with 9 abstentions. The text presented to the General Assembly for adoption is attached as draft resolution D.

E. TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS OF THE INTERNATIONAL PENAL AND PENITENTIARY COMMISSION

36. The Committees had before them a report of the Secretary-General on the proposed integration of the functions of the International Penal and Penitentiary Commission within the United Nations (A/C.2&3/93-A/C.5/375) prepared under resolution 333 H (XI) of the Economic and Social Council.

37. In supporting the plan several representatives pointed out that interest in the question of the prevention of crime and the treatment of offenders was common both to the IPPC and to the Economic and Social Council and that the proposed integration would avoid duplication and concentrate the action which could be taken in that field.

38. One member raised the question whether the proposed plan was in conformity with the practices of the United Nations, and suggested that it might be advisable to defer a final decision until further studies had been made. The question was also raised whether by the terms of the proposed transfer the IPPC was being treated in a privileged manner compared with other inter-governmental organizations. It was, however, the understanding of the Committees that the arrangements proposed would be subject to review, in the light of experience, at any time by the appropriate organs of the United Nations.

39. Several members asked for additional information, particularly concerning the financial implications of the plan, and the representative of Canada submitted a list of questions (A/C.2&3/L.26-A/C.5/L.59). In reply, the representative of the Secretary-General made a statement (A/C.2&3/L.28-A/C.5/L.65).

40. The draft resolution contained in the Secretary-General's report was adopted by the Committees by 37 votes to 4, with 1 abstention. The text presented to the General Assembly for adoption is attached as draft resolution E.

F. AGREEMENTS BETWEEN THE UNITED NATIONS AND THE SPECIALIZED AGENCIES

41. The Committees took note of paragraph 399 of the report of the Economic and Social Council (A/1345) which contained the Council's recommendation that unless the matter was raised by the General Assembly, by the Council itself, by the Secretary-General or by one of the specialized agencies, it would be unnecessary for the Council to consider further the question of a possible revision of the Agreements until more experience in their working had been obtained.

G. CHAPTER IX OF THE REPORT OF THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL

42. Following the practice of previous sessions, the Committees decided to recommend to the General Assembly that it should "take note" of chapter IX of the report of the Economic and Social Council, on the understanding that this action would, in due course be incorporated with similar action by other Committees to which parts of the report had been referred, in order to form a single resolution "taking note" of the report as a whole.

43. As a result of the discussions, the Joint Second and Third Committee and the Fifth Committee recommend to the General Assembly the adoption of the following draft resolutions :

Draft resolution A

ADMINISTRATIVE BUDGETS OF THE SPECIALIZED AGENCIES

The General Assembly,

Having received the sixth report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

2. Draws the attention of all States Members of the United Nations and of the specialized agencies to the necessity for prompt payment of contributions to assure the adequate financing of budgets approved by them;

3. Requests specialized agencies participating in the technical assistance programme to provide information concerning the estimates for expenditure of technical assistance funds, as well as other extra-budgetary funds, in their regular budget documents, and to agree to the transmittal to the General Assembly of the United Nations for examination and approval, of the audit reports relating to expenditure of technical assistance funds allocated from the Special Account after approval of the appropriate audit reports by the general conferences of the specialized agencies;

4. Requests the specialized agencies to consider at an early date the adoption of common financial regulations and staff regulations modelled on those adopted by the General Assembly so far as their constitutional arrangements will permit;

5. Requests the Secretary-General, in consultation with the heads of the specialized agencies, to pay particular attention, in 1951, to the further development of satisfactory arrangements for the provision of common services, particularly in respect of regional and branch offices of the United Nations and specialized agencies, with a view to achieving greater efficiency and economy;

6. Requests the Secretary-General, after consultation with the heads of the specialized agencies and with the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions, to report to the next regular session of the General Assembly in respect of progress made in achieving a common salary system, in developing common budgetary policies and a common form of budget, in increasing the utilization of soft currencies, in efficiencies and economies to be achieved through further development of common services, and in dealing with arrears in contributions;

7. Requests the specialized agencies and the United Nations to make every effort, during 1951, to meet as fully as possible demands for expert assistance in Korea, and other operational programmes where the need is urgent, by deferment of less urgent projects.

Draft resolution B

UTILIZATION OF THE SERVICES OF THE UNITED NATIONS INVESTMENTS COMMITTEE BY SPECIALIZED AGENCIES

The General Assembly,

Noting that certain specialized agencies may require advice on the nature and extent of investment of their funds,

1. Authorizes the United Nations Investments Committee to provide advice to a specialized agency at the request of that agency;

2. Requests the Secretary-General to inform the specialized agencies that the United Nations Investments Committee is available for this purpose.

Draft resolution C

CONCENTRATION OF EFFORT AND RESOURCES

The General Assembly,

Recalling its responsibilities under Article 17, paragraph 3, and Article 58 of the Charter,

Recalling its resolution 310 (IV) declaring that the resources devoted to the economic and social work of the United Nations and the specialized agencies should be concentrated on tasks of primary importance,

Taking note of the work of the Economic and Social Council at its eleventh session in determining criteria for establishing priorities within the fields allotted to the various bodies composing and associated with the United Nations,

Recognizing that the successful carrying out of the economic and social work of the United Nations and the specialized agencies may be jeopardized by undertaking so many projects as to exceed the available technical, administrative and financial resources,

Recognizing that the extent of activity is determined by the programme decisions and by the budgetary appropriations of the United Nations and the specialized agencies,

Declaring that the resources placed at the disposal of the United Nations and the specialized agencies should be applied where they are most needed,

1. Requests each specialized agency to review its 1952 programme during 1951, using the criteria set forth in the report of the Co-ordination Committee⁴¹ as adopted by the Economic and Social Council;

2. Requests the Economic and Social Council and the specialized agencies to indicate, when new projects are adopted, which current projects may be deferred, modified or eliminated to ensure that the economic and social work of the United Nations and the specialized agencies will be carried on most effectively;

3. Requests the Economic and Social Council :

(a) To review during 1951 the 1952 programmes of the United Nations and the specialized agencies, using the criteria set forth in the report of the Co-ordination Committee as adopted by the Economic and Social Council;

(b) To seek, in reviewing the programmes, the assistance of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions on the administrative and financial aspects of this matter;

(c) To report to the sixth session of the General Assembly on the results of these reviews;

4. Requests the Secretary-General, in co-operation with the administrative heads of the specialized agencies, to include in annex IV to the Secretary-General's budget estimates a summary schedule of the estimated costs of the projects provided for in the budgets of the United Nations and of the specialized agencies; and, further,

Having noted the steps taken and progress made by the Economic and Social Council, the Secretary-General, the Administrative Committee on Co-ordination and the specialized agencies,

5. Urges that the efforts which are being made to ensure the fullest co-ordination of the programmes and activities of the United Nations and the specialized agencies be vigorously pursued.

Draft resolution D

MEMBERSHIP IN SPECIALIZED AGENCIES

The General Assembly,

Considering the principle of international co-operation as an important condition for the full success of the activities of the specialized agencies,

Noting that some of the specialized agencies do not enjoy participation of all Member States in their work,

Expresses the hope that those Members not participating at the present time may find their way to assume or resume, as soon as possible, full participation in the specialized agencies.

Draft resolution E

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS OF THE INTERNATIONAL PENAL AND PENITENTIARY COMMISSION

The General Assembly,

Noting resolutions 262 B (IX) and 333 H (XI) of the Economic and Social Council and the resolution adopted by the International Penal and Penitentiary Commission on 12 August 1950,

1. Approves the plan contained in the report prepared by the Secretary-General, in consultation with the International Penal and Penitentiary Commission, concerning the transfer of the functions of the Commission to the United Nations, and which is annexed to the present resolution;

2. Notes the decision of the Commission with respect to its residual assets;

3. Expresses its appreciation to the Commission for donating its library and its archives to the United Nations on the conditions specified in the above-mentioned plan;

Chapter V (section VI and section VII, part 2) of the report of the Economic and Social Council : report of the Fifth Committee

1. In accordance with rule 152 of the rules of procedure and with the request of the President of the General Assembly in his letter to the Chairman of the Fifth Committee dated 16 October 1950 (A/C.5/382), the Fifth Committee, at its 261st and 262nd meetings on 7 and 9 November 1950, considered the administrative and financial implications of draft resolutions adopted by the Third Committee (A/1440), inviting the Economic and Social Council to reconsider its resolution 336 (XI) with a view to including in its Calendar of Conferences for 1951 a session of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press, as well as a session of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities.

2. The Fifth Committee had before it a note by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/383/Rev.1) pointing out that section 3, chapters IV and V of his budget estimates for 1951 (A/1267),⁴² which had been prepared before the Economic and Social Council had taken its decision at its eleventh session, included an amount of $15,900 for one session of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, and of $15,000 for one session of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press. If the proposals of the Third Committee were accepted by the General Assembly, the original budget provision for the two Sub-Commissions would be required, pending a final decision by the Economic and Social Council. The Secretary-General also informed the Committee that, should the Commission on Human Rights meet in Geneva, he would consider it appropriate that the meetings of both Sub-Commissions should also be held there, on the understanding that the costs involved would be met within the total provided for in the budget estimates.

3. The Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions, in its eleventh report of 1950 (A/1474) called attention to the fact that the draft resolutions of the Third Committee appeared to contravene the spirit, if not the letter, of General Assembly resolution 310 (IV) of 24 November 1949, under which the Economic and Social Council and other competent organs of the United Nations and the specialized agencies were requested to take all necessary steps to reduce the schedules of meetings and to eliminate the proliferation of activities. In the Advisory Committee's opinion, the effect of the two draft resolutions, if adopted, would be that the Economic and Social Council, having taken appropriate action in these cases, partly at any rate in response to General Assembly resolution 310 (IV) would then be requested to review its action. The Fifth Committee, it was suggested, might therefore wish to consider the broader policy implications of the proposed resolutions, attention being also called, in this connexion, to the view expressed by the Secretary-General in his foreword to the budget estimates that it would be in the interests of the Organization as a whole if the number of sessions of commissions and committees were kept at the very minimum during 1951.

4. At the Fifth Committee's 261st meeting, a draft resolution in the following terms was presented jointly by the United Kingdom and the United States of America :

" Having regard to the decision taken by the General Assembly in resolution 310 (IV) of 24 November 1949 concerning the proliferation and overlapping of the programmes of the United Nations and the specialized agencies and,

" Having regard to the paramount need for economy,

" The Fifth Committee does not feel able to authorize the expenditure in respect of the two proposed sessions of the Sub-Commissions referred to in A/1474 and, accordingly, does not see its way to concur in draft resolutions A and B of A/1440 of 16 October 1950, proposed by the Third Committee. "

As a result of amendments suggested by the representatives of the Netherlands and of Australia, a new proposal, jointly sponsored by the United Kingdom, the United States of America, the Netherlands, Australia and Brazil, was subsequently offered in place of the original United Kingdom-United States draft. This revised joint proposal was as follows :

" The Fifth Committee

" Informs the General Assembly :

" 1. That a decision to hold meetings of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities and of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press during 1951, would require budgetary provision in the amount of $30,900;

" 2. That, having regard to the decision taken by the General Assembly in resolution 310 (IV) of 24 November 1949, concerning the proliferation and overlapping of the programmes of the United Nations and the specialized agencies; and,

" Considering that the purposes of that resolution are furthered by the decision of the Economic and Social Council in its resolution 336 (XI),

" The Fifth Committee is unable to recommend that provision be included in the 1951 budget for meetings of the two Sub-Commissions. "

5. At its 262nd meeting, the Committee had also before it the following alternative proposal presented by the representative of Egypt :

" The Fifth Committee,

" Considering that the Third Committee has adopted a resolution inviting the Economic and Social Council to reconsider its resolution that no provision should be made in the Calendar of Conferences for 1951 sessions of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press and of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities,

" Considering that the decisions of the General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council should not be prejudiced,

" Authorizes the retention pro memoria of the estimates for the sessions of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press and the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities. "

In deference to certain views expressed in the course of the debate concerning the competence and responsibilities of the Fifth Committee, the representative of Egypt later amended his proposal by deleting the second paragraph of the preamble and by substituting in the operative paragraph the word " Recommends " in place of the word " Authorizes. "

6. Delegations supporting the joint draft resolution maintained that the decision which had been reached by the Economic and Social Council, after duly considering all the relevant facts, should be upheld. This decision, moreover, as the Advisory Committee had pointed out, was consistent with the purposes of General Assembly resolution 310 (IV) and also with the objective for which the Fifth Committee had constantly striven : of securing efficiency with economy. Attention was called, in that connexion, to the reasons which had prompted the Council's Interim Committee on Programme of Meetings to recommend postponement, including the peculiar administrative difficulties confronting the Secretary-General in 1951 and the desirability of allowing sufficient time for material to be received and prepared for transmission to the Sub-Commissions. Certain delegations indicated their approval of the joint proposal on the understanding that should the Economic and Social Council, for good and sufficient reasons, see fit to reconsider its earlier decision, the costs of the two sessions could be met, with the concurrence of the Advisory Committee, by an advance from the Working Capital Fund.

7. Delegations supporting the Egyptian draft resolution maintained, however, that the considerations influencing the decision of the Economic and Social Council had materially altered in so far as there was now no reason to anticipate administrative difficulties in servicing the proposed sessions, while the bulk of the preparatory documentation required was already available. By its terms of reference the existence of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press was due to end on 31 December 1952 so that failure to meet during 1951 would leave it with only one session in which to complete its work, including the additional questions recently referred to it by the Economic and Social Council. In the case of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities, elimination of the 1951 session would result in an interval of two—possibly three—years between sessions. As regards General Assembly resolution 310 (IV), it was contended that, since none of the specialized agencies dealt with matters coming within the competence of the two Sub-Commissions, no question of proliferation or overlapping arose. Furthermore, protection of the high purposes and ideals of the United Nations should take precedence over any other consideration, and on these grounds the request of the Third Committee that the decision of the Economic and Social Council should be reconsidered was wholly justified. Finally, it was pointed out that the costs involved were relatively modest, and that the necessary budgetary provision had already been made in the estimates as presented by the Secretary-General and recommended for approval by the Advisory Committee.

8. A vote was taken by roll call on the Egyptian draft resolution with the following result :

In favour : Burma, Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic, Chile, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Ecuador, Egypt, Ethiopia, France, Guatemala, Haiti, Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, Mexico, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, Poland, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Uruguay, Yemen, Yugoslavia.

Against : Australia, Belgium, Canada, China, Greece, India, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Sweden, Union of South Africa, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, United States of America.

Abstaining : Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Israel, Thailand.

The Egyptian draft resolution was thus adopted by 27 votes to 13, with 5 abstentions.

The cost involved in holding sessions of the two Sub-Commissions during 1951 would, as indicated in paragraph 4 above, amount to $30,900.

9. The Fifth Committee therefore decided in accordance with rule 152 of the rules of procedure, to inform the General Assembly of the following :

" The Fifth Committee,

" Considering that the Third Committee has adopted a resolution inviting the Economic and Social Council to reconsider its resolution that no provision should be made in the Calendar of Conferences for 1951 for sessions of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press and of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities,

" Recommends the retention pro memoria of the estimates for the sessions of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press and the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities "

10. At its 271st meeting on 29 November, the attention of the Fifth Committee was called to the draft resolution adopted on 22 November 1950 by the Third Committee (A/C.3/548),⁴³ concerning the proposed appointment of a committee consisting of the representatives of fifteen Member States to meet at the Headquarters of the United Nations not later than 1 March 1951 for the purpose of preparing a draft Convention on Freedom of Information. The opinion was expressed by the representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and was supported by a number of other representatives, that the circumstances under which the Fifth Committee had previously reached its conclusions, as stated in paragraph 9 above, were changed by virtue of this further proposal of the Third Committee and that a decision to appoint the committee of fifteen would render unnecessary a meeting of the Sub-Commission on Freedom of Information and of the Press during 1951. Subject to this opinion being brought to the notice of the General Assembly, the Fifth Committee decided, by 19 votes to 5, with 14 abstentions, to approve the report of its Rapporteur.

[11 October 1950]

The General Assembly,
Considering the significance of a thorough study of petitions from Trust Territories and the taking of action with regard to them,

Considering the importance of visiting missions to Trust Territories and the fact that the detailed study of the reports of the said missions may serve a useful purpose,

Recalling resolution 321 (IV) of the General Assembly on petitions and visiting missions,

Bearing in mind that the Trusteeship Council should develop an ever-increasing activity for the purpose of fulfilling its functions,

Desiring that the Trusteeship Council should be enabled to examine thoroughly the question of the all-round development of Trust Territories, without neglecting, however, ad hoc and other questions within its competence,

Recommends to the Trusteeship Council to avail itself of the possibilities offered by its rules of procedure and to set up a special committee of the whole in order to :

(a) Study annual reports and other documents submitted by the Administering Authorities, including documents on administrative unions;

(b) Examine petitions from Trust Territories and take action thereon;

(c) Examine the reports of visiting missions;

(d) Submit to the Trusteeship Council reports concerning the material which has been studied and submit recommendations concerning the measures to be undertaken in Trust Territories.

[11 October 1950]

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolution 321 (IV) concerning the procedure with regard to petitions from Trust Territories,

Considering that due attention should be given to anonymous petitions, as well as to information of a general character, and that it is necessary to establish an equitable procedure for that purpose,

Recommends to the Secretary-General to give the necessary assurance to the petitioners who so desire that their names shall not be disclosed;

Recommends to the Trusteeship Council to receive all anonymous petitions and all information of a general character, to publish them, circulate them to all Member States of the United Nations and place them on the agenda of its sessions at the request of one or several members.

Reiterates its resolutions 320 (IV), 322 (IV), 323 (IV) and 324 (IV) adopted at its fourth session, and Cuba : draft resolution on the examination of petitions

[12 October 1950]

The General Assembly

Considering that the right of petition, which is among the fundamental human rights, is one of the most important factors in the operation of the International Trusteeship System;

Considering that the careful study of petitions is one of the fundamental responsibilities of the Trusteeship Council;

Considering that the number of petitions addressed to the Trusteeship Council is growing greater each year, and that their examination during its sessions arouses increasingly complex problems of procedure;

Recommends the Trusteeship Council :

(a) To instruct its visiting missions to undertake, on the spot, as thorough a preliminary examination as possible of the petitions submitted to them;

(b) To study the possibility of setting up a permanent advisory body to carry out between sessions of the Council the preparatory work necessary for the careful examination of petitions by the Council;

(c) To recommend the Administering Authorities to submit their observations upon the petitions which concern them within one month from the date of their receipt in order to enable the permanent organ advocated in the foregoing paragraph to examine them without delay;

(d) To study all other measures that may serve to improve the procedure now followed with respect to petitions;

(e) To recommend the Administering Authorities to submit annually special reports concerning the action taken on the Council's recommendations in respect of each petition examined.

Cuba and Norway : draft resolution on visiting missions

[13 October 1950]

The General Assembly

Considering that the sending of visiting missions to the Trust Territories in conformity with Article 87 c of the Charter, is one of the most effective methods of ensuring the successful operation of the Trusteeship System and achieving its high objectives;

Considering that in 1948, 1949 and 1950, the Trusteeship Council constituted various visiting missions which travelled through all the Trust Territories and submitted valuable reports to the Council;

Considering that past experience shows that the organization of visiting missions should be improved in various respects before a new series of visits to Trust Territories is begun;

Recommends the Trusteeship Council to review the organization of periodic visits, and more particularly to consider the following points :

(a) That visiting missions should remain for longer periods in each Territory in order to facilitate a more thorough study of any problems that may arise;

(b) That no visiting mission should be required to visit more than two Trust Territories;

(c) That steps should be taken to give each visiting mission the greatest possible mobility and to reduce to a minimum the material difficulties of the local administration receiving the mission and to facilitate its task;

(d) That means should be sought to extend the length of stay in each Territory without prolonging the interval between visits to the same Territory, possibly by increasing the number of missions while decreasing the numbers of their members;

(e) That the terms of reference of visiting missions should include the examination of specific problems; and

(f) That the terms of reference of visiting missions should include the preliminary examination of petitions submitted to them during their travels.

The General Assembly,

Considering that the promotion of educational advancement of the inhabitants of Trust Territories is essential for their progressive development as early as possible towards self-government and independence,

Finding the efforts made so far by the Administering

Authorities in the Territories under their charge to be insufficient, Recommends to the Trusteeship Council to formulate a ten-year plan for such advancement in consultation with the specialized agencies of the United Nations and to ensure that such a plan be carried out by the Administering Authorities in the respective Territories under their charge.

India, Indonesia, Pakistan and Philippines : revised draft resolution

[Original text : English]
[10 November 1950]

The General Assembly,

Considering that by rule 99 of its rules of procedure the Fourth Committee is entitled the Trusteeship Committee (including Non-Self-Governing Territories),

Considering that, while there is a marked difference between the responsibilities of the General Assembly in respect of trusteeship affairs and the functions which it exercises in respect of information from Non-Self-Governing Territories, the general question of political, economic, social and educational advancement are often of a common character,

Considering that the principles laid down in Articles 73 and 76 of the Charter aim at the promotion of the political, economic, social and educational advancement of the peoples of Trust and other Non-Self-Governing Territories,

Decides that, in future, items on the agenda of the General Assembly which are referred to the Fourth Committee should be so organized as to permit the common discussion of functional problems in Trust and Non-Self-Governing Territories, without prejudice to the full consideration of the reports of the Trusteeship Council and of any Special Committee on Information transmitted under Article 73 e of the Charter which may be appointed, or to the full consideration of such special matters relating exclusively to the Trust Territories as may arise out of petitions, visiting missions, the annual reports of the Administering Authorities and the discussions in the Trusteeship Council;

Decides that, to this end, the agenda of the General Assembly should comprise the consideration of political conditions in the Trust Territories, of economic problems in Trust and Non-Self-Governing Territories, of social problems in Trust and Non-Self-Governing Territories and of educational problems in Trust and Non-Self-Governing Territories on the basis of the reports of the Trusteeship Council and of any Special Committee on Information transmitted under Article 73 e of the Charter; and that provision should also be made for the separate examination of questions of procedure, substance and general principle arising out of the report of the Trusteeship Council and of procedural recommendations emanating from the Special Committee on Information transmitted under Article 73 e of the Charter;

Requests the Trusteeship Council and the Special Committee on Information transmitted under Article 73 e of the Charter to plan their reports in such a way as to facilitate the discussions in the Fourth Committee according to the recommendations made in the previous paragraph.

DOCUMENT A/C.4/L.88Report of Sub-Committee 8 to the Fourth Committee

Rapporteur : Mr. Peter ANKER (Norway).

[30 October 1950]

1. At its 153rd meeting, on 18 October 1950, the Fourth Committee appointed a Sub-Committee for the purpose of considering the possibility of co-ordinating and amalgamating a number of the draft resolutions relating to the report of the Trusteeship Council which were before it. The Sub-Committee was also to consider any amendments to those draft resolutions which might be submitted. The Committee approved the proposal of the Chairman that the members of the Sub-Committee should be Chile, Cuba, France, India, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Syria, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, United States of America and Yugoslavia.

2. The draft resolutions referred to the Sub-Committee were the following :

(a) A Yugoslav proposal (A/C.4/L.70) dealing with the procedures of the Trusteeship Council;

(b) A second Yugoslav proposal (A/C.4/L.71) relating to the procedure for dealing with anonymous petitions;

(c) A Cuban draft resolution (A/C.4/L.72) calling for the reiteration of resolutions on various aspects of advancement in the Trust Territories adopted at the fourth session of the General Assembly and for improvements in the form of the annual reports of the Trusteeship Council;

(d) A second Cuban draft resolution (A/C.4/L.73) calling for improvements in the procedures of the Trusteeship Council for examining petitions;

(e) A joint Cuban and Norwegian draft resolution (A/C.4/L.74) calling for improvements in the organization of visiting missions;

(f) A proposal by India, Indonesia, Pakistan and Philippines (A/C.4/L.76 and Add.1 and Corr.1) on the procedure to be followed in the Fourth Committee in its future discussion of conditions in Trust Territories and Non-Self-Governing Territories.

3. The Sub-Committee also had before it, in addition to those draft resolutions, an amendment by the delegation of Denmark (A/C.4/L.86) to the first Cuban draft resolution (A/C.4/L.72).

4. At its first meeting, on 19 October 1950, the Sub-Committee unanimously elected Mr. Peter Anker (Norway) as its Chairman, and requested him also to perform the duties of Rapporteur. The Sub-Committee held six meetings, at the last of which, on 27 October, the present report was adopted.

5. The Sub-Committee conducted its work on the basis of a working paper presented by the delegation of Cuba (A/C.4/SC.8/L.1), which combined in a single text the proposals relating to the procedures of the Trusteeship Council, petitions and visiting missions.

6. In its discussion of section B of that text, which related to the form of the reports of the Trusteeship Council, the Sub-Committee received explanations by the Cuban representative of the interpretation to be given to his proposal. In particular, the representative of Cuba explained that the proposal to the effect that all the pertinent data contained in information examined by the Council (including information derived from petitions and reports of visiting missions) should be grouped according to subject matter, did not preclude a separate section on the action taken with respect to individual petitions, whether of a personal or general character.

7. With respect to one of the working documents prepared by the Secretariat, the representative of Cuba requested that the report should mention that his delegation disapproved of and protested against the following facts :

(a) The Spanish text of the working paper did not follow faithfully the Spanish text about which the Secretariat of the Sub-Committee had consulted the Cuban delegation and which had received the approval of the latter;

(b) In one or two passages of the document prepared by the Secretariat, the Spanish text differed from the original Spanish text which, however, had been approved without any change by the Sub-Committee. That took place, in the opinion of the Cuban delegation, because, almost certainly, the Spanish text, in spite of being the only original, had to be re-translated from the English. Such procedure could not be accepted by the Cuban delegation because it presupposed the subordination of one language, in the present case Spanish, to another, in the present case English.

8. As a result of its examination of the Cuban working paper, the Sub-Committee decided to present the draft given below. In doing so, the Sub-Committee wishes, however, to point out that the eleven delegations represented on it have not in any way committed themselves with regard to the substance of any of the provisions of the draft and that they entirely reserve their position until it is considered by the Fourth Committee.

9. Regarding the joint proposal of India, Indonesia, Pakistan and Philippines (A/C.4/L.76 and Add.1 and Corr.1), the Sub-Committee decided to recommend without discussion that it should be considered separately by the Fourth Committee, it being understood that it might be necessary to revise the last paragraph of that draft resolution after the final text of part B of the draft presented by the Sub-Committee had been approved by the Fourth Committee.

10. When the present report was approved, the delegation of Cuba reserved its position in the Fourth Committee owing to the fact that it did not clearly see the meaning that the Sub-Committee intended to attach to the word "draft" in the first sentence of paragraph 8 of this report, the text of which was discussed in the English version only. The reasons for that attitude arose from the fact that two or three delegations, at the last moment, had presented reservations not only of substance, a very legitimate position, but also of form. On the other hand, despite the repeated requests of the Cuban delegation that the position should be clarified, the Sub-Committee did not express its views, by a vote, on the character of the proposal submitted to the Fourth Committee. The Cuban delegation accordingly wished to place on record that it reserved the most complete liberty to suggest new amendments and special procedures if the view that the document resulting from the work of the Sub-Committee should be discussed as if it were various separate resolutions should prevail in the Fourth Committee.

INTERNATIONAL TRUSTEESHIP SYSTEM PROCEDURES OF THE TRUSTEESHIP COUNCIL

The General Assembly,

Considering that, under Article 7 of the Charter, the General Assembly and the Trusteeship Council have been established as principal organs of the United Nations,

Considering that, under Article 75 of the Charter, the International Trusteeship System has been established under the authority of the United Nations,

Considering that, under Article 85, paragraph 1, of the Charter, the functions of the United Nations with regard to trusteeship agreements for all areas not designated as strategic shall be exercised by the General Assembly,

Considering that, under Article 85, paragraph 2, of the Charter, the Trusteeship Council, operating under the authority of the General Assembly, shall assist the General Assembly in carrying out its functions with regard to the Trusteeship System,

Considering that, under Article 87, sub-paragraphs b and c, of the Charter, the General Assembly and, under its authority, the Trusteeship Council, may accept petitions and examine them in consultation with the Administering Authority and provide for periodic visits to the Trust Territories, and that under sub-paragraph d of the same Article they may take these and other actions in conformity with the terms of the trusteeship agreements,

Considering that under Article 90 of the Charter, the Trusteeship Council shall adopt its own rules of procedure,

Considering that the annual report of the Trusteeship Council is prepared principally for the use of the General Assembly,

1. Expresses the hope that there will be continued improvement in the methods of work of the Trusteeship Council, including the procedure relating to petitions and visiting missions; and that the General Assembly will continue to find in the future reports of the Council increasingly effective assistance in the discharge of its important duties relating to the International Trusteeship System; and, to this end,

A. In respect of general procedure

2. Notes the increase in the volume of work and in the length of the sessions of the Trusteeship Council;

3. Considers that the effective discharge by the Council of its duties appears to require a review of its methods of work;

4. Recommends accordingly that the Council undertake a review of its general procedure, having in mind the possibility of establishing a standing committee of the whole Council to undertake a preliminary examination of :

(a) The annual reports on the administration of the Trust Territories;

(b) The reports of visiting missions;

(c) Petitions submitted in respect of the Trust Territories;

(d) Any special questions such as that of administrative unions which may be referred to it by the Council;

B. In respect of the annual reports of the Trusteeship Council

5. Considers that the present arrangement of the subject-matter of the report of the Trusteeship Council to the General Assembly, which conforms strictly to the various functions of the Council, might be improved so as to enable the General Assembly to form a clearer understanding of conditions in the Trust Territories;

6. Requests the Council accordingly in its future reports to the General Assembly :

(a) To gather in a single section all the information relating to the circumstances existing in each of the following fields, namely, political, economic, social and educational, with respect to each Trust Territory, so that each section shall include all pertinent data contained in the information examined by the Council as well as the observations, conclusions and recommendations of the Council and the observations of its members on the topic under review;

(b) To give in each case in the appropriate section a special account of the manner in which the Administering Authority has carried out each important recommendation of the General Assembly or the Trusteeship Council;

(c) To state also in the same section its conclusions on the extent of the action taken by the Administering Authority and on the measures which in its opinion should be adopted in view of those conclusions;

C. In respect of the organization of visiting missions

7. Notes that periodic visiting missions of the Trusteeship Council have now visited each of the Trust Territories for the first time and have submitted valuable reports to the Council;

8. Notes that since these missions were the first of their kind and since the time spent by them in each of the Trust Territories was limited, they have not in general entered into the details of all the problems existing in the Trust Territories;

9. Considers that the commencement in 1951 of a second series of visits to the Trust Territories presents an opportunity to review the organization of visiting missions in order to ensure that the most effective use will be made in future of this important function of the General Assembly and of the Council;

10. Requests the Council accordingly to undertake such a review, and more particularly to consider the possibility of :

(a) Arranging for visiting missions to remain long enough in each Trust Territory to be able to study its problems more thoroughly;

(b) Reducing the number of Trust Territories to be visited by a single visiting mission;

(c) Ensuring the greatest possible flexibility in the itinerary of each visiting mission;

(d) Extending the duration of visits without diminishing their frequency, if necessary by reducing the number of members of each mission;

(e) Continuing to include in the terms of reference of each visiting mission the examination of specific problems;

(f) Continuing to include in the terms of reference of each visiting mission the preliminary examination on the spot of all petitions submitted to it, and of such other petitions as the Council may deem appropriate;

D. In respect of the examination of petitions

11. Considers that the right of petition, which is one of the fundamental human rights, is one of the most important factors in the operation of the International Trusteeship System, and that the careful study of petitions is one of the fundamental responsibilities of the Trusteeship Council;

12. Considers that it is essential in the interest of the inhabitants of Trust Territories to continue to improve in every possible way the procedure for the examination of petitions;

13. Considers further that due attention should be given to anonymous petitions, whether of an individual or of a general character, and that an appropriate procedure should be established for this purpose;

14. Recommends that the Council accordingly :

(a) Consider the possibility of constituting the Ad Hoc Committee on Petitions as a standing committee to meet, if necessary, between sessions of the Council;

(b) Request the Administering Authorities to submit such observations as they may wish to make upon petitions which concern them within two months of their receiving such petitions;

(c) Authorize the Secretary-General to give each petitioner who so desires the assurance that his name shall not be disclosed, and to circulate each such petition in the usual manner to the members of the Council;

(d) Undertake the examination of any anonymous petition upon the request of any one of its members;

(e) Study all other measures which may serve to improve the present procedure for the examination of petitions;

(f) Request the Administering Authorities to submit each year special information concerning action taken upon the recommendations of the Council in respect of petitions examined, except in those cases where the Council does not deem it necessary.

DOCUMENT A/1546

Report of the Fourth Committee

[22 November 1950]

1. The report of the Trusteeship Council covering its first and second special sessions and its sixth and seventh sessions (A/1306 and A/1306/Corr.1¹) was referred to the Fourth Committee by the General Assembly at its 285th plenary meeting on 26 September 1950.

2. At the 144th meeting of the Fourth Committee, the President of the Trusteeship Council, Dr. Max Henríquez Ureña, made an introductory statement summarizing the observations, conclusions and recommendations adopted by the Trusteeship Council. The report was then the subject of a general debate which continued until the 152nd meeting. Members of the Committee commented on the conditions in Trust Territories and on the administration of those Territories, and made comments and suggestions relating to the procedures of the Trusteeship Council and the organization of its work, particularly in view of the considerable increase in the work of that body.

3. Thirteen draft resolutions, and a number of amendments thereto, were presented to the Committee and were considered by it from the 152nd to the 173rd meetings. Those proposals fell into the following groups :

I. A general proposal relating to the action to be taken on the report of the Trusteeship Council (A/C.4/L.69), submitted by Canada.

II. Proposals relating to the procedures of the Trusteeship Council :

A. A proposal relating to the general procedure of the Trusteeship Council (A/C.4/L.70), submitted by Yugoslavia;

B. A proposal relating to the presentation of the annual reports of the Trusteeship Council (A/C.4/L.72), submitted by Cuba;

C. A proposal relating to the organization of visiting missions (A/C.4/L.74), submitted by Cuba and Norway;

D. Two proposals relating to the examination of petitions (A/C.4/L.71 and A/C.4/L.73), submitted by Yugoslavia and Cuba, respectively.

III. A proposal relating to the procedures of the Fourth Committee in its future examination of items relating to conditions in Trust and Non-Self-Governing Territories (A/C.4/L.76/Rev.1), submitted by India, Indonesia, Pakistan and Philippines.

IV. A proposal requesting the Secretary-General to report annually to the General Assembly on the implementation of the resolutions of the Trusteeship Council and the General Assembly relating to Trusteeship matters (A/C.4/L.79/Rev.2), submitted by Cuba and Mexico).

V. A proposal relating to educational advancement in Trust Territories (A/C.4/L.75/Rev.2), submitted by Pakistan and Indonesia.

VI. A proposal relating to the rural economic development of Trust Territories (A/C.4/L.78), submitted by Denmark, Mexico, Philippines, Syria and United States of America.

VII. A proposal relating to the application of the technical assistance programme to Trust Territories (A/C.4/L.80), submitted by Syria and Denmark.

VIII. A proposal calling for abolition of corporal punishment in Trust Territories (A/C.4/L.87/Rev.1), submitted by Cuba and Philippines.

IX. A proposal relating to the Ewe question in Togoland under French administration and Togoland under British administration (A/C.4/L.82/Rev.1), submitted by India, Indonesia, Iraq, Philippines and Yugoslavia.

4. At its 153rd meeting, the Committee appointed a Sub-Committee composed of the representatives of Chile, Cuba, France, India, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Syria, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, the United States of America and Yugoslavia, to consider the possibility of co-ordinating and amalgamating the texts of the proposals falling under groups II and III, and such amendments to those proposals as might be submitted. Actually, Denmark submitted an amendment (A/C.4/L.86) to the draft resolution proposed by Cuba concerning the presentation of the annual reports of the Trusteeship Council (II B above).

5. The Sub-Committee in its report (A/C.4/L.88), presented a draft combining, in a single text containing four sections, the proposals relating to the procedures of the Trusteeship Council, but recommended that the proposal relating to the procedures of the Fourth Committee referred to under III above should be considered separately by the Committee.

6. The Fourth Committee considered the report of the Sub-Committee at its 163rd and 164th meetings and decided, at the latter meeting, that the draft presented by the Sub-Committee should form the basis for more than one draft resolution. Eventually, the Committee adopted four separate draft resolutions based on the text submitted by the Sub-Committee. The texts of those resolutions are reproduced at the end of the present report. The Committee also decided, as recommended by the Sub-Committee, to consider separately the draft resolution submitted by India, Indonesia, Pakistan and the Philippines (A/C.4/L.76/Rev.1), concerning the procedures of the Fourth Committee. At the 173rd meeting, the Committee further decided, by 28 votes to 8, with 12 abstentions, to defer consideration of the draft resolution until item 4 of its agenda, "Information from Non-Self-Governing Territories", had been discussed. However, at the 181st meeting, the sponsors withdrew the draft resolution.

7. In addition to the four draft resolutions mentioned above, the Committee adopted seven draft resolutions the texts of which are reproduced at the end of the present report.

8. A detailed account of the consideration by the Committee of the various proposals before it is given in sections I-VIII below.

I. REPORT OF THE TRUSTEESHIP COUNCIL

9. The delegation of Canada submitted a draft resolution (A/C.4/L.69) reading as follows :

" The General Assembly,

" Takes note of the report of the Trusteeship Council covering its first special session, its second special session, and its sixth and seventh sessions (A/1306 and A/1306/Corr.1);

" Expresses its confidence that the Trusteeship Council, in a spirit of co-operation, will continue to contribute effectively to achieving the high objectives of the Trusteeship System;

" Recommends that the Trusteeship Council should consider at its next session the comments and suggestions made during the discussion of the report at the fifth session of the General Assembly;

" Requests the Secretary-General to prepare for the use of the Trusteeship Council an appropriate document setting forth such comments and suggestions. "

10. The above draft resolution was considered by the Committee at its 154th meeting. During the discussion, the representative of Canada withdrew the final paragraph.

11. At the request of the representative of Yugoslavia, a separate vote was taken on the inclusion of the words "continue to" in the second paragraph and, at the request of other delegations, a separate vote was taken on the third paragraph.

12. At the 154th meeting, the draft resolution was voted upon as follows :

Second paragraph : The words "continue to" were approved by 25 votes to 9, with 11 abstentions.

Third paragraph : The paragraph was adopted by 32 votes to 2, with 14 abstentions.

The draft resolution as a whole, as modified, was approved by 31 votes to none, with 17 abstentions. The text of the draft resolution is reproduced at the end of the present report, as draft resolution I.

II. PROCEDURES OF THE TRUSTEESHIP COUNCIL

A. GENERAL PROCEDURE OF THE TRUSTEESHIP COUNCIL

13. At its 164th meeting, the Fourth Committee considered section A of the draft submitted by the Sub-Committee (A/C.4/L.88), concerning the general procedure of the Trusteeship Council.

14. The United States of America proposed the deletion of the last part of the third paragraph of section A, beginning with the words "having in mind".

15. On the basis of section A and taking into account the United States proposal, India presented (164th meeting) the following draft resolution which was accepted as the basis for discussion :

" The General Assembly,

" Noting the increase in the volume of work and in the length of the sessions of the Trusteeship Council,

" Considering that for the more effective discharge by the Council of its duties a review of its present methods of work appears necessary,

" Recommends accordingly that the Council undertake a review of its general procedure and make a report on the results of such review to the next session of the General Assembly. "

16. The delegation of India accepted an oral amendment by Chile to the effect that the third paragraph should be altered to read as follows :

" Recommends accordingly that the Council undertake a review of its general procedure bearing in mind the observations and suggestions made during the discussion of this matter at the fifth session of the General Assembly and include the results of such review in its report to the next session of the General Assembly. "

17. At the 164th meeting, the draft resolution was approved, as modified, by 43 votes to none, with 4 abstentions. The text of the draft resolution is reproduced at the end of the present report as draft resolution II.

B. ANNUAL REPORTS OF THE TRUSTEESHIP COUNCIL

18. On the basis of section B of the draft submitted by the Sub-Committee (A/C.4/L.88) and taking into account the amendment thereto by Cuba (A/C.4/L.89), India presented the following draft resolution which was accepted as the basis for discussion :

“ The General Assembly,

“ 1. Considering that, under Article 85, paragraph 2, of the Charter, the Trusteeship Council, operating under the authority of the General Assembly, shall assist the General Assembly in carrying out its functions with regard to the Trusteeship System,

“ 2. Considering that the annual report of the Trusteeship Council is prepared principally for the use and assistance of the General Assembly,

“ 3. Considering further that the present arrangement of the subject-matter of the report of the Trusteeship Council to the General Assembly, which conforms strictly to the various functions of the Council, might be improved so as to enable the General Assembly to form a clearer understanding of conditions in the Trust Territories,

“ 4. Requests the Council, accordingly, in its future reports to the General Assembly :

“ (a) To present in separate sections all the relevant data examined by the Trusteeship Council concerning the political, economic, social and educational conditions in each Trust Territory, so that each section may provide the General Assembly with a comprehensive account of such conditions in each of the above-mentioned fields;

2. Expresses its confidence that the Trusteeship Council, in a spirit of co-operation, will continue to contribute effectively to achieving the high objectives of the Trusteeship System;

3. Recommends that the Trusteeship Council consider at its next session the comments and suggestions made during the discussion of the report at the fifth session of the General Assembly.

DRAFT RESOLUTION II

GENERAL PROCEDURE OF THE TRUSTEESHIP COUNCIL

The General Assembly,

Noting the increase in the volume of work and in the length of the sessions of the Trusteeship Council,

Considering that, for the more effective discharge by the Council of its duties, a review of its present methods of work appears desirable,

Recommends accordingly that the Trusteeship Council undertake a review of its general procedure bearing in mind the observations and suggestions made during the discussion of this matter at the fifth session of the General Assembly, and include the results of such review in its report to the next regular session of the General Assembly.

DRAFT RESOLUTION III

ANNUAL REPORTS OF THE TRUSTEESHIP COUNCIL

The General Assembly,

Considering that, under Article 85, paragraph 2, of the Charter, the Trusteeship Council, operating under the authority of the General Assembly, shall assist the General Assembly in carrying out its functions with regard to the International Trusteeship System,

Considering that, under Article 15, paragraph 2, of the Charter, the General Assembly shall receive and consider the reports of the Trusteeship Council,

Considering that certain rules of procedure of the Trusteeship Council relate to the preparation of the annual report; that, under Article 90 of the Charter, the Council adopts its own rules of procedure; and that in so doing, the Council is at all times bound to consider the inclusion of all provisions required to assist the General Assembly in carrying out its functions with regard to the Trusteeship System as provided in the Charter,

Considering further that the present arrangement of the subject-matter of the report of the Trusteeship Council to the General Assembly, which conforms strictly to the various functions of the Council, might be improved so as to enable the General Assembly to form a clearer understanding of conditions in the Trust Territories,

1. Recommends that the Trusteeship Council, accordingly, in its future reports to the General Assembly :

(a) Present in separate sections all the relevant data examined by the Trusteeship Council concerning the political, economic, social and educational conditions in each Trust Territory, so that each section may provide the General Assembly with a comprehensive account of such conditions in each of the above-mentioned fields;

(b) Include in each such section the observations, conclusions and recommendations of the Council on the topic under review, as well as such relevant observations of its individual members as the Council may consider useful;

(c) Give in each case in the appropriate section an account of the manner in which the Administering Authority has carried out each recommendation of the General Assembly or of the Trusteeship Council;

(d) State also in the same section its conclusions on the extent of the action taken by the Administering Authority and on the measures which, in its opinion, should be adopted in view of those conclusions;

(e) Include, wherever practicable, maps of the various Trust Territories;

2. Recommends also that the Trusteeship Council, in preparing its future annual reports, take into consideration documents A/C.4/L.93 and A/C.4/L.94, the texts of which will be of assistance in making clear the structure of the annual report of the Trusteeship Council which the General Assembly hopes will be adopted.

DRAFT RESOLUTION IV

The General Assembly,

Considering that, under Article 85, paragraph 1, of the Charter, the functions of the United Nations with regard to Trusteeship Agreements for all areas not designated as strategic shall be exercised by the General Assembly,

Considering that, under Article 87 c of the Charter, the General Assembly, and, under its authority, the Trusteeship Council, may provide for periodic visits to the respective Trust Territories at times agreed upon with the Administering Authority,

Noting that visiting missions of the Trusteeship Council have now visited each of the Trust Territories for the first time and have submitted valuable reports to the Council,

Noting that these missions were the first of their kind and that the time during which they remained in each of the Trust Territories did not permit them to make a thorough study of some of the problems existing in the Trust Territories,

Considering that since it has been customary for the Trusteeship Council to study the possibility of improving the organization and membership as well as the methods and functioning of visiting missions, the commencement in 1951 of a second series of visits to the Trust Territories presents an opportunity to review these matters again,

1. Recommends accordingly that the Trusteeship Council should undertake another such review in order to ensure that the most effective use will be made in future of this important function of the General Assembly and of the Council, taking into consideration for that purpose the observations and suggestions made during the discussion of this matter at the fifth session of the General Assembly and taking into account the advisability of :

(a) Arranging for visiting missions to remain long enough in each Trust Territory to be able adequately to fulfil their task;

(b) Reducing the number of Trust Territories to be visited by a single visiting mission;

(c) Ensuring the greatest possible flexibility in the itinerary of each visiting mission;

(d) Extending the duration of visits without diminishing their frequency;

(e) Continuing to include in the terms of reference of each visiting mission the examination of specific problems;

(f) Continuing to include in the terms of reference of each visiting mission the preliminary examination on the spot, when called for, of the petitions submitted to it, and of such other petitions as the Trusteeship Council may deem appropriate;

(g) Selecting members of each visiting mission as much as possible from among representatives who sit on the Trusteeship Council;

(h) Directing visiting missions to take advantage of every opportunity to inform the indigenous inhabitants of the workings and operations of the International Trusteeship System;

2. Requests the Trusteeship Council to include the results of the review in its next report to the General Assembly.

DRAFT RESOLUTION V

EXAMINATION OF PETITIONS

The General Assembly,

Considering that, according to Article 85, paragraph 1, of the Charter, the functions of the United Nations with regard to Trusteeship Agreements for all areas not designated as strategic shall be exercised by the General Assembly,

Considering that, according to Article 87 b of the Charter, the General Assembly and, under its authority, the Trusteeship Council, in carrying out their functions, may accept petitions and examine them in consultation with the Administering Authority,

Considering that the right of petition, which is one of the fundamental human rights, is one of the most important factors in the operation of the International Trusteeship System, and that the careful study of petitions is one of the fundamental responsibilities of the Trusteeship Council,

Considering that it is essential, in the interest of the inhabitants of Trust Territories, to continue to improve in every possible way the procedure for the examination of petitions,

Considering further that anonymous petitions should not be regarded as inadmissible only on the grounds of their anonymity, and that an appropriate procedure be established for dealing with such petitions,

Recommends that the Trusteeship Council accordingly consider the possibility of :

(a) Constituting the Ad Hoc Committee on Petitions as a standing committee to meet, if necessary, between sessions of the Council;

Requests the Secretary-General :

(a) To prepare a list, classified by subjects, of such resolutions, including in each case the text of the operative part of the document;

(b) To report to the sixth session of the General Assembly on the measures taken by the Administering Authorities to implement such resolutions, using as a source the reports of the Trusteeship Council;

Considering that the promotion of educational advancement of the inhabitants of Trust Territories is essential for their progressive development as early as possible towards self-government or independence,

Considering that the establishment, in so far as is practicable, of comprehensive and long-range plans to achieve such educational development is desirable,

1. Recommends the Trusteeship Council :

(a) To study the prevailing policies, laws and practices which in the Trust Territories relate to land, land utilization and the alienation of land, taking into account the present and future needs of the indigenous inhabitants from the standpoint of the basic objectives of the International Trusteeship System, as set forth in Article 76 of the Charter, and the future economic requirements of the said Territories, as well as the social and economic consequences of the transfer of land to non-indigenous inhabitants;

(b) To make such recommendations to the Administering Authorities concerning the prevailing policies, laws and practices referred to above as may be conducive to the economic and social development of the indigenous inhabitants of the said Territories and as the Council may see fit to make in the light of the study undertaken in pursuance of sub-paragraph (a) above;

2. Requests the Trusteeship Council to report to the next regular session of the General Assembly on the work done in this connexion.

New York, 30 October 1950

The question of the appointment of the Secretary-General of the United Nations has been included in the agenda of the plenary meeting of the fifth session of the General Assembly to be held on 31 October 1950.

According to Article 97 of the Charter of the United Nations, and the conditions governing the appointment of the Secretary-General of the United Nations adopted at the first session of the General Assembly on 24 January 1946¹, the Secretary-General is appointed by the General Assembly on the recommendation of the Security Council.

From the letters addressed to you by the President of the Security Council on 12 October 1950 and 25 October 1950, it appears that the Security Council has not presented its recommendation to the General Assembly regarding the appointment of the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

In view of the above, the discussion in plenary meeting of the General Assembly of the question of the appointment of the Secretary-General, in the absence of any recommendation of the Security Council, is illegal and contrary to the Charter.

The delegation of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics protests against the inclusion of this question in the agenda of the plenary meeting of the Assembly, and requests the deletion of the above-mentioned question from the agenda of the meeting of the General Assembly to be held on 31 October.

San Salvador, 10 August 1950 with the provisions of rule 20 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly, a memorandum in explanation of the request submitted by the Government of El Salvador.

With reference to your cablegram of 7 August replying to the request from this office cabled on 28 July last for the inclusion of the item " Admission of new Members " in the provisional agenda of the fifth session of the General Assembly of the United Nations, I have the honour to forward to you herewith, in accordance

Minister for External Relations, El Salvador.

MEMORANDUM

San Salvador, 8 August 1950

On 28 July last, the Ministry for External Relations of El Salvador sent a cablegram to the Secretary-General of the United Nations requesting the inclusion, in accordance with rule 14 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly, of the item " Admission of new Members " in the provisional agenda of the fifth session of the General Assembly.

The Government of El Salvador considers that, in view of the high functions performed by the United Nations, particularly in respect of the maintenance of peace, it is of the greatest importance that admission to membership should be granted to all those States which, in addition to satisfying the requirements of Article 4 of the Charter, have repeatedly manifested their ardent desire to co-operate with the free nations in the great task of bringing the peoples of the world together and banishing forever the tragic shadow of a third world war, under the threat of which humanity has constantly been living.

In requesting the inclusion of this item in the provisional agenda of the fifth session of the General Assembly, which is to open on 19 September next, El Salvador entertains the firm determination to request the admission to the United Nations of certain sister nations, such as Italy, Portugal and Ireland, three peace-loving countries whose admission, if recommended by the Security Council and approved by the General Assembly, would be a legitimate triumph for the cause of the United Nations, particularly in these tragic times when fate is once more scourging humanity on the terrible battlefields of Korea.

The delegation of El Salvador will submit the appropriate draft resolution in due course at the fifth session of the General Assembly, and in the meantime communicates this memorandum in accordance with rule 20 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly.

The General Assembly,
Considering

¶ 1. That on 13 September 1949¹ nine members of the Security Council supported the applications of

3. That in the judgment of the General Assembly, according to its resolutions (296 (IV)) of 22 November 1949, the States enumerated above are peace-loving within the meaning of Article 4 of the Charter and are able and willing to carry out the obligations of membership of the United Nations, and are thus entitled to be admitted as Members,

Sweden : draft resolution

[5 December 1950]

The General Assembly,

Recognizing the unique spiritual and religious interests of the world community in the Holy Land,

Desiring to preserve the peace of Jerusalem,

Considering its resolutions 181 (II) of 24 November 1947, 194 (III) of 11 December 1948 and 303 (IV) of 9 December 1949,

Having regard to the special report of the Trusteeship Council regarding the question of an international regime for the Jerusalem area and protection of the Holy Places (document A/1286),

Considering that it has so far not been possible to carry into effect the resolutions of the General Assembly with regard to Jerusalem and the Holy Places,

Considering that any further delay in ensuring international protection of the spiritual and religious interests of the world community in the Holy Land is undesirable and that therefore, awaiting the taking of final measures, it is appropriate to take such measures as will henceforward ensure the respect of those interests;

Determining that for the purpose of this resolution :
“ Holy Land ” means the former mandated Territory of Palestine;

“ Holy Places ” means those Holy Places and religious buildings or sites which were regarded in Palestine on 14 May 1948 as Holy Places;

“ Free Access ” means those rights of access and visit to which individuals and religious denominations were entitled on 14 May 1948, together with facilities of transit to and from Holy Places, whether these Holy Places are situated within or outside the territory of the State granting facilities, subject always to the requirements of public health, public security and decorum;

“ Existing rights, immunities and privileges ” means such rights, immunities and privileges as existed on 14 May 1948;

“ Jerusalem area ” means the city of Jerusalem as defined in section B of part III of the plan set out in resolution 181 (II) of the General Assembly adopted 29 November 1947;

"Commissioner" means the United Nations Commissioner appointed under article VI of section B of the present resolution;

Resolves

A. To invite the governments of the States in the Holy Land to pledge themselves before the United Nations to :

(b) Refrain from any act that would endanger the Holy Places in their territories;

(c) Guarantee to nationals of their States, as well as aliens, without distinction as to nationality, free access to Holy Places in their territories;

(d) Observe and maintain all the existing rights, immunities and privileges as provided in article II of section B of this resolution;

(e) Levy no tax in respect of any Holy Places which were exempt from such taxation on 14 May 1948, and make no change in the incidence of any form of taxation which would either discriminate between the owners and occupiers of different Holy Places or would place such owners and occupiers in a position less favourable in relation to the general incidence of that form of taxation than existed on 14 May 1948;

(f) Maintain and respect the property rights of religious bodies;

(g) Reduce their armed forces in the Jerusalem area in progressive stages with a view to their limitation to normal peacetime requirements as provided in article VIII of section B of this resolution;

(h) Carry out in good faith the obligations and provisions laid down in section B of this resolution, and co-operate fully with the Commissioner in the task imposed on him by this resolution.

B. Lay down, in order to ensure the protection of and free access to the Holy Places and the maintenance of existing rights, immunities and privileges of religious denominations, the following articles :

ARTICLE I

The Holy Places throughout the Holy Land shall be preserved and no act shall be permitted which may in any way impair their sacred character.

ARTICLE II

Rights, immunities and privileges of religious denominations with respect to Holy Places, as well as the rights, immunities and privileges of religious bodies with respect to monasteries and missionary, educational and welfare establishments now maintained by them, shall be preserved as they existed on 14 May 1948.

ARTICLE III

1. The supervision of the protection of and free access to the Holy Places and the maintenance of the rights, immunities and privileges referred to in article II, shall be the responsibility of the United Nations.

2. The Commissioner appointed pursuant to article VI shall exercise this supervision on behalf of the United Nations and shall make arrangements with the governments concerned regarding the implementation of the provisions of this resolution.

3. For the Jerusalem area such arrangements shall be subject in particular to the provisions of articles VIII, IX, X, XI and XII. The Commissioner shall negotiate and conclude agreements with the governments concerned in order to ensure that the appropriate provisions of this resolution are carried into effect also in the Holy Land outside the Jerusalem area. He shall report the results of his negotiations to the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

ARTICLE IV

1. The Commissioner shall draw up an authoritative list of Holy Places which were regarded as such on 14 May 1948. If any question arises as to whether any place, building or site was regarded as a Holy Place on 14 May 1948, the Commissioner shall decide;

In the event of the Commissioner and the government concerned failing to reach agreement, the matter shall be referred to the arbitral tribunal as provided in article XV.

Assembly consisting of the eleven members of the Security Council. This Committee shall decide by a majority of the members present and voting. He shall report annually to the General Assembly and may also make special reports to the appropriate United Nations organs whenever he deems necessary. His headquarters shall be the former Government House in Jerusalem.

2. There shall be appointed in the same manner a Deputy Commissioner who shall be subject to the same terms of office, and shall be responsible to the Commissioner. The Deputy Commissioner shall assist the Commissioner and shall replace him in the event of his absence or disability.

3. The Commissioner and the Deputy Commissioner shall not be selected from among nationals of the State of Israel or of an Arab State or from among residents of the Jerusalem area.

4. The Commissioner shall be authorized to appoint and employ under temporary contracts the auxiliary administrative personnel necessary for the carrying out of his functions.

ARTICLE VII

The functions of the Commissioner shall be to exercise the powers conferred upon him by this resolution and to ensure its implementation.

ARTICLE VIII

1. The governments of the States administering the Jerusalem area shall gradually reduce their armed forces in that area in conformity with article VII of the General Armistice Agreement between the Hashimite Kingdom of the Jordan and Israel of 3 April 1949,¹ and shall limit them, not later than three months after the coming into effect of a peace settlement between the States administering the Jerusalem area, to normal peacetime requirements;

2. Should the Commissioner be of the opinion that the forces maintained by either party under paragraph 1 are above normal peacetime requirements, he shall make representations accordingly to the government concerned;

3. In the event of the Commissioner and the governments concerned failing to reach agreement in the matter, it shall be referred to the Security Council.

ARTICLE IX

The jurisdiction and control of each part of the Jerusalem area shall be exercised by the States concerned, subject to the powers of the Commissioner with regard to this area and without prejudice to the rights and claims of either party in the ultimate peaceful settlement for the area.

ARTICLE X

1. The Commissioner shall be empowered :

(a) To request the governments in the Jerusalem area to modify, defer or suspend such laws, ordinances, regulations and administrative acts pertaining to the area, which in his opinion impair the protection of and free access to Holy Places or the rights, immunities and privileges referred to in article II;

(b) To request the governments to take such action or to make such orders or regulations for the maintenance of public security and safety as he deems necessary to ensure the protection of and free access to Holy Places or the safeguarding of the rights, immunities and privileges concerned.

2. The governments shall carry into effect without delay any such action which the Commissioner, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 1 of this article, deems necessary, for the protection of and free access to Holy Places and the safeguarding of the rights, immunities and privileges concerned.

3. If a government objects to a request made by the Commissioner under this article, the matter shall be referred for a final decision to the arbitral tribunal provided in article XV. The tribunal shall decide not later than one month from the submission of a dispute. Without prejudice to the final decision of the tribunal, provisional effect shall be given by the government concerned to the action requested by the Commissioner.

4. The Commissioner shall immediately inform the Secretary-General of the United Nations of any objection of a government to a request made by him under this article.

ARTICLE XI

The Commissioner shall be empowered to employ under temporary contracts a limited number of guards for the performance of his functions in the Jerusalem area as well as to assure his own security and that of his staff. These guards shall not be selected from among nationals of the State of Israel or of an Arab State. The salaries, allowances and administrative expenses of the Commissioner, Deputy Commissioner, and the staff of the Commissioner, including guards and administrative personnel, shall be included in the annual budget of the United Nations. If in the opinion of the Commissioner the repair is not carried out or is not completed within a reasonable time, he may arrange for repairs to be carried out or completed. The expenses incurred shall be borne by the religious denominations or bodies concerned. The Commissioner shall decide, after due investigation on the basis of existing rights, which denominations or bodies are responsible for the repair.

ARTICLE XIV

The Commissioner shall appoint a panel of advisers consisting of representatives of the religious denominations and of the governments in the Holy Land. These advisers shall be nominated by the religious denominations and governments concerned. If a disagreement arises in connexion with the provisions of this resolution, the Commissioner shall consult advisers from the panel representing such religious denominations or religious bodies and governments as are concerned with the dispute. No representative of any religious denomination shall be consulted on questions relating to a Holy Place belonging wholly to another religious faith.

ARTICLE XV

1. Any dispute between the Commissioner and one of the governments of the States in the Holy Land concerning the interpretation or implementation of this resolution or of any supplementary agreements or arrangements, which is not settled by negotiation, shall be referred for final decision to an ad hoc tribunal of arbitrators, one to be nominated, as the case may be, either by the Hashimite Kingdom of the Jordan or by the State of Israel, and one to be nominated by the Secretary-General of the United Nations. In the event of two arbitrators being unable within seven days to agree on the choice of an umpire, the latter shall be nominated by the President of the International Court of Justice.

2. In case of a dispute between the Commissioner and both governments concerned, two arbitrators will be nominated by the respective governments concerned and two by the Secretary-General. In the event of their inability within seven days to agree on the choice of the fifth arbitrator, the latter shall be nominated by the President of the International Court of Justice.

3. The decisions of the arbitral tribunal shall be binding on the governments concerned.

ARTICLE XVI

Nothing in this resolution shall apply to purely Moslem Holy Places, religious buildings or sites and Moslem religious interests within territory controlled by the Hashimite Kingdom of the Jordan, or to purely Jewish Holy Places, religious buildings or sites and Jewish religious interests within territory controlled by the State of Israel.

ARTICLE XVII

The terms of this resolution can be reviewed only by the General Assembly.

Financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee (A/1724) : report of the Secretary-General

[13 December 1950]

1. At its 81st meeting held on 13 December 1950, the Ad Hoc Political Committee recommended that the General Assembly approve a draft resolution submitted by Belgium (A/AC.38/L.71), as amended by Lebanon, concerning the question of an international regime for the Jerusalem area and protection of the Holy Places.

2. The draft resolution provides for the appointment by the Trusteeship Council of four persons to study, in consultation with the governments at present in de facto control of the Holy Places and with the other States, authorities and religious bodies concerned, the conditions of a settlement capable of ensuring the effective protection, under the supervision of the United Nations, of the Holy Places and of spiritual and religious interests in the Holy Land; invites those persons to report to the General Assembly at its sixth session; and invites the Secretary-General to place at the disposal of these persons the staff and facilities necessary for the fulfilment of their task.

3. In the preparation of the financial implications of the above-mentioned resolution, it has been assumed :

(a) That the four persons to be appointed by the Trusteeship Council will be entitled only to a subsistence allowance at the approved rate of $20 ($25 while in New York);

(b) That they will spend approximately one month at the United Nations Headquarters and six months in Palestine for consultation with the governments concerned and religious authorities and bodies, and for completion of their report;

(c) That they will be provided, at no extra cost, with all necessary administrative staff and facilities, both at Headquarters and at the seat of the United Nations Conciliation Commission in Jerusalem.

4. On the above basis, the funds required to carry out the terms of this resolution would be as follows :

	US dollars
Travel and subsistence	24,600
Miscellaneous expenses	1,000
Contractual printing	5,000
	30,600

5. Under travel and subsistence, provision is made for four round-trips between Headquarters and Jerusalem, and for travel between Headquarters and places of residence ($7,200); and for subsistence allowances for six months at $20 per day and one month at $25 per day ($17,400).

6. The sum of $5,000 is provided for the printing of the report to the General Assembly in five languages.

7. The Secretary-General requests that a sum of $25,600 be appropriated as an addition to the estimate for section 5, chapter V, of the 1951 budget, and a sum of $5,000 for contractual printing in section 25, chapter V.

Report of the Ad Hoc Political Committee

[14 December 1950]

1. By a resolution adopted on 14 June 1950, the Trusteeship Council submitted to the General Assembly a special report (A/1286)² on the question of an international regime for the Jerusalem area and protection of the Holy Places, together with a Statute for the City of Jerusalem drawn up in accordance with General Assembly resolution 303 (IV) of 9 December 1949.
2. The General Assembly, at its 284th and 285th meetings on 26 September 1950, decided to include the item "Palestine" as item 20 in the agenda of the fifth session and, under sub-item (a) thereof, to refer to the Ad Hoc Political Committee for consideration the special report of the Trusteeship Council.
3. The Ad Hoc Political Committee considered sub-item 20 (a) at its 73rd to 81st meetings, inclusive. The representative of the Hashimite Kingdom of the Jordan participated in the debate pursuant to a previous decision of the Committee.
4. At the 73rd meeting on 7 December 1950 the Committee heard a statement (A/AC.38/L.69) by the representative of the Dominican Republic in his capacity as President of the Trusteeship Council.
5. At the same meeting, a draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.63) was submitted by Sweden. Section A, consisting of eight paragraphs, invited the Governments of Israel and the Hashimite Kingdom of the Jordan to give pledges to observe the principles of article 18 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights; to give free access to the Holy Places, maintaining existing privileges in that respect; to abstain from measures of taxation detrimental to the Holy Places; to respect the property rights of religious bodies; to reduce armed forces in Jerusalem; and to co-operate with a Commissioner appointed by the United Nations. Section B, consisting of seventeen articles, provided for United Nations supervision of the protection of and free access to the Holy Places, to be exercised through a Commissioner to be appointed for three years by a Committee of the General Assembly, to which he would be responsible and report annually. The jurisdiction and control of each part of the Jerusalem area was to be exercised by the States concerned, subject to specified powers granted to the Commissioner as regards the supervision of the protection of and free access to the Holy Places.
6. At the 78th meeting of the Committee on 12 December 1950, Belgium submitted a draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.71), operative paragraph 1 of which instructed four persons, to be appointed by the Trusteeship Council, to study, in consultation with the Governments exercising de facto control over the Holy Places and with the other States, authorities and religious bodies concerned, the conditions of a settlement capable of ensuring the effective protection, under the supervision of the United Nations, of the Holy Places and of spiritual and religious interests in the Holy Land. Paragraph 2 invited the four persons to report to the General Assembly at its sixth session. Paragraph 3 requested the States concerned to co-operate fully in giving effect to the resolution, and paragraph 4 invited the Secretary-General to place staff and facilities at the disposal of the persons concerned.
7. At the 79th meeting, an amendment (A/AC.38/L.73/Rev.2) to the Swedish draft resolution was submitted jointly by the United Kingdom, the United States of America and Uruguay, and was accepted at the 80th meeting by the representative of Sweden. The proposed amendment substituted for the sixth paragraph of the preamble the words "Pending further decisions by the United Nations with respect to the interests of the international community in the Jerusalem area." The amendments to the operative part left section A, which became paragraph 1, unchanged except for drafting modifications consequent on the substitution for the entire section B of three paragraphs, numbered 2, 3 and 4. Paragraph 2 provided for a United Nations representative to represent the interests of the United Nations in the Holy City in implementation of paragraph 1 and to report to the General Assembly with such recommendations as he might consider appropriate with regard to the Jerusalem question. He was to be appointed on the nomination of the Secretary-General by a General Assembly Committee composed of the eleven States that are members of the Security Council. Paragraph 2 called upon the governments of the States in the Holy Land to co-operate fully with the United Nations representative. Paragraph 4 requested the Secretary-General to furnish the necessary staff and facilities to the United Nations representative. An oral suggestion by the representative of the Netherlands at the 81st meeting was accepted by the sponsors, for inclusion in paragraph 2, to the effect that the United Nations representative should report to the sixth session of the General Assembly.
8. At the 80th meeting on 13 December 1950, China submitted amendments (A/AC.38/L.74) to the Belgian draft resolution. These would have substituted in paragraph 1, for the words "Instructs four persons to be appointed by the Trusteeship Council" the following: "Decides to establish a Commission of four persons to be appointed by the General Assembly"; and would have made consequent changes in paragraphs 2 and 4. It was also proposed to insert after the word "report" in paragraph 2, the words "with recommendations if possible." These amendments were not accepted by the representative of Belgium and were later withdrawn by the mover.

9. At the same meeting, Lebanon submitted the following amendments (A/AC.38/L.76) to the Belgian draft resolution : (1) to insert after the first paragraph of the preamble a new paragraph as follows : “ Recalling its resolutions 181 (II) of 29 November 1947, 194 (III) of 11 December 1948 and 303 (IV) of 9 December 1949 ”; (2) to delete from the third paragraph of the preamble the words following “ which it had prepared ”; (3) to insert a new paragraph in the operative part to precede paragraph 1, as follows: “ 1. Decides that new efforts should be made with a view to a satisfactory settlement of the question within the framework of the principles previously adopted by the General Assembly ”; (4) replace the words “ of the Holy Places ” in paragraph 1 by the words “ over the Jerusalem area ”, and delete the matter following the word “ settlement ”. The first of these amendments was accepted by the representative of Belgium at the 81st meeting, and the remainder were withdrawn by the mover.

10. At the 81st meeting on 13 December 1950, after the Committee, on the motion of the representative of Chile, had decided, by 30 votes to 18, with 10 abstentions, to vote first on the Belgian draft resolution, the latter was adopted by a roll-call vote of 30 to 18, with 11 abstentions, as follows :

In favour : Afghanistan, Argentina, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Burma, Chile, China, Colombia, Cuba, Ecuador, Egypt, El Salvador, Ethiopia, France, Greece, Haiti, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, Luxembourg, Pakistan, Paraguay, Peru, Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Venezuela, Yemen.

Against : Australia, Denmark, Guatemala, Honduras, Iceland, Israel, Liberia, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Sweden, Thailand, Turkey, Union of South Africa, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, United States of America, Uruguay, Yugoslavia.

Abstaining : Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Dominican Republic, India, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Poland, Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

On the motion of the representative of Lebanon, the Committee decided, by 25 votes to 18, with 12 abstentions, not to vote on the Swedish draft resolution as amended.

11. The Ad Hoc Political Committee accordingly recommends that the General Assembly adopt the following draft resolution :

PALESTINE : QUESTION OF AN INTERNATIONAL REGIME FOR THE JERUSALEM AREA AND PROTECTION OF THE HOLY PLACES

The General Assembly,

Considering that the world community has unique spiritual and religious interests in the Holy Land,

Recalling its resolution 181 (II) of 29 November 1947, 194 (III) of 11 December 1948 and 303 (IV) of 9 December 1949,³

Noting the special report of the Trusteeship Council on the question of an international regime for the Jerusalem area and the protection of the Holy Places,

Considering that, for lack of the necessary co-operation by the States concerned, the Trusteeship Council has been unable to give effect to the Statute which it had prepared; that a reconsideration of the question of the international protection of the Holy Places and of spiritual and religious interests in the Holy Land is therefore essential; and that new efforts must be made to settle the question in accordance with the principles already adopted by the General Assembly,

1. Instructs four persons, to be appointed by the Trusteeship Council, to study, in consultation with the governments at present in de facto control of the Holy Places and with the other States, authorities and religious bodies concerned, the conditions of a settlement capable of ensuring the effective protection, under the supervision of the United Nations, of the Holy Places and of spiritual and religious interests in the Holy Land;

2. Invites them to report to the General Assembly at its sixth session;

3. Requests the States concerned to co-operate fully in giving effect to the present resolution;

4. Invites the Secretary-General to place at the disposal of these persons the staff and facilities necessary for the fulfilment of their task.

³ With the exception of this paragraph, the Belgian draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.71), is identical to the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee.

In accordance with rule 152 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly, the Fifth Committee at its 283rd meeting held on 14 December 1950 considered the financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee concerning the question of an international regime for the Jerusalem area and protection of the Holy Places. The Committee by 30 votes to one, with 6 abstentions, approved the estimate of $30,600 submitted by the Secretary-General⁴ and concurred in by the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions. It therefore decided to inform the General Assembly that adoption of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee would require additional budgetary provision in 1951 amounting to $25,600 under section 5 and $5,000 (for contractual printing) under section 25 of chapter V.

Fifth progress report of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine for the period 16 September to 9 December 1949, inclusive

Note by the Secretary-General

The Secretary-General has the honour to communicate to the Members of the United Nations, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 13 of General Assembly resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948, the fifth progress report of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine.

A. GENERAL

1. In its last progress report to the Secretary-General, covering the period from 9 June to 15 September 1949,⁵ the Conciliation Commission reported that, in order to give the interested governments sufficient time to reconsider their positions on the territorial and refugee questions, it had decided to suspend its meetings for a short period and reconvene in New York.

2. On 19 October, the Commission reconvened in New York with Mr. Ely Eliot Palmer replacing Mr. Paul Porter as representative of the United States of America. It has since held several meetings at its offices in the Empire State Building with the delegations of the Arab States and with the delegation of Israel, during which various problems were examined.

B. JERUSALEM AND THE HOLY PLACES

3. As stated in its fourth progress report,⁵ the Commission, on 1 September 1949, approved a draft text of an Instrument establishing a permanent international regime for the Jerusalem area, and transmitted it to the Secretary-General for communication to the General Assembly,⁶ in accordance with paragraph 8 of the resolution of 11 December 1948. During its recess and following the resumption of its meetings in New York on 19 October, the Commission became aware that publication of the draft text had given rise to certain misconceptions and misrepresentations, based apparently on a fundamental misunderstanding of the letter and spirit of the plan. The Commission accordingly decided to circulate, as an addendum to its draft Instrument, a statement setting forth certain clarifications of its plan.⁷

4. On 24 November, the Commission was invited to appear before the Ad Hoc Political Committee of the General Assembly, to which the question of Jerusalem had been referred. On this occasion the Chairman of the Commission made an introductory statement, at the 43rd meeting of the Committee, explaining the principles which had guided the Commission in drawing up its draft Instrument for the internationalization of the Jerusalem area and elucidating the internal structure of the Instrument itself (appendix).

5. During its meetings in Lausanne, the Commission, in conformity with paragraph 7 of General Assembly resolution 194 (III), had communicated to the delegations a proposed declaration to be made by the governments concerned with respect to the Holy Places, religious buildings and sites in Palestine outside the Jerusalem area. On 8 and 15 November 1949, the Israel and Arab delegations respectively communicated to the Commission their governments' position with regard to the required guarantees for the protection of and free access to the Holy Places outside the Jerusalem area. The Commission has transmitted these replies, together with its own draft declaration, to the Secretary-General for communication to the members of the General Assembly.⁸

C. THE REFUGEE QUESTION

6. As indicated in its previous report, the Commission had informed the Arab and Israel delegations on 12 September 1949 that it did not consider it useful at that moment to formulate more detailed suggestions with regard to the refugee question, notably concerning the number of persons who should return to Israel and the number who should be resettled in the Arab States, in view of the fact that the refugee question in general was under examination by the Economic Survey Mission created by the Commission for this purpose.

7. On 16 November, the interim report of the Economic Survey Mission, having been received by the Commission, was transmitted to the Secretary-General for communication to the Members of the General Assembly.⁹ In transmitting this document, the Commission indicated in a covering letter its opinion that the report constituted a constructive approach to the Palestine refugee problem, meriting urgent consideration by the General Assembly. The Commission further pointed out that the Assembly might wish to obtain additional information concerning certain of the findings and recommendations contained in the report and, in this connexion, drew attention to arrangements made by the Secretary-General with the organizations administering relief to Palestine refugees.

8. Paragraph 1 of General Assembly resolution 194 (III) gave to the Conciliation Commission the specific mission of facilitating the repatriation, resettlement and economic and social rehabilitation of the refugees and the payment of compensation. In accordance with this disposition, the Commission included in the terms of reference given by it to the Economic Survey Mission the question of compensation to be paid to refugees not wishing to return to their homes. The Commission has decided to resume consideration of this question upon the resumption of its work in January 1950, taking as a basis studies made by the Economic Survey Mission.

9. As regards those preliminary measures for the protection of the rights, property and interests of the refugees in the implementation of which the Commission had instructed its Principal Secretary to assist in during the recess, the results thus far achieved have been as follows :

(a) In connexion with the reunion of separated refugee families, Lebanon, Egypt and Jordan have appointed representatives to discuss and carry out, in collaboration with the competent Israel authorities, the actual plan for the return of these refugees. Syria has indicated its readiness to appoint representatives as soon as possible.

(b) With regard to blocked Arab accounts, the conversations of the experts of the two sides with the Commission's economic expert, for the purpose of arriving at a mutually acceptable method of unfreezing these accounts, are continuing in a favourable atmosphere.

(c) In connexion with the arrangements to enable Arabs living in territory under Arab control close to the Armistice demarcation line to cultivate their lands which lie within territory under Israel control, both the Israel and Jordanian authorities have agreed to discuss the matter in the Special Committee set up by the Armistice Agreement.

D. THE TERRITORIAL QUESTION

10. The Commission had pointed out to the various delegations in Lausanne on 12 September that, in its opinion and taking into consideration the terms of the Protocol of 12 May 1949,¹⁰ their proposals concerning the territorial question exceeded the limits of what might be considered " adjustments " of the map attached to that Protocol. The Commission had, therefore, felt obliged to request the various governments to re-examine their positions. The Commission had indicated that it considered it premature at that time for it to make specific proposals concerning the modifications to be made to the positions adopted by the two sides. It nevertheless reserved the right to do so in the future and avail itself of the authority conferred upon it by the General Assembly, in so far as it considered necessary.

11. Upon the resumption of meetings in New York, the Arab delegations informed the Commission that they still adhered to the terms of the Protocol of 12 May and saw no reason to deviate from the proposals they had already presented; this stand of the Arab delegations was to be considered as final and it was for the Commission itself to take the initiative of stating in what way it considered the Arab territorial demands excessive. At the same time, the Arab delegations expressed the opinion that the method thus far followed by the Commission, of simply transmitting the proposals of the one side to the other, had resulted in little of practical value, and strongly urged the Commission to present its own suggestions or proposals. They added that they had confidence in the Conciliation Commission's ability to undertake this task, and were not prepared to enter into direct negotiations with the representatives of Israel.

12. The delegation of Israel submitted to the Commission on 27 October a letter containing its government's reply to the Commission's note of 12 September. In this letter, the Israel delegation maintained in their entirety the proposals already submitted to the Commission in Lausanne with regard to the territorial question. Further, the delegation reaffirmed its desire to open direct peace negotiations with each of the interested parties. In the opinion of the delegation, the refusal of the Arab States to meet the representatives of Israel around a conference table, under the auspices of the Commission, rendered the continuation of the Commission's efforts at conciliation " fruitless " and might even render them " harmful ". Finally, the delegation of Israel felt that the procedure by which the Commission would itself formulate specific proposals would call in question " the whole method of conciliation hitherto followed, and the terms of reference of the Commission itself ".

13. The Commission replied, on 10 November 1949, to the letter of the Israel delegation. As regards the observations made by the Israel delegation concerning the Commission's methods of work, the Commission pointed out that it had always been and continued to be in favour of direct negotiations between the representatives of the Arab States and of the State of Israel, but that it was necessary to take into consideration the terms of General Assembly resolution 194 (III), by which the governments and authorities concerned were to seek agreement by negotiation, either directly or through the Conciliation Commission, and that the Arab representatives persisted in their desire to continue negotiations through the Commission. Moreover, the Commission pointed out that its power to submit concrete proposals to the parties arose not only from the very nature of its task of conciliation, but from the specific terms of sub-paragraph 2 (a) of the General Assembly resolution.

14. In a letter dated 30 November 1949, referring to the Commission's letter of 12 September and the Israel delegation's reply of 19 October, the permanent representative of Israel to the United Nations stated that his government believed that, since the whole future of the Conciliation Commission would now appear to be under discussion in the General Assembly, it would be preferable to await the outcome of that discussion before embarking upon any long-term planning of the conciliation effort in the future. With reference to the proposal that the Conciliation Commission should itself make specific suggestions to the parties, he pointed out that the Israel Government's views were fully set out in the letter which he had addressed to the Conciliation Commission on 27 October.

E. CONCLUSIONS

15. The Commission considers it necessary to recall in this connexion that paragraph 5 of General Assembly resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948 :

" Calls upon the governments and authorities concerned to extend the scope of the negotiations provided for in the Security Council's resolution of 16 November 1948 and to seek agreement by negotiations conducted either with Conciliation Commission or directly, with a view to the final settlement of all questions outstanding between them; "

Furthermore, the Commission considers that it has received from the General Assembly in explicit terms the powers and obligations to undertake in the present circumstances a procedure of mediation and in consequence, to submit compromise proposals to the parties concerned. Sub-paragraph 2 (a) of General Assembly resolution 194 (III) reads as follows :

" To assume, in so far as it considers necessary in existing circumstances, the functions given to the United Nations Mediator on Palestine by resolution 186 (S-2) of the General Assembly of 14 May 1948 "

Therefore the Commission hopes to undertake this task with the interested parties and thereby bring to a successful conclusion the mission entrusted to it by the General Assembly.

16. The Commission has decided to adjourn its meetings until 16 January 1950. At that date it will meet in Geneva to consider the final report from the Economic Survey Mission and continue its negotiations with the delegations of the Arab States and Israel.

APPENDIX

TEXT OF AN ADDRESS DELIVERED ON 24 NOVEMBER 1949 BY THE CHAIRMAN OF THE UNITED NATIONS CONCILIATION COMMISSION FOR PALESTINE TO THE Ad Hoc POLITICAL COMMITTEE BEFORE THE OPENING OF THE DEBATE ON JERUSALEM

In submitting its draft Instrument on Jerusalem to the General Assembly for its consideration, the Conciliation Commission has been guided by its terms of reference laid down in the Assembly resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948. As regards Jerusalem, the Commission was invited to present detailed proposals for a permanent international regime consistent with the maximum local autonomy for distinctive groups. In addition, the Commission has made every endeavour to take into account the existing political and territorial situation in Jerusalem, the viewpoints of its inhabitants, and the viewpoints of the religious communities and the political authorities most directly concerned with Jerusalem's future. Admittedly, the Commission's plan does not completely satisfy the aspirations of every group or party. The Commission does feel, however, that its plan is capable of being put into operation without seriously infringing upon the rights of any group or seriously dislocating the existing arrangements for the Holy City's government. The Commission believes, moreover, that its plan provides positive safeguards for those matters of international concern which prompted the General Assembly to adopt its resolution of 11 December 1948.

The provisions of the Commission's plan can be regarded as falling under three headings :

First, those provisions relating exclusively to the protection of and access to the Holy Places;

Secondly, those provisions which relate to much-needed assistance in restoring Jerusalem to a normal life and safeguarding its unique character; and Thirdly, those provisions which promote peace and security in the area of Jerusalem and, consequently, in the whole of Palestine.

The Commission has recently issued a statement which has been distributed to all the delegations explaining in somewhat greater detail the intents and purposes of the various provisions of the plan. If further clarifications are desired by certain delegations, my colleagues and I are, of course, at the Committee's disposal. The Commission believes that the plan it has presented is workable, effective and appropriate to the Commission's terms of reference. The Commission considers, moreover, that its task, as envisaged by General Assembly resolution 194 (III), has been fulfilled as regards Jerusalem.

It is for you here to decide, in the light of the many conflicting viewpoints and interests, whether it has found a satisfactory solution to a question the answer to which is awaited anxiously by the many thousands of the faithful of the Christian, Jewish and Moslem religions throughout the world.

Sixth progress report of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine for the period 9 December 1949 to 8 May 1950, inclusive

[Original text: English]
[29 May 1950]

Note by the Secretary-General

The Secretary-General has the honour to communicate to the Members of the United Nations, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 13 of General Assembly resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948, the sixth progress report of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine.

Part I

RESUMPTION OF MEETINGS IN GENEVA

1. Upon the resumption of its meetings with the interested parties in Geneva in January 1950, the Conciliation Commission informed the Arab and Israel delegations of its views on the extent to which resolutions 302 (IV) and 303 (IV) concerning Palestine adopted by the General Assembly on 8 and 9 December 1949 had a bearing upon the Commission's mandate.
2. In a statement made during the opening meetings of the Commission with the Arab delegations and the delegation of Israel, the Chairman (Mr. Palmer) stated that the Commission's general mandate, "to take steps to assist the governments and authorities concerned to achieve a final settlement of all questions outstanding between them", remained in full force.
3. As regards Jerusalem, the delegations were reminded that the responsibility of the Commission under General Assembly resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948 was fulfilled by the presentation to the Assembly of the Commission's proposals regarding the establishment of an international regime for Jerusalem. By resolution 303 (IV) of 9 December 1949, the General Assembly had charged the Trusteeship Council with the elaboration of an international regime for Jerusalem which would be based upon the Statute drafted by the Council itself in 1947.
4. By resolution 302 (IV) of 8 December 1949, the Assembly had created the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East to deal with the relief, resettlement and rehabilitation aspects of the refugee question, and to carry out a specific programme, as approved by this resolution, which through local works projects would provide for a considerable number of refugees a means of livelihood that would ensure their independence from direct relief.
5. The Conciliation Commission remained the organ seized with the final settlement of all questions outstanding between the parties, and specifically with the problem of the return of the refugees to their homes and the problem of compensation under the terms of paragraph 11 of resolution 194 (III), which had been reaffirmed by resolution 302 (IV). With regard to resettlement outside Israel, the Chairman recalled that the Governments of Syria and Jordan had affirmed their readiness to accept the resettlement in their territory of refugees who might not desire repatriation. With regard to the repatriation of refugees, the Government of Israel had expressed its willingness to accept within the territory now under its control an Arab population of 250,000. The Government of Israel had accepted the principle of compensation of refugees for land abandoned by them. The principle of territorial compensation to the refugees had been advanced by the Arab representatives.
6. The Chairman of the Commission recalled that on the territorial question, the respective positions of the parties were made clear to the Commission in their notes of 29 and 31 August 1949. These positions were considered by the Commission to be too far removed from each other to offer a basis for effective conciliation, and in consequence both parties were invited to revise their positions.
7. In New York, the Arab delegations had conveyed to the Commission their desire that it should undertake, in conformity with the authority conferred upon it by General Assembly resolution 194 (III) the functions of mediator. They suggested that the Commission should submit, for the consideration of the parties, proposals or suggestions of its own. The Chairman pointed out that the Commission had not yet determined how it could most helpfully undertake and effectively discharge the functions of mediator, but it hoped that, with the essential collaboration of the parties, it might succeed in working out an initially promising and ultimately fruitful method of procedure.
8. The Chairman also recalled that, as the Commission had abundantly made clear in the past, it favoured the establishment of direct contact between the parties. Such a course appeared to the Commission all the more indispensable if it were to mediate effectively between them. The Commission was ready to assist the parties in reaching agreements, whether collectively or separately, both on the larger issues and on questions of a more local character.

SPECIFIC PROPOSALS ON PROCEDURE MADE BY THE COMMISSION

9. Following the above declaration regarding the Conciliation Commission's position, a number of informal meetings were held between the Commission and the various delegations for the purpose of arriving at an agreed method of combining in a single procedure the wishes expressed by the Arab and Israel delegations for mediation and direct negotiations, respectively.

10. As a result of these conversations the Conciliation Commission proposed, on 23 February 1950, to the Egyptian and Israel delegations the formation of a mixed committee composed of an Egyptian and an Israeli member to study, under the auspices of the Commission, the following proposals concerning the Gaza refugees which had been submitted to it by the Egyptian delegation in October :

(a) That inhabitants of areas falling within the no man's land in the north of the Gaza region be allowed to return as soon as possible to their lands to cultivate them;

(b) That refugees at present in the Gaza area under Egyptian control and possessing land in the hinterland of this zone be allowed to undertake as soon as possible the cultivation of these lands;

(c) That refugees at present in the Gaza zone originating from the Beersheba area be allowed, provisionally and pending a final settlement, to establish themselves in that area.

11. On 28 February, the Israel delegation, while reaffirming its desire to discuss with the Egyptian representatives the conclusion of a peace settlement between their two countries, or any interim measures leading to such a settlement, informed the Commission that an agreement reached a short time before in the Egypt-Israel Mixed Armistice Commission represented the greatest degree of fulfilment that could be given to the Egyptian proposals. The Commission pointed out to the Israel delegation that, in the agreement concluded in the Mixed Armistice Commission on 22 February, not all the proposals submitted by the Egyptian delegation had been the subject of settlement, and reaffirmed its view that the creation of a mixed committee to study these proposals would be useful. On 23 March, the Israel delegation reaffirmed its position with regard to the settlement of the Egyptian proposals, in support of which it stated that the Egyptian representatives had made no reservations on signing the agreement of 22 February and therefore shared the Israel view that the points in question had been settled. The Israel delegation also expressed the view that matters of such a local and specific character should be dealt with in the Mixed Armistice Commission. The delegation also reiterated its desire to discuss with any Arab delegation, under the auspices of the Conciliation Commission, the question of a final peace settlement.

12. On 23 March, after numerous preliminary exchanges of views, the Egyptian delegation informed the Commission that its government would take a favourable view of the creation of a mixed committee to decide on the implementation of the Egyptian proposals only after these proposals had been explicitly and formally accepted by the other party.

13. On 29 March, the Commission, on the one hand, pointed out to the Israel delegation that the Egyptian delegation did not consider that all its proposals had been completely and satisfactorily settled. On the other hand, the Commission informed the Egyptian delegation that, in its opinion, only after an exchange of views between the parties in a mixed committee would it be possible to determine to what degree the Egyptian proposals could be put into effect. The Commission therefore advised both parties that it maintained its view that a Committee to study these proposals should be formed. (The correspondence exchanged on this subject between the Commission, on the one hand, and the Israel and Egyptian delegations, on the other, is attached as appendices I and II.)

GENERAL PROPOSALS ON PROCEDURE MADE BY THE COMMISSION

14. The attitude adopted in the course of these negotiations by the parties directly concerned led the Commission to present on 29 March 1950 to the Arab and Israel delegations, in consecutive meetings, a memorandum (appendix III) containing concrete proposals for the establishment of a new procedure leading to a positive solution of the Palestine problem. In drawing up these proposals, the Commission took as a basis the viewpoints on procedure which had been repeatedly and emphatically expressed by the Arab and Israel Governments during the recent months, namely, the Israel request for direct negotiations and the Arab request for mediation.

15. The Commission considered that these officially expressed viewpoints were not incompatible but that they should be regarded as complementary. In its memorandum to the parties it stressed the fact that it could not undertake the submission of proposals to the parties without the assurance that these proposals could be examined and discussed at meetings between the Commission itself and representatives of all the parties having an interest in the subject under discussion.

16. The Commission also stated that it would naturally reserve the right of determining which questions would form the subject of its proposals, since the Commission alone would be in a position to judge as to the advisability of submitting at any given moment proposals on a certain point. This would not prevent the parties from informing the Commission of questions on which, in their opinion, the Commission would usefully take the initiative. On the contrary, the parties would thus make a most positive contribution to the proper functioning of the new method of operation. It was obvious that the Commission would act upon any request coming jointly from one or more Arab delegations and from the delegation of Israel.

17. As regards the actual procedure, the Commission considered it preferable not to adopt rigid rules, and envisaged the formation of mixed committees under the chairmanship of a representative of the Commission and composed of representatives of the countries concerned in the particular subject under discussion. In particular cases, of course, this general formula could be modified by mutual agreement between the parties and the Commission. In principle, each committee would have precise and concrete terms of reference, consisting either of the discussion and study of questions which the Commission, in agreement with the parties, had submitted to it for preliminary examination, or of the study and discussion of a proposal drawn up by the Commission on its own initiative or at the request of one or more delegations.

18. The Commission concluded its memorandum by stating that, once the proposals had been accepted in principle, the details of their implementation could be discussed further and agreed upon with the parties.

19. On 4 April 1950, in accordance with a decision of the Commission, the Chairman (Mr. de Boisanger) accompanied by the Principal Secretary, left for the Middle East where in addition to visiting Jerusalem he called at the capitals of the four Arab States accredited to the Commission and at Tel-Aviv. These visits had the double purpose of providing the governments concerned with any supplementary explanations which might be conducive to the better understanding and final acceptance of the Commission's proposals, and of ascertaining as far as possible the reaction of the various Governments to those proposals.

20. In the course of conversations with officials in the different capitals, the Chairman emphasized the following points :

(a) The Commission had decided to submit its proposals because it was becoming increasingly concerned with the dangers of allowing the present situation to be prolonged indefinitely;

(b) The Commission fully realized the responsibility it was undertaking in making its proposals; they had been submitted to the parties, after most careful consideration, because the Commission saw no other way out of the present impasse;

(c) The Commission was prepared to pursue its work of conciliation according to the procedure outlined in its proposals of 29 March, with any government or governments willing to accept them;

(d) If the Commission's proposals were accepted in principle, the details of the procedure envisaged should be the subject of further negotiations between the Commission and the government or governments having accepted them;

(e) In the joint negotiations suggested by the Commission, both parties would be negotiating with the Commission as well : " triangular negotiations " would be a proper term to define the new procedure;

(f) The Commission was not pressing the parties for an immediate answer; it hoped that the answer from both sides would be favourable and without conditions. The Commission was convinced that there was nothing in its proposals which could not be accepted by the parties, and, in its view, the method of work now suggested would contribute most effectively to the settlement of the questions pending between them.

21. Between 5 and 13 April the Chairman had conversations with the President, the Prime Minister and the Foreign Minister of Israel. The Foreign Minister stated that he was prepared to consider the Commission's proposals, the constructive character of which he recognized.

22. The Chairman then held conversations in Amman with King Abdullah and his Ministers; in Damascus with the President of the Syrian Republic, the Acting Foreign Minister and the Acting Prime Minister; and in Beirut with the President of the Lebanese Republic and the Acting Foreign Minister. The Chairman and his party then proceeded to Cairo, where, after having met the Lebanese and Syrian Prime Ministers, he received the Arab reply to the Commission's proposals, delivered by the Foreign Minister of Egypt on 14 April.

23. Stating that he was speaking on behalf of all the Arab States, the Foreign Minister declared that, if the Commission succeeded in persuading the Government of Israel to accept the provisions of General Assembly resolution 194 (III) in connexion with the refugees, as well as their implementation, the Arab States would be prepared to accept the proposals of the Commission to the extent of having no objection to their representatives sitting jointly with the representatives of Israel for the purpose of studying the implementation of the above proposals and thus arriving at a solution of the refugee problem on the basis of the resolution of the United Nations General Assembly. As regards the other questions under study by the Commission, the Arab Governments were of the opinion that the present procedure should be maintained with one difference, namely, that the Commission, in regard to those questions, should undertake a process of mediation as well as of conciliation. Once agreement on principle had been achieved on the basis of such proposals as the Commission might submit, the Arab Governments would be prepared to envisage the formation of mixed committees with a view to studying the implementation of these proposals.

24. On 6 May, the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Israel stated in a letter replying to the Commission's memorandum of 29 March that the Government of Israel would negotiate a peace settlement with the Arab States directly—either with or without the participation of the Conciliation Commission as proposed—on the understanding that the principals in these negotiations would be the Israel and Arab delegations, while the Conciliation Commission would act as a harmonizing agent between the parties with a view to inducing a friendly atmosphere and extending its good offices to the parties with their consent. He added that the Government of Israel understood that that was the manner in which the Conciliation Commission itself regarded the functions of the new procedure outlined in its memorandum of 29 March. In its reply the Government of Israel reaffirmed categorically its willingness to negotiate with any State which announced its readiness to conclude a final settlement of all outstanding questions with a view to the establishment of permanent peace. The Government of Israel required no concessions or undertakings in advance of such negotiations, it being understood that any party having claims to make would be entitled to put them forward in the course of the negotiations.

25. The Commission is studying the replies of the parties to its memorandum of 29 March with a view to determining the next step to be taken in the implementation of the Commission's proposals.

Part II

COMPENSATION OF REFUGEES

26. The second part of paragraph 11, of resolution 194 (III) of the General Assembly of 11 December 1948 instructed the Conciliation Commission to facilitate the payment of compensation for property losses suffered by the refugees. The Commission has consulted with the interested parties on this question. The technical aspect of the problem of compensation was studied in the first place by the Technical Committee on Refugees and secondly by the United Nations Economic Survey Mission for the Middle East which submitted a certain number of specific suggestions as to the procedure to be followed. Having studied these suggestions, the Commission is considering the best method of undertaking a preliminary evaluation of refugee property involved.

BLOCKED ACCOUNTS

27. The Mixed Committee of Experts which was set up by the Commission in Lausanne limited itself at the outset to the study of a procedure to permit the unfreezing of bank accounts of Palestine refugees, blocked in Israel and estimated £P 4-5 million. The Israel representative and the representative of the Arab States had both accepted the principle of unfreezing, on a basis of equal and reciprocal compensation, assets blocked both by Israel and by the Arab States. It became apparent, however, that this procedure would not permit the proposed unfreezing to be effected, the Arab expert having pointed out that only one Arab State had taken steps to freeze the assets of persons resident in Israel and that the total amount of those blocked assets was insufficient to enable an operation based on reciprocity to be carried out. In view of this situation, the Mixed Committee of Experts, at its meeting of 15 February 1950, in Geneva, approved a new procedure by which, pending final settlement, any Arab refugee holding a bank account at present blocked in Israel could receive from the Arab banks an advance of up to £P 100 on the amount of his account. The sum of these advances would be made available by the Government of Israel to a trustee by the unfreezing of an equal amount of Palestine pounds for the purpose of reimbursing the banks making the advances. Financial negotiations are at present being conducted with the governments and the banks concerned with a view to the implementation of this procedure.

REUNION OF SEPARATED REFUGEE FAMILIES

28. The reunion of separated refugee families is being carried out, with the assistance of the Mixed Armistice Commissions, under an agreement reached last summer between Israel and the Arab States under the auspices of the Commission's General Committee in Lausanne, according to which certain persons dependent on Arab breadwinners resident in Israel were entitled to rejoin them. Under the agreement, the Israel authorities transmit to the Arab States lists of those applications from Arab breadwinners in Israel for the return of their relatives which have been approved as falling within the framework of the agreement. In December and January, a total of some 800 dependents from Lebanon and Jordan rejoined their families in Israel. The number of refugees in Lebanon thus far authorized to return by the Israel authorities amounts to 921. Of these, 523 have actually rejoined their families. The number of refugees in Jordan authorized to return up to now amounts to about 500, of whom some 300 have crossed into Israel. Negotiations have taken place in Jerusalem between Israel and Jordanian authorities for the widening of the formula governing the return of Arab dependents to Israel. Though no crossings have yet taken place from Syria, the competent Syrian authorities are discussing the details of the repatriation plan with representatives of Israel. On 14 February, the first group of refugees in Egypt, consisting of 115 persons from the Gaza area, crossed into Israel. The whole operation has taken place under the supervision of the various Mixed Armistice Commissions.

CONSULTATIONS WITH THE UNITED NATIONS RELIEF AND WORKS AGENCY FOR PALESTINE REFUGEES IN THE NEAR EAST

29. In accordance with General Assembly resolution 302 (IV) of 8 December 1949, which directs the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East to consult with the Conciliation Commission in the best interests of their respective tasks, two meetings between these two bodies were held in Geneva on 17 and 19 April. During these meetings the desirability of establishing close liaison between the two bodies was recognized and measures were taken for the regular exchange of information through the intermediary of a liaison officer.

APPENDIX I

EXCHANGE OF CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE COMMISSION AND THE DELEGATION OF ISRAEL CONCERNING THE FORMATION OF A MIXED COMMITTEE TO STUDY CERTAIN QUESTIONS RELATING TO THE GAZA REFUGEES

1. Letter dated 23 February 1950 to Mr. Aubrey Eban from the Chairman of the Commission

In connexion with our conversation this morning, I am sending you herewith the text of the terms of reference which the Commission envisages for the joint committee:

The joint committee on problems relating to the Gaza area shall consider the three following proposals submitted to the Conciliation Commission by the Egyptian delegation on 24 October 1949 :

(1) That inhabitants of areas falling within the no man's land in the north of the Gaza region be allowed to return as soon as possible to their lands to cultivate them;

(2) That refugees at present in the Gaza area under Egyptian control and possessing land in the hinterland of this zone be allowed to undertake as soon as possible the cultivation of these lands;

(3) That refugees at present in the Gaza zone originating from the Beersheba area be allowed, provisionally and pending a final settlement, to establish themselves in that area.

2. Letter dated 28 February 1950 to the Chairman of the Commission from Mr. Gideon Rafael

I have the honour to reply as follows to your letter of 23 February 1950. I apologize for the delay, which resulted from the need to consult my Government and to ascertain the situation with respect to the three questions suggested for discussions by the proposed mixed committee.

I wish to reaffirm my delegation's willingness to discuss with Egyptian representatives the conclusion of a peace settlement between our countries or any interim measure leading to such a settlement. The Israel Government will look with sympathy upon any procedure designed to lead effectively to such discussions.

With reference to the items suggested in your letter as the agenda for a mixed committee, I am informed that these subjects have recently been discussed between the Israel and Egyptian delegations to the Mixed Armistice Commission. You will be gratified to learn that a settlement was reached on 22 February 1950 and duly signed on behalf of both Governments. The main points of this agreement are :

(1) The neutral zone is divided between Egypt and Israel.

(2) The original inhabitants of the Egyptian section of the neutral zone are entitled to resume residence and civilian occupation of that area.

(3) The inhabitants of the villages Abasan and Akhzah, which were cut by the armistice demarcation line, are now to be allowed to cultivate their lands in Israel territory, wherein a special zone is created for that purpose.

It appears that the modus vivendi described above represents the greatest degree of fulfilment that can be given to the Egyptian requests referred to in your letter. The Egyptian signature appears to us to confirm this view. In these circumstances it would appear that the propositions formulated by the Egyptian delegation in October 1949 have been satisfactorily discussed and resolved by mutual consent.

We should be grateful if the Commission would convey to the Egyptian delegation our readiness to discuss the settlement of all outstanding questions between our two countries with a view to the establishment of permanent peace.

(Signed) GIDEON RAFAEL

3. Letter dated 2 March 1950 to Mr. Gideon Rafael from the Chairman of the Commission

I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your letter of 28 February 1950 on the creation of a mixed committee to consider certain questions concerning the Gaza refugees.

The Conciliation Commission has been informed telegraphically by General Riley of the conclusion in the Mixed Armistice Commission of the agreement to which you refer. Furthermore, General Riley has informed the Commission that he is transmitting by diplomatic pouch the text of the agreement, with the necessary maps.

Pending the study of this text, to which it will proceed without delay, the Commission considers that the agreement concluded in the Mixed Armistice Commission does not, according to the terms of your letter, bear upon any but the first point of the terms of reference which the Commission intended to give to a mixed committee, and that the remaining points have not been the subject of any settlement.

In consequence, the Commission continues to believe that the creation of the above mixed committee would be useful. It maintains its proposal to the parties on this question and would be grateful to you if you would inform your Government accordingly.

The Commission is prepared to examine any suggestion or proposal which the delegation of Israel might wish to make, either on the substance of the questions composing the proposed mixed committee's mandate or the procedure to be established for their consideration.

4. Letter dated 13 March 1950 to the Chairman of the Commission from Mr. Gideon Rafael

I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your letter of 2 March, contents of which I have transmitted to my Government.

(Signed) GIDEON RAFAEL

5. Letter dated 21 March 1950 to Mr. Gideon Rafael from the Chairman of the Commission

Further to my letter of 2 March 1950, I have the honour to inform you that the Conciliation Commission has now received a copy of the modus vivendi to the Egyptian-Israeli General Armistice Agreement to which you refer in your letter of 28 February.

The above document and the attached maps showing the areas involved in the modus vivendi agreement confirm the view expressed by the Commission in its letter of 2 March that not all the proposals submitted by the Egyptian delegation have been the subject of settlement.

In view of the above, the Commission continues to believe that the creation of a mixed committee to study those of the Egyptian proposals not falling within the framework of the modus vivendi of 22 February would be useful. It maintains its proposal to the parties on this question and would be grateful to you if you would let it have your Government's reply to this letter as well as to the Commission's communication of 2 March.

The Commission is prepared to examine any suggestion or proposal which the delegation of Israel might wish to make, either on the substance of the above questions or on the procedure to be established for their consideration.

A copy of your letter of 28 February is being transmitted to the Egyptian delegation.

6. Letter dated 23 March 1950 to the Chairman of the Commission from Mr. Gideon Rafael

I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your letter dated 21 March 1950 and to reply thereto as well as to your letter of 2 March 1950.

In my letter of 28 February I conveyed the view of my Government that the modus vivendi reached on 22 February 1950 " represents the greatest degree of fulfilment that can be given to the Egyptian requests " under discussion. The Egyptian representative signed the modus vivendi without the reservation contained in the second paragraph of your letter to the effect that the settlement was incomplete or unsatisfactory or that any further changes in the armistice arrangements were desired. We understand that Egypt has not submitted any proposals of this nature since the signature of the modus vivendi.

Since certain matters raised by the Egyptian delegation affecting the armistice arrangements have been satisfactorily settled in the Mixed Armistice Commission it would appear that matters of a similarly local and specific character might best be treated through the same channels, if so required by either party. My delegation reiterates its desire to discuss with the Egyptian delegation or any other Arab delegation, under the auspices of the Conciliation Commission, the question of a final peace settlement or any substantive questions conducive thereto.

My Government appreciates the action of the Palestine Conciliation Commission in conveying my letter of 28 February to the Egyptian delegation. The Israel delegation would be glad to be notified of the Egyptian reply to the official proposal contained in the last paragraph.

(Signed) GIDEON RAFAEL

7. Letter dated 29 March 1950 to Mr. Gideon Rafael from the Chairman of the Commission

I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your letter of 23 March 1950, which the Commission has considered with great interest. In this connexion, the Commission has decided that it would be useful to communicate to you a letter from the representative of Egypt dated 23 March and the Commission's reply thereto dated 29 March, of which copies are attached.

It appears from the Egyptian representative's letter that not only does the Egyptian Government consider that, of the proposals submitted by it to the Conciliation Commission in October last, not all have been completely and satisfactorily settled, but has declared itself ready to consider these questions in a mixed committee to be established for this purpose under the conditions set forth in this letter.

From the Commission's reply you will note that the Commission considers that only after an exchange of views between the parties in a mixed committee will it be possible to determine to what degree the Egyptian proposals could be put into effect.

It is requested that this communication be considered in connexion with the proposal of a more general nature which has been submitted today to the delegations of the Arab States and of Israel.

The Conciliation Commission hopes that the Government of Israel, which has expressed its desire to discuss with the Egyptian delegation or any other Arab delegation, under the auspices of the Conciliation Commission, the question of a final settlement or any substantive questions conducive thereto, will give the most serious consideration to the proposals of the Commission whose purpose is to create favourable conditions for the establishment of peace in Palestine.

EXCHANGE OF CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE COMMISSION AND THE EGYPTIAN DELEGATION CONCERNING THE FORMATION OF A MIXED COMMITTEE TO STUDY CERTAIN QUESTIONS RELATING TO THE GAZA REFUGEES

1. Letter dated 22 March 1950 to H. E. Abdel Monem Mostafa Bey, Chairman of the Egyptian delegation, from the Chairman of the Commission

I have the honour to transmit to you herewith copies of the correspondence exchanged by the Conciliation Commission with the Israel delegation on the subject of the establishment of a mixed committee to study the Egyptian proposals relating to the refugees of the Gaza area. As you will see from the letters, the Commission maintains its proposal concerning the establishment of the said Committee. It will at all times be pleased to receive any observations that your Government may think fit to submit on the matter.

2. Letter dated 23 March 1950 to the Chairman of the Conciliation Commission from the Chairman of the Egyptian delegation

Under cover of your letter dated 22 March 1950, you were good enough to send me a copy of the correspondence exchanged on 28 February and on 2 and 21 March 1950 by the Conciliation Commission with the Israel delegation on the subject of the establishment of a mixed committee to study the Egyptian proposals relating to the refugees of the Gaza area. After informing me that the Commission maintained its proposal with regard to the establishment of the said committee, you were kind enough to say that it would at all times be pleased to receive any observations that my Government might think fit to submit on the matter.

I hasten to thank you for your kind communication and for the accompanying enclosures.

It is hardly necessary for me to remind the Commission of the origin of the Egyptian proposals or the underlying motives. I need only say that if the measures they envisage were adopted, those proposals would make some contribution towards relieving the international community of the burden of providing assistance to the refugees. They would likewise be a first step towards the implementation of those United Nations resolutions which recognize the right of the refugees to return to their homes. The execution of the proposals would, moreover, serve to demonstrate the willingness of the other party to make an effective contribution to the solution of the Palestinian problem.

The Clapp Mission, it may be pointed out, recognized the fact that the Gaza area, where more than one-third of a million human beings are huddled together, holds out no prospects of economic development. On the other hand, if the refugees from the Beersheba area returned to their homes and regained their lands and if the original inhabitants of the Gaza area, the greater part of whose lands are beyond the armistice lines, were allowed to cultivate them, the situation of the refugees would be improved and it would then be possible to contemplate large-scale projects for their economic and social rehabilitation.

The attitude of the Egyptian Government on the question of refugees remains as before, namely, that the refugees should be enabled to return to their homes and have their lands restored to them. The placing of obstacles in the way of their achievement of those aims is not only contrary to the most elementary rights of man to live in peace in his own country, but also threatens to perpetuate disturbances and instability in the Middle East. If these masses are left in their present hopeless state, they may be led to adopt an attitude of destructive nihilism and become a prey to subversive doctrines. Their slow disintegration, due to the degrading life they are leading, constitutes for the Middle East a source of instability, which there is every reason to eliminate as quickly as possible.

In view of those facts, the Egyptian delegation will be pleased to make its full contribution to consideration of the ways and means of implementing its proposals. Whenever the setting up of a mixed committee has been shown to be desirable, the Egyptian delegation, in accordance with the policy it has hitherto followed of collaborating with the Conciliation Commission itself, has agreed to the proposal. Thus, when the Commission, having secured the acceptance by the two parties of the principle of the reciprocal unfreezing of assets, proposed that a mixed technical committee be set up to decide how the operation should be carried out, the Egyptian delegation accepted the principle and agreed to serve on the technical committee.

If, then, the Egyptian proposals are explicitly and formally accepted, and it appears desirable to set up a mixed technical committee to decide how they are to be implemented, the Egyptian delegation would take a favourable view of such a procedure.

4. Letter dated 29 March 1950 to H. E. Abdel Monem Mostafa Bey from the Chairman of the Commission

I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your letter of 23 March relating to your proposals on the subject of the refugees of the Gaza area.

The Commission fully shares the concern you express with regard to the danger of allowing the present situation of the Palestine Arab refugees to be prolonged indefinitely. I wish to assure you that the Commission is fully conscious of the urgent need not only to improve their lot, but also to settle the whole painful problem.

For that reason, the Commission takes note with great satisfaction of the desire of your Government to make its contribution to consideration of the ways and means of carrying out your proposals and to the work of any mixed committee which might be set up to that end. In the Commission's opinion, it is only after an exchange of views between the parties in that committee that it will be possible to ascertain to what extent the Egyptian proposals can be put into practice. The Commission, being anxious to solve the particularly urgent problem of the Gaza refugees as speedily as possible, considers it its duty to renew its proposal to Egypt and to Israel that a mixed committee be set up to consider the action to be taken on the measures proposed by your delegation and possibly to submit suggestions with a view to their implementation.

The Commission requests you to consider this communication in conjunction with the more general proposal submitted today to the Arab delegations and to the delegation of Israel.

APPENDIX III

MEMORANDUM HANDED TO THE ARAB AND ISRAEL DELEGATIONS IN GENEVA ON 29 MARCH 1950

1. During the past weeks, the members of the Commission have had informal conversations with the Arab delegations and the delegation of Israel regarding the best procedure to be followed for ensuring concrete and positive results from their joint efforts. The Commission wishes to submit the following observations and suggestions for the consideration of the interested delegations and their Governments :

2. In New York, the Commission was requested by the Arab delegations to extend the procedure of conciliation to that of mediation; the practical implications of such a measure would be that the Commission, instead of restricting itself to trying to conciliate the points of view of each party, would present proposals to them designed to serve as the basis for discussion and study with a view to reaching agreement on the various questions outstanding between them.

On the other hand, the Commission notes that the delegation of Israel, in its statement to the Commission on 30 January, has again indicated that it considers the opening of direct negotiations between the Arab States and the State of Israel as the only way in which the Commission can contribute to the fulfilment of its task.

3. The Commission does not consider as incompatible these two points of view regarding procedure which have thus been set forth by the Arab States and Israel, respectively. The Commission believes that they should be regarded as complementary. It would, indeed, be difficult to visualize how the Commission could undertake a procedure of mediation, in the course of which it would be expected to submit proposals to the parties, without the assurance that these proposals could be examined and discussed at meetings between the representatives of the Commission itself and of all the parties having an interest in the subject under discussion. In the opinion of the Commission, the request of the Arab States that it embark upon a procedure of mediation and the request of the State of Israel that direct negotiations be undertaken are bound up with one another. The Commission is prepared to accept both of these requests and hopes to establish thereby the basis of a new method of operation.

4. In this connexion, the Commission would like to present to the parties certain clarifications.

5. The Commission would naturally reserve the right of determining which questions would form the subject of its proposals. The Commission alone is in a position to judge as to the advisability of submitting at any given moment proposals on a certain point. This will not prevent the parties from informing the Commission of questions on which, in their opinion, the Commission could usefully take the initiative. On the contrary, the parties would thus make a most positive contribution to the proper functioning of the new method of operation. The Commission sincerely hopes that they will make use of this procedure as fully and as frequently as possible. It is obvious that the Commission would act upon any request coming jointly from one or more Arab delegations and from the delegation of Israel.

6. As regards the actual procedure, the Commission considers it preferable not to adopt rigid rules. For the moment, it envisages the formation of mixed committees under the chairmanship of a representative of the Commission and composed of representatives of the countries concerned in the particular subject under discussion. In particular cases, of course, this general formula could be modified by mutual agreement between the parties and the Commission. In principle, each committee would have precise and concrete terms of reference, consisting either of the discussion and study of questions which the Commission, in agreement with the parties, had submitted to it for preliminary examination, or of the study and discussion of a proposal drawn up by the Commission on its own initiative or at the request of one or more delegations.

7. The Commission hopes that this new method of operation will meet with the agreement, in principle, of the parties. It realizes that certain details of application and, particularly, of the organization, functioning and procedure of the mixed committees will need to be discussed further and agreed upon with the parties. The Commission hopes that the spirit of collaboration shown up to now by the delegations and the Governments which they represent will facilitate such discussion and permit early agreement on this subject.

DOCUMENT A/1288

Seventh progress report of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine for the period 8 May to 12 July 1950, inclusive

[17 July 1950]

Note by the Secretary-General

The Secretary-General has the honour to communicate to the Members of the United Nations, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 13 of General Assembly resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948, the seventh progress report of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine.

1. As indicated in its sixth progress report to the Secretary-General, the Conciliation Commission for Palestine, on 29 March 1950, submitted concrete proposals to the parties for the establishment of a new procedure, combining direct negotiations in mixed committees with mediation by the Commission itself. The Arab Governments replied, through the Egyptian Foreign Minister in Cairo, on 14 April, that they would be prepared to sit with Israel representatives on a mixed committee to study the implementation of paragraph 11 of General Assembly resolution 194 (III), provided that the Government of Israel declared that it accepted the principle embodied in this paragraph and agreed to its implementation. As regards the other outstanding questions, the Arab Governments expressed themselves in favour of maintaining the procedure followed heretofore, but they asked the Commission to complete, through mediation, its task of conciliation. Whenever an agreement on principle was reached concerning a specific question, the representatives of both parties could sit together in the presence of representatives of the Commission in order to discuss its implementation. The Government of Israel, without requesting concessions or undertakings in advance, declared itself ready to negotiate a peace settlement directly with any Arab State wishing to do so.

It asked the Commission to inform it which Arab State or States were ready to negotiate with Israel a settlement of all outstanding issues, whereupon it would communicate to the Commission without delay the names of the members of the Israel delegation fully empowered to negotiate and conclude such a settlement looking to the establishment of permanent peace.

2. The Commission has considered the appropriateness of taking up with the Government of Israel the conditions which the Arab States placed upon the acceptance of its proposals. The Commission considered that in doing so it would not facilitate its task of conciliation. It therefore deemed it preferable to inform the parties as to the principles which would guide it in the conduct of negotiations within the mixed committees in the hope that its proposals would thus prove acceptable to both the Arabs and the Israelis. In consequence, it decided to send a new letter to the Arab Governments and the Government of Israel. In this letter, dated 11 May, the Commission, taking into consideration the views expressed by both sides in response to its proposals, was careful to stress certain points:

(a) It indicated that the objective aimed at was to achieve a final settlement of the Palestine problem as called for in General Assembly resolution 194 (III);

(b) It noted that the various problems raised by such a settlement were linked together;

(c) It recognized, nevertheless, that some of them were of an urgent nature and might, by agreement between the parties, be examined before the others;

(d) Finally, it emphasized that the principles laid down in General Assembly resolution 194 (III) were to be respected (the text of the letter is attached as appendix I).

3. The joint reply of the Governments of Egypt, Lebanon, Jordan and Syria to the Commission's note of 11 May was communicated in a letter from the representative of Egypt dated 19 May.¹¹ In this letter the four Arab States emphasized their desire to see, first of all, the problem of the refugees solved on a basis of justice, equity and humanity according to General Assembly's resolution 194 (III). "So long as this problem remains without a solution based on these principles", the Arab Governments stated, "the peace, stability and welfare of the Middle East will be in danger". The Arab States reiterated that the acceptance of the Commission's proposals to establish mixed committees was subject to a double condition: first of all, the recognition and acceptance by the Government of Israel of the resolution of 11 December 1948 in which the United Nations General Assembly called for the return of refugees to their homes and the payment of compensation to those choosing not to return; secondly, the undertaking by Israel to implement this resolution. As regards the other aspects of the Palestine problem, the Arab States confirmed the attitude communicated to the Commission in their name by the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Egypt on 14 April¹² in his oral statement to the Chairman of the Commission: the Arab Governments were ready to continue the study of these matters according to the procedure followed up to that time, it being understood that whenever the study of a certain question led to an agreement on principle, the details of implementation would be discussed in the mixed committees. In the letter from the representative of Egypt, containing the joint reply of the four Arab States, the refugee problem is dealt with as the "basic problem", the other questions being considered as "related questions" only¹³ (the text of the letter from the Egyptian delegation dated 19 May as well as the text of the Lebanese delegation's letter of 17 May, are attached as appendices II and III respectively).

4. The Government of Israel replied to the Commission's note of 11 May in a letter from the Minister for Foreign Affairs dated 20 May. In this letter, the Foreign Minister stated that it appeared from the note of 11 May that the Commission was not yet in a position to give a reply to the question contained in the letter from the Government of Israel dated 6 May,¹⁴ as to the "Arab State or States which might be ready to negotiate with Israel with a view to a final peace settlement". In these circumstances, the Minister presumed that the Commission would deem it preferable "to await a clarification of the Arab attitude on the question of direct negotiations before considering the next step" (the text of the letter from the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Israel is attached as appendix IV).

5. The reply from the Arab States to the Commission's note of 11 May once again raised the question as to whether the Commission should take up with the Government of Israel the conditions of the Arab States for participation in the work of the mixed committees. The Commission found nothing in the Arab reply which warranted a departure from the position which it had already adopted in relation to the first Arab reply of 14 April. It considered that to take up the Arab conditions with the Government of Israel would not facilitate the fulfilment of its task of conciliation or the acceptance by both parties of the proposals contained in its memorandum of 29 March.¹⁵ In consequence, the Commission decided that it was desirable to clarify for the parties certain aspects of its proposals of 29 March. In a note dated 30 May, the Commission recalled that the General Assembly of the United Nations in its resolution 194 (III), which constituted the charter of the Commission, had requested the Commission to establish "contact between the parties themselves and the Commission at the earliest possible date". In this resolution the Assembly had invited the governments concerned "to seek agreement by negotiations conducted either with the Conciliation Commission or directly, with a view to the final settlement of all questions outstanding between them". The Commission pointed out in its note that "it was in response to this request and in accordance with the instructions given in paragraph 6 of the resolution that the Commission, in view of the fact that the parties had failed to undertake direct negotiations, invited them to seek in mixed committees under the chairmanship of the Commission, the agreement aimed at by the Assembly". The Commission emphasized the inappropriateness of laying down, for the initiation of a procedure in conformity with the Assembly's resolution, conditions dealing with principles already laid down by that resolution. The note of 30 May stated that all these principles "must be respected and one of them cannot be singled out for special recognition without impairing the equilibrium of the resolution of 11 December 1948 as a whole". The note finally stated, "The Commission feels sure that these principles are recognized by the parties and that they mean to respect them; but their implementation gives rise to complex problems. It is with these problems that negotiations in the mixed committees would deal". The Commission concluded its note by referring to the necessity of establishing as soon as possible conditions of peace and stability in the Middle East and of putting an end to the sufferings of the refugees. It expressed the hope that it would be possible to proceed without new delays to the establishment of the mixed committees (the text of the note is attached as appendix V).

6. On 12 June, at the request of the delegation of Egypt, the Commission met with the Arab delegations to receive the reply of the Egyptian Government to the Commission's latest note of 30 May 1950. In this reply, the Government of Egypt pointed out the lack of any mention in the Commission's note of 30 May of a formal and explicit statement by the Government of Israel that it would accept the recommendation of resolution 194(III) concerning the return of refugees to their homes and the payment of compensation to those who chose not to return. Under these circumstances the Government of Egypt declared that it maintained its attitude as regards the conditions under which it would be ready to co-operate in the work of mixed committees as proposed by the Commission. The representative of Syria and Lebanon, having associated themselves with the views expressed by the Egyptian representative, stated that their respective governments adhered to the position previously adopted by the Arab States.

7. The representatives of the Hashimite Kingdom of the Jordan, who had received no instructions from his Government at the time of the meeting of 12 June, communicated his Government's reply to the Commission on 21 June 1950. In its reply the Government of Jordan noted that the Government of Israel, far from showing itself ready to implement the General Assembly's resolution concerning the return of refugees, was driving certain Arab tribal populations out of territory under Israel control in southern Palestine "in order to settle Jewish immigrants in their place". Under these circumstances the Government of Jordan considered that no useful purpose would be served by entering into negotiations with Israel at the present time. In a further letter, dated 26 June, the representative of Jordan explained, among other things, that his government's refusal to sit on mixed committees was due to its wish not to act against the common policy of the Arab States. As soon as the Government of Israel showed signs of goodwill, Jordan would be ready to re-examine the situation, it being understood that the rights of the Arabs would be safeguarded and the wishes of the Arab States duly taken into consideration (the texts of these two letters are attached as appendices VI and VII).

8. It is clear from the replies of the Arab States that they have not considered sufficient the statement contained in the Commission's note of 11 May, and reiterated in that of 30 May, that the new procedure would be based on the recognition and respect by the parties of all principles contained in the resolution 194 (III), since these principles form a homogeneous whole and could not be separated from one another. In these circumstances, the Commission has concluded that it would not serve any useful purpose to continue the exchange of notes on its proposals and has decided to return to its official headquarters in Jerusalem in order to pursue its task of conciliation through first-hand contacts with all governments concerned. The Commission will close its session in Geneva on 15 July and will reconvene in Jerusalem at the beginning of August.

APPENDIX I

NOTE DATED 11 MAY 1950 FROM THE CONCILIATION COMMISSION TO THE GOVERNMENTS OF EGYPT, ISRAEL, JORDAN, LEBANON AND SYRIA

The Conciliation Commission for Palestine has the honour to acknowledge the reply of the Arab Governments to its memorandum of 29 March 1950. The Commission has also received from the Government of Israel a reply, under date of 6 May, accepting the proposals contained in the memorandum. The Commission finds in these replies a spirit of co-operation which it appreciates.¹⁶

In making its proposals the Conciliation Commission was guided by the resolutions of the General Assembly on Palestine. The Commission also took into consideration the position of the Arab Governments and the Government of Israel on the implementation of those resolutions, having in mind those principles of law, justice and humanity referred to by the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Egypt in Cairo on 14 April 1950 when he delivered the reply of the Arab Governments. The Commission believes that its proposals of 29 March represent the best method of reaching a settlement of the refugee problem as well as all other questions outstanding between the parties.

The Commission has not failed to note the various observations which have been formulated in response to its proposals. It considers that the problems thus raised could best be examined under the procedure proposed by the Commission in its memorandum of 29 March.

The Commission wishes to take this opportunity to reaffirm that its objective in suggesting the creation of mixed committees was the attainment of the final settlement called for by the General Assembly resolution of 11 December 1948. The past experience of the Commission has proved that the questions involved in such a settlement are linked to each other. Certain of these questions might be of a particularly urgent character and might be studied before others by common agreement of the parties.

The Commission considers that the work of the mixed committees could not lead to favourable results unless the discussions took place in a completely frank manner and the parties had the opportunity of expressing their points of view with unrestricted freedom. It goes without saying that the principles laid down by the General Assembly resolution of 11 December 1948 would have to be respected.

The Conciliation Commission hopes that the Arab Governments and the Government of Israel will be represented in negotiations under the procedure envisaged in the Commission's proposals of 29 March by representatives fully empowered to act on their behalf. The Commission would appreciate notification of the names of the representatives so empowered.

The Conciliation Commission considers that negotiations under its auspices, as proposed in its memorandum, could begin in Geneva on 23 May 1950.

¹⁶ The opening paragraph of the note of 11 May addressed to the Government of Israel reads as follows :

"The Conciliation Commission for Palestine has the honour to acknowledge the note of 6 May from the Government of Israel accepting the proposals contained in the Commission's memorandum of 29 March 1950. The Commission has also received the reply of the Arab Governments to its memorandum. The Commission finds in these replies a spirit of co-operation which it appreciates."

APPENDIX II

LETTER DATED 19 MAY 1950 FROM THE CHAIRMAN OF THE EGYPTIAN DELEGATION TO THE CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMISSION

In a letter dated 11 May 1950 you were good enough to send me a note of the same date also addressed by the Conciliation Commission to the representative of Jordan, Lebanon and Syria for communication to their respective Governments, requesting me to communicate the note to my Government as soon as possible.

As I had the honour to inform you in my letter No. 10 of 12 May 1950, I duly transmitted the Commission's note to my Government.

In accordance with the instructions I have just received from my Government, I have the honour to inform you that the Commission's note has been studied by the four Governments to whom it was addressed. The Foreign Ministers of these Governments met in Cairo as the Political Committee of the Arab League, and decided to send a joint reply to the note, which they have asked me to forward to the Commission.

I therefore hasten to communicate to the Conciliation Commission the following joint reply from the Governments of Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon and Syria to the Commission's note of 11 May 1950 :

1. Defining their attitude to the proposals set forth in the Conciliation Commission's memorandum of 29 March 1950, the Governments of the Arab States, at their meeting in Cairo on 14 April 1950, issued a statement, the substance of which is as follows :

" The United Nations General Assembly resolution of 11 December 1948, calling for the return of refugees to their homes and compensation for those choosing not to return, stands out conspicuously for two reasons. On the one hand, because it is clear and categorical; and on the other, because the problem of the refugees is an urgent one, in view of their sufferings and of the baleful consequences which the prolongation of their situation may have for peace in the Middle East. Accordingly, the Governments of the Arab States consider that the implementation of the United Nations resolution relating to the return of the refugees to their homes may furnish the solution to this particular question. The solution of the refugee problem, as called for in this resolution, should constitute the starting point of the new stage of the Commission's work.

" This being so, should the Commission receive the assurance that the other party, which has so far opposed the implementation of the resolution, will respect it and undertake to implement it, and should the undertaking come to be regarded as a principle on which all the interested parties are in agreement, there will then be no doubt that the Governments of the Arab States, collaborating with the Commission, will be prepared to sit on the proposed mixed committees for the purpose of discussing in what manner that principle can be considered in detail with a view to the speedy attainment of a solution of the refugee problem on the basis of the United Nations General Assembly resolution of 11 December 1948. "

2. In accepting the Conciliation Commission's proposal for the setting up of mixed committees, the Governments of the four Arab States, collaborating with the Commission, are guided by two considerations. In the first place they would like to see a solution of the refugee problem on the basis of law, equity and humanity, and in conformity with the United Nations General Assembly resolution. So long as this problem remains without a solution based on these principles, the peace, stability and welfare of the Middle East will be in danger. Secondly, the Arab Governments are anxious to give further evidence of their constant desire to facilitate the Commission's work. Their acceptance, however, is dependent on a twofold condition which must be adopted as a recognized principle :

(a) That the other party should recognize and accept the resolution of 11 December 1948 in which the United Nations General Assembly calls for the return of refugees to their homes and compensation to those choosing not to return;

(b) That the other party should undertake to implement the resolution.

3. The Arab Governments to which the Conciliation Commission's note of 11 May 1950 was addressed, beg to point out that the note makes no mention of this fundamental and basic twofold condition. The note does not even state whether the other party has accepted or rejected it.

They are therefore anxious to know what are the views of the Jewish authorities regarding this twofold condition.

4. With regard to the various cognate questions which may be closely linked with the fundamental problem of refugees, and which are referred to in the Commission's note of 11 May 1950, it should be pointed out that the Arab Governments have not lost sight of the fact that these cognate issues constitute aspects of the same problem. In their anxiety to solve all aspects of the problem, the Arab Governments are prepared to proceed with the study of these various aspects by means of the procedure hitherto adopted. Whenever the examination of a given problem led to agreement in principle, the detail of its execution would be discussed in mixed committees.

APPENDIX III

LETTER DATED 17 MAY 1950 FROM THE LEBANESE REPRESENTATIVE TO THE CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMISSION

I have the honour to acknowledge your letter of 11 May 1950, together with the Conciliation Commission's note attached thereto.

I did not reply earlier because I was waiting to hear from my Government, the reply of which reached me on 16 May.

The Lebanese Government has instructed me to draw the Conciliation Commission's attention to the following points :

1. Acceptance by the Arab States of the Conciliation Commission's proposals contained in its memorandum of 29 March 1950 was conditional on recognition by the Jews of the principle of the return of the refugees, in accordance with the resolution of the United Nations General Assembly of 11 December 1948, and an undertaking by the Jews to accept and implement that resolution.

2. The Conciliation Commission's note of 11 May 1950 makes no mention of these two essential conditions.

3. The Conciliation Commission's note of 11 May 1950 fails to inform the Arab Governments concerned of the attitude of the Jews as regards the two sine qua non conditions referred to in paragraph 1 of this note.

4. In its desire to facilitate the work of the Conciliation Commission, the Lebanese Government, like the other Arab Governments concerned, is prepared, once the Jews have consented to the return of the refugees in accordance with the resolution of the United Nations General Assembly of 11 December 1948 and have formally undertaken to implement that resolution, to discuss the details of implementation in a mixed committee under the auspices of the Conciliation Commission.

In informing the Conciliation Commission of the Lebanese Government's reply, which is completely in line with the decision adopted by the Political Committee of the Arab League, I should like to add that I shall be glad to furnish any additional explanations which the Commission may desire.

LETTER ADDRESSED BY THE MINISTER FOR FOREIGN AFFAIRS OF ISRAEL TO THE CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMISSION, TRANSMITTED ON 20 MAY 1950 BY THE REPRESENTATIVE OF ISRAEL TO THE EUROPEAN OFFICE OF THE UNITED NATIONS

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of 11 May 1950.

I understand that, when framing it, you were not yet in a position to reply to the question contained in my letter of 6 May 1950 as to which Arab State or States are ready to negotiate with Israel on a final peace settlement. I also learn from your conversation with Mr. Reuven Shiloah in Geneva on 15 May last, that the Commission itself realized the inadvisability of resuming its deliberations before the attitude of the Arab Governments on this vital issue was definitely cleared up.

In these circumstances, I presume the Conciliation Commission for Palestine will agree with the Government of Israel that it is preferable to await a clarification of the Arab attitude on the question of direct negotiations before considering the next step.

Minister for Foreign Affairs

APPENDIX V

NOTE DATED 30 MAY FROM THE CONCILIATION COMMISSION TO THE ARAB DELEGATIONS AND THE DELEGATION OF ISRAEL

The Conciliation Commission for Palestine has examined the replies of the Arab Governments and the Government of Israel to the Commission's note of 11 May and finds it desirable to clarify the proposals put forward in its memorandum of 29 March 1950.

The General Assembly of the United Nations, in its resolution of 11 December 1948 which established the Conciliation Commission and constitutes its charter, requested the Commission "to establish contact between the parties themselves and the Commission at the earliest possible date". It also called upon the governments "to seek agreement by negotiations, conducted either with the Conciliation Commission or directly, with a view to the final settlement of all questions outstanding between them."

It was in response to this request and in accordance with the instructions given in paragraph 6 of that resolution that the Commission, in view of the fact that the parties had failed to undertake direct negotiations, invited them to seek, in mixed committees under the chairmanship of the Commission, the agreement aimed at by the Assembly.

The Conciliation Commission believes that the parties will recognize the inappropriateness of laying down prerequisite conditions for the initiation of a procedure conforming to the Assembly resolution, especially where such conditions refer to principles laid down by that resolution. It should be emphasized that all these principles must be respected and that one of them cannot be singled out for special recognition without impairing the equilibrium of the resolution of 11 December 1948 as a whole.

The Commission feels sure that these principles are recognized by the parties, and that they mean to respect them; but their implementation gives rise to complex problems. It is with these problems that negotiations in the mixed committees would deal.

The Commission is convinced that each government will recognize the urgent need for the establishment of conditions of peace and stability in the Middle East and for bringing to an end the suffering of the refugees.

The Conciliation Commission trusts that in the light of the foregoing consideration it will be possible to proceed with the establishment of the mixed committees without further delays.

APPENDIX VI

LETTER DATED 21 JUNE 1950 FROM THE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE HASHIMITE KINGDOM OF THE JORDAN TO THE CHAIRMAN OF THE CONCILIATION COMMISSION

I have the honour to inform you, in reply to the note of the Commission dated 30 May, that my Government notes that the Jews, far from showing any readiness to implement the General Assembly's resolution concerning the return of the refugees, are trying to drive certain Arab tribes out of the territory they occupy, in order to install Jewish immigrants in their place, with a view to obtaining military and political advantages, contrary to the terms of the Armistice Agreement.

For these reasons my Government does not deem it useful to begin negotiations before the condition set by the Arabs is fulfilled.

(Signed) Hafez ABDUL-HADI

APPENDIX VII

LETTER DATED 26 JUNE 1950 FROM THE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE HASHIMITE KINGDOM OF THE JORDAN TO THE CHAIRMAN OF THE CONCILIATION COMMISSION

Further to my letter of 21 June 1950, I have the honour to inform you that the refusal by my Government to begin negotiations is dictated by reasons of solidarity with our brother Arab States, and by the want of evidence of goodwill on the part of Israel, which for well-known reasons is driving certain Arab tribes from southern Palestine out of the territory they occupy.

The Hashimite Kingdom of the Jordan is anxious for peace; and if evidence of good faith on the other side were forthcoming, we should certainly be willing to reconsider the situation on the basis of safeguards for Arab rights, and bearing in mind the wishes of the Arab States.

With reference to your letter No. SG/25/2/01 of 25 August 1950 addressed to the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Egypt, whereby you were kind enough to draw his attention to rule 20 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly, I have the honour to inform you that I transmitted this communication to the Minister, who has instructed me to transmit to you the following memorandum:

"In its resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948, the General Assembly of the United Nations gave instructions for the return of the Palestine refugees to their homes and the payment of compensation due to those not desiring to return. The United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine, established by the said resolution, was made responsible for carrying out these instructions. In its resolution 302 (IV) of 8 December 1949, the General Assembly confirmed the aforementioned instructions. Nevertheless, these instructions have not yet been carried out, owing to the systematic opposition of the authorities occupying the territories in which the homes of the Palestine refugees are situated. Moreover, the said authorities not only refuse to pay the compensation due to the refugees not desiring to return to their homes, but are also confiscating their property. Egypt will ask the General Assembly for effect to be given to the instructions contained in the aforesaid resolution of 11 December 1948."

With reference to your letter No. SG/25/2/01, dated 24 August 1950, addressed to the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Saudi Arabia, whereby you kindly draw his attention to rule 20 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly, I have the honour to transmit to you the following memorandum:

"Resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948 of the General Assembly of the United Nations instructed that the Palestine refugees be returned to their homes and that compensation be paid to those not desiring to return. In accordance with the aforementioned resolution, the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine was established and made responsible for carrying out the embodied instructions. These instructions were again confirmed in resolution 302 (IV) adopted by the General Assembly on 8 December 1949.

"The Saudi Arabian Government believes that these resolutions and instructions have not as yet been carried out, due to the constant refusal of the Jewish authorities now occupying Palestine to conform with the decisions of the United Nations regarding this question.

"In addition to the continued violations by the Jewish authorities in Palestine of the above resolutions and instructions, these Jewish authorities are presently formulating illegal policies for the confiscation of property belonging to the Arab refugees. Furthermore, more and more Arabs now residing in Palestine are being divested of their property and chased outside the border of the territory occupied by the Jewish authorities."

The Saudi Arabian Government, therefore, will request the General Assembly to enforce its resolutions on this question in accordance with the spirit and letter of the Charter and the principles for which the United Nations stands.

Report by the Secretary-General for the period 30 September 1949 to 30 April 1950, inclusive

[24 October 1950]

1. This brief report on the work of the United Nations Relief for Palestine Refugees is submitted under General Assembly resolution 212 (III) of 19 November 1948, and covers the period from 30 September 1949 until 30 April 1950, when the handing over of responsibilities, assets and liabilities to the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees (UNRPR) in the Near East was completed, in accordance with General Assembly resolution 302 (IV) of 8 December 1949.

2. Full, detailed reports by the Acting Director of UNRPR and the Chief Medical Officer, as well as by the International Red Cross Committee, the League of Red Cross Societies and the American Friends Service Committee are available at the Headquarters of the United Nations. Summary statements by these three agencies are appended hereto.

3. The certified financial statements for UNRPR operations from 1 December 1948 to 30 April 1950, and the related report of the United Nations Board of Auditors have been issued to the General Assembly as document A/1354.¹⁷ These statements show contributions in cash, kind and services for assistance to Palestine refugees totalling over $35 million from thirty-three governments and approximately $1,500,000 from specialized agencies and other sources.

¹⁷ See Official Records of the General Assembly, Fifth Session, Annexes, item 37 (c).

4. The United Nations Relief for Palestine Refugees was launched as an emergency operation at the end of 1948 when a great humanitarian problem had to be met, and met immediately. A Director of UNRPR was appointed by the Secretary-General and agreements were made whereby the International Red Cross Committee, the League of Red Cross Societies and the American Friends Service Committee, acting as autonomous agencies, undertook full responsibility for the distribution, within the respective territories assigned to them, of supplies furnished by UNRPR. The details of this organization and the manner in which the operation was conceived and carried out, were described in the report of the Secretary-General to the fourth session of the General Assembly (A/1060 and Add.1).¹⁸

5. The results of the operation may be summarized as follows: Approximately one million refugees have been adequately fed, most of them have been clothed and sheltered, and nearly all have had access to adequate medical supervision. Medical reports show no starvation, no epidemics, no inflated death rate, and a return to normal in the birth rate. Food, clothing, shelter and medical care and, in addition, other amenities such as the commencement of educational facilities, minor employment projects, etc., have been provided at an approximate cost of $3.00 per capita per month. This takes into consideration all expenditures and administrative costs of UNRPR and the expenditures of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

6. These facts reflect great credit on UNRPR, the International Red Cross Committee, the League of Red Cross Societies and the American Friends Service Committee; also on UNICEF, WHO, UNESCO, IRO and FAO which, by providing personnel, funds or supplies, gave invaluable assistance to the programme. An important factor in the success of the programme was the co-operation and assistance of Near East Governments, whose contributions and services to UNRPR and direct aid to refugees totalled more than $8,000,000.

APPENDIX I

SUMMARY STATEMENT OF THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE OF THE RED CROSS FOR THE PERIOD 1 AUGUST 1949 TO 30 APRIL 1950

1. The International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) has continued to be in charge of the area assigned to it in the agreement concluded with the United Nations in December 1948, viz. the former Mandated Territory of Palestine, with the exception of the Gaza district in the south-west.

2. Almost from the beginning of its activity, the Committee stressed the fact that a pure relief action could in no way bring a solution to the refugee problem, and that it was necessary to return the refugees to permanent homes and rehabilitate them in a normal economic life. In view of the political character of the questions involved, the Committee, as a neutral and non-political body, had to limit its collaboration to assistance in what was considered an emergency relief action, but could not offer any contribution to a definite settlement of the refugee question. For this reason—and also in view of the demoralizing effect of a prolonged relief action on the beneficiaries—it expressed on several occasions the wish to be relieved as early as possible by an organization which could endeavour to find a definite solution to the refugee problem.

3. It appeared in early summer 1949 that no progress in the political field had been reached and that it would be impossible to maintain the date of termination of the relief action originally scheduled for 31 August 1949. Complying with a request expressed by the Secretary-General of the United Nations, the ICRC agreed, first in June, to extend its activity to the end of September, and then later, to the end of October, under the condition that the number of rations allocated to its area, and the size of the individual ration would be maintained and serious efforts made to improve the unsatisfactory shelter and clothing situation of the refugees. When it became known that the General Assembly of the United Nations would not be able to re-examine the Palestine refugees problem before December 1949, the ICRC, considering that it could not bear the responsibility for, and face the consequences of, an abrupt termination of its relief activity in the middle of the winter, asked for, and received (in addition to the afore-mentioned conditions) assurances that sufficient means would be provided to cover the period until the end of March. On 8 December 1949, the General Assembly of the United Nations decided to create the "United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East" (UNRWAPRNE), which was to relieve the three autonomous agencies on 1 April 1950. However, a certain delay occurred in the selection by the United Nations of the personality to assume the direction of such a tremendous enterprise and, in February, the three agencies were again asked to accept a further prolongation of another month. The ICRC, although very reluctantly, agreed once more, but stipulated that no other request for prolongation would be made, and 30 April 1950 was agreed as, and became, the final date of the Commissariat's activity in favour of the refugees in Palestine.

4. Full details on the organization of the Commissariat of the ICRC, its task, its activity, and the results achieved, as well as on the means put at its disposal are to be found in the following general reports available at the Headquarters of the United Nations:

Report No. 3, covering the period from 1 October to 31 December 1949

Report No. 4, covering the period from 1 January to 30 April 1950.

These reports, modelled on the same lines as the two previous ones—referring to the first nine months of 1949—contain the following chapters:

Introduction

- I. The Commissariat
- II. The refugees
- III. The supplies
- IV. The medical action

V. Other activities

VI. Liaison and collaboration

VII. Prolongation (and end) of mission

Numerous annexes contain full statistical particulars regarding the financial means put at the Commissariat's disposal and the use made thereof, the supplies received and their distribution, as well as the number of refugees who benefited therefrom. A liquidation report, and a short report recapitulating in concise form the main facts and figures of the whole action, are in preparation. The present statement is therefore limited to some considerations of a more general character and, far from being intended to be complete, contains only a certain number of factual and statistical items.

5. The organization of the Commissariat of the ICRC has, in the main, remained unchanged, with two head offices in Beirut and Haifa, of which the Beirut office was by far the more important in view of the fact that about 90 per cent of the refugees under ICRC control live on the Arab side of the demarcation line. In addition, the supplies bought overseas were delivered to Beirut and liaison with UNRPR and the other agencies was established in the Lebanese capital. The central services of the Commissariat were attached to the Beirut office. Israel formed one single region, while the Arab part of Palestine was divided into six regions: Jericho, Ramallah, Nablus, Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Hebron. A permanent office in Amman maintained liaison with the Jordan authorities, facilitated communications between Beirut and the Arab zone and took delivery of goods purchased in Jordan. Occasionally, an employee was dispatched from Beirut to Damascus for the reception of goods of Syrian origin and for the settlement of questions arising out of the transit through Syria of personnel and supplies.

6. The staff continued to be augmented, following the increasing variety of goods supplied by UNRPR, United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF) and other donors, and the extension of activities to fields other than pure relief distribution. The number of Swiss employees reached its peak towards the end of January 1950, with 98 persons: 41 delegates and collaborators, 8 secretaries, 15 doctors, 29 nurses (including two Danish nurses seconded to the ICRC by the Danish Red Cross) and 5 laboratory technicians. Thus, half the Swiss staff belonged to the medical service. The group of members of the American Friends Service Committee (Quakers) in Acre continued to collaborate under the operational responsibility of the ICRC in the northern part of Israel. On 30 April 1950, the local staff was composed of 3,395 persons, of whom 650 belonged to the medical section. Amongst the others, 740 were employed in the milk centres, 316 in distribution of supplies, 162 as teachers in schools; the sewing centres occupied 232, the vocational training centres 36 qualified persons and the census required not less than 135 employees. The medical section included, amongst others, 22 doctors, 156 nurses and assistant nurses (male and female), 39 auxiliary medical personnel and 234 sanitary workers. Of the total of 3,395 employees, 2,426 drew a salary only, 286 a small salary plus some additional foodstuffs, 663 exclusively some additional ration, and only 20 were entirely voluntary. These figures show that the constant endeavours to obtain the voluntary collaboration of some of the many thousand refugees have mainly failed, although quite a few of those drawing additional foodstuffs only, and who drew a very small extra ration indeed, would deserve to be counted with the voluntary employees. The local employees were almost all refugees, priority always being given, amongst applicants of similar qualification, to a refugee. After the elimination of some undesirable elements, during the first months, the Commissariat, on the whole, had at its disposal a good staff of local employees, on whom it could rely and who deserved thanks and appreciation for their collaboration.

7. The determination of the number of refugees continued to be the most knotty problem. Several factors contribute to make a fairly accurate control in Arab Palestine almost impossible. First, it seems evident that it is more difficult to determine a refugee in his home-land, and to distinguish between him and a normal resident, who is a countryman of his, than to identify a refugee abroad, where he is a foreigner. Secondly, the public services in Arab Palestine are still somewhat disorganized; the poverty of the majority of the resident population is frightening and the local authorities have no means to alleviate it. Therefore, and seeing no other solution, they try to make everybody participate in the help brought into the country by international charity. The recommendation of the United Nations Economic Survey Mission for the Middle East to extend assistance to a certain number of destitutes, as well as to the so-called "border-line cases" has enormously increased the pressure, and some additional concessions—justified, it is true, from the humanitarian point of view—were made in agreement with UNRPR. Finally, thousands of individuals, destitute persons and others, have tried to evade the controls by registering themselves in more than one region, or under several names, by increasing the number of family members, or by registering false births and hiding deaths. In spite of all difficulties and disappointments, the efforts to improve the census were not only continued, but intensified. Since January 1950, separate lists were established for destitute persons who were not refugees, but who received some assistance. Below is the result of the progress achieved:

	Refugees	Other destitute persons assisted
October	458,242
November	451,676
December	457,376
1950
January	440,948	13,390
February	440,711	14,834
March	433,089	19,651
April	415,405	30,416

During the whole period covered by this statement, the ICRC was allocated 395,000 rations by UNRPR.

8. The monthly quantity of food supplies available remained roughly the same; a reduction of approximately 10 per cent in March and April 1950 was tolerable in view of the end of the cold season. UNICEF milk continued to be distributed in liquid form, this being the only means to prevent the milk from disappearing in the black market. Very considerable quantities of tents, textiles, clothing and shoes, mainly of IRO origin, arrived during the early winter, contributing to a substantial amelioration of the housing and clothing situation which, owing to lack of funds, had been unsatisfactory for a very long while; the tents arrived just in time to have everybody under shelter when the severe cold and the heavy snowfalls began. The textiles were most welcome in the sewing centres, always in need of material, where in four months (January to April 1950) no less than 82,242 garments for distribution to the refugees and their children were produced. Overseas supplies discharged in Beirut were forwarded in the usual way by boat to Haifa, or by lorry to the Arab zone. UNRPR intensified its purchases of foodstuffs in Palestine, a measure likely to contribute to the economic recovery of the country; the quality of the local supplies, however, on several occasions left something to be desired, and delivery was often slow and irregular.

9. The medical service continued its beneficial activity with unabated energy. At the end of the action, 726 hospital beds were at the refugees' disposal, of which 564 in six hospitals were entirely under ICRC direction; the number of polyclinics had increased to 46. Vaccinations and hygienic measures had prevented any outbreak of epidemics, the campaigns against malaria, tuberculosis and insects had given appreciable results. The services of the eye specialist were very much in demand. The creation of a special camp for tubercular patients and their families tended to reduce the danger of contagion. In order to give to the medical activity a lasting effect, special attention has been given to education in the health sector. In the polyclinics, and especially in the twelve child welfare centres scattered over Arab Palestine, the refugees, and particularly the mothers, were given guidance and instruction regarding hygiene, nutrition, care of children and similar subjects. The Swiss doctors and nurses have overcome to an astonishing degree the initial distrust of the Arabs and, in collaboration with their local colleagues, have won the unlimited confidence and sympathy of the refugee population.

10. The greatest importance has been attached to educational questions. Unfortunately, the lack of funds has, for a long time, hampered activity in that field. It was regrettable, although understandable, that the first UNESCO contributions were mainly earmarked for the refugees in countries which are members of that organization, while the need for help was certainly greater in Arab Palestine. However, the position improved considerably during the last few months of the action and the means emanating from UNESCO, which were most economically spent, were sufficient to maintain, at the end of the action, 28 schools with 133 classes for boys and 24 for girls, 162 teachers and 9,727 pupils. The vocational schools also fulfilled a most valuable task; they prepared the youngsters for earning their living and produced at the same time goods which could be used for the refugees or sold and the profit used for the purchase of new raw material. In April, 15 such centres were in function : 7 for carpenters, 5 for shoemakers, 2 for tinsmiths and one for stone masons. Nineteen refugees, earning a small salary, were teaching 270 pupils. The sewing centres—22 at the end of the action—combined education and production in a most useful way; one or the other prevailed according to the amount of textiles available. These centres occupied more than 200 refugee women who drew a small salary; more than 300 young girls had been trained by the end of April 1950. The total output of the centres, as already mentioned, was over 82,000 garments.

11. The various local governments continued to maintain friendly relations with the Commissariat, to support its efforts, and to contribute to port and transport charges. The attitude of the local authorities in Arab Palestine was not uniform : some high officials were very co-operative, others rather passive, quite a few, especially amongst those closely linked to various communities, visibly hostile. With very few exceptions the attitude of the local committees, often self-appointed and by no means representative of the refugees or enjoying their confidence, was disappointing. Experience has proved that conditions were too unstable, poverty too great, political and personal influence too prevalent to allow main responsibilities, generally speaking, to be put into the hands of local people. After a few unpleasant experiences, all main controls of funds, supplies and ration card distribution had to be taken back by the Swiss delegates in spite of the possible repercussions. The reaction in various places was open hostility, attacks in the Press, even false accusations in court and trials to stir up the refugees and create unrest in the camps. On the other hand, the refugees grew more and more friendly the longer the action lasted. They realized the big effort made in their favour, became more co-operative, and finally relations of mutual understanding and confidence between the ICRC employees and themselves existed practically everywhere in the country. Most moving scenes of gratitude took place and were the recompense for the Swiss delegates before they left the Near East.

12. The ICRC has accomplished the task accepted in December 1948, and reached its main objects. The refugees are sufficiently fed, are sheltered and their general status of health is good. The thirty-six camps where over 76,000 refugees live are in good order and sanitary condition. The majority of refugees enjoy a better medical service than that to which they were accustomed before the war. There have been no epidemics; although accurate general statistics are not available, it can be said that the birth rate has increased, infant mortality markedly decreased, and adult mortality remained on a level not higher than normal in Near Eastern countries. Owing to lack of funds, educational and social welfare activities were unfortunately begun later than had been hoped. Good results have already been obtained, but a further extension is necessary especially in the interest of youth. In spite of all, the situation of the refugees remains unsatisfactory. They have no cultural life, no work and, above all, no permanent home and their future is dark. All efforts must be concentrated on finding a definite solution in favour of this unfortunate population.

APPENDIX II

SUMMARY STATEMENT OF THE LEAGUE OF RED CROSS SOCIETIES FOR THE PERIOD 1 AUGUST 1949 TO 30 APRIL 1950

1. The monthly operational reports submitted by the League of Red Cross Societies to the United Nations Relief for Palestine Refugees (UNRPR) served as one of the constituent elements of the latter's report to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, which provides an over-all picture of the combined operations. The present statement, which the acting Director of UNRPR kindly accepts as an annex to his final report, may therefore permit the League to make some observations of a general nature.

2. It is very difficult to realize at the end of the League's sixteen months' activities, when an extensive and smoothly working organization in Lebanon, Syria and Jordan, with a combined foreign and local staff of over 1,000 persons, is handed over to the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWAPRNE) what UNRPR and the co-operating agencies had been facing at the beginning of the Palestine relief operation in December 1948, when no organization existed, when neither funds nor supplies were available, whereas hundreds of thousands of human beings were entering on the cold and rainy winter months with little prospect of adequate shelter and food.

3. However, having accepted the challenge to undertake this relief operation, and thanks to the stimulating leadership of Ambassador Stanton Griffis, Director of UNRPR, and to the experience and devotion of Red Cross workers from all over the world, the League's international team succeeded in rapidly establishing the necessary organization for the envisaged nine-months emergency programme, conscious that the "Palestine operation" had to be successful right from the start in order to be beneficial to the refugees and to be a credit to the partners in this great undertaking—the United Nations, the International Committee of the Red Cross and the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC).

4. Acknowledging the complexity of the Palestine problem and realizing the Secretary-General's great effort to bring about an early solution, the League nevertheless felt compelled on several occasions to urge that the United Nations do everything possible, either to return the refugees to their country or to resettle them elsewhere or, in case this was impossible, to create another body which could take over the responsibility from the League at the end of August, when it was expected that the situation would no longer have to be considered as being of an emergency character. It was understood throughout the operation that the League could not participate indefinitely in a programme purely of a relief nature, and its continued participation was conditional on the adoption of positive measures at the fourth session of the General Assembly.

5. When circumstances prevented the Secretary-General from realizing an early solution of the problem, the League, the ICRC and the AFSC on three different occasions were requested to continue their relief activities, pending a decision of the General Assembly and the implementation of its decision. The League each time decided to accede to the United Nations' request and continued operating, fully conscious that its moral responsibility in connexion with the refugees and good partnership with the United Nations obliged the League to stand by until a regular transfer could be made; this finally occurred on 1 May 1950.

6. These repeated and unforeseen prolongations of the operation, together with the ever-present financial uncertainties and limitations, unfortunately made long-range planning impossible and recruitment of foreign staff extremely difficult. Had the League known from the outset that its activities would continue through April 1950, its position would certainly have been different and results could have been better.

7. In reviewing briefly the Leagues' activities during these sixteen months, the field operation can be divided into three periods. The first five months marked a period of intense activity, during which, as rapidly as possible, an adequate organization for the distribution of the relief supplies had to be set up, irrespective of all other interests, as the refugees were deprived of food and on the verge of starvation. The foreign staff employed was limited in number, means of transport was inadequate, funds insufficient and, during the first three months, the League had practically no means at its disposal for medical aid. Nevertheless, each of the 340,000 refugees in the League's area received his small but adequate ration on time.

8. The second period, from June to December 1949, was one of consolidation and expansion. The League's budget was increased, medical services were considerably extended and medicaments could be supplied to the field in sufficient quantities. A Social Welfare Section was established in order to improve and extend milk distributions and child-feeding programmes, to sponsor various welfare activities and small works projects such as shoe-making, etc., and to operate efficiently an educational programme in conjunction with UNESCO.

9. The third period, from January to April 1950, was in many ways similar to the second, except that the League faced the termination of its work and preparations had to be made for the liquidation. This had a marked influence on its social welfare and educational programmes, as the recommendations in the report of the Economic Survey Mission, on which the General Assembly's resolution was based when establishing UNRWAPRNE, did not specifically refer to social and educational activities for the programme of the future organization, as these were considered to be the responsibility of the governments of the Arab States.

10. The League recruited its foreign staff practically exclusively through the national Red Cross and Red Crescent societies, as it was considered essential that, next to their experience in field work, they should be fully acquainted with the Red Cross and its principles. Not less than eighteen different nationalities were represented on the Commissariat's staff which, on 31 December 1949, totalled eighty-five, of whom only twenty-five staff members were on full salary per diem at the charge of the operation; twenty-four staff members were on a per diem basis only and thirty-six staff members were made available by Red Cross societies at no cost at all to the operation. These figures do not of course include numerous volunteers from the local Red Cross and Red Crescent societies. As a large part of the international staff consisted of medical personnel, only twenty-two foreign staff members were actually engaged in administration and distribution activities: eleven at Beyrouth headquarters, five in the Lebanon field office (servicing 140,000 refugees), three in Syria (80,000 refugees) and three in Jordan (90,000 refugees), including the field directors. This was made possible because many Palestinians were successfully employed in important executive functions—it having been the League's policy from the beginning to employ as limited a number of foreign personnel as possible and a maximum number of Palestinian refugees, to whom special tribute is paid for their devoted and efficient contribution.

11. The League would like to be on record that, once the initial difficulties were overcome, the supply and procurement policy of UNRPR, based on a close co-operation with the agencies, who were allowed complete information in the established procedure, worked to the satisfaction of all concerned.

12. The medical programme worked very satisfactorily, at a maximum cost of approximately one and one-half cents per refugee per day. The League attached great value to the medical and sanitary programme as being typical Red Cross work, in which connexion the outstanding contribution of the medical teams of the British and Danish Red Cross Societies must be specially mentioned. The Lebanese Red Cross Society and the Syrian and Jordan Red Crescent Societies also took an ever-increasing part in the medical activities of the League. The DDT and gammexane campaigns were very successful and no epidemics occurred, with the exception of a small outbreak of typhoid in South Lebanon, which was put under control very rapidly. The health conditions in general are satisfactory—in some regions the refugees even received better medical care than they had been accustomed to previously. Experience has shown that higher executive functions, as for instance field medical officer in charge of an area, should be filled by doctors from abroad.

13. The social welfare and educational programmes proved to be of the highest value, as these activities did much to improve the morale of the refugees and the aspect of the camps. The League is firmly convinced that no large-scale relief project can be successfully conducted without social welfare and education, and it is hoped that UNRWAPRNE will decide to make the necessary funds available for this purpose. Amongst the Palestinian women, many highly trained and capable social workers are to be found, several of whom were employed by the League. It may be remembered that, in the summer of 1949, the United Nations Social Welfare Seminar held at Beyrouth showed a great interest in the refugee problem.

14. In an effort to reduce the number of refugees receiving rations to a minimum consistent with their needs, the League established a special registration section operated with budgetary funds freed for this special purpose from other sections of its programme.

15. Notwithstanding the natural increase of the refugee population, which under present living conditions is somewhere between 30 and 40 per 1,000 per year, the number of registered refugees was reduced from around 340,000 to 304,045 for Lebanon, Syria and Jordan on 30 April 1950. The registration, moreover, made it possible to establish some important and useful information on the characteristics of this population as is shown by the following table :

	Jordan		Syria		Lebanon
Principal districts of origin in Palestine...	Jerusalem	21,000	Safad	29,666	Safad	28,975
	Jaffa	14,000	Haifa	19,908	Haifa	38,421

	Merchants	916	Merchants	1,309	Merchants	1,782

16. A rather spectacular operation, which the League believes is interesting to record, was the total transfer of a number of camps to locations with a more moderate climate, in order to protect the refugees from the fierce heat in the summer in the Jordan Valley or from the cold winter in the higher mountain areas. This involved the transportation in trucks and buses of not less than 40,000 persons, with their tents and belongings, over an average distance of 100 kilometers.

17. The League highly values the expressions of appreciation and gratitude from the Secretary-General of the United Nations on the occasion of the termination of its activities, which it accepts as a token that its operation may be considered a successful achievement.

18. The League is aware that, although perhaps no other alternative was feasible to guarantee immediate action in the field as implementation of the resolutions of the General Assembly, at its third session the organizational arrangement comprising five autonomous bodies (UNRPR, UNICEF, the League, ICRC and AFSC) participating in one and the same operation was made workable by the personal goodwill existing between the individuals working with these organizations. The League has always tried to live up to the spirit of the existing agreement with UNRPR, which was not always in a position to foresee to the letter what an unknown future might require.

19. In conformity with Red Cross policy, and as specially stipulated in the agreement with UNRPR, the League operated the relief distribution programme in co-operation with or through national Red Cross or Red Crescent societies where they exist and are willing to operate in such areas, strengthening these societies where necessary, in its opinion, for the purpose of the operation. It appeared, however, that the young national societies of Lebanon,

Syria and Jordan were not in a position as yet to take part in the distribution organization, and for that reason the League took charge itself of this most essential part of the operation, with the exception of the distribution of UNICEF milk, for which purpose the Lebanese Red Cross Society and the Syrian and Jordan Red Crescent Societies established a great number of centres in conjunction with and under the control of the League. The national societies, however, took an ever-increasing interest in the medical and social welfare programmes for the refugees and the League made a great effort in assisting and educating the members of these Societies in the hope that one day, when the League would withdraw, the national societies would be able to carry on, when necessary eventually with financial aid from the successor organization. The attitude of these young societies toward the refugee problem of course follows to a certain extent their government's policy, which was different in each of the three countries. As the societies are still very much in need of help, whether financial or in the form of technical aid or advice, which the League will continue to provide within the limits of its means, much depends on their governments and also to a certain extent on the new United Nations agency, as to what their contribution to the refugee programme will be in the future. The League believes it to be the policy of the United Nations to include or incorporate national and international humanitarian organizations in the execution of the activities of the Organization where and whenever possible, and as far as compatible with the proper discharge of their operations. This not only tends to give the members of these organizations, and as such the population, more interest and a better insight in the United Nations Organization and an increased belief in its principles and aims, but it may, when well directed, prove to be not only a direct but an indirect economy as well, as such co-operation will have a lasting effect in the field of public health and social welfare long after the United Nations mission has finished its specific task in that particular area. The League realizes with gratefulness that its presence in the Middle East to work for the Palestine refugees under the auspices of the United Nations has given it a really unique opportunity to sponsor the Red Cross and to bring its spirit and its principles to the people of these countries, where until recently the emblem of the Red Cross and Red Crescent was practically unknown. Twice, the League's Commissariat had the opportunity to convene in the Middle East a meeting of delegates of the Red Cross and Red Crescent societies engaged in relief activities on behalf of the refugees—the second meeting, held in Damascus, being an important event of a really international character, bringing together delegates from Egypt, Iraq, Turkey, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon. All this has had a marked effect on the development of these societies, which will continue to benefit from the experience gained in active co-operation with the League during the past sixteen months.

20. The League sincerely regrets that it is terminating its activities without a satisfactory solution having been found for the victims of the Palestine conflict. The League has kept alive these distressed people, who constantly asserted their desire and their right to return to their country. This is the main thing which occupies their minds and those who have lived and worked amongst them are deeply touched by their sincere grief and genuine suffering. The League feels it as a moral duty at the conclusion of its work to make known the sentiments of those who were in its charge for so long.

21. Numerous are the voluntary relief organizations from which the League received substantial assistance and with which the most cordial relationship existed. Apart from the Red Cross, Red Crescent and Junior Red Cross societies from all over the world, the League's sincere thanks go to the American University and the Faculté française de médecine at Beyrouth, to the Palestine Permanent Bureau, Pontifical Mission, Church World Service, Lutheran World Federation, Church Missionary Society, Save the Children Fund, Middle East Relief Association, Civic Welfare League of the American University, Young Men's Christian Association, Young Women's Christian Association, Near East Foundation, British Syrian Mission, Mennonite Central Committee, and to all those unknown men and women who assisted in so many ways as devoted volunteers.

22. The League is greatly indebted to the Heads of State of the Hashimite Kingdom of the Jordan, of Syria and of Lebanon for their personal interest in the League's work and for the active support and co-operation received from their Governments.

23. The League has always highly appreciated the consistent personal endeavour of the Secretary-General of the United Nations to pave the way for an uninterrupted operation by guaranteeing or providing the necessary funds when contributions of Member nations were lagging and even the existing hand-to-mouth policy seemed to fail.

24. Above all, however, tribute is paid to UNRPR and to its staff, whose problems and responsibilities were perhaps somewhat different than those of the operating agencies, but certainly not less great and complex. Working for a common cause, the results have shown what good will, mutual confidence and comprehension can achieve. For this reason, the League wants to express its sincere gratitude to UNRPR, in which it wishes to include UNICEF, WHO and UNESCO.

25. In conclusion, the League extends its best wishes to the United Nations and to UNRWAPRNE for a very successful operation, with the sincere desire that their continued efforts may ultimately bring a solution for the future of the Palestine refugees.

APPENDIX III

SUMMARY STATEMENT OF THE AMERICAN FRIENDS SERVICE COMMITTEE OPERATION FOR THE PERIOD 1 AUGUST 1949 TO 30 APRIL 1950

1. Looking in retrospect at the last nine months of the work of the United Nations Relief for Palestine Refugees (UNRPR) and the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC), one could divide it into three periods (a) that of integrating the relief administration, (b) that of developing the general services, and (c) the strengthening of the programme for the transfer of responsibility to the new United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWAPRNE). The early problems of transportation and distribution and problems due to limited knowledge of the area and its customs and people had been met and initial procedures established. With the integration of the work, the AFSC could give attention to the needs which had been overlooked in the early emergency period. Finally, with the realization that the refugee problem was still far from being solved and that the emergency nature of the programme must give place to a more permanent and formal organization, plans were laid to tighten the organization so that it could be handed over to the new United Nations agency with the advantages of previous operation still intact and any disadvantages eliminated.

2. The most knotty problem in the relief operation was that of reducing the ration lists to what was believed to be a realistic figure and one that would meet with the ration budget allotted to the area. From a beginning figure of some 260,000 persons, the lists were cut to 200,000. This represents many hours of work on the part of all the international and local staff, and even of the refugees themselves. It became apparent very early in the operation that the taking of a tent-to-tent count was inadequate. It was discovered that reasonable figures of village populations could be obtained from the former Mandate records, and that the sugar ration lists were of particular value. The taking of family history sheets allowed comparison of families with similar names and thereby reduced the duplications. The refugees were asked to provide proof of their original residence.

3. In the actual distribution of food, milk and non-food items, a great administrative metamorphosis took place. From the early emergency distribution from tents, trucks, small stores and mosques, a systematic distribution was developed in corrugated iron buildings of a standard design, placed in widely separated and strategic locations. Records and supervision from these new distribution centres were brought into uniformity. Populations were combined from several smaller centres into larger and more efficient ones. The local staff was systematically trained and given increased responsibility, and rations were distributed fortnightly, so that each refugee would know that he would receive his rations on the same day and at approximately the same hour every two weeks. This served to reassure the refugee of the certainty of receiving his ration. It eliminated the necessity for the refugee to come to the centre on any but his distribution day, and also eliminated the necessity for his standing in line for hours in the hot sun until he received his ration. This process of combining and systematizing reduced the number of food centres from sixteen to seven. Fortunately for the Gaza Strip, the facilities for the transportation of supplies were such that food distributions were on time. The caloric value of rations was never less than 1,550 and sometimes as high as 1,670. At times as many as seven items were handed out in a single distribution period. The milk distribution was handled in much the same way. Eventually, ten milk distribution centres were established. In addition to the regular over-the-counter distribution, large tents were used to accommodate hundreds of children who drank milk as it was handed out. Eventually, a daily distribution of milk was extended to the children in their schools. Non-food items were distributed as available. Tents, blankets, scap, kerosene were distributed periodically to help meet the need for warmth and shelter.

4. The medical and sanitation programme was steadily developed and extended its services over the area with a clinic in each camp and three hospitals available. Problems of sanitation were met by organizing the tent camps in a manner to permit scavenger crews freedom of movement in a compact area, and by a systematic construction of latrines through the area. The very important problem of water supply for drinking was improved by arranging for the use of private wells and pumps, and by the provision of solar oil and parts. This supply of water was piped into populated areas to make it more nearly accessible to all the people. The clinics added services as time, money and personnel permitted. Eye-clinics, maternal-child health clinics, ante-natal clinics, anti-malarial work, fly-control, and co-operation with the International Tuberculosis Campaign all contributed to the general health of the people. It is notable that in this period there were no widespread epidemics, very little gross malnutrition, the birth-death rate remained at what appeared to be a normal rate. It was discovered that while there was surprisingly little tuberculosis, there was an increase in venereal disease.

5. One of the great limitations has been the absence of adequate funds for a welfare programme. As a result, the normal run of welfare work had to depend largely on those things that could be done with simple equipment and substantial co-operation and initiative from the refugees. Supplementary feeding was confined to extra rations in small quantities to sick people and pregnant women from supplies which could be saved from general stock. In spite of the very meagre salaries available for teachers and lack of teaching materials, the educational programme was expanded and improved in this period. Housed in tents and old buildings, a total of 18,000 refugee children were enrolled in school. Encouragement was given to the Lauback method of combating illiteracy by purchasing a supply of books that are designed for a pictorial method of home teaching of reading and writing to illiterates. A works relief project in the form of a weaving project was continued and expanded and the first 200,000 metres of cloth from refugee hand looms was distributed to the population. This gave birth to the plans for using the local cloth product for a garment project intended by the end of September to provide one garment for each refugee and to provide some work for the tailors. The carpentry apprentice shops were continued to teach young men the art of carpentry and, by 1 June, had been organized as an independent producer's co-operative enterprise. Sewing classes were continued for young women. The latter worked largely on providing the hospitals with necessities and layettes for new-born children. Recreation lagged in this period for the want of qualified personnel and finances.

6. During this nine month's period, relationships with the local authorities continued to improve. The division of responsibilities was clarified and these officials responded willingly and effectively in those areas of work in which we needed their help. The American Friends Service Committee is most grateful to the Egyptian Government for the co-operation it extended.

7. Amidst the daily routine of this period, there was a full share of unusual events that called for flexibility and emergency action. There was the arrival of 6,000 refugees from Egypt who had to be placed in tents, counted and fed, and for whom general provisions had to be made. The visit of the Clapp Mission raised hopes and the subsequent visit of the Palestine Conciliation Commission gave the refugees respite from the humdrum of an uncomfortable existence. There was a growing realization on the part of the occupation authorities, of the refugees and of the distributing agency that an unsolved problem remained in the form of the local residents who are not by definition refugees (and therefore are not entitled to rations) but who are in many cases in worse condition than the refugees. This, too, has been the subject of much planning and discussion without, it must be said, much to show for the effort. The winter season brought with it the first snow storm in southern Palestine in 50 years, and caused considerable damage to tents and crude shelters, necessitating six weeks of work to get back at least to satisfactory minimum shelter. A settlement and exchange of property was effected between the Governments of Israel and Egypt, opening new vistas for the populations of Beit Hanun, Abbasan, and Ikhza. This brought new and ambitious plans for the resettling and rehabilitation of Beit Hanun.

8. The general outlook and attitude of the refugees have been subject to the persistent wearing of time. While hope is not lost, the more educated and ambitious refugees are most eager to have an opportunity to become established again and to take their proper part in the community life of the Middle East. The great majority are eager and willing to work. While works projects in the Gaza area would be useful, the possibilities are very few. Indeed, all of us see that the Gaza Strip cannot be left much longer without some solution for the people in it.

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolution 302 (IV) of 8 December 1949,

Having examined the report of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (A/1451); and the report of the Secretary-General concerning United Nations relief for Palestine refugees (A/1452),

1. Notes that contributions sufficient to carry out the programme authorized in paragraph 6 of resolution 302 (IV) have not been made, and urges Governments which have not yet done so to make every effort to make voluntary contributions in response to paragraph 13 of that resolution;

Egypt : revised draft resolution

[5 December 1950]

The General Assembly,

Noting the terms of its resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948 and confirming, in particular, the provisions of paragraph 11 of that resolution, in which it is resolved that " the refugees wishing to return to their homes and live at peace with their neighbours should be permitted to do so at the earliest practicable date, and that compensation should be paid for the property of those choosing not to return and for loss of or damage to property which, under principles of international law or in equity, should be made good by the governments or authorities responsible ",

Considering that the principles laid down in the said paragraph constitute a just and equitable solution of the problem of the refugees, and one in harmony with the purposes and principles of the United Nations, which recognize that every man has the right to live in peace in his own country,

Convinced that peace and stability cannot be consolidated unless the principles contained in the paragraph in question are put into effect,

Expressing its regret that the provisions of the said paragraph have not yet been applied,

1. Resolves to request the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine to establish an agency²⁰ for the repatriation and compensation of Palestine refugees which shall have the following functions inter alia :

(a) To make all necessary arrangements for the repatriation of Palestine refugees and to assess and remit to the persons legally entitled thereto sums due in respect of compensation;

(b) To take, in collaboration with the competent governments and authorities, provisional measures of conservation in connexion with movable and immovable property, rights etc. belonging to refugees, including the appointment of an administrator of the said property who shall be responsible for taking an inventory thereof and arranging for its conservation, provisional management and assessment and for the payment of revenues to the persons legally entitled thereto;

2. Invites the competent governments and authorities to furnish to the General Assembly adequate binding guarantees that refugees returning to their homes will be treated on an equal footing with other inhabitants, without any discrimination either in law or in fact, in respect of race, creed etc.;

3. Resolves that the Director of the Agency shall be appointed by the General Assembly before the close of the fifth regular session;

4. Instructs the Director of the Agency to utilize, in the discharge of the responsibilities entrusted to him by virtue of this resolution, the services and assistance of other United Nations organs and agencies;

5. Authorizes the Secretary-General to make available to the Director of the Agency the funds and staff essential for the discharge of the responsibilities entrusted to him by virtue of the present resolution;

6. Invites all governments and authorities concerned to collaborate with the Agency and take all possible steps to assist in giving effect to the present resolution, with due regard to the obligations of the State which they represent as a Member of the United Nations;

7. Declares that a refusal by any government or authority to comply with the provisions of the present resolution would prove the existence of a breach of the peace within the meaning of Article 39 of the Charter, and would require immediate investigation by the competent organs of the United Nations with a view to the adoption of appropriate measures in conformity with the terms of the Charter;

8. Instructs the Agency to submit to the Secretary-General periodic reports on the development of the situation for transmittal by him to the Security Council and the Members of the United Nations.

Method of financing the relief and reintegration programme for Palestine refugees proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee (A/AC.38/L.28/Rev.1) : Seventeenth report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

[16 November 1950]

1. At its 36th meeting on 7 November 1950, the Ad Hoc Political Committee, in considering a draft resolution concerning assistance to Palestine refugees (A/AC.38/L.28/Rev.1), agreed that, before taking a vote, it should request the advice of the Fifth Committee in regard to the method of financing the proposed relief and reintegration programme (paragraphs 8 and 9).

2. In accordance with a decision taken by the Fifth Committee at its 262nd meeting on 9 November 1950, the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions has considered the above-mentioned paragraphs.

3. In addition to the text of the draft resolution, the Advisory Committee had before it the summary records of the relevant discussions in the 35th and 36th meetings of the Ad Hoc Political Committee, as well as reports submitted by the Director of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWAPRNE) (A/1451) and by the Secretary-General of the United Nations on the work of the United Nations Relief for Palestine Refugees (A/1452). Consideration has also been given to the financial reports and accounts of the United Nations Relief for Palestine Refugees (UNRPR) for the period 1 December 1948 to 30 April 1950 and the report of the Board of Auditors thereon (A/1354).²⁶

4. The Advisory Committee submits in paragraphs 5 to 9 below a brief survey of the various measures adopted since July 1948 for the relief of Palestine refugees. Paragraphs 10 to 14 contain certain recommendations concerning the specific question referred to the Committee.

5. In his progress report of 18 September 1948 to the General Assembly (A/648, part three)²⁷ the United Nations Mediator on Palestine, dealing with the relief of Palestine refugees, drew attention to the urgency of the problem and expressed the hope that the international community would give all necessary support to the relief measures he had proposed. On 18 October 1948, the Acting Mediator on Palestine stated

(A/689, paragraphs 3 and 4)²⁸ that the urgency of the problem had been accentuated and that, unless adequate and effective aid came quickly, the position of the refugees would become desperate. In view of these circumstances, the General Assembly, by resolution 212 (III) of 19 November 1948, authorized the Secretary-General to establish a Special Fund (Palestine Refugee Fund) and to take all necessary steps to extend aid to Palestine refugees. UNRPR operated from 1 December 1948 until 30 April 1950, on which date its responsibilities, assets and liabilities were transferred to UNRWAPRNE (established by General Assembly resolution 302 (IV) of 8 December 1949). For the period 1 January 1950 to 30 April 1950 UNRPR acted as the agent of UNRWAPRNE.

6. The Secretary-General, reporting on the operations of UNRPR from 1 December 1948 to 30 April 1950 (A/1452, paragraph 5), stated that approximately one million refugees had been fed; medical reports showed no starvation, epidemics or inflated death rate. Food, clothing, shelter and medical care, together with other amenities such as the commencement of educational facilities and minor employment projects, had been provided at an approximate cost of $3 per capita per month, including all expenditures of UNRPR and the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

7. The Advisory Committee considers it important to analyse the experience of UNRPR in the matters of contributions and expenditure during the period of its operations :

²⁸ Ibid., Supplement No. 11A.

It may further be noted that certain Member States, while not contributing to UNRPR, had responded to the earlier appeal made by the United Nations Mediator on behalf of the Disaster Relief Project (A/689/Add.1, appendices D and E).²⁹ Expenditure during the same period amounted to $39,115,975, the excess of expenditure over income,—$2,644,081,³⁰ representing the cost of the operations of UNRPR while acting as the agent of UNRWAPRNE—being financed from the Working Capital Fund of the United Nations against the funds contributed to UNRWAPRNE. The above expenditure figure excludes supplies to a value of approximately $9 million, which were furnished by the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund and distributed by the operating agencies.

8. At its fourth session, the General Assembly, by resolution 302 (IV) of 8 December 1949, decided to establish, in the place of UNRPR, the United Nations Relief and Works Agency (UNRWAPRNE), for the purpose of carrying out the direct relief and works programmes recommended by the United Nations Economic Survey Mission for the Middle East, and to approve the following estimate of expenditure for the period 1 January 1950—30 June 1951 :

	Direct relief US dollars	Works programmes US dollars
1 January 1950—31 December 1950	20,200,000	13,500,000
1 January 1951—30 June 1951	—	21,200,000

9. The situation at 1 November 1950 may be summarized as follows :

	US dollars
(i) Estimated requirements for direct relief :
1 January 1950—31 December 1950	20,187,000
1 January 1950—30 June 1951 ^a	9,167,000
	29,354,000
(ii) Contributions promised for the period 1 January to 30 June 1951 :
Cash	38,041,000
Kind	1,027,000
Balance available for works programmes ($34,700,000)	9,714,000
(iii) Direct aid and services anticipated from five Near East Governments for the period 1 May 1950 to 30 June 1951	1,127,876

^a The General Assembly contemplated the termination of direct relief by 31 December 1950. However, UNRWAPRNE has recommended its continuance beyond that date (A/1451, para. 65), and this recommendation is the subject of paragraph 2 of the draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.28/Rev.1).

Attention is drawn to the fact that the above cash contributions comprise $37,582,000 promised by nine

³⁰ Apart from the contributions listed above, miscellaneous income to an amount of $3,064 was received.

Member States in the proportions indicated below :

	Percentages
Bolivia	0.0133
Canada	1.8360
Dominican Republic	0.0133
Egypt	0.9685
France	7.5994
Israel	0.1330
Luxembourg	0.0053
United Kingdom	16.3908
United States of America	73.0404

The balance of $459,000 has been promised by two non-member States, specialized agencies and other contributors.

10. It is clear that there is a two-fold problem : (a) to meet the anticipated deficit for the period ending 30 June 1951; and (b) to provide for the period 1 July 1951—30 June 1952 the necessary funds for direct relief ($20 million) and for the reintegration fund ($30 million), as contemplated in the proposed draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.28/Rev.1, paragraphs 3, 5 and 6).

11. The Secretary-General of the United Nations and the Director of UNRWAPRNE have made repeated appeals, on the basis of General Assembly resolution 302 (IV), for contributions to the above programmes. The response has so far not proved adequate, and the Advisory Committee considers that active steps must be taken to increase the number of participating States. Furthermore, the Committee firmly believes that, having regard to the various forms in which contributions may usefully be made, every Member of the United Nations will be willing to participate, within the limits of its financial or material resources, in programmes of relief and reintegration, and thus bring about a more equitable distribution of the burden. The urgency of the problem is clearly demonstrated in the joint report by the Advisory Commission and the Director of UNRWAPRNE, which states that contributions received to date are below the amount necessary to cover the cost of immediate relief needs (A/1451, paragraph 75). The Advisory Committee is fully conscious of the difficulties confronting an agency which has to depend on donations provided in unknown amounts at unknown times, and sometimes in commodities which are difficult to fit into the programme.

12. In this connexion, special attention is directed to the following considerations :

(i) As regards financial contributions : While it is not possible accurately to forecast the various currencies required by UNRWAPRNE, experience indicates that, over and above the amounts required to repay advances from the Working Capital Fund of the United Nations, the Agency has been able to utilize the following currencies, among others : Pounds sterling, Egyptian pounds, Israeli pounds, Syrian pounds, Lebanese pounds, Jordanian dinars.

(ii) As regards contributions in kind : A wide range of supplies and services is required both for the programme of relief and for that of reintegration.

13. After a careful review of the circumstances, including many alternative methods of financing, the Advisory Committee, while proposing a voluntary basis for United Nations contributions, recommends the very early appointment of a negotiating committee composed of seven members for the purpose of negotiating as soon as possible, during the current session of the General Assembly, with Member and non-member States the amounts which Governments may be willing to contribute to :

(i) The current programme for relief and works for the period ending 30 June 1951, bearing in mind the need for securing contributions from Member States which have not yet contributed; and

(ii) The programme of relief and reintegration projects envisaged in the draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.28/Rev.1) for the year ending 30 June 1952.

The negotiating committee should be free to adopt procedures best suited to the accomplishment of its task, but it will no doubt have regard to :

(a) The need for securing the maximum contributions in cash;

(b) The desirability of ensuring that any contributions in kind should be of a nature which will meet the requirements of the contemplated programmes;

(c) The importance of enabling UNRWAPRNE to plan its programmes in advance and to carry them out with funds regularly contributed; and

(d) The degree of assistance which can continue to be rendered by specialized agencies, non-member States and other contributors,

The Advisory Committee further suggests that, as soon as the negotiating committee has ascertained the extent to which Member States are willing to make contributions, all delegations should be notified. After delegations have consulted their governments, an appropriate meeting of Member States should be convened during the current session of the General Assembly at which Members may commit themselves to their national contributions, and the contributions of non-members be announced. Non-members of the United Nations would be invited to consult with the negotiating committee and to participate in the special meeting.

14. As regards paragraph 9 of the proposed draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.28/Rev.1), the Advisory Committee was informed that, as far as can be foreseen at the present time, the maximum sum likely to be available from the Working Capital Fund during July and August 1951 is estimated at $2,500,000. The Committee trusts that the funds now available or to be made available to UNRWAPRNE will be so managed that demands upon the Working Capital Fund may be limited to a maximum of $2,500,000, instead of the amount envisaged in paragraph 9 of the draft resolution.

15. The Advisory Committee was informed that advances made to UNPR from the Working Capital Fund during 1950, to a total of $4,500,000, have now been repaid.

[8 December 1950]

1. At its 72nd meeting held on 6 December 1950, the Ad Hoc Political Committee adopted a draft resolution providing for the continuation of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine established by General Assembly resolution 194 (III). The resolution :

“ 1. Urges the governments and authorities concerned to seek agreement by negotiations conducted either with the Conciliation Commission or directly, with a view to the final settlement of all questions outstanding between them ;

“ 2. Directs the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine to establish an Office which under the direction of the Commission, shall :

“ (a) Make such arrangements as it may consider necessary for the assessment and payment of compensation in pursuance of paragraph 11 of General Assembly resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948;

“ (b) Work out such arrangements as may be practicable for the implementation of the other objectives of paragraph 11 of the said resolution;

“ (c) Continue consultations with the parties concerned regarding measures for the protection of the rights, property, and interests of the refugees ”.

2. At its 524th meeting held on 17 November 1950, the Security Council adopted a resolution (S/1907) which provided for the continuation of the supervision of the Mixed Armistice Commissions by the United Nations Chief of Staff of the Truce Supervision Organization and requested the Chief of Staff to report periodically to the Security Council on all decisions made by the four Mixed Armistice Commissions.

3. Accordingly, funds will be required to continue in 1951 the activities of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine and the Truce Supervision Organization. The estimates are on the same basis as for 1950, except for the addition of three persons on the staff of the Commission to implement paragraph 2 of the resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee. Estimates for 1951 are as follows :

	US dollars
Temporary assistance	181,000
Travel and subsistence of members	23,000
Travel and subsistence of observers	154,800
Travel and subsistence of staff	198,000
Communications services	22,000
Rental and maintenance of premises	15,000
Stationery and office supplies	2,000
Contractual printing	7,000
Local transportation	2,000
	604,800

	US dollars
Report	604,800
Maintenance and operation of transportation equipment	30,000
Freight, cartage and express	3,000
Insurance	8,000
Miscellaneous supplies and contractual services	13,500
Contractual support services	30,000
Office furniture, fixtures and equipment ...	2,000
Purchase of motor vehicles	31,000
Miscellaneous equipment	1,000
Hospitality	500

4. Under temporary assistance, provision is made for fourteen internationally recruited staff members at an estimated cost of $91,250 (as shown in the annex), for twenty-two local recruits, three Press analysts, three clerk-typists, one mimeograph operator, five drivers, five mechanics, four office cleaners and one messenger ($26,250), and for temporary replacement at Headquarters of 50 per cent of professional staff and all the secretarial staff detailed to the mission ($63,500).

5. Under travel and subsistence of members, provision is made for three round-trips for the three members ($3,600) and subsistence allowance at $20 per day, less a reduction of 10 per cent for periods of absence ($19,400).

6. A sum of $154,800 is requested for travel and subsistence of observers to provide an establishment of thirty observers under a chief military observer to supervise the truce arrangements. The travel estimate includes seventeen round-trips for replacements and new appointments ($17,500), and four round-trips to Headquarters for consultations ($4,800). Subsistence allowance is estimated at $132,500.

7. The sum of $198,000 requested for travel and subsistence of staff covers (a) cost of thirty-three round-trips for replacement and new assignments of staff members including Field Service guards ($35,000); (b) two round-trips for the principal secretary and an officer to attend the General Assembly session ($2,000); and (c) subsistence allowance for the principal secretary at $20 per day, for thirteen staff members with dependents at $10 per day and fifty staff members without dependents at $7, less reduction of 10 per cent for periods of absence ($161,000).

8. A sum of $31,000 is requested for replacement of 12 vehicles (cars and jeeps) which have deteriorated beyond economical operation from extensive usage by observers and staff on mountainous and desert roads. It is estimated that miscellaneous income of about $10,000 from the sale of the old vehicles would partly offset the cost of the new vehicles. Estimates for other items are based on the 1950 pattern of expenditure.

9. The Secretary-General requests that $716,800 be appropriated under section 5, chapter V, of the 1951 budget and $7,000 required for contractual printing under section 25, chapter V.

10. These expenses will be partly compensated by an estimated income of $38,000 from the assessments to be levied on the salaries of the internationally recruited and temporary replacement staff.

11. The 1951 estimate of $723,800 compares with expenditures for 1950 now estimated at $738,500.

Financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee (A/1646) : Thirty-sixth report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

[9 December 1950]

1. The Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions has considered a report submitted by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/440) on the financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee in document A/1646.

2. The estimated expenditure in 1951 for the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine and for the Truce Supervision Organization amounts to $723,800, as compared with an appropriation for the present year of $700,000 and an estimated actual expenditure of $738,500.

3. The Advisory Committee was informed that it is intended, during 1951, to make a detailed survey in the field of the administrative arrangements in force both for the Conciliation Commission and the Truce Supervision Organization. In view of the lengthy period during which these bodies have been in operation, the Committee trusts that this survey will result in staff economy, together with a reduction in other expenditures.

4. On the details of the estimates, the Advisory Committee understands that the provision of $132,500 for subsistence allowances of observers is based on rates of $15 per day for the first quarter and $10 per day for the remainder of the year 1951, and it recommends that, on the basis of reductions approved for other missions, the adjusted figure of $10 should, if possible, apply as from 1 January 1951, with a consequent saving of approximately $15,000.

5. Further savings should be possible of achievement on the items for temporary assistance, miscellaneous supplies and contractual services, and contractual support services, and, accordingly, the Advisory Committee recommends an appropriation of $700,000 or a reduction of $23,800 on the figure submitted.

6. The salaries of the internationally-recruited staff and of the temporary replacement staff at Headquarters are gross, and the offsetting revenue in respect of contributions under the Staff Assessment Plan is estimated at $38,000.

Report of the Ad Hoc Political Committee

[Original text : English]
[30 November 1950]

1. The General Assembly, at its 273rd meeting on 8 December 1949, adopted resolution 302 (IV) establishing the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East. The resolution provided that the Director should submit an annual report to the General Assembly. Pursuant to that resolution, the Director submitted an interim report dated 6 October 1950 (A/1451, A/1451/Corr.1).

2. The General Assembly, at its 284th and 285th plenary meetings on 26 September 1950, decided to include the item "Palestine" in the agenda of the fifth session, and to refer the item to the Ad Hoc Political Committee.

3. The Ad Hoc Political Committee, at its 24th meeting on 27 October 1950, decided to take up sub-item 20 (b) (Assistance to Palestine refugees) and sub-item 20 (c) (Repatriation of Palestine refugees and payment of compensation due to them) independently of the other sub-items.

4. The Ad Hoc Political Committee considered sub-item (b) at its 31st to 36th meetings, inclusive, and its 57th meeting.

5. At its 31st meeting on 1 November 1950, the Committee invited, without objection, the representative of the Hashimite Kingdom of the Jordan to take his seat at the Committee table during the discussion of questions relating to Palestine. At the same meeting, the Director of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East presented his report. His statement was circulated as document A/AC.38/4.

6. At its 34th meeting on 6 November 1950, the Chairman of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine made a statement in connexion with the sections of the Commission's report³¹ relating to the question of refugees.

7. At its 35th meeting on 7 November 1950, a joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.28) was presented by France, Turkey, the United Kingdom and the United States of America. This draft resolution, inter alia, noted that contributions sufficient to carry out the programme autho-ized in resolution 302 (IV) had not been made, and urged governments which had not yet done so to make every effort to give voluntary contributions. It recognized that direct relief could not be terminated by 31 December 1950 as envisaged in resolution 302 (IV), and authorized the Agency to continue to furnish direct relief to refugees, estimating that approximately $20 million would be needed for this programme for the period 1 July 1951 to 30 June 1952. It considered that the reintegration of the refugees into the economic life of the Near East, either by repatriation or resettlement, was essential, and instructed the Agency to establish a reintegration fund to which not less than $30 million should be contributed during the period 1 July 1951 to 30 June 1952. The Secretary-General was authorized to advance funds not exceeding $5 million from the Working Capital Fund to finance operations pursuant to the resolution. The Secretary-General and the specialized agencies were called upon to utilize to the fullest extent the Agency's facilities in co-ordinating the technical assistance programmes in the countries in which the Agency was operating. The draft resolution expressed appreciation of all the assistance rendered by specialized agencies, non-governmental organizations and private organizations as well as of the work of the Director and staff of the Agency and the Advisory Commission. Paragraph 8 of the joint draft resolution regarding the method of financing was left blank and the sponsors proposed that the Committee should seek advice from the Fifth Committee concerning the method of financing to be included in the draft resolution.

8. At the 36th meeting, the sponsors of the joint draft resolution accepted an amendment proposed by Pakistan (A/AC.38/L.29) to insert in paragraph 4 the words "without prejudice to the provisions of paragraph 11 of General Assembly resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948". The Committee agreed to request the Chairman to forward to the President of the General Assembly the amended joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.28/Rev.1) together with the summary records of the Committee's discussion thereof and to ask him to obtain from the Fifth Committee its advice on the method of financing the relief and reintegration programme, as well as on the financial implications of paragraph 9 of the joint draft resolution which would authorize advances from the Working Capital Fund.

9. At its 57th meeting on 27 November 1950, the

Committee considered a letter (A/AC.38/L.49) from the President of the General Assembly transmitting the advice of the Fifth Committee regarding the method of financing the proposed relief and reintegration programme. The Fifth Committee had recommended the inclusion in the joint draft resolution of a paragraph (paragraph 8) providing for the appointment by the President of the General Assembly of a Negotiating Committee of seven or more members to consult during the current session of the General Assembly with Member and non-member States as to the amounts which governments might be willing to contribute on a voluntary basis. The draft paragraph 8 also requested that as soon as the Negotiating Committee had ascertained the extent to which Member States were willing to make contributions, all delegations should be notified by the Secretary-General in order that they might consult their governments, and decided that, as soon as the Negotiating Committee had completed its work, the Secretary-General should at the Committee's request arrange, during the current session of the General Assembly, a meeting of Member and non-member States at which Members might commit themselves to their national contributions and the contributions of non-member States might be made known. As regards paragraph 9 of the proposed draft resolution, the Fifth Committee noted that the maximum sum likely to be available from the Working Capital Fund during July and August 1951 was estimated at $2,500,000, and therefore hoped that the demands upon the Working Capital Fund might be limited to that amount. The Fifth Committee also called attention to the observations of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions, with which the Fifth Committee concurred, contained in paragraphs 10, 11 and 12 of the report of the Advisory Committee (A/1516).

10. The sponsors of the joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.28/Rev.1) accepted for inclusion in the joint draft resolution paragraph 8 as recommended by the Fifth Committee.

11. The Committee then proceeded to vote on the joint draft resolution as amended. It was adopted by a vote of 43 in favour, none against, with 6 abstentions.

12. The Ad Hoc Political Committee accordingly recommends that the General Assembly adopt the following draft resolution :

ASSISTANCE TO PALESTINE REFUGEES

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolution 302 (IV) of 8 December 1949, Having examined the report of the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (A/1451), and the report of the Secretary-General concerning United Nations Relief for Palestine Refugees (A/1452),

1. Notes that contributions sufficient to carry out the programme authorized in paragraph 6 of resolution 302 (IV) have not been made, and urges government which have not yet done so to make every effort to make voluntary contributions in response to paragraph 13 of that resolution;

2. Recognizes that direct relief cannot be terminated as provided in paragraph 6 of resolution 302 (IV);

3. Authorizes the Agency to continue to furnish direct relief to refugees in need, and considers that for the period 1 July 1951 to 30 June 1952, the equivalent of approximately $20 million will be required for direct relief to refugees who are not yet reintegrated into the economy of the Near East;

4. Considers that, without prejudice to the provisions of paragraph 11 of General Assembly resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948, the reintegration of the refugees into the economic life of the Near East, either by repatriation or resettlement, is essential in preparation for the time when international assistance is no longer available, and for the realization of conditions of peace and stability in the area;

5. Instructs the Agency to establish a reintegration fund which shall be utilized for projects requested by any government in the Near East and approved by the Agency for the permanent re-establishment of refugees and their removal from relief;

6. Considers that, for the period 1 July 1951 to 30 June 1952, not less than the equivalent of $30 million should be contributed to the Agency for the purposes set forth in paragraph 5 above;

7. Authorizes the Agency, as circumstances permit, to transfer funds available for the current relief and works programmes, and for the relief programme provided in paragraph 3, to reintegration projects provided for in paragraph 5;

8. (a) Requests the President of the General Assembly to appoint a Negotiating Committee composed of seven or more members for the purpose of consulting as soon as possible during the current session of the General Assembly with Member and non-member States as to the amounts which Governments may be willing to contribute on a voluntary basis towards :

(i) The current programme for relief and works for the period ending 30 June 1951, bearing in mind the need for securing contributions from Member States which have not yet contributed;

(ii) The programme of relief and reintegration projects as provided for in paragraphs 3 and 4 above for the year ending 30 June 1952;

(b) Authorizes the Negotiating Committee to adopt procedures best suited to the accomplishment of its task, bearing in mind :

(i) The need for securing the maximum contribution in cash;

(ii) The desirability of ensuring that any contribution in kind is of a nature which meets the requirements of the contemplated programmes;

(iii) The importance of enabling the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East to plan its programmes in advance and to carry them out with funds regularly contributed;

(iv) The degree of assistance which can continue to be rendered by specialized agencies, non-member States and other contributors;

(c) Requests that, as soon as the Negotiating Committee has ascertained the extent to which Member States are willing to make contributions, all delegations be notified accordingly by the Secretary-General in order that they may consult with their governments;

(d) Decides that, as soon as the Negotiating Committee has completed its work, the Secretary-General shall at the Committee's request arrange, during the current session of the General Assembly, an appropriate meeting of Member and non-member States at which Members may commit themselves to their national contributions and the contributions of non-members may be made known;

9. Authorizes the Secretary-General, in consultation with the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions, to advance funds deemed to be available for this purpose and not exceeding $5 million from the Working Capital Fund to finance operations pursuant to the present resolution, such sum to be repaid not later than 31 December 1951;

10. Calls upon the Secretary-General and the specialized agencies to utilize to the fullest extent the Agency's facilities as a point of reference and co-ordination for technical assistance programmes in the countries in which the Agency is operating;

11. Expresses its appreciation to the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, the World Health Organization, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, the International Refugee Organization, the International Labour Organisation, and the Food and Agriculture Organization for the assistance which they have rendered, and urges them to continue to furnish all possible assistance to the Agency;

12. Commends the International Committee of the Red Cross, the League of Red Cross Societies, and the American Friends Service Committee for their invaluable services and whole-hearted co-operation in the distribution of relief supplies until those functions were taken over by the Agency;

13. Expresses its thanks to the numerous religious, charitable and humanitarian organizations, the programmes of which have brought much needed supplementary assistance to the Palestine refugees, and urges them to continue and expand, to the extent possible, the work which they have undertaken on behalf of the refugees;

14. Extends its appreciation and thanks to the Director and staff of the Agency and the members of the Advisory Commission for their effective and devoted work.

Report of the Ad Hoc Political Committee

[9 December 1950]

1. The General Assembly, at its 186th meeting on 11 December 1948, adopted resolution 194 (III) establishing the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine. The resolution instructed the Commission to render progress reports periodically to the Secretary-General for transmission to the Security Council and to the Members of the United Nations. Pursuant to the resolution, the Commission submitted a general progress report and a supplementary report (A/1367/Add.1).³²

2. In telegrams (A/1323 and A/1324) dated 17 August 1950 addressed to the Secretary-General, the Ministers for Foreign Affairs of Egypt and Syria, respectively, requested the inclusion of a sub-item on the repatriation of Palestine refugees in the item on the provisional agenda relating to Palestine. A similar request was made by the Ministers for Foreign Affairs of Iraq and Saudi Arabia in telegrams (A/1325 and A/1326) dated 18 August 1950, and by the representative of Yemen in a letter of 29 August (A/1349). Explanatory memoranda (A/1346 and A/1366) regarding the sub-item and referring to General Assembly resolutions 194 (III) of 11 December 1948 and 302 (IV) of 8 December 1949, were subsequently submitted by the permanent representatives to the United Nations of Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

3. The General Assembly, at its 284th and 285th meetings on 26 September 1950, decided to include the item "Palestine" as item 20 in the agenda of the fifth session and to refer it to the Ad Hoc Political Committee for consideration. The question of repatriation and compensation of Palestine refugees was included as sub-item (c), and the report of the Conciliation Commission as sub-item (d) of item 20.

4. The Ad Hoc Political Committee, at its 24th meeting on 27 October 1950, decided to take up sub-item (c) of agenda item 20 together with sub-item (b) regarding assistance to Palestine refugees. At its 31st meeting on 1 November 1950, the Committee agreed that the portions of the report of the Conciliation Commission dealing with refugees could also be discussed together with sub-item (c), on the understanding that the question of refugees would not again be considered under sub-item (d). On the conclusion of the general debate on sub-item (c) at its 70th meeting on 5 December 1950, the Committee agreed to defer voting on the draft resolutions that had been submitted until after the conclusion of the discussion on sub-item (d), and that all the draft resolutions and any new ones would be voted on in the order of submission.

5. The Ad Hoc Political Committee considered the sub-items at its 31st to 36th meetings and at its 61st to 72nd meetings, inclusive.

6. At its 31st meeting on 1 November 1950, the Committee invited, without objection, the representative of the Hashimite Kingdom of the Jordan to take his seat at the Committee table during the discussion of questions relating to Palestine.

7. At the 34th meeting on 6 November, the Chairman of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine made a statement in connexion with the sections of the Commission's report relating to the question of refugees. At the 70th meeting on 5 December, a further statement was made on the work of the Commission and was circulated as document A/AC.38/L.65. At that meeting and at the 72nd meeting the Acting Chairman of the Commission replied to questions asked by members of the Committee.

8. During the general debate the following draft resolutions were submitted :

(a) At the 36th meeting on 7 November 1950, a draft resolution (A/A3.38/L.30) was submitted by Egypt, which was subsequently revised (A/AC.38/L.30/Rev.1) at the 69th meeting on 5 December, whereby the General Assembly would, inter alia, request the Conciliation Commission to establish an agency for the repatriation and compensation of Palestine refugees. The agency would make arrangements for the repatriation of refugees and remit to the persons legally entitled thereto sums due as compensation, and would also, in collaboration with the competent governments and authorities, take measures to safeguard the property of the refugees. The competent governments and authorities would be invited to furnish binding guarantees that refugees returning to their homes would be treated without any discrimination in law or in fact. The director of the agency would be appointed by the General Assembly before the end of the fifth session and the Secretary-General would be authorized to make available to him the funds and staff essential for the discharge of his responsibilities. A refusal by any government or authority to comply with the terms of the resolution would prove the existence of a breach of the peace within the meaning of Article 39 of the Charter and would require immediate investigation by the competent organs of the United Nations with a view to the adoption of appropriate measures in conformity with the Charter.

(b) At the 61st meeting on 29 November, a joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.57) was submitted by France, Turkey, United Kingdom and the United States of America which, inter alia, urged the Governments concerned to engage without delay in direct discussions in order to arrive at a peaceful settlement of all questions outstanding between them. It directed the Conciliation Commission to establish an office under its direction to make arrangements for the assessment and payment of compensation pursuant to paragraph 11 of resolution 194 (III), to work out arrangements for the implementation of the other objectives of that paragraph, and to continue to consult the parties regarding measures to protect the rights, property and interests of the refugees. It also called upon the governments concerned to ensure that refugees, whether repatriated or resettled, would be treated without any discrimination either in law or in fact.

(c) At the 65th meeting on 1 December 1950, a draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.60) was submitted by Israel which, inter alia, urged the governments concerned to engage without delay in direct discussions under the auspices of the Conciliation Commission, in order to arrive at a peaceful settlement of all questions outstanding between them. It directed the Commission to render all possible assistance to the parties in order to ensure the implementation of the resolution and to avail itself of the services of other United Nations organs and agencies, particularly the Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East. It also recommended that the Governments concerned should give special and urgent consideration in their negotiations to the refugee question, and called upon them to co-operate with the Conciliation Commission in the exercise of its functions and to assist in the attainment of a speedy and peaceful settlement of all questions outstanding between the parties.

(d) At the same meeting, a joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.62) was submitted by Ethiopia and Pakistan which, inter alia, directed the Conciliation Commission to establish an office to (i) take effective measures pursuant to paragraph 11 of resolution 194 (III) to facilitate at the earliest practicable date the repatriation of all refugees wishing to return to their homes and live at peace with their neighbours; (ii) take effective measures for the assessment and payment of compensation in respect of properties of those refugees not wishing to return, as well as for the implementation of the other objectives of paragraph 11; and (iii) take measures for the preservation of the properties, rights and interests of the refugees pending the attainment of the foregoing objectives. The draft resolution further called upon the governments concerned to undertake measures to ensure that refugees, whether repatriated or resettled, would be treated without any discrimination in law or in fact, urged them to collaborate with the proposed office in the implementation of paragraph 11 of resolution 194 (III) and of the new resolution, and instructed the Conciliation Commission to report periodically to the Secretary-General on the progress of the work of the office and of the implementation of the resolution.

(e) At the 71st meeting on 6 December 1950, a draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.66) was submitted by the representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics which, considering that the Conciliation Commission had proven incapable of discharging its duty of settling the disputes between the parties in Palestine, resolved to terminate the Commission.

9. The following amendments were also submitted :

(a) By the U.S.S.R. (A/AC.38/L.61), submitted at the 71st meeting on 6 December, to amend the four-Power joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.57) by deleting the reference to the Conciliation Commission in paragraph 1 and by deleting paragraph 2 of the joint draft resolution;

(b) By China (A/AC.38/L.64), submitted at the 70th meeting on 5 December, to replace paragraph 1 of the four-Power joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.57) by the following :

“ 1. Urges the governments and authorities concerned to seek agreement by negotiations conducted either with the Conciliation Commission or directly, with a view to the final settlement of all questions outstanding between them.”

(c) By the Philippines (A/AC.38/L.67), submitted at the 71st meeting on 6 December, to amend the preamble and paragraph 1 of the four-Power joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.57) to include more specific references to the refugee question. This amendment was withdrawn at the following meeting.

10. At the 72nd meeting on 6 December 1950, the Committee proceeded to vote on the various draft resolutions and amendments before it. The representative of Egypt, having requested that the vote on the Egyptian resolution (A/AC.38/L.30/Rev.1) be deferred until after the vote on the four-Power joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.57), the Committee voted first on the latter draft resolution. The results of the vote were as follows :

(a) The U.S.S.R. amendment (A/AC.38/L.61) to delete the reference to the Conciliation Commission in paragraph 1 of the four-Power joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.57) was rejected by 39 votes to 5, with one abstention.

(b) The U.S.S.R. amendment (A/AC.38/L.61) to delete paragraph 2 of the four-Power joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.57) was rejected by 45 votes to 5, with one abstention.

(c) The Chinese amendment (A/AC.38/L.64) was adopted by a roll-call vote of 33 votes to 13, with 9 abstentions, as follows :

In favour : Afghanistan, Bolivia, Brazil, Burma, Chile, China, Colombia, Denmark, Ecuador, Egypt, El Salvador, Ethiopia, Greece, Haiti, Iceland, India, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, Liberia, Mexico, Norway, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Sweden, Syria, Thailand, Venezuela, Yemen, Yugoslavia.

Against : Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic, Canada, Czechoslovakia, France, Israel, Poland, Turkey, Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, Union of South Africa, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, United States of America, Uruguay.

Abstaining : Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Panama.

(d) The four-Power joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.57), as amended, was adopted by 43 votes to 5, with 5 abstentions.

11. After the adoption of the four-Power joint draft resolution, as amended, the representative of Israel withdrew his draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.60), the representatives of Ethiopia and Pakistan withdrew their joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.62) and the representative of Egypt withdrew his draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.30/Rev.1).

12. The U.S.S.R. draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.66) was rejected by a roll-call vote of 46 votes to 5, with one abstention, as follows :

In favour : Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Against : Afghanistan, Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Burma, Canada, Chile, China, Colombia, Cuba, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Egypt, El Salvador, Ethiopia, France, Greece, Iceland, Indonesia, Iran, Israel, Lebanon, Liberia, Mexico, Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Pakistan, Panama, Peru, Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Sweden, Syria, Thailand, Turkey, Union of South Africa, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, United States of America, Uruguay, Venezuela, Yemen, Yugoslavia.

Abstaining : Iraq.

13. The Ad Hoc Political Committee accordingly recommends that the General Assembly adopt the following draft resolution :

PALESTINE : PROGRESS REPORT OF THE UNITED NATIONS CONCILIATION COMMISSION FOR PALESTINE; REPATRIATION OR RESETTLEMENT OF PALESTINE REFUGEES AND PAYMENT OF COMPENSATION DUE TO THEM

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948,

Having examined with appreciation the general progress report, dated 22 September 1950, and the supplementary report, dated 23 October 1950, of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine,

Noting with concern :

(a) That agreement has not been reached between the parties on the final settlement of the questions outstanding between them,

(b) That the repatriation, resettlement, economic and social rehabilitation of the refugees and the payment of compensation have not been effected,

Recognizing that, in the interests of the peace and stability of the Near East, the refugee question should be dealt with as a matter of urgency,

1. Urges the governments and authorities concerned to seek agreement by negotiations conducted either with the Conciliation Commission or directly, with a view to the final settlement of all questions outstanding between them;

2. Directs the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine to establish an Office which, under the direction of the Commission, shall :

(a) Make such arrangements as it may consider necessary for the assessment and payment of compensation in pursuance of paragraph 11 of General Assembly resolution 194 (III) of 11 December 1948;

(b) Work out such arrangements as may be practicable for the implementation of the other objectives of paragraph 11 of the said resolution;

(c) Continue consultations with the parties concerned regarding measures for the protection of the rights, property and interests of the refugees;

3. Calls upon the governments concerned to undertake measures to ensure that refugees, whether repatriated or resettled, will be treated without any discrimination either in law or in fact.

Financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee (A/1646) : report of the Fifth Committee

1. In accordance with rule 152 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly and the request of the President in his letter dated 7 December 1950 to the Chairman of the Fifth Committee (A/C.5/437), the Fifth Committee, at its 278th meeting held on 11 December 1950, considered the financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee concerning the report of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine and the question of the repatriation of Palestine refugees, including the payment of compensation due to them (A/1646).

2. The Fifth Committee had before it a report of the Secretary-General (A/C.5/440), together with the thirty-sixth report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (A/1653). The Secretary-General estimated that, for the purpose of continuing in 1951 the activities of the United Nations Conciliation Commission for Palestine, with the additional tasks assigned to it under the draft resolution of the Ad Hoc Political Committee, budgetary provision would be required in the amount of $716,800 under chapter V of section 5 of the budget estimates and $7,000 under chapter V of section 25 (contractual printing). These estimates took account also of the resolution (S/1907) adopted by the Security Council at its 524th meeting on 17 November 1950, providing for the continuation of the supervision of the four Mixed Armistice Commissions by the United Nations Chief of Staff of the Truce Supervision Organization, and requesting the latter to report periodically to the Security Council on all decisions made by the four Mixed Armistice Commissions. It was explained by the Secretary-General in his report to the Fifth Committee that his estimates were on the same basis as for 1950, except for the addition of three persons to the staff of the Conciliation Commission for the purpose of implementing paragraph 2 of the resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee, under which the Commission is directed to establish an office to deal with repatriation and compensation of Palestine refugees.

3. The Advisory Committee expressed the view that an adjustment of subsistence allowances for observers as from 1 January 1951 should be effected, with a consequent saving of approximately $15,000 and that further savings should be possible on the proposed expenditures for temporary assistance and miscellaneous supplies and contractual services. Accordingly, it recommended that provision should be made in the 1951 budget in the amount of $700,000, representing a reduction of $23,800 on the estimate submitted by the Secretary-General. The Fifth Committee was informed that offsetting revenue estimated at $38,000 would accrue in respect of contributions under the staff assessment plan. The hope was also expressed by the Advisory Committee that the detailed field survey of the administrative arrangements in force both for the Conciliation Commission and the Truce Supervision Organization which the Secretary-General intended to undertake during 1951 would result in staff economies, together with reductions in other expenditures.

4. The representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics stated that his delegation did not approve of the resolution recommended by the Ad Hoc Political Committee, under which new tasks would be assigned to the Palestine Conciliation Commission, in view of the fact that, since its establishment in 1948, this Commission had failed to carry out the duties entrusted to it by the General Assembly. Since no results had so far been achieved, the U.S.S.R. delegation had proposed in the Ad Hoc Political Committee that the Conciliation Commission should be dissolved, and the U.S.S.R. representative would therefore be compelled to vote against the provision of any further appropriations for this activity. The representative of Israel, in explanation of his vote, stated that his delegation would abstain in view of its objection to the provisions of sub-paragraph 2 (c) of the Ad Hoc Political Committee's draft resolution.

5. The recommendations of the Advisory Committee were approved by 30 votes to 4, with 3 abstentions.

6. The Fifth Committee therefore decided to inform the General Assembly that the adoption of the draft resolution of the Ad Hoc Political Committee would require budgetary provision to be made in 1951 in the amount of $700,000.

INTRODUCTION

1. In the study of the efforts undertaken and the results obtained in the Fezzan by the administering Power, it should always be borne in mind that the territory is a purely Saharan one. The Saharan population is very mixed ethnically, is partly sedentary and partly nomadic, and has remained at a rather low standard of living, since its requirements are limited by the slenderness of resources; the Saharan economy, which is strictly dependent upon water, has a low production value and its least development requires the appropriation of funds which are too often disproportionate with the results that may be expected. Whenever agriculture in the Sahara is referred to, the areas in question are gardens or minute plots, never fields. Accordingly, the figures in this report should be considered from the Saharan point of view, whether the subject is agricultural land, production of cereals or social development. Everything is on a modest scale, like the country itself.

2. The essential basic data relating to the Fezzan are contained in the report of the Commission of Investigation for the former Italian colonies, drawn up in 1948,¹ and will not be repeated here.

3. The object of this report is :

(a) To supplement the information contained in the report of the Commission of Investigation;

(b) To describe the measures taken in the Fezzan in pursuance of the United Nations resolution of 21 November 1949;²

(c) To set forth the plans drawn up by the French administration to ensure the rational development of the territory.

I. POLITICAL DEVELOPMENT

A. ESTABLISHMENT OF A TRANSITIONAL RÉGIME

4. In compliance with the resolution of the United Nations General Assembly of 21 November 1949, a transitional régime was instituted in the Fezzan as from the beginning of 1950. Its object is to ensure wider participation by the local population in the conduct of public affairs, with due consideration for the special position of the territory. The territory is vast and contains inhabited areas separated by great stretches of desert. Its inhabitants, who are of different races and have different customs, are further diversified by their way of life, which may be sedentary, nomadic or seminomadic.³ It should also be noted that there is no large urban centre in the territory.

5. In accordance with the decision of the French Resident in the Fezzan of 24 January 1950, the village chiefs and *Jemaa*⁴ were invited to meet in their respective principal towns to appoint three representatives for each of the seventeen mudirias and three for the Ghadames region. These delegates, who met in assembly at Sebha on 12 February, proceeded to elect the chief of the territory.

6. Ahmed Bey Seif el Nasr was elected unanimously by the fifty-eight representatives. The Tuareg delegates, however, refused to take part in the election, expressing their wish to maintain relations with the Confederation of the Adjer Tuaregs, to which they belong. As the result of the discussion, Ahmed Bey Seif el Nasr was proclaimed chief of the territory of the Fezzan.

7. The second stage was the establishment, by the French Resident's decision of 12 February, of a transitional régime for the territory. The main points of this régime are as follows :

(a) Under its provisions are enacted concerning the constitution of public powers whereby Ahmed Bey Seif el Nasr, the Chief of the territory, is to be assisted in his task of government by three to six Fezzanese Counsellors, eight Assistant Counsellors and a Consultative Assembly, composed of elected representatives of the Jemaa and of the nomadic tribes;

(b) It defines the competence of the new Fezzanese public authorities in questions of internal policy, organization and administration;

(c) It enumerates the powers retained by the Resident during the transition period; these powers relate mainly to foreign relations and the defence of the Fezzan.⁵

8. By a decree of 16 February 1950, Ahmed Bey Seif el Nasr appointed the following Counsellors and Assistant Counsellors :

Counsellors :

Counsellor for the Interior and for Justice : Haj Hamuda ben Tahar

Counsellor for Economic, Agricultural and Financial Affairs : Nasr ben Salem

Counsellor for Health and Public Education : El Mahdi ben Ahmed

Assistant Counsellors :

Do ben el Haj Mohammed

Mohammed Lamir ben Mohammed

Haj Ali ben Mohammed Bediwi

Nasr ben Tahar ben Brahim

Sherif Ali ben Mohammed

Belgacem Bugila

Tahar ben Abdullah Jerari

Sheikh Mabruq ben Ali

9. The above persons constitute a small administrative council to assist Ahmed Bey and his Counsellors in all questions concerning the internal life of the territory.

10. The following were set up by decrees of the same date :

(a) A police to be responsible for internal security, headed by a Fezzanese, Salah ben Salem ben Abdennebi.

⁵ The texts of the decisions of the Resident, of the decrees of the Chief of the Territory and of the Charter of the Transitional Régime of the Fezzan are reproduced below as annexes.

(b) The posts of qadis for each of the four sub-divisions of the territory. The following persons were appointed to these posts :

In the Shatti : Mohammed ben Abdullah el Ayat;

At Murzuq : Ahmed ben Haj Senussi Sofu;

At Ghadames : El Mahdi ben Haj Mohammed;

At Sebha-Ubari : (post vacant—candidate not yet appointed).

11. The Consultative Assembly met at Sebha on 14 and 15 March to discuss certain internal affairs. At the request of the representatives of Ghadames, the representative of the Fezzan to the Council of Ten was appointed. The choice fell upon Ahmed ben Haj Senussi Sofu, Qadi of Murzuq.

12. On 24 July, at the recommendation of his council, Ahmed Bey appointed the following seven persons to represent the Fezzan on the Preparatory Committee of Twenty-One.

Ali ben Abdennebi el Maghtuf

Tahar ben Abdullah el Jerari

Mohammed Otman ben Ahmed Sid

Belgacem ben Lamir Bugila

Haj Ali ben Mohammed Bediwi

Ahmed ben Mohammed Tebuli

El Mahdi ben Haj Mohammed Hiba

13. Thus, the political and administrative organ is now composed as follows : one Chief of the Territory, assisted by a Council, one Consultative Assembly and, in each sub-division : one quadi, some mudirs, some village chiefs, some village or tribal Jemaa.

14. The question of the "Libyanization of the services" does not arise in the Fezzan, since, owing to the very small number of representatives of the administering Power in the territory, the Fezzanese have always held administrative, judicial and other posts. The problem in this extremely under-developed country is, therefore, one of training a certain number of persons in the procedure of modern affairs and to make them aware of the responsibilities that the political development of the territory will involve. That is the task with which the French administrators are concerned both in Sebha, where the Council has its headquarters, and in the sub-divisions.

B. THE POPULATION OF THE FEZZAN

General

15. The Fezzan is the gathering place of the following three large groups of nomads :

(a) In the north and north-west: Arabic speaking and Moslem tribes, parts of which have now settled in the Shatti region.

(b) In the west: Tuaregs, belonging to the extensive Ajer confederation, of Berber race and language, superficially Moslemized (Oraghen, Imanghassaten, Tin Alkum). They are not numerous, but have retained their social structure and original customs. Some of them have become partly stationary in the western part of the Wadi Ajal and in the Wadi Atba.

(c) In the south-east: the Tebus, who are of Ethiopian race, speak a Sudanese dialect and are absolutely Moslemized. They are practically the only real nomads in the Fezzan.

16. The oasis villages of the Fezzan are permanently inhabited by the settled population; these people are Arabic-speaking Moslems, of mixed Arabic, Berber and Sudanese race. Their colour varies from pure white to the extreme negroid type and they include a wide range of mixed blood. They are the Fezzanese proper.

Nomads

17. The nomads who are based in the Fezzan or who have interests there may be divided into four wide groups.

(a) The nomads of the Gibla. The Gibla is a region situated between the Jebel Nefussa, Gharian and Messellata on one side and the Shatti on the other side. It includes two natural regions, the Hammada in the west and the beginning of the great Tripolitanian Oueds in the east. The latter region, which is the only fertile one, is disputed by the various groups of the nomads of the Gibla, among whom are the following :

(i) The nomads based in the Shatti (Megarha, Hothnan, Guayd, Zuayd and some Zentan). They have palm trees and houses in the Shatti and wander in the regions north of the Shatti, where they stop at the line between Shuiref, Gueria, Togba and Sinauen. In exceptional cases of extreme drought, they send their flocks as far as the Jebel, in the Sirte Valley, or to the Tarat region in Ajjer territory. Only the Megarhas own cultivated land in the large oueds which run down to the Tripolitanian coast, and they remain in the zone south of El-bey and Ruaus.

(ii) The nomads based in the Jebel and in the north (Zentan, Ulad bu Seif, Meshashia, Orfella). These nomads follow the north-south line, but are checked by the nomads of the Shatti. They own some palm trees in that region, and only come to it at the time of the date harvest, often in order to pillage.

(b) Nomads of the Sirte. In the troubled periods of its history, the Fezzan has been the scene of competition between the nomads of the Gibla and those of the Sirte. Now there are hardly any more Ulad Sliman, Gedadfa and others. They hardly ever leave the Jebel Soda and the Harruj, which is the area of the Riach, Sukna and some Ulad Sliman.

(c) The Tuaregs. The Tuareg tribes which wander through the western part of the Fezzan belong to the Confederation of the Ajjer Tuareg, based on the Tassili range. Most of them breed camels and conduct caravans. The following tribes occur in the Fezzan :

(i) The Oraghen, whose range is the Tassili, the Messa and the Ramla of Ubari. In winter, the chief of the tribe settles his camp near the well of Tarambie in the Ubari region. The 1,350 Oraghen counted in the territory are semi-nomadic. Approximately 300 of them have become completely settled in the western Ajal.

(ii) The Imanghassaten, of whom there are 450 in the Fezzan, wander from the Tassili to the neighbourhood of Derj, passing by Ubari Edri and following the western edge of the Hamada. They own several plots of land at Derj itself.

(iii) The Keltin Alkum, a marabout tribe, vassals of the Oraghen, are based on the Wadi Etba and wander from Ghat to Gatrums through the Oued Aberju and the Hofra. They are semi-nomadic and there are 430 of them in the territory.

(iv) Some widely scattered members of the Ajjer Tuareg tribes, such as Imoqarassen, Ibottenaten, Kel Izaban, Indenden and Kel Tadrart.

(d) The Tebus. The 660 Tebus, about 200 of whom have mixed with the Fezzanese, have become absolutely stationary in the Gatrums region; they wander in the Ben Gnenema and the Tibesti, where they maintain contact with the main tribe of the Tebus, whose race, language and customs they share. They are caravan conductors, and send most of their products to the markets of Gatrums and Murzuq.

Settled population

18. The settled population, which is uniformly known as Fezzanese, constitutes the majority of the population (approximately 32,000). The original stock is white Berber, with the addition of an Arab-Berber immigration and a strong sprinkling of Ethiopians, so that the population includes a full range of colour.

19. This settled population is by no means universal in type, since it springs from an amalgam of races. Nevertheless, although they have retained their original dialect (Tamalaq in the Ajal, Haussa or Kanori at Murzuq, Tebu at Gatrums), the Fezzanese speak Arabic and are all Moslems. They classify themselves into two categories, according to their actual or supposed origin: Ahrar, or free men, and Shuashina, or descendants of slaves.

20. In actual fact, this settled population may be classified into two broad categories according to their standard of living :

(a) The more or less wealthy middle class which formerly used to derive a handsome profit from the caravan trade between the Sudan and the coast and at present owns most of the cultivated plots;

(b) The workers, who cultivate the plots, often for the account of the middle class; they work under customary contracts which render their standard of living abnormally low.

21. The Fezzanese settled population lives in villages built in valleys where the water table is near the surface and hence makes agriculture possible. Their activities are almost wholly agricultural (palm trees, grains and vegetables), trade being relatively unimportant.

Statistical data relating to the population

22. Statistical data relating to the population are as follows :

Total population: 42,280 inhabitants (in 1947).

Classification of the total population:

(1) By administrative sub-divisions:

The Shatti has 16,700 inhabitants, divided by mudiria as follows :

- Stationary mudiria of Brach : 4,990
- Semi-nomad mudiria of Megarha : 2,100
- Mudiria* of Hassauna : 3,010

(3) Classification by race

The Fezzanese stationary population is of mixed stock (Arab, Berber and Fezzanese). Although some of the Tebus and Tuaregs have become absolutely settled, they are included in the following table under the heading Tebus or Tuaregs.

Sub-divisions	Fezzanese	Tebus	Tuaregs	Arab-Berbers
Shatti	8,800			7,900
Sedha-Ubari	11,900		1,800
Murzuq	9,790	660	430
TOTALS	30,490	660	2,230	7,900

(4) Classification by language

All the inhabitants of the Fezzan, including the nomads, speak Arabic. The Tebus and the Tuaregs are bilingual. They have preserved their original languages : Tedda, in the case of the Tebus; and Tamashaq, in the case of the Tuaregs.

(5) Classification by religion

All the natives of the Fezzan are Moslems.

(6) Classification by mode of living

The population of the Fezzan consists of the settled population, which is in the majority; of pure nomads, of whom there are very few; and of semi-nomads who, although they derive their means of subsistence mainly from livestock, also own plots of land or at least palm trees and houses where they live for part of the year. The following table gives a classification of these categories in sub-divisions :

Sub-division	Settled	Semi-nomadic	Nomadic
Shatti	8,800	7,900
Sebha-Ubari	12,200	1,500
Murzuq	10,000	430	450
TOTALS	31,000	9,830	450

(7) Classification by social class

(a) Urban population: There are no urban centres.

(b) Rural population: The settled population of the villages may be classified into five groups, according to wealth. The first three categories, which constitute the poor and even indigent class of the Fezzanese population, comprise 75 per cent of the total population; 20 per cent of the population are middle-class landowners, and 4 per cent rich landowners. The result of this distribution of wealth is that the trader is often the most important person in the locality, although in many cases the traders are recent immigrants. After them come the religious dignitaries (shorfas and marabouts) and the nomads; the remainder, which is the great majority, is mainly preoccupied with earning a bare living and was never consulted in any question until the establishment of the French administration.

Tribes

23. The life of the nomads is regulated by the tribal system. The tribe represents the gathering around an originally homogeneous racial core of varied vassal elements, who may be called a clientele. At present, all these elements in practice live on an equal footing.

24. Each nomadic tribe or part of a tribe is headed by a chief, who is always a highly respected man, chosen by the members of his tribe, usually from the same family, on the grounds of age, experience or holiness. His authority is unchallenged, except sometimes by the rival pretender. In return, he treats all the members of the tribe with great justice. The internal structure of the Tuareg tribe is subject to matriarchal laws.

25. The classification of the tribes among themselves is based more on their military ardour and their aptitude for the nomadic life than on their degree of wealth. Thus, the nomads in the Fezzan may be classified in the following order :

(a) The Tebus, who, having no material needs, are the only real nomads;

(b) The Imanghassaten, the Zentan and the Megarha, who live in villages during part of the year;

(c) Finally, all the half-settled tribes : Guayd, Hothanen, Oraghen.

26. Their classification into ruling and vassal classes is given in the following tables :

Sub-divisions	Wealthy Landowners	Average Landowners	Small-holders	Agricultural Workers	Jebbad
Shatti	79	166	607	313	287
Sebha-Ubari.	95	629	604	662	450
Murzuq . . .	45	460	428	915	218
TOTALS ..	219	1,255	1,639	1,890	955

(a) The jebbad (called rebaa in the Shatti) is the drawer of water. He is bound to his landowner by a contract of indebtedness; he receives wages equal to one-third of the harvest (one-quarter until 1946). Since he has no possessions and his wages are barely sufficient for subsistence, he can never discharge his debt. The administering Power has taken steps to improve his lot and abolish this form of disguised slavery, by forcing the landowners to give the jebbad one-third of the harvest instead of one-quarter and by paying off his debt for him.⁶

(b) The agricultural worker, who possesses only the few tools essential for his work on the plots of land, and works for a landowner, for a wage slightly higher than that of the jebbad. His standard of living is also extremely low.

(c) The small-holder, who possesses only one plot, which he cultivates himself and which enables him to live very poorly with his family.

(d) The average landowner is not much more prosperous than the small-holder. Nevertheless, he does not work and lives on the proceeds of the work of one jebbad or agricultural worker with whom he is associated and whom he provides with seeds and working tools.

(e) The wealthy landowners represent the only prosperous class in the country. They live on the produce of several plots of land, which are worked by jebbad and agricultural workers. In some cases, there is an additional income from other activities (traders and officials).

Emigration

27. The Fezzanese emigrate mainly to Tripolitania (approximately one-half), and then to Tunisia and Cyrenaica, in that order. These are the three principal poles of attraction. The largest numbers of emigrants come from the Shatti (three-quarters), although this region has the best water supply.

⁶ See chapter VIII.

28. The following table gives the number of emigrants per administrative sub-division :

Sub-divisions	To Tripolitania	To Cyrenaica	To Tunisia	Miscellaneous Egyptian Sudan
Shatti ..	646	164	277	14
Sebha ..	54	52	69	6
TOTALS .	742	279	410	44

29. In most cases, adult men leave the country alone, leaving their families behind. Such emigration is, therefore, temporary (two or three years) and even seasonal, as in the mudirias of Traghen, Oum El Araneb and Zuila. These expatriate Fezzanese work as gardeners or labourers and return to their country when they have been able to buy a few chattels and accumulate some small savings.

C. THE INTEGRATION OF THE FEZZANESE IN THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE TERRITORY

The position under the Italian administration

30. For administrative purposes the Italians applied to the Fezzan the same rules as those applied in Tripolitania and Cyrenaica : they divided the country into a certain number of small districts, each headed by an appointed official, the mudir. The latter was assisted by a kateb (secretary). His competence was limited and he had to refer constantly to the Italian authorities. In fact, his function consisted chiefly in being responsible for the collection of taxes.

31. Each administrative district was also a judicial district, with a qadi who was assisted by an assessor and a clerk.

32. For the purposes of health and hygiene, a certain number of Fezzanese hospital orderlies were trained to staff the village dispensaries.

French administration (1943-1949)

33. The measures taken ever since the French occupation began have been motivated by the wish to develop an autonomous administration in the Fezzan and to appoint Fezzanese to the largest possible number of posts.

Administrative organization

34. From 1943 to 1949, the French administrative organization in the Fezzan included the following :

(a) A military governor, responsible for drawing up the budget of the territory, preparing a programme of public works, directing the economy and maintaining order. He was helped by an assistant.

(b) Three officers, each commanding one of the three sub-divisions of Shatti, Sebha-Ubari and Murzuq, with three officer-interpreters.

35. The expenses of this staff were borne entirely by the French budget.

36. The following administrative measures were taken :

(a) The post of mutassarif (equivalent to that of a local governor), which had existed since the Turkish occupation and had been abolished by the Italians, was re-established. Nevertheless, whereas the Ottoman administrative organization had made this official responsible mainly for the collection of taxes, the competence of the new mutassarif was extended considerably : he served as an arbitrator in tribal disputes, gave instructions to the mudirs, was competent in all Moslem cultural questions and advised the French authorities in administering the Territory.

(b) The mudirs were retained, but their powers were extended. The mudir is the chief official in his mudiria. He is, in fact, the direct administrator of the territory. He is competent to settle all local disputes, but is obliged to refer to the qadi in cases involving Moslem personal status and to the French authorities in criminal cases. The seventeen mudirs of the Territory are locally recruited Moslem officials. They draw their salary from the local budget. This salary amounts to 156,000 francs a year. Each of them is assisted by a kateb (secretary), who receives 61,800 francs a year, and by a shaush (policeman) who receives 43,200 francs. All these officials are entitled to family allowances of 2,400 francs per child annually.

(c) Each village or part of a tribe is headed by a sheikh, elected by the population. The sheikhs assist the mudirs in all questions which concern their village or the special interests of their electors. Although the sheikhs are not officials properly so-called, they receive an annual allowance of 3,000 francs from the ordinary budget.

(d) An attempt was made in 1945 to set up an intermediate administrative post between the mudirs and the French administration. A qadi was appointed at Sebha-Ubari to supervise and co-ordinate the activities of all the mudirs of one district. This experiment was successful and the institution was extended to the remainder of the territory.

Administration of justice

37. Justice is administered by the qadis, who are competent in all questions of personal status and Mohammedan law.

38. The territory is divided into three mahakma districts, corresponding to each of the administrative districts. The Moslem judicial staff includes the following :

3 qadis with an annual salary of	156,000 francs
6 assessors	61,800 »
3 aouns	43,200 »

(To these salaries should be added the above-mentioned family allowances and the allowances for responsibility for the mahakma treasuries.)

Education

39. This question is dealt with at length in chapter VI.

40. With regard to local staff, Moslem monitors who can teach in Arabic and in French have been recruited.

Their number varies from one year to another, and is six at present. Each monitor receives an annual salary of 64,800 francs, with family allowances.

Hygiene and health

41. For the purposes of medical assistance, Fezzanese have been recruited to help French medical officers and to staff village infirmaries.

42. This staff now consists of the following :

3 first-class hospital orderlies with a salary of	84,000 francs
10 second-class hospital orderlies with a salary of	78,000 »
9 third-class hospital orderlies with a salary of	72,000 » plus a possible bonus for technical achievement and family allowances (see also chapter VII).

Miscellaneous

43. The administration has made a point of appointing Fezzanese to the greatest possible number of posts on the ordinary budget.

44. The post office at Sebha has one employee with an annual salary of 40,600 francs. A postman in each of the three sub-divisions distributes the mail and receives an annual salary of 43,200 francs.

45. The experimental plots of the territory are maintained by nine local gardeners, who receive 50,400 francs each.

46. The administrative buildings are maintained by employees who receive 54,000 francs per year and are guarded by shaushes who receive 97,200 francs.

47. Nine Fezzanese, who are paid 60,000 francs per year, are employed in the garage and in the car park.

48. All these employees are entitled to family allowances.

French administration since 1 January 1950

49. After the adoption of United Nations resolution 289 A (IV), changes were introduced in the organization of the territory. The first stages were explained in part A of this report. The annual salaries for the new posts are given below :

1 chief of the territory	1,200,000 francs
3 counsellors	480,000 »
(plus an allowance of 120,000 francs for each)
8 assistant counsellors	240,000 francs each
8 secretaries	120,000 »
4 qadis	360,000 »

50. The principle of paying an allowance to each member of the Consultative Assembly has been agreed to.

D. THE ORGANIZATION OF THE jemaa

51. The jemaa is a political institution which has existed throughout the Berber territory since time immemorial. This old traditional body is constituted by a meeting of all the heads of families and represents a real assembly of the people. The jemaa has supreme power, which it does not delegate. It is not only a legislative body, but also an executive and sometimes a judicial organ. It is based upon the principle that the people should make and carry out decisions themselves.

52. The Italian administrative régime abolished the jemaa and substituted for them a system of mudirs, officials who were appointed by the administration and whose authority extended over a group of villages belonging to the same natural region or over a nomad tribe or part of a tribe.

53. Although the French administrators retained the organization which they found upon their arrival, they took care to restore to the jemaa the important function which they should never have lost. Their actions were motivated by a twofold consideration, namely, to set up a relatively simple basic political body which would be well suited to the life of the country and which might constitute the vanguard of the democratic organization of the Territory, and, secondly, to make the jemaa responsible for supervising the activities of the mudirs.

54. At an early stage it was decided that in every settled village or part of a nomad tribe all the heads of families should meet together in local assembly and elect a chief. This chief would assist the mudir in his activities, advise him and defend the interests of his electors. The chief thus became a real municipal delegate. He received no payment from the community, but the administration acknowledged the importance of his services by paying him a small annual allowance, although care was taken not to give him the status of an official.

55. After this initial reform had proved to be successful, the custom arose, when the post of a mudir became vacant, of requesting the jemaa of the particular mudiria to choose the new mudir themselves, while the authorities confined themselves to investing them with administrative powers.

56. The jemaa, thus reconstituted, found their real political vocation at the time of the arrival of the Four Power Commission of Investigation in 1948. The Commission had asked that each village or nomad tribe should appoint representatives whom it could hear. The people chose to be represented by the jemaa. It may be said that the whole male population of the territory—landowners, traders, agricultural workers and even the jebbad, for the first time in the history of the Fezzan—were called upon to give their views on problems concerning the community as a whole and going beyond the simple framework of the village or tribe.

57. This democratic experiment was completed at the time of the establishment of the Consultative Assembly of the Fezzan in January 1950. The jemaa of each village or part of a tribe was called upon to elect six representatives. The persons thus chosen met at the headquarters of each mudiria to appoint three delegates to the Assembly.

58. When the population had thus proved its attachment to this traditional institution, the Consultative Assembly decided on 15 March to codify the existence of the jemaa. Henceforward, they will consist of four to six members, according to the size of the community which they represent. The representatives will be elected by an electoral college comprising all the heads of families. They will elect a chairman who will automatically assume the functions of chief of the village or part of a tribe. The newly-defined functions of the jemaa are to protect the interests of the population, to assist the chief of the village in his work, especially in the apportionment of taxes, and to take part in appointing the mudir, whom it is to assist, in an advisory capacity, in administering the community.

59. This resolution, which was approved by Ahmed Bey Seif El Nasr, has come into operation.

60. The new jemaa, which is really representative of the population's wishes, is a system the basis of which is no less essentially democratic because it is traditional. It should make it possible for the Territory to develop along the lines desired by the United Nations. Under the existing conditions, an accurate idea of the wishes of the population can only be obtained through the agency of the Fezzanese jemaa. The persons whom they have appointed to carry out functions on a higher level of the political hierarchy are as representative as possible of the opinion of the majority of the inhabitants of the territory. Every effort should be made to improve and develop the jemaa, the importance of which in the future life of the country cannot be overestimated.

II. FINANCE AND BUDGET

A. GENERAL

61. An order issued at Algiers by the French Committee of National Liberation on 1 September 1943 provides that " the expenditures incurred in the administration of the Fezzan-Ghadames territory (other than the cost of military occupation) and the revenue therefrom shall form the subject of a budget annexed to the budget of the territories of the South of Algeria "

62. The budget provides for all expenditures arising from the remuneration of the staff of the administrative and judicial services, the operation of medical, social assistance and education services, and the setting up of facilities for road, hydraulic and building works.

63. The budget consists of an ordinary and a special budget.

64. The revenue of the ordinary budget is derived from various taxes, dues and duties, the sale of natron, which is a state monopoly, and, since 1947, by receipts from the sale abroad of series of Fezzan postage stamps. The resources of the ordinary budget are insufficient to cover the cost of maintenance and day to day expenses of the country. The ordinary budget shows an excess of expenditure over revenue of 3,601,904 francs in the financial year 1948 and 16,268,099 francs in 1949, the deficits being covered by grants from the French Government.

65. The special expenditures, which are entirely covered by Treasury advances from the French Government, relate to the payment of the salaries of European staff and the equipment of the country (hydraulic works, improvement of means of communication, etc.). The special budget was relatively small in 1944, 1945 and 1946, during which years topographical, geographical and geological surveys of the territory were carried out. It was not until 1947 that work was begun on the execution of a systematic five-year plan for the drilling of shallow wells. The large scale schemes for the improvement of tracks were also undertaken in that year. Expenditure rose from 310,139 francs in 1946 to 7,193,207 in 1947, to 15,116,094 in 1948 and to 16,931,009 in 1949.

66. During the next five-year period, beginning in 1952, it is planned to drill deep wells which will involve a considerable increase in expenditure.

B. BUDGET ESTIMATES FOR 1950

67. In the budget estimates for 1950, the ordinary revenue is shown as 33,950,000 francs, including 10 million francs from the sale of stamps abroad. Ordinary expenditure is estimated at 40,657,000 francs, leaving a deficit of 6,707,200 francs.

68. The total special expenditure is 106,763,365 francs, to which must be added 13 million francs in loans making a total of 119,763,365 francs to be borne wholly by the French Treasury. A grant from the French Government will be applied under the following headings :

	Millions of francs
Construction of buildings	35
Organization of new services	30
Well drilling	30
Improvement of tracks	5
European staff	7
Deficit of ordinary budget	6

69. The substantial increase in expenditure in 1950 is attributable to the introduction of new political organs and the execution of the first instalment of the schemes for the construction of new buildings and hydraulic works. Expenditure will increase further in future years as the administrative organization of the country is developed and perfected. There is an obvious need for new sources of revenue to offset the increasingly large budget deficit.

C. TAXES

70. The direct taxes are levied on crops :

(a) In the case of dates, the amount is 5.75 per cent of the crop as estimated by the Valuation Board, 0.75 per cent of which is the Board's fee. In 1948 the tax on dates yielded 7,086,605 francs and in 1949, when the crop was particularly poor, 3 million.

(b) In the case of grains, the amount of the tax is 6 per cent of the estimated crop, 1 per cent of which is the Valuation Board's fee. In 1948 the yield was 2,188,980 francs and in 1949, 2,500,000 francs.

71. Dates and cereals are collected by the mudirs in keeping with the figures provided by the Valuation Board. The rates of taxation are uniform. Crops of under 100 kilogrammes are exempt from taxation.

72. Particulars of the various indirect taxes levied in the Fezzan and their rates are given in an annexed note.

73. Direct taxes have been kept at a relatively low level owing to the precarious economic circumstances of the population as a whole. There has been a marked improvement in their position in the present year, and in 1950 the Fezzanese will for the first time have surplus products other than dates to sell. There is reason to hope that in the near future it will be possible to effect an increase in direct taxation which would make it possible to balance the ordinary budget without having recourse to the sale of stamps.

D. ADVANCES AND LOANS GRANTED ANNUALLY BY THE ADMINISTERING POWER

74. Fezzanese farmers generally have no ready cash and sell their wheat as soon as it is harvested in order to procure clothing and tea. The result is a difficult period during the winter months, March and April. In many cases they even sell the wheat they will need to sow their land for the next season. To remedy this situation, the Administration has found it necessary to grant loans of various kinds.

(a) Grain seed loans. These loans in kind are granted to the owners of gardens, on application submitted through the mudir and must be used exclusively as seed. The quantity of grain advanced is established in accordance with the following scale :

- Up to 1946* : 16 kilogrammes of wheat and 4 kilogrammes of barley per well
- In 1947* : 15 kilogrammes of wheat and 8 kilogrammes of barley per well
- In 1948* : 30 kilogrammes of wheat and 16 kilogrammes of barley per well
- In 1949 and 1950* : 30 kilogrammes of wheat and 60 kilogrammes of barley per well

No interest is payable to the administration. The loans are repaid after the harvest, normally in kind. The total of the loans granted is (thousand francs) :

	1945	1946	1947	1948	1949
Wheat.....	472	978	2,226	2,120	2,650
Barley.....	110	202	675	600	700
TOTALS ..	592	1,108	2,901	2,720	3,350

(b) Date loans. During the winter, the poor in the Fezzan live on dates. The dates received as tax are taken up at harvest time and distributed later as required. These interest-free loans, are repaid in kind at the following harvest. Under this measure, instituted in 1946, 540 tons of dates have been distributed to a value of (thousand francs) :

1946	1947	1948	1949
2,000	1,400	1,200	1,200

(c) Agricultural loans in cash. Annual interest-free loans in cash are granted to farmers for the extension and improvement of their gardens (artesian wells, pump installations, etc.). The loans are repayable at the next harvest, in cash or in kind as the borrower prefers. The value of the loans granted is as follows (thousand francs) :

1945	1946	1947	1948	1949
1,500	1,700	3,000	3,000	3,000

(d) Loans to the general food service of the Fezzan. A type of co-operative society has been set up to purchase at the most favourable prices the foodstuffs the Fezzan is obliged to import, and to build up a stockpile of foodstuffs : in 1947 its working capital was provided by (francs) :

Five million advanced by Fezzan traders participating in the society;

Five million in the form of loans by the Government-General of Algeria;

Six million included in the local budget and constituting the participation of the Administration of the Fezzan.

Since 1944, the figures for the Administration's participation in the financing of the society have been as follows (thousand francs) :

2,000	3,000	3,455.7	6,000	11,000	10,000

An appropriation of 10 million francs is included in the 1950 budget.

75. The following tables are annexed to this chapter :

(a) One summary table of budget revenues and expenditures;

(b) Two tables giving revenue and expenditure as a percentage of the total budget;

(c) Two detailed tables of the revenues and expenditures of the territory in 1948 and 1949;

(d) A note establishing the rates of the various indirect taxes levied in the Fezzan.

^a 1944 to 1946 was a period of surveys and preparation; the great reconstruction effort explains the size of appropriations for maintenance.

^b Between 1947 to 1950 the first part of the hydraulic plan was put in hand; as the Fezzan was unable to bear the cost, the major part was covered by grants of the French Government.

Note: These figures are percentages of the total figure.

^a The production of natron was approximately 20 tons, instead of the usual 100.

^b In 1946, there was a heavy smuggling traffic with the Chad.

III. AGRICULTURE

A. TABLES OF AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION

Dates

76. The following figures are based on tax returns and hence certainly lower than the real figures. Some Fezzanese admit that they declare no more than one-third or even one-quarter of their crop.

77. Dates are the chief wealth of the Fezzan which has approximately 12 million palms. Of this number, only one-tenth or little more than one million, are productive.

Region	1944	1945	1946	1947	1948	1949
			(Tons)
Shatti	1,110	681	1,371	743	760	1,040
Sebha-Ubari	1,320	547	1,097	466	880	1,570
Murzuq	1,030	691	1,381	744	1,050	1,007
TOTAL	3,460	1,919	3,849	1,953	2,690	3,617

Grains

78. The only figures available are for winter grains (wheat and barley) the only grains in respect of which tax returns are filed.

79. In 1950, the production of grain will, for the first time, amply satisfy local needs. This is due to the execution of the first instalment of the water works programme. The thirty-two artesian wells drilled to date have made it possible to bring 480 hectares under cultivation. Part of the labour force has thus been released from the task of drawing water and can be employed in the development of the land. The 1950 grain crop is estimated at 50,000 quintals, or twice that in the best previous years.

(a) Wheat. Several varieties are cultivated in the oasis gardens. They are well adapted to the country and give satisfactory results. The figures for crops since 1944 are as follows (in quintals) :

6,270	8,170	9,190	7,700	9,600	11,800

(b) Barley. Barley is grown throughout the country and in the salt soil of Shatti its yield is greater than that of wheat. The figures for crops since 1944 are as follows (in quintals) :

1944	1945	1946	1947	1948	1949

(c) Summer grains (millet, sorghum, maize). These grains are harvested when the wheat and the barley are exhausted and are an important contribution to the economy of the non-nomad population of the Fezzan. No tax is payable on them and it is difficult to estimate exactly how much is grown. The production is undoubtedly greater, on the average, than that of barley.

(d) Vegetables. The Fezzanese generally set aside one-seventh of the area of their gardens for vegetables—cabbages, onions, tomatoes and pimentos—which are used exclusively for domestic consumption.

B. TABLE OF ANNUAL AGRICULTURAL IMPORTS AND EXPORTS

80. Dates are the only agricultural product exported from the Fezzan. The volume and value exported in recent years are as follows :

	1944	1945	1946	1947	1948	1949
Quantity in tons	250	400	150	400	213	270
Value in thousand francs	7,500	1,600	1,200	6,600	5,390	7,410

81. On the other hand the Fezzan is obliged to import at least two essential products, oil and soap.

82. The following table gives the figures for volume and value since 1944.

	1944	1945	1946	1947	1948	1949
Sugar :

Value in thousand francs	615	275	1,083	1,462	2,269	1,138

C. ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

83. As in all the Sahara countries, animal husbandry in the Fezzan is concerned with camels, sheep, goats and the donkeys used to draw water.

(a) Camels. Camel raising is the exclusive prerogative of the nomads. The Fezzan has sufficient pasture land for its camels. However, during exceptional droughts, the nomads drive their camels into the mountains of South Tripolitania, Syrte, or the Tarat region in the Ajjer. The Zellaf and the ramlah of Ubari have good summer pastures. The camel population of the Fezzan is distributed as follows :

Shatti	Sebha-Ubari	Murzuq	Total
3,375	605	935	4,915

(b) Sheep and goats. The settled Fezzanese have small family flocks of only a few head. Most of the sheep and goats in the Fezzan are in the hands of the nomads who raise sheep and goats in addition to camels. The flocks of sheep and goats provide the Fezzanese with most of the meat they consume. The wool is spun and woven locally (approximately 70 quintals annually) and used to make men's garments (Jerd).

Shatti	Sebha-Ubari	Murzuq	Total
5,100	3,130	3,000	11,130

(c) Donkeys. Donkeys are used to draw water and are greatly prized because of the variety of work they do and their hardiness.

Shatti	Sebha-Ubari	Murzuq	Total
1,100	3,500	2,570	6,170

D. LAND TENURE

84. The legal status of land in the Fezzan varies and one finds :

(a) Nomad pasture lands. These are collectively owned lands, the boundaries of which are not clearly defined and over which property rights are established only by mutual, traditional recognition of tenure between the nomad tribes. Although these property rights rest only on custom, they are now well defined. There is no official deed recognizing this collective tenure, and no deeds of transfer. The nomad or semi-nomad pasture lands receive only occasional rain and provide indifferent pasture. In the hammad, the absence of water holes makes the pasture of little use. These lands are exempt from taxation. As they have not been developed by the work of man, they might be classed as "dead lands" the ownership of which under Mohammedan law is attributed to the sovereign. However, they are not free and the communities have acquired certain rights by prolonged tenure.

(b) Privately owned lands. These have definite boundaries and are defined in more or less ancient deeds. They may be alienated by any of the traditional methods such as sale, lease, mortgage, etc. The deeds relating to them can be classified as follows :

(i) Ancient deed antedating the opening of the official registers of the Mahakmas and in some cases as much as 400 years old. They have all the features of normal deeds (origin of property, share of water, limits of object of transfer, etc.) but are drawn up on unstamped paper and concluded between private individuals. All they lack is the sanction of an official stamp and the payment of stamp duties. They are much the most common in the Fezzan.

(ii) Recent deeds executed before the gadi and registered in the Mahakma registers.

The properties defined by these various deeds include :

[a] The arable land of the wadis of Bey and Ruaus where the Megaraha take advantage of the rains which fall in the area during winter to grow winter grain;

[b] Irrigated cultivated areas. These are the gardens where the settled Fezzanese grow palms and to a lesser extent winter and summer grains and vegetables;

[c] The Hattia areas where the water table is near the surface and the palm trees, propagated by seeds or suckers, can draw their own water. Apart from pollination, the palms are left untended by the Fezzanese.

(c) Dead lands (Maxat). These lands are unproductive and free from any servitude. Under Mohammedan law, they are the property of the sovereign until they are developed by an individual or by a community whose property they then become.

(d) State lands. Inherited from the previous governments of the Fezzan, these lands have been taken over by the French Administration. They consist almost entirely of palm groves.

(e) Sequestered properties. These are former private properties the owners of which were dispossessed during the Italian occupation, chiefly for political reasons. They were originally taken over by the French Administration and have been returned to all owners able to show proof of their rights. The status of these lands depends on the future settlement of the Libyan question.

IV. COMMERCE

85. An essentially agricultural country, the Fezzan's only assets from the commercial point of view are its exports of dates and the approximately 80 tons of natron collected in the lakes of the ramlah of Ubari.

86. The main imports are tea, sugar, oil and textiles. The Shatti, where there is a shortage of grain, imports grain from the Tripolitanian Jebel. The grain is transported by the nomads of the Gibla who barter it for dates, in some cases at exorbitant prices (1 kilogramme of wheat for 5 to 10 kilogrammes of dates).

87. Side by side with the external trade, there is a lively internal trade, carried on in village markets, in agricultural products or the products of local artisans.

88. During recent years poor prices have been obtained for the Fezzan's dates owing to over-production in North Africa and the poor quality of the fruits offered. While in 1947, 300 tons were sold at prices varying between 15 and 23 francs a kilogramme, according to quality, the highest price in 1948 was 10 francs and the price fell even lower in 1949.

89. The trade balance of the Fezzan is adverse. In 1948 the value of exports was 39,914,900 francs and in 1949 31,513,500 francs, while imports for the same years were 61,001,457 francs and 66,718,200 francs respectively. Detailed tables of the Fezzan's imports and exports are annexed.

V. PUBLIC WORKS

90. In the matter of public works, the Administration has concentrated its efforts on hydraulic works and the improvement of tracks.

A. HYDRAULIC WORKS

91. Since 1946 artesian borings have been carried out in the three natural regions of the country. In 1949, there were 41 boring operations the results of which varied according to the regions prospected and the technical conditions of the operation; 9 borings, including one very deep one, were non-productive; 22 30-60 metre wells are now in operation; 10 wells bored by modern mechanical methods give an average yield at an approximate rate of 20 litres a second.

92. Boring machines have also been used to deepen many existing wells.

93. The land restored to cultivation in 1949 as a result of these operations, amounted to 480 hectares, all of which was redistributed to the population.

94. The hydraulic works programme for 1950 includes: four artesian wells; the equipment of one well with a water-tight pipe system; the installation of a number of norias over dalou-type wells in order to familiarize the population with this system of drawing water, which is considerably more efficient than the traditional method.

B. ROADS AND TRACKS

95. The Italians had established an internal network of tracks suitable for vehicular traffic each following one of the populated valleys of the Fezzan, and had built connecting tracks. As they were established in Tripolitania, they had linked the system with the coast by two major tracks.

96. The internal network consisted of:

The Shatti track, from Kneir to Edri via Brach;
The Ajal track from Sebha to Ghat via Ubari and Serdeles;
The track from Sebha to Murzuq via Ghodua;
The track from Sebha to Gatrun via Um el Araneb.

97. The external network consisted of:

The track from Sebha to Misurata, including the passage over the Kneir and Bou Njem sand dunes and the crossing of the Jebel Soda;

The Shatti track to Tripoli, starting from Brach and going through Shueiref, El Gueria and Misda.

98. Since 1946, the French Administration has made a great effort, involving an expenditure of about 41 million francs, to maintain and to improve the existing tracks and to construct new ones. The yearly appropriations have been as follows:

	Francs
1946	1,500,000
1947	4,000,000
1948	8,000,000
1949	16,500,000
1950	11,000,000

99. The internal network has been completely repaired and improved, as follows:

The track from Edri to Brach;
The track from Brach to Sebha and Murzuq via Kneir;
The track from Murzuq to Tmessa via Um el Araneb and Zuila;
The track from Sebha to Ghat via Ubari and Serdeles.

100. The following were constructed inside the territory:

The track from Auinet Uenin to Edri, which shortens by 200 kilometres the journey to Gabes and makes it possible to avoid the difficult crossing over the Mequillet col;

The track from Sebha to Brach across the Zellaf;
The direct track from Sebha to Um el Araneb;
The track from Um el Araneb to Gatrun.

101. This internal network is regularly maintained and is practicable for all types of vehicular traffic.

102. As regards routes out of the country, the following have been constructed:

The track into Tunisia via Sinauen and Derdj;
The Uragla track via Fort Flatters and Auinet Uenin;
The track to the Chad via Gatrun, Uigh es Seghir, Uigh el Kebir, Korisa.

103. Lastly, those portions of the major routes from the Fezzan to Tripolitania which lie within Fezzan territory have been maintained.

104. The substitution of proper tarred roads for the tracks would involve the expenditure of about 1,964 million francs for the internal network alone, and cannot be contemplated for the time being.

VI. EDUCATION

105. In education, the Administration has been chiefly concerned with organizing the campaign against illiteracy. At the time of the French occupation, the vast majority of the population was completely illiterate and the education of the remaining small minority never went beyond the stage of reading, writing and elementary arithmetic.

106. The difficulties of developing education in the Fezzan are those met with in all countries where social development is retarded by a lack of resources, where teachers are difficult to find, and where families are incapable of even partly making up for the shortage of teaching staff.

107. There are two methods of developing primary education in educationally under-developed countries: there is the long-term method which tries to provide only first-rate education, and there is the contrary method which prefers to afford a larger proportion of the school age population an elementary education which can be provided with relatively less difficulty.

108. The second method has been chosen in the Fezzan. It is the Administration's intention to put into effect a programme in which theoretical knowledge will not be neglected but will not, nevertheless, be allowed to take precedence over practical matters. The first aim to be achieved is to give every inhabitant of the Fezzan the means, through reading and writing, of coming into contact with the outside world and the every-day reality of the country's development, and participating in the life of the Territory. The programme also includes instruction in modern agricultural methods for the purpose of better utilization of the land, on which the prosperity of the Territory chiefly depends.

109. In 1940, at the time of the Italian occupation, the situation was that Edri, Brach, Murzuq, Jedid and Berguen had teaching establishments. The schools had two classes, one for teaching Italian and the other for Arabic. The premises were very small and only the school centres at Brach and Jedid, built in 1935, had proper buildings. The school at Berguen was unfinished and the one at Murzuq consisted of two tiny rooms with floors of beaten earth, which were poorly ventilated and ill-lighted.

110. The French Administration found these schools closed on account of the war. The furnishings had been taken away, the doors and windows torn down and the teaching equipment completely spoiled. Only the Koranic schools in the villages continued to function.

111. Eleven elementary schools were set up at Jedid, Murzuq, Ubari, Brach, Agar, Berguen, Uenzerik, Edri, Bens Baya, Traghen and Gatrun. Each was equipped with the necessary plumbing facilities, shower-baths, a kitchen for school meals and a dining-room.

112. Each year, at the beginning of October or at the medical officer's first visit to the centre, all the children are examined and vaccinated. The teacher keeps a register and draws up individual medical cards on which, on each of his regular visits, the medical officer notes his observations and the treatment to be given.

113. Pupils suffering from trachoma, conjunctivitis, ringworm, etc., are treated every morning, free of charge, at the local clinic. Under-nourished children are cared for by the Health Service which puts them on a strengthening diet. Quinine is distributed regularly.

114. The state of permanent malnutrition among children in the Fezzan required a great effort. Every day, each pupil receives a hot meal (macaroni, kous-kous, semolina, etc.) and a ration of 200 grammes of bread. In addition, during the winter, a hot drink is served every morning before school begins.

115. Since 1947, it has been the practice to give each pupil enough cloth to prepare a garment as worn locally.

116. The children in these schools have full freedom to attend religious classes outside school hours.

117. Every village also has one or more Koranic schools which operate quite independently but to which the Administration nevertheless devotes considerable attention. They care for about 2,000 children.

118. The teaching staff take care that the children attend the school at which they are registered regularly and that the proportion of absentees does not exceed 4 per cent. However, they deplore the apparent lack of interest shown by the parents in their children's school education. For various reasons, such as the departure of nomadic families for the pastures, the poverty which requires the children to work in the fields, and others which are less valid, forty pupils did not resume their lessons at the beginning of 1949.

119. In the schools in which there are French teachers (seven for the whole of the Fezzan) about fifty pupils have reached the level of the second year of the elementary course or of the intermediate course (Algerian educational standard).

120. In October 1949, there was a new departure. A residential school was opened at Brach for the best pupils in the Shatti region. These children were housed and fed free of charge for the whole school year. The experiment produced good results. The applications for boarding scholarships for 1950 are already in excess of capacity.

121. The development programme drawn up in 1950 is based on the following principles:

- (a) As many children as possible should attend schools;
- (b) Parallel teaching of Arabic and French;
- (c) Establishment of a technical, craft and agricultural school.

122. The programme includes plans for the opening of several new school centres, some of which are already being built. As soon as possible, each of the seventeen mudiriats of the territory will have an elementary school with a course lasting from two to five years. A Fezzanese instructor will give instruction in French.

123. Three higher elementary schools will be opened at Sebha, Brach and Murzuq, which are the chief towns of the sub-divisions. Pupils recruited in these towns or drawn from the mudiriats schools will pursue their studies in Arabic and French. The minimum course will be four years, at the end of which the most gifted pupils will be admitted to an advanced school which is to be set up at Sebha.

124. Lastly, there will be three agricultural centres

(Sebha, Brach, Murzuq) and a craft centre (Murzuq) where the course will last for two years, which will make it possible to provide preliminary technical education.

125. Young Fezzanese who have completed the elementary course will be given scholarships to pursue their studies in the Moslem schools of Algeria, where they will enjoy special facilities. The Territory also hopes to profit from scholarships which may be made available to it by the United Nations.

126. This educational programme, spread out over ten years, involves a commitment of funds amounting to about 72 million francs, to which must be added the salaries of the teaching staff which amount to 8 million francs.

127. Expenditure on public education in the territory during the last three years was 2,057,578 francs in 1947, 3,469,000 francs in 1948 and 3,690,000 francs in 1949.

VII. HYGIENE AND PUBLIC HEALTH

A. GENERAL

128. The efforts of the Administration to improve conditions of health and hygiene in the country are being carried on according to a long established plan.

129. A staff of Fezzanese hospital orderlies is in the course of being trained. At the present time, each hospital dispensary, first aid post or clinic, employs local inhabitants trained by the Administration's medical officers. The hospital orderlies now working are expected to take courses of further training. The most skilled are to be sent to Tunis and Algiers, where they will take courses in specialized establishments.

130. As regards the premises, each of the eighty villages of the Fezzan is to be provided with essential equipment, which will enable the medical officer and local hospital orderly to treat their patients in the best possible conditions. The hospital-dispensary at Brach has been provided with an operating theatre. Each of the three regions of the Territory (Brach, Sebha, Murzuq) now has its own surgical organization.

131. It should be added that the treatment given by the public health organizations is entirely free of charge.

132. Patients from villages which are at some distance from the hospitals are admitted as in-patients and all charges are paid out of the Fezzan budget.

133. In cases of serious illness, the patients are evacuated to Tunis either by air or by car. This is also done in the case of specialized surgery. The hospital and transport expenses are in almost every case paid for out of the budget.

134. The campaign against the endemic diseases from which the Fezzan suffers has been intensified. Thus, the proportion of the population suffering from various stages of trachoma, which was 95 per cent in 1943, has fallen to less than 50 per cent. Malaria (25 per cent of the population in 1943) has been practically eliminated.

135. Particular care has been given to the question of the protection of health by instruction in hygiene and dietary supervision. Mothers and children have the first benefit from these measures. Condensed milk is distributed regularly in the larger communities. The hospital orderlies have been instructed to extend these distributions to the smallest villages. This campaign to protect children should mean a progressive rise in the population, which has grown only very slowly over the last twenty years.

B. NUMBER AND COMPOSITION OF THE EXISTING SERVICES

136. The existing services are as follows :

(a) Medical officers: Three French military doctors are at present working in the Fezzan :

One chief medical officer at Sebha, responsible for the sub-division of Sebha-Oubari and a large part of the troops serving in the Fezzan;

One medical officer at Brach for the Shatti sub-division;

One medical officer at Murzuq for the Murzuq sub-division and the garrison troops.

(b) Infirmiry staff: These medical officers have at their disposal a staff of twenty-one locally recruited and trained hospital orderlies. These administer the village clinics scattered among the three populated valleys of the Fezzan and give the patients whatever treatment is prescribed by the medical officers.

C. FACILITIES

137. The following facilities are available :

(a) Medical centre: Each centre with a resident medical officer has a hospital-infirmiry. In addition, there are seventeen clinics with resident orderlies operating in the three sub-divisions. They are visited at least once a month by the medical officer of the sub-division. Each one includes one out-patients' ward, and one in-patients' ward. Patients from the surrounding villages can be accommodated in them. These clinics are situated in the following villages :

Shatti: Agar, Gorda, Berguen, Uenzerik, Edri.

Sebha-Ubari: Semou, Gorda, Gheddua, Bendbeya, Greifa, Ubari, Reguiba.

Murzuq: Agar, Traghen, Um el Araneb, Zuila, Ga-trun.

(b) Materials: The equipment and drugs are paid for out of the Fezzan budget. The surgical and laboratory equipment and the drugs are kept at the centres with resident medical officers. Each hospital orderly has at his disposal the necessary equipment and drugs for dealing with eye diseases, malaria, parasitosis, intestinal and pulmonary complaints, and for applying dressings and giving the most widely used injections.

(c) Treatments: Most of the patients are treated on the spot. The Fezzan medical officers perform minor surgery and eye operations (trichiasis) on the spot.

D. STATISTICS

138. Statistical information is as follows:

(a) Budget (francs):

Theinism

Statistics according to the treatment given:

Eye diseases:

Trachoma: On the arrival of the French, 95 per cent of the population was affected, with 5 per cent corneal complications and 10 per cent trichiasis. At present, 50 per cent of the population is affected, with 1 per cent evolutional complications and 25 per cent trichiasis.

Acute blepharoconjunctivitis: Weeks or Morax type, .05 per cent a year on the average.

Gonococcic: 0.05 per cent.

Cataract and blindness through various sources: 2 per cent.

Malaria: In 1943, on the average 25 per cent (chiefly at Murzuq, Traghen, Brach, Edri and Wadi Ajal): in 1947, only 10 per cent; by 1950, malaria was practically non-existent.

Urinary bilharziosis: 0.25 per cent every year, particularly in children in the Jedid area.

Intestinal parasitosis (ascaris and oxyuris chiefly): 23 per cent because of dirty habits.

Venereal diseases:

Gonococosis: 1 per cent of male patients, chiefly at the complications stage.

Syphilis: 1 per cent of patients (rarely chancres), chiefly tertiary forms (nervous and cutaneous).

Syphilis hereditaria: 0.25 per cent found during regular visits (school children and babies).

Smallpox: Endemic among the nomads since 1942. Small local epidemics among the settled population: in 1946, 20 cases in the Shatti; in 1947, about 200 cases (centres at Tarut Semnu and Ajal).

Anti-smallpox vaccination:

1946	1947	1948	1949
18,800	7,122	6,365	4,247

Measles: In 1947, from spring to winter, about 500 cases in the whole territory with a mortality rate of 10 per cent chiefly among children.

Influenza: Epidemic in Wadi Ajal in 1945.

Typhus: About 100 cases in the summer of 1947 at Edri.

Recurrent fever: Violent epidemics in 1943 and 1944 over the whole Territory with a mortality rate of 25 per cent in some villages.

Tuberculosis: 1 to 2 cases of pulmonary tuberculosis, 5 to 6 cases of extra-pulmonary tuberculosis, particularly in the joints and peritoneum.

Alcoholism: 5 to 8 cases of cirrhosis and chronic ethylism due to lagmi, particularly in the Edri area.

(c) Steps taken to prevent the spreading of epidemics:

Trachoma: Children's eyes are treated (by drops, etc.) daily and systematically in the schools and when babies are brought for inspection. Treatment with lotions of copper sulphate, lutazolen tablets, autohaemmo-therapy with lutazolen, sub-conjunctival exoseptoplax and finally trabal and Panas' operations for trichiasis (140 a year on the average).

Blepharoconjunctivitis: Lotions of argyrol or protargol, zinc sulphate and silver nitrate and yellow mercuric oxide ointment.

Malaria: Quinacrine for use as a prophylactic is distributed free. Carriers are disinfected by quinine (injections or tablets), quinacrine or premaline. In addition, there are annual budget appropriations for the improvement of malarial regions. (Stocking of springs and wells with fish, draining of ditches and temporary pools.) The wells are stocked with small fish (gambusia), which feed heavily on mosquito larvae. The results have been excellent and the practice is being spread. The appropriations used in the anti-malaria campaign since 1944 have been (francs).

30,000	28,000	47,000	78,000	199,760	252,000

Smallpox-typhus: Preventive vaccinations.

Measles and influenza: Isolation of patients, rhinopharyngeal disinfection.

(d) Special establishments

There are none in the Fezzan. The clinics have wards for the isolation of contagious patients.

E. MATERNAL AND CHILD CARE

139. The programme of care for mothers and children is as follows:

(a) Care of infants: The budget has included an appropriation for such care since 1944, covering:

(i) The free distribution of tins of condensed milk for frail or sick children or babies which cannot be breast-fed.

(ii) The free monthly distribution of cloth and cereals.

These measures apply to all children under 18 months regularly brought to see the medical officers by their mothers.

(b) Maternity hospitals: Fezzanese women (except in the case of complications) are reluctant to consult medical officers for normal births; there are no maternity hospitals. Complicated pregnancies or births are treated at home or in the hospitals.

(c) Treatment given to children at school:

Regular anti-smallpox vaccination

Inspection by the medical officer on each round, at least once a month

Measurements taken at each inspection

Eyes bathed regularly by the teacher

Daily care for pupils on the school's medical register, given by the infirmary attendants as prescribed by the medical officer.

F. MEDICAL PERSONNEL

140. The situation in regard to medical personnel is as follows:

(a) Recruitment and instruction: The hospital orderlies are recruited locally. They are placed on probation for a minimum period of two months with one of the medical officers (Sebha, Jedid, Brach and Murzuq). Subsequently, at least every two years, they take a refresher course of one month.

(b) Results obtained: The results obtained are in general good. The six hospital orderlies first class are able to give intravenous injections and the rest can give subcutaneous or intramuscular injections. All have some knowledge of the common drugs and anti-smallpox vaccination, and they are all trained to set fractures provisionally. They can recognize the chief epidemic diseases, which they bring to the notice of the medical officer on his periodic visits.

G. HEALTH LEGISLATION AND GENERAL PROVISIONS

141. The situation in regard to health legislation and education is as follows:

(a) Laws regulating public health: In principle, the Fezzan is subject to the health regulations in force in Algeria. In addition, in the case of epidemics, the Resident issues temporary regulations and orders vaccinations.

(b) Steps taken for the health education of the population:

Verbal propaganda by the medical officers and hospital orderlies.

Demonstration of the use of condensed milk and nursing bottles.

Installation of shower baths in the hospitals and schools.

Education given by the teachers to children of school age.

Refusal of assistance in the case of the repeated presentation of dirty and neglected children.

H. EXTENT AND EFFECTS OF PROSTITUTION

142. Prostitution exists throughout the Fezzan, particularly in the Murzuq area where morals have always been more lax. There are no houses of prostitution in the Fezzan villages but there are women of easy virtue almost everywhere, who are tracked down when they infect men and given compulsory treatment at a dispensary.

I. SANITATION

143. The situation with regard to water is as follows:

(a) Sources and distribution: In the Fezzan villages, the inhabitants take their water directly from one or more wells. There are no streams or springs (except in the Shatti). The water comes from the water table and is quite plentiful.

(b) Analysis and purification: The French carried out an analysis of the water on their arrival. Bacteriologically, it is drinkable, except in the case of the salty lakes (Jedid, Mandara and the sebkhras). In the Shatti and at Edri particularly, the magnesium salt content gives it a brackish taste and causes newly-arrived Europeans slight diarrhoea. So far there has been no water-borne epidemic disease.

VIII. SOCIAL CONDITIONS

144. Ever since its arrival, the French Administration has been concerned with finding a solution for the serious social problems existing in the Fezzan. As mentioned in chapter I, the Territory contains a few wealthy families, a minority of persons who are fairly comfortably off and a majority of workers with a very low standard of living. In 1943, most of the population was under-nourished.

145. Owing to the total absence of voluntary organizations (there is not a single Moslem charitable society in the Fezzan), the Administration has had to take sole responsibility in fighting poverty, raising the standard of living of the population and preventing unemployment and temporary emigration, which in all the Saharan oases is the consequence of unemployment.

A. PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

146. Since they are generally short of cash, the Fezzanese sell their grain as soon as it is harvested in order to be able to buy tea, sugar and clothing. They do the same with the date harvest. The poorest cannot even buy the tools that they need. Unless they receive financial assistance, they cannot subsist between sowing and harvest time. Various annual loans are granted, all interest free, as follows :

(a) Loans of seed in the form of winter grain (tons) :

32.5	45.2	80.7	77	75

These loans are repayable, after the harvest, in cash or in kind in the borrower's option.

(b) Loans of dates: A portion of the dates collected under the tax payable in kind is also lent out during the winter, to be repaid out of the following harvest (tons).

1946	1947	1948	1949
200	100	120	120

(c) Cash loans: Agricultural loans in cash repayable at harvest time in cash or in kind are granted to the farmers (thousand francs).

1945	1946	1947	1948	1949
1,500	1,700	3,000	3,000	3,000

(d) Tool vouchers: These vouchers are for the distribution of hoes, sickles and dalous (leather bags for drawing water) to the very poor.

(e) Campaign against unemployment: In addition to the hydraulic works which are designed to extend the area of farming land and which employ a large labour force, there are permanent road or building gangs where unskilled workers can always find work.

B. RAISING THE STANDARD OF LIVING OF THE LOWER CLASSES

147. When the French Administration took over, there existed in the Fezzan a form of serfdom closely akin to slavery. It took the form of binding Negro debtors to the land and employing them in the gardens for the heavy work of drawing water. In most cases they received as wages one-quarter of the harvest, which was hardly enough to sustain life and certainly not enough to enable them to pay their debts.

148. According to custom in the Fezzan, the harvest was shared as follows :

- One-quarter for the jebbad (drawer of water),
- One-quarter for the use of the dalou (leather bucket used in drawing water),
- One-quarter for the seed,
- One-quarter for the land.

149. The owner of the garden, who supplied the dalou and the seed, received three-quarters of the harvest for doing almost nothing. The jebbad on the other hand, after six months of hard work, was obliged, in order to subsist, either to steal from his master or to be satisfied with eating grated agul roots, since his share and the few perquisites allowed him by the landowner were far from sufficient. When his food-supply was exhausted, which usually happened a few months after the harvest, he was forced to borrow from the landowner in order to avoid dying from starvation. It was usually impossible to repay the debt in full out of the subsequent harvest, or if he did succeed, the debtor was forced to ask for a new loan within a month or two. The debt was carefully kept alive by the landowner, for it furnished him with a tool wherewith to enslave the agricultural worker.

150. As early as 1944, a decision of the French authorities exempted the share of the jebbad from the tax in kind on grain.

151. In 1946, another step by the Administration resulted in a revision of all the contracts between employers and workers on the basis of a two-thirds share to the employer and one-third to the worker.

152. Since artesian borings have made it possible to bring land which could not be cultivated before (mauta property, i.e. unoccupied and untenanted land) into production, such land has been given over to the jebbadin as their own property. In order to free them from any obligation to their former masters, the Administration reimbursed the landowners for the debts contracted by the jebbadin so that the latter could begin to work their new property free of any encumbrance. The Administration also provided, free, the tools needed for farming, the dalou and the seed. The first experiment was carried out in the Traghen area where 200 plots of land suitable for cultivation after artesian boring were distributed to the jebbadin.

153. Apart from the jebbad there are certain classes of Fezzanese society, such as agricultural workers and small landowners, whose condition is almost as wretched. Their lives can only be improved by the extension of irrigation.

154. Social action on these lines is therefore closely bound up with the country's water system. The Administration believes that irrigation ought to be extended since it constitutes the most effective means of improving the lot of the long-neglected majority of the Territory's population.

155. Further particulars regarding the steps taken on behalf of the jebbad will be found in a note at the end of this chapter.

C. FEZZANESE PURCHASING GROUP

156. In 1948, a group of Fezzanese traders set up a company in the form of a co-operative for the purchase abroad and distribution within the country of essential goods. The capital of the company, of which the Chairman is Mr. Belgacem Badi, a trader at Murzuq, comes from the following sources :

(a) Contributions from the Fezzanese village traders in proportion to population : 5 million francs;

(b) Loan from the Government-General of Algeria : 5 million francs;

(c) Annual renewable advance from the Fezzan budget. The amount, which in 1947 was 5 million francs, was increased to 11 million in 1948 and 10 million in 1949 (the same amount is planned for 1950).

157. This purchasing group can carry out banking operations, buy the goods needed by the Fezzanese at wholesale prices, and build up reserves. Through the operation of an equalization fund, the prices of food-stuffs are the same throughout the Territory, even in the most distant villages. The selling prices are calculated according to the lowest rates. Although a kilogramme of wheat bought for 21 francs in Tunis sometimes costs as much as 32 francs in transport charges, it is still sold to consumers at an average price lower than cost. The selling prices of cloth sold by this group are less than half of those quoted by ordinary traders : 80 francs as against 180 and 200 francs.

158. The profit on the sales provides 3 per cent of the Fezzan budget in the form of market dues, but it serves chiefly to assist the poor and to bring down the prices of staple foods.

D. FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS AND FREEDOMS OF THE INDIVIDUAL

159. The following is the situation in regard to rights and freedoms :

(a) Freedom of religion: All the Fezzanese are Moslems. They have full freedom to practice their religion. Fridays and Moslem feast days (Aid el Seghir, Aid el Kebir, Mulud, Ashura) are non-working days in the administrative services and on all public works. Facilities are granted to Fezzanese who wish to make the pilgrimage to Mecca.

(b) Freedom of thought: The laws in force place no restriction on freedom of thought. Although no papers are published in the Fezzan, those from Tripoli, Benghazi, Tunis and Cairo are free to enter. The formation of political parties is also free from all restriction. To date, no Fezzanese has requested permission to form such a party.

(c) Racial equality: The only Europeans serving in the Fezzan are French soldiers and civil servants. The problem of racial equality does not therefore arise. The Fezzanese can use the same means of transport as Europeans. They can also own them. Existing legislation makes no distinction between Fezzanese and non-Fezzanese. There was apparently no demonstration in the country in favour of or against the Italians at the time of their defeat.

E. CONDITIONS AMONG THE WORKERS

160. A distinction should be drawn between workers employed by the Administration and those employed by private persons,

(a) Workers employed by the Administration: These include permanent workers who are attached to different posts and take part in the work of construction, gardening, cleaning and repairing; regular workers who are attached to gangs employed on building, hydraulic works and road repair; domestic workers; and lastly, reserve workers, who are hired whenever many more workers are required for road gangs or water works.

(i) Permanent workers: These are paid by the month at the following rates :

		Francs
Mechanics	(9)	26,500
Gardeners	(10)	4,200
Shaush	(6)	6,000
Messengers	(3)	4,500
Master mason	(1)	26,500

The permanent masons receive daily pay of 250 francs.

All these employees are entitled to family allowances (200 francs a month for each child).

(ii) Regular workers: These receive a daily wage of 150 francs. They are distributed as follows : Building, 30; Water works, 60; Tracks, 72.

(iii) Reserve workers: The number varies according to the work in progress. The maximum has been 600 and the minimum 200. They receive a daily wage of 150 francs.

(iv) Hours of work: The working day is eight hours. Fridays and Moslem feast days are holidays. All workers are granted fifteen days paid leave annually. They are given regular medical examinations. Treatment and drugs are free. Algerian social insurance provisions have been applicable to these workers since 1950.

(v) Work of women, young persons and children: No women are employed by the Administration. Several young persons serve as domestic servants in messes or in European households. These posts are very much sought after.

(b) Private employees: These are agricultural workers and the jebbadin. The precariousness of their livelihood was referred to above. As an example, in the Ubari region :

A jebbad earns 90 kilogrammes of grain, plus a few perquisites in kind for six months' work;

A small landowner, 150 kilogrammes of grain;

An average landowner, 180 kilogrammes of grain;
A large landowner, 560 kilogrammes of grain.

A weekly holiday has been made obligatory by the French authorities, as has the annual fifteen days leave. However, it has not yet been possible to regulate hours of work. These are governed by the drawing of water and vary with the output of the wells and the area of the plots. It is calculated that twelve working hours are needed for the normal irrigation of one garden.

ANNEX

NOTE ON THE REVISION OF THE CONTRACTS OF THE JEBBAD

On the arrival of the French troops in the Fezzan, the attention of the authorities was drawn to the situation of the jebbadin (drawers of water from wells with a pulley system; they work for the landowner). After an exhaustive inquiry, covering more than seventy agricultural centres, it was decided that the share of the jebbad in the harvest should be raised from one-quarter to one-third and that he should continue to enjoy all the benefits which had been granted to him before:

The gfiz or tenth part of every 200 kilogrammes or thereabouts;

The dur or grain sown over three-quarters of the land cultivated;

The gaz or earth mixed with ears from the threshing floor;

The taudi or handfuls of barley in the corners;

The hassida or gleanings of the barley;

The hamil or unharvested barley stem, etc.

These measures came into application as from the harvest of 1947 throughout the Fezzan, according to written contracts drawn up under the supervision of the chaoukh.

Moreover, an order was given to the mudirs to prepare a statement of the debts of all the jebbadin before 15 October 1946.

Example of a new jebbad contract

The jebbad using a donkey which is his property at a well belonging to his master (shrik by association) receives one-eighth more than is stipulated in the contract of a jebbad who has "only his health" (physical strength) as the saying goes. Such a contract will therefore involve as regards cereals:

One-third of the harvest as the share of the jebbad,

One-eighth of the harvest for the donkey, plus the perquisites known as the awayyed (enumerated above).

Participation of the jebbad in the date harvest.

Except at Jedid and in a very few centres in the Shatti, it was not customary to give the jebbad any share in the date harvest. It was decided throughout the territory that:

1. The jebbad who waters the palms which he has fertilized ought to receive the best cluster of dates from each palm that he waters,

2. The jebbad watering land without palms will receive the harvest from the three best palms of his shrik;

3. The custom of the zerafa or dates falling at the harvest among the stems of the palms or kernaf remains unchanged;

4. The custom of filling the basket brought by the members of the jebbad's family when the dates are cut also remains unchanged;

5. The lending of dates at interest, or faiez, is strictly prohibited.

The jebbad's weekly rest period.

The few hours leave which certain landowners allow the jebbad on Friday mornings (and then it is often to carry fertilizer or grass) are extended to the whole of Friday, which is to be a day of complete rest.

IX. DEVELOPMENT OF THE FEZZAN

161. The prospects for the development of the Fezzan are twofold—agricultural and commercial—and are conditioned by the geography and economic history of the country. These prospects leave little room for industrial development.

162. The Fezzan consists of a group of oases situated in the bottom of a vast depression approximately 800 kilometres in diameter. The rim of this depression consists of mountain ranges in some parts and of huge sandstone plateaux or vast stretches of desert in others. In the central region a water-table fed by the rainfall in the surrounding region breaks through to the surface here and there. The water comes to the surface, unaided by human effort, in oases which are few and far between. In most cases the water-table is 5 to 10 metres below the surface and at depths greater than 20—25 metres a much more abundant water-table occurs.

163. This water enabled agriculture of a relatively developed type to be introduced and makes the Fezzan appear a land of great possibilities in comparison with the other Saharan regions. Although the stages in the economic history of the Fezzan cannot be clearly defined, it would appear clear that certain periods of peace in the past enabled the inhabitants to devote great care to agricultural works which the Fezzanese are still turning to account. It is difficult to find any other explanation for the existence of the large palm groves which are one of the country's main sources of wealth.

164. But it would seem that during the centuries commerce gained a lead over agriculture in the Fezzan.

165. The Fezzan is situated at the crossroads of the routes leading from the Mediterranean to the Central Sahara and thence to Equatorial Africa. In the days when the whole of the trade between the Mediterranean and the countries in the interior of Africa was carried by caravan, the Fezzan was an indispensable stopping-place on the easier and shorter routes. Agriculture was only the secondary activity of the Fezzan, the backbone of the economy being the profit from trade movements.

166. The growth of navigation along the African coasts considerably reduced this trade. The trade of the Fezzan no longer leads to the sea but consists merely of trading between the Saharan populations. It is destined to develop anew as the quantity of products which the Fezzan can supply increases. It follows that the commercial development of the country depends on its agricultural development.

167. The agriculture of the Fezzan, which for centuries was regarded as a secondary activity, has not progressed as it might have done.

168. The deficiencies of Fezzanese agriculture can be set forth in a few lines : water is plentiful and there is no lack of land, but the inhabitants numbering some 45,000 and almost exclusively engaged in agriculture, succeeded with difficulty in extracting from the soil, in two harvests, 25,000 quintals of cereals, a quantity far short of that required to provide them with a normal diet. Not until 1950 will the first results of the efforts made by the French authorities to restore the agriculture of the Fezzan really be felt. The grain harvest in 1950 will exceed 50,000 quintals or more than 100 kilogrammes per inhabitant.

169. The quantity of meat consumed by the population is almost negligible. Their diet consists entirely of an average of 170 kilogrammes of dates per annum, plus cereals, and is therefore very unbalanced. The palm trees are almost uncared for and the working population therefore spends all its time in producing a grain crop which before 1950 was manifestly inadequate to meet the country's requirements.

170. Every year since 1943 the administering Power has had to supply the Territory with cereals in order to enable it to subsist.

171. Agricultural methods differ little from one place to another. There are no fields but only suani gardens divided into small plots of an average area of 3 square metres which are successively irrigated. The tenants devote almost all their efforts to the drawing of water. At the highest point in each garden there is a well with scaffolding which supports pulleys and ropes controlling the movement of a leather bucket known as the dalou. By their combined efforts one man and one donkey raise some sixty litres of water per minute, a task which they carry on monotonously throughout the day. A young man or young woman working side by side with the water-drawer or jebbad operates the irrigation ditches (segua) and allows the water to flow in turn to the various plots in the garden.

B. THE WATER PROBLEM

172. The most important of all the tasks undertaken by the administering Power for the modernization of the Fezzan consists in freeing Fezzanese agriculture from its dependence on water-drawing by bringing the water to the surface by suitable mechanical means.

173. The Territory has a large water-table which comes to the surface, by artesian forces, in the Shatti and the Hofra (Traghen). A full geological survey of the region has disclosed the existence at these two points of an artesian water-table at a depth of 50—100 metres in the Shatti and of 40—80 metres in the Hofra. This water comes from vast water-tables at estimated depths of 360 metres in the eastern part of the Shatti, 1500 metres in the western part of the Hofra and between 200 and 1000 metres elsewhere, but no estimate of the effective output of water from the wells to be sunk can yet be made.

174. The Administration made a preliminary experiment consisting in the replacement of the traditional well installations—briefly described above—by motor pumps. Of the twenty-eight Bernard motors brought to the Fezzan in 1947 only five are still in working order. The cost of one motor is 250,000 francs. The cost of equipping all of the 6,000 wells in the Fezzan with these motors would be 1,500 million francs, and the high price of petrol (or other fuels), in a country where it has to be transported by lorry across some 1500 kilometres of desert, would be a heavy item in the cost of production. Lastly, the time is still far off when all of the Fezzan villages will have a mechanic capable of operating the motors properly, maintaining them and carrying out the necessary minor repairs. The "motor" experiment can be regarded as unsuccessful.

175. The technicians subsequently considered the possibility of using norias with plaited chains and buckets of palm fibre which could be manufactured locally. This type of noria is the only rustic device which can be used for the speedy conversion of the old installations. The problem of motive power is solved by the existence in the Territory of a herd of camels the number of which could easily be increased. This system has so far met with a lack of understanding on the part of the inhabitants who have no clear idea of the advantages of the noria as compared with the dalou. However, the Administration has not lost all hope of convincing them. On its instructions, an industrial firm has produced a model noria, in cast iron, which could be imported after 1950. The cost of this type of noria, including installation, would be some 200,000 francs and the total outlay for its installation in the 600 wells in the Territory would amount to some 1,200 million francs.

176. At one time consideration was also given to windmills which are very widely used in Tripolitania. These are much more expensive than the norias, as a water storage tank has to be built and upkeep is difficult. The cost of one windmill is 250,000 francs and the installation and storage tank involve a further outlay of 400,000 francs. The cost of constructing 1,500 windmills would be 975 million francs.

177. There remained the most attractive solution, that is, artesian wells. A thorough survey of water resources in the Fezzan was carried out from 1944 to 1946 by Messrs. Lelubre, Bellair, Muller and Feuga, experts in Saharan hydraulics. They drew up a preliminary five-year plan for the sinking of shallow wells in the years 1946-1951, to be followed by a plan for the tapping of the deep water-tables in 1952-1957.

178. Forty-one artesian wells have been sunk since 1944 with varying results. Thirty-two of them were sunk in the Shatti where the conditions were most favourable. In that region the water-table is nearer the surface than in the other regions and the land-owners are more alive to the possibility of improving their crops.

179. It was experimental work carried out in the particularly poor region of Traghen (Shatti) which showed that living conditions in the Fezzan could be improved by solving the water problem. The three artesian wells sunk at Traghen, with a capacity of 135 cubic metres, made it possible to make a free distribution of 466 plots of land, each 625 square metres in area. The farmers were led to abandon their land and resettle around the new water points. A storage tank with a capacity of 180 cubic metres was constructed. As a result, the water from one well can be stored during the night and can be used during the day together with the water which passes directly from the wells into the irrigation ditches.

180. The cost of one 100-metre artesian well is roughly 3 million francs. There are 30 villages or nomad tribes in the Shatti and the cost of sinking wells in this region therefore amounts to 90 million francs. Plans have also been made for ten new wells to irrigate the lucerne fields which will provide the fodder required by the nomad herds. This involves a further outlay of 30 million francs.

181. Fifteen wells at a cost of 45 million francs are planned for the Hofra (Traghen region).

182. A deep well costs about 40 million francs. The water experts consider that 25 wells of this type should be sunk at a cost of 1,000 million francs.

183. Thus, the total cost of sinking artesian wells in the Fezzan would be 1,165 million francs plus 236 million francs for seventeen test borings.

184. During the next ten years the development of the Fezzan will be governed by the increase in the number of artesian wells, the resulting revival of agriculture and the social adjustment to this technical revolution. The relatively large area of the marwat or wastelands will make development easier by simplifying the land problem.

185. The inhabitants of the Fezzan, who will no longer be dependent upon the drawing of water, will have to be given agricultural training. They will learn to use the implements provided to them, to work the soil more deeply, to care for their land, to adapt their crops to the soil, to use selected seeds and to improve their seguia so as to prevent the seeds from being washed away by the water.

186. The rational organization of agricultural training will go hand in hand with the provision of new facilities for the inhabitants. An agricultural centre will start to operate at Sebha in October 1950.

187. It would seem that in the first programme for the sinking of artesian wells too much was made of the farmers' ability to adapt themselves and to use the larger water supply for the development of new land. The Administration had to postpone the sinking of some wells until a plan for their use had been drawn up and until the users had had time to familiarize themselves with this innovation.

C. POLITICAL ASPECTS OF THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE FEZZAN

188. The French Administration has encountered certain political difficulties in its efforts to transform the agricultural economy of the country. The traditional hydraulic methods were conducive to the maintenance of social conditions in which two distinct classes were opposed to each other; on the one hand, the large and medium landowners, the successors of the large merchants and the merchants themselves, members of religious bodies, officials and nomads, who own almost all of the gardens and have them cultivated; and on the other, the crop-sharing water-drawers and labourers, who work for the members of the first class. The jebbadin (water-drawers) were bound to their employers by a debt system, and their status was therefore that of serfs rather than of free workers. The class of large and medium landowners forms about one-quarter of the population, and the actual workers, three-quarters.

189. In 1946 the French authorities increased the jebbad's share of the crop to one-third. It had previously been only one-quarter. Further action should be taken in this connexion, as a large part of the Territory's small income now goes to a very small minority which contributes little, by its work, to the prosperity of the Fezzan.

190. The distribution of land around the new wells, particularly at Traghen, was made for the benefit of the whole population and, as a result, the jebbadin became landowners once their debts had been paid by the Administration. The large landowners were deprived of the usual labour for their gardens and were only too glad to accept an irrigated plot which they must now cultivate themselves.

191. The success of the technical revolution now in progress is bound up with that of a veritable social revolution, on the completion of which all the inhabitants of the Fezzan will be concerned as landowners to make the land they cultivate adequately productive.

⁷ The 1947 census gives the following figures :
Large landowners : 1,732; Medium landowners : 10,040; One-quarter of the population
Small landowners : 13,112; Agricultural workers : 15,120; Jebbadin : 7,640; Three-quarters of the population

D. THE PROBLEM OF THE PALMS

192. Freed from the slavery of water-drawing, the Fezzanese will have to learn how to improve the cultivation of their palm trees so as to obtain a better yield.

193. At the present time, the attention they give to their trees is confined to fertilizing them in May and gathering the harvest in November and December. In no case are the trees cared for or pruned. The proportion of trees totally neglected and therefore producing no crop is estimated at more than 80 per cent.

194. Nevertheless, the annual fruit crop amounts to 15,000 tons, about one-third of which is sold to nomads in the Territory or from neighbouring territories.

195. A first effort has already been made to increase production. Fertilization has been extended to a greater number of trees and certain processes derived from Algerian or Tunisian techniques have been taught to the Fezzanese. These steps should be followed by a more elaborate plan for improving the quality of the fruit and making it exportable. Owing to its inferior quality, the Fezzanese date does not find a good market but has to be sold off cheap. While some results may be expected from the selection of native plants such as the Tassert and Selaula, the primary objective should be the systematic introduction of new trees, particularly from Deglat, which provide fruits that are universally esteemed. The study of the acclimatization of various species should be spread over a period of fifteen years. The cost of introducing 3,000 suckers and maintaining them for fifteen years would be about 65 million francs. The process of substituting these new plants for the old trees will be long and costly. It is not at present possible to give any estimate of the expense in figures.

E. NEW CROPS

196. The production of dates, a heavy crop of which already abounds in the Sahara, is not necessarily the true vocation of a country which can engage in the production of much more lucrative crops. During the period in which an attempt is to be made to adapt new kinds of palms, experiments should be conducted with olive trees, apricot trees and the various fruit trees, the cultivation of which on irrigated land is feasible in hot countries.

197. The cultivation of tomatoes has already yielded good results. It is to be increased. Dried tomatoes bring a price double that of wheat. Now that the cereal harvest is sufficient to provide the staple foodstuffs, increasing attention must be given to the growing of vegetables.

198. Experiments have already been tried, and will possibly be developed, with beans, flax, peanuts, tobacco, the castor oil plant and various oleaginous plants.

199. As said before, the development of agricultural production in the Fezzan in the immediate future is entirely bound up with the question of water. The main features of the solution which that problem requires have already been outlined. Experiments that may be regarded as conclusive have already been conducted. It is now for the geologists precisely to demarcate the areas in which efforts should be intensified. A general survey of soils and water resources is now being made. It appears that the next well-boring operations will have to be carried out in the particularly poor areas of Wadi Ajel, Wadi Etba and the area between Murzuq and Zuila. The introduction of new crops will depend on the completion of this work.

F. TRADE

200. The first objective of the revival of Fezzanese agriculture, that of providing the population with adequate means of existence, has now been attained. The further execution of the water resources plan will soon produce a surplus of exportable products which will make the Fezzan one of the suppliers of all the population groups in the central Sahara. Thanks to its geographical situation, the territory has enjoyed prosperity in the past. A relative flourishing economy at that time won it the name of "Granary of the Ajjer". To-day it entertains the ambition of soon becoming the "Counter of the Sahara" in the sense in which that word is understood in the population centres of southern Algeria and southern Tunisia, where the grocer is the only trader and the supplier of all consumer goods.

201. At the present time, the commercial life of the Fezzan functions as follows. Textiles, tea, sugar, oil, wool and miscellaneous goods come in from Tunisia or Tripolitania. These products are exchanged for cash, or, when they are brought in by nomads, for dates.

202. Part of the commodities is consumed in the Fezzan, while the rest passes through Ghat to the Sudan, Air, Damergu and the districts of Nigeria or through Gatrun to Kuar, Kanem, and the regions of Chad, Tibesti, Borku, Wa'ai and Darfour.

203. In exchange, all these countries of central Africa send to the Fezzan hides, manufactured goods, butter from Chad, coffee and textiles, which are consumed in the Fezzan or redistributed. Some merchants, mostly Tripolitanians or Tunisians, make large profits, completely unrecorded in the statistics, on the sale of Saharan consumer goods, some of which are produced in the Sahara while others are imported from Europe. The trade in European products grew out of the difference in prices charged in the various areas bordering on the Sahara, a difference which in turn is due to the fluctuation of rates of currency exchange.

204. While the vicissitudes of political life in the Fezzan have occasionally seriously interfered with trade, they have never completely interrupted it. Since the opening of the frontier between Libya and the French Sahara, Fezzanese trade has again turned in that direction, and the traditional routes are experiencing renewed activity.

205. The prospects of agricultural development in the Fezzan offer a guarantee of the future of these routes. They should be the normal channels for the movement towards the areas of the Sahara of the foodstuffs, mainly cereals and vegetables, which, alone of all the desert countries, the Fezzan can supply in sufficient quantities. In the trade now carried on, transit operations are most important, while the export of surplus Fezzanese products is of merely incidental significance, but the positions should gradually be reversed.

G. ROAD TRAFFIC

206. To make the development of road traffic possible, the administering Power has been endeavouring to maintain the network of tracks and to regulate the traffic.

207. The network of roads left by the Italian occupation consisted, in addition to local roads, of two tracks connecting the Fezzan with Tripoli and Misurata. The French Administration has sought again to make the Fezzan a cross-roads of the Sahara.

208. A track between Sebha and Brach across the Zellaf has made it possible to reduce the distance between these two centres from 200 to 70 kilometres. The track leading to south Tunisia and Gabes has been remade, particularly between Derj and Bir Ghazeil. A new track has been constructed connecting Derj with Edri and running through Awinet Wenin, thus reducing the distance from Gabes to Sebha by 200 kilometres. Since 1948 two scrapers, three bulldozers, one motor-grader and a leveller have been in permanent service on this road, the remaking of which will be completed in 1950. Then work will be done on the very important tracks leading in one direction towards Ghat and in the other towards Gatrún and Korizo. The section of the track between Gatrún and Un el Araneb has already been prepared.

209. The Fort-Lamy-Gatrún-Sebha route is already used regularly by the Chad traders. Since 1948 experiments have been made with a commercial road connexion from Tunis to Fort-Lamy, the same route as that followed twice a month from 1943 to 1946 by the motor supply convoys of the Leclerc army.

210. In the autumn of 1950 a relay post will be established at Sebha on the Tunis-Fort-Lamy commercial route, with a fleet of lorries and a large repair shop. The opening of regular traffic by motor convoy with the Chad will restore to the Fezzan part of its former commercial importance and considerably enlarge the Territory's economic prospects.

H. AIR TRAFFIC

211. While Saharan trade in general should profit by the restoration of connexions with the Fezzan, a new trans-continental trade should enable the Fezzan to recover its function as a stopping-point which it held until the beginning of the century. With the development of air services, the Fezzan has a chance of gaining a place on the great highways of world trade.

212. Sebha is in fact on the direct route leading from the countries of Western Europe to the countries of central Africa. Normally, the Fezzan would be traversed by the routes: Paris-Brazzaville, Paris-Tananarive via Zouar and Nairobi, Brussels-Leopoldville, and Tripoli-Kano. The adoption of this route would shorten by 600 kilometres the Paris-Brazzaville crossing as at present operated, and the Paris-Tananarive crossing by 1,000 kilometres. In addition, atmospheric conditions are generally more favourable over the Fezzan than in the more western parts of the Sahara.

213. The main airfields have already been equipped. The three principal aerodromes at Ghadames, Sebha and Ghat already have radio direction-finding equipment, modern radio transmitters and meteorological stations. The marking of the runways, which is satisfactory at Ghadames and Sebha, will have to be improved at Ghat.

214. The first urgent task will be to mark out two runways on the auxiliary airfields, which have generally up to the present been marked rectangularly only. This incidentally, must also be done for the airfields in French Equatorial Africa. The north-south line will thus be marked off at the following points: Derj, Bir Ghazeil, Awinet and Wig el Seghir. In French Equatorial Africa, where Largeau and Fort-Lamy are the principal aerodromes, subsidiary aerodromes already exist at Wur, Zuar, Scherdas, Korotoro and Mussoro.

215. Once this essential work has been done, the civil aviation services must be induced to do something about the breakdown equipment, at present very rudimentary, at each of the main aerodromes.

216. Hotel accommodation is already satisfactory: there are suitable hotels now at the Sebha and Ghadames stops.

I. SECONDARY ECONOMIC ACTIVITIES

217. The main purpose is to make of this Territory, which before the Second World War was regarded as the miserable hinterland of a relatively rich coastal belt, a group of oases able to assume a pre-eminent position in the framework of the Saharan economy because of abundant water, scope of arable land, and excellent commercial location.

218. The essential importance of agriculture and trade in the Fezzan should not lead one to ignore a number of secondary economic activities the development of which will contribute to the country's prosperity.

Stock-raising

219. Stock raising is still in a rudimentary state. Pasture land is too scarce to provide nourishment for large herds. Statistics (the accuracy of which, by the way, is doubtful) provide the following figures: 12,000 sheep and goats, 6,000 donkeys and 5,000 camels.

220. The settled population is chiefly interested in the raising of donkeys, whose part in the drawing of water has been explained above. They are fed largely on dates. During recent years the Administration has regularly imported Tibesti donkeys, which are particularly robust and well-adapted to the desert.

221. The raising of sheep and camels, on the other hand, is largely confined to the nomadic populations, which move their flocks across the areas bordering on the Fezzan basin: Arabicized Berbers of the northern tribes, Tebus from the districts of French Equatorial Africa, and Tuaregs from the Algerian frontier. These groups move from one country to another without heeding frontiers. It is difficult to estimate their size. They are thought to amount to about 5,000 persons. The name Fezzanese is reserved to the settled population, and is not applied to the nomads.

222. The stock-raising in which they engage is intended almost exclusively to supply their own consumption requirements, and only when forced by necessity can they be induced to sell their animals. To assist them to increase their flocks, the watering points where, for any reason, the water supply has failed or is polluted should be put in order. Thus the Bir En Nahia and Bir Mangul wells in the Hamada el Homra have been restored. In some cases new wells will have to be dug. On the whole, however, it is difficult to see how nomadic stock-raising could be made to contribute to the economic development of the Fezzan without forcing the populations concerned to adopt a semi-settled mode of life. To the extent to which the great nomadic proprietors who live on the labour of their jebbadin are deprived of their income, this transformation will take place automatically. Every time irrigated lands are distributed in lots, portions will be assigned systematically to those of the nomads who are already established in the villages (the Guirza well among the Megarha; lucerne fields in years of drought). As regards the remainder of the tribes, it will be necessary, in so far as they are amenable to new methods, to establish at every agricultural experimental station a stock-raising centre where demonstrations of the care of stock will be given. At the same time these centres will encourage the development of a settled type of stock-raising which, however, must always be on a somewhat small scale.

223. In present circumstances, the oasis Fezzanese have only a small number of sheep. Their flocks must be increased to provide the population with a better-balanced diet than it now enjoys. The development of forage crops is the principal condition to the introduction of a family type of stock-raising capable of satisfying the country's meat requirements. The establishment of a sheep population of 50,000 within ten years may be regarded as a reasonable objective. Experiments giving satisfactory results have been made with the introduction of the long-tailed barbary sheep, the features of which are so perfectly adapted to the Tunisian climate.

224. The camel herds of the settled population must increase at a similar rate. If the use of norias can be developed, the Fezzanese should have a camel population of about 20,000 living on dates of inferior quality.

Craftsmen

225. The increase in the number of sheep will provide the craftsman class with a more abundant and cheaper supply of raw material than that offered by the nomadic populations. Wool and hides are very important in the various crafts, which in the Fezzan are little developed.

226. Most craft work is done by the family or, at any rate, within the village. Products rarely pass from village to village. None are sent out of the Fezzan.

227. At Brach and Jedib sandals and slippers are made; at Jedib, Semnu and Traghen, reed mats; at Temessa, textiles; at Gatrun and Tedjeri, articles made of esparto grass. Pottery techniques are particularly rudimentary. The art of baking clay is unknown in the Fezzan.

228. Owing to its central situation and its relatively advanced position with regard to the development of craft techniques, Murzuq already has a centre where some ten mastercraftsmen in leather are assembled at one place and work under the head of a craftsmen's guild. The volume of production is not great, but the products are interesting from the artistic point of view: some finely executed objects, such as embroidered leathers, might well find outlets in the Mediterranean countries and in Europe.

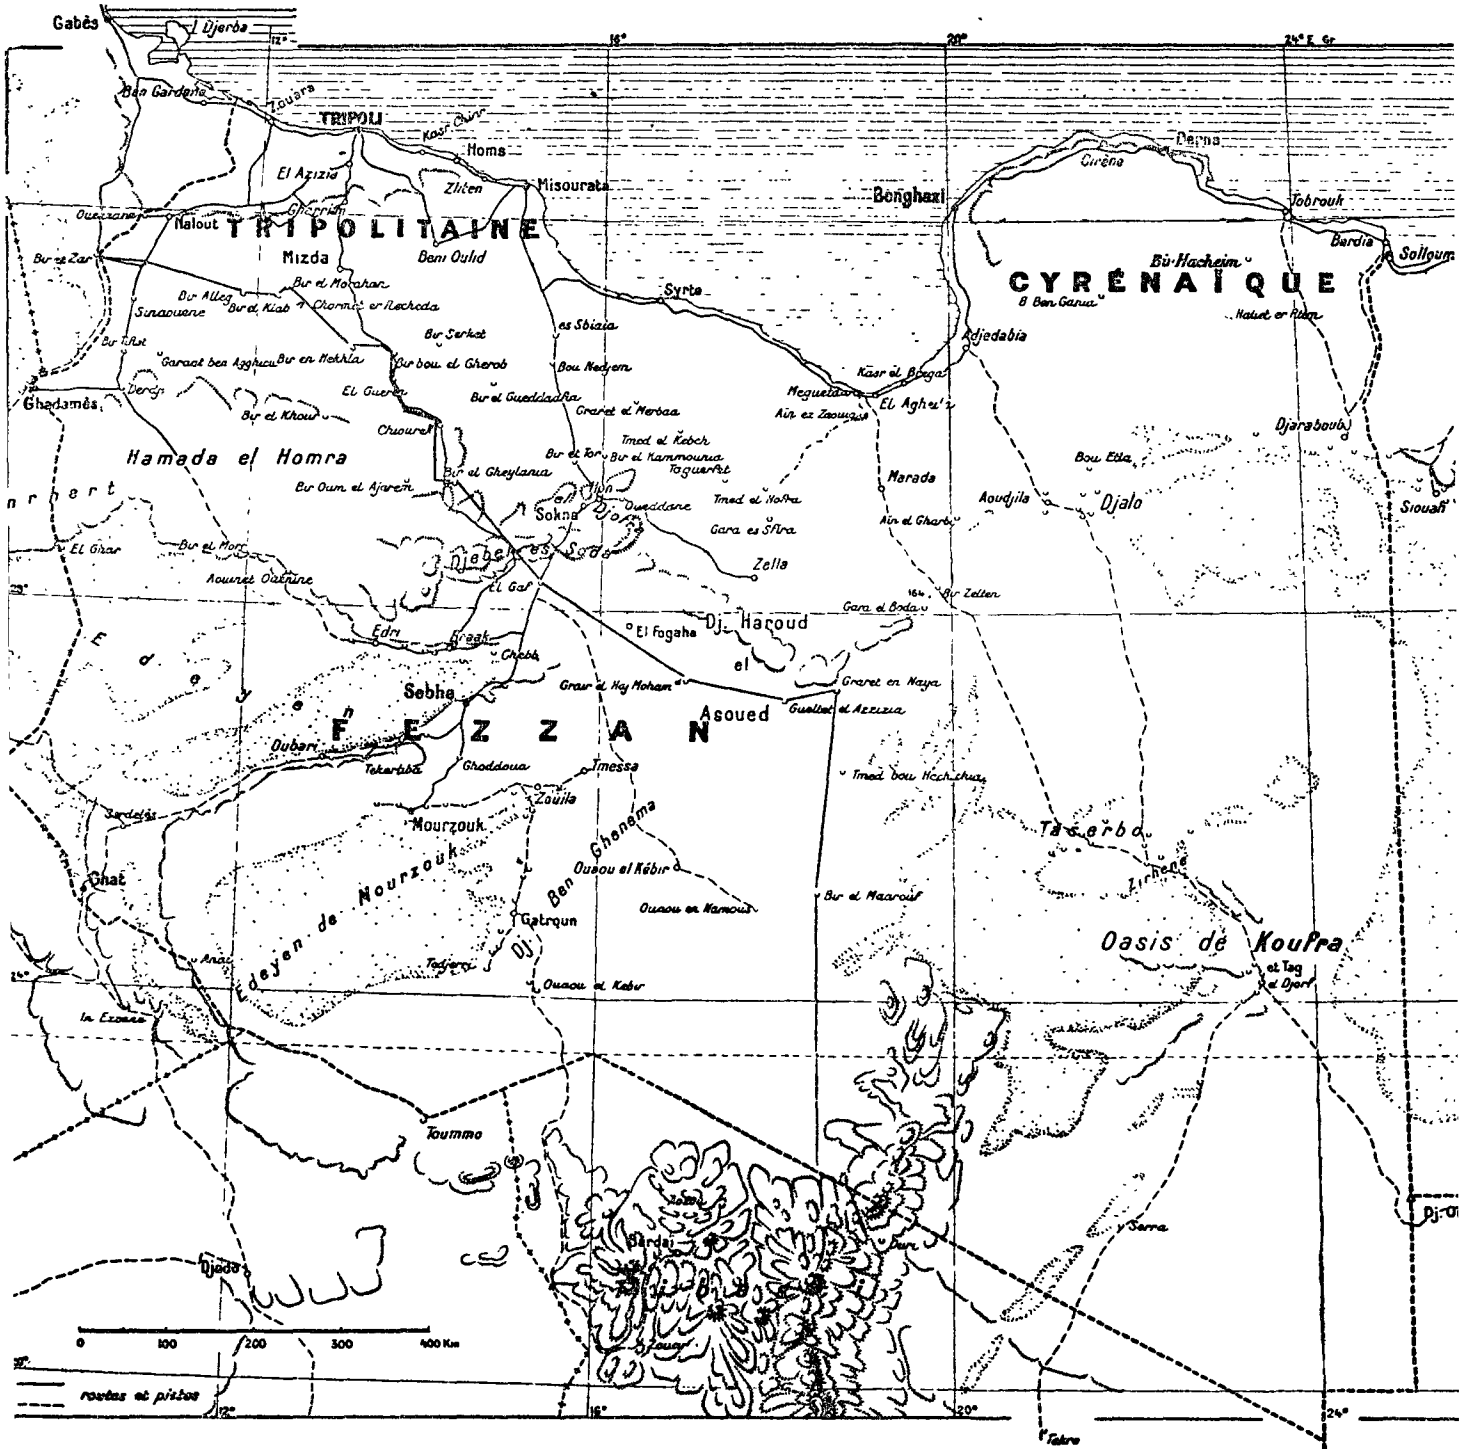

229. An apprenticeship centre for carpenters, cartwrights and mechanics will as a matter of course find its place beside the repair shop which the road transport company operating the Tunis-Fezzan service is to set up at Sebha. Owing to this proximity, the operational expenses of the apprenticeship centre will be considerably reduced.

J. MISCELLANEOUS INDUSTRIES

230. Fezzanese production has not hitherto involved the operation of any processing industry. Studies made in connexion with the distillation of dates have been abandoned because of the uneconomic nature of the operation.

231. The Fezzan already possesses an extractive industry, though a rather small one: the soda industry. About 100 tons of this carbonate of soda collected from lake surfaces in the Oubari area is exported annually to Tripoli or Tunis. Markets have never been very numerous, and it does not seem possible to find others than those provided by the tobacco factories of Egypt, Tripolitania, Tunis and Algeria. Production may be increased without difficulty, since the extractive processes are simple and the raw material comparatively abundant; but before anything is done in this connexion, outlets for the increased production must be found.

232. The question of petroleum is still in the realm of conjecture. The contradictory statements of geologists do not make it possible to form a definite opinion of the oil-bearing potentialities of the Fezzanese sub-soil.

CONCLUSIONS

233. The drawing-up of a development plan for the Fezzan was a relatively simple matter, owing chiefly to the fact that the country's economy was essentially agricultural and dominated by geographic and historic conditions common to all the oasis areas of the Sahara.

234. The immediate objective set by the French authorities as soon as the occupation of the Territory commenced has been attained : to enable the Fezzanese to find on their own soil sufficient resources to ensure their subsistence; to impress upon a people living in wretched material conditions and in constant fear of a return to the time of insecurity, that they are part of a community capable of development; to put a stop to the most flagrant social inequalities and to organize the first stages in education, public health and hygiene.

235. The second purpose of the Administration is to increase the agricultural capacity of the country by a long-term water supply policy making it possible to cultivate fresh land and restoring to this Territory its former important place in the great movements of African trade.

236. This purpose will be accomplished only to the extent to which the Fezzan has sufficient human and material resources. In present circumstances, the Territory can supply only a small portion of either.

237. The Fezzan has no technical experts, no university graduates, and the number of persons capable of assuming responsible positions in a modern organization is extremely small.

238. The equipment of the Territory cannot be financed out of the Fezzanese budget, the ordinary resources of which will for long remain slender. The development of the Fezzan can be ensured only by the influx of capital from abroad. The special conditions governing the economy of the Sahara imply that any advances that are made will not yield a return for a long time.

239. The administering Power is of the opinion that in the Territory's present circumstances, and for the purpose of promptly and rationally utilizing the resources available, multiple-purpose centres should be established to act as points for the dissemination of knowledge. The jointly undertaken and often overlapping efforts of the mudirs, teachers, medical officers and agronomists can be extended into the neighbouring villages by monitors, hospital attendants and agricultural monitors whose own knowledge is still undeveloped but who will in the end carry out the most urgent work.

240. The geographical situation of these centres will for practical purposes be determined both by the distribution of the population and considerations of water supply. From the comparatively developed villages, those will be chosen where water can be brought to the surface without effort and where, as a result, men can be relieved of the work of drawing water and instead apply themselves to the business of developing new land.

III. Economic and financial policy in Cyrenaica and

INTRODUCTION

1. The political, social and economic conditions in Cyrenaica and Tripolitania bear a general similarity, but differ in certain important respects. In Cyrenaica the predominant political factor is the personality and position of His Highness the Amir and the unanimous support he receives from his people. There are, in fact, no significant minorities in Cyrenaica, nor is there an Italian community. In Tripolitania there is party rivalry, and the political scene is further complicated by the presence of large minorities of which the Italian is the most important. In Tripolitania there is a greater degree of fertility and agricultural development than exists in Cyrenaica. In Tripolitania the European minority provides the greater part of the technically skilled element of the population. In Cyrenaica there is marked shortage of skilled labour. In Cyrenaica Italian influence had scarcely established itself, while much of the economic and social structure in Tripolitania is Italian in inspiration and character.

2. Economically these territories are not undeveloped lands with a considerable potential capacity for improved agriculture or prospects of mineral discovery and industrial development, but areas that supported a considerable colonial population from Phoenicia, Greece and Rome over a period of 1,000 years (from roughly 500 B. C. to 500 A. D.), and are now exhausted and largely infertile by reason of the exploitation they then suffered and the neglect to maintain the wells, cisterns, tanks, terraced fields, trees and so on (which were the essential basis of the agricultural prosperity of that earlier period) since the time of the Arab invasion, which brought in a largely pastoral economy and permitted extensive and indiscriminate grazing. The territories, therefore, need very substantial amounts of initially unproductive expenditure on investigations into such items as water resources, soil fertility, and in kindred fields, as well as the provision of cheap and easily accessible power for pumping water from subterranean storage. This sort of development is in hand on a scale limited by the finance available.

3. The fulfilment of United Nations resolution 289 A (IV) created for His Majesty's Government, as the administering Power, essentially different problems in the two territories in question. Cyrenaica, unlike Tripolitania, had a firm point of departure for political development, but smaller resources in skilled and trained personnel. In Tripolitania there is greater wealth, or more accurately, less poverty, both in material and personnel, but a certain political instability. More rapid political development has thus been possible in Cyrenaica, but Tripolitania's prospects of economic progress are better.

4. Prior to the United Nations resolution His Majesty's Government, as the administering Power, was restricted in the steps it could take in either territory by the temporary nature of its administration, by its international obligations, and by the amount of available resources. A number of important measures of economic, political and administrative reform were, however, put into effect. Some of these are summarized below. The passage of the United Nations resolution has naturally enabled the progress in some directions to be accelerated, though it has complicated progress in others.

5. Since the arrival of the United Nations Commissioner in Libya in January, the Administrations in both territories have maintained the closest touch with Mr. Pelt and have benefited, in the execution of their task, from his co-operation.

6. In the notes which follow, political and social developments in furtherance of the resolution are, for the reasons outlined above, dealt with separately for each territory, while economic and financial developments are treated as common to both territories.

I. CYRENAICA

7. Before adoption of the General Assembly resolution, His Majesty's Government had already initiated steps in Cyrenaica which would, by their logical consequence, prepare the country for independence at an early date. On 1 June 1949, His Majesty's Government agreed to the formation of a Cyrenaican Government with responsibility for internal affairs, and also to recognize His Highness the Amir as Head of the Government.

8. Subsequently, on 16 September 1949, His Highness the Amir enacted with the consent of His Majesty's Government a Constitution for Cyrenaica which came into effect on 18 September 1949. This enactment provided the foundation for self-government and from that date there has been established in Cyrenaica a Cyrenaican Government with authority over internal affairs.

9. By an Order-in-Council made on 28 October 1949, the Chief Administrator became the British Resident in Cyrenaica, thus formally recognizing the transfer of responsibility to the Cyrenaican Government.

10. The Government of Cyrenaica, which is headed by the Amir, consists of a Council of Ministers served by a Cyrenaican Civil Service, and decides and develops its own policy in regard to internal affairs.

11. Pending the fulfilment of the United Nations resolution, a number of subjects are reserved to the British Resident acting on behalf of His Majesty's Government. The more important of these are foreign relations, defence, foreign trade, ex-enemy property, currency and immigration.

12. The first elections to be held in Cyrenaica since 1919 took place on 5 June 1950, when fifty members were elected to a Cyrenaican Assembly of Representatives. A further ten members were nominated by His Highness the Amir. The elections were considered an unqualified success, 80 per cent of the townsmen and 56 per cent of the tribesmen having recorded their votes. On 12 June, the Assembly of Representatives held its first meeting when a President, a Vice-President and a Secretary of the Assembly were elected.

13. Since the transfer of power to the Cyrenaican Government many posts in the Administration, formerly held by British officials, have been filled by Cyrenaicans and candidates will be trained to replace the remainder as they become available. Meanwhile, a number of British officials are being offered Cyrenaican Government contracts under which they will become servants of the Cyrenaican Government and will be subject to Cyrenaican Civil Service Law. Since November 1949, the administrative districts of Cyrenaica have been in the charge of Cyrenaican officials appointed by His Highness the Amir. The British officials who had previously been responsible for these districts have remained in post as advisers to their Cyrenaican successors. This transfer of responsibility was everywhere effected smoothly.⁹

14. In accordance with the wish of His Highness the Amir, the Minister of Education took the first steps in November 1949, to plan the further development of education in Cyrenaica. In December 1949, a highly qualified and experienced British Education Adviser was appointed to strengthen the Ministry of Education and to assist in formulating the programme.

15. During the period of British administration in Cyrenaica, considerable progress was made in the development of educational facilities for the Cyrenaican people. In 1939, there were 31 elementary schools attended by 2,245 Arabs, but almost the whole of the Italian system disappeared during the war and it has had to be rebuilt from the beginning. By the end of 1949, 10 primary and 44 elementary schools, as well as one secondary school, one teacher training centre, one trade school, 26 instructional centres in the Zawias, and 41 Koranic schools, had been established. In all, some 8,000 pupils attended these establishments. In addition, there is an advanced study centre where students can matriculate. Further expansion is planned by the Cyrenaican Government with the beginning of the new school year in the autumn, including a secondary school for girls. Conditions in Cyrenaica are such that a number of boarding schools are highly desirable and necessary. At present, there are four. There has been a limited desire for female education which has been met by the provision of schools and encouraged in other ways.

⁹ By 1 August 1950 only 22.2 per cent of the posts in the Cyrenaican Government's establishment remained occupied by non-Libyans, viz. 12.2 per cent (183 posts) by United Kingdom based personnel and 10 per cent (150 posts) by other non-Libyans.

16. His Majesty's Government, realizing the need for a cadre of Cyrenaican experts in all fields of public administration, has made arrangements for the advanced training of selected Cyrenaican students to be carried out in the United Kingdom, France, Egypt and the Sudan, and at present about 50 students are attending courses in these countries. Cyrenaicans have received or are receiving in the United Kingdom specialized training in education, law, medicine, economics, customs and excise administration and police work. Arrangements are also being made for the attendance of Cyrenaican students at a two-year municipal engineering course in the United Kingdom. Provision has been made for the extension of this system of specialized training so as to ensure that a sufficient cadre of Cyrenaicans will be available both to assist with the administration of their country and to assist with the training of their fellow-countrymen. A summer school for the training of Cyrenaican students during the school holidays has been organized and will prove a valuable addition to the more formal teacher training facilities in the Territory.

17. Until more Cyrenaican technicians have been trained it will not be possible substantially to reduce the foreign element in the technical departments in the Cyrenaican Government. During the period of British administration a number of Cyrenaicans have received technical training in the transport and public works departments, and the gradually increasing supply of persons possessing an adequate basic education has now made it possible to give further emphasis to technical training generally, and apprenticeship and training with industry schemes are now being drawn up on a wider scale than has been possible heretofore. A trade school was opened in Benghazi in 1949 with an attendance of some 50 boys. The pupils at this school continue with a specially arranged curriculum of primary education which allows for additional time in mechanics, weaving, carpentry and leather work. It is expected that the number of pupils will rapidly increase and that the teaching of further trades will soon be introduced into the school.

18. Cyrenaicans have applied for United Nations scholarships and fellowships and their applications have been referred to the appropriate United Nations authorities.

19. Adult education, consisting of lessons in English and mathematics for personnel of the Cyrenaican Government and evening classes for working men, is being extended in scope, following a recent visit to Cyrenaica by a British educationalist whose recommendations were wholeheartedly accepted by the Cyrenaican Government. These recommendations included proposals for the development of teacher training, evening institutes, the provision of educational films, pamphlets and textbooks.

20. More than 50 teachers have been brought from Egypt, and it will continue to be necessary to employ teachers from other Arab countries until such time as Cyrenaica can produce a sufficient number of well trained teachers of its own. There is a teachers' training centre for male students.

21. A comprehensive review of the health services in Cyrenaica was undertaken in March 1950, in consequence of which consideration is now being given to the further training of Cyrenaicans to fill posts as nurses, midwives, health visitors and sanitary inspectors, to the appointment of further medical specialists and to increasing the number of hospital beds.

22. A visit by Mr. Davidson of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund has been arranged for September with a view to his investigating ways in which assistance can be given by the Fund to Cyrenaica and Tripolitania.

23. An inspection of the Cyrenaican police and prisons services was carried out during 1949, and a number of recommendations were made which have resulted in the complete reorganization of these services so as to conform with the best modern practice.

II. TRIPOLITANIA

24. After the adoption of the United Nations resolution a programme was prepared designed to lead the Tripolitanians to a stage where they would be in a position to assume responsibility for their own government by 1 January 1952.

25. After consultation with the United Nations Commissioner, this programme was divided into three stages :

(a) Creation of an Administrative Council.

(b) Inauguration of a Representative Assembly.

(c) Gradual transfer of powers and responsibilities to the Administrative Council and Representative Assembly.

26. The functions of the Administrative Council, which was inaugurated on 15 May 1950, are in the first instance advisory, though it is consulted on all important matters of internal administrative policy. The Council thus serves a dual purpose of providing the Tripolitanians with an advisory body of standing through which they can make known to the Chief Administrator their views on matters affecting the well-being of the Territory, and at the same time gives those who will ultimately be called upon to assume political responsibility an opportunity to acquire experience in the functions of government. The Council was established after consultation with the political leaders of Tripolitania and with the agreement of the United Nations Commissioner. It consists at present of three ex officio members who are British and ten nominated members, eight of whom are Libyans, one an Italian and one a Jew. The Libyan members were selected in such a way as to represent so far as possible the various political, geographical and ethnic groups of the Territory. They include, accordingly, outstanding personalities from each of the three main political groups of the four provinces of Tripolitania, while two out of the eight have been drawn from the important Berber group. At the majority of meetings held so far the Chief Administrator has presided, but a Libyan Vice-President has been elected and has taken the Chair on several occasions in the Chief Administrator's absence. This body, although comprising men of widely differing cultural and political outlook, has worked since its establishment in complete harmony, and the sense of responsibility shown by its members has fully borne out the confidence placed in it as a means of political education. In accordance with its terms of reference, the Council has been consulted on all measures of proposed new legislation, and on all important matters of internal administrative policy. Among the legislative proposals which have so far been referred to it are an immigration law, a new Press law and an amendment to the existing law on the control of rents. Other matters which it has discussed have included such varied questions as the establishment of foreign banks, the future of the olive oil and sponge-fishing industries and the resettlement of Palestine refugees. On all these topics the members of the Council have shown wisdom and good sense, and in no case has it been necessary for the Chief Administrator to act in opposition to their advice. A copy of the general notice establishing the Council is included in the appendix to this report.

27. It is hoped as soon as practicable, to hold elections for a Representative Assembly and in addition to the legislative proposals mentioned in the preceding paragraph a draft electoral law has been prepared and referred to the Administrative Council for preliminary consideration. The administering Power's efforts to hold elections have hitherto been delayed by the opposition of the inhabitants to the participation of the non-Libyan minorities in the election and to their representation in the Assembly. When the Representative Assembly comes into being, it is proposed that the functions of the Administrative Council, as then constituted, should approximate to those of a Council of Ministers inasmuch as individual members of the Council would become associated with and possibly responsible for groups of departments.

28. A complete examination of the judicial system of the Territory in the light of the future requirements of Libya is in progress. Before the adoption of the United Nations resolution fourteen Native courts had already been set up and the working of these has been most satisfactory.

29. In the administrative, as distinct from the constitutional, field, His Majesty's Government has proceeded from the premise that the most urgent duty of the Administration, in the light of the United Nations resolution, is to expand the educational services and to hasten the training of Libyan civil servants who will have to take an increasing part in the government of their country.

30. For a proper appreciation of the progress which has been made in the Libyanization of the civil service it must be borne in mind that under the Italian régime the proportion of Libyans employed was extremely low and the number occupying senior and responsible positions was negligible. It has been the consistent policy of His Majesty's Government to increase the proportion of Libyans serving in the Administration, and since the passing of the United Nations' resolution this policy has been still more actively pursued. At the end of 1946, only 584 Libyans were employed, but by 31 March 1950 the number of Libyans (other than daily paid workers) employed in government service has been increased (by nearly 300 in the last year) to 6062, of whom roughly 1400 were in the higher grades; and the proportion of Libyans in the service has risen to approximately 65 per cent. Owing to lack of training and experience it is inevitable that the majority of these must serve at this stage in comparatively junior positions, but the importance of training Libyans for senior posts also has been constantly borne in mind. In order that the persons selected for such senior posts might gain their experience in the most favourable circumstances, it was decided to employ them in supernumerary positions in the Administration, and a suitable sum of money was allocated to provide for their pay and allowances. Twenty of these senior supernumerary appointments have been made in the last six months, and it is hoped that in the near future these officials will be able to assume the full responsibilities of the posts which they are at present understudying. It is proposed to extend this method of training by the appointment of a considerably larger number of supernumeraries in the intermediate ranks and suitable candidates are now being selected for this purpose. In addition it is intended with the assistance of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization to establish in Tripoli a technical and clerical training school for some 250 young Libyans, approximately half of whom will receive training in accountancy, typing and general clerical duties, while the other half will be given practical tuition in artisan trades. A police officer cadet training centre has already been approved and is now fully equipped and provided with qualified training staff, most of whom have been recruited in countries of the Near East. The first course for 25 selected cadets is due to begin in September 1950, and at the end of 36 weeks it is hoped that a high proportion of these will be capable of undertaking the responsibilities of assistant superintendents of police.

31. A further valuable method of training is being provided by a programme of short courses abroad, whereby Libyan officials drawn from the various departments are being sent to England to study modern methods of education, local government, customs administration and the like. About thirty such courses are envisaged in the present year.

32. One great difficulty in the way of specialist training is that the general educational level of the Libyans to be trained is, in many cases, too poor to enable them to benefit from advanced studies, for which some previous academic qualifications are required.

This is particularly true in the more specialized departments such as agriculture, health and public works. Training for responsible positions in these departments is inevitably a long-term undertaking and before much progress can be made the general educational facilities within the Territory will have to be extended.

33. His Majesty's Government have long been aware of this and have already achieved much. They found education—apart from the education of Italians—very backward; but, by 1949, the number of Libyan teachers engaged in primary schools had risen from 60 to 700. There were sixty primary schools and two secondary schools. A number of technical courses had been held, and courses in Arabic literacy and in the English language had been well attended. Nevertheless, it will be realized that such developments necessarily form part of a long-term plan. His Majesty's Government has never anticipated that they would reach fruition within the short space of two years.

34. When the United Nations resolution was adopted, it became clear to His Majesty's Government that the hitherto steady expansion of the educational services had to be considerably accelerated. Accordingly, as a first step, a well-qualified and experienced Director of Education was appointed to the staff of the Chief Administrator and charged with the preparation of a comprehensive plan covering all fields of educational activity. This official took up his duties in January 1950, and the plan produced under his direction was approved in April at an additional cost to His Majesty's Government of £50,000 for the financial year 1950-1951. The plan includes considerable expansion of secondary education—seven new classes are to be accepted in October 1950, compared with three in 1949—and tuition and boarding are to be free for the majority of pupils. Two teachers' training colleges—one for men and the other for women—are also to be founded in October, in addition to the technical and clerical training centre to which reference has already been made. Although no new primary schools are to be opened in 1950, the numbers of primary teachers and pupils will nevertheless undergo a large increase, since the majority of schools have been founded for a period less than that of the full primary curriculum, and therefore increase their numbers by one or more classes per school every year. Substantial increases in the facilities for non-academic education are also planned. Provision is being made for the education abroad of a number of selected Libyans, and the possibility of obtaining a limited number of United Nations fellowships or scholarships is being actively explored. It will be appreciated that arrangements of this nature are difficult to complete within the space of a few months. Every effort, however, is being made. The necessary trained staff, which must of necessity be found from abroad, is being recruited; buildings are being renovated and converted; textbooks and equipment have been ordered, and furniture is being made. It is intended that the scheme as a whole shall be implemented by the beginning of the school year in October 1950.

35. These educational projects have already involved His Majesty's Government in considerable expense. During the financial year 1951-1952, however, the financial burden will be much greater; for not only will the staff appointed in October 1950 require payment for a full instead of a half year, but further large increases in staff, equipment and buildings will be required in October 1951 to cope with the necessary new intake of students if the expansion is to continue. UNESCO assistance in the staffing of the technical training centre has already been sought.

36. Notwithstanding the financial difficulties involved in implementing the programme for Libyan education, it is recognized that even this programme will not be adequate to provide trained Libyans in the numbers required, in that most of it will not directly affect the efficiency of administration for a number of years, and that it caters for the needs of a limited number only of those who will be required to take an active part in the administration of Tripolitania after 1951. Every effort is therefore being made to afford Libyans the opportunity—by association with British staff—to acquire practical experience of administration. This applies not only at the high level of the Administrative Council and the senior posts of the civil service, but also to local administration. Under the guidance of the Provincial Commissioners steps are being taken to increase the powers and responsibilities of the municipal councils of which there are eighteen, in all the principal towns. They were elected, on a new and more democratic basis, at the end of 1948 and in January 1949 from all communities, and each council elected its own mayor. Their powers extend to the levy of local taxes, the enactment of by-laws, and the control of sanitation, water supply, lighting, town planning, relief, etc. Recently a study visit to the United Kingdom has been made by the Mayor of Tripoli and a senior member of his Municipal Council to a local authority responsible for comparable activities in England. During the course of their tour these officials have had an opportunity of acquiring an insight into most aspects of modern local government, but have paid particular attention to the financial administration of the authority to which they were attached.

III. ECONOMIC AND FINANCIAL POLICY IN CYRENAICA AND TRIPOLITANIA

37. The economic and financial policy in both Tripolitania and Cyrenaica is directed towards the establishment of Libyan independence, as laid down in the resolution of the United Nations General Assembly. It aims at setting the territories on the road to economic viability, for that is an essential element of full independence. Nevertheless, neither Tripolitania nor Cyrenaica can hope to achieve such viability for a number of years without outside assistance.

38. The estimated budgetary deficits for the current financial year are :

Cyrenaica: £1,271,000;

Tripolitania: £325,000.

The estimated adverse visible balances of trade for the current financial year are :

Cyrenaica: £900,000;

Tripolitania: £1,800,000.

Drought and crops failure are a recurrent possibility in the two territories and, in assessing their economic prospects, this factor must always be taken into consideration.

39. In order to place the economy of the country on a sounder basis it is planned, inter alia, to introduce as soon as possible a new and internationally recognized common currency for the territories; to bring about a customs union between them; to improve such basic facilities as water, electric power and communications; to encourage secondary industries for the processing of indigenous raw material; to improve credit facilities by the establishment of additional banks; to improve and develop agriculture and animal husbandry by the introduction of better strains and the extension of potential grazing areas; to explore new fields for the marketing of early fruit and vegetables, for the production of which Tripolitania is climatically well suited.

40. In most of the above matters, action based on expert surveys has already been initiated. A good deal of preliminary consideration has been given to the lines on which a common currency could be introduced. The subject will, it is hoped, be discussed shortly with technical experts on the United Nations Commissioner's staff. Legislation has been drafted which should make possible the opening or reopening of branches of foreign banks. Meanwhile, an Industrial Loans Board has been set up with a revolving fund to make financial assistance on a limited scale available for the extension and development of agriculture and secondary industries.

41. In the agricultural field steady progress has been made since the beginning of the British administration. The Agricultural Research Station at Sidi Mesri, and six experimental farms (three in each territory), have been rehabilitated, and such Italian projects as the Barce Plain wheat scheme and the afforestation of suitable areas have been continued. Over 2,000 wells have been surveyed in all, and many hundreds have been renovated and improved, enabling flocks to graze in recently unwatered areas. Further, a quantity of high-class breeding stock has been imported including nine Zebu cattle which have been flown by aeroplane from the Sudan. In general, the territories are being encouraged to effect a close liaison by exchange of experience and the common use of research and experimental establishments.

42. The question of Italian state and parastatal property and undertakings in Tripolitania and Cyrenaica continues to be examined. It has not, however, been possible to complete the examination of the question of parastatal property and concerns, which present very great complications, and the examination so far made has disclosed the need for further data which are not available in the territories. As a result of the examination which has already been made, however, it would appear desirable that the administering Power should apply to all questions of former Italian property in Tripolitania and Cyrenaica the general rules of international law and procedure applicable in such circumstances, having regard to the interests of all parties concerned.

43. Progress towards economic viability will necessarily be gradual, since the territories are deficient in many natural resources and the inhabitants are in the main conservative in their methods. In the face of great difficulties, however, much has been accomplished and the ground has been prepared for further advances in the future.

44. Having reached the conclusion that a long-term development plan for Libya (covering the next 20 or 30 years) is required, His Majesty's Government asked the specialized agencies of the United Nations, in June 1950, to provide a team of experts to survey the problem. The request is under consideration, and in this connexion the specialized agencies have the benefit also of the advice of Mr. Carter Goodrich, technical adviser to the United Nations Commissioner for Libya, who has conducted an independent survey at Mr. Pelt's request.

IV. CO-ORDINATION OF ACTION WITH THE FRENCH AUTHORITIES

45. In view of the terms of the General Assembly resolution, it should be added, in conclusion, that His Majesty's Government and the Administrations in Tripolitania and Cyrenaica have maintained the closest liaison with the French authorities responsible for the Fezzan, and that they expect to continue such co-ordination in the future.

APPENDIX

ESTABLISHMENT OF ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL

1. The Chief Administrator has today approved the constitution of an Administrative Council in Tripolitania in accordance with the spirit of the United Nations resolution. The Administrative Council will consist of the persons for the time being lawfully discharging the functions of Chief Secretary, Legal Adviser and Controller of Finance and Accounts, who will be styled ex officio members of the Administrative Council, and such other persons as the Chief Administrator may from time to time appoint. Whenever on any occasion the Chief Administrator desires to obtain the advice of any persons within Tripolitania, relating to affairs therein, he may summon for such special occasion any person who may be considered suitable to give advice. Neither the ex officio members nor the advisers whom he may invite on such occasions shall be entitled to vote on the Council. The number of Councillors will be limited to fourteen, and this number will not be increased except after the views of the Council have been heard.

Every member of the Administrative Council will vacate his seat at the end of such period as is specified in the instrument appointing him, or in the event of no such date being specified then at the end of six months from the date of his appointment. The Chief Administrator may suspend any person appointed by name from the exercise of his functions as a member of the Council, or revoke the appointment of any such person after having given the Council the reasons for his proposed action and after having sought the views of the Council. The names of those appointed to be members of the Administrative Council will be published in the Tripolitania Gazette.

2. (a) Each member of the Administrative Council, before taking his seat in the Council, will be required to take an oath or make a solemn declaration and affirmation that, having been appointed a member of the Administrative Council, he will, to the best of his judgment at all times when thereto required, freely give his counsel and advice to the Chief Administrator for good government of the affairs of Tripolitania and that he will not directly or indirectly reveal such matters as may be debated in the Council and committed to his secrecy.

(b) The Chief Administrator may attend and preside at any meeting of the Administrative Council. The Council shall, with the approval of the Chief Administrator, elect one of its Libyan members to be known as Deputy Chairman of the Council, who will preside at any meeting which the Chief Administrator does not attend. The person so elected shall hold office for a period of three months, at the end of which period a fresh election shall be held, provided that the Council, with the approval of the Chief Administrator, may at any time revoke the appointment of the person elected to be Deputy Chairman and elect another member in his place.

(c) The Administrative Council will not proceed to the despatch of business unless duly summoned by authority of the Chief Administrator or, subject to his approval, of the person appointed to be Chairman in his absence, nor unless a majority of the nominated members (exclusive of himself or of the member presiding) be present and assisting throughout the whole of the meetings at which any such business shall be despatched. In addition to the meetings which will be summoned regularly and proposed by the Chief Administrator, it is open to any member to request that a special meeting shall be held. Any such application will be considered if supported by one-third or more of the members (excluding the ex officio members).

(d) Minutes will be regularly kept of all the proceedings of the Administrative Council; and at each meeting of the Council the minutes of the last meeting will be confirmed and amended, as the case may require, before proceeding to the despatch of any other business.

(e) In the execution of the powers and authorities relating to internal administrative affairs granted to the Chief Administrator, he will in all cases consult with the Administrative Council, excepting only in cases which may be of such a nature that, in his judgment, the service would sustain material prejudice by consulting the Council thereupon, or when the matters to be decided shall be too unimportant to require their advice, or too urgent to admit of their advice being given by the time within which it may be necessary for him to act in respect of any such matters. In all such urgent cases, he will, at the earliest practicable period, communicate to the Administrative Council the measures which he may so have adopted, with the reasons therefor. The Council shall not pass resolutions in matters relating to constitutional development of the country.

(f) The agenda for each meeting of the Administrative Council will be approved by the Chief Administrator. Any members will be entitled to propose questions for inclusion therein, and the Chief Administrator will give full consideration to the views of members as to the items which they wish to be included. Should the Chief Administrator decline to submit any question to the Administrative Council when requested in writing by any member to do so, it shall be competent to such member to require that there be recorded upon the minutes his written application, together with the answer returned by the Chief Administrator to the same.

(g) The Chief Administrator will at all times give full consideration to the advice given to him by the members of the Administrative Council although he may act in opposition to their advice; but in any such case he shall explain fully to the Administrative Council the grounds and reasons for his action. In every such case it shall be competent to any member of the Council to require that there be recorded on the minutes the grounds of any advice or opinion he may give upon the question.

Supplement to the annual report of the United Nations Commissioner in Libya (A/1340)

[28 September 1950]

LETTER DATED 22 SEPTEMBER 1950 ADDRESSED TO THE SECRETARY-GENERAL FROM THE UNITED NATIONS COMMISSIONER IN LIBYA

Referring to my letter of 4 September 1950 (A/1340), I have the honour to transmit herewith a supplementary report on the Libyan question. I should be grateful if you would have this supplementary report distributed to the Members of the General Assembly in order that it may be discussed at the fifth session.

As the report states, it could not be submitted for consultation to the Council for Libya as the latter adjourned on 3 September 1950.

(Signed) A. PELT
United Nations Commissioner in Libya

SUPPLEMENTARY REPORT

Note: This supplementary report was not drawn up in consultation with the Council for Libya, as it was drafted after the Committee of Twenty-One had adjourned and while the Council for Libya was no longer in session.

THE COMMITTEE OF TWENTY-ONE

1. On 25 July the Commissioner invited the twenty-one persons indicated in the list approved by the Council for Libya to meet in committee at Tripoli.¹⁰

2. He so informed the Acting Chief Administrator. The Committee of Twenty-One met for the first time on 27 July 1950 in the Commissioner's office. It adopted its rules of procedure which laid down in particular that the Committee's decisions would be taken by a majority of two-thirds of the members present and voting, and that fifteen members would constitute a quorum.

3. After approving the rules of procedure, the Committee elected as its chairman one of the representatives of Tripolitania, His Eminence the Mufti, and as secretaries a representative of the Fezzan and a representative of Cyrenaica. It also adopted an agenda for the study of a plan providing for the representatives of the inhabitants of Cyrenaica, Tripolitania and the Fezzan to meet as a National Assembly. The agenda was as follows:

- (a) Number of members of the National Assembly.
- (b) Should representation on the National Assembly be proportional to the number of inhabitants, or equal for the three territories composing Libya?
- (c) Should the National Assembly be elected or appointed?
- (d) If the principle of appointment were adopted, how should the members of the Assembly be appointed?
- (e) Date and place of the meeting of the Assembly.

4. It was also decided that the question of the representation of the minorities on the National Assembly should be discussed after the items on the above agenda had been exhausted.

5. At its meeting on 7 August 1950, the Committee decided that the National Assembly should consist of sixty representatives on the basis of an equal number of representatives for each of the three territories of Libya. At the same meeting the Committee studied the question whether the members of the National Assembly should be elected or appointed. The members from the Fezzan supported the principle of election, asserting that it was the only one which was in conformity with the democratic principles in force in civilized countries, and that it was, moreover, the only way of ascertaining the wishes and aspirations of the people. The members from Tripolitania took a different view. They considered that in the present circumstances it would be difficult to hold elections in Tripolitania since there was no national government in that territory, and that no reliance could be placed on the British administration which could, if it so wished, influence the results of the elections.

6. The representatives of Cyrenaica supported their colleagues from Tripolitania and emphasized that, in their opinion, elections in Tripolitania would be ill-timed, and that if such elections were held a considerable interval of time would be required to prepare the electoral campaign.

7. On being put to the vote, the proposal that members of the National Assembly should be appointed received only 13 votes, or less than the two-thirds majority laid down in the rules of procedure. The proposal that members of the National Assembly should be elected received only 4 votes. In order to find a way out of the impasse, the Committee decided to adjourn the meeting in the hope that in the interval a compromise solution might be reached.

8. Meanwhile, the Fezzan representatives went to Sebha to consult Ahmed Bey Seif el Nasr on this important matter, and the meetings of the Committee were postponed. On the return of the Fezzan representatives from Sebha the Committee held an important meeting on Tuesday 29 August. The Fezzan representatives maintained their view and insisted that representatives to the National Assembly should be elected. The Tripolitarians and the Cyrenaicans said they were opposed to the holding of elections, and the same arguments were reiterated by both sides. The following day, Wednesday 30 August, the Committee rejected by 10 votes to 7 (four members being absent) the proposal that representatives to the National Assembly should be elected.

9. A further meeting was arranged for Thursday 7 September to discuss the manner of appointing representatives to the National Assembly. The idea of the postponement was to enable the members of the Committee to agree on the manner of appointment and to try to convince the representatives from the Fezzan to change their attitude in the light of the vote which had just taken place in the Committee.

10. The United Nations Commissioner had returned to Tripoli on 7 September and had immediately asked the members of the Committee about the progress of the work. At a meeting held on 8 September 1950, the Committee unanimously adopted a resolution calling for the Commissioner's assistance in its efforts to find a solution to the fundamental question which had been impeding its work for some time. The resolution also requested the Commissioner to inform the Committee of the outcome of his endeavours by 18 September 1950 at the latest. That particular date had been chosen because of the forthcoming departure of the Commissioner for Lake Success and because the members had to return home for the feast of Bairam. The Commissioner immediately began conversations with the leaders of the political parties in Tripolitania, Ahmed Seif el Nasr Bey, at Sebha, and Emir el Senussi, near Benghazi. He wanted to persuade Ahmed Seif el Nasr Bey and his Council to accept the principle of appointment and to get the political parties in Tripolitania to agree to a list of Tripolitanian members for the approval of the Committee which would be as representative as possible.

11. The conversations held for several days with the political parties in Tripolitania showed promise of a successful outcome; unfortunately, Ahmed Seif el Nasr Bey maintained his attitude and continued to ask for elections to the National Assembly and the immediate return of the Fezzan delegation to Sebha for the celebrations.

12. At the beginning of the meeting between the Commissioner and Ahmed Seif el Nasr Bey on 13 September at Sebha, the Bey handed the Commissioner a verbal note which is summarized below.

13. During the conversation which followed, the Bey repeatedly emphasized that in no circumstances would he be able to agree to minorities being represented in the Libyan National Assembly.

14. In a conversation which the Commissioner then held with His Highness the Emir, at Beda (Cyrenaica), the latter also expressed the view that minorities could not be represented in the National Assembly. The Emir agreed to a suggestion made by the Commissioner and previously discussed with Ahmed Bey that the Committee of Twenty-One should adjourn on 16 September and resume its work on 9 October.

15. In the above-mentioned verbal note, Ahmed Seif el Nasr Bey, speaking in the interest both of the Fezzan population and of the other two territories, asked the Commission for time to think matters over since the decision would determine Libya's future for a long time to come. "Too much haste", he said, "might have disastrous consequences both for the Fezzan and the other two territories".

16. Ahmed Bey asked for the extra time in order to enable the inhabitants of the Fezzan to become acquainted with the work of the Committee of Twenty-One, through consultations with him and his Counsellors and the Chamber of Representatives. As for the National Assembly, it could only be truly representative of the wishes of the inhabitants of Libya if its members were elected. According to Ahmed Bey that is the golden rule of democracy as opposed to the autocratic method of arbitrary selection which he rejects, recalling that the representative of Tripolitania to the Council for Libya is a member of a certain political party—the National Congress Party—that the seven¹¹ representatives of Tripolitania on the Committee of Twenty-One are members or followers of the National Congress Party, and finally that Tripolitania's representation in the National Assembly is in danger—if the method of appointment is adopted—of being dominated by that same National Congress.

17. Ahmed Bey asked the Commissioner whether a majority opinion in Tripolitania was in favour of the method of appointment. Personally, he thought there was no information on the number of political parties in Tripolitania or their relative size.

18. While recognizing all the varied difficulties inherent in the electoral system, he asked the Commissioner whether the method of appointment was not also likely to create difficulties for the future. Ahmed Bey said that "it is better to build on solid foundations right from the very beginning".

¹¹ Of the seven members for Tripolitania on the Committee of Twenty-One, six are members of the National Congress Party or of parties affiliated to the Congress, while the seventh is an Italian representing the minorities.

19. Ahmed Bey was also against the notion that any "foreign authority" should undertake to choose representatives for Tripolitania. Following these remarks, he spoke in favour of a secret vote in the three territories for the election of representatives to the National Assembly, as that was the only method that would enable the inhabitants of these territories to express their views freely.

20. Lastly, Ahmed Bey wanted the question of the participation of minorities in the National Assembly to be discussed after the question of the election had been settled. He did, however, agree that the Committee should resume its work after the Bairam celebrations.

21. On Saturday 16, the Commissioner informed the Committee of Twenty-One of the outcome of his conversations. In the light of this information, the Committee, and in particular its Tripolitanian members, felt it would be useless to pursue conversations on the preparation of a list of twenty persons who could represent Tripolitania in the National Assembly, the more so as there did not remain sufficient time before the holidays to take a decision either on the principle of selection or on the participation of minorities. In those circumstances, the Committee unanimously decided to postpone its work until Monday, 9 October 1950, while thanking the Commissioner for his efforts and expressing the hope that upon resuming its work it would fulfil its mission successfully.

Second supplement to the annual report of the United Nations Commissioner in Libya (A/1340)

[30 October 1950]

LETTER DATED 24 OCTOBER 1950 ADDRESSED TO THE SECRETARY-GENERAL FROM THE UNITED NATIONS COMMISSIONER IN LIBYA

I have the honour to transmit herewith a second supplementary report on the Libyan question. I should be grateful if you would have this supplementary report distributed to the Members of the General Assembly.

This second supplementary report, based on information received on 23 October 1950, could not be submitted for consultation to the Council for Libya as the latter adjourned on 3 September until 28 November 1950.

United Nations Commissioner in Libya

SECOND SUPPLEMENTARY REPORT

In addition to the verbal information supplied by the United Nations Commissioner in Libya to the Ad Hoc Political Committee during its discussion of his annual report (A/1340)¹² and his supplementary report (A/1405) in regard to the proceedings of the Committee of Twenty-One, charged with the elaboration of a plan for the convocation of the Libyan National Assembly, the Commissioner received on 23 October 1950 information to the effect that the Committee of Twenty-One approved unanimously on 22 October the following resolution:

"The Committee of Twenty-One, consisting of seven members from each of the three Libyan territories—Cyrenaica, Tripolitania and the Fezzan—was set up in accordance with the advice given at the 19th meeting of the United Nations Council for Libya on 14 June 1950, its task being to prepare a plan whereby the National Assembly should meet, as envisaged in paragraph 3 of United Nations General Assembly resolution 289 A (IV) of 21 November 1949, for the purpose of drawing up a constitution for Libya and determining the form of the government. The Committee held its meetings at Tripoli and discussed the ways and means of convening the National Assembly in order to determine which of them in the prevailing circumstances would best attain the desired objective and which would be the most expeditious. After discussing and debating the matter, the Committee unanimously adopted the following resolution, based on its various earlier decisions, which constitutes the plan on the basis of which the National Assembly mentioned in the afore-mentioned United Nations General Assembly resolution will meet :

“(a) The National Assembly will be composed of sixty members.

“(b) The representation of the three territories of Cyrenaica, Tripolitania and the Fezzan in the National Assembly will be on a basis of equality : namely, twenty representatives of each territory.

“(c) Representation in the National Assembly will be by means of selection, consideration being given to the equitable representation of the National Arab parties in the various areas, as also of independent individuals and leading personalities, particularly where the territory of Tripolitania is concerned.

“(d) The selection of the representatives of Cyrenaica will be made by His Highness the Amir Sayed Mohamed Idris Es Senussi, and the selection of the representatives of the Fezzan will be made by His Excellency Ahmed Seif el Nasr. In accordance with a proposal put forward unanimously by the Tripolitanian representatives in the Committee of Twenty-One, the selection of the representatives of the territory of Tripolitania will be made by the Chairman of the Committee, His Eminence Mohamed Abul Asad el Alem, who, after the necessary consultations and conversations, will draw up a list of candidates and submit it to the Committee of Twenty-One not later than 26 October 1950. Copies of this resolution will be sent to His Highness the Amir and His Excellency Ahmed Bey.

“(e) Non-national minorities will not be allowed to participate or to be represented in the National Assembly. There is, however, a genuine intention and a general feeling that all civil, religious and social rights of all minorities and foreigners should be fully safeguarded in the future constitution of Libya. The Committee is confident that this principle will be taken into consideration by the National Assembly when it draws up the Constitution, in accordance with the practice of all civilized nations.

“(f) The National Assembly will hold its first meeting in the city of Tripoli on 25 November 1950, after which it may decide to hold its subsequent meetings elsewhere.”

Letter dated 6 October 1950 addressed to the Chairman of the Ad Hoc Political Committee from the Chairman of the United Nations Council for Libya

[9 October 1950]

I have the honour to inform you that the United Nations Council for Libya, at its 56th meeting on 3 September 1950, adopted a resolution deputing the Chairman to represent it before the General Assembly and its Committees when the report of the Commissioner comes up for discussion. This resolution has authorized the Chairman to select such other members of the Council as he deems necessary to accompany him. In this capacity, I have selected only one member, namely, the representative of Pakistan on the Council, and he will be here very shortly.

During the debate that ended by the adoption of this resolution, the members of the Council made it abundantly clear that they had good reasons to believe that vital issues might be involved, and important decisions by the General Assembly and its Committees might be required. It was therefore decided that the Council should be represented by its Chairman, who can throw sufficient light on any important suggestion on which the debate may revolve before a definite decision is taken.

Now that I have arrived in New York, I hereby make myself available to the General Assembly and its Committees during their discussions on Libyan affairs.

United Kingdom : draft resolution

[Original text : English]
[9 October 1950]

Whereas annex XIV of the Treaty of Peace with Italy contained economic and financial provisions relating to territories ceded by Italy,

Whereas paragraph 19 of that annex stated that its provisions should not apply to the former Italian Colonies, but that " the economic and financial provisions to be applied therein will form part of the arrangements for the final disposal of these territories pursuant to article 23 of the Treaty ",

Whereas the four Powers were unable to agree upon their disposal by 15 September 1948 in accordance with article 23 of the Treaty, and therefore the matter was referred to the General Assembly of the United Nations in accordance with annex XI to the Treaty of Peace with Italy,

Whereas the general disposal of the former Italian Colonies (excepting Eritrea) was effected by resolution 289 (IV) of the General Assembly adopted 21 November 1949, but the question of financial and economic provisions was left in abeyance,

Whereas it is desirable that before the transfer of the administration in Libya takes place in accordance with the above-mentioned resolution, the financial and economic provisions to be applied in connexion with the final disposal of Libya should be determined and that as far as possible their application to property in Libya should have been decided;

The General Assembly resolves :

1. That the economic and financial provisions to be applied in Libya, in accordance with annex XIV paragraph 19 of the Treaty of Peace with Italy, shall be those set forth in the annex to and in paragraphs 6 to 10 of the present resolution;

2. That a United Nations Arbitral Tribunal, composed of three persons selected by the Secretary-General on the grounds of their legal qualifications from the nationals of three different States not directly interested in the question, shall be entrusted with the task of deciding all questions relating to the application of the provisions in the annex, and that in deciding such questions the Tribunal should, in so far as the provisions of the annex afford no direct guidance, be inspired by the general principles of international law and practice;

3. That the above-mentioned Tribunal shall proceed to Libya as soon as possible, arrangements for accommodation and staff having been made by the Secretary-General of the United Nations. All the expenses of the Tribunal shall be borne by the United Nations;

4. That the administering Powers shall submit to the Tribunal as soon as possible all the information which they possess with regard to all property covered by the annex to this resolution, and shall request the directions of the Tribunal as to the disposition of the property. The Tribunal shall give immediate directions with regard to all property about which no reasonable doubt arises. The Tribunal shall then decide all cases where there is doubt or dispute and shall, before reaching a decision thereon, afford to all interested parties a reasonable opportunity of presenting their views;

5. That the Tribunal shall determine its procedure. It may take all decisions by a majority vote. It shall be entitled to submit demands for information which it requires for the purposes of deciding the matters submitted to it to any Government or authority which it deems to be likely to be in a position to furnish such information;

6. That the social insurance organizations operating in Libya shall be excepted from the provisions of the annex and special arrangements shall be concluded between Libya and Italy to govern the conditions under which the obligations of Italian public or private social insurance organizations towards the inhabitants of Libya and a proportionate part of the reserves accumulated by the said organizations shall be transferred to similar organizations in the successor State, together with all real property and fixed assets of the said organizations in Libya;

7. That the Government of Italy shall continue to be liable for the payment of civil or military pensions earned, as from the coming into force of the Treaty of Peace with Italy, for service under the Italian State, municipal or other local authorities, by persons who acquire Libyan nationality, including pension rights not yet matured. Arrangements shall be concluded between the Governments of Italy and Libya providing for the method by which this liability shall be discharged;

8. That the Government of Libya shall be exempted from the payment of any portion of the Italian public debt.

9. That Italy shall return to Libya in the shortest possible time any ships in Italian possession which were owned on 3 September 1943, by persons resident in Libya who acquire the nationality of Libya or by other nationals of Member States of the United Nations, except any ships which have been subject to a bona fide sale.

10. That if Libya grants compensation to its nationals for loss or damage sustained during, and as a result of, the Second World War, then it shall grant no less favourable treatment in this respect to nationals of Member States of the United Nations.

ANNEX

1. The Libyan State shall receive, without payment, the movable and immovable property, within the Territory of Libya, which formerly belonged solely to the Italian State or to local authorities under the Italian Administration, as well as all relative archives and documents of an administrative character or historical value concerning the Territory of Libya or relating to property transferred under this paragraph.

2. The Libyan State shall receive, without payment, all Italian State interest (as it existed on the coming into force of the Treaty of Peace with Italy) in any undertakings, public companies and organizations within Libya. Where the operations of such undertakings, public companies and organizations extend to Italy or elsewhere, the Libyan State shall receive only such Italian State interest as appertains to the operations which are confined to Libya. In cases where the former Italian or Libyan Governments exercised only managerial control over any concerns, as distinct from possessing financial or property rights, the Libyan State shall not be entitled to have any interest in the concern transferred to it.

3. Concessions within the Territory of Libya which were granted to individuals by the Italian or former Libyan Governments shall be confirmed if it is shown that the concessionaire has carried out the terms of the concession in full.

The General Assembly,

Having received the reports of the United Nations Commissioner in Libya, prepared in consultation with the Council for Libya, and of the administering Powers, submitted in accordance with General Assembly resolution 289 A (IV),

Having noted in particular the belief expressed by the Commissioner that the aim of the General Assembly, that Libya should become an independent and sovereign State, will be attained within the time limit prescribed, with the continuing co-operation and coordination of the activities of the administering Powers toward that end;

Taking account of the progress being made by the representatives of the inhabitants of Cyrenaica, Tripolitania and the Fezzan, meeting in their Committee of Twenty-One, regarding the establishment of a National Assembly to determine a Constitution for Libya, including the form of government in accordance with paragraph 3 of the above-mentioned resolution,

Having noted the statements on the above-mentioned reports regarding the substantial needs of Libya for technical and financial assistance both before and after independence;

Takes note of the reports of the United Nations Commissioner in Libya and those of the administering Powers;

Information transmitted to the United Nations Commissioner in Libya by the administering Powers with regard to freedom of movement in Libya

[Original text : English]
[16 October 1950]

1. In response to the request of the representative of Syria at the 11th meeting of the Ad Hoc Political Committee on 12 October 1950, the United Nations

Commissioner in Libya submits herewith a summary of the information transmitted to him by the administering Powers in accordance with the request adopted by the United Nations Council for Libya, dated 31 July 1950, for information on the steps taken by such Powers to ensure freedom of movement in Libya (annex XIII to the Commissioner's report, A/1340) :

TRIPOLITANIA

Movement of individuals

2. The movement of Libyans in or out of Tripolitania to or from other territories of Libya is free of all local restrictions. Specific reference to this free movement has been made in a draft immigration and emigration proclamation which will be enacted shortly. Temporary travel documents are required of Libyans proceeding abroad. Other nationals, government officials included, require movement orders to visit Cyrenaica or the Fezzan or to proceed abroad. Such orders are issued only after permission to enter has been received from the Administration of the country of destination.

Movement of animals

3. Animals move freely from one territory to another except when one of the territories prohibits the movement of animals from any area where the presence of noticable infections or contagious diseases has been established.

Movements of goods

4. Restrictions on movement of goods is limited to rationed commodities and essential machinery. Rationed commodities are wheat, wheaten flour, sugar, tea and coffee but it is intended to make movement of these commodities free when complete uniformity of customs tariffs has been achieved. Negotiations towards this end are already under way. The increased cost of most types of machinery, as well as the difficulty in obtaining new machinery, makes it necessary to maintain a certain degree of control of that movement in the interest of the economy of the Territory. A permit is required before essential machinery is removed from any industrial premises but every case is carefully investigated and, whenever it is possible, authority for the removal is given. This administrative control does not apply to new machinery not installed in industrial concerns and purchasable from local machinery merchants.

CYRENAICA

Movement of individuals

5. Between Cyrenaica and Tripolitania there is complete freedom of movement for the non-European inhabitants of Cyrenaica. Movement into the Fezzan is controlled by the visa system, visas being issued by the French Consul at Benghazi. Movement from the Fezzan to Cyrenaica is similarly controlled, visas being issued on request by the local migration department. The British authorities in Cyrenaica would not object to the abolition of this system if the French authorities in the Fezzan would agree to it. The visa system applies to the movement of all persons of non-Libyan nationality who wish to enter or leave Cyrenaica. The revision of restrictions in this respect, with a view to the establishment of the maximum liberty of movement possible, has been under active consideration for some time and a decision is expected shortly.

Movement of animals and goods

6. As from 1 September 1950 the movement of all animals and goods between Cyrenaica and Tripolitania may take place without restriction, except for commodities which are rationed foodstuffs in Tripolitania. Movement of these commodities may take place only under cover of a goods movement order issued by the trade supplies department of the Cyrenaican Government and the Tripolitanian Administration. At the present moment it is impossible to modify this arrangement. There is virtually no animal or goods traffic directly with the Fezzan but there are no restrictions to this traffic from the Cyrenaican side.

THE FEZZAN

7. Fezzanese wishing to leave the Territory must notify the authorities of their intention and destination in order to obtain a laissez-passer. They must likewise report their return to the Fezzan. These formalities tend to ensure the control of movement of individuals against whom proceedings are pending or who have law suits awaiting settlement. Persons living in Tripolitania or in Cyrenaica who desire to go to the Fezzan must apply for a laissez-passer which is issued free of charge by French consulates in Tripoli or Benghazi. Nomads whose flocks move between the three territories and who migrate seasonally are not subject to any formalities. They must, however, pay the normal taxes for the goods they transport to the Fezzan for commercial purposes. Cattle and supplies of nomadic tribes are free from the payment of such taxes. Animals and goods entering the Fezzan for commercial purposes are subject to taxes which vary according to the nature of the imported goods.

Financial and economic provisions relating to Libya : report of Sub-Committee 1

Rapporteur : Mr. Rodolfo Muñoz (Argentina).

[Original text : French]
[11 December 1950]

1. At its 11th meeting on 12 October 1950, the Ad Hoc (Sub-Committee 1) composed of representatives of Political Committee decided to establish a sub-committee Argentina, Belgium, Egypt, France, Greece, Poland and the United Kingdom, to consider the United Kingdom draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.9, A/AC.38/L.9/Corr.1) concerning financial and economic provisions relating to Libya under paragraph 19 of annex XIV of the Treaty of Peace with Italy. The Ad Hoc Political Committee requested the Sub-Committee to submit to it a report, together with recommendations. The representative of Italy, the United Nations Commissioner in Libya, and the President of the Council for Libya, were invited to take part in the work of the Sub-Committee in an advisory capacity. Sub-Committee 1 held 28 meetings between 12 October and 11 December 1950. At the first meeting, Mr. Rodolfo Muñoz (Argentina) was elected Chairman and Rapporteur.

2. The Sub-Committee had before it the text of the draft resolution submitted to the Ad Hoc Political Committee by the representative of the United Kingdom. On 17 October 1950, the United Kingdom delegation submitted a statement (A/AC.38/SC.1/L.1) giving detailed reasons for submitting its draft resolution.

3. On 30 October 1950, the United Nations Commissioner in Libya submitted some suggestions (A/AC.38/SC.1/1 and Corrs.1, 2 and 3) to amend the United Kingdom draft resolution. During the debates, many suggestions and amendments concerning various parts of the draft resolution were submitted.

4. The Sub-Committee has drawn up the result of its considerations in the following draft resolution, adopted by 6 votes in favour to one against, and has the honour to submit it to the Ad Hoc Political Committee :

FINANCIAL AND ECONOMIC PROVISIONS RELATING TO LIBYA

A

Whereas, in accordance with the provisions of Article 23 and paragraph 3 of annex XI of the Treaty of Peace with Italy, the question of the disposal of the former Italian colonies was submitted on 15 September 1948 to the General Assembly by the Governments of France, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and the United States of America,

Whereas, by virtue of the above-mentioned provisions, the four Powers have agreed to accept the recommendation of the General Assembly and to take appropriate measures for giving effect to it,

Whereas, the General Assembly, by its resolutions of 21 November 1949 and of 17 November 1950, recommended that the independence of Libya should become effective as soon as possible and in any case not later than 1 January 1952,

Whereas paragraph 19 of annex XIV of the Treaty of Peace with Italy, which contains the economic and financial provisions relating to ceded territories, states that " The provisions of this annex shall not apply to the former Italian colonies. The economic and financial provisions to be applied therein will form part of the arrangements for the final disposal of these territories pursuant to article 23 of the present Treaty ",

Whereas it is desirable that the economic and financial provisions relating to Libya should be determined before the transfer of power in that territory takes place in order that they may be applied as soon as possible,

The General Assembly

Approves the following articles :

Article I

1. Libya shall receive, without payment, the movable and immovable property located in Libya owned by the Italian State, either in its own name or in the name of the Italian administration of Libya.

2. The following property shall be transferred immediately :

(a) The public property of the State (demanio pubblico) and the inalienable property of the State (patrimonio indisponibile) in Libya, as well as the relevant archives and documents of an administrative character or technical value concerning Libya or relating to property, the transfer of which is provided for by the present resolution ;

(b) The property in Libya of the Fascist Party and its organizations.

3. In addition the following shall be transferred on conditions to be established by special agreement between Italy and Libya :

(a) The alienable property (patrimonio disponibile) of the State in Libya and the property in Libya belonging to the autonomous agencies (aziende autonome) of the State;

(b) The rights of the State in the capital and the property of institutions, companies and associations of a public character located in Libya.

4. Where the operations of such institutions, companies and associations extend to Italy or to countries other than Libya, Libya shall receive only those rights of the Italian State or the Italian administration of Libya which appertain to the operations in Libya. In cases where the Italian State or the Italian administration of Libya exercised only managerial control over such institutions, companies and associations, Libya shall have no claim to any rights in those institutions, companies and associations.

5. Italy shall retain the ownership of immovable property necessary for the functioning of its diplomatic and consular services and, when the conditions so require, of the schools necessary for the present Italian community whether such property is owned by the Italian State in its own name or in the name of the Italian administration of Libya. Such immovable property shall be determined by special agreements concluded between Italy and Libya.

6. Buildings used in connexion with non-Moslem public worship and their appurtenances shall be transferred by Italy to the respective religious communities.

7. Special agreements may be concluded between Italy and Libya to ensure the functioning of hospitals in Libya.

Article II

Italy and Libya shall determine by special agreements the conditions under which the obligations of Italian public or private social insurance organizations towards the inhabitants of Libya and a proportionate part of the reserves accumulated by the said organizations shall be transferred to similar organizations in Libya. That part of the reserves shall preferably be taken from the real property and fixed assets in Libya of the said organizations.

Article III

Italy shall continue to be liable for the payment of civil or military pensions earned as of the coming into force of the Treaty of Peace with Italy and owed by it at that date, including pension rights not yet matured. Arrangements shall be concluded between Italy and Libya providing for the method by which this liability shall be discharged.

Article IV

Libya shall be exempt from the payment of any portion of the Italian public debt.

Article V

Italy shall return to their owners, in the shortest possible time, any ships in its possession or that of its nationals, which are proved to have been the property of former Italian nationals belonging to Libya or to have been registered in Libya, except in the case of ships acquired in good faith by Italy or its nationals.

Article VI

1. The property, rights and interests of Italian nationals, including Italian juridical persons, in Libya, shall, provided they have been lawfully acquired, be respected. They shall not be treated less favourably than the property, rights and interests of other foreign nationals, including foreign juridical persons.

2. Italian nationals in Libya who move or who have since 3 September 1943 moved to Italy shall be permitted freely to sell their movable and immovable property, realize and dispose of their assets, and, after settlement of any debts or taxes due from them in Libya, to take with them their movable property and transfer the funds they possess, unless such property and funds were unlawfully acquired. Such transfers of property shall not be subject to any import or export duty. The conditions of the transfer of this movable property to Italy will be fixed by agreement between the administering Powers or the Government of Libya upon its establishment on the one hand, and the Government of Italy on the other hand. The conditions and the time-periods of the transfer of the funds, including the proceeds of above-mentioned transactions shall likewise be determined.

3. Companies incorporated under Italian law and having siège social in Italy shall be dealt with under the provisions of paragraph (2) above. Companies incorporated under Italian law and having siège social in Libya and which wish to remove siège social to Italy shall likewise be dealt with under the provisions of paragraph (2) above, provided that more than 50 per cent of the capital of the company is owned by persons usually resident outside Libya and provided also that the greater part of the activity of the company is carried on outside Libya.

4. The property, rights and interests in Italy of former Italian nationals belonging to Libya and of companies previously incorporated under Italian law and having their siège social in Libya, shall be respected by Italy to the same extent as the property, rights and interests of foreign nationals and of foreign companies generally. Such persons and companies are authorized to effect the transfer and liquidation of their property, rights and interests under the same conditions as may be established under paragraph (2) above.

5. Debts owed by persons in Italy to persons in Libya or by persons in Libya to persons in Italy shall not be affected by the transfer of sovereignty. The Government of Italy and the administering Powers or the Government of Libya after its establishment shall facilitate the settlement of such obligations. As used in this paragraph, the term "persons" includes juridical persons.

Article VII

Property, rights and interests in Libya which, as result of the war, are still subject to measures of seizure, compulsory administration or sequestration, shall be restored to their owners, and, in cases submitted to the Tribunal referred to in article X of the present resolution, following decisions of that Tribunal.

Article VIII

The former Italian nationals belonging to Libya shall continue to enjoy all the rights in industrial, literary and artistic property in Italy to which they were entitled under the legislation in force at the time of the coming into force of the Treaty of Peace. Until Libya becomes a party to the relevant international convention or conventions, the rights in industrial, literary and artistic property which existed in Libya under Italian law shall remain in force for the period for which they would have remained in force under that law.

Article IX

The following special provisions shall apply to concessions :

1. Concessions granted within the territory of Libya by the Italian State or by the Italian administration of Libya, and concession contracts (patti colonici) existing between the "Ente per la Colonizzazione della Libia" or the " Instituto della Previdenza Sociale " and the concessionaires of land to which each contract relates shall be respected, unless it is established that the concessionaire has not complied with the essential conditions of the concession.

2. Land placed at the disposal of the " Ente per la Colonizzazione della Libia " and of the colonization department of the " Instituto della Previdenza Sociale " by the Italian State or the Italian administration of Libya and which has not been the object of a concession shall be transferred immediately to Libya.

3. Land, buildings and their appurtenances referred to in sub-paragraph (d) of paragraph 4 below shall be transferred to Libya in accordance with the arrangements to be made under that sub-paragraph.

4. Special agreements between Italy and Libya shall provide for :

(a) The liquidation of the " Ente per la Colonizzazione della Libia " and of the colonization department of the " Instituto della Previdenza Sociale ", the interim status of those institutions for the purpose of enabling them to fulfil their obligations towards concessionaires whose contracts are still in operation, and, if necessary, the taking over of their functions by new organizations.

(b) The repayment by those institutions to financial concerns of the quotas subscribed by the latter in the establishment of the " Ente per la Colonizzazione della Libia ", and, in the case of the " Instituto della Previdenza Sociale ", the reconstitution of that part of its reserves invested by that institution in its colonization department.

(c) The transfer to Libya of the residual assets of the institutions to be liquidated.

(d) Arrangements relating to land placed at the disposal of these institutions and to the buildings on and appurtenances to that land, in which, after their abandonment by the concessionaires, no further investment could be made by the institutions.

(e) Payments in amortization of the debts of concessionaires owed to those institutions.

5. In consideration of the renunciation by the Italian Government of its claims against those institutions, the latter shall cancel the debts of the concessionaires and the mortgages securing those debts.

Article X

1. A United Nations Tribunal shall be set up, composed of three persons selected by the Secretary-General for their legal qualifications from the nationals of three different States not directly interested. The Tribunal, whose decisions shall be based on law, shall have the following two functions :

(a) It shall give to the administering Powers, the Libyan Government after its establishment, and the Italian Government, upon request by any of those authorities, such instructions as may be required for the purpose of giving effect to the present resolution;

(b) It shall decide all disputes arising between the said authorities concerning the interpretation and application of the present resolution. The Tribunal shall be seized of any such dispute upon the unilateral request of one of those authorities.

2. The administering Powers, the Libyan Government after its establishment and the Italian Government shall supply the Tribunal as soon as possible with all the information and assistance it may need for the performance of its functions.

3. The seat of the Tribunal shall be in Libya. The Tribunal shall determine its own procedure. It shall afford to the interested parties an opportunity to present their views, and shall be entitled to request information and evidence which it may require from any authority or person whom it considers to be in a position to furnish it. In the absence of unanimity, the Tribunal shall take decisions by a majority vote. Its decisions shall be final and binding.

B

The General Assembly,

Authorizes the Secretary-General, in accordance with established practice,

1. To arrange for the payment of an appropriate remuneration for the members of the United Nations Tribunal set up under article X above and to reimburse their travel and subsistence expenses;

2. To assign to the United Nations Tribunal such staff and provide such facilities as the Secretary-General may consider necessary to carry out the terms of the present resolution, utilizing the existing United Nations staff of the Libyan mission in so far as possible.

5. The Sub-Committee wishes, at the same time, to give some further explanations of the following points of the draft resolution and recommends that they shall be included in the report of the Ad Hoc Political Committee to the General Assembly :

Article I

Paragraph 2 (a)

It is understood that the Italian Government will facilitate the return to Libya of any archives or documents of an administrative character or technical value, property of the Italian State, which are in Italy and which the Libyan Government would have the right to request of it under this paragraph.

The words documents of " technical value " apply, inter alia, to documents concerning archaeological research projects which are being carried out or are to be carried out in Libya.

Paragraph 3

Italy abandons its right to property transferred under this paragraph, as a contribution to the rehabilitation of Libya.

Paragraph 3 (b)

The rights mentioned in this sub-paragraph include share holdings and similar rights owned by the Italian State either in its own name or in the name of the Italian administration of Libya.

Paragraph 6

The expression "buildings used in connexion with non-Moslem public worship" includes all articles used in connexion with public worship in those buildings.

It is understood that mosques and articles used in connexion with Moslem public worship will be transferred directly to the Libyan State.

It is also understood that the maintenance of cemeteries shall be the subject of special agreements.

Article IV

Italy renounces all its claims to any payment whatsoever from Libya in respect of debts, in view of the economic conditions of that country.

Articles V, VI (paragraph 4), VIII

The phrase "former Italian nationals belonging to Libya" means, in particular, the indigenous population of Libya.

Article VII

It is understood that this article does not affect the requisitions made by the authorities for the needs of the administration.

Article VIII

It is understood that the second sentence applies to aliens only, and not to the Libyans themselves.

Article IX (paragraph 4 (c))

It is understood that if the final balance sheet of the institutions shows a debit balance, no part of such liability will be transferred to the Libyan Government.

Article X (paragraph 1)

The Tribunal "whose decisions shall be based on law" shall apply the rules of law, and shall not decide ex æquo et bono. It will thus apply the General Assembly resolution in the light of the principles of international law and of the rules for the interpretation of international texts.

Article X

The Sub-Committee discussed the period during which the Tribunal should remain in existence. Although it is difficult to foresee precisely the time it will take that body to accomplish its task, the Sub-Committee believes that it might take at least two or three years. In this connexion, much will depend on the time it will take to conclude the several special Italo-Libyan Agreements provided for in the resolution.

The Sub-Committee further believes that the General Assembly should in any case examine either at its seventh, or at its eighth session at the latest, and in the light of the progress then made by the Tribunal, the question of whether its functions should be continued. By then, Italy and Libya might desire either to maintain the Tribunal jointly, assuming the corresponding financial obligations, or prefer to replace it by a different procedure.

Paragraph 1

The Tribunal's decisions "shall be based on law", that is, it will apply the rules of law and will not make decrees ex æquo et bono. It will thus apply the General Assembly resolution in the light of the principles of international law and of the rules of interpretation of international texts.

Paragraph 3 (last sentence)

In specifying that the decisions of the Tribunal should be binding, the Sub-Committee does not intend to infer that this does not apply to the instructions given by the Tribunal.

6. During the debates, the representative of Poland made some reservations of principle and some of a general nature with regard to the application of articles I, VI, IX and X of the draft resolution.

DOCUMENT A/C.5/392Financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee (A/1457) : report of the Secretary-General

[26 October 1950]

1. In General Assembly resolution 289 A (IV) of 21 November 1949, section A concerned the future of Libya and provided for a United Nations Commissioner appointed by the General Assembly, aided and guided by the advice of members of the Council for Libya, to assist the people of Libya in the formulation of a constitution and the establishment of an independent government not later than 1 January 1952. The resolution further provided that the Council shall consist of six Member States together with one member representative of the people of each of the three regions of Libya and one representative of the minorities.

2. Under the terms of section D of the resolution, the Secretary-General was authorized to arrange for the payment of an appropriate remuneration to the United Nations Commissioner, to reimburse subsistence and travel expenses of the members of the Council and to provide the Commissioner such staff and facilities as the Secretary-General may consider necessary to carry out the terms of the resolution.

3. At its 17th meeting held on 19 October 1950, the Ad Hoc Political Committee adopted a draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.15) recommending that the United Nations Commissioner, aided and guided by the advice of the members of the Council for Libya, shall proceed immediately to draw up a programme in co-operation with the administering Powers for the progressive transfer of power to a provisional Government of Libya to be established by a National Assembly in a manner which will ensure the independence and unity of Libya by 1 January 1952.

4. Paragraph 4 of the draft resolution urged the Economic and Social Council, the specialized agencies, and the Secretary-General of the United Nations to extend to Libya such technical and financial assistance as it may request in order to establish a sound basis for economic and social progress.

5. The funds required in 1951 for the implementation of resolution 289 A (IV) and the draft resolution referred to above, are as follows :

	US dollars
Temporary assistance	314,400
Travel and subsistence of members	60,500
Travel and subsistence of staff	132,800
Communications	12,000
Rental and maintenance of premises	10,900
Stationery and office supplies	2,000
Contractual printing	7,200
Local transportation	60,000
Maintenance and operation of transportation equipment	3,000
Freight, cartage and express	4,000
Miscellaneous supplies and contractual services .	3,500
Insurance	2,500
Office furniture, fixtures and equipment.....	1,000
Transportation equipment	2,500
Miscellaneous equipment	1,000
Hospitality	2,000
	619,300

6. The sum of $314,400 required under temporary assistance will cover (a) salaries of twenty-five internationally recruited personnel (as shown in annex), including legal and technical advisers requested by the Commissioner under authority of paragraph 9 of section A of resolution 289 A (IV) to assist him in assessing the resources of the country and planning the development of a viable economy for an independent Libya ($226,190); (b) salaries and wages of eighteen local recruits including six drivers, two mimeograph operators, three Arabic typists, three porters, two clerks and one messenger at an estimated cost of $16,210; (c) and costs of temporary replacement at Headquarters of 50 per cent of staff detailed to the mission ($72,000).

7. The cost of temporary assistance will be partly compensated by an estimated income of $50,000 from the application of the Staff Assessment Plan on the salaries of temporary staff.

8. Under "travel and subsistence of members", provision is made for subsistence allowance for eight members at the rate of $20 per day and for two members at $10 per day over the period of meeting of the Council, i.e. nine months ($49,550). Provision is also made for one round-trip of all members of the Council to Geneva to take place in accordance with its rules of procedure during the period of meeting of the Council ($1,750) and for one round-trip of five members (four Libyan members and the Chairman of the Council) to New York to attend the sixth session of the General Assembly ($4,700) plus subsistence allowance for thirty-six days in New York at $25 per day ($4,500).

9. Under "travel and subsistence of staff", the sum of $132,800 is requested to cover (a) cost of fifteen round-trips, New York to Libya, for replacement and new assignment of staff members ($13,800); (b) subsistence allowance for the Commissioner, the Principal Secretary and forty-nine staff members, less 10 per cent for periods of absence ($119,000). It is intended to reduce the subsistence allowance for staff members from $9.50 per day for those having dependants and $6.50 per day for those having no dependants to $150 and $100 per month respectively, after completion of one year's service in Libya. The reduction will apply to most of the staff in March 1951.

10. A sum of $12,000 is requested for "communications services" at the average of $1,000 per month.

11. Under "rental and maintenance of premises", provision of $10,900 is made for offices in Tripoli, Benghazi and Sebha, and for the Commissioner's residence in Tripoli. A sum of $2,000 is requested for "office supplies and stationery".

12. In view of the distances between the three territories of Libya and the lack of good roads, it has been found necessary to have a chartered plane at the disposal of the Commissioner so that he and his staff can move quickly and on short notice from one territory to another.

13. A reasonable charter arrangement has been made in 1950 and a sum of $60,000 is requested under "local transportation" to defray the cost of the charter in 1951.

14. The plane is also required for the transport of Council members within Libya and for the transport of those Libyans whose presence at one of the major administrative centres is required for the implementation of the General Assembly resolution.

15. Under "maintenance and operation of transportation equipment", provision is made for the operation of seven vehicles. In 1950, six vehicles have been in use and provision is made for an additional station wagon required for the office in Sebha.

16. Provision for all other items is based on the 1950 pattern of expenditure. A sum of $2,000 is requested for hospitality.

17. No provision is made for an Arbitral Tribunal for Libya as has been proposed (A/AC.38/L.9, A/AC.38/L.9/Corr.1). Supplementary estimates will be submitted if the proposal is adopted by the General Assembly.

18. The Secretary-General requests that $619,300 be appropriated for the United Nations Commissioner in Libya under section 5, chapter VII of the 1951 budget. As stated above, these expenses will be partly compensated by an estimated income of $50,000 from the assessments to be levied on the salaries of internationally recruited and temporary-replacement staff.

19. This request is the first of a series to be presented for the various political missions in substitution for the interim estimate of $2,500,000 included under section 5 of the original 1951 budget (A/1267).

Financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee (A/1457): twelfth report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

[Original text: English]
[2 November 1950]

1. In accordance with a decision taken by the Fifth Committee at its 256th meeting on 27 October 1950, the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions has considered a report submitted by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/392) on the financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee in document A/1457.

2. The General Assembly, at its fourth regular session, appropriated an amount of $251,100 to cover the estimated expenses for 1950 of the Office of the United Nations Commissioner in Libya and of the Council for Libya.

3. The Advisory Committee has now received evidence to the effect that, on the basis of actual expenditure and obligations as at 30 September 1950, the revised figure for 1950 amounts to $466,600, and that in this connexion the Secretary-General will find it necessary to meet the additional expenditure by a withdrawal from the Working Capital Fund under the provision of General Assembly resolution 357 (IV), paragraph (a). The Committee is of the opinion that, in the light of the expenditure incurred during the first nine months of 1950, the revised figure may prove to be an over-estimate.

4. The estimated expenditure for 1951 ($619,300) shows a further sharp increase, due principally to the item for temporary assistance, which includes provision for twenty-five internationally recruited staff members, by comparison with the corresponding figures of four and fourteen, respectively, in the original and in the revised manning tables for 1950. The Advisory Committee also draws attention to the fact that the item of $314,400 for temporary assistance comprises the cost of replacement of only 50 per cent of the staff detailed from Headquarters; the direct gross salary costs of the remaining Headquarters staff temporarily serving with the Office of the Commissioner amount to approximately $73,000.

5. The staffing proposals for 1951 include two posts for deputy principal secretaries, four posts for political officers and seven posts for advisers on legal, agricultural and other technical matters. The Advisory Committee considers this provision to be unduly liberal, and recommends that one post of deputy principal secretary (administrative) should in any event be eliminated. Further economies should be feasible, since the figure for temporary assistance is based on a full complement of staff for the whole of 1951 and, apart from probable delays in recruitment, the services of the technical advisers are not likely to be continuous throughout the year.

6. The Advisory Committee was informed that the Secretary-General proposes, in the case of the Office of the Commissioner in Libya, to introduce a system of post allowances at reduced rates, in place of the present subsistence allowances, to take effect after the completion of one year's service with the mission. The Committee concurs in this proposal, and it understands that a possible extension of the principle to other missions in which staff members serve under comparable conditions will be examined. Consideration might, in the opinion of the Committee, also be given to the reduction of the suggested initial period of one year for which the subsistence allowance would be payable.

7. The Advisory Committee had occasion to inquire into the provision made both in the revised 1950 budget and in the 1951 estimates for a post of deputy on technical assistance matters to the principal secretary. It was represented to the Committee that, while some of the expenditure for technical assistance to Libya under the terms of paragraph 4 of the draft resolution (A/1457) might, when approved, appropriately be charged to the special account for technical assistance, it would be desirable, in order to maintain a clear line of authority, that the officer dealing with these matters should be directly responsible to the Commissioner. In view of this consideration, as well as in the interest of a simple administrative relationship between the administering Powers, the Office of the Commissioner and the provisional government, the Committee concurs in the proposed provision of $12,830 for the above purpose. It suggests, however, that the position should be kept under review.

8. An item of $7,200 for contractual printing is included in the estimate submitted by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/392), in order to provide a comprehensive statement of expenditure. It is, however, proposed to transfer this amount from section 5, chapter VII, to section 25, chapter V, in which global provision is made for the contractual printing of official records of committees and commissions of investigation and inquiry.

9. The sum requested under section 5, chapter VII, accordingly amounts to $612,100, and the Advisory Committee recommends that, on the basis of the observations made in paragraph 5 above, the estimate should be reduced by $37,100. The resulting provision of $575,000 may, in the opinion of the Committee, prove more than adequate, and some savings are likely in practice to ensue.

10. The salaries of the internationally recruited staff members of the Office of the Commissioner and of the temporary replacement staff at Headquarters are gross, and the offsetting revenue in respect of contributions under the Staff Assessment Plan is estimated at $50,000.

The delegation of Pakistan proposes, that on the basis of the Secretary-General's estimates as presented in document A/C.5/392, this reduction of $104,000 be distributed as follows :

Financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee (A/1726) : report of the Secretary-General

[Original text : English]
[15 December 1950]

1. At its 82nd meeting held on 14 December 1950, the Ad Hoc Political Committee adopted a draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.70), article X of which provided that :

“ 1. A United Nations Tribunal shall be set up, composed of three persons selected by the Secretary-General for their legal qualifications from the nationals of three different States not directly interested. The Tribunal, whose decisions shall be based on law, shall have the following two functions :

“ (a) It shall give to the administering Powers, the Libyan Government after its establishment, and the Italian Government, upon request by any of those authorities, such instructions as may be required for the purpose of giving effect to the present resolution;

“ (b) It shall decide all disputes arising between the said authorities concerning the interpretation and application of the present resolution. The Tribunal shall be seized of any such dispute upon the unilateral request of one of those authorities.

“ 2. The administering Powers, the Libyan Government after its establishment and the Italian Government shall supply the Tribunal as soon as possible with all the information and assistance it may need for the performance of its functions.

“ 3. The seat of the Tribunal shall be in Libya. The Tribunal shall determine its own procedure. It shall afford to the interested parties an opportunity to present their views, and shall be entitled to request information and evidence which it may require from any authority or person whom it considers to be in a position to furnish it. In the absence of unanimity the Tribunal shall take decisions by a majority vote. Its decisions shall be final and binding. ”

2. Part B of the resolution authorizes the Secretary-General, in accordance with established practice :

“ 1. To arrange for the payment of an appropriate remuneration for the members of the United Nations Tribunal set up under article X above and to reimburse their travel and subsistence expenses;

“ 2. To assign to the United Nations Tribunal such staff and provide such facilities as the Secretary-General may consider necessary to carry out the terms of the present resolution, utilizing the existing United Nations staff of the Libyan mission in so far as possible. ”

3. Accordingly, should this resolution be adopted by the General Assembly the funds required for the Tribunal in 1951 will be as follows :

	US dollars
Temporary assistance	83,500
Travel and subsistence of staff	30,500
Local transportation	3,000
Stationery and office supplies	500
Freight, cartage and express	500
Office furniture, fixtures and equipment	4,000
Miscellaneous supplies and contractual services .	2,000
TOTAL	124,000

4. Under temporary assistance provision is made for nine internationally recruited staff members as shown in the annex ($83,500), allowing for one legal officer, two interpreters-translators and three secretaries to service the three judges of the Tribunal. Administrative and other clerical services and facilities will be rendered by the staff of the United Nations Commissioner in Libya.

5. Under travel and subsistence provision is made for ten round-trips between Headquarters and Libya ($9,000), including a round-trip by the Chairman of the Tribunal for consultation and report. Provision of $21,500 is also made for special post allowances and subsistence for periods in travel for the three judges and the six additional staff in Libya.

6. It is envisaged that members of the Tribunal may have to travel to Italy in connexion with collection of documents and settlement of legal matters. Under local transportation provision of $3,000 is made for such trips and other transportation costs which cannot be met from the budget of the Commissioner. The estimates for other items cover such costs as cannot be absorbed by the Commissioner's budget.

7. The Secretary-General requests that $124,000 be appropriated for the Tribunal as an additional amount under section 5, chapter VII, of the 1951 budget.

8. These expenses will be partly compensated by an estimated income of $17,000 from the assessments to be levied on the salaries of the internationally-recruited staff.

DOCUMENT A/1728

Financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee (A/1726) : forty-second report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

[Original text : English]
[14 December 1950]

1. The Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions has considered a report by the Secretary-General on the financial implications of the draft resolutions proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee in document A/1726.

2. The estimated expenditure in respect of 1951 for the proposed Arbitral Tribunal amounts to $124,000, and the Advisory Committee notes that the bulk of the administrative and clerical services for the Tribunal will be provided by the Office of the United Nations Commissioner in Libya.

3. Under the item for travel and subsistence of staff, provision is made for ten round-trips between Headquarters and Libya. In view, however, of the fact that the nine staff members will be internationally recruited, some savings are likely to accrue on this item, as well as by reason of deferred recruitment.

4. The Committee therefore recommends a reduction of $4,000 in the estimate submitted and an appropriation under section 5, chapter VII, of the 1951 budget to an amount of $120,000.

5. The salaries of the internationally-recruited staff members are gross, and the offsetting revenue in respect of contributions under the Staff Assessment Plan is estimated at $17,000.

Report of the Ad Hoc Political Committee

[25 October 1950]

1. The General Assembly, at its 250th meeting on 21 November 1949, adopted resolution 289 (IV) on the question of the disposal of the former Italian colonies. Part A of that resolution provided that Libya, comprising Cyrenaica, Tripolitania and the Fezzan, should be constituted an independent and sovereign State not later than 1 January 1952. The resolution also provided for the appointment of a United Nations Commissioner and a Council to aid and advise him, to assist the people of Libya in the formulation of the constitution and the establishment of an independent government. The resolution further provided that the United Nations Commissioner, in consultation with the Council, should submit an annual report to the Secretary-General and that the administering Powers should make an annual report to the General Assembly.

2. Pursuant to the resolution, the following reports were submitted :

(a) The annual report of the United Nations Commissioner in Libya prepared in consultation with the Council for Libya (A/1340)¹³ and a supplementary report (A/1405) not prepared in consultation with the Council for Libya as the Council had adjourned before the supplementary report was drafted;

(b) The report of the French Government concerning the administration of the Fezzan (A/1387) and the report of the Government of the United Kingdom on the administration of Cyrenaica and Tripolitania (A/1390, A/1390/Add.1).

3. The General Assembly, at its 284th and 285th meetings on 26 September 1950, decided to include the item "Former Italian colonies" in the agenda of the fifth session and to refer it to the Ad Hoc Political Committee.

4. The Ad Hoc Political Committee, at its 6th meeting on 5 October, decided to consider next in its order of business sub-items (a) and (b) of agenda item 21.

5. The Ad Hoc Political Committee considered sub-items (a) and (b) jointly at its 7th to 17th meetings inclusive.

6. At its 7th meeting on 9 October, following the request of the Italian observer with the United Nations (A/AC.38/L.5), the Committee decided, without objection, to invite a representative of Italy to take part in the discussion of the question. At the same meeting the United Nations Commissioner in Libya, who was invited without objection to take his seat at the Committee table, presented his report and made an explanatory statement.

¹³ See Official Records of the General Assembly, Fifth Session, Supplement No. 15.

7. At its 8th meeting, the Committee decided, by 33 votes to 11, with 10 abstentions, to accede to a request of the United Nations Council for Libya (A/AC.38/L.8) and to invite the Chairman of the Council and another member of the Council selected by him (the representative of Pakistan) to sit at the Committee table.

8. The Committee held a general debate on the question at its 7th to 15th meetings inclusive, and the following draft resolutions were submitted :

(a) A draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.9, A/AC.38/L.9/Corr.1) submitted by the United Kingdom at the 7th meeting relating to the economic and financial provisions to be applied in Libya, in accordance with annex XIV, paragraph 19, of the Treaty of Peace with Italy, and providing, inter alia, for the establishment of a United Nations Arbitral Tribunal;

(b) A draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.10) submitted by the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics at the 8th meeting, providing that the parts of Libya be united in a single State and that legislative and executive organs for Libya be established, and that all foreign troops and military personnel be withdrawn from Libya within three months and military bases dismantled.

(c) A joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.12) submitted by Canada, Chile, Ecuador and Greece at the 11th meeting, which took note of the reports that had been received; recommended that the administering Powers press forward with the formation of governmental institutions for Libya in accordance with the wishes of the people in order to facilitate the establishment of an independent and sovereign Libya not later than 1 January 1952, urged the Economic and Social Council, the specialized agencies and Members of the United Nations to continue to assist Libya, through technical and financial assistance, to develop a sound and viable economy; and reaffirmed the recommendation that Libya be admitted to the United Nations upon its establishment as an independent State.

(d) A joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.13/Rev.1) submitted by the representatives of Egypt, Indonesia, Iraq, Lebanon, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Yemen at the 12th meeting, which called upon the authorities concerned to ensure the full and effective implementation of resolution 289 A (IV) of 21 November 1949 and particularly to safeguard the unity of Libya and the early transfer of power to an independent Libyan Government, and recommended that a National Assembly representative of the inhabitants of Libya be convened not later than 1 January 1951, and that the National Assembly should set up a provisional Government not later than 1 March 1951 to which would be transferred all powers exercised by the administering Powers.

9. At its 11th meeting, the Committee decided without objection to establish a sub-committee, consisting of Argentina, Belgium, Egypt, France, Greece, Poland and the United Kingdom, to consider the United Kingdom draft resolution and to report back to the Committee with recommendations. It was also decided that the representative of Italy, the United Nations Commissioner in Libya and the Chairman of the Council for Libya would participate in the Sub-Committee's work in an advisory capacity. It was also agreed that the Ad Hoc Political Committee would complete its discussion and vote on the three other draft resolutions submitted on sub-items 21 (a) and (b) without waiting for the report of the Sub-Committee, which would be considered at a later date, and that the Committee would later make a separate report on that aspect of the matter to the General Assembly.

10. At its 13th meeting, the Committee decided to adjourn in order to permit the sponsors of the three draft resolutions (A/AC.38/L.10, A/AC.38/L.12, A/AC.38/L.13/Rev.1) to meet informally in an attempt to harmonize their views and produce a single text.

11. As a result of the informal meetings, a joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.15) was submitted at the 15th meeting, sponsored by Canada, Chile, Ecuador, Egypt, Greece, India, Indonesia, Iraq, Lebanon, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Yemen to replace draft resolutions A/AC.38/L.12 and A/AC.38/L.13/Rev.1. Under the terms of the joint draft resolution, the General Assembly expressed confidence that the Commissioner, aided by the Council, would take the necessary steps toward the achievement of the independence and unity of Libya pursuant to resolution 289 A (IV); called on the authorities concerned to ensure the early, full and effective implementation of that resolution and particularly the realization of the unity of Libya and the transfer of power to an independent Libyan Government; recommended that a National Assembly be convened before 1 January 1951 which would establish a provisional Government as early as possible with 1 April 1951 as the target date, that the administering Powers progressively transfer powers to the provisional Government in a manner to ensure that all powers would be transferred to the duly constituted Libyan Government by 1 January 1952, and that the Commissioner, aided by the Council, draw up a programme for this transfer of power in co-operation with the administering Powers; urged the Economic and Social Council, the specialized agencies and the Secretary-General to extend to Libya such technical and financial assistance as it might request; and reaffirmed the recommendation that the independent Libya State be admitted to the United Nations.

12. After the conclusion of the general debate, statements were made by the representative of Italy and by the United Nations Commissioner in Libya.

13. At the 16th meeting, the following amendments were submitted to the joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.15) sponsored by thirteen Powers :

(a) By Australia (A/AC.38/L.16), to change the words in the first paragraph of the preamble from " a united independent and sovereign State " to " one independent and sovereign State ; "

(b) By Argentina (A/AC.38/L.17), to insert after the first paragraph of the preamble a new paragraph recalling the recommendation that the administering Powers, in co-operation with the United Nations Commissioner, administer the territories for the purpose of assisting in the establishment of Libyan unity and independence;

(c) By Pakistan (A/AC.38/L.18), to add in sub-paragraph 3 (b) a phrase making the provisional Government responsible to the National Assembly, and to add at the end of the clause a proviso that, if the National Assembly were unable to set up a provisional Government by 31 March 1951, the Commissioner, advised and guided by the Council for Libya, should at once proceed to set up a provisional Government in consultation with the National Assembly.

(d) By the United States of America (A/AC.38/L.19), to replace the text of paragraph 4 by a new text drawing the attention of the Economic and Social Council, the specialized agencies and the Secretary-General to the need to extend to Libya, at the request of that country, such technical and financial assistance as they might be in a position to render in order to establish a sound basis for economic and social progress.

(e) By Israel (A/AC.38/L.20), to insert the word "all" in sub-paragraph 3 (a), so that it would read "a National Assembly duly representative of all the inhabitants".

14. At the 17th meeting, the Vice-Chairman of the Committee made an explanatory statement on behalf of the thirteen sponsors of the joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.15), which the Committee agreed should be included in the Rapporteur's report. In his statement, the Vice-Chairman stressed the following points :

(a) That the inclusion of the word "united" in the first paragraph of the preamble meant only that the aim of the General Assembly, as expressed in sub-paragraph 10 (b) of section A of its resolution of 21 November 1949, was to establish Libyan unity and independence; the word was not intended to impose on the Libyan people a unitary State if they did not wish it, nor in any way to prejudice the form of government; the form of State to be created, and whether it would be a unitary or federal State, must be left entirely to the representatives of the Libyan people, meeting and consulting in a National Assembly.

(b) The use of the words "increasing co-operation of the administering Powers" in the third paragraph of the preamble should not be interpreted as implying any criticism.

(c) That, while it was not possible to specify the financial implications of paragraph 4, that paragraph was intended to emphasize the need of the new State for technical and financial assistance to enable it to found its nationhood on a firm economic basis.

(d) Parts of the General Assembly resolution of 21 November 1949 and, in particular, the recommendation regarding the admission of an independent Libya to the United Nations, were reiterated because it was considered helpful to repeat those words which could enhance the morale of the people of Libya.

15. At the same meeting, the amendment proposed by Australia (A/AC.38/L.16) was withdrawn on the understanding that the above clarification of the intentions of the sponsors of the joint draft resolution would be included in the Rapporteur's report. The amendment proposed by Argentina (A/AC.38/L.17) was also withdrawn following the withdrawal of the Australian amendment.

16. The amendment proposed by the United States of America (A/AC.38/L.19) was withdrawn on the understanding that the Rapporteur's report would make it clear that paragraph 4 was intended merely to request the United Nations organs and specialized agencies mentioned to grant requests made by Libya for assistance to the extent that such organs and agencies might be in a position to do so.

17. The amendments proposed by Pakistan (A/AC.38/L.18) were withdrawn in the interests of unanimity.

18. The amendment proposed by Israel (A/AC.38/L.20) was withdrawn on the understanding that the word "inhabitants" in sub-paragraph 3 (a) of the joint draft resolution was not intended to have a prohibitive meaning, excluding certain sections of the population from equal participation in the life of the new State, and that it was the desire of the Committee that adequate safeguards for the protection of the rights of minorities should be included in the future constitution of Libya. It was agreed by the Committee that this interpretation should be included in the Rapporteur's report.

19. The representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics proposed an oral amendment to delete from the third paragraph of the preamble of the joint draft resolution the words "with the increasing co-operation of the administering Powers with the United Nations Commissioner and the mutual co-ordination of their activities toward that end".

20. The two draft resolutions proposed by the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (A/AC.38/L.10) and the thirteen Powers (A/AC.38/L.15) were put to the vote.

21. The vote on the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.10) was as follows :

(a) Paragraph 1 of the draft resolution, referring to the union of the parts of Libya in a single State and the establishment of legislative and executive organs, was adopted by 20 votes to 18, with 17 abstentions.

(b) The first part of paragraph 2, referring to the withdrawal of foreign troops and military personnel, was rejected by 38 votes to 13 with 8 abstentions.

(c) The second part of paragraph 2, referring to the dismantling of military bases, was rejected by 38 votes to 5, with 15 abstentions.

(d) The draft resolution as a whole was rejected by 38 votes to 13, with 7 abstentions.

22. The vote on the joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.15) was as follows :

(a) The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics oral amendment to delete the last part of the third paragraph of the preamble was rejected by 42 votes to 5, with 6 abstentions.

(b) The first paragraph of the preamble was adopted by 57 votes in favour, with 3 abstentions.

(c) The second paragraph of the preamble was adopted by 53 votes in favour, with 6 abstentions.

(d) The third paragraph of the preamble was adopted by 52 votes in favour, with 7 abstentions.

(e) The fourth paragraph of the preamble was adopted by 57 votes in favour.

(f) Paragraph 1 was adopted by 58 votes in favour, with one abstention.

(g) Paragraph 2 was adopted by 55 votes in favour, with one abstention.

(h) Sub-paragraph 3 (a) was adopted by 55 votes in favour, with 2 abstentions.

(i) Sub-paragraph 3 (b) was adopted by 57 votes to one, with one abstention.

(j) Sub-paragraph 3 (c) was adopted by 56 votes in favour, with 2 abstentions.

(k) Sub-paragraph 3 (d) was adopted by 53 votes in favour, with 7 abstentions.

(l) Paragraph 4 was adopted by 55 votes in favour, with 4 abstentions.

(m) Paragraph 5 was adopted by 58 votes in favour, with one abstention.

(n) The joint draft resolution as a whole was adopted by 53 votes to one, with 5 abstentions.

23. The Ad Hoc Political Committee accordingly recommends to the General Assembly the adoption of the following draft resolution :

Having noted in particular the confidence expressed by the Commissioner that the aim of the General Assembly, namely, that Libya should become an independent and sovereign State, will be attained within the time-limit prescribed, with the increasing co-operation of the administering Powers with the United Nations Commissioner and the mutual co-ordination of their activities toward that end,

Having noted the statements in the above-mentioned report of the Commissioner regarding the needs of Libya for technical and financial assistance both before and after independence, if such assistance is requested by the Government of Libya,

3. Recommends

(a) That a National Assembly duly representative of the inhabitants of Libya shall be convened as early as possible, and in any case before 1 January 1951;

(b) That this National Assembly shall establish a provisional government of Libya as early as possible, bearing in mind 1 April 1951 as the target date;

(c) That powers shall be progressively transferred to the provisional government by the administering Powers in a manner which will ensure that, by 1 January 1952, all powers at present exercised by the administering Powers shall have been transferred to the duly constituted Libyan Government;

(d) That the United Nations Commissioner, aided and guided by the advice of the members of the Council for Libya, shall proceed immediately to draw up a programme, in co-operation with the administering Powers, for the transfer of power as provided in sub-paragraph (c) above;

4. Urges the Economic and Social Council, the specialized agencies and the Secretary-General of the United Nations to extend to Libya such technical and financial assistance as it may request in order to establish a sound basis for economic and social progress;

5. Reaffirms its recommendation that, upon its establishment as an independent State, Libya be admitted to the United Nations in accordance with Article 4 of the Charter.

DOCUMENT A/1509 (incorporating A/1509/Corr.1)

Financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee (A/1457) : report of the Fifth Committee

[Original text : English]
[14 November 1950]

1. In accordance with rule 152 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly, the Fifth Committee, at its 259th and 261st meetings held on 3 and 7 November 1950, considered the effect on the budget estimates for 1951 of the draft resolution adopted by the Ad Hoc Political Committee concerning Libya (A/1457). The draft resolution recommends that the United Nations Commissioner, aided and guided by the advice of the members of the Council for Libya, shall proceed immediately to draw up a programme in co-operation with the administering Powers for the progressive transfer of power to a provisional Government of Libya to be established by a National Assembly in a manner which will ensure the independence and unity of Libya by 1 January 1952.

2. The Fifth Committee had before it a report by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/392), informing it that the funds which he estimated would be required for the implementation of this draft resolution and of General Assembly resolution 289 A (IV) (providing for the appointment and functions of the Commissioner and Council), would amount in 1951 to a total of $619,300, against which there would be offsetting income of $50,000 from the assessments to be levied on the salaries of internationally-recruited and temporary-replacement staff.

3. In response to the Fifth Committee's request, the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions examined the Secretary-General's estimates and reported its conclusions to the Fifth Committee in its twelfth report of 1950 (A/1479). The Advisory Committee noted that the estimated expenditure for 1951 shows a further sharp increase, due principally to the item for temporary assistance, which included provision for twenty-five internationally-recruited staff members by comparison with the corresponding figures of four and fourteen respectively in the original and in the revised manning tables for 1950. It drew attention also to the fact that estimated expenditure on temporary assistance ($314,400) comprised the cost of replacement of only 50 per cent of the staff detailed from Headquarters, the direct gross salary costs of the remaining Headquarters' staff temporarily serving with the Office of the Commissioner amounting to approximately $73,000. The view was expressed by the Advisory Committee that the staffing proposals for 1951, particularly with regard to political and technical advisers, offered scope for certain economies, in addition to which further savings should result from the fact that the Secretary-General's estimate for temporary assistance was based on a full complement of staff for the whole of 1951, whereas, apart from probable delays in recruitment, the services of the technical advisers are not likely to be continuous throughout the year. On the basis of these observations, the Advisory Committee reached the conclusion that the estimate, as submitted by the Secretary-General, should be reduced by a global amount of $37,100 to a total (after allowing for the transfer to section 25 of the budget of an item of $7,200 for contractual printing) of $575,000, for which provision would require to be made under section 5, chapter VII. The Fifth Committee was informed that the Secretary-General was prepared to concur in the Advisory Committee's recommendation, on the understanding that the reduction proposed was of a global nature, the detailed application of which would be left to his discretion. The Chairman of the Advisory Committee subsequently agreed with this understanding.

4. The Fifth Committee was accordingly invited to consider the budgetary provision necessary for 1951 in the light of the draft resolution of the Ad Hoc Political Committee and of the Advisory Committee's recommendations. The representative of Pakistan called attention to what his delegation considered to be excessive staffing requirements for the Office of the United Nations Commissioner, as well as an unduly liberal estimate for local transportation, including operation and maintenance of transportation equipment, for travel and subsistence of staff and for miscellaneous supplies and contractual services. In the circumstances, he proposed a reduction of $104,000 in the estimates as submitted by the Secretary-General (i.e., a reduction of $66,900 additional to that suggested by the Advisory Committee). At the Committee's 261st meeting, the representative of Egypt moved an amendment to the Pakistan proposal to the effect that the Secretary-General's estimates be reduced by a total of $90,030 distributed as follows :

$55,030 on salaries of internationally-recruited personnel,

$25,000 on local transportation, and $10,000 on travel and subsistence of staff.

The representative of Pakistan accepted this amendment to his initial proposal. The opinion was expressed by the representatives of Pakistan and Egypt that the essential purposes of the draft resolution of the Ad Hoc Political Committee and of the earlier resolutions of the General Assembly could be effectively accomplished within the limits of the reduced appropriation recommended.

5. Following a detailed explanation by the United Nations Commissioner of the problems confronting his Office and the Council for Libya, a number of delegations stated their belief that an appropriation in the amount recommended by the Advisory Committee would be necessary if the achievement of independence by the target date of 1 January 1952 were not to be prejudiced.

6. The proposal of the representative of Pakistan, as amended by the representative of Egypt, on being put to the vote, was rejected by 25 votes to 6, with 13 abstentions. The recommendation of the Advisory Committee that, for the purpose of implementing the draft resolution of the Ad Hoc Political Committee, budgetary provision would be required in 1951 in the amount of $575,000 (allowing for the transfer of $7,200 to section 25 of the budget estimates) was then approved unanimously.

7. The Fifth Committee therefore decided to inform the General Assembly that the adoption of the draft resolution of the Ad Hoc Political Committee would require provision to be made in the amount of $575,000 under section 5 of the budget estimates and of an additional $7,200 under section 25.

Report of the Ad Hoc Political Committee on economic and financial provisions relating to Libya

[14 December 1950]

1. During consideration by the Ad Hoc Political Committee of agenda item 21 (a) and (b) : the representative of the United Kingdom, at the 7th meeting on 9 October 1950 submitted a draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.9, A/AC.38/L.9/Corr.1) relating to the economic and financial provisions to be applied to Libya, in accordance with annex XIV, paragraph 19, of the Treaty of Peace with Italy. The representative of the United Kingdom stated that it had been the sense of Sub-Committee 17 of the First Committee at the fourth session that the question should be considered at the fifth session.

2. As mentioned in the report of the Ad Hoc Political Committee to the General Assembly on agenda item 21 (a) and (b) (A/1457), the Committee, at its 11th meeting on 12 October 1950, decided without objection to establish a sub-committee (Sub-Committee 1), consisting of Argentina, Belgium, Egypt, France, Greece, Poland and the United Kingdom, to consider the United Kingdom draft resolution and to report back to the Committee with recommendations. It was also decided that the representative of Italy, the United Nations Commissioner in Libya and the Chairman of the Council for Libya should participate in the Sub-Committee's work in an advisory capacity. It was agreed that the Ad Hoc Political Committee would complete its discussion and vote on the draft resolutions submitted on the reports of the Commissioner and of the administering Powers in Libya and that the Committee would later make a separate report on the economic and financial aspect of the matter to the General Assembly.

3. Sub-Committee 1 held 28 meetings and submitted its report to the Ad Hoc Political Committee on 11 December 1950 (A/AC.38/L.70). The draft resolution adopted by the Sub-Committee by 6 votes to one was divided into two parts. The ten articles of part A related, inter alia, to the transfer of property owned by the Italian

State (article I), the pensions owed by Italy (article III), the rules to be applied to the property rights and interests of the Italian nationals (article VI), and the special provisions concerning concessions (article IX). The draft resolution provided for a United Nations Tribunal of three members to give instructions and to decide all disputes between the authorities concerned relating to the application of the economic and financial provisions (article X). Part B provided for the staff and all expenses necessary to carry out the terms of the draft resolution. The report set out in paragraph 5 some further explanations on various points of the draft resolution.

4. The Committee considered the report of Sub-Committee I at its 81st and 82nd meetings on 13 and 14 December 1950.

5. At its 82nd meeting the Committee, by 26 votes to 5, with 9 abstentions, rejected a proposal of the representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics to defer further consideration of the matter until the sixth session of the General Assembly, at which time a representative of Libya could be heard.

6. At the same meeting the Committee adopted, by 34 votes to 5, with 3 abstentions, the draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.70) submitted by Sub-Committee 1.

7. The Committee also agreed to include in its report the explanations contained in paragraph 5 of the Sub-Committee's report on certain points of the draft resolution. The explanations referred to are set out after the text of the draft resolution.

8. The Ad Hoc Political Committee accordingly recommends that the General Assembly adopt the following draft resolution :

[The text of the draft resolution and of explanatory statements related to it, are identical with those set forth in document A/AC.38/L.70.]

Report of the Ad Hoc Political Committee on technical and financial assistance to Libya

[Original text : English]
[14 December 1950]

1. During consideration by the Ad Hoc Political Committee of the economic and financial provisions relating to Libya under agenda item 21 (a) and (b), the representative of Egypt, at the 81st meeting on 13 December 1950, submitted a draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.75) relating to technical and financial assistance to Libya.

2. The draft resolution proposed that the Secretary-General of the United Nations should be instructed to study, in connexion with the technical and financial assistance which Libya might request from the organs of the United Nations, the problem of war damages suffered by Libya and to report on the subject to the sixth session of the General Assembly.

3. At the 82nd meeting the representative of Belgium suggested that the Egyptian draft resolution should be entitled " Technical and financial assistance to Libya ", and that if adopted, it should be made the subject of a separate report to the General Assembly. Both suggestions were accepted.

4. At the same meeting the Committee adopted, by 40 votes to none, with one abstention, the Egyptian draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.75), as amended.

5. The Ad Hoc Political Committee accordingly recommends that the General Assembly adopt the following draft resolution :

TECHNICAL AND FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE TO LIBYA

The General Assembly,

Whereas Libya as a result of the war has suffered extensive damages to private and public property, both movable and immovable, as well as to its system of communications,

Whereas the existence of these war damages and the necessity of repairing them represents one of the major economic and financial problems to be taken into consideration in order that an independent Libya may be established with a sound basis for economic and social progress, which is one of the avowed purposes of the United Nations in accordance with paragraph 4 of the resolution adopted by the General Assembly on 17 November 1950,

Instructs the Secretary-General to study the problem of war damages in connexion with the technical and financial assistance which Libya may request from the Economic and Social Council, the specialized agencies and the Secretary-General of the United Nations, and to report on the subject to the sixth session of the General Assembly.

Financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee (A/1726) : report of the Fifth Committee

[14 December 1950]

In accordance with rule 152 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly, the Fifth Committee at its 283rd meeting held on 14 December 1950 considered the financial implications of the draft resolution (A/1726) proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee providing for establishment of a United Nations Tribunal in Libya. The Committee approved by 34 votes to 4 with one abstention the recommendation of the Advisory Committee to the effect that the estimated cost involved would amount to approximately $120,000. It therefore decided to inform the General Assembly that adoption of the draft resolution of the Ad Hoc Political Committee would involve additional budgetary provision in 1951 under section 5 of the budget in the amount of $120,000.

CHAPTER I

ESTABLISHMENT, TERMS OF REFERENCE, COMPOSITION, CHAIRMANSHIP, SECRETARIAT AND HEADQUARTERS OF THE ADVISORY COUNCIL

Establishment

1. The General Assembly, to which the question of the disposal of the former Italian colonies had been referred in accordance with the terms of the Treaty of Peace with Italy, recommended, on 21 November 1949, in resolution 289 A (IV), part B (see annex I), the establishment of the Advisory Council.

Terms of reference

2. The present terms of reference of the Advisory Council are contained in General Assembly resolution 289 A (IV), part B, of 21 November 1949, and the draft trusteeship agreement (A/1294).

Composition of the Advisory Council

3. According to resolution 289 A (IV), part B, the Advisory Council is composed of one representative of each of the following States: Colombia, Egypt and the Philippines. Members of the Council have found it extremely trying to be in permanent residence in an area which is notorious for its treacherous climate, where accommodation is scarce and living conditions difficult, and where the nearest "hill station" is 600 miles away. It is felt, therefore, that the question of providing for alternates or of relieving the representatives from the obligation of prolonged residence in Mogadiscio is one meriting serious study. The provision of alternates would entail a change in the General Assembly resolution.

Chairmanship

4. The Advisory Council, at its first meeting, held in Cairo, elected as Chairman Amin Rostem Bey, the representative of Egypt, who remained in the chair until 13 May 1950, when he left for Cairo. Mr. E. de Holte Castello, representative of Colombia, took over as Acting Chairman until 25 May, when Mr. Talaat M. Ragheb, the representative of Egypt, took the chair. Mr. Manuel Escudero, the representative of the Philippines, assumed the chairmanship on 16 June 1950. According to the rules of procedure established by the Advisory Council at its meeting of 3 April, the chairmanship is held in turn by representatives of Egypt, the Philippines and Colombia. Each Chairman holds office for two months, provided, however, that the Chairman in office at the beginning of any session of the General Assembly or of the Trusteeship Council the agenda of which includes any item relating directly to the Trust Territory of Somaliland, shall remain in office until such items are disposed of at the session in question.

Secretariat

5. The secretariat assigned to the Advisory Council, totalling twenty-one members, including nine locally-recruited personnel and guards, but not chauffeurs and service personnel, is headed by a Principal Secretary.

Headquarters

6. In accordance with paragraph 4 of General Assembly resolution 289 A (IV), part B, the Advisory Council set up its headquarters at Mogadiscio. The secretariat assigned to the Advisory Council established its temporary headquarters at the Lido, in a compound in which there are ten buildings. Three adjoining houses contain a council chamber and offices; the other houses are used as living quarters by the Principal Secretary and members of the secretariat. This temporary establishment has the advantage of providing fair working quarters for the Advisory Council and the secretariat. The fact that the offices stand in a compound ensures that the United Nations site is a separate entity. A disadvantage of the location, on the other hand, can be found in the fact that it removes the Advisory Council somewhat from the centre of Mogadiscio. The compound lies over one mile from the centre of the town, a considerable distance under the equatorial sun during the entire day, without normal means of transportation. This has not, however, prevented many indigenous visitors and deputations from calling at the temporary headquarters. As the Advisory Council will have its seat in Mogadiscio for ten years, it feels that, in view of this long-term operation, it may be desirable to establish its own headquarters in the centre of Mogadiscio, on a scale comparable with the major buildings of the Italian Administration. The local housing situation suggests, however, that the cost of renting a suitable building, if it could be found at all, might be excessive, and that the remodelling of one of the many dilapidated buildings in Mogadiscio would be disproportionately high, so that the only proper alternative to the Lido compound would be the erection of a new building in the centre of the town. The Council reserves the right to make, through its Chairman, suggestions to the General Assembly in this respect.

CHAPTER II

SUMMARY OF THE MAIN ACTIVITIES OF THE ADVISORY COUNCIL

Activities and decisions of the Advisory Council

7. At its first meeting held in Cairo on 27 March 1950, the Advisory Council decided that it would be present at the ceremony of transfer of powers from the British Military Occupation to the provisional Italian Administration, fixed for 1 April 1950. As the date was only tentatively set at that time and changes in the schedule were possible, the Advisory Council agreed to proceed to Mogadiscio via Nairobi. It was felt that it would not be appropriate for the Advisory Council to be present in Mogadiscio for any length of time prior to the entering into function of the Italian Administration. The break of the journey in Nairobi would allow the Council to proceed to Mogadiscio immediately prior to the ceremony. The members of the Advisory Council arrived in Nairobi on 30 March, where they were informed that the ceremony would definitely take place on 1 April. The Council proceeded by chartered plane to Mogadiscio on 31 March.

8. At its 2nd meeting, held in Alexandria on 29 March 1950, the Advisory Council discussed certain problems regarding its presence at the ceremony of transfer in Mogadiscio. It expressed unanimously the wish that the United Nations flag be raised with the Italian flag at the ceremony of transfer of powers. The Advisory Council took this view as the General Assembly had, by an overwhelming majority vote of 48 to 5, with 4 abstentions (resolution 325 (IV) of 15 November 1949), requested the Trusteeship Council to recommend to the Administering Authorities concerned to fly the United Nations flag over all United Nations Trust Territories. While the Council was en route, the Trusteeship Council, on 30 March, failed to agree upon a resolution implementing the request of the General Assembly (actually a tie vote of 5 to 5, with 1 abstention).¹⁴ The Advisory Council therefore agreed to dispense with the raising of the United Nations flag, and during the ceremony took its stand on a separate balcony of Government House draped with the United Nations flag.

9. At its 3rd meeting, the first held in Mogadiscio, on 3 April 1950, the Advisory Council adopted its rules of procedure.

10. At its 4th meeting on 5 May, the first to be held at the Council's temporary headquarters at the Lido, the Advisory Council heard a statement by the Administrator, Mr. Giovanni Fornari, on the steps taken by the provisional Italian Trusteeship Administration during the first month of Italian administration (see annex II).

11. On 3 May 1950, the Advisory Council received a communication from the Administering Authority, which was circulated to the members of the Council, containing requests for advice on the composition and number of the territorial council provided for in the draft trusteeship agreement, on the principles to be followed in selecting its members, and on the question of the languages of instruction in the Territory. The full text of the requests is contained in annex III.

12. On 17 May 1950, Mr. de Holte Castello, in his capacity as Acting Chairman of the Advisory Council, addressed a preliminary reply to the above-mentioned requests for advice submitted by the Italian Administration. In his reply, the full text of which is reproduced in annex IV, Mr. de Holte Castello expressed the belief that an examination of the methods used in other countries with comparable political problems might result in a reduction in the number of alternative solutions in the matter of the territorial council. Such studies would, however, be somewhat theoretical. The Administering Authority was consulting the peoples of the Territory upon the question, and the results of the consultation would also permit of a more precise evaluation of solutions adopted elsewhere. As regards education, the adoption of written Somali was not favoured; the use of Arabic was considered to be preferable. The secretariat has prepared for the Advisory Council studies on both the constitutional and educational questions.

¹⁴ See Official Records of the Trusteeship Council, Sixth Session, 76th and 77th meetings.

13. At its 5th meeting, held on 31 May 1950, the Advisory Council formally approved the letter containing the preliminary reply addressed by Mr. de Holte Castello, in his capacity as Acting Chairman, to the Administrator of Somaliland. The relevant extracts from the summary record of that meeting are attached as annex V. The Advisory Council was informed of an invitation addressed to Mr. de Holte Castello by the Italian Government to pay an official visit to Rome, and charged the Colombian representative to undertake the journey as representative of the Advisory Council.

14. When Mr. Escudero, representative of the Philippines, arrived in Rome on 16 June en route to Mogadiscio, as Chairman for the then current period he was invited by the Administrator, Mr. Fornari, to remain in Rome in order to hold a series of conferences with high government officials on many problems concerning the Trust Territory. He accepted the invitation and arrived in Mogadiscio on 6 July, in the company of the Administrator and the representative of Colombia.

15. At its 6th meeting, held on 12 July 1950, the representatives of Colombia and the Philippines reported to the Advisory Council on their visits to Rome and on the conversations with high Italian Government officials regarding the progress of the peoples of Somaliland. Mr. de Holte Castello also reported on discussions he had held in Cairo. The Advisory Council considered various communications which had been addressed to it by individuals and representatives of tribes and of organizations (see the following section).

16. At its 7th meeting, held on 18 July 1950, the Council decided to make a progress report on its activities since its constitutional meeting in Cairo on 27 March 1950, for transmission to the Secretary-General.

17. At its 8th meeting, held on 3 August 1950, the Council adopted its draft report (A/AC.33/W.24/Rev.1).

Communications from non-governmental organizations or individuals concerning the Trust Territory

18. Communications addressed to the Advisory Council which do not contain a request for a specific action by the Advisory Council are, in accordance with rule 45 of the rules of procedure of the Council, transmitted to the Secretary-General for submission to the Trusteeship Council. In regard to communications requesting a specific action by the Advisory Council, the comments of the Italian Administration have been invited. The Advisory Council has, up to 27 July, received and considered certain communications of the above nature. As one of these communications refers to the question of the boundaries, the Council decided to refer it to the Secretary-General for distribution at his discretion.

19. One communication was received addressed to the President of the Trusteeship Council. It was transmitted to the Secretary-General.

20. The representatives on the Advisory Council took note of the communications of which the Council received only a copy; in some cases informal inquiries were made by different representatives.

Field trips

21. For an appreciable part of the time during which the Advisory Council has been established in the Territory, weather conditions have rendered difficult field trips involving road travel for any great distance. During the rainy seasons, considerable stretches of the road become virtually impassable for wheeled traffic. Nevertheless, members of the Council have undertaken field trips to points of interest in the vicinity of Mogadiscio and even, as shown below, to places relatively far in the interior of the country.

22. In company with officials of the Administering Authority, representatives visited the large agricultural development, some 80 kilometres from Mogadiscio, run by the Societa Agricola Italo-Somalo and located in the Villaggio del Duca d'Abruzzi, where most of the sugar consumed in the Territory is produced and processed. This is the biggest and most ambitious single agricultural development in the Territory. Visits have also been made to settlements along the Webbi Shebelle river, which runs parallel to the coast about 20 kilometres from Mogadiscio, and to points along the coast to the south of Mogadiscio.

23. During the recent visit paid to the Territory by Mr. Brusasca, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs of Italy, from 25 May to 10 June, the representative of Colombia, who was for part of that time the only representative present in Mogadiscio, accompanied him on a number of lengthy field trips through the Territory in the course of which they visited Afgoi, Villaggio del Duca d'Abruzzi, Bulu Burti, Belet Uen, Fer Fer and Gallacaio. When Mr. Ragheb, representative of Egypt, arrived in Mogadiscio he was also invited by Mr. Brusasca to accompany him in a number of field trips. Mr. Escudero, representative of the Philippines, was absent from Mogadiscio during the period of Mr. Brusasca's visit.

24. The representative of Colombia was particularly struck, when he visited Fer Fer, by the difficulty which the present temporary boundaries with Ethiopia have created in some locations. At Fer Fer it is the inhabitants of Somaliland who suffer inconvenience, since the only well there is nine yards inside the Ethiopian frontier and is therefore inaccessible to the herdsmen on the Somali side, while the nearest well on the Somali side is some considerable distance away.

Relations with inhabitants of the Territory and the Press

25. The representatives on the Advisory Council, at times accompanied by members of the secretariat, received visitors representing all groups and strata of the Somali population and the Arab and Indian communities, at their residence, the Hotel Croce del Sud, as well as in their offices at the Lido. Moreover they attended meetings, celebrations and anniversary gatherings of different groups and of all political factions in Mogadiscio and other places in Somaliland they visited.

26. In this manner and during their field trips, the representatives on the Council have established friendly and cordial relations with the inhabitants of the Territory. An outstanding example of the result of this policy was displayed when the representative of Egypt, Amin Rostem Bey, on 12 May gathered together in the council chamber representatives of important political factions and induced them to make a solemn pledge that they would not act without consulting each other (see annex XII). Mr. Ragheb, representative of Egypt, has continued his predecessor's policy of establishing close relations with the indigenous inhabitants.

27. Both the inhabitants and the Italian Administration have welcomed these activities. An increasing demand has been shown for the conciliatory influence which the representatives on the Council can exercise.

28. Communications received by the Council from non-governmental organizations or individuals concerning the affairs of the Trust Territory are dealt with in the present chapter, paragraphs 18-20.

29. There is only one daily local newspaper in the whole of Somaliland, the Corriere della Somalia. This paper is issued by the Administration and the editor is a government official; each issue contains, apart from the Italian text, a column in Arabic. For the first two months there was a weekly paper, the Nuovo Giornale, published by the Catholic authorities, but publication has since ceased. This was a well-informed paper with very good articles written by prominent local men. There is also a weekly military paper. A large number of Italian newspapers are available, but none of any racial views. No newspapers from other countries are on sale.

30. Some Italian newspapers maintain correspondents in Mogadiscio, most of them covering Somaliland as a professional side line. Reuters maintains a correspondent. Apart from this, no foreign correspondent or agency is permanently represented in Somaliland. Special events such as the transfer of administration from the British Government to the Italian Government, the visit of Under-Secretary of State Brusasca, etc., were covered by special correspondents of Italian agencies and newspapers who were dispatched to Mogadiscio for the purpose. A "roving correspondent" from the New York Herald Tribune visited Somaliland. Press releases issued by the Advisory Council during the period under review were reproduced in full by the Corriere della Somalia, which gave continued prominence to all official and non-official statements made by members of the Advisory Council. It is very unfortunate, however, that the great experiment initiated in Somaliland has found so little coverage in the Press of the Members of the United Nations.

31. The Secretariat issued, between 7 April and 27 July 1950, fourteen Press reviews containing translations of interesting material and comments appearing in the local Press, and translations of excerpts from comments and opinions expressed in the Italian Press.

CHAPTER III

SITUATION IN THE TRUST TERRITORY AND THE POSITION OF THE ADVISORY COUNCIL

A. *Situation in the Trust Territory*¹⁵

Law and order

32. The Advisory Council is not in a position to quote official facts and figures relating to law and order which might perhaps give some indication of the political atmosphere. It has, naturally, formed opinions from daily contact with and observations of life in Mogadiscio, where the population contains representatives of most of the peoples of the Territory; from conversations with members of the Administration; from impressions gained on field trips; from the Press; and, lastly, from the various members of the community who have approached it with complaints, requests and suggestions.

33. The general impression is certainly one of an improvement in public security, particularly in Mogadiscio, and of a noticeable diminution in the Territory of the tension which was most marked at the time when the provisional trusteeship administration began. The conduct of the Administration's armed forces and of the carabinieri and Somali police appears to be correct and their relations with the population good.

34. As stated above (chapter II, paragraphs 18-20), the Advisory Council has received many oral or written complaints or copies of complaints addressed to the Administration either by individuals or representatives of one political party, the Somali Youth League, or other groups. Roughly speaking, the following points were made in these communications:

(a) That there had been unlawful assaults on individuals and that there had been serious civil disorders at Baidoa owing to the negligence or culpability of the authorities, which involved injury to individuals and loss of property.

(b) That Somalis known for their opposition to Italian rule prior to 31 March 1950 were not fully protected by the Italian Administration, and that discriminatory acts committed by Italian officials are de facto retaliatory measures in respect of 11 January 1948, when a number of Italians were killed in Somalia in a sort of "Sicilian Vespers"; that people were being arrested without warrant and/or without a charge being communicated to the person involved, and that a large number of persons were being held in prison without being brought to trial.

¹⁵ For a detailed description of the political, economic and social life of the Territory, see annex VII.

(c) That political discrimination was being practised against members of the Somali Youth League in the matter of engagement of personnel either for the Administration or for public works, and that the leaders of the Somali Youth League were refused admittance to the offices of the Italian Administration officials or kept waiting an unreasonable time.

35. In the light of personal observation and additional information received from private persons and members of the Administration, the members of the Advisory Council gained the impression that some of the complaints were exaggerated and could not be sustained by any proof, and that some accusations were dictated by prejudice or anti-Italian bias on the part of certain elements. Further, it must be remembered that the criminal procedure in use for nearly ten years has been the British criminal procedure. The Administering Authority has now reverted to the Italian criminal procedure and it is likely that members of the population involved in criminal proceedings, not understanding the difference between the two systems, may bear an unreasonable resentment against the changed methods.

36. On the other hand, representatives on the Advisory Council gained the impression that some of the basic facts underlying the complaints were not entirely without foundation. It is known to the Council, for example, that civil disorders occurred in Baidoa and at other places between factions of the indigenous inhabitants; no effort was made to conceal the fact and the disorders were reported in the Press. Two truckloads of men and children, who alleged that they were refugees from the area, appeared on more than one occasion at the gates of the United Nations compound. The Council has, of course, no means of knowing the extent of the disturbances nor their origins. The Council is fully confident that the Administration, personified in the Administrator, Mr. Fornari, is doing everything to investigate all the bona fide complaints in a spirit of equity and with the desire to redress any justified complaint.

Trusteeship administration

37. During the first weeks, the Italian Authorities were chiefly occupied with settling down in the cadres created by the British Occupation Authorities and adapting the machinery of administration, military as well as civilian, to Italian working methods and concepts of administration. After his return from Rome, the Administrator, on 7 July, announced to the Administration plans for a reorganization of the trusteeship administration. His plans provided for the following administrative structure: the Administrator's Office; Chief Secretary's Office; International Affairs; Internal Affairs; Personnel and General Affairs; Financial Affairs; Agriculture and Zootechnical Affairs; Industry, Internal Commerce and Labour; Currency and Commerce with Foreign Countries; Judicial and Legislative Affairs; Health and Public Education; Public Works and Communications; Office for Studies and Statistics; Press; Accounts. This system, which differs greatly from the former system, is particularly interesting inasmuch as it is clearly meant to be a nucleus for the ministerial organization of the future independent Somali State.

38. The Administrator has informed the Advisory Council that he intends "to establish district councils to enable the local authorities (District Commissioners) of the Italian Administration to have the benefit of an advisory body which would improve the collaboration between the indigenous population and the Administering Authority as well as encourage the people's evolution towards political progress". He stated that he had prepared a circular on that subject to be sent to all District and Provincial Commissioners and he communicated the contents of it to the Council so that the representatives might be informed thereof before it was circulated. The contents of the circular are set out in annex VIII.

39. The Administering Authority requested the advice of the Advisory Council (see chapter II, paragraph 11) concerning the composition and number of the territorial council provided for in the draft trusteeship agreement. In its reply (see chapter II, paragraphs 12 and 13 and annex IV) the Council suggested that an examination of solutions adopted elsewhere, though theoretical, would no doubt be of value and that a more practical evaluation would be made of them when the results were known of the inquiry which the Administering Authority was making among the peoples of the Territory upon these questions. The Council has now been informed by the Administering Authority of the results of the consultation with the representatives of the peoples of the Territory; the full text of the Administering Authority's report to the Council is contained in annex IX.

40. In transmitting its report, the Administering Authority pointed out that in spite of the fact that its officials had emphasized to the peoples the great importance of the consultation, which was the first time that the indigenous population had participated in the study of matters of concern to the whole Territory, it appeared that elements of the population consulted did not appreciate the character of the system which was to be established and, consequently, the significance and importance of the territorial council. It appears that the response evoked from the population ranged from indifference to uninstructed enthusiasm, an example of the latter being a proposal that the Council should be composed of between 400 and 700 members, who would discuss all the unimportant daily disagreements between the tribes.

41. The Administering Authority reports, however, that a great number of people interrogated, and by no means only the most prominent among them, fully appreciated the value of the referendum and expressed satisfaction, in their own name and on behalf of their community, with the fact that the Administration had consulted them and was prepared to give them a voice in matters which concerned them. The creation of a council which would provide a further link between the Administration and the people was welcomed. The opinion was widely held that such a council should not be too large; a number thought that it should be composed of one representative from each district of the Territory, i.e., twenty-two members. Some doubts were expressed, however, that one member could satisfactorily represent districts with mixed populations.

42. As to methods of choosing representatives, the political bodies urged that representatives should be chosen from among their ranks, in which they claimed the most progressive elements of the population were to be found. On the other hand, the chiefs and notables pointed out that three-quarters of the population lived in the bush and had little contact with the political parties. Furthermore, it is recognized that among the chiefs of the tribes are to be found many persons of great culture, with a profound knowledge of, and a deep influence over, their peoples. There was unanimous rejection of the idea of a system of suffrage, in view of the general cultural level of the population and of their lack of political education. There appears to be a great unanimity of opinion that, at least in the beginning, there should not be separate representation in the council of indigenous economic interests.

43. The question of limiting the discretionary power of the Administrator in the choice of members of the council was not raised. The District Commissioners, however, made it clear to those they consulted that, even if the Administrator had complete freedom of choice, he intended to take into consideration the wishes of the people.

44. In some places the people were ready to nominate their representative forthwith, but in others the desire was expressed that the District Commissioner should choose a name from a list submitted by the people.

Legislation and judicial system

45. As regards legislation and the administration of justice, the position in the Territory, up to 1 April 1950, was that in civil and commercial cases judgment was given in accordance with Italian law by the Judge of the Territory, who is an Italian, and in accordance with Koranic law and customary law by the Kadis. In penal cases the Italian penal code, as amended by British proclamations, was administered. A new system of criminal courts using British penal procedure had, however, been set up by the British.

46. On 1 April 1950, the Administering Authority published its first proclamation stating that Italy had assumed the administration of the Territory which it undertook to carry out in accordance with the provisions and in conformity with the principles and spirit of the United Nations Charter. The rights of man, the fundamental liberties and full equality before the law without distinction as to race, sex and political or religious opinion were guaranteed in accordance with the principles enshrined in the Constitution and legislation of the Italian Republic. Until the issuance of new regulations, the present legislation was to remain in force in the Territory, as far as compatible with the principles of the trusteeship administration.

47. By Ordinance No. 5 of 19 April, which was declared to be effective as from 1 April, various British proclamations were cancelled. Those proclamations had, inter alia, established British procedure for dealing with offenders between the ages of eight and eighteen, new jurisdiction for the Kadis' courts and a new system of criminal courts. They were replaced by the former Italian system, in particular by the provisions of the Judicial Ordinance approved by Royal Decree of 20 June 1935 (No. 1638), until new judicial ordinances might be issued in accordance with the terms of the Trusteeship System.

48. By Ordinance No. 29 of 8 June, the Administrator granted pardon in some cases, and a reduction of sentence in others, to persons sentenced to imprisonment in the Territory prior to 1 April 1950. By Ordinance No. 40 of 17 July, he granted amnesty to all imprisoned in the Territory for political crimes committed there during or after the exchange of powers and up to the date of the ordinance. The amnesty was not only a step of internal pacification, but reflected, and has been accepted as reflecting, the spirit in which the Administering Authority intends to carry out its work.

49. A new monetary system was instituted by Ordinances Nos. 14-19 of 16 and 18 May, which are more fully described in paragraph 67 below. That step had very important political implications since, for the first time, it gave a Trust Territory a currency of its own, undoubtedly one of the principal bases for future sovereignty. The new currency bears Arabic and Italian identification.

50. There have been a number of other ordinances, some of very recent date, to which the Advisory Council has as yet been unable to give detailed consideration. They deal with a variety of subjects, including payment of arrears of pay to ex-soldiers, exchange control, rent control, assessors in the courts of assize, insurance to be carried by operators of public vehicles, nomination of a price controller, tax returns, social insurance, etc.

Political parties

51. It is difficult to estimate the strength of the influence of the political parties. There are two main groups in the Territory, the Somali Youth League and its adherents, on the one side, and the parties comprising the Conference Party on the other hand. The Somali Youth League, which was founded in 1943, has a programme for the economic and social betterment of the country and for its independence; it opposed Italian trusteeship and is inclined towards a radical nationalism. The Conference Party has a very similar programme but wishes to work toward the independence of the Territory under Italian trusteeship; it is more conservative than SYL. According to the claims made before the Four-Power Commission of Investigation in 1948, the Somali Youth League had about 93,000 members, with 300,000 adherents, and the Conference Party 180,000 members, with 360,000 adherents. That meant that the parties between them claimed an active membership amounting to nearly one-third of the population and an adherence totalling nearly two-thirds of the population. By contrast, the British authorities estimated that the two parties together amounted, in 1949, to about 110,000 active members.

52. There are indications that, since the assumption of the provisional trusteeship by the Italian Government, there has been an increase of popular interest in the political parties in view of the coming independence.

53. As far as is known, the Conference Party group, the Arab community and the other minority groups are well satisfied with the state of affairs since 1 April 1950. None of their component organizations approached the Council with complaints.

54. The Somali Youth League was formed in 1943. Its leadership gradually assumed an anti-Italian attitude, which first became apparent in 1947 and, at the time of the debates on the Trust Territory in the General Assembly, they professed the most violently anti-Italian sentiments, to the point of threatening to use force if the Italian Government was appointed the Administering Authority. Since the arrival of the Italians, the leaders of the Somali Youth League have expressed their willingness to co-operate with the Administration. They have appeared on the same platform with Administration officials and with Conference Party leaders, and have exhorted their followers to co-operate with the Italian authorities. Nevertheless, as an examination of the complaints received by the Council will show (see chapter II, paragraphs 18-20, and chapter III, paragraph 34), they are perhaps hyper-sensitive in their relations with the authorities. They are quick to suspect that they are being discriminated against and they undoubtedly act as leaders of the "opposition". Although they may exaggerate their grievances, there is no doubt as to the bitterness of their feelings and it is a tribute to the diplomacy of the Administrator and to the Somali Youth League's belief in his integrity that their relations with the Administration have not been entirely unharmonious and that they still express their willingness to co-operate. The Council considers that, in this connexion, mention should be made of the devoted work of the representatives of Egypt, through whose good offices many misunderstandings between the political parties themselves and between the Administration and the political parties have been removed.

55. Relations between the two main political groups appear, at least outwardly, to have been calm in Mogadiscio. The Council understands, however, that there have been conflicts in towns and villages outside Mogadiscio. Such instances, of course, are not necessarily an expression of political views, but may simply be repayment of old scores by one side or the other which imagines that it has gained an ascendancy with the Administration.

Visit to Somaliland of Mr. Brusasca, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs

56. There existed in Somaliland, chiefly among the Somali population proper¹⁶ prior to and at the time of the change from British to Italian administration certain doubts about the intentions and motives of the Italian Administration. The Italian Government had every interest in dispersing that uneasiness as quickly as possible. The decision to send Mr. Brusasca, Under-

Secretary of State, to Somaliland was therefore dictated by great political wisdom and comprehension of the situation existing at the time in Somaliland. Mr. Brusasca arrived from Rome on 25 May 1950. When he left after a two weeks' visit, a noticeable change in the political climate of Somaliland had occurred. It may be said that the Italian statesman rendered a major service to Italy and the world by his visit, during which he travelled to almost all accessible parts of the Territory, despite rains and floods.

57. The first and most important objective of the visit was to make an appeal to the population of Somaliland to collaborate with the Italian Administration, and to assure them that the Administration would undertake its task in Somaliland with impartiality and in the spirit of the United Nations Trusteeship Agreement. Mr. Brusasca's sincerity and his deep respect for the religious feelings of the population, which he manifested in his speeches and by donating Korans and money to Moslem religious institutions, made a considerable impression upon the Somalis. An immediate result of his visit was a noticeable relaxation of tension and an amelioration of the relationship between the Italian Administration and the anti-Italian elements of the Somali population. The appeals he made will have lasting consequences, however, only if that part of the population which is hostile to the Italians or sceptical regarding their intentions receives tangible proof of a change in attitude or methods.

58. Mr. Brusasca's second important task was to appeal to the Italian officials and to the Italian permanent colony in Somaliland for comprehension of Italy's task in Somaliland. An outstanding feature of practically every speech he made was the stress he laid upon Italy's role as an agent of the United Nations, and the emphasis he placed upon the fact that Italy's performance in Somaliland would be an important element in the judgment the world will pass on Italy's post-war role in world affairs. In asking the representatives of Colombia and Egypt to join him on his trip throughout Somaliland, Mr. Brusasca wished to give special prominence to the United Nations in the eyes of the people of Somaliland. It is already apparent how greatly his visit has strengthened the hand of the Administrator, Mr. Fornari, within his own administration.

The frontier situation

59. The Advisory Council is not called upon to pass judgment upon the territorial questions pending between Somaliland under Italian administration and adjoining territories. It is obvious, however, that the successful work of the Administering Authority will depend upon the frontier situation, to the extent that trouble or difficulties on the frontier would absorb energies which are needed for internal reconstruction; on the other hand, pending a definite settlement by the international authorities charged with the question, calm would naturally constitute a positive element in the over-all situation and would be a tribute to the handling of the external situation by the Administering Authority.

¹⁶ This does not include the Arab and Indian communities who did not oppose the assumption of trusteeship by Italy.

60. The journey to Belet Uen by Mr. Brusasca gave the representative of Colombia an occasion to observe personally, on behalf of the Advisory Council, the frontier situation at Fer Fer. The village, over which an Ethiopian flag was hoisted, is entirely on the Ethiopian side. Neither soldiers nor frontier guards were visible. The frontier was marked only by a removable road-block. On the Somali side there were neither Italian civilian nor military guards. The first outpost is about 2 kilometres behind the front. The frontier itself is guarded by a platoon of Somalis, without heavy arms. They are under the command of a Somali.

61. On the occasion of his visit, Mr. Brusasca made a speech to the Somalis garrisoned at the frontier station, in which he stated in effect :

“ You are here not as soldiers with the task of giving battle, but as representatives of the Somali population. It is your duty to live in good neighbourly relations with those on the other side of the frontier and to establish such good relations that they will endure when your country has become independent. ”

62. The Council has received some communications from Somalis on the question of the present delimitation of the frontier between Ethiopia and Somaliland, requesting that the tribes of the writers be reunited with Somaliland.

*Statement by the Administrator of policy with regard to economic, social and educational affairs*¹⁷

63. On the occasion of the 4th meeting of the Advisory Council, the Administrator, Mr. Fornari, made a report on the work done by the Italian Administration during the first months of its stewardship. He expressed the opinion that the majority of the Somali population trusted in the Administration and wished to collaborate with it. His policy was one of goodwill and understanding, on the basis of the maintenance of public order and of the punishment of those guilty of infringing the law. The first step was organization of the public services, and immediately afterwards, consideration of the most urgent problems. He considered that public health was the first of those problems, with veterinary problems closely linked with it. Next in importance ranked the question of unemployment. Public works, which had already been initiated, led to an absorption of unemployed. Wages were insufficient. It was the Administration's policy to increase wages whenever possible, while taking the necessary steps to counteract a concomitant rise in the cost of living. Other matters examined included hunting problems, locust destruction, meteorological services and detailed consideration of the agricultural question. The question of extending the benefit of insurance against labour accidents to indigenous labour was considered in the light of the recommendation of the International Labour Organisation. The Administrator further reported that the Administration was studying the most rapid means possible of providing to Somalis the education essential to their future independence. The immediate problems on which the advice of the Advisory Council was requested were those of the alphabet and the language of instruction in addition to Italian (see also chapter II, paragraph 11). Italian was considered absolutely necessary to permit contact between Somalis and the Italian Administration.

Economic situation

64. Since the Administering Authority has not yet requested the advice of the Advisory Council regarding article 8 (b) of the draft trusteeship agreement, which concerns economic and financial development, the Council has not yet initiated any systematic studies on these subjects as it has, for instance, in the case of article 8 (a), which concerns the establishment and development of organs of self-government, and upon which the Administering Authority has asked its advice (see chapter II, paragraph 11) : There is evidence of the extension of public works and a notable absorption of idle persons who were roaming the streets of the capital when the Council arrived. Signs of road repair work and road building and house repair work can be found in many places. The Council realizes, however, that much remains to be done to restore the economic level of the country to its pre-war state and to raise the present standard of living, and that the task of reaching a stage where the budget can be balanced is formidable. Mogadiscio is no longer an entrepôt for Ethiopia, and the revenue derived from handling supplies for Ethiopia at the port and from the industries associated with the trade with that country will have to be sought elsewhere. The damage done to plant and communications in the course of the war and the subsequent deterioration must be made up. Some means must also be found to offset the loss of many skilled and productive Italian workers who have left the country.

65. The Council has been made aware that at the outset of the trusteeship administration, difficulties existed in connexion with the system of licences for imports into the Territory. The Administering Authority felt that, in view of the number of licences issued by the outgoing British Authorities, it could not accede to all the new applications for licences presented to it. Some sections of the trading community found this attitude unduly restrictive and did not wish to be diverted to Italy as the only source of supply. The Council understands, however, that these difficulties have now to a large extent been surmounted, to the general satisfaction of all.

66. According to official statistics, the cost of living in the Territory rose in the decade between the beginning of the war and the inception of the provisional trusteeship administration by some 500 per cent. No official statistics are available for the period since 1 April 1950, but from the personal observations of the representatives on the Council the rise appears to have continued and it is estimated that prices are some 25 per cent higher now in Mogadiscio, at least for goods consumed by the non-Somali community, than they were when the Council first arrived. On the other hand, the costs of basic food products for the indigenous population (meat and durra) have diminished.

New currency

67. The Administering Authority agreed with the British Authorities that the currency in circulation in the Territory at the time of the transfer of powers, which consisted of notes and coinage in denominations of East African shillings, should be withdrawn and that a new currency issued by the Administering Authority should be substituted for it. By Ordinance No. 14, which became effective on 18 May 1950, a new monetary unit was instituted, the somalo, which has a gold parity of 0.124414 gr. of fine gold. As from 23 July (later amended to 22 August) it will be the only legal monetary tender in the Territory. The privilege of printing bank-notes and of minting and issuing coinage has been granted to the Cassa per la Circolazione Monetaria della Somalia, with its head office in Rome. The Bank of Italy acts as the agent of the Cassa. The Cassa is obliged to carry guaranteed reserves in gold, silver and other currencies equal to the whole amount of bank-notes and coins in circulation, and is authorized to maintain a reserve of somali of an amount not greater than one-third of the notes and coinage in circulation. The Italian laws in force regulating the printing, minting, issuing and circulation of coinage are applicable to the Territory. Normally the operations of the Cassa in Somaliland are supervised by an official appointed by the Administrator.

Education

68. In the year previous to the transfer of powers, the British Administration maintained 28 indigenous schools (27 elementary and one higher) with a total of 60 teachers and 1,862 pupils. In addition, there were 2 Indian and nine Italian schools. The whole educational project covered 39 government and grant-aid schools, with 89 teachers and 2,414 pupils, and 150 small private schools, organized by religious leaders, with 2,500 pupils. In government schools for the indigenous population, the language of instruction was Arabic. English was included in the curriculum of schools which had a fourth-year course. Elementary education was, practically speaking, free.

69. The plans which the Italian Administration proposes to carry out for the education of the indigenous population in Somaliland were set out by the Administrator in a memorandum which he submitted to the Advisory Council. The Administrator drew the attention of the Advisory Council in particular to the proposed 1950-51 educational budget of 4 million somali, as compared to 480,000 East African shillings spent by the British Administration during the last year. The number of schools in Mogadiscio and other important centres will total thirty-one. Seventy-four Somali teachers will be appointed. Special training and refresher courses have been instituted to make an increase in this number possible. By these measures, the Italian Administration hopes to increase the number of pupils to about 3,500. The languages to be used in the classes are Arabic and Italian. This policy is in accordance with the preliminary advice given by the Advisory Council (see chapter II, paragraph 12). Further provision is being made for secondary schooling and for a technical school for artisans.

70. The Council notes with particular interest the proposed establishment of a school for specialized training in administrative and political matters. In this way, a class capable of leadership will be formed for the future State of Somaliland. These measures, as well as the large budget involved, are in the eyes of the Council a substantial proof of the Administration's comprehension of its task of bringing the Somali people to a standard of education which will fit them for independence within ten years.

B. Position of the Advisory Council

Three-cornered relationship

71. General Assembly resolution 289 A (IV), part B, and the draft trusteeship agreement envisage a bilateral relationship between the Advisory Council on the one hand and the Administering Authority on the other, in which the latter furnishes information and the former assistance and advice. From the very first, however, the Council has found that to some extent it is involved in a three-cornered relationship, the other two parties of which are the Administering Authority and the population. In a territory like Somaliland, with a primitive population unversed in political refinements, it is inevitable that complainants should look to the Advisory Council for redress of their wrongs, real or imagined, and that malcontents should seek to play off the Council and the Administering Authority one against the other. The Council has received many requests raising questions of human rights, and has taken the necessary action with the Administering Authority.

Relationship with the Italian Administration

72. The Italian Administration started its work in Somaliland on 1 April 1950 only. Four months are an insufficient period in which to organize and set into motion the administration of a whole territory and also insufficient to serve as a basis for drawing up a balance sheet of this first stage of the experiment. Evidence of the work done in the first stage has convinced the Advisory Council, however, that the Italian Administration is resolved to carry out its task in the spirit of the lofty mandate received from the United Nations, and that it is making a great and successful effort to lay down the basis for its tremendous task, namely, to guide primitive peoples steeped in customs belonging to a past stage of human development, and to a great extent still in the nomadic state, to independence within the time limit stated by the Assembly.

73. Generally speaking, the relations between the members of the Advisory Council, the Italian Administration and the population have been characterized by the greatest mutual courtesy and comprehension. This has been particularly true since the arrival of the Administrator, Mr. Fornari, in Mogadiscio on 6 April 1950.

74. In emphasizing its belief in the good faith and resolve of the Administering Authority to fulfil its task in Somaliland in the letter and spirit of the trusteeship agreement, the Advisory Council must, however, state the fact that it feels that it has, during the first stage of the Administration, not been as fully informed and consulted by the Administering Authority as the draft trusteeship agreement would appear to stipulate in accordance with articles 6 and 8.

75. The Council realizes that the energies of the Administering Authority, during the first four months of its provisional administration, have been fully devoted to organizing the administrative machinery of the Territory and that, in consequence, it may not have been possible to perfect arrangements for keeping the Council fully informed of its plans as they matured and of the rapid sequence of developments. The Council is pleased to record that since the return of the Administrator from Rome, in July, the flow of information from the Administering Authority has embraced every important decision.

CHAPTER IV

MEMORANDUM OF 1 AUGUST 1950 SUBMITTED BY THE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE PHILIPPINE REPUBLIC

76. I do not intend to sign the progress report in spite of my concurrence with most of its contents, and I desire to give to the Advisory Council an explanation of the reasons which prompted me to take this serious step.

77. Two major reasons have led me to take this stand after a mature consideration of all the elements involved. Foremost in my mind was the consideration that circumstances have compelled me to be absent from Mogadiscio during the major part of the time covered by the report, and that the few weeks which have passed since my return to the seat of the Council have not been sufficient for me to familiarize myself with the aspects covered by the report in their totality and to examine, as thoroughly as is my habit to do, the information and facts which have led the Council to take, or abstain from taking, certain conclusions.

78. The confidence which I place in the judgment of my colleagues from Colombia and Egypt, however, might have induced me to overcome my doubts and hesitations had I not felt—and this is the second major point I desire to make—that four months of provisional administration are not a sufficient period in which to make a report. Our words will be carefully read and weighed, and I wonder whether after only four months of functioning we can assume the responsibility of passing judgment upon the situation in this Territory at this early stage. During these four months the Italian Administration has had to step in and replace an administration founded on a military occupation. It had, after ten years, to re-familiarize itself with the situation in Somaliland, to build up an administration, to organize the security forces and to formulate policies. It is therefore undeniable that only now are the outlines of the Administering Authority's policies becoming visible. The same applies, in a certain degree, to the Advisory Council, for it constitutes an experiment without precedent in the history of the United Nations; it, too, is only beginning to establish its working procedures and shape its policy.

79. I feel a strong reluctance to tackle and pass a judgment upon political affairs now when some of the most important matters, namely the composition, selection and functioning of the territorial council, are still in a preliminary stage and when some major questions relative to the educational system in Somaliland are still in the preliminary stage of blue-printing. Moreover, the Advisory Council has not yet had any occasion to deal with economic and social affairs. No request for advice nor any official information on these subjects beyond the statement made by the Administrator at the Council's 4th meeting has reached the Council yet.

80. In order to avoid any misunderstanding, however, I should like to place on record that I am well satisfied with the Administering Authority's intention to carry out its tremendous task of guiding a primitive people, the majority of whom is still in the nomadic state, to an early independence. Everything which I have observed points to the serious resolve of the Italian Administration to fulfil its obligations toward the United Nations in the letter and the spirit. As stated above, I am therefore in agreement with a good deal of the contents of this report which I cannot, however, sign as I should very much have desired to do, for the reasons outlined in this memorandum.

This progress report, of which the memorandum by the representative of the Philippines, Mr. Manuel Escudero, forms an integral part, has been done in a single copy in the English language at the Villagio Roma, Lido, Mogadiscio, Somaliland, this third day of August in the year nineteen hundred fifty.

ANNEX II

STATEMENT BY H.E. AMBASSADOR GIOVANNI FORNARI, ADMINISTRATOR OF SOMALILAND UNDER ITALIAN ADMINISTRATION, AT THE 4TH MEETING OF THE ADVISORY COUNCIL ON 5 MAY 1950

[Original text : French]

I must first thank the Chairman and the Council for the welcome they were kind enough to extend to me.

I feel certain that I can rely upon the whole-hearted collaboration of the Council. The spirit of collaboration which has been evident from the outset has been constantly proved by the activities of each member and by the confidence which has reigned on both sides.

I wish also to pay a special tribute to the United Nations which has entrusted us with the very important task of guiding Somaliland to independence. At the same time I pay a tribute to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, who is represented here by the Principal Secretary.

And now I come to the subject of my statement which I propose to divide into three parts.

I shall first deal with the general situation as it appears at the moment throughout the Territory under our administration.

The situation is good, because the great majority of the Somali population have placed their trust in the Italian Administration and wish to collaborate with it. Certain inevitable events have taken place during the first month of our administration; they represent symptoms of adjustment, and are due to the fact that certain elements have but an insufficient knowledge of what is meant by democratic collaboration towards total independence. I repeat that the Italian wish is to fulfil every duty laid upon it by the Trusteeship Agreement. The first of the tasks entrusted to us by the agreement is to guide Somaliland to independence. Trusteeship also imposes upon us, however, another duty, which is to ensure public order. Our policy is certainly one of understanding, and by this I mean that both on my part and on that of my collaborators there is whole-hearted goodwill. It is nevertheless our duty to see that law is respected and that those who violate it are punished. That is in the interest of Somaliland, since it is only in an atmosphere of peace, of confidence and of calm that it will be possible to work for the good of the country.

I now come to the work which has been accomplished during this first month, work done in the interest of the indigenous population and based on plans for the progressive establishment of self-government.

After organizing the public services, we immediately considered the fields in which the change of administration posed the most urgent problems, such as public health, for instance. The number of physicians in Mogadiscio is, I think, sufficient; on the other hand, there are but few doctors in the interior of the country. We have already asked the Italian Government to send us eight or ten medical officers and one health inspector to reorganize the health services and to re-establish the system of mobile medical groups which operated previously in the country. In Mogadiscio there is a very important medical unit, the De Martino Hospital. We are considering the possibility of freeing the sections of that hospital which are now used by Europeans, civilian or military, and placing the whole hospital at the disposal of the indigenous population.

We are also dealing with veterinary problems. There are three veterinary surgeons in Mogadiscio, but there are very few up-country. I have visited the Institute at Merca, where vaccines are being prepared. It functions in a satisfactory way, but it needs to be enlarged. We have asked the Italian Government to send us a certain number of veterinary officers to reorganize the zootechnical services.

There is another question which has claimed a great deal of our attention because of its size, and that is the problem of unemployment. I do not propose to deal now with the whole question of employment and labour in Somaliland; the problem is far too complex and far too deep to be discussed at this meeting. We have looked for the simplest remedy, which was to develop public works. In one month we have undertaken such works, involving an amount of 2,507,000 shillings. The number of persons employed has increased from 450 to 1,880 since our arrival.

In the field of labour, you have seen that wages were in no way sufficient to ensure an adequate standard of living. We are fully aware that increases in salary must involve an increase in the cost of living. We have nevertheless considered it our duty to provide for an immediate increase in wages which would afford to the Somalis the possibility of living decently. This increase in wages is already operating in several departments; it will gradually be extended to other trades and crafts.

A price control commission has been instituted. Its duty is to see that increases in wages and salaries do not cause an excessive rise in prices, and that the spiral—in other words, an increase in salaries and an increase in cost of living—does not become a danger to the country's economy.

The way we hope to avoid this increase in the cost of living is by increasing the amount of consumer goods on the local market, either by developing the production and the distribution of local goods, or by importing goods from abroad within the limits of the available foreign exchange. A commission has already examined 177 applications for import licences and 58 for export licences. The Exchange Control Office has already granted 150 exchange permits required for importing goods.

In addition, we have considered many other questions, namely, hunting problems, destruction of locusts, meteorological services, detailed consideration of agricultural questions which are so important for the country and problems of social services.

As regards the last of these questions, I must mention that a delegate of the National Institute for Insurance against Labour Accidents has just arrived in Somaliland. We already had a system of laws governing that field, but we are resolved to extend the benefits of that type of insurance to indigenous labour, in accordance with the recommendations made by the International Labour Organisation, in particular during one of its recent Conferences. It will be the first social welfare service to be extended to the Somalis and we propose to extend other social insurance schemes gradually.

This is what we have done and what we propose to do for the material and moral welfare of the indigenous population. There are, as you know, two other essential fields which have claimed our attention. We are studying the most rapid means possible of providing for the education of the Somalis and the methods which should enable them to achieve self-government in ten years. These are the two questions on which we have asked the advice of the Advisory Council.

First, let us take education. The reopening of schools has been scheduled for the first of July; the problems which need the most urgent solution are those of the alphabet and the language of instruction in addition to Italian. The latter is absolutely necessary to permit contact between Somalis and the Italian Administration. The question as a whole is extremely important, since it is one of the bases of the country's future. It is essential that a section of the population should have had sufficient education if the independence which they are to receive, and which we desire with all our hearts for them, is to be established on a solid basis.

The second problem is that of the composition of the territorial council provided for in the trusteeship agreement, which we propose to establish as soon as possible. We are asking the Advisory Council's opinion as regards the number of members and the composition of the council.

I am an idealist, and I believe in a better world to come. I believe in international collaboration. I have great faith in the United Nations and I am confident that there is hope for the betterment of the world through that great Organization. What I believe for the future of the world, I believe still more strongly for the future of Somaliland. I am convinced that, with earnest goodwill, we will succeed in producing a happy and independent Somaliland. As far as I am concerned, I shall work with all my heart and I know that I can rely upon the collaboration of the Advisory Council to help me in that task, as well as on all the agencies which derive from it.

ANNEX III

REQUESTS FOR ADVICE PRESENTED TO THE ADVISORY COUNCIL BY THE ADMINISTERING AUTHORITY

[Original text : French]

A. Territorial council of Somaliland

1. Article 4 of the annex to the draft trusteeship agreement provides for the appointment of a territorial council, composed of inhabitants of the Territory and representative of its people. That article does not, however, give any precise indication of the composition of the Council nor of the principles to be followed in the selection of its members.

2. The Administration considers that the territorial council, without being too numerous, should nevertheless be large enough to include representatives of all the chief ethnic groups of Somaliland, of the principal political parties, of the various communities, and representatives of commerce, industry and agriculture.

3. In order to meet the wishes of interested parties, as far as possible, the Administration has given instructions to all Provincial and District Commissioners to consult with all chiefs, notables and heads of political parties and of communities in each district, to ascertain their ideas in regard to the composition of the council and the selection of its members. These consultations are now being held and the results will soon be known.

4. The Administration requests the advice of the Advisory Council in the matter.

B. Education in Somaliland: Language and alphabet to be used

1. During the school year 1949-50, twenty-four elementary schools were operating in Somaliland. Sixteen hundred pupils attended the courses and the teaching staff comprised about sixty Somali teachers and five Arab teachers (who had been brought in especially by the British and have since been repatriated), under the direction of three British teachers.

2. The opening of a secondary school had been planned for the year 1950-51. It began to operate even before the scheduled date. Twenty-four students belonging to various communities attended the courses, which were given by a British teacher with the help of a specialist in Arabic and in mathematics.

3. The Italian Administration for the Trust Territory of Somaliland has taken measures for the reopening, on 1 July, of all former primary and elementary schools, as well as the secondary school mentioned in paragraph 2 and a preparatory secondary school. It is proposed to open, in the near future, another secondary school (technical) and a training college for the preparation of teachers, technicians and students who wish to attend Italian universities. A training college for teachers is already operating.

4. In order to have the accurate data needed to draw up a definite programme, and to conform to the principles contained in article 4 of the draft trusteeship agreement, the Administration has given instructions to the Provincial and District Commissioners to :

(a) Submit a detailed report on the condition of school buildings, the prospective number of pupils, and the number and qualifications of teachers required;

(b) Make a preliminary inquiry among the various groups of the population by consulting with the chiefs, the notables, the heads of parties and of communities in each district, in order to ascertain their wishes in regard to the language to be taught, in addition to Italian, and the alphabet to be used.

5. The Administration requests the advice of the Advisory Council in the matter.

ANNEX IV

REPLY TO THE REQUESTS FOR ADVICE PRESENTED TO THE ADVISORY COUNCIL ON 5 MAY 1950 BY THE ADMINISTRATOR, MR. FORNARI

[Original text : French]

May I take this opportunity of expressing once more the gratitude of the Advisory Council for the general review of the situation in Somaliland which you made before it. Your presence among us was a token of the goodwill which inspires our relations.

The confidence which the Administration has in our Council was shown on this occasion by your request for its advice on two problems of major importance which are engaging your attention, namely that of setting up the territorial council provided for in the trusteeship agreement, and choosing the language which should be used, besides Italian, as the official language for teaching.

As regards the territorial council, you informed us that under your guidance the views of the leaders of the Somali communities and of the major political parties in the Territory were being ascertained. For its part, the Advisory Council is studying closely the complex problems relating to this question, and with the assistance of its secretariat, has embarked upon comparative studies in the technical field, the results of which are communicated to you from time to time. We believe that it will be possible, by taking stock of the experience already acquired by countries with comparable political problems, to reduce the number of alternative solutions before us and then to weigh the advantages and disadvantages of each system.

Whatever the outcome of these studies, they run the risk of being somewhat theoretical in character. It also appears to the Council that it would be difficult to give a comprehensive answer to this problem before knowing the result of the consultations undertaken by your Administration. The trends revealed by these consultations would in addition permit a more precise evaluation of the extent to which solutions adopted elsewhere may be adapted to the needs of the Territory.

Turning now to the problem of education, the Council has noted with the greatest interest the programme established by the Administration for adapting the structure of the educational services to the principles enunciated in the trusteeship agreement, and more especially, in article 4 thereof. The Council has been particularly struck by the steps envisaged for the creation of a body of teachers, the extension of secondary or technical education and the creation of a university élite.

The only way to create a class capable of guiding the Territory in the future is to increase the opportunities for university training. This is, therefore, one of the essential goals of the Trusteeship System, to which the Council attaches the greatest value.

Your Administration's request for advice concerns the choice of a language of instruction to be used side by side with the Italian language. After having considered this problem the Council is of opinion that, in arriving at a solution, high political considerations should have more weight than purely technical arguments.

The population of this Territory, in its nascent and enthusiastic nationalism, feels an attachment for its mother tongue which might lead some to see in Somali the official language of the future. There is need to emphasize, however, that there are important dialectal variations in the Somali language and that, in some parts of the Territory, languages of Bantu origin are in current usage. The languages or dialects used in Somaliland have one factor in common: they are not written.

Apart from the European languages, especially Italian, the only widespread written language in Somaliland is Arabic. Geography and century-old traditions have established it as the language of economic relations, the language of culture and as a sacred language. Somaliland, it may be said, turns its back on the interior of the African continent. It is with the Arab world and the Islamic world that the currents of every type of interchange have constantly and naturally been established. Is it not important for the future of this country that its official written language, instead of confining it within its own boundaries, should permit it to maintain economic and political bonds with the outside world and in particular with that part of the world towards which it is drawn by both cultural and material interests?

The trusteeship agreement merely recognizes a condition and asks that it should be respected. While article 8 of the declaration of constitutional principles proclaims freedom of religion, article 4 of the agreement calls for the establishment of an educational system with due regard for Islamic culture and religion.

The Council itself has been in a position to assess the extent to which knowledge of Arabic is already widespread among the Somalis, since up to this time all communications addressed to it have been written in that tongue.

It is of interest to note at the same time that the widespread adoption of Arabic has not prevented the birth here of certain manifestations of indigenous culture, for example in the domain of the arts.

For all these reasons, the Council would find it difficult to understand the creation of an alphabet based phonetically on the Somali language, the official acceptance of which would raise a number of technical questions. Among these questions, and one of the most serious, would be the necessity of re-educating all the educated class. This would be, moreover, a new problem added without apparent reason to the already sufficiently complex task of ending illiteracy. An even graver disadvantage would be the risk of prejudicing the essential aim of the trusteeship agreement, namely, the creation within ten years of a State which shall possess, along with the means of independence, those of an international personality.

The adoption of an alphabet for writing Somali carries the implication that the Somali language will be adopted as the official means of teaching. Such a step might come about as a result of a popular inquiry. The validity of such an inquiry, however, if it took the form of a widespread plebiscite, could be challenged. If it were not confined to those with education, how could it be argued that illiterates could weigh up the immediate repercussions or perceive the ultimate consequences of the choice they might make in the matter.

The Council asks that you accept the foregoing ideas as a preliminary and tentative expression of its views. We feel that it is necessary, before formulating a definite reply, for us to enlarge our present bases of information by travelling through the country. We are convinced that contacts made in the course of such visits will enable us to perceive the extent to which the principles regarding decentralization and education, laid down by the trusteeship agreement, may be implemented in a manner most in conformity with the interests of the peoples of the Territory, and to estimate the speed with which such steps should be taken.

(Signed) E. DE HOLTE CASTELLO
Acting Chairman of the United Nations for the Trust Territory Advisory Council of Somaliland under Italian Administration

ANNEX V

EXTRACT FROM THE SUMMARY RECORD OF THE 5TH MEETING OF THE ADVISORY COUNCIL HELD AT MOGADISCIO ON 31 MAY 1950

[Original text : French]

Present : Mr. Talaat Mohamed Ragheb (Egypt), Chairman; Mr. de Holte Castello (Colombia), Member; Mr. Ranshofen-Wertheimer, Principal Secretary, Secretariat.

III. Request for advice presented to the Advisory Council by the Administering Authority (A/AC.33/R.2 and A/AC.33/R.3).

11. Mr. DE HOLTE-CASTELLO (Colombia) requested the insertion in the summary record, in the most precise terms possible, of the statement which he was about to make on a matter which was essentially political in character.

12. After the Administration had requested the advice of the Council on two problems, namely, a language of instruction and an alphabet, and the constitution of a territorial council, the representative of Egypt, Amin Rostem Bey, and the representative of Colombia had agreed upon the terms and scope of the reply to be given to the Administering Authority.

13. It was on account of their complete accord and by virtue of rule 42 of the rules of procedure, whereby the Chairman represented the Council in its official relations with the Administering Authority, that a preliminary reply had been given to the question on education. Mr. de Holte Castello wished to emphasize the clarity and imperative meaning of the phrase, in English "shall represent" and in French représente.

14. He wished to make clear the attitude of his Government regarding the position of Colombian representatives in the councils and commissions of the United Nations.

15. Amongst persons with official duties at the United Nations there were those whose appointment was entirely at the discretion of their countries, which they were empowered to represent fully in a particular capacity. In such cases the representative was of course bound to both the national government and the international organization, but his link with the latter might be said to be secondary, as he spoke primarily for the country which he represented and which undertook to support him in the accomplishment of a particular task.

16. In the present case, the choice of Colombia to occupy one of the three seats on the Advisory Council should not be confused with the responsibility which the national government entrusted to the foreign service official named to fill that post.

17. That responsibility was the origin of a bond, the existence of which was constantly manifested, for example in the duty of a government to support its representative in every effort towards the accomplishment of the purposes of his mission, as agreed upon by the General Assembly. It was clear, however, that the existence of trusteeship administrations established certain relations between States, and that the administering countries, and those whose duty it was to help them, entered into a moral and political arrangement with the Trust Territory. The country concerned carried out that obligation or arrangement through its representatives.

18. Further, the national government had the right to change its representative on the Council, which proved a direct relationship of dependence on the part of the latter.

19. In view of the terms of rule 42 and of the position taken by the Colombian Government, and in order to dispel any possible doubt with regard to the position taken when the reply had been made to the Administering Authority, Mr. de Holte Castello said it was clear that the Chairman was exclusively responsible to the Council and that, as regards the political views which supported that opinion, the Colombian representative was exclusively responsible to the Colombian Government.

20. Finally, he requested the Chairman's approval of the form in which the preliminary reply on education had been made to the Italian Administration. As to substance, the reply had merely expressed the ideas on which Mr. de Holte Castello had reached full agreement with the former representative of Egypt, Amin Rostem Bey.

21. The CHAIRMAN thanked the Colombian representative for his statement and said that, in the name of his predecessor, he associated himself with the letter addressed to the Administrator of Somaliland. That letter was a preliminary reply to two questions on which the Council's advice had been asked; it had merely affirmed the view of his predecessor. He himself agreed with what had been said concerning the spirit of collaboration which should characterize relations with the Italian Administration, and also concerning the cultural evolution of the Somali people.

ANNEX VI

STATEMENT TO THE PRESS BY AMIN ROSTEM BEY, CHAIRMAN OF THE ADVISORY COUNCIL, ON 12 MAY 1950
(As reported in the Corriere della Somalia, 15 May 1950)

[Original text : Italian]

The day before yesterday, H.E. Rostem Bey, Egypt's representative on the Advisory Council for Somaliland, expressed the desire to see all Press representatives in Mogadiscio, in order to make a statement before his departure for Cairo, where, as we have announced previously, he has gone to confer with his Government.

The following interesting statements were made by His Excellency. They reveal not only a very friendly feeling towards the Italian Administration—which augurs well for a fruitful collaboration in the future—but they describe also the work accomplished by the eminent Egyptian diplomat to bring into contact the various Somali political factions.

This activity, which was known to us already, was especially valuable in so far as it guided the efforts of the more responsible elements among the main political groups, and competent authorities of the Administration followed and supported it closely.

H.E. Rostem Bey stated that, when he arrived in Somaliland, he thought the best way to eliminate the tension which existed between the various political groups was to see first of all that the tribal chiefs and the heads of the political parties should meet and work together.

With this end in view, he began by interviewing them separately, quietly and with patience. He soon became aware that they were completely ignorant of what was meant by a trusteeship administration and a trusteeship agreement. They knew nothing of the question and were completely unprepared to deal with it.

In reply to a question, His Excellency stated that he had not contented himself with seeing the heads of tribes and of parties in Mogadiscio, but that a great number of persons from the interior of the country and from such places as Buracaba, Baidoa, Kismayu and Gallaciao had also come to see him. The work he had had to do was long and had required much patience; he had lost no opportunity to meet Somalis and to talk to them. Very often he had addressed them at the mosque after prayers. He had also been to the headquarters of the political parties and had kept up his efforts until he had obtained their promises to meet each other. He had appealed to their religious faith. As a Moslem, addressing Moslems, he had often referred to the teachings of the Koran and told them, for instance, that if the Prophet had taught that kindness must be shown to infidels and to idolators, when they had to deal with them, it was wrong that Moslems should kill their brothers because they had different political opinions.

After the Baidoa incidents, the Arab community had invited him to attend a party in his honour. He had refused because, he explained, he felt he was in mourning, as that day some of his brothers had died. He had, however, attended the party and addressed those present, without taking part in the festivities.

The climax of his efforts had been a meeting at the Lido, on the previous Friday afternoon, of representatives of the Somali Youth League, of the Conference Party and of the Hamar Youth Club.

The Arab community did not attend, but had pledged themselves to agree to the decisions taken by the Somalis, placing their faith in Rostem Bey. Those who attended have certainly not eliminated the divergence of their views; but it was already a great step forward that they met, that they shook hands and that they promised on the Koran to meet in future to exchange their ideas and their opinions. A significant fact was that they had arrived at the Lido separately, in their cars, but they left together, going home in a friendly mood.

On that occasion, some of those present expressed the fear that some members of their parties might think that they were betraying them if they saw them in the company of opponents. Rostem Bey replied that he understood that feeling, but that they should endeavour to explain to their friends the necessity of meeting those who had opposite views and of maintaining contact. He also told them that he thought it was absurd that there should be such grave difference of opinion among Somalis, now, when Somaliland was to be under trusteeship administration for ten years. He compared the matter to that of an agricultural enterprise in process of development and to be handed to its owners after it had been put into production. "It is useless to quarrel now", he said. "It is better to let those who have the task of developing the farm work. At the end of ten years, when they have taken over the farm, the proprietors can then discuss the best way to settle things".

Replying to a question whether the Arabs were afraid that the Somalis would turn them out of Somaliland, Rostem Bey replied that he had heard a rumour to that effect, but he had already explained to the Arabs that their rights were safeguarded by the trusteeship agreement. He had advised the Somalis to consider other nations, Egypt, for instance, where Moslems, Christians, Jews and people of all nationalities lived together peacefully and all were equal before the law.

To the question whether it was true that the Somalis felt animosity towards Arabs because they held all the trade of the Territory in their hands, he replied he had heard about that too; but he had told the Somalis it was their fault if they had not succeeded in getting the control of trade themselves. One must work the soil to make it produce.

Rostem Bey was then asked what he thought about the Italian Trusteeship Administration and what were its prospects of succeeding in its task. He replied he felt sure that the Italian Administration would be successful, especially under the guidance of a man like Ambassador Fornari.

He said he could speak with knowledge of the Italian Trusteeship Administration, because he had been at Geneva when it came into being and he had taken part in the discussions which had created it. He had met Under-Secretary of State Brusasca there.

He considered that the Ambassador had thrown himself whole-heartedly into his job; he was a new man, of democratic principles, who had an open mind, and was anxious to leave behind him in Somaliland a task well done.

Rostem Bey concluded by saying:

"My personal relations with Ambassador Fornari are such as to make me feel that we have worked together and known each other for twenty years, although I had never met him before. We understand each other very well and I can say that, often, we do not even need to talk to have had the same thought. We understand each other perfectly."

ANNEX VII

GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE TRUST TERRITORY OF SOMALILAND UNDER ITALIAN ADMINISTRATION

1. The following material concerning the number and composition of the population and the social and political structure has been compiled from the report of the Four Power Commission of Investigation for the former Italian Colonies (vol. II), supplemented by more up to date information from the Italian Trusteeship Administration. Some of the statistics on population published in the report are different from those given by the Administration and in such cases both sets of figures are given, those of the Administration being in parentheses.

Population and its composition

2. The population of the Trust Territory is estimated to be 971,000 (992,500) of which about 940,000 (977,200) are of indigenous origin. It may be roughly divided as follows:

(i) Main tribes

(a) Darot, Hawiye, and Dirr numbering about 560,000 (572,000); mostly nomads, though the Dirr and a small number of the Hawiye have taken up mixed farming; speak Somali.

(b) Sab, numbering about 292,000 (256,600); engaged in mixed farming; most of them speak Sab, a dialect closely related to Somali, and are of similar stock, with perhaps some admixture of negroid elements.

(ii) Negroid peoples: engaged in pure agriculture along the rivers; number 44,000 (70,000); use the languages of their neighbours except along the Juba river where the Gosha speak a Bantu dialect.

(iii) Low caste tribes: number about 17,000; are scattered among the other tribes; are engaged in hunting, weaving, iron work and performing menial tasks.

(iv) Somali-Arabs: number about 19,000; are engaged mostly in agriculture but also in stock-raising and fishing.

(v) Some 8,000 persons who do not fall into any of the above groups.

(vi) Urban and village population: estimated to number about 170,000, of whom some 74,000 (68,850) live in Mogadiscio; about 142,000 are of indigenous origin and are considered as deriving from the following tribal groups: Darot, Hawiye and Dirr, 75,000; Sab, 38,000; Negroid, 9,000; Low caste, 3,000; Somali-Arab, 17,000.

(vii) Alien community: this is not large; is approximately as follows:

(a) Arabs, of whom there are 25,000 (about 12,000), mostly merchants and shopkeepers, but include some who also farm by modern methods;

(b) The Italian community, which was estimated at 10,000 in 1939, numbered 3,774 in 1948 and has since increased;

(c) About 1,000 (650) Indians and a few Ethiopians, Eritreans and others.

Social structure and component groups

3. The nomadic inhabitants are divided into three main tribal groups—Darot, Hawiye and Dirr—which are further divided into tribes and lower divisions of tribes referred to as "sub-tribes", "sections" and vers (families). The social unit is that division of a tribe which pays and receives blood-money (dia). The nomad tribes have chiefs and headmen who are chosen by their tribes, sub-tribes or sections, as the case may be. Succession in case of the greater chiefs, however, usually passes by heredity, if agreeable to the tribe. The appointment of elected chiefs is confirmed by the Administration. Important decisions regarding the life of the tribe are taken or confirmed in the shir, or tribal council, at which all tribesmen may attend and have their say, though weight is attached to the opinion of the Elders.

4. The more important of the mixed farming tribes are contained in the Sab confederacy and the Abgal. They are organized on a tribal basis, similar to that described above, but since they have permanent settlements they have evolved a more settled policy than the nomad tribes. Each sub-tribe is ruled by a chief who is chosen by the tribe and confirmed by the Administration. He is assisted and controlled by a Council of Elders. Chief and Council deal with all matters such as the distribution of land (which is owned by the tribe), control of water supplies and settlement of internal disputes.

5. The settled agriculturalists are mostly negroid. They are organized into tribes, but their social life is based on their villages. They have village headmen and councils, chosen by themselves and confirmed by the Administration.

6. As regards the Native urban population, the permanent Native inhabitants of Mogadiscio are detribalized to some extent, but there are dia-paying groups. Members of the same tribe have a bond of sympathy and help each other in distress. The Rer Hamar in Mogadiscio, Somali-Arab in origin, is a community bound together by ties of interest, and is organized as an "urban" tribe. Similarly, the inhabitants of Brava, who speak a Bantu dialect, form a separate community.

7. Pre-war Italian legislation provided for consultative bodies of chiefs meeting for zones and districts with the District Commissioners. There were a series of municipal councils which collected and expended revenue. The British Administration, in 1946, formed Advisory Councils for zones and districts, composed of about fifteen chiefs and notables designated by the authorities. In 1947, Provincial Councils were formed consisting of fifteen member selected by councils for zones and districts. These councils were of a purely consultative character and had no executive power.

8. Chiefs and headmen have a triple role: they have authority in internal matters within the tribe; they represent the tribe before the Administration; and they act as agents of the Administration within the tribe. The more important ones receive a small salary for their services in the last capacity.

Political parties and other organizations

9. The Four Power Commission collected the following information about political parties and other organizations within the Territory:

(i) Somali Youth League claiming 93,000 members and 300,000 followers, with headquarters in Mogadiscio and 79 branches outside. One of the stated objectives of the SYL is to unite all Somalis generally, and the youth especially, with the consequent repudiation of all harmful prejudices as, for instance, distinctions of tribe, ver, religion, etc.

(ii) Hamar Youth Club, claiming 1,587 members of Hamar youth in Mogadiscio. In accordance with its statutes, the club has no political aims.

(iii) The Somalia Conference, which asserts that it represents the following organizations claiming between them 180,000 members and 360,000 supporters:

(a) Patriotic Beneficence Union, claiming 80,788 members in Mogadiscio and branches outside the town. At first the Union included numerous Arabs but these left it after the Somali-Arab riots of October 1947;

(b) Hisbid Dighil Mirifle, claiming 60,871 members and 300,000 supporters. The activities of this organization are mainly concerned with the Dighil and Mirifle tribes (part of the Rahan Mein tribes);

(c) Union of Africans in Somalia, claiming 5,000 members;

(d) Somali Young Abgal Association, claiming 30,000 members and confined to the tribes of the Abgal, with two branches outside Mogadiscio;

(e) The War Veterans, whose organization had not yet been constituted at the time of the Four Power Commission's visit. They claimed to represent the opinion of 25,000 veterans, 5,000 families of those killed and 700 wounded;

(f) The Eidait al Islam Shidle and Mobilen, claiming 10,818 registered members together with their families, a total of 60,000 persons; and six branches outside Mogadiscio. The programme of this party is the welfare of the Shidle and Mobilen tribes;

(g) The Bimal Union, claiming 300 members of the Bimal tribe.

(iv) Somali Progressive Committee, which is claimed by the Somalia Conference but about which only little information was received.

(v) Seven Italian political parties affiliated to the corresponding parties in the homeland. In 1947, an Italian Representative Committee was formed to represent before the Four Power Commission all Italians living in Somaliland.

(vi) The Arab Community, claiming to represent the whole of the Arab population of the Territory and the Local Born Young Association claiming 1,800 members.

(vii) The Indian Association, which does not take part in local politics.

(viii) The Association of Ethiopian Youths, which has no political aims.

10. As regards trade and labour organizations the European trade unions in the Territory do not exercise any real influence on account of their limited membership, and there are no Native trade unions. There is one Chamber of Commerce with its offices in Mogadiscio, in which European members are in a majority.

Economic structure at present existing

11. Information in the following paragraphs, which concern the present economic structure, is taken partly from the report of the Four Power Commission of Investigation, and partly from those portions which are available for publication of the annual report on the British administration of Somaliland for the period 1 January-31 December 1949.

Natural resources

12. Approximately half of the Territory is waste land. About 80 per cent of the other half is pasturage, the remainder being arable land. Stock-raising, therefore, forms the principal means of livelihood for about three-quarters of the entire population.

13. Two types of agriculture are practised in the Territory: that of the European, which clings closely to the courses of the two rivers for the purpose of artificial irrigation; and that of the Native, which generally relies on rain-fall or any other natural means of irrigation. Only two rivers intersect the Territory, the Webbi Shebelle (maximum flow of water 120-200 cubic metres), and the Juba (maximum water flow 600-700 cubic metres). Both originate from the southern part of the Abyssinian highlands. The land cultivated by Europeans, though less extensive than that under indigenous cultivation, plays an important part in the economy of the country. Sugar-cane, bananas and cotton, the only agricultural products which were exported on a commercial basis, are grown on such land. Maize and millet, grown mainly by the Natives, are adequate in a good year to meet local requirements. The principal agricultural crops of the Territory are maize, millet, oil seeds, sugar-cane, rice, fruit and vegetables.

14. The forests cover only a small area and are not exploited commercially. Aromatic wood substances from the Territory form a large part of the world supply of these products, but they are of small absolute value and consequently their part in the economy of Italian Somaliland is limited.

15. There are a number of valuable fishing areas, particularly off the coast of the Mijertein.

16. Prospecting has revealed neither large mineral resources nor deposits of coal and oil.

Trade and industry

17. At the outbreak of the war, there were a substantial number of industrial enterprises, consisting in the main of transport and building enterprises as well as light industry for manufacturers using local produce. Amongst these, in particular, should be mentioned the Dante Salt Works in the Mijertein Province, which exported in 1939 more than 150,000 tons of salt. A number of the light industries in the Territory, especially those associated with transport, were dependent upon the incorporation of Ethiopia as an economic unit with the rest of the Italian East African possessions. During the early stage of British administration, while the war was still being waged, the authorities, to meet the requirements of war, requisitioned equipment and materials, including that of the salt works, agricultural machinery and the rolling stock of the Mogadiscio-Villabruzzi railway. Economic conditions also deteriorated owing to the fall in the Italian population.

18. The value in external trade has declined by comparison with pre-war figures and, although this is the result of present-day conditions, the fact remains that the country has always had a large adverse trade balance, even though in pre-war days the port of Mogadiscio handled and obtained revenue from a great amount of supplies destined for Ethiopia.

19. Before the war, the Italian Government financed the deficit in the balance of payments. In the same fashion, the British Government was forced to meet the deficit for the period of occupation although the amounts involved were smaller. The grant-in-aid for the four years ending 30 June 1947 averaged £433,031; in 1948, it was £276,864; in 1949, £291,085; and it was estimated that £418,000 would be required for 1949-1950.

20. The British Administration believed that the adverse trade balance might be eliminated or, at least, greatly reduced if considerable expenditure of a capital nature were undertaken, particularly in relation to the extension of the irrigation system of the Webbi Shebelle River and to the harnessing of the water of the fast flowing Juba River.

21. In addition, it was thought that the present high cost of production and transportation must be reduced, and better methods of farming, including improvement in the drying and curing of skins, must be adopted before the external trade of the Territory could be balanced. Exports of produce, such as bananas and cotton, to Italy have shown a gratifying increase. The following are the figures for the total imports, exports and re-exports for the years 1945 to 1949:

Year	Total imports £	Total exports and re-exports £	Trade deficit £
1945	770,249	230,266	539,983
1946	983,031	441,955	541,076
1947	1,113,816	692,545	421,271
1948	1,113,423	780,501	332,922
1949	1,378,477	878,964	499,513

ANNEX VIII

INFORMATION CONCERNING DISTRICT COUNCILS RECEIVED FROM THE ADMINISTERING AUTHORITY IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE TERMS OF THE DRAFT TRUSTEESHIP AGREEMENT

Note by the Secretariat: In accordance with rule 44 of the rules of procedure for the Advisory Council, the Principal Secretary has the honour to transmit herewith to the representatives on the Advisory Council a draft circular to be sent to all District and Provincial Commissioners, received by the Chairman of the Advisory Council on 21 July 1950 from the Administrator.

The Administrator made the following observations in his letter of transmittal:

"... I intend to establish District Councils to enable the local authorities (District Commissioners) of the Italian Administration to have the benefit of an advisory body which would improve the collaboration between the indigenous population and the Administering Authority as well as encourage the people's evolution towards political progress.

"I have therefore prepared the draft of a circular to be sent to all District and Provincial Commissioners, a copy of which I enclose as I wish you and your colleagues of the Advisory Council to see it beforehand."

DRAFT CIRCULAR

To: District and Provincial Commissioners

Subject: District Councils

District Councils have always been in existence in Somaliland, at first as a de facto organization which was imposed by political and social exigencies and accepted by the common sense of our former administrators, and later embodied in the legal and political organization of Italian East Africa.

Their functions and terms of reference were never clearly defined; the members preferred to trust to the judgment of the District Commissioners in all matters related to the constitution, convocation and functions of the Council, in accordance with the traditions, customs and exigencies of the country.

It must be noted that the vagueness of this method offered undeniable advantages, since it enabled the Council to adapt itself to any particular conditions, however varied. Many District Commissioners, however, who did not understand the political value of such institutions, were inclined to neglect them, when they did not ignore them altogether.

I propose, now, to restore these Councils and to adapt them to the political conditions prevailing in Somaliland, giving them the widest field of action possible.

The Trusteeship Agreement mentions, in fact, that one of our specific duties is to encourage and develop free political institutions, and to promote the evolution of the population by increasing the part played by it in the various organizations of the administration of their country.

You will no doubt realize that the District Councils can become a most efficient medium for political education, as they can stimulate the interest of the indigenous population in political, administrative and economic questions of interest to the Territory and assimilate indigenous elements in the task of the administration.

The District Councils will be composed of :

- (a) All paid chiefs and elders;
- (b) Village and market headmen (Capi paese e Capi mercati) who receive no salary;
- (c) Section secretaries, and in the case of Mogadiscio, chairmen of political parties legally recognized;
- (d) Prominent persons of the Territory, no more in number than the salaried chiefs and elders, to be selected by public opinion as persons of culture, education and possessing special qualifications.

The members mentioned in paragraph (d) will be appointed by the District Commissioner, subject to the approval of the Provincial Commissioner who will advise the Department of the Interior in the Administration of these appointments together with all others constituting the Council.

Members will hold office for one year.

In the case of death or of disqualification of one or more members (for moral indignity, condemnation to prison, etc.), their seats will be filled in the same manner as that used for the first appointments.

The following questions will be referred to the District

Councils, which will have, for the moment at least, only an advisory capacity :

- (a) All questions related to agriculture, stock raising, animal husbandry, fisheries and the economic development of the Territory;
- (b) Problems of a general nature related to trade, industry and exploitation of the resources of the country;
- (c) Public works, communications, building plans, construction of markets, etc.;
- (d) General problems related to education, public health and labour (utilization of labour, unemployment, etc.);
- (e) The fixing of all local and municipal rates and taxes;
- (f) All problems arising from the delimitation of frontiers;
- (g) Any alterations which may appear necessary in local customs (testur);
- (h) All matters related to the property, allocation and use of tribal land;
- (i) All agreements dealing with grazing, cattle moving and water rights between sections of the population in the same district or between the population of one district and that of others;
- (j) Any matter of interest either to the whole or part of the population.

The District Commissioner may ask the advice of the Council on all matters he may deem advisable. He may also call a section of the Council together in order to hear its opinion on specific questions of interest only to some particular group or to the inhabitants of the chief town.

The District Council must assemble at least four times a year, and must meet before the draft budget is approved.

Under exceptional circumstances, the District Councils can assemble on their own initiative, if they have to submit to the District Commissioners matters of extreme importance and of general interest.

No fee will be paid to members, but in the event of the Council's having to meet at a place distant from the main town of the district, members will receive a daily allowance of six somali, and their travelling costs will be reimbursed.

I request the District Commissioners to attend to the composition of these councils without delay, so as to be in a position to have an inaugural meeting as soon as possible, in any case not later than 15 August.

INFORMATION ON THE TERRITORIAL COUNCIL RECEIVED FROM THE ADMINISTERING AUTHORITY IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE TERMS OF THE DRAFT TRUSTEESHIP AGREEMENT

Note by the Secretariat: In accordance with rule 44 of the rules of procedure for the Advisory Council, the Principal Secretary has the honour to transmit herewith to the representatives on the Advisory Council a copy of a memorandum on the results of consultations with the representatives of the Somali population, in regard to the composition of the territorial council, received by the Chairman of the Advisory Council on 27 July 1950 under cover of the following letter from the Administrator :

[Original text : Italian]

" In reply to your letter No.A/AC.33/R.3 of 17 May 1950, I have the honour to attach for your information a copy of the report on the results of the consultations which the various officials of the Italian Administration have had with the chiefs, elders, and heads of the various parties and communities in regard to the wishes of the Somali people concerning the composition of the territorial council.

" Although the inquiry was carried out with great diligence by these officials viewed as a whole, it does not enable us to visualize very clearly what are the wishes of the majority of the inhabitants of the Territory in this matter.

" That is due, less to the well-known differences of opinion among the persons consulted, than to actual lack of political training, and it unfortunately shows how arduous and difficult will be the task which Italy has assumed to guide the population to autonomy.

" I believe, however, that although it may not give sufficiently precise information on the method to be followed in order to fulfil the desires of the population itself, the information communicated herewith to the Advisory Council may be useful to help them form an opinion on the question of the territorial council, which will be of great value to me in the decisions I have to take. "

RESULTS OF CONSULTATIONS WITH THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SOMALI POPULATION IN REGARD TO THE COMPOSITION OF THE TERRITORIAL COUNCIL

[Original text : Italian]

The Advisory Council, in its note A/AC.33/R.3 of 1/ May 1950, replying to the request presented by the Italian Administration for advice concerning the territorial council to be constituted in accordance with article 4 of the declaration of constitutional principles annexed to the Trusteeship Agreement for the Territory of Somaliland, reserved to itself the right to express its opinion when it had received the results of the consultation by the regional organs of the Administration with chiefs, notables and the most important personalities of the parties and of the communities. The Council remarked that the practical results of the inquiry would enable it better to evaluate how far solutions chosen elsewhere could be adapted for the needs of this Territory.

In transmitting to the Advisory Council the results of the above-mentioned consultations, which have just been completed, it is necessary to call attention to the fact that, in spite of the solemnity conferred by the regional authorities on the inquiry, since it represented the first attempt to let the indigenous inhabitants participate in the examination of matters concerning the whole Territory, it appears that some of those consulted did not appreciate the nature of the system proposed to be established and, consequently, the significance and the importance of the organ to be set up.

For example, the tribes of the Lugh Ferrandi territory did not display great interest in this question, being always unreceptive of every proposal which cannot give them an immediate benefit of a material character. Also among the peoples of the lower Webi Scebeli, not a few of their representatives absolutely refused to discuss such a problem, limiting themselves to saying that the Administration already knows the peoples of the Territory and their interests and needs, so that it does not require any advice.

Here and there in this vast Territory proposals have been made which are completely inadequate to the realities of the present situation and to the objectives sought through this new organ. The representatives of the population of Belet Uen and Bulo Burti even proposed that the council be composed of a total of between 400 and 700 members, a number based on the application of a percentage to the whole population of the Territory, showing thereby that they thought that the council would be a forum wherein all the trivial daily disputes between tribes would be discussed.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, it must however be noted that a good number of the persons interrogated, and not only the most prominent among them, have understood the value of such a referendum and have in fact expressed their satisfaction in their own names and on behalf of their communities at having been consulted by the Administration and at the fact that it wants to give them the opportunity of expressing their opinions on all matters concerning the community as a whole.

They are in favour of the institution of an indigenous advisory organ which will assist the central Administration in its activities and which will in this manner ensure a stronger link between these activities and the interests and needs of the population.

Considering, however, that very few are really prepared to participate in such an Assembly and that, moreover, a council would be of little value if its great size rendered its convocation difficult and its functioning uncertain, most of them proposed criteria restricting the number of members.

Among these criteria one received much support, namely, that there should be at least one representative for every district of the Territory so that each province would return a number of representatives equal to the number of its districts which would mean that the council would be composed of 22 members.

Two reservations were made as regards this criterion, which was finally approved after long discussion, especially amongst the representatives of the populations of the territories of Baidoa and Bardera.

1. The population of every district must have the satisfaction of being represented by a person who can best defend its interests in the council and keep the people directly informed of any matters dealt with.

2. Some problems treated in the council may be of interest to the district only. For example, all matters concerning production of and trade in durra are of great importance for the territory of Baidoa, which is called the durra centre of the whole of Somaliland. Some persons, however, for example, the representatives of the populations of El Bur expressed their doubts that in some districts where different sections of the population differ widely as to traditions and numbers, it would be possible to obtain the nomination of only one member as representative of all the groups who would be accepted by all the chiefs.

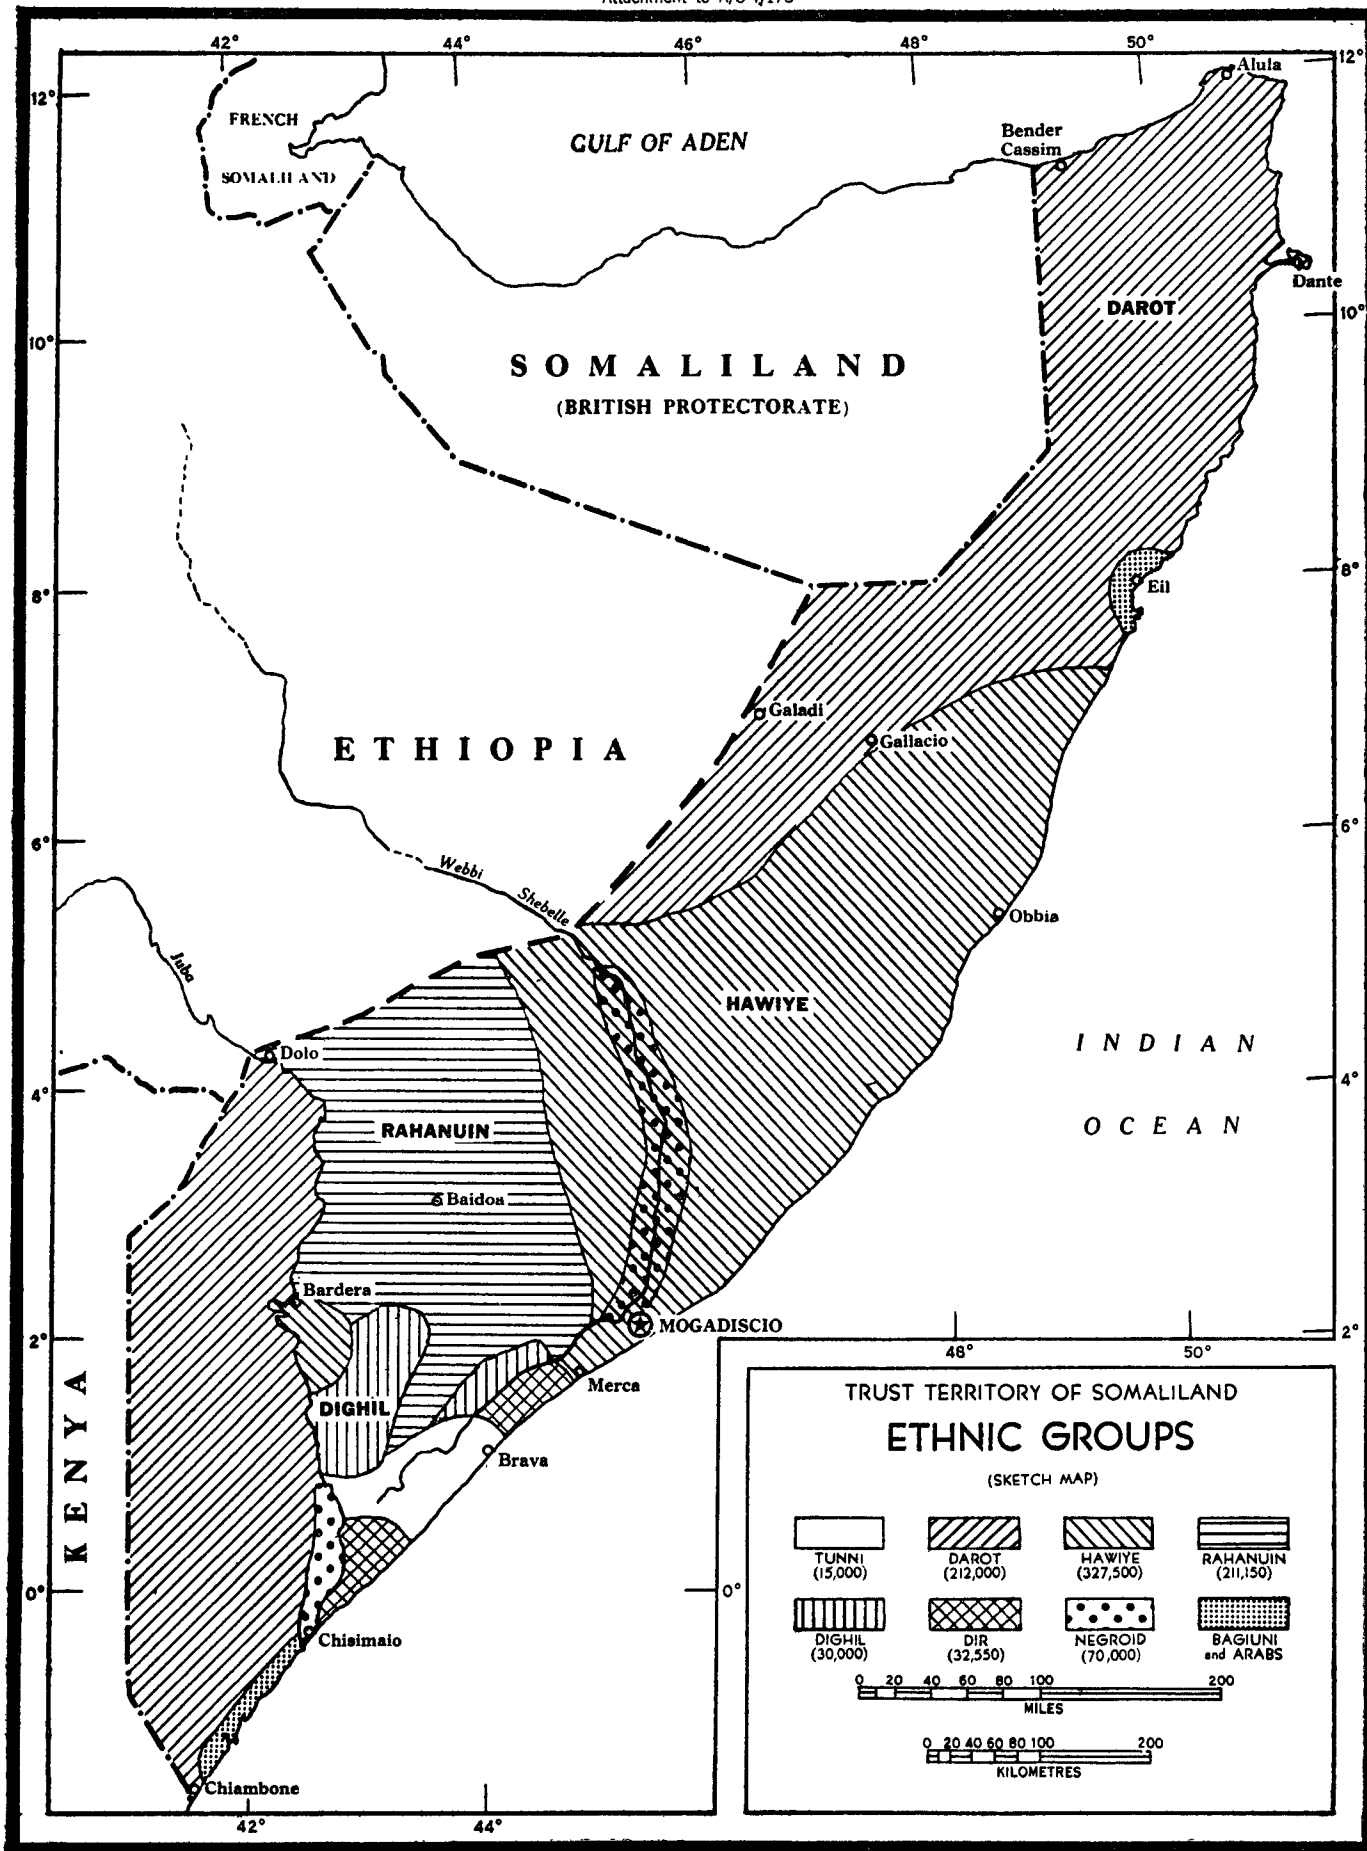

In the territories of Benadir and Upper and Lower Juba, the criterion which has been accepted by the majority is that the representation of ethnic groups must not be equal but proportional, that is to say, that the principal ethnic groups of every district could express their opinion through from one to four representatives, according to their numerical importance.

The most important difference of opinion among those consulted appeared when they gave their opinion concerning criteria to be applied in the choice of members.

They were unanimous in rejecting a system of suffrage, in consideration of the level of culture of the population and of their lack of political education. Two schools of thought emerged, which are a reflection of the present ferment in Somali society, where the progressive elements are endeavouring to replace the traditional tribal organization by one with a territorial basis.

The representatives of political parties desire that the members of the council be chosen from among members of the parties. They claim that these would in fact be more qualified to assist the Administration to comply with the task assigned by the United Nations, as they have a certain degree of culture and desire very strongly the independence of their country.

On the other hand, the chiefs and notables pointed out that such a criterion would sacrifice the interests of the populations living in the bush, which represents about three-quarters of the whole population, to those of the urban centres, where the parties have the greatest part of their supporters. Many of them, however, recognizing that among chiefs of the " noble " tribes are often to be found persons with a high level of culture, entitling them to govern and lead their own tribes but not giving them the necessary qualifications to discuss general problems concerning the whole Territory, have expressed the opinion that in the choice of the members of the council, the fundamental criterion of " nobility " of the tribe of a candidate must also be taken into account, together with considerations of personal competence such as education, influence on the population, special knowledge of customs, habits and needs of the different communities.

All have been of the opinion that, at least at the start of the council, indigenous economic interests should not be represented, as they are not yet well determined and defined.

The problem of the limitation of the discretionary power of the Administrator in regard to the choice of members of the council was not raised.

The District Commissioners, however, drew the attention of those interrogated to the fact that even if the Administrator has exclusive competence to nominate the members, he intends to take into consideration the desires of the population concerning the choice of their representatives.

Some gatherings, as for example that of Bardera, quickly and unanimously nominated their representatives.

In most cases, however, the people would like to ask the District Commissioner to choose, from a list of persons designated by the different groups of the districts, the member or members to be proposed to the Administrator for final nomination.

Finally, the proposal was made that in order to obtain a good selection of persons to be chosen for nomination this should be done in two steps.

The " noble " tribes of every district would designate their representatives; these would in their turn designate a more restricted number of members, one of whom would be chosen by the Administrator.

Memoranda to the United Nations submitted by the representatives of the Somali Youth League and the Hamar Youth Club

[Original text : English]
[11 November 1950]

Note by the Secretariat: In accordance with a decision taken by the Fourth Committee at its 174th meeting, on 10 November 1950, the Secretary-General has the honour to circulate herewith to members of the Committee two memoranda dated 19 September 1950 and 3 October 1950 submitted by the representatives of the Somali Youth League and the Hamar Youth Club.

I

LETTER DATED 19 SEPTEMBER 1950 FROM REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SOMALI YOUTH LEAGUE TO THE SECRETARY-GENERAL OF THE UNITED NATIONS

We respectfully submit the enclosed memorandum regarding the Trust Territory of Somaliland with the request that this memorandum be submitted to the Chairman of the Fourth Committee of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

In connexion with this memorandum, we urge that members of the Fourth Committee give us the opportunity to make oral statements in support of the memorandum. Further we ask them to grant us the status of observers to that Committee during the debate on the Trust Territory of Somaliland.

MEMORANDUM ADDRESSED TO THE UNITED NATIONS BY THE SOMALI DELEGATION REPRESENTATIVES CONCERNING THE TRUST TERRITORY OF SOMALILAND

As the lawful and duly authorized representatives of the Somali Youth League and the Hamar Youth Club, representing the overwhelming majority of the Somalis, we respectfully submit this memorandum setting forth our position on the proposed trusteeship agreement¹⁸ for the former Italian Somaliland.

The Trusteeship Council, while negotiating the terms of the trusteeship agreement for Somaliland with Italy, granted representatives of political parties in the Territory the right to express their views in regard to the terms of that agreement. Unfortunately no representative of ours was available to attend at that time the meeting of the Council which took place in Geneva. Therefore, we sincerely hope that the members of the Committee will recognize these inalienable rights of ours, and consider carefully our views in regard to this vital question dealing with our country and our people.

To our deep disappointment, we notice that the draft trusteeship agreement for Somaliland¹⁸ submitted by the Trusteeship Council is almost identical with the trusteeship agreements of other trust territories. There are only these differences: the limitation of the trusteeship to a ten-year period; the establishment of a purely advisory council; and the annex proposed by the representative of India—all of which form the main part of the unjust resolution adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations on 21 November 1949.

When we remind you that the trusteeship agreements for existing trust territories were drafted by the controlling Power in each instance and submitted to the General Assembly for approval only, you will understand our alarm and concern. Those agreements, as you well know, were drafted to facilitate the evil and imperialistic aims and purposes of the authors.

May we also point out that the conditions in the existing Trust Territories—particularly those in Africa—are no better than conditions in the acknowledged colonies; in some instances, even worse than in the colonies. By means of the so-called administrative union, almost all of these Territories have been brought under the same rule as the adjacent colonial possessions of the Administering Authority. In other words, the Trust Territories have been subjected to the same administrator as the colonies, the same political, economic and cultural policies; in short, the same exploitation.

We deeply regret to notice the failure of the Trusteeship Council to include in the draft trusteeship agreement for Somaliland such vital items as the protection of our country against the menace of large-scale foreign immigration, and the question of the unification of the Territory with the other Somali-inhabited countries.

It is well known that the questions of population surplus and unemployment are among the major problems facing the Italian Government at present. For this reason the Government at Rome has insisted upon having an outlet somewhere in Africa for its surplus and jobless elements. The lack of any protection in the draft trusteeship agreement for Somaliland will facilitate the evil purposes of Italy to use the Territory as the desired outlet—the only one in Italian hands at present—for its surplus population. Italy is now in a position to send thousands of its surplus and jobless citizens to Somaliland every year so that at the expiration of the ten-year trusteeship there may be more Italians than Somalis in our country.

The Italian civil population in Somaliland, numbering about 3,000, has increased more than three times since the start of the provisional Italian administration some five months ago, while the Italian military staff in the Territory now numbers more than 5,000 officers and men. Under the guise and pretence of bringing in technicians, experts, skilled labourers, and so on, the Government at Rome is already carrying out the desired large-scale Italian immigration. The arrival of these surplus and jobless Italians in Somaliland means to our people the alienation of fertile land and other natural resources, the restoration of the familiar Italian monopolies in trade and business. The ultimate aim is to take over the whole of our land.

As the representatives of the true interests of Somaliland and the Somalis, we appeal to you, gentlemen, not to permit our beloved Motherland to be used as an outlet for the surplus and jobless Italian masses. Accordingly, we ask the honourable members of the Committee to insert in the trusteeship agreement for Somaliland a strong protection against the menace of foreign immigration in general and that of large-scale Italian immigration in particular. Without such essential protection, the whole trusteeship agreement for the Territory is worthless in that it fails to safeguard the most vital interests of the Somali people.

We had hoped that the members of the Trusteeship Council, while considering the matter, would have taken into account the repeatedly expressed wishes of the Somali people for the unification of their country now artificially divided into five different parts by the four foreign Powers actually controlling Somaliland. We had expected the members of the Council to pave the way for this greatly desired reunion, and, in the meantime, to seek the early removal of political, economic and currency barriers which make difficult the unification of the country. On the contrary, the members of the Council did not even mention this vital question in the draft submitted by them for the approval of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

We do not intend to repeat all the arguments for the unification of an artificially divided Somaliland whose indigenous inhabitants are one in race and language, profess the same Islamic faith and culture and live by the same customs upon the peninsular of Somaliland which forms an indivisible geographic entity. As the representatives of the people, we ask the members of the Committee to insert in the trusteeship agreement for the Territory a provision specifically concerning the question of the unification, in the near future, of the artificially divided Somaliland. In particular we demand:

(i) The immediate removal of all restrictions of the free movement between the Territory and the other portions of Somaliland actually under foreign colonial rule, namely, British Somaliland, the northern frontier district of Kenya (also under the United Kingdom), Ethiopian Somaliland (Ogaden and other Somali provinces) and French Somaliland;

(ii) The free entrance of our Somali brothers into the Trust Territory of Somaliland.

Now we proceed to express our views in regard to the draft trusteeship agreement for Somaliland submitted by the Trusteeship Council. Article 14 of the draft deals with the vital question of the holding or alienation of rights over land or other natural resources. While extending our whole-hearted thanks to the representatives of the Philippines and of Iraq in the Council for their kind and thoughtful efforts to protect the vital interests of the people of Somaliland against alienation of land and other natural resources in their country, we wish to point out that the draft, in its present form, does not contain adequate protection against such alienation.

In fact the Administering Authority has the power to lease or grant concessions to non-indigenous persons or to companies or associations controlled by such persons the rights over land and over all the other natural resources in the Territory. The Administering Authority is even in a position to permit the acquisition by non-indigenous persons or by companies or associations controlled by such persons the rights over land in the Territory provided that a two-thirds majority of the members of the proposed territorial council (provided for in article 4 of the annex) consent to such acquisition. Article 4 of the annex states that the Administrator shall appoint the territorial council. Undoubtedly, the members of the said council will be chosen from among the Italians and other foreign residents in the Territory together with some hand-picked Somali stooges. Thus the Administering Authority will have little difficulty in carrying out its evil plans to alienate the land and other natural resources of our country during the ten years of Italian trusteeship.

May we remind the members of the Committee that this very question of land holding and ownership was the cause of recent rioting and bloodshed in Italy itself. Marching throughout Central and Southern Italy, thousands of jobless and landless Italians seized millions of acres of land owned by their more fortunate brothers. In spite of government intervention, this issue has not yet been settled. Once settled in Italian-controlled Somaliland, these jobless and land-hungry masses who resorted to violence in their own country, will certainly find several easier ways to seize the land and other vital properties of the poor and defenceless Somali people. With this in mind we believe we have every right to be much alarmed by the prospect of such a development in view of the absence of adequate protection against alienation of our land and other natural resources.

By ignoring the clearly expressed wishes and welfare of our people and restoring the hated Italian rule in our country, the General Assembly of the United Nations assumes the sole responsibility for effective protection against the alienation of land and other natural resources in our country and the safeguarding of all the vital interests of our people. As the representatives of the true interests of the Somali people, we urge the members of the Committee to delete from the draft trusteeship agreement the whole clause dealing with the acquisition of the rights over the land by non-indigenous persons or by companies or associations controlled by such persons.

Subject to the consent, in each case of a two-thirds majority of the members of the proposed territorial council, the Administering Authority may be empowered to lease to non-indigenous persons or to companies or associations controlled by such persons the rights over land for a period determined by law. The said period shall not, for any reason whatsoever and under any circumstances, exceed the ten years of Italian trusteeship. In cases involving the lease to non-indigenous persons or to companies or associations controlled by such persons of rights over agricultural land and those over any other natural resources in the Territory, the Administering Authority shall also seek in advance the advice and opinion of the Advisory Council. The Administering Authority shall include in its annual report to the Trusteeship Council a detailed account of such leases. We also urge the members of the Committee to strike from the draft the last paragraph of article 14, which exempts the municipal area of Mogadiscio from the restrictions against the acquisition of land imposed by other provisions of the same article. Mogadiscio is a part of the Territory and the capital of Somaliland.

Several United Nations organs have recognized the importance of including in the educational programmes of dependent countries the teaching of the Native language. In fact the General Assembly of the United Nations has recommended to the controlling Powers of non-self-governing areas and those of Trust Territories to include in their respective educational programmes, the teaching of the Native language. Accordingly, we do not understand why the members of the Trusteeship Council fail to include this important question in article 4 of the draft trusteeship agreement for Somaliland, setting forth the educational obligations of the Administering Authority.

The nationalist and progressive political parties in Somaliland—the Somali Youth League and the Hamar Youth Club—which we have the honour to represent here, are strongly in favour of introducing into the country the most advanced educational system of this modern age. Both parties recognize the necessity for a radical reform of the existing social, political, economic and cultural conditions. They advocate a speedy and well-planned social revolution having as principal object the improvement and raising of the standard of living of our people.

On the other hand, the parties stand for the preservation of our mother tongue as well as the traditional Islamic faith and culture of the Somali people. We feel obliged to urge the members of the Committee to insert in the agreement a provision under which the teaching of the Somali language will have an important role within the educational system in the Territory.

We sincerely hope that the demands we are submitting on behalf of the true interests and welfare of our people and country contained in this and subsequent memoranda be not ignored again by the members of the General Assembly of the United Nations. Indeed, we dare hope to see during this session a sincere effort by the august Assembly to repair the damage done during the last session when the Assembly took the unjust decision to restore the hated and oppressive Italian rule in our country.

We reserve the right to submit further demands concerning this vital question.

II

LETTER DATED 3 OCTOBER 1950 FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE SOMALI YOUTH LEAGUE TO THE SECRETARY-GENERAL

I would crave leave to refer to the memorandum regarding the future status of Somalia (a copy of which accompanies this letter) which on 5 April 1949 my colleague

Abdullahi Issa and I, attending Lake Success as the authorized representatives of the Somali people, submitted to you for presentation to, and consideration by, the First Committee of the General Assembly of the United Nations, for I have again been constituted the spokesman of the Somali people to make to your Assembly on their behalf an urgent representation to lead if possible a radical and complete change in the Administration of Somalia.

I would venture to explain that I myself have just completed a tour of many months duration in Somaliland, during which time I visited all parts of the country, and I have seen for myself, as doubtless the United Nations observers present in the country will also have seen, that practically all the evils of the former Italian Administration of Somalia, as mentioned in some detail in paragraphs 6 and 7 of our memorandum of April 1949, are now being practised by the "new" Italian Administration, which to a great extent consists of the same officials who wielded power, and abused their powers, under the Mussolini régime.

Having regard to the recrudescence in Somalia of these administrative malpractices, my countrymen in every quarter of the land urged me to lose no time in bringing this deplorable state of affairs before your august Assembly, with a view to the Italian Administration of Somalia being brought, as speedily as possible, to an end.

In our memorandum of April 1949 we indicated that it was not then our intention to make concrete suggestions regarding the application of trusteeship to the ex-Italian colonies, but we reserved the right to present suggestions for incorporation into any trusteeship plan for administering Somalia. It is now the wish of the Somali people that I should make on their behalf the following petition to the Assembly, namely, that the administration of Somalia should at once be transferred to, and vested in, Ethiopia, or alternatively Great Britain and Ethiopia jointly.

This change in administration, if effected, would unite the whole of Somaliland; it would bring into operation some degree of co-ordination in law procedure and education in Somalia, the Ogaden and British Somaliland. Such an administration would be accepted loyally by all Somalis, who, as a united people, would be prepared to co-operate in every way; it would, in effect, be a step towards bringing into operation the idea expressed to your Assembly on 25 September last by the British Foreign Secretary, the Rt. Hon. Ernest Bevin, who, when speaking of Korea, said "...there must no longer be South Koreans and North Koreans, but just Koreans, who must be encouraged to work together to rebuild their country with the advice and... support of the United Nations".¹⁹ These words apply with even greater force to the most undesirable and artificial division of Somaliland which now exists, namely, Somalia, the Ogaden, French Somaliland, and British Somaliland.

May I venture to hope that the Assembly will give full consideration to the petition of the Somali people as expressed in this letter.

MEMORANDUM ADDRESSED TO THE UNITED NATIONS BY THE SOMALI DELEGATION, CONCERNING THE FUTURE OF EX-ITALIAN SOMALILAND

Enclosed, herewith, we respectfully submit a brief memorandum regarding the future status of the former Italian Somaliland with the request that this memorandum be submitted to the Chairman of the First Committee of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

In connexion with this memorandum, we urge that the members of the First Committee give us the opportunity to make an oral statement in support of the memorandum and, if possible, to give us the status of observers to that Committee.

This request is based on the previous action taken by the First Committee when in the course of the discussions regarding Palestine during the second session of the General Assembly it granted consultative status to non-governmental organizations which represented the inhabitants of those territories concerned.

In view of the fact that the question regarding the disposition of the former Italian colonies gives to the United Nations General Assembly the difficult task of making territorial allocations, we are sure that the First Committee will want to be informed regarding the desires of the inhabitants most vitally concerned before making a final decision. We stand ready, therefore, as authorized representatives of the Somali Youth League, representing the overwhelming majority of the peoples of this Territory, to place ourselves at the disposal of the Committee, and we urge most strongly that this request be granted.

1. We, the lawful and duly authorized representatives of the Somali Youth League, representing the overwhelming majority of the Somalis, most respectfully submit this memorandum, supplementing previously-submitted documents, to the General Assembly of the United Nations and its appropriate sub-divisions, setting forth our position on the future of Somaliland, formerly held as an Italian colony.

2. Under the peace treaty, Italy has renounced all rights and titles to her former African colonies of which our country, Somalia, is one.

3. The Council of Foreign Ministers, failing to reach agreement in regard of the final disposal of these territories, submitted the matter to the General Assembly of the United Nations. Thus the Assembly is confronted with the responsibility of designating the Administering Authority and setting up the Trusteeship System for Somalia.

4. It is not our intention at this time to make concrete suggestions regarding the application of the Trusteeship System to these territories, but we are vitally concerned with respect to the designation of the Administering Authority. We reserve for the future the right to present concrete suggestions for incorporation into any trusteeship plan for administering these territories.

5. It is generally understood that some of the great Powers intend to support the unjust imperialist claims of the present Italian Government to re-administer our country in spite of the report of the Four Power Commission of Investigation which unequivocally states that in Somalia, apart from "an insignificant number", none has asked for the restoration of the Italian administration. It is thus quite clear that the Somalis do not wish to live again under Italian rule. Therefore, we must state with emphasis that the restoration of Italian administration under any form or guise, even as a trustee under the supervision of the United Nations, is totally unacceptable to our people.

6. We summarize briefly the main reasons for our opposition to the return of Italian rule :

(a) The Somalis, under Italian rule, were deprived of education and enlightenment; they were not entitled to any form of education during the fifty-year Italian régime;

(b) The Somalis were kept out of the economic field because Italian nationals monopolized all commerce and industry, leaving our people to become peons, gatekeepers, orderlies, interpreters, cooks, coolies, porters, boys, waiters, etc.;

(c) The Somalis were not allowed to form any association or political body; there was no freedom of speech and no freedom of action;

(d) The Somalis were treated like chattels in the social sphere;

(e) Italy is poor and she cannot finance her own country soundly, much less our country of Somalia; and

(f) The Somalis earnestly desire the unification of their country with the other Somali-inhabited territories, and by allowing Italy to return, they can never hope to achieve this greatest aim.

The above-mentioned points (a), (b), (c) and (d) have, during the past fifty years of Italian rule, left their odious mark upon us so that it is impossible for Somalis to believe that they can ever be treated in a better manner by the Italians.

7. In addition to this, the Administration has deprived the Somalis of fertile land in favour of Italian farmers and imposed forced labour, making the Somalis work for the Italians. This forced labour problem, better known in Somalia as colonia, is horrible and beyond description. To give you a rough idea of the barbarous and inhuman methods employed by the Administration, we quote hereafter extracts from page 60 of an official British publication of 1944 entitled The First to be Freed :

" This labour shortage, which at one time threatened to stop production altogether, was caused by the wholesale refusal of the Somalis to continue to work for the Italians. This was hardly surprising. For when the circumstances under which labour had been recruited were investigated, a situation was disclosed even less tolerable than the state of Mogadiscio jail. Under the 'colonia' system, men, women and children had been taken by force from remote places and condemned to an indefinite period of servitude on Italian farms. To quote from an official report : ' Rations were grossly inadequate both in quality and quantity, and pay varied from one to three lire a day. Bachelors were forced to marry women who had been born and bred on the estate. Punishment, inflicted by the resident on the ex-parte representations of the employer, was brutal and excessive. For a first offence of disobedience or indiscipline, fifty lashes with a hippopotamus-hide whip was a common award, and for a second offence the victim was strung up for several hours on a gallows, with his toes just clear of the ground, suspended by chains attached to wooden billets under his armpits, and with his hands handcuffed behind his back. It is not unnatural that the native labouring population regarded our coming as a deliverance from their Italian oppressors and that they resolutely and determinedly refused to return to work for them, in spite of our efforts to persuade them to do so.' They had had enough of slavery. "

8. The Somalis suffered enough of slavery, suppression and oppression under the Italian administration during and long before the Fascist régime. They will never forget the Tyranny practised by the Administration. To Somalis, Italy is Italy, and Italians are Italians, whether demo-Christian, fascist, communist, nazi, socialist, republican, liberal. To them there is no difference whatsoever between Mussolini and Signor de Gasperi; between Count Ciano and Count Sforza; and between Signor Terruzzi and Signor Brusasca.

9. Italy lays claim to a share in the administration of her former colonies on the basis of the securing of an overseas outlet for her surplus population. As everyone knows, Italian emigrants are now scattered all over the world. Millions are in the United States alone. Millions more are in Argentina, Brazil and other South American countries. Other millions reside in Great Britain, France and elsewhere in Europe. They are also in Africa, Asia and other parts of the world. These Italian emigrants live peacefully with the peoples of these countries and have their ordinary jobs as workers, traders, etc. None of them has ever dreamed of ruling or demanding the right to administer these countries to which they have migrated.

10. There is no reason why Italian residents in Somalia cannot remain and live peacefully with the inhabitants without again aspiring to rulership over the territory. This can be achieved if, and only if, they renounce their unjust imperialist claims and cease seeking to restore the Italian administration since the Somalis can never forget the records of the past Italian régime.

11. Besides the Italians, there are also other foreign elements in Somalia, the most important being Indians (Hindustani and Pakistani) and Arabs. The latter is the largest foreign community in Somalia as they actually number some 20,000. These immigrants have their ordinary jobs and none of them lays claim to sovereignty over the country.

12. Among the nations supporting the unjust imperialist claims of Italy some are rich, both in wealth and land. If they really wish—with good and sincere intention—to solve the problem of the Italian surplus population, they would do far better to let down the bars and permit a sufficient number of Italian immigrants into these prosperous lands rather than awarding to bankrupt Italy the infertile and desert lands of East Africa, where, because of former Italian oppression, emigrants from that land would not be welcome.

13. In addition to the problem of the Italian surplus, the new Government of Italy has repeatedly sought opportunity to send back to Africa some thousands of refugees from the former Italian colonies. Concluding its mission, the Four Power Commission of Investigation visited Italy and interviewed representatives of these refugees. These were avowed fascists who had poured into Africa during and immediately after the fascist conquest of Abyssinia. They are aptly and accurately described in the following excerpt from page 12 of The First to be Freed.

“ In Somalia, too, the conditions found were similar in the main, though different in detail. True, Mogadishu had never suffered from the elephantiasis that had overtaken Asmara. True, the Italian population of the colony was only one-tenth of that of Eritrea; but they were more violently fascist, incorrigibly corrupt, and cordially hated by the Somali, who is difficult to deal with even at his friendliest.”

14. May we call your attention to the fact that the United Nations Charter, which embodies the principles of the Atlantic Charter, upholds the right of self-determination. In Article 76 of the Charter, setting forth the objectives of the Trusteeship System, such phrases as “freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned”, appear.

15. If against our wishes the First Committee and the General Assembly should decide to return Somalia to Italy, are we to assume that the Italian officials who are so bitterly hated by our people there are to be returned with the benediction of the United Nations? In such case, how can you expect us to trust and have faith in the United Nations?

16. In concluding our memorandum, we humbly and respectfully beg the Assembly to study carefully the contents of all that we have submitted and what we are going to submit.

17. Once again we stress that the Somalis do not desire and will not accept the restoration, in their country, of Italian administration under any form or guise, even as a trustee under supervision of the United Nations.

18. May we draw the attention of the honourable members of the august Assembly to the fact that today they are the supreme judges of the fate of our country and its people. We wish to see these honourable members give more consideration and weight to the desires and welfare of the inhabitants. Furthermore, we trust that this august Assembly will not judge this issue on the basis of self-interest whether for political, religious or other reasons and will act as a neutral and impartial judge.

19. We faithfully hope that the august Assembly will carefully consider our just and legitimate demands expressed in this and other memoranda submitted.

Memorandum submitted by the Conferenza della Somalia

[Original text: English]
[10 November 1950]

Note by the Secretariat: In accordance with a decision taken by the Fourth Committee at its 174th meeting, on 10 November 1950, the Secretary-General has the honour to circulate herewith to the members of the Committee a memorandum submitted in October 1950 to the General Assembly of the United Nations by the Conferenza della Somalia.

MEMORANDUM

We, the undersigned exponents of Conferenza della Somalia, which comprises eight different parties representing the great majority of Somali people, since they number over 670,000 adherents, are these days anxiously looking upon you, representatives of all civilized nations of the world, and pray the almighty God to illuminate your minds and your hearts when you are about to take definitive decisions in respect of our country. With us are all those other Somalis, who, even though not attached to any political party, love their country, and are therefore well aware of the importance of the decisions you are going to take. And with us are also many who, until quite recently, were our opponents, and, perceiving that they were going to cover themselves with ridicule, gave up their old programme of opposition to Italy and, drawn by the evidence of facts, abandoned hatred and rancour. All together we thank the almighty God and you, and we ask, on behalf of the whole of our people, that the Italian Administration, through you definitive ratification of the Trusteeship Agreement, be enabled to carry on the work, already successfully commenced, to lead our people to prosperity and independence.

Gentlemen of the United Nations, when last April, soon after the transfer of powers from British to Italian administration, the inhabitants of lower and upper Juba districts (Bardera, Baidoa, Kismayu, Margherita) unanimously asked to be delivered from the few Somali Youth League scoundrels who intended to continue to tyrannize them from their control places, wrongfully held until then, the Italian Administration defended and protected those same scoundrels, although they were opponents, and only punished some of them, caught with weapons in their hands and intent to make mischief.

We wondered for a while if that was what was meant by "democracy", i.e. the smothering of a just and human resentment felt by a mass of people for a group of criminals, who were, unfortunately, our brothers. But later on we learnt from the Italian Administration the clear lesson on freedom, which is often rather hard. And better still the lesson was learnt by our people, so that, in his recent visit paid to the same people, H. E. the Administrator saw around him such huge crowds and caused the raising of such enthusiasm that we, though being our people's spiritual chiefs, felt small and almost lost, and thought that all Somali headmen should never forget the maxim: "Actions are indeed the best propaganda". In fact, during these first six months of activity, the Italian Administration not only ensured peace and respect for all inhabitants, irrespective of race or political creed, but did a lot more in addition, thus proving that we were right when, mindful of the good always done by Italy to this country, we were confident of the successful result of the new job which she declared to be willing to tackle, as charged by all civilized nations of the world.

Authority present in the farthest localities of the Territory

The first thing that Italy did on her return to Somalia was the creation of five new districts (Obbia, Itala, Balad, Candala, Eil) to the great advantage of the population, who, for the first time, feel that they are efficaciously protected in their work, without having to travel hundreds of kilometres to do their business, or to ask for justice. The districts, which were only 22, have so been increased to 27.

Medical assistance extended up-country

Previously, medical assistance was limited to Mogadiscio, owing to scarcity of personnel and of medical equipment. Now, thanks to the arrival from Italy of new personnel and plenty of medical equipment, not only the existing districts, but even the new ones are supplied with a medical doctor, a dressing station and a medical store.

Somalis at last able to go to school

In addition to public health, the Italian Administration pays a serious attention to public education. In the short time of six months, the formerly existing 69 primary classes have been increased to over 200, separate for grown-up people, boys and girls. Thus, the number of school people in the new scholastic year leapt from 1,500 to over 13,000. There is no inhabited centre of any importance without its primary school. The secondary school, of Somali type, in Mogadiscio, has been potentiated; a school for artisanship has been created, and in November next a school for political preparation will be opened, which will enable, in three years' time, a group of young Somalis, particularly capable and willing, to follow a university course in Italy or Egypt.

Somalis already participate in the administration of the country

In July last, with the creation of "District Councils" (Consigli di Residenza) headmen, notables and the most prominent exponents of political parties were asked in all districts to co-operate, with their Councils, in the political and administrative activity of the authorities. These District Councils were instituted in all centres, and asked, first of all, to express their opinion on the territorial council, to be instituted in accordance with the provisions of article 4 of the declaration of constitutional principles annexed to the trusteeship agreement.²⁰ A few days ago, on the occasion of the feast of Arafa, H. E. the Administrator announced that the territorial council shall soon be inaugurated, and that its object, in addition to advise, will be to prepare the greatest possible number of Somalis, of all races and parties for the responsibility of self-government. H. E. the Administrator also expressed his intention of creating Municipalities in all districts.

Somalis employed in the Administration

Civil employees in the Administration are almost all Somalis (approximately 4,000 out of a total number of 4,500), but unfortunately the Italian Administration has been, up to the present, unwilling to take into serious consideration our complaints on this subject, based upon the fact that the greatest part of these Somalis had been recruited by the British Administration among the members of the Somali Youth League to replace as many philo-Italian elements, forcibly dismissed soon after occupation. Either civil servants must belong to no political party, or we request that the Conferenza be represented in the Administration with a number of employees in proportion to the number of its adherents.

Somalis form the strength of military and police forces

The Italian Administration has completed the recruitment of three Somali battalions, and started repatriation of Italian military forces. Two more battalions are being recruited. These enlistments are scrupulously proportioned to the various ethnical groups, and without discriminating between parties, which is even going too far, as it might happen that some evil-minded members of the diminutive opposition be tempted to use the weapons supplied by the Administration to the Somali people for other purposes than to protect peace and ensure security. The Somali police forces, apart from some few dismissals due to indiscipline or laziness, are exactly as they were at the time of the change of administration. Warrant officers are mostly Somalis; Italian officers treat their Somali soldiers with a gentlemanly and almost familiar tact, which is normal in all relations between Italian authorities and personnel and Native people.

Somalis participate in the administration of justice

Whereas the British Administration had diminished the competence of Kadis in penal matters, the Italian Administration has restored their competence for crimes entailing punishment up to 12 years' imprisonment. More serious crimes are dealt with by the Court of Assizes, whose President is an Italian judge assisted also by Somali assessors. In civil and commercial matters Kadis are competent to pass judgment in all disputes between Mohammedans. H. E. the Administrator intervenes with his faculty of revision, which he exercises in public meetings, to cancel or sanction Kadis' judgments against which one of the parties appealed.

Brawls and other crimes considerably diminished

With the return of the Italian Administration it would almost seem that tempers excited by war uncertainties and disorders settled down in appeasement. Prisons have been almost entirely emptied as a result of two acts of mercy ordered by H. E. the Administrator in June and July last. On the District Commissioners' advice, the tribes are settling in solemn Scir of Chiefs all frictions of the past ten years. This pacification work is made easier thanks to the many road and building works commenced by the Administration, which considerably reduced unemployment. In many localities reasons of quarrels between tribes have been eliminated by repairing old wells or digging new ones, lack of which is the main plague of this country. It will now be necessary to eliminate the cause of incidents that occur along the border line in the Modugh Province, by suppressing the provisional administrative border line and returning to the old frontier with Ethiopia as existing in 1935, so that all Somali people may return under the rule of a single authority, which should regulate their life impartially and according to rights, particularly in respect of the use of grazing grounds and watering places. It is, after all, a matter of justice, and the Somali people trust that it will be settled without delay, in accordance with human and moral principles which regulate all United Nations actions.

First initiatives in favour of Somalis in the agricultural and zootechnical fields

Barely two months after the return of Italians the agricultural centre of Alessandra resumed its activity, after a decade of neglect. An organization is being created around this centre for free distribution of fruit plants and selected seeds, as well as for the campaign against agriculture parasites. In Baidoa a new agricultural centre was commenced this month for the Somali dry-farming. Also this month will be commenced the works to form the first group of irrigated farms on the middle Juba. In the meantime four veterinary caravans travel through the country for immunization of livestock against cattle diseases, and the Administration has started, in the locality Hortocamo, the installation of an experimental cattle farm, which will make it possible to develop, in future, industrial initiatives for the utilization of meat and milk.

Islamic religion being encouraged

After ten years the Somali people have at last been offered the opportunity to go on pilgrimage to Mecca, encouraged by the assistance on the spot that the Italian ²⁰ See Official Records of the General Assembly, Fifth Session, Supplement No. 10.

Administration organized through the Italian Legation at Gedda. The Administration undertook to pay travel expenses both ways for the most prominent personalities of the Territory, and 50 of our brothers availed themselves of the privilege.

Somalia to the Somalis

The Italian Administration shows continually that all its activities are conformed to the principle: "Somalia to the Somalis". In the field of immigration restrictive rulings have been issued, in order to protect Somali labour from foreign competition, in the fields of agriculture, industry and commerce. We are certain that, after the definitive approval of the trusteeship agreement, Italy will stimulate the afflux to Somalia of new capital and new technicians and specialized workmen, of whom there is great need in this country.

Representatives of the United Nations, peace has come back in this land. This may be testified by the United Nations Advisory Council, whom you, very benevolently, teamed with Italy in this difficult path leading to our national constitution.

In the name and on behalf of all Somali people, from this far away land we send you our hearty thanks, and we wish you the best success in your work, in the interest of the world's peace and civilization.

Memorandum of 18 October 1950 submitted to the United Nations by the representatives of the Somali Youth League and the Hamar Youth Club

[Original text: English]
[15 November 1950]

Note by the Secretariat: In accordance with a decision taken by the Fourth Committee at its 174th meeting, on 10 November 1950, the Secretary-General has the honour to circulate herewith to members of the Committee a memorandum submitted by the representatives of the Somali Youth League and the Hamar Youth Club on 18 October 1950.

LETTER DATED 18 OCTOBER 1950 FROM REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SOMALI YOUTH LEAGUE AND THE HAMAR YOUTH CLUB TO THE SECRETARY-GENERAL

New York,

We respectfully submit the enclosed memorandum regarding the Trust Territory of Somaliland with the request that the same be submitted to the Chairman of the Fourth Committee of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

As the lawful and duly authorized representatives of the Somali Youth League and the Hamar Youth Club, representing the overwhelming majority of the Somalis, we formally request the right to participate in the forthcoming debate on the draft trusteeship agreement for Somaliland²¹ by the Fourth Committee. Recognizing the fact that the said draft deals with a question involving the vital interests of our country and people, we strongly urge the members of the Fourth Committee to consider carefully this legitimate request of ours.

²¹ Ibid.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING THE TRUST TERRITORY OF SOMALILAND

On 19 September 1950, we submitted through the Secretary-General of the United Nations a memorandum²² regarding the Trust Territory of Somaliland. We submit this as a supplement to that memorandum.

In that earlier memorandum, we urged the members of the Committee to insert in the trusteeship agreement for the Territory a provision specifically concerning the unification, in the near future, of the artificially divided Somaliland whose indigenous inhabitants are one in race and language, profess the same Islamic faith and culture and live by the same customs upon the peninsula of Somaliland, which forms an indivisible geographic entity. In particular we asked :

(i) That all restrictions of the free movement between the Territory and the other portions of Somaliland actually under foreign colonial rule, namely, British Somaliland, the northern frontier district of Kenya (also under the United Kingdom), Ethiopian Somaliland (Ogaden and other Somali provinces) and French Somaliland, be removed immediately; and

(ii) That our Somali brothers from the above territories and those from overseas be granted free entrance into the Trust Territory of Somaliland.

Also in that memorandum we urged the members of the Committee to insert in the trusteeship agreement for Somaliland an adequate protection against the menace of foreign immigration in general and that of large-scale Italian immigration in particular. Without such essential protection, the whole trusteeship agreement for the Territory is worthless in that it fails to safeguard the most vital interests of the Somali people.

We further pointed out that the lack of any protection in the draft trusteeship agreement submitted by the Trusteeship Council will facilitate the evil purposes of Italy to use the Territory as the greatly desired outlet for the surplus and jobless Italian population. Mass immigration of these surplus and jobless Italians means to the Somalis the alienation of our fertile land and our other natural resources; the restoration of the familiar Italian monopolies in trade and business; and the replacement of those Somalis at present holding secondary positions in the administration of the Territory by the newly-arrived Italian elements. In this connexion we feel obliged to quote here the conclusions reached by Ralph Chapman, a correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune, after visiting the Territory. In an article published in that newspaper on 10 July 1950, Mr. Chapman asserted :

“ This correspondent has just completed a tour of Italy's one-time African empire—Somaliland, Ethiopia and Eritrea. On the basis of observation and exhaustive discussion with a cross-section of the various populations, both native and foreign, these broad conclusions may be drawn :

“ 1. The Italian administration in Somaliland, operating under a draft trusteeship agreement which has still to be ratified by the United Nations, are already working furiously to consolidate their position there. It is obvious that Italy hopes to gain such an economic hold on the country in ten years that it will make little difference whether or not Somaliland then becomes politically independent in name... ”

We also pointed out that article 14 of the draft trusteeship agreement, which deals with the vital question of alienation of rights over land and other natural resources in our country, fails to provide adequate protection against such alienation by Italians and other foreign residents. In particular we urged the Committee :

(i) To delete from article 14 of the draft the whole clause dealing with the acquisition of rights over land by non-indigenous persons or by companies or associations controlled by such persons;

(ii) To limit the lease of rights over land and other natural resources in the Territory to non-indigenous persons or to companies or associations controlled by such persons for a period not exceeding the ten years of Italian trusteeship. Such lease shall be subject to the consent, in each case, of a two-thirds majority of the members of the territorial council, provided for in article 4 of the annex.²³ In cases involving the lease to non-indigenous persons or to companies or associations controlled by such persons of rights over agricultural areas and that over all other natural resources, the Administering Authority shall also request in advance the advice of the Advisory Council; and

(iii) To strike from the draft the last paragraph of article 14 which exempts the municipal area of Mogadiscio, the capital of Somaliland, from the restrictions against the acquisition of land imposed by other provisions of the same article 14.

Further we demand :

(i) That a United Nations commission be appointed to investigate the whole question of land concessions held by Italians and other aliens in Somaliland;

(ii) That a competent international court be set up which shall hear and investigate cases dealing with private rights in relation to land and other natural resources in the Territory owned by non-Somalis.

The conclusion reached by the American reporter Ralph Chapman, one of the very few foreign correspondents ever admitted into Somaliland, shows clearly how the Italians “ are already working furiously to consolidate their position there ” in order “ to gain such an economic hold on the country in ten years that it will make little difference whether or not Somaliland then becomes politically independent in name ”. That Rome dreams of establishing firm control over the entire economic structure of our beloved Motherland has been demonstrated. This impending danger compels us to plead for immediate and effective protection against the evil and imperialistic designs of the new Italy to place our country and people under a perpetual economic slavery.

We strongly urge the Committee to insert in the trusteeship agreement for Somaliland adequate protection against economic exploitation in general and in particular against alienation by Italians or other foreigners residing in the Territory of rights over land and other natural resources in our country. To understand and fully appreciate this demand, it is necessary that the members of the Committee take into consideration the views we are expressing on behalf of the true interests and welfare of the Somali people.

In our memorandum of September 19, we urged the Committee to insert in the agreement a provision under which the Native tongue, the Somali language, would play an important role within the system of public education in the Territory. We also demand :

²³ See annex to the draft trusteeship agreement.

(i) That an effective and sound system of public education be provided for the indigenous inhabitants of the Territory (children and adults of both sexes alike). Besides the Koranic, this shall include complete secular education and the teaching of the vernacular tongue;

(ii) That free elementary, secondary, technical and vocational schools be established immediately in all centres and in the principal rural villages;

(iii) That institutions for the training of teachers be established immediately;

(iv) That the training of Somali medical personnel be given special consideration;

(v) That universities be established in Somaliland at the earliest possible time;

(vi) That, pending the establishment of such universities, an adequate number of qualified students from among the indigenous population receive university or professional education outside the Territory every year by means of scholarships granted by the Administration. These students shall not be confined to the metropolitan area of the Administering Authority but be permitted to attend universities or professional institutions in the highly advanced countries throughout the world;

(vii) That illiteracy be eradicated through mass education within the shortest possible time;

(viii) That no Catholic missionaries or organizations be appointed to head, direct or guide the system of public education, as was the case during the days of Italy's colonial régime in Somaliland. Likewise, we object to the appointment of any other religious missionary or organization as the head of the system of public education in the Territory; and

(ix) That the indigenous inhabitants be granted the right to participate in the formulation of educational policies and in the administration of education in their own country.

Under the obligations imposed by article 3 of the draft trusteeship agreement for Somaliland, the Administering Authority "undertakes to administer the Territory in accordance with the provisions of the Charter of the United Nations relating to the International Trusteeship System as set out in Chapters XII and XIII thereof, the relevant parts of the resolution 289 (IV) of 21 November 1949 of the General Assembly, and this Agreement (which includes an annex containing a Declaration of Constitutional Principles), with a view to making the independence of the Territory effective at the end of ten years from the date of the approval of this Agreement by the General Assembly."

However, the practical policy carried out by the Italian Administration since its restoration in Somaliland more than six months ago ignores these provisions. To support this statement of ours, we invite the members of the Committee to observe the composition of the Administration re-established in Somaliland. The former rulers of Somaliland and other African colonies under the fascist régime have been re-appointed. The Italian Government thus has shown that its intentions are far from the academic provisions set forth in the draft trusteeship agreement for the Territory.

With the exception of the Administrator and a few others, the members of the Italian Administration—particularly the top-ranking officials—are the staff of the Ministero africa italiana (Ministry for Colonial Affairs). The Government at Rome even attempted to appoint General Nasi, a former fascist Governor of Harar and other provinces in Ethiopia, as Administrator for Somaliland. Pending the ratification of the trusteeship agreement, Rome has apparently dropped this idea. Therefore, it is quite possible that sooner or later our country will, once again, have as Administrator a former fascist ruler or a high-ranking officer of the Ministry for Colonial Affairs such as General Nasi, Marshal Graziani, Dr. Cerulli, Signor Terruzzi and others.

The fascist-organized Ministero africa italiana (literally meaning "Ministry of Italian Africa") is still active within the present cabinet of Premier De Gasperi. The Ministero africa italiana was created to meet the demands of the colonial and expansionist policy of Mussolini. The continuation of such a ministry indicates clearly that the new Italy, although it has renounced all rights and titles to its former African colonies by signing the peace treaty with the Allies, is determined to follow the same colonial and expansionist policy of fascist Italy.

The Italian Administration restored in Somaliland is composed mainly of the staff from the Ministry for Colonial Affairs. Undoubtedly, the basic policy of such an administration will pursue the objectives for which the Ministero africa italiana was created. Instead of fostering the development of progressive political institutions, the Administration has not hesitated openly to support reactionary groups headed by corrupt and ignorant elements. Instead of promoting the development of the indigenous inhabitants for independence, the Administration has carried out a policy of "divide and rule" by instigating, through corrupt elements, tribal fighting throughout the Territory and thus creating a general situation of bloodshed, chaos and unrest. Instead of giving to the indigenous inhabitants a progressively increasing participation in the various organs of government, the Administration has removed numerous Somalis from the secondary positions they held under the past British Military Administration, replacing them with Italians.

The set-up of the Italian Administration in Somaliland is identical with that during the fascist régime. The old system of maresciallo, residente, commissario, gogle, capo, sottocapo, sagalo, jusbasci, bulukbashi, muntaz, etc., has been restored. In addition, the Administration supports strongly the tribal and other primitive feudal systems. This is in line with the well-known policy of colonial Powers to establish indirect rule through corrupt and ignorant tribal chiefs while suppressing progressive movements whose main aim is to abolish tribalism, nomadism and all forms of primitive systems. Under a separate covering we intend to submit shortly details of the above-mentioned as well as many other violations committed by the Italian Administration in Somaliland; all of which has taken place before the General Assembly has acted upon the trusteeship agreement for the Territory.

Under the provision in paragraph 2, article 3 of the draft trusteeship agreement, the Administering Authoity is obligated to " promote the economic advancement and self-sufficiency of the inhabitants, and to this end shall regulate the use of natural resources; encourage the development of fisheries, agriculture, trade and industries; protect the inhabitants against the loss of their lands and resources; and improve the means of transportation and communication. "

To achieve successfully the provisions of this section and thus realize the genuine economic advancement of the indigenous inhabitants in the Territory, we demand :

(i) That the establishment of Somali national co-operative societies for commercial, agricultural, fishery and industrial enterprises be encouraged and assisted by the Administration;

(ii) That credit and other financial facilities be provided to Somali trading companies or individuals by the Administration;

(iii) That a five or ten-year agricultural development programme to improve the economic condition and the general welfare of the Somali people be established. The agricultural people among the indigenous inhabitants of our country urgently need :

(a) Irrigation projects;

(b) Training of Native agricultural technicians and workers;

(c) Rural health and welfare centres;

(d) Modern agricultural machinery; and

(e) Other forms of assistance for the use of modern equipment, the provision of seeds and fertilizers, and the general improvement of crops and the method of work.

(iv) That similar development programmes for industry, commerce and fishery be established in the Territory; and

(v) That effective veterinary service be established at the earliest possible date. Cattle-raising being one of the principal pillars of Somaliland's economic structure, such an effective veterinary service is, therefore, essential. In this connexion, we also demand :

(a) That sufficient Native elements be trained as veterinary experts;

(b) That modern systems of cattle-breeding be introduced in the Territory; and

(c) That adequate deep-water wells and rain-water reservoirs be provided for the pastoral people inhabiting the dry areas of the country.

We strongly urge the Committee to include in the trusteeship agreement for the Territory the demands just outlined as well as any other points considered necessary to promote the genuine economic advancement of the indigenous population of Somaliland.

Under the provision in paragraph 3, article 3 of the draft, the Administering Authority is required to " promote the social advancement of the inhabitants, and to this end shall protect the rights and fundamental freedoms of all elements of the population without discrimination; protect and improve the health of the inhabitants by the development of adequate health and hospital services for all sections of the population; control the traffic in arms and ammunition, opium and other dangerous drugs, alcohol and other spirituous liquors; prohibit all forms of slavery, slave trade and child marriage; apply existing international conventions concerning prostitution; prohibit all forms of forced or compulsory labour, except for essential public works and services, and then only in time of public emergency with adequate remuneration and adequate protection of the welfare of the workers; and institute such other regulations as may be necessary to protect the inhabitants against any social abuses. "

With the rather dubious phrase, " except for essential public works and services ", appearing in the forced or compulsory labour clause, Italy has the chance to re-introduce in our country the notorious forced labour. It will not be too difficult for Rome to justify such action as necessary for " essential public works and services ".

The forced labour system, better known in Somaliland as colonia, was horrible and beyond description. To give you a rough idea of the barbarous and inhuman methods employed by the Italians, we are compelled to quote once again extracts from page 60 of the official British pamphlet, The First to be Freed, published in 1944 :

" This labour shortage, which at one time threatened to stop production altogether, was caused by the wholesale refusal of the Somalis to continue to work for the Italians. This was hardly surprising. For when the circumstances under which labour had been recruited were investigated, a situation was disclosed even less tolerable than the state of Mogadiscio jail. Under the ' colonia ' system, men, women and children had been taken by force from remote places and condemned to an indefinite period of servitude on Italian farms. To quote from an official report : ' Rations were grossly inadequate both in quality and quantity, and pay varied from one to three lire a day. Bachelors were forced to marry women who had been born and bred on the estate. Punishment, inflicted by the resident on the ex parte representations of the employer, was brutal and excessive. For a first offence of disobedience or indiscipline, fifty lashes with a hippopotamus-hide whip was a common award, and for a second offence the victim was strung up for several hours on a gallows, with his toes just clear of the ground, suspended by chains attached to wooden billets under his armpits, and with his hands handcuffed behind his back. It is not unnatural that the native labouring population regarded our coming as a deliverance from their Italian oppressors and that they resolutely and determinedly refused to return to work for them, in spite of our efforts to persuade them to do so. ' They had had enough of slavery. "

In addition, our people have been the victims of several other forced or compulsory labour schemes practised by the past Italian Administration. One form of this was the use of Native compulsory labour for the construction of public buildings, roads, bridges and other public works. Sometimes, Native compulsory labour was even used for private projects. The construction of the Strada Imperiale (the highway from Mogadiscio-Villaggio-Beletwen to Addis Ababa), the Genale Dum, and the privately-owned dum of Villaggio are examples of such compulsory labour.

Under the dreadful colonia system as well as several other brutal methods of tyranny, the Somalis have suffered enough of slavery, suppression and oppression during the fifty long years of Italian rule. By reading the brief extracts from the official British records as quoted above, the members of the Committee will certainly understand why we are greatly concerned about the provision of forced or compulsory labour.

The draft trusteeship agreement, in its present form, does not contain adequate protection of our people against the colonia system and forced or compulsory labour in general. As the true representatives of Somaliland and the Somalis, we demand that adequate protection of our people against all forms of forced or compulsory labour be included in the trusteeship agreement for the Territory. In particular we demand the deletion of the ambiguous phrase in the forced or compulsory labour clause (paragraph 3, article 3 of the draft trusteeship agreement) which reads "except for essential public works and services," and the following words reading "and then only in time of emergency with adequate remuneration and adequate protection of the welfare of the workers".

The past Italian administration in Somaliland also practised discrimination on grounds of colour and religion. These racial discriminations were continued under the temporary British Military Administration in Somaliland, though to a lesser extent.

Traces of these discriminatory practices continue to exist in the Territory. Accordingly, we demand that strong protection of our people against discriminations in general and on racial grounds in particular be included in the trusteeship agreement for Somaliland. In this connexion we also demand :

(i) That adequate protection of the indigenous inhabitants against all other social abuses be included in the agreement;

(ii) That there shall be no legislation in force in the Territory which puts the Somalis at a disadvantage on racial grounds, or which gives a non-Somali a superior advantage by virtue of racial status; and

(iii) That the non-religious courts, including the high courts, established in Somaliland shall have jurisdiction over all "aliens" resident in the Territory as it has over the Somalis.

We are unable to describe the present deplorable conditions under which our people live. The Somalis in the urban centres live in unhealthy slums of dirty small huts and cottages, while those in the rural areas live in even worse conditions. The living conditions of the nomad Somali tribes in the interior are the worst of all.

To promote successfully the genuine social advancement of the indigenous inhabitants in Somaliland, we urge the Committee to include in the trusteeship agreement for the Territory provisions under which the Administering Authority shall be obliged to :

(i) Raise the standard of living of our people within the shortest possible time;

(ii) Provide within the earliest possible time adequate decent living quarters for the urban Somalis as well as those in the rural villages; and

(iii) Encourage and assist the gradual abolition of nomadism and the subsequent settlement of the nomadic tribes in the Territory. To achieve this, the Administration shall provide permanent decent living quarters to the nomadic Somali tribes.

Articles 8, 9, 10 and 11 of the draft trusteeship agreement for Somaliland treat the functions, diplomatic privileges, immunities, etc., of the members of the Advisory Council for the Territory and their staff. However, the impotence of the said Council is apparent in any or all of the articles in the draft and the annex attached thereto. To avoid misunderstanding, we wish to make it quite clear that we are not trying to act as spokesmen for the Council whose members, namely, Colombia, Egypt, and the Philippines, are Member States of this world organization. We do not intend to take the position of being more royalist than the king. Our only concern is to point out that, in the view of the politically-minded elements among our people, the Council has thus far failed to exercise effective United Nations supervision over the Italian Administration in Somaliland. In fact, the Council, so far, has done practically nothing to counter the numerous violations already committed by the provisional Italian Administration in the Territory. The Advisory Council was even unable to make on-the-spot investigations to ascertain the real causes of the recent serious riots in the Upper Juba, Mudugh, Benadir and Lower Juba provinces. These disturbances took place after the restoration of the Italian administration in Somaliland and were spread throughout the Territory. Both the casualties and the damages of these riots were very heavy.

Further, we point out that each member of the Advisory Council is represented by a single delegate with neither an alternate nor an adviser. In the absence of one or more delegates there are no representatives to replace them on the three-member Council. Representatives present in the Territory together with a relatively small staff from the Secretariat of the United Nations are confined in Mogadiscio, the capital of Somaliland. These representatives and the members of the Secretariat know nothing of what is happening in the rest of the Territory. The only official source through which they receive information is that of the Italian Administration, the very same Administration which the United Nations is supposed to supervise.

What we expect is an Advisory Council with real powers; a Council with at least three or more representatives and their alternates and advisers from each Member; in short, an effective Council with sufficient representatives and staff from the Secretariat of the United Nations and ready to fulfil its heavy duties over the whole Territory of Somaliland and not just in the town of Mogadiscio. The least we can expect is that representatives of the Advisory Council be stationed permanently in every province of the country. This will enable the Council to get direct information instead of relying upon the Administering Authority for essential information.

Under the provision in article 13 of the draft trusteeship agreement, the Administering Authority is required to enable the Territory to co-operate with the specialized agencies referred to in Article 57 of the United Nations Charter. The wonderful works already achieved by most of the specialized agencies in the past few years need no explanation. The members of the Committee are undoubtedly aware of the ambitious plans of the said agencies to develop most of the world's under-developed areas. As one of these under-developed countries, Somaliland needs more than any other nation technical, financial and humanitarian assistance from these agencies.

Any or all future development programmes in the Territory will certainly be speeded if provisions for direct participation of the specialized agencies are included in the trusteeship agreement for Somaliland. Accordingly, we demand that the Committee include in the agreement the specific role of each of the said agencies. In particular we demand that a major role be reserved to the following important specialized agencies operating in their respective fields as explained hereunder :

(i) The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, for cultural advancement and all matters pertaining to education in general;

(ii) The International Labour Organisation, for organizing trade unions and all matters pertaining to labour in general;

(iii) The World Health Organization, for all matters pertaining to health, including anti-tuberculosis, anti-malaria and anti-syphilis campaigns; and

(iv) The Food and Agriculture Organization, for all matters pertaining to agriculture in general and to irrigation projects in particular.

During the debate on the trusteeship agreement for Somaliland, the Committee should consider the roles of the forthcoming United Nations programmes for technical assistance to the under-developed countries, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund and all other specialized or international agencies capable of rendering some contribution to the future development and progress of the Territory.

On this occasion we wish to emphasize that our country urgently needs the formation of trade unions. Organized labour movements do not exist in Somaliland and international labour conventions and regulations are completely unknown. The present labour conditions in the Territory are extremely bad. Therefore, it is quite clear that direct participation of the International Labour Organisation to assist in organizing trade unions in our country is needed most.

Under the provision of article 4 of the annex to the draft trusteeship agreement for Somaliland, the Administrator has the absolute power to appoint members of the proposed territorial council. The Italian Administration will undoubtedly do its best to limit to a very small number the representation of the progressive political parties which have opposed strongly the restoration of Italian rule in Somaliland and that of individuals associated with these nationalist movements. It is quite possible that the Administration will refuse to recognize such parties and individuals. Of one thing we are certain : the overwhelming majority of the Italian-appointed Council will be composed of hand-picked Somali stooges, ignorant tribal chiefs of pro-Administration tendency, and Italian and other foreign residents in the Territory.

As representatives of the people, we urge the Committee to include in the trusteeship agreement for Somaliland provisions for the early formation of a duly-elected Somali legislative assembly. Pending the formation of such a legislative body, the functions of the proposed territorial council should be considered provisional. In connexion with this council, we demand :

(i) That the territorial council be large enough to include a cross-section representation of the indigenous inhabitants of the Territory. This will require a minimum of 150 representatives from every district or province of the country;

(ii) That adequate representation in the council be granted to the progressive political parties in Somaliland;

(iii) That the said council be formed on the basis of district, regional or provincial representation rather than that of tribal or other primitive feudal systems. Towns, principal rural villages and major pastoral centres throughout the country should have sufficient representation in the council;

(iv) That the members of the council should be selected from among the politically conscious and the intelligentsia sections of the indigenous inhabitants of the Territory. Moreover, these members should be persons able and willing to promote first and foremost the interests of Somaliland and the Somalis; and

(v) That wider legislative authority be given to the territorial council in Somaliland. From article 4 of the annex to the draft trusteeship agreement for the Territory, one can easily understand that the proposed council is nothing more than a mere consultative body to the Administrator.

We strongly urge the members of the Committee to consider carefully the following important demands of ours :

(i) That the word " Somali " be substituted for the oft-repeated words of the draft trusteeship agreement, " inhabitants of the Territory " ;

(ii) That during the trusteeship period, Italians and other aliens residing in the Territory be denied citizenship of Somaliland, but that full rights of the minorities be incorporated in the agreement, as has been done in the case of Libya and is proposed for Eritrea, both territories having strong Italian minorities; and

(iii) That the laws framed by the past Italian Administration during fascist and pre-fascist régimes, now in force in the Territory, be repealed immediately.

We sincerely hope that the members of the General Assembly of the United Nations will not disregard again the legitimate demands we are expressing on behalf of the true interests and welfare of our people and country. This time we dare hope to obtain the longdesired justice for the oppressed people of Somaliland.

We reserve the right to submit further demands concerning the vital question of approving the draft trusteeship agreement for our country.

Memorandum of 9 November 1950 submitted to the United Nations by the representatives of the Somali Youth League and the Hamar Youth Club

[Original text : English]
[15 November 1950]

mittee a memorandum submitted by the representatives of the Somali Youth League and the Hamar Youth Club on 9 November 1950.

LETTER DATED 9 NOVEMBER 1950 FROM REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SOMALI YOUTH LEAGUE AND THE HAMAR YOUTH CLUB TO THE SECRETARY-GENERAL

New York,

As the lawful representatives of the Somali Youth League and the Hamar Youth Club, representing the overwhelming majority of the Somali people, we respectfully submit the enclosed memorandum regarding the Trust Territory of Somaliland. We kindly request you to submit the same to the Chairman of the Fourth Committee of the United Nations General Assembly.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING THE TRUST TERRITORY OF SOMALILAND

Against the clearly expressed wishes and welfare of the overwhelming majority of our people, the General Assembly of the United Nations during the last session approved the unjust imperialist claims of Italy for restoration of her oppressive rule in Somaliland. By so doing the Assembly not only disregarded the wishes and welfare of the Somali people, but also violated the fundamental principle embodied in the United Nations Charter, namely, the right of self-determination.

Once re-established in Somaliland, the first thing the Italian Administration did was to put into effect an organized persecution against those political organizations which opposed strongly the restoration of Italian control in Somaliland. The Somali Youth League—a well-organized nationalist movement—and its members and sympathizers were the major victims of brutal acts of vengeance. Other victims include those politically-minded Somalis who also advocate national independence for their Fatherland.

The Somali Youth League is the largest and most influential political party in the country. Together with the Hamar Youth Club, this patriotic movement advocates the unification and the complete independence of Somaliland. The Four Power Commission of Investigation (France, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, United Kingdom and the United States of America) which visited Somaliland early in 1948 recognized that the Somali Youth League is the only real and active political party in the country. The purpose of the Commission was to ascertain the wishes of the inhabitants of our country and to report to the Council of Foreign Ministers of the four great Powers. We quote hereunder excerpts from the general conclusions of the Four Power Commission's report ²⁴, page 121 of the English text :

“ In spite of this lack of maturity, in the last five years a nationalist movement led by the Somali Youth League has rapidly spread through the country, embracing most of the urban classes wherever located, and, through the influence of the chiefs and elders, almost all the tribes except those in the Sab Confederacy and a few others. This movement is well organized, possesses relatively competent leadership, and may well be the major force in Somali politics for some time to come. ”

In December 1947, just a few days before the visit of the Four Power Commission to Somaliland, the Italians organized a party called Conferenza della Somalia. They finance this cabal and run it through corrupt Somali stooges. Almost all the parties adhering the so-called Conferenza della Somalia exist only on paper. This Italian-organized Conferenza has no popular support and no influence whatsoever because the Somalis know very well its evil origin and purpose.

The standing of our organization in relation to that of other parties in Somaliland is quite clearly indicated in the following passages, quoting again from the same page of the report of the Four Power Commission of Investigation :

“ The other political parties have developed in opposition to the Somali Youth League and, with one exception, are of recent growth. Their influence is slight. ”

Only because it is the leader of an outstanding political movement advocating the unification and the complete independence of Somaliland has the Somali Youth League become the main target of these Italian political persecutions. The Italians lost no time in banning the League branches in Upper Juba and other provinces in the country. Many League members were killed, while many more were wounded, several of them seriously, as a result of these Italian-organized anti-League riots. Branch heads together with members of local committees and influential League members were arrested, convicted or deported. Material damage, both to the League and its members, is enormous.

The methods used to suppress the League branches in Somaliland are identical with those used during the rise of fascism in Italy in the early 1920's. You may recall that in those days organized gangs of fascist camicie nere (black-shirts) were used to suppress political opponents in general and in particular the leaders of trade unions. The birth of fascism took place at a time when labour movements in Italy were strong enough to give grave concern to Mussolini. Apprehensive lest a strong labour movement in Italy might hinder his dreams of establishing an absolute totalitarian régime, the late dictator suppressed, through his gangs of camicie nere, the movement and its leaders. As a result of this drastic action of the Duce, the great socialist leader Mateotti and many other labour leaders lost their lives. Thousands of other labour leaders fled the country to save their skins, while thousands more were arrested, convicted or exiled.

The only difference between the method used by the fascists in Italy and the one used to suppress political opponents in Somaliland is that in the latter case the provisional Italian Administration has employed organized gangs composed of professional delinquents in the place of Mussolini's camicie nere. It is easy for the Italians to organize, through their stooges of the Confessione, gangs of ex-convicts and professional delinquents for the main purpose of assassinating the leaders of national movements in Somaliland. Should the United Nations decide to investigate this criminal conspiracy, Italians will certainly maintain that they have had nothing to do with it since the trouble has taken place between groups of the indigenous population. By establishing this alibi, the Administration evidently intends to disclaim its responsibility.

Another purpose of the organized gangs is to cause just enough trouble to give justification for the intervention of the Administration's carabinieri (police) to shoot, arrest, convict or deport the members of the Somali Youth League. In April of this year, just a few days after the restoration of the Italian administration in Somaliland, gangs of delinquents suddenly attacked the League branches in Baidoa, Lugh, Bardera, Bur Hacaba, and other centres in the Upper Juba province. Because of the unexpected attack, the League members suffered heavy casualties. In each instance the Italian authority deliberately delayed for several hours any attempt to intervene and stop these framed riots. Then the carabinieri came only to shoot, arrest, convict, or deport the victims of the organized mob. So the way was cleared for the delinquents to destroy the League branches, loot the property of the arrested League members, set fire to their houses and ill-treat their families, including old men, women and children.

In almost all the other provinces of the Territory, the provisional Italian Administration resorted to similar methods to suppress the Somali Youth League. League members in the Lower Juba and the Benadir provinces have suffered most. Organized delinquent gangs have been encouraged to operate throughout the Territory in order to suppress the Administration's political opponents. As a consequence, normal travel has become dangerous in several areas of the Territory. The mob of delinquents attacks openly those of our members travelling in the interior. The travel of League members in the Upper Juba province has been completely stopped.

In addition, the provisional Italian Administration has instigated and is continuing to instigate, through corrupt and ignorant elements, fighting among the tribes in Somaliland. The main aim of this policy of “ divide and rule ” is to create enmity and hatred among the Somali tribes and thus divert the rapidly-growing national consciousness of our people. Since the restoration of the Italian rule in April of this year, serious tribal fightings have taken place in many places of the Territory. With the excuse of restoring peace and order, tank-led Italian troops are sent to the scene of the fighting only to open fire on the people, arrest and convict them, and inflict on them heavy fines. On their arrival, these Italian troops often machine-gun the people and their cattle alike.

In June of this year, the most serious tribal fighting took place in the province of Mudugh. Over 500 persons were killed in this fighting alone. Thousands more were wounded, while property damage was very high. In many provinces tribal disputes are still unsettled. In several of these, particularly in Mudugh province where the tension is extremely high, renewal of the tribal outbreaks is considered very likely.

One of the principal aims of the Somali Youth League is to solve the tribal disputes through mediation, conciliation and other means of peaceful settlement. As soon as a quarrel arises between two or more tribes, the League forms a goodwill mission composed of religious sheiks, akils and influential persons from each of the contending tribes and from neutral Somali tribes. These goodwill missions are generally formed in the province where the disturbances took place, but, if necessary, missions from other provinces are sent there. The conciliation efforts of the Somali Youth League have been very successful. Because of these efforts, many potential tribal conflicts which might have cost the Somali people thousands of lives and heavy property loss were averted. Many others could have been averted had it not been for the arbitrary interference of the then British Military Administration in Somaliland. During the years of its rule, this temporary Administration followed the traditional colonial policy of "divide and rule".

Some weeks before the serious tribal outbreaks in Mudugh province took place, members of the local committees of the Somali Youth League informed the local Italian authority of their intention to make the usual efforts at reconciliation among the contending tribes so that the dispute between them could be solved peacefully. The Italian authority rejected this suggestion. By doing so, the Administration made impossible any efforts to prevent the useless bloodshed of our people and considerable damage to their property. With this policy of "kill your brother", the Administration intends to massacre our people, destroy their property and thus place under perpetual Italian subjugation and slavery the impoverished Somali people.

In the Italian-instigated tribal outbreaks, those who lose their lives are Somalis; so are the wounded and the injured. Those who lose property are Somalis. Those receiving heavy fines are Somalis; so are the arrested and the convicted. Thousands of impoverished Somalis are compelled to abandon their homeland. Moreover, the ill-feeling and hatred created by the organized outbreaks will cause further serious tribal disturbances, and so the vicious joke will repeat itself again and again. That is exactly what the Italians desire. So far, the provisional Italian Administration's policy of "divide and rule" has succeeded.

On 11 January 1948, while the Four Power Commission of Investigation was in Somaliland, some pro-Italian elements armed with hand-grenades, rifles and pistols together with daggers, spears, bow and arrows and other home-made arms openly attacked the head office of the Somali Youth League in Mogadiscio, the capital. As a result of this surprise attack, Somalis of both sides and some Italians were killed, while others were wounded. Some leaders of the Italian-organized Conferenza della Somalia together with some Italians were arrested by the then British Military Administration in Somaliland. The Administration took such an action after it had been demonstrated that the arrested persons were entirely responsible for the unprovoked attack on the League headquarters, which in turn caused the incident.

As soon as their rule was restored in Somaliland, the Italians lost no time in taking vindictive action against members of the Somali Youth League. Since April of this year, many members of the League have been victims of these spiteful measures. These actions will undoubtedly continue for some time to come. The new rulers of Somaliland state openly that they will avenge those Italians who lost their lives during the incident of January 1948, the same incident for which they were responsible. Privately and publicly, many Italians ask the Somalis the now notorious question: "Do you really consider that we Italians can ever forget that fateful day of 11 January 1948?"

In addition, the Administration is furiously engaged in a desperate effort to eradicate nationalism in Somaliland. In fact, many Italians admit frankly that ten years is more than enough for them to suppress those considered nationalists and dissidents. Often, these Italians ask the Somalis this provocative question: "Are you so foolish as to believe that we Italians will leave Somaliland after ten years?"

In our previous memoranda²⁵ we pointed out that almost all the members of the Italian Administration re-established in Somaliland are former rulers of the Territory and other African colonies under the fascist régime. Regardless of the terms of a United Nations trusteeship agreement, these officials of the Ministero africa italiana (Ministry for Colonial Affairs) will never change their fascist mentality of yesterday. Certainly, they will continue to administer the Territory as before since that is the basic policy of the fascist-organized Ministero africa italiana. Under the New Italy of today, this Ministry is still active within the cabinet of Premier de Gasperi. The former colonial rulers—particularly Dr. Bernardelli, Signori Copasso, Comelli, Chapron, Ducati, Soleri and all those who previously held high position in the administration of the former colony of Somaliland—are chiefly responsible for what has happened and is still happening in our country.

Partly because of the vindictive actions carried out by the Italians since their return to our country, partly because of the government's policy of "divide and rule" which has already caused numerous tribal outbreaks, and partly because of the organized persecutions against the Administration's political opponents directed to suppress nationalism in the Territory, Somaliland is today a land in which terror, chaos and general unrest reign. The presence in the Territory of administrators skilled and experienced in subjugating colonial peoples, namely, the former fascist rulers of the Ministero africa italiana, is the principal cause of the unhappy events and the tyranny which have taken place in Somaliland since the restoration of the oppressive Italian régime. The mere fact of re-appointing these former fascist rulers is impressive evidence that the intentions of the "new Italy" are far from the academic provisions set forth in the United Nations draft trusteeship agreement for the Territory.

The provisional Italian Administration has already violated the provisions of the draft trusteeship agreement and the annex attached thereto. By re-introducing the fascist law and the fascist codice penale (penal code), the Administration has completely ignored the judiciary provisions of the agreement. This law and the penal code are carried out by the powerful Residenti (District Commissioners) and the Commissariati (Provincial Commissioners) together with the notorious carabinieri. The Residenti and the Commissariati who run the district and the provisional courts, respectively, act also as chief executive and chief judiciary and have unlimited powers.

Since the restoration of the Italian rule in our country, the Somali Youth League has submitted to the provisional Italian Administration several protests against the latter's oppressive policy and misrule of the Territory. Copies of these protests were submitted to the United Nations Advisory Council on the Trust Territory of Somaliland. On 4 September 1950, the League submitted a letter, copy of which is enclosed herewith (see appendix A), to the Council. With this letter, the League once again pointed out the provisional Italian Administration's misgovernment in general, and in particular its repeated violations of the provisions of the draft trusteeship agreement for the Territory. Since April of this year, the Advisory Council has received from various sources of the population, including both political parties and individuals, numerous similar protests together with petitions requesting effective United Nations protection of our people against calculated Italian persecutions for political reasons. But, as we have already pointed out in our previous memoranda, the Council so far lacks real powers.

To support the allegations just outlined, we submit the following documents :

(i) The report from the special correspondent of the weekly New Times and Ethiopia News of London published in the 30 September 1950 issue of that paper (see appendix B);

(ii) An article appearing in the London weekly New

Statesman and Nation and reproduced in the 14 October 1950 issue of the New Times and Ethiopian News (see appendix C);

(iii) An article published in the Indian at Home and Overseas of London and reproduced in the New Times and Ethiopian News (see appendix D).

After the proper study of this memorandum and the documents attached thereto, we hope that the members of the Fourth Committee will give careful consideration to this serious matter. Accordingly, we demand that the Committee, while debating on the draft trusteeship Agreement for Somaliland submitted by the Trusteeship Council, study ways and means to set up effective machinery for the implementation of the terms set forth in the said agreement.

Further, we demand the deletion of the last phrase appearing in article 20 of the draft which reads as follows: "subject only to the requirements of public order."

APPENDIX A

LETTER DATED 4 SEPTEMBER 1950 FROM THE SOMALI YOUTH LEAGUE TO THE UNITED NATIONS ADVISORY COUNCIL FOR THE TRUST TERRITORY OF SOMALILAND UNDER ITALIAN ADMINISTRATION

Mogadiscio

The Somali Youth League, retaining the United Nations Advisory Council for the Trust Territory of Somaliland under Italian Administration destined here with the function to safeguard the interests of the autochthones from eventual arbitrary deviations of the system laid down by the United Nations for the administration of Territories under international trusteeship, submit herewith, as the sole party (with the Hamar Youth Club) which is not under the Italian service in Somalia (meaning the pro-Italian parties which are financially run by the Italians themselves), formal protest and denounce the Administering Authority as the sole responsible for all that happened in Somalia in the last four months by the will of the fascist colonial functionaries sent here by Italy. Further, the League deplore that the Advisory Council has had no chance to be aware—by not carrying out direct investigations on the places where serious incidents had taken place—of the tragic reality of the political persecution in which the pre-marked victims have been Somalis who are guilty only because they desire the independence of their country. In this connexion the Somali Youth League (SYL) request the Advisory Council to include or attach this protest to the report which the Council will present to the United Nations General Assembly in its session of this year.

The Somalis of the opposition (meaning the majority ascertained by the Four Power Commission of Investigation in 1948), in distrusting Italy were justified by the experience and record of the past system of the Italian colonial administration and the knowledge that Italy would use the same men of yesterday for the new administration of Somalia. However, when the United Nations, against the wishes expressed by the population, adopted the resolution²⁶ on returning Italy in Somalia, pondered carefully this decision, special attention being paid to the independence after a period of 10 years and the despatch in Somalia of a United Nations representation for the safeguard of the interests of the autochthones, and decided to co-operate with both the Advisory Council and the Administering Authority. In this respect, the Somalis remained in a pacific expectation to see, on Italy's part, a real coherence between promise and facts and would appreciate to see that the democratic Italians of today (as the world knew them) were effectively different from the fascists of yesterday. As proof of such disposition, for the sake of peace, of the liberty-loving Somalis in general and the SYL in particular, it is a matter of fact that no incidents had taken place, in any locality of Somalia, between the population and members of the Italian trusteeship administration in Somaliland (AFIS).

The Somalis all in a certain comprehensive capacity (amongst whom many of those who auspicated Italy's return) are in agreement to accuse Italy that the only fact of sending, for the administration of Somalia, the same administrators who had governed her under the fascist régime, has itself compromised the application in bona fide of the dictates for a wise trustee administration in régime of democratic liberty and the creation in ten years of an independent Somali State. Italy should know that the old functionaries of Somalia, when a fascist colony, would not fail to retake, as they are doing now, their activities with the same old system in which the colonial subject was considered as a servant without will at the mercy and in the power of the dominator.

The good dispositions of the trusteeship agreement have remained only on paper in that they could not defend the League and other liberty-loving Somalis from the organized persecution to which they have been and are still subjected by the hands of the same functionaries of yesterday when Somalia was a fascist colony, and in particular : Dr. Bernardelli at present Political Secretary of Somalia despite his superiors being aware of him as the organizer (before the return of Italy here) and financier of the reactionary and anti-national parties of the Conferenza of which he is still the maintainer; Commissario Copasso, organizer and protagonist Number one of the regretful situation in ²⁶ General Assembly resolution 289 B (IV).

Upper Juba. The Somalis ignore up to which point Italy approves the mischiefs of the ex-fascist officials against the fundamental human rights and the obligations of the trusteeship agreement, but they have no doubts that the AFIS has failed to perform its duties towards the Somalis and Somalia.

Maintenance of peace and public order

While Italy has, in its Administering Authority here, promised to maintain peace and public security in Somalia (articles 2 and 6 of the trusteeship agreement)²⁷ and a rigid application of the law without racial and political discrimination, the administrators likewise Bernardelli Copasso have, on resuming power, started to practise a system of "divide and rule" policy by instigating the Somalis to kill each other; at Baidoa, Bardera, Lugh Fer-randi and Bur-Hacaba they armed the Hisbia Dighil Mirifle (HDM) party against the League and other Somalis known to be liberty-lovers, and when the wanted and prearranged conflict occurred between the two parties, the Administering Authority intervened at the distance of hours and hours and only to imprison the exponents of the opposition. In this method it was allowed that shops and houses of the non-pro-Italians be sacked and destroyed and that even Somali administrative staff be imprisoned for giving shelter to the refugees. As a result of such organised persecution, based on "kill your brother" in the interest of others. All members and sympathizers of the League have been forced to abandon in mass and fly from the Upper Juba province in which area they lived for over a century in good harmony with their Somali brothers even if their political opinions differed.

All branches of the League in that province were closed and the pro-Italian HDM party was made to occupy the premises of the League. Elements of the HDM were allowed, as police force, to control the province and the passerbys who travelled along the Mogadiscio/Dolo road and to molest in all senses the non-pro-Italian Somalis, denouncing to the police and district commissioners those who refused to abandon the province with the menace of exterminating them if not removed. It so happens now that none of the thousands refugees cannot go back home lest he is either arrested and ill-treated by the local authority or killed by irresponsible Somali elements corrupted for the purpose. The mischiefs of that authority have reached to the point of allowing the plunders to take over the property of the League and that of its members, and justify them as office custodians, when the owners claimed the refund of their property.

Analogical facts have taken place in Margherita, Gelib and Kismayu, where only SYL members were imprisoned in hundreds. In the very near village of Afgoi all SYL members were subjected to persecution and were made to choose either leaving the village or renouncing their association even if they were natives of that locality. They had to close the branch.

In the region of Mudugh, the policy of the functionaries who were brought up and educated in the fascist colonial clime based on "divide and rule" has favoured to create enmity among the inhabiting groups of that province. The Galkayu SYL branch has in vain requested the intervention of the Administration to avoid irreparable and sanguinous facts in the Mudugh. In spite of these appeals, the Administration intervened only when serious incidents had taken place and added, by means of its force, blood on the blood which was already filled with the excuse that the two parties have neglected to respect peace and public order.

As proof of the political persecution in which the non pro-Italy Somalis have been designed victims, the attached list of persons exclusively of the League, imprisoned during the past months, is more than sufficient and eloquent; no single arrest was made from among the pro-Italians who, instigated and armed by the administrators, were always the attackers. The imprisoned persons, just because they were arrested for political necessity and not because they were guilty, have been released after the amnesty accorded by the chief administrator to political prisoners in occasion of the festivity of the end of Ramadan. However quite a large number of our members are still in the various prisons, and arrests are still being effected politically.

Administration, judiciary and judicial procedure

The Italian trusteeship administration has, since its return to Somalia, applied a system of judiciary and procedure in the Territory which has no common, whatsoever, with the new fundamental human rights and with the freedom promised to the Somalis. Paragraph 2 of article 9 of the declaration of constitutional principles²⁸ bonds the Administering Authority to guarantee the inviolability of the personal liberty, which may not be restricted except by warrant of judicial authority and only in cases and in accordance with regulations prescribed by law. The AFIS, however, did not pay any attention to such provisions and never provides the depending organs with arrest or search warrants. It seems that carabinieri are invested with full powers to arrest people at their discretion and release them at distance of hours or days after subjecting to them every sort of ill-treatment and humiliation by exposing them handcuffed to the public. Not only, but at the court the judicial decisions are taken according to the report and recommendations of the police, nor the lawyers (Italians), appointed for the defence, are doing their duty to defend the accused specially in the case of the latter being supposed to be anti-Italian. Houses are searched without search warrant and even without the presence of the owner (violation of article 9, paragraph 3, of the declaration of constitutional principles).

Liberty sojourn immigration regulation

Italy has promised to guarantee to the Somalis the right to choose their residency within the Territory (article 13 of UDHR). The Administering Authority and police, ignoring such rights from the beginning, have started to make large use of the so-called foglio di via obbligatorio (expulsion order) against their political opponents, thus forcing many people to transfer their residency to places where, in most of the cases, they have never seen before, the excuse for this sort of punishment being that originally the place was inhabited by their ancestors. In this connexion the League has submitted its protest to the chief administrator who, though approving fully such method, has promised not to use it for political purposes. This promise has not been maintained and the said method is still used and only on political grounds.

Somalia has very limited resources and, in order to safeguard the interests of the autochthones, the Administration should not allow immigration of aliens into the Territory.

The AFIS has issued a proclamation to this end and to control the movement of aliens residing in Somalia. But events have shown it beyond any doubt that this rule is applied only to the Somalis of the adjacent territories and that same is not done in the case of the foreigners, especially the Italians who flock continuously in Somalia to such numbers that the consistency of this community has now redoubled. This excludes members of the military and police whose number exceedingly surpasses that of the British Force to which they should be equipollent. In an interview with the chief administrator, he assured us that the afflux of aliens should be limited to a small number of experienced Italian artisans and Italian and American capitalists. Nevertheless there is no ship nor plane coming into Somalia that does not import Italians, which method is a great danger to the interests of the Somalis who do not wish their country to become an immigration land for Italy.

Conservation of personal status and nation

Italy has accepted to promote the Somali national unity, and this recommendation which should be the main principle of the trusteeship agreement is stressed in various articles of the said agreement, specially in paragraph 1 of article 9 of the declaration of constitutional principles where it is said that the Administering Authority shall guarantee the preservation of personal and successional status of the inhabitants with due regard to its evolutionary development. The SYL has, in its statute, abolished its effective members from considering themselves members of any tribal organization and accordingly issued them with identify cards for necessary identification. The organs of the administration have, in order to enfeeble this association, constrained SYL members to state their original tribes and, at their refusal, imprisoned, fined or deported them. In addition to this, no work is given to SYL members unless they deny to belong to the League, state their tribes and are recommended by chiefs and other pro-Italian elements. This sort of persecution which proved to play an important part in the "divide and rule" and "suppress opposition" policy, still stands despite the repeated protests of the League.

"Somalization" of the administration

Italy has promised to give the Somalis a progressively increasing participation in the various organs of the administration (article 3, paragraph 1 of the trusteeship agreement). The AFIS has also promised in the handing-over agreement to maintain in the service all those employees who were working with the British Administration at the time of the handing-over. It was supposed that, while the Somalis were to be encouraged to occupy more responsible posts in the administration of their country, the Administration would, in employing new elements, conduct an impartial attitude amongst the Somalis. On the contrary all Somalis (police officers, sub-accountants, chief and district clerks, cashiers, W/T and telephone operators, mechanic, etc.), who were holding responsible positions prior to the handing-over, have been arrested and imprisoned, dismissed or discharged from service. Many of them run away from the Territory lest they are arrested by the Italians. Only those who, though non-pro-Italians, are thought not to be political minded, are left to work as orderlies which job they have accepted for fear to die from starvation. The total number discharged from the service since the handing-over to the Italian Administration will amount to more than 300 persons.

An implacable political purification has been effected in the ranks of the Somali police. In spite of the existing rules which prohibit a military or police man from being a member of any political party or subscribing himself in any political party, it has been allowed that Somali officers and non-commissioned officers in the military and police be also leaders of pro-Italian parties (the names of Mohamed Jumale T/Abgal and Nur Muddei T/Abgal, both police marscialle and members of the Conferenza party, Hussen Dinle of the HDM who was expelled from the police at the time of the BAS and is now re-engaged as police chief inspector, Hilowle Dagane, president of the pro-Italian party Abgalia, who has been nominated for the merit of being a pro-Italian, and many others, are eloquent). While any man who is suspected to be belong to the SYL or presumed to approve its programme is discharged from both the police and the military. The Conferenza party (pro-Italy) was made to enlist the whole organic of the present Somali battalions.

Education

At the time of the handing-over, there were Arabic and English schools in every district of the Territory, amongst which five special classes in Mogadiscio for the Somali girls only. The schools have been closed down until early August which epoch the teachers, in minor number, have been reposted to their respect districts after some initiation in Italian procedure.

It was expected that the five girl classes, which were previously limited in Arabic teaching, would be reopened. On the contrary it happens that the girls have been entrusted to Sisters of the Catholic Church for the teaching of the Italian language and the five Arabic classes have been limited to one only with the evident inconvenience of the religious Moslem culture and with the great danger that the Moslem belief of the girls might be compromised. When approached and requested to reopen the 5 Arabic classes and to limit the girls' teaching to Arabic only (at least for the time being), the Superintendent of Education alleging the deficiency of teachers (note that the previous teachers of the 5 classes are present), made it clear that he would not effect any change in the approved programme. There is as yet no real programme of education even if, according to the statement made by the President of the United Nations Advisory Council H. E. de Holte Castello at Baidoa, the vote allocated for education exceeds ten times than that of the 1949.

Uncertainty state and restoration of colonial system

The Somali Youth League and with it all Somalis—except a minority whose opinion differs for personal interests—realize that the present Italian civil and military officers of the AFIS are doing their best to revive the same method of administration when the Somalis were colonial Italian subjects, thus frustrating the obligations of the trusteeship agreement.

Apart from the above-described political discriminations (in contravention of article 8 of the declaration of constitutional principles) applied to SYL members and non-pro-Italian Somalis, the distinction in economical treatments between Somalis and Italians of same capacity and work is beyond exaggeration. The pretention to see Somalis and assimilates in servile attitudes and dependency—as in the past has already been applied by the Administration in the military, police and civil administration. Native military have been issued with the old colonial uniforms despite the formal promises in opposite sense. The coloured bands and the long-heavy fezes are already in use, nor the Somalis have been consulted on such decision and those who protest ran the risk to be dismissed.

The political gifts and pilgrimages to Mecca at the expense of the Administration and in favour of the pro-Italian chiefs, shiekhs and leaders of pro-Italian parties (see attached list), which cost hundreds of thousands somalis (money) to the budget of the Territory and which could be beneficially spent on education, are evident symptoms of the fascist colonial policy restoration so as to render the beneficiaries more docile and yes-men and to divert the Somalis from their aims towards emancipation and independence.

The above facts are themselves sufficient proof that Italy has violated almost every article of the trusteeship agreement and that the Italian functionaries will never—considering their vindictive character—respect the obligations in the trusteeship agreement.

In this connexion, the Somali Youth League, on behalf of the vast majority of the Somalis, herewith request the United Nations General Assembly to reconsider its decision to place Somalia under the international trusteeship with Italy as Administering Authority and to come to a just and peaceful solution so that the Territory be placed under international trusteeship with collective Powers as Administering Authority. In the event of this request being impossible, they request that their interests be given more assurance in confrontation of the Italian Administration and that, in this respect, more conditions be added to the trusteeship agreement, the more important being :

(a) That Italy shall administer our country with functionaries from the Foreign Minister and will remove from the Territory all the colonial ones, specially those who in the past administered Somalia under the fascist régime. (Bernardelli, Copasso, Comelli, Chapron, Ducati, Soleri and all similar others to them in the military and civil administration.)

(b) That the United Nations Advisory Council be invested with more powers so as to enable it to ascertain the veracity of the protests and claims submitted by the population in carrying out direct investigations when and where necessary. This to avoid the occurrence of serious incidents like those at Isha Baidoa and Mudugh without the Council knowing from which part is the wrong. Further, the number of the Council's officials should be increased so as to have one representative in every district or town.

(c) That, as Somalia is now placed under the International Trusteeship System and the sovereignty of the Territory is invested in its people and will be exercised on their behalf (article 1 of the declaration of constitutional principles), the flag of Italy, which flies now on every village in sign of possession and sovereignty, and for whose hoist and strike the Somalis are twice a day disturbed to salute forcibly, be substituted with a Somali national flag, and until this is made available, the flag of the United Nations, under whose supervision our country is administered, be used in the place of the Italian flag.

(d) That the judiciary of Somalia be exercised by judges other than Italians as the latter are completely under the influence of the Administration and are acquainted only with Italian laws in consequence of which they will never be able to comply with the provisions in article 7 of the declaration of constitutional principles and article 7 of the trusteeship agreement.

(e) That Italy be disallowed to make Somalia an immigration country for the Italians and that the United Nations Advisory Council be empowered to control the afflux of the Italians into Somalia.

APPENDIX B

ITALY BACK IN SOMALIA : TRUSTEESHIP AGREEMENT ONLY A SCRAP OF PAPER

From a special correspondent of the New Times and Ethiopia News in Mogadiscio

Italy has been offered a very good opportunity to show her change of heart by the United Nations in allowing her to resume the administration of her former colony, Somalia, as a trustee Power. The conditions in the trusteeship agreement, on which Italy was to administer Somalia, are beautifully worded, but since Italy resumed the administration over Somalia, experience has shown that to the Italians the trusteeship agreement is just a document without value or meaning, and remains only on paper. This reminds one of Mussolini's famous speech, when declaring war against the allies, and thus violating all the peace pacts and mutual agreements with Great Britain, France, and their allies : " Le carte sono state fatte da uomini come noi, e noi le strappiamo, " i.e. papers are made by men like us, and we shall tear them up.

" Italianization " of Somaliland Administration

During the British Administration.—The Somaliland police force consisted of only 58 British officers and 2,000 Somali ranks. In the interior, almost all police stations and posts were run by Somali inspectors or sergeants. Some of these stations covered districts inhabited by a population of 50,000 to 100,000, with an area of about 100 to 200 square miles. The British police officers were merely acting as a sort of a guidance for the Somali inspectors and sergeants; they acted as divisional or district superintendents, and occupied the higher administrative and technical positions in the running of the police force.

Somali police have been dismissed or imprisoned or have fled. To-day, Somalia is policed by the so-called carabinieri, and the 58 British officers in the Somaliland police force have been replaced by over two battalions of carabinieri. During the first week of April 1950, all Somali inspectors and sergeants, who were in charge of police stations and posts, were replaced by carabinieri officers and non-commissioned officers. All Somali leading and intelligent police officers were arrested and imprisoned, kept in jail for months without being informed of the charge against them, convicted and sentenced to terms of imprisonment (with hard labour) ranging from one to five years. Others were dismissed from the service, and some, who were arrested in April, are still detained in jail without trial. The following are some of the victims : Chief Inspector Farah Segulle, Inspector Aden Abdi, Inspector Mohamed Abshir, Sub-Inspector Ahmed Shire, Sub-Inspector Abshir Abdurahman, Sub-Inspector Abdullahi Ahmed, Sub-Inspector Mohamed Mire, Sgt. Ahmed Iasa, Sgt. Mohamed Ahmed Anagel, Sgt. Sheik Ussen Ali, Sgt. Jama Yassin, Sgt. Farah Ali, Sgt. Hassan Mohamed Ali, Sgt. Issa Mohamed, Sgt. Mohamed Ismail, Sgt. Jama Mohamed, Sgt. Mohamed Aden, Sgt. Farah Dirshe, Sgt. Abdi Mohamed, Sgt. Abdullahi Elmi, Sgt. Issa Wehelie, and Sgt. Issa Hersi.

These were the well-known leading officers who were arrested in the capital and other administrative centres, but large numbers of other ranks have suffered likewise in the interior. Hundreds have been dismissed, after a period of detention, with reasons best known to the Italian authorities. A large number of other inspectors, sergeants, and other ranks gave up their career for fear of being sent to jail and emigrated to Ethiopia and other adjacent territories. These include: Chief Inspector Daud Timayare, Inspector Khaliph Shire, Inspector Jama Aden, Sub-Inspector Issa Farah, Sub-Inspector Ali Farah, Sub-Inspector Abdurahman Omar, Inspector Abdurahman Mumin and many other sergeants and non-commissioned officers.

All these officers were either accused of having been anti-Italian during their service with the British Administration or of being pro-British.

During the British administration, all investigation and detection work was left entirely in the hands of the Somali police officers. This was due to the fact that, being Somalis, they understood the language, the mentality and the various ways and methods of dealing with the local people, as is natural after all.

Trusteeship obligation to train Somalis violated

To-day, the remainder of the Somali police officers are removed from all responsible positions and are made to work under Italian carabinieri non-commissioned officers and constables. The highest Somali officer in the police force is subordinate to a carabinieri constable. This is quite contrary to the trusteeship agreement, which binds Italy, even in the provisional administration (see article 23, paragraph 2 of the trusteeship agreement), to prepare the ground for the complete independence of the Territory within the short period of ten years, and in the meantime, to give responsible positions to the Somalis in the administration of their country. As a matter of fact, instead of doing so, the Italians have removed all Somali officials who were holding responsible positions during the British administration, and replacing them by Italians.

Somali civil servants also dismissed

This has not only been done in the police force, but also in the civil administration. Nearly all Somali officials, sub-accountants, district and chief clerks, cashiers, postmasters, typists, filing-registering-despatching clerks, W/T and telephone operators, etc. have been replaced by Italians. Quite a large number of the Somalis who occupied such positions were arrested and imprisoned, or discharged from service early in April of this year. Many others went into exile to Ethiopia and other adjacent countries to avoid being arrested and imprisoned by the worthy descendants of Nero. Those who are still retained in the service of the Administration are hanging around the offices, chewing the time and buying caffè latte (coffee with milk—famous Italian drink) during office hours. They are purposely treated so that they may get "fed up," and give up their posts. In other words, this is a part of the long-term scheme, which is the policy of the Italian Administration here, to find jobs for Italians, so as to solve the critical problem of unemployment in Italy. Some of the victims known to the writer in person are: Legal Officer Advocate C. L. Salole; Sub-Accountant Ibrahim Hassan; Cashier Abdi Hussein; District Clerks Ahmed Aden, Ahmed Dahir, Ali Hussein, Ahmed Mohamed; Cashiers Abdulkadir Issa, Mohamed Nur; Clerks Ahmed Aden Gabah, Jama Khalaph Koshin; Post Masters Abdi Haji Hussein, Ahmed Shire Egal, Ahmed Atto Mohamud, Mohamed Hersi; Interpreters Adan Salan and Nur Ahmed—to name the more outstanding ones.

British policy of Somalization revised by Italy

It will be recalled that a policy of gradual Somalization of the Administration was pursued since 1946 by the British Administration, and that one of the Provincial Commissioners' conferences, presided over by the Chief Administrator, adopted a resolution creating Somali administrative officials. What a pity for those British officers, who sacrificed nine years of their lives in Somalia, to see such an end of the brilliant work carried out by them, with great patience and sacrifice, during the nine years of their administration in Somalia! Perhaps these officers will now console themselves in the knowledge that their work has been destroyed by the so-called Bevin-Sforza Plan?

What does the so-called "New Italy" intend by importing thousands of Italian civilian clerks and carabinieri constables into Somalia? Surely clerical and constabulary work can be done by the Somalis. Or does Italy intend that these Italian clerks and constables shall lead Somalia to independence? I do not argue that Italy must not have white troops in Somalia. The so-called Italian Security Corps—which is composed of about eight thousand men is one thing; the Italian carabinieri as police is another. A policeman must know the local language and mentalities, and the way to deal with the public he serves. The carabinieri may be useful in Italy, but they are quite useless here in Somalia as a police force.

Powers of the Carabinieri

Events have proved beyond doubt that the carabinieri here are like the Gestapo and the S.S. in Germany. Proof of this:

You will find every carabiniere—at all times and even in his off-duty hours when walking out in town—armed with a fully loaded bretta sub-machine gun, and automatic pistol and handcuffs. One finds hundreds of carabinieri, in various groups at every corner in Mogadiscio, stopping Somalis in the streets by challenging them with their machine guns, ordering them to put up their hands and searching them. Carabinieri walk into Somali houses without notice, and carry out searches without a warrant, terrorizing women and children, offering no explanation as to what they are searching for. Very often these searches are carried out without the presence of the owners, using force to make an entry, breaking open all doors and boxes. On completion of the searches, nothing is done to repair the damage. Doors and boxes are left wide open. Thieves take great advantage of this to steal property in the house. Hundreds of Somalis whose houses were searched in their absence and whose property was thus damaged or stolen, and who complained of the matter to the carabinieri have been sent to jail on frame-up charges such as "simulating evidence of an offence", under article 367 of Mussolini's penal code.

The carabinieri as a force, are soldiers rather than police, and as such, are taught to kill. They are in fact, military police. The crimes and mischief committed by the Italian carabinieri in Somalia resemble those of the Nazi armies in occupied Europe during the Second World War. They are invested with full judicial powers; apart from being executives. The lowest carabiniere holds as much power as a judicial officer. He does not require arrest, search or remand warrants. He has judicial power to issue expulsion orders to Somalis within and outside the Territory, powers of which the carabinieri take the greatest advantage at the expense of the poor Somalis. In addition to these powers, the carabinieri are also in charge of the prison, which completes the chain of the power : to arrest, search, imprison and carry out the execution of the sentence.

Terrible prison conditions: prisoners tied together and piled up like sacks

Thousands of Somalis have been dragged to prison, where they are left for months without being informed of the charges against them. When they request to know with what they are charged, the poor Somalis are told by the carabinieri that, according to the Italian law, the authorities are not obliged to inform them of the charge.

All remand prisoners are made to work from the first day of their arrest. Any person who protests against being made to work before trial is inhumanly beaten, placed in the well-known celle di morte (death cells) where it is difficult even to breathe owing to lack of ventilation, and where the prisoner is deprived of food and water for days.

The food supplied to prisoners is totally unfit for human consumption. It consists of unsifted coffee-like and millet flour ground with the husks. No fruit, vegetables, meat, milk or tea are supplied. It so happened one day that on an inspection tour the Director of the Central Prison noticed the remains of a prisoner's ration lying on the floor of the cell; he cried out angrily, " Who has deposited this human excrement here ? " At the same time he pointed to the bits of the cooked millet lying on the floor. One of the prisoners explained that the droppings were from the ration supplied to the prisoners by the Administration.

Adult and juvenile prisoners share the same cells, receive the same punishments in the courts, and are subjected to the same labour. During the British administration juvenile offenders were sent to an approved school in the town of Merca. (Proc. of 1943 refers.)

Prison population under the United Kingdom and Italy compared

During the nine years of British administration, the highest number of prisoners in the Mogadiscio prisons was 700 persons; nearly half of these prisoners were from the Ogaden, due to the disturbances existing then in that province. At the time of the handing over there were about 427 prisoners in Mogadiscio prisons. During May 1950, there were over 3,000 prisoners in Mogadiscio. This also occurred in out-stations, but although the writer is not in a position to give the exact number of prisoners in all up-country stations, it has been possible to ascertain the figures for the under-mentioned four.

In the Isha Baidoa District, the average number of prisoners during the British administration was 40. In May this year there were 511; in Kismayu Districts 25; as against 475; in Merca District 35, as against 306; in Villabuzzi 15, as against 89. At least four-fifths of these were political prisoners, and consisted of Somali Youth League members, including branch committee members, SYL sympathizers, among them chiefs, sheikhs, notables and influential men, police officers and other administrative staff. Many of these SYL leaders and other influential men were flown by air from various up-country stations and brought to Mogadiscio Central Prison, tied together in bunches, with ropes attached to their waists from one to another and their hands tied behind them. Political prisoners and criminals are tied together; no distinction is made whatsoever. Thus SYL leaders, chiefs, sheikhs, influential men, police inspectors, sergeants, and other administrative officials share cells with thieves, murderers and other habitual delinquents. Ten to twenty prisoners are placed in small cells which were intended to accommodate three; in consequence, prisoners lie one on top of the other like piles of sacks or sardines.

Back to 1941

The prisons have now gone back to those wretched conditions which were found by the British in February 1941. Prison cells have become filthy; no whitewash or disinfections have been employed since Italy resumed the Administration over Somalia. No sanitation exists in the prisons and no professional medical officer has yet visited them. There is an Italian dresser at the Mogadiscio Central Prison, but he never goes round to visit the prisoners. Sick prisoners are never attended to at once. The carabinieri guards take only one case out of ten to the Italian dresser, and all the medicine the sick prisoner gets is only purgative, no matter what sickness he may be suffering from.

Fascist law still operates

The laws on which Somalia is at present administered are those of the fascist régime of Mussolini. In 1941, when British troops occupied Somalia, the fascist penal code was amended and all measures contrary to democratic principles of law were cancelled and substituted by British proclamations.

On resuming the administration of the Territory, the first thing the Italians did was to reinstate all fascist law cancelled by the British Administration. This was done by means of an official Bulletin, copy of which is attached hereto. [This Bulletin did not arrive with this report.—Editor, New Times and Ethiopia News.]

How can Mussolini's penal code and the United Nations Charter go together? Mussolini's laws were made with the sole purpose of colonializing, in its worst form, whereas the Charter of the United Nations is based on democratic constitutional principles. These cannot go together!

As far as the Somalis are concerned, the law under which they are tyrannized is that of the fascists, camouflaged by a beautifully worded trusteeship agreement which only exists on paper.

Proof of this: the Italians have enforced the whole of the old fascist laws, thus disregarding completely the provisions in article 7 of the trusteeship agreement, which reads as follows:

" The Administering Authority shall have full powers of legislation, administration and jurisdiction in the Territory, subject to the provisions of the Charter of the United Nations, of this Agreement, and of the annex attached hereto, and shall have power to apply to the Territory, temporarily and with such modifications as are considered necessary, such Italian laws as are appropriate to the conditions and needs of the Territory, and as are not incompatible with the attainment of its independence. "

The judiciary

Article 7 of the annex to the trusteeship agreement, which is itself an integral part of the trusteeship agreement, reads: " The Administering Authority shall establish a judicial system and shall ensure the absolute independence of the judiciary. " Yet the courts are, as in the totalitarian States, mere instruments in the hands of the hated carabinieri, whose incredible and barbarous activities have been described above.

In Somalia, there exist two courts: an assize court in the capital and district courts in the interior. The assize court is run by a single judge, whose decision is supposed to be final.

Powers of resident, executive and judicial

The district courts are run by Residenti (District Commissioners), who hold the power of a chief executive, as well as that of a chief judiciary. These so-called Residenti have no legal qualifications; they try the poor unfortunate Somalis according to the dictates of their own fascist mentality.

Under Italian law here, every person is presumed guilty from the moment he is arrested by the carabinieri until he proves otherwise, whereas according to the democratic conception of justice, and in the words of article 11 of the Universal Declaration of Fundamental Human Rights, accepted by Italy as a standard of achievement for the Territory (vide article 10 of the annex to the trusteeship agreement): "Every one charged with a penal offence has the right to be presumed innocent until proved guilty according to law in a public trial at which he had had all the guarantees necessary for his defence."

Every arrested person is sent to jail by the carabinieri on their own warrant, after keeping him under their custody for an unlimited period, whereas in the British administration the police were only allowed to detain people for a period not exceeding twenty-four hours, at the end of which time the arrested person was either to be released or taken before the magistrate, who holds the power either to issue a remand warrant, if he deems fit, or to release the prisoner on bail. It is worthy of note that the word "bail" has no place in the judiciary of Somalia. There has been no single case of any person being let out on bail, despite many requests.

How court cases are conducted

After sending the accused to jail, the carabinieri later submit their findings, including a full history of the person in question, with special attention to his past and present political activities and views, and in addition to this, their recommendations as to what punishment the person should receive. So it naturally happens that the court, if he is brought to the court at all, opens when the judge has already formed an opinion on the case, having read through the findings, reports and recommendations of the carabinieri. He is therefore prejudiced against the defendant in the first place. Because of this influence and the consequent prejudice, the judge, before listening to the defence, addresses to the defendant questions which are absolutely irrelevant to the charge. The following are a few examples of questions which are now very common in the courts of Somalia: "What political party do you belong to?" "What is your tribe?" "Were you in Mogadiscio on 11 January 1948?" "Have you been working for the British Administration and, if so, in what capacity and for how long?" If the defendant protests that these questions have no bearing on the charge, the judge severely reprimands him and orders him to answer the questions put to him without further argument.

It is to be noted that under the British administration the judge never knew anything about the case until it was brought before him for trial, so that he was in a position to start the case with an open mind, and without having any preconceived ideas. He therefore tried the case on the evidence produced before him from both sides, namely, the prosecution and the defence.

Another interesting point in the Italian court procedure is that there is no public prosecutor in the whole of Somalia except and only in the assize court in Mogadiscio. In all district courts, the district commissioners are invested with the functions of public prosecutors, in addition to that of judges.

Normally prisoners are not brought before a court for trial. The judge studies the case submitted by the carabinieri, from which he makes his judgment. This always means conviction, for the judge is only acquainted with one side of the story. Thereupon he fills an official form which is called Decreto Penale (penal decree) concerning the case. These forms are later taken, in great bundles, from the court to the prison by a carabinieri, who parades the prisoners and distributes the forms to them, calling out their names and at the same time announcing the sentence inscribed on the form. Sentences may vary from 14 days to three years imprisonment with hard labor, a fine up to a thousand shillings, or both.

Cases of the few prisoners who are fortunate enough to be tried before a court of law are heard in camera, to prevent the public discovering the irregularities of Italian court procedure.

The denial of the right of entry to the Courts is another violation of article 10 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights on the part of the Italian administration.

The so-called Decreto Penale has proved an effective means of achieving the aim of the Italians to suppress their political opponents. Hundreds of Somali Youth League members and their supporters, including branch secretaries and committee members, chiefs, sheikhs, elders and other influential men and administrative officials, in every town and village all over the territory, have been arrested and sentenced to from six months to three years hard labor, by means of the Decreto Penale. Under this Decreto Penale the accused is not allowed to be represented by an advocate. I enclose a copy of Decreto Penale. ITALIAN TRUSTEESHIP

Reproduced in the New Times and Ethiopia News from the New Statesman and Nation

Sir :

A very serious situation is developing in Somaliland under Italian trusteeship. Correspondence from British sources from Somalis in Somaliland and from Somalis who have escaped to Ethiopia, reveals that so far from the promise against political discrimination given by Mr. Tarchiani at the United Nations on behalf of the Italian Government being honored, a ruthless persecution of the members of the Somali Youth League, who opposed Italian Trusteeship, is under way. In the first 47 days after the British hand-over to the Italians more than 300 Somali Youth League members had been thrown into prison. All the senior police officers, inspectors, sergeants and others employed by the British have been dismissed or imprisoned, including Aden Abdi and Mohamed Abshir, who were dismissed from police service in Mogadiscio and Farah Segulle, who was serving as an interpreter to the British Consul in Mogadiscio when he was arrested. The trials are in secret, the courts being closed to the public.

All the Somali Youth League branches in the Upper Juba have been closed: Mohamed Abdi Nur (Guiggio), the Branch Secretary at Baidoa and all his Committee have been imprisoned : Mohamed Yusef, the Branch Secretary at Dolo and his Committee, are also in Mogadiscio Central Prison.

Methods similar to those of Fascism in Italy are now in full swing. Somali quislings, ex-soldiers who were induced to support the return of Italy on promise of pay for each of the years of Italy's absence from the Territory, are being armed to attack the Somali Youth League who opposed Italian trusteeship, just as the Fascist black-shirt squads were armed from the State arsenals of Italy to make war on the trade unions and Socialist organizations.

The trusteeship agreement directs that nationals of all members of the United Nations shall have the same liberty of trade, freedom of movement and so forth in the Trust Territory as the Italians. Nevertheless, passengers on British planes who stop at Mogadiscio airport on their way to other territories are kept in a small waiting room and not allowed to enter the town. All applicants for admission to the airport are screened by the police and are rigidly prevented from communicating with the passengers thus interned.

The administration of the colony is manned by "old colonials," who served under fascism, including Secretary-General Gorini, who under fascism was in the Government of Harar in Ethiopia; Dr. Gualtiero Bernardelli, the present Political Secretary in Somaliland, was Regional Commissioner of Somaliland; the present Regional Commissioner of Somaliland is Dr. Gabbari, who was an official of the fascist Government of Harar under Mussolini...

The draft trusteeship agreement will shortly come before the General Assembly of the United Nations for ratification or rejection. It is obvious that the confidence in the "New Italy" displayed by the United Kingdom and other governments last year has been misplaced. Is it not possible to induce the General Assembly to reverse the decision?

ITALIAN FASCISM, 1950

Reproduced in the New Times and Ethiopia News from the Indian at Home and Overseas

Signor de Gasperi's idea that the new Italian administration of Somaliland would be a "new cycle" in Italian colonialism can hardly still become a truism. Indians in Somaliland are inclined to think that it would assist the administration's reputation if the administrators' faces also formed a new cycle.

Indians, along with the Somali people themselves, suffered under former Italian rule, with its oppressive race-conscious conceptions. Now they are ruled by a new administration, headed by many of the fascists which ruled them before. This position was not forestalled by any criticism and the attention of the Italian authorities has been drawn to it since. It has been of no avail.

The whole administration is a travesty of the spirit with which Mr. de Gasperi announced the handing over from British to Italian rule. What was ostensibly to be a democratic protectorate has already been turned into a fascist State by political arrests and the "screening" of visitors and a below-surface censorship. Without approving some of the activities of the nationalist SYL organization, many of them have been sacked from positions they held in the Somali police and replaced by Italians or specially selected sympathizers. More than a "new cycle," the new administration would appear to be merely a vicious circle of Mussolini's fascism in a new guise.

[15 November 1950]

Note by the Secretariat: In accordance with a decision taken by the Fourth Committee at its 177th meeting on 15 November 1950, the Secretary-General has the honour to circulate herewith to members of the Committee the following extracts from the minutes of the United Nations Advisory Council for the Trust Territory of Somaliland under Italian Administration :

1. Resolution adopted by the Advisory Council at its ninth meeting on 14 August 1950;

2. Letter dated 14 August 1950 from the Chairman of the Advisory Council to the Administrator of the Trust Territory of Somaliland under Italian administration.

TERRITORIAL COUNCIL FOR THE TRUST TERRITORY OF SOMALILAND UNDER ITALIAN TRUSTEESHIP ADMINISTRATION

Resolution adopted by the Advisory Council at its ninth meeting, 14 August 1950

Whereas, the General Assembly adopted at its 250th plenary meeting on 21 November 1949, a resolution (289 A (IV), part B) recommending that the territory formerly known as Italian Somaliland should be an independent and sovereign State; that its independence should become effective at the end of ten years from the date of approval of a trusteeship agreement by the General Assembly; and that, during that period of ten years, the territory should be placed under the International Trusteeship System, with Italy as the Administering Authority, aided and advised by an Advisory Council composed of representatives of Colombia, Egypt and the Philippines;

Whereas, under resolution 289 A (IV), part B, Italy was invited to undertake provisional administration of the territory, until the General Assembly had approved a trusteeship agreement, under certain conditions therein specified, including an undertaking to administer the territory in accordance, inter alia, with the terms of a trusteeship agreement negotiated with the Trusteeship Council;

Whereas, the Trusteeship Council, as requested by the General Assembly, has agreed with the Government of Italy upon the draft of a trusteeship agreement;

Whereas the Administering Authority, in accordance with article 8 of the draft trusteeship agreement, requested on 4 May 1950 the advice of the Advisory Council in respect to the number, composition and selection of a territorial council as provided for in article 4 of the annex to the draft trusteeship agreement;

Now, therefore, the Advisory Council

Agrees to advise the Administering Authority that the composition and number of the territorial council should be based upon the following fundamental principles:

(1) The territorial council should, in its overwhelming majority, be composed of Somalis;

(2) The membership of the territorial council should be between 25 and 35;

(3) Not more than three-quarters of the indigenous representation should be tribal, that is to say, nominated through tribal gatherings;

(4) Seats should be granted in the territorial council to representatives of the major indigenous political groups;

(5) Seats should be granted to representatives of the Italian, Arab and Indian/Pakistani communities;

(6) Italian officials and Italian members of the security forces should neither be electors nor candidates for election;

(7) Officials of the Administration should not have ex-officio seats with voting rights in the territorial council, but should be able to attend meetings of the council as assessors;

(8) At this stage representation should be given to agriculture, trade and commerce, including representation for progressive Somali elements;

(9) As soon as is practicable, representation should be given to employees and wage earners;

(10) Members of the territorial council should be appointed for a period of one year;

(11) The territorial council should hold two or three annual sessions in Mogadiscio, unless the Council decides to convene elsewhere in the Territory;

(12) A small permanent committee of the territorial council should be set up with the duty of representing the territorial council between meetings; its members should be elected by the members of the territorial council.

(13) In view of the number of languages and dialects spoken in the Territory no language should be barred, but Somali, Arabic and Italian should be considered the official languages of the territorial council.

Requests the Chairman to explain its advice to the Administering Authority in a letter.

LETTER DATED 14 AUGUST 1950 FROM H.E. E. DE HOLTE-CASTELLO, CHAIRMAN OF THE UNITED NATIONS ADVISORY COUNCIL FOR THE TRUST TERRITORY OF SOMALILAND UNDER ITALIAN ADMINISTRATION TO H.E. AMBASSADOR G. FORNARI, ADMINISTRATOR OF THE TRUST TERRITORY OF SOMALILAND UNDER ITALIAN ADMINISTRATION

You will no doubt remember that in the letter I addressed to you on 17 May,²⁹ in reply to the request for advice addressed by you to the Advisory Council regarding the territorial council in Somaliland, I pointed out that it would be difficult to give a comprehensive answer on the problem of the territorial council "before knowing the result of the consultations undertaken by your Administration." The letter continued: "The trends revealed by these consultations would, in addition, permit a more precise evaluation of the extent to which solutions adopted elsewhere may be adapted to the needs of the Territory".

Since then three months have elapsed. The Advisory Council has been able to observe the situation and development in the Territory with its reply to your request in mind. The Secretariat has had time to prepare a number of specialized and comparative studies and has thus assisted the Council, by taking stock of the experience already acquired by countries with comparable problems, in reducing the number of alternative solutions. Finally, you were good enough to transmit to the Council, on 27 July 1950, a memorandum³⁰ summarizing the result of your own inquiry. The Council thus feels in a better position to make an attempt to give you a considered reply to a very complex question.

In transmitting the Advisory Council's reply, we feel that we should not offer you our advice in the shape of a clear cut plan, but rather give you an outline of the principles upon which we think the number and composition of the territorial council should be based and an outline of what we consider to be both desirable and practicable. There must obviously be a gap between the best solution from the point of view of theoretical perfection and that which meets the test of practical applicability. Any workable solution must be a compromise between the ideal which would not correspond to the degree of development of the majority of the inhabitants of Somaliland (and would carry within itself the seeds of destruction) and the solution which would not carry in itself the elements of evolution towards a greater approximation to what is commonly understood as democratic in the sense of modern statehood. Whatever is done at this first stage of development must be considered primarily in the light of its educational value, as a step in the direction of preparing the inhabitants for the tremendous responsibilities which self-government and independence will throw upon their shoulders in a comparatively short time.

³⁰ Ibid., annex IX.

We would like to emphasize at the outset that our proposals are based upon the assumption that the territorial council will be subject to the permanent creative processes of future improvement in the sense that the people will be granted a progressively greater share of responsibility in the selection of its members, who will themselves receive progressively an extension of the scope of the questions with which they are charged.

We feel—this is the first concrete point we desire to make—that the council should in its overwhelming majority be composed of Somalis.

The second concrete point we desire to make is that the size of the council should be kept within the size recognized as an optimum in the light of the experience acquired by some countries with considerable experience in this field, i.e., membership should be between 25 and 35. Smaller councils have not only the disadvantage of reflecting less correctly the different groups, tendencies and interests, but their educational value is clearly reduced. The number of persons who gain parliamentary experience and education (if the word parliamentary can appropriately be applied to this first stage) is too restricted and the fruits of their experience will thus be available to a smaller circle of their compatriots. It is obvious that one of the chief advantages to be gained from the experiment will be the spreading of the knowledge acquired during the sessions by the members on return to their tribes, towns and villages. A growing percentage of the inhabitants of this Territory will thus become aware of the importance of the territorial council, the problems and the difficulties of self-government.

This view presupposes, it must be admitted, the hope that the tribal representatives, on returning among their own kin, will not consider the new experience as an additional element for preserving their aloof hieratic position, as a sort of additional secret knowledge giving them greater rather than smaller discretionary powers over their subjects.

We suggest that the territorial council, whose members should hold office for one year, should meet in two or three sessions annually, in Mogadiscio unless it decides to convene elsewhere in the Territory. A smaller committee fairly reflecting the composition of the council as far as it is possible and elected by its members, should remain permanently in session in Mogadiscio during intervals between sessions of the council itself. The creation of a permanent secretariat is not only a technical necessity for the proper functioning of the council, but it would moreover have the duty to keep in constant touch with the members after their temporary return to their homes and particularly inform them of the progress of legislation taking place in their absence. It may also be charged with the task of "propagandizing" the territorial council and its activities in a manner best adapted to the conditions in Somaliland.

As the communication of the Administration on the result of its referendum shows, there is, among part of the indigenous population, a lack of comprehension of the whole idea of the territorial council. The territorial council will have, in addition to its immediate task, the duty and the function to teach a great majority of the population to think in terms beyond the tribal horizon, to create, up to a point, and to foster the sense of national unity. It will be the first national institution.

This leads to the third important point we wish to make, namely, the question of tribal, as against territorial, representation.

The tribal organization comprises the majority of the population and is still so powerful as to include and hold in its bonds the majority of the town population and the overwhelming percentage of the indigenous population is still in a nomadic stage. As long as the conditions persist, it is in our opinion unrealistic to discard—as one of the political parties suggest—the tribal basis altogether in favour of basing representation in the council on a territorial system of selection.

On the other hand, tribal organization belongs to a primitive stage of social and economic development of humanity. As experience shows it is progressively discarded with technical development and with political evolution in the direction of self-government and national independence. Tribal organization is a static force; in a certain moment it may become a reactionary force.

Faced with this dilemma, we have come to the conclusion that a correct appraisal of the realities of Somaliland and a regard for the needs of safeguarding the progressive evolution of the political, economic and social life of this country suggests that the representation of the indigenous population should be in part tribal, in part political. Not more than three-fourths of the indigenous representation should therefore be tribal.

The Council does not feel competent to give advice on the methods by which tribal representation should be selected. It feels, however, that the very lack of territorial boundaries, the fact that tribes cut across the administrative lines of districts or provinces, suggests the utilization of the tribal machinery for the presentation of candidates. It is difficult to see how the presentation of persons through districts or regional officers can guarantee the final selection of representatives enjoying the confidence of the tribe as a whole, wherever situated in the Territory, and not one or the other of its major branches.

Believing as we do that ultimate technical and political evolution must be affected by the speed with which the Somalis can throw off those aspects of their tribal affiliations which are barriers to their progress, we welcome your statement that you intend to establish district councils. We believe that the future machinery of representation should be through the media of district and municipal councils and that it is through them that the Somali people will eventually accept the idea of "territory" in place of that of "tribe".

The representation of political parties and minority groups is the fourth major subject on which we desire to comment.

We are strongly in favour of giving the political parties seats in the Assembly, possibly in a number which might be considered disproportionate to the total number of their members and to the actual importance of these parties. The parties represent after all the forward-looking element, and to some degree the only element among the indigenous population with some feeling for the need of national unity and administrative centralization. Anything which encourages the parties and gives them responsibilities in competition with the responsibilities traditionally vested in sultans, chiefs and elders will finally bear fruit, as the parties are bound to become the basic factors of the future political life of an independent Somaliland. In stating this, we have been aware that the present party structure will probably undergo far-reaching evolution and changes.

The Council feels that the granting of membership in the territorial council to political parties imposes upon them the concomitant obligation to select their candidates in a genuinely democratic manner, by a vote of their membership and not by appointment on the part of the chairman or leaders of the respective groups.

However, we feel that, through the representation of the parties, some of the youthful elements of the indigenous population will have a chance of participating in the affairs of their country in general, which will otherwise be closed to them.

As to the representation of the Italians and the minority groups, it is generally agreed that the Italians, the Arab, the Indian and the Pakistani communities must have representation, although opinions may differ regarding its respective strength and the number of their representatives in comparison with the total membership of the territorial council.

As to the Italian representation, the Council feels that double representation may be justified through the election of two members belonging to different categories, one a representative of the overall interests of the Italian community, one a representative of economic interests. It is hoped that members belonging to this group will be elected by orthodox democratic methods.

The Council feels, however, that whatever the legal position of the Italian officials and members of the security forces, no franchise should be granted to these members of the Administering Authority.

The fifth major point we wish to make and which is closely linked with the Italian representation on the Council is the problem of official members.

The above remarks have not included the question of the participation and role of members of the Administration in the territorial council.

The question is whether members of the Administration—preferably the heads of the important administrative departments of AFIS—should sit in the assembly, and the capacity in which they should be seated if it should be decided to include them.

The Council feels that in view of the clear statement contained in the draft trusteeship agreement that the territorial council be composed of "inhabitants of the Territory and representative of its people", membership of officials in the territorial council in the capacity of "official members" is clearly excluded. The Administering Authority should, on the other hand, have the right to designate officials or experts to explain its policies before the territorial council. Furthermore we consider that the council should have the right to call upon the Administering Authority to designate officials or experts to appear before it to explain policy, since we are of the opinion that it would in its first stage be quite unable to fulfil its purpose unless it has permanent aid, advice and counsel from those who are executively responsible for the activities of the Administration in the Territory. Moreover, the accumulated experience which was gained with official members in countries with a structure comparable to that of Somaliland has been highly satisfactory. In view of these considerations it is proposed that persons representing different branches of AFIS be ex-officio added to the council as assessors.

Question six with which the Council desires to deal relates to the representation of economic interests (industrial, banking, trade and agricultural).

In those States where democratic processes of government have reached an advanced stage, it is possible to represent all the interests of the community through candidates elected by normal democratic processes. We recognize that in this Territory the economic interests, so important to its future, would probably not have an adequate voice in a council composed of members elected through the tribal machinery and the organizations of the political parties and minority groups. In view of this we consider that, at this stage, there is a case for giving seats in the territorial council to members who will not only represent the interests of agriculture, trade and commerce, but will be in a position to give much valuable guidance and instruction to their fellow members in connexion with the formulation of economic policies for the Territory. Among representatives of economic interests the Council would hope to see Somalis representing progressive elements who are striving to overcome the antiquated methods of property owning, farming and stock-raising which are inherent in the tribal system. The Council believes it unlikely that such men will be included among the tribal representatives and that some other means than the machinery of tribal representation must be found of selecting them, if this is possible.

The Council is of the opinion that in arriving at the composition of the economic representation regard must be given not only to the aspect of securing adequate representation for these interests themselves in proportion to their importance, but to the guidance and instruction which the economic representatives can give the council. From this latter point of view, emphasis would naturally lie in the direction of ensuring that representation should be as diverse as possible.

The territorial council should also provide for the representation of employees and wage earners. This might be done at a time when these elements have become sufficiently organized to propose candidates for appointment to the territorial council.

It is the opinion of the Council that, having regard to the number of languages and dialects spoken in the Territory, there should, at this stage at any event, be no language bar to the selection of members of the territorial council. The official languages of the territorial council should be Somali, Arabic and Italian.

In conclusion, the Council desires to emphasize that a territorial assembly thus combining static and dynamic forces, traditional and progressive elements will best guarantee an evolution which, without violent break, must de facto contribute to the destruction of past patterns and institutions in order to enable Somaliland to become an independent State able to govern and maintain itself in a community of nations which has reached a higher politico-economic-social level. We are aware that the evolution will be painful. Much that is most genuinely Somali and valuable may be destroyed in the process which, once initiated, cannot be arrested.

The Council is confident that you will take into consideration the views outlined above before taking your final decisions on the structure of the territorial council. It believes that none of the principles and suggestions made is in basic contradiction to any of the views held by you and your Government.

I attach hereto the resolution of the Advisory Council which forms the basis of this letter.

Budget estimates for the financial year 1951 for the United Nations Advisory Council for the Trust Territory of Somaliland under Italian Administration : report of the Secretary-General

[Original text : English]
 [19 November 1950]

1. At its fourth session the General Assembly passed resolution 289 (IV) of 21 November 1949, providing inter alia that Italian Somaliland should be an independent sovereign State at the end of ten years from the date of approval by the General Assembly of a trusteeship agreement, with Italy as Administering Authority. The resolution further stated that the Administering Authority should be aided and advised by an Advisory Council composed of representatives of three States, with headquarters at Mogadiscio. The Advisory Council was required to commence the discharge of its functions when the Italian Government began its provisional administration, and to continue for the duration of the period of trusteeship.

2. Under the terms of section D of the resolution, the Secretary-General was authorized to reimburse travelling and subsistence expenses of one representative from each government represented on the Advisory Council, and to provide the Council with such staff and facilities as the Secretary-General might consider necessary to carry out the terms of the resolution.

3. On the above basis, the requirements for 1951 for the Advisory Council for the Trust Territory of Somaliland under Italian Administration are estimated at $192,000 as follows :

	US dollars
Temporary assistance	57,000
Travel and subsistence of members	26,500
Travel and subsistence of staff	77,500
Communications services	7,200
Rental and maintenance of premises	3,000
Stationery and office supplies	2,800
Local transportation	1,000
Maintenance and operation of transportation equipment	3,000
Freight, cartage and express	4,000
Insurance	1,250
Miscellaneous supplies and contractual services .	7,000
Alterations and improvements to premises	750
Miscellaneous equipment	1,000
TOTAL	192,000

4. Under " Temporary assistance ", provision is made for one internationally recruited staff member ($6,600), for locally recruited staff at an estimated cost of $550 per month ($6,600), and for temporary replacements at Headquarters of all secretarial and half the professional staff detailed to the Advisory Council ($43,800), as shown in the Annex.

5. Under " Travel and subsistence of members, " provision is made for travel expenses ($7,500) involving one round-trip for each of the three members of the Council from his home capital to Mogadiscio, plus a round-trip to one of the two Trusteeship Council sessions, which may be required in implementation of article 11 of the draft trusteeship agreement (A/1294). Subsistence allowance, at $20 per day, less a deduction of about 10 per cent for periods of absence, amounts to $19,000.

6. Under " Travel and subsistence of staff, " provision is made for 13 round-trips between New York and Mogadiscio at $1,600 per trip, for replacements of staff and new assignments, and two round-trips of the Principal Secretary to the meeting of the Trusteeship Council and to the General Assembly session ($24,000). Subsistence allowance is computed at the rate of $20 for the Principal Secretary, at the current rate of $10 for 8 staff members with dependents, and at the reduced rate of $7 for 9 staff members without dependents, less a deduction of 10 per cent for periods of absence ($53,500).

7. A sum of $7,200 is requested for " Communications services ", at the average of $600 per month, on the basis of the 1950 pattern of expenditure. Estimates for the other items of expenditure are also based on 1950 experience.

8. The total estimate of $192,000 for 1951 exceeds the 1950 appropriation of $80,000 by $112,000. When the 1950 estimates were presented to the General Assembly, the scope of secretarial assistance required by the Advisory Council could not be gauged accurately, as the trusteeship agreement outlining the responsibilities of the Council had not yet been drawn up. It was assumed that it would be sufficient to assign six staff members for the Council on a long-term basis. It developed, however, that the size of the staff had to be increased considerably to provide the Advisory Council with adequate professional, linguistic, and administrative facilities. The secretarial work-load is augmented by the necessity of using both English and French in all studies and communications involving relationship of the Council with the Italian Administration. Owing to the poor climatic and accommodation conditions, the lack of modern amenities and the excessive heat, it was found necessary, in order to ensure competent assistance for the Council, to detail experienced staff members from Headquarters on one-year assignments and to pay subsistence allowance for which no provision had been made. Costly improvements had to be made to rented premises to provide suitable offices and a meeting room. Cars had to be purchased for local transportation. The actual expenditure for 1950, commencing from last March, is estimated to reach a total of $143,000 or $63,000 in excess of the appropriation. This increase is financed from savings realized from other missions.

9. The estimate for 1951 is based on the level of 1950 expenditure, allowing for additional requirements for field trips throughout Somaliland planned by the Council members and necessary staff. Consideration is being given to the possibility of supplanting daily subsistence allowance for staff by a monthly post allowance when arrangements for adequate accommodation and longer tenure of service can be completed. For budget purposes, however, it would be advisable to plan on the basis of 1950 experience.

10. In submitting the budget estimates for 1950, the Secretary-General expressed his intention to undertake negotiations with the Administering Authority with a view to obtaining reimbursement for expenses incurred by the United Nations in connexion with staff and services provided to the Advisory Council for Somaliland,³¹ on the ground that the Council would be serving a non-Member of the Organization. Such negotiations were carried out in 1950, and the outcome was that the Italian Government would not agree to reimburse the United Nations the cost of the Advisory Council on the grounds that the Italian Government had no control over the expenditures of the Council. To maintain the independent character of the Advisory Council, it is proposed to consider the negotiations for reimbursement of expenditure by the Italian Government as closed.

11. The Secretary-General requests that $192,000 should be appropriated for the Advisory Council for Somaliland under section 5, chapter VIII, of the 1951 budget. These expenses will be partly compensated by an estimated income of $8,000 from the assessments to be levied on the salaries of the internationally recruited and temporary replacement staff.

Report of the Fourth Committee

[Original text : English]
[25 November 1950]

1. The special report of the Trusteeship Council concerning the draft trusteeship agreement for the Territory of Somaliland under Italian administration (A/1294) was referred to the Fourth Committee by the General Assembly at its 285th plenary meeting on 26 September 1950.

2. At the 174th meeting of the Committee, the Chairman invited the representative of Italy and the Chairman of the United Nations Advisory Council for the Trust Territory of Somaliland under Italian Administration to participate in the Committee's deliberations without the right to vote.

3. In a communication dated 19 September 1950 (A/C.4/179) addressed to the Chairman of the Fourth Committee, the Somali Youth League asked to be given an opportunity to make oral statements before the Committee. At the 174th meeting, in the course of the discussion concerning this request, the delegation of Iraq submitted a proposal reading as follows :

“ The Fourth Committee decides to grant the request of the Somali Youth League to participate without vote in the work of this Committee during the debate on the question of the draft trusteeship agreement for Somaliland ”.

The delegation of France proposed that the Fourth Committee should permit representatives of local opinion, such as the representatives of political parties or other organizations in Somaliland, to state their views before the Committee should they desire to do so. The delegation of Cuba proposed that the Fourth Committee should decide to invite the Somali Youth League to be present at its meetings and to authorize its representatives to make a statement expressing their views on the draft trusteeship agreement. In accordance with rule 130 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly, the proposal by the delegation of Iraq was put to the vote first. The proposal was voted upon by roll-call as follows :

In favour: Afghanistan, Burma, Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic, Czechoslovakia, Egypt, Ethiopia, India, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, Mexico, Pakistan, Philippines, Poland, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Yemen.

Against: Australia, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Union of South Africa, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, United States of America.

Abstaining: Argentina, Brazil, China, Colombia, Cuba, El Salvador, Greece, Haiti, Israel, New Zealand, Thailand, Venezuela, Yugoslavia.

The proposal was adopted by 20 votes to 11, with 13 abstentions.

4. The Chairman accordingly invited the representative of the Somali Youth League to participate, without the right to vote, in the work of the Committee.

5. In a communication dated 15 November 1950 to the Secretary-General, the Conferenza della Somalia asked to participate in the discussions of the Committee. The Committee, at its 179th meeting, decided to accord the request and the representative of the Conferenza della Somalia was invited to participate, without the right to vote, in the Committee's deliberations.

6. At the 175th meeting, the President of the Trusteeship Council, Mr. Max Henríquez Ureña, made an introductory statement in which he outlined the work done by the Trusteeship Council in accordance with General Assembly resolution 289 (IV) of 21 November 1949, and reviewed the main provisions of the draft trusteeship agreement for Somaliland and the declaration of constitutional principles which is attached thereto and which forms an integral part of the agreement.

7. Statements were also made by the Chairman of the Advisory Council for the Trust Territory of Somaliland under Italian administration and the representative of Italy. The Chairman of the Advisory Council informed the Committee of the activities of the Council since its inception and gave a general outline of the situation in the Territory. The representative of Italy summarized the events in the Territory since the assumption on 1 April 1950 of the provisional Italian administration and gave assurances of the determination of the Administering Authority to prepare Somaliland for independence in a spirit of justice, peace, liberty and progress and to implement the terms of the trusteeship agreement in the spirit and the letter of the Charter of the United Nations.

8. The discussion on the item was then begun and continued until the 180th meeting of the Committee. Statements were made by the representatives of the Somali Youth League and the Conferenza della Somalia and the latter representative answered questions put to him by members of the Committee.

9. Two draft resolutions and a joint proposal were submitted for the Committee's consideration, as referred to below.

10. The delegation of Ethiopia submitted two draft resolutions the first of which (A/C.4/L.102) read as follows :

“ Whereas the provisions of Articles 79, 83 and 85 of the Charter of the United Nations require that the terms of trusteeship for each territory to be placed under the Trusteeship System shall be agreed upon by the States directly concerned, before approval of such agreement by the United Nations, and

“ Whereas the same provisions of the Charter require that any alteration or amendment of the terms of trusteeship shall likewise be agreed upon by the States directly concerned prior to submission of the same to the United Nations for its approval, and

“ Whereas the Trusteeship Council in examining the question at no time sought any such agreement within the meaning of Article 79 of the Charter, and

“ Whereas the Trusteeship Council has not prepared any agreement submitted to or agreed to or containing any agreement or approval by the States directly concerned, and

“ Whereas in respect of the Territory of former Italian Somaliland there is no agreement containing the terms of trusteeship for such Territory and/or for alteration or amendment of said terms, for the placing of said Territory under the Trusteeship System, and agreed to by the States directly concerned, which is submitted to the United Nations for approval in accordance with Articles 79 and 85 of the Charter, nor does document A/1924 constitute any such agreement within the requirements of the aforementioned Articles,

" The General Assembly declares

" 1. That the Fourth Committee of the General Assembly has not been seized of an agreement by the States directly concerned, containing the terms of trusteeship, including all alterations or amendments of the same, for the placing of the Territory of former Italian Somaliland under the Trusteeship System, and

" 2. That no agreement having been submitted to the United Nations for its approval in accordance with the provisions of Articles 79, 83 and 85 of the Charter, the United Nations is unable to proceed further with the question raised by the provisions of the recommendations of 21 November 1949, part B, with respect to Italian Somaliland (General Assembly resolution 289 (IV))."

The draft resolution was voted upon by roll-call at the 176th meeting as follows :

In favour : Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic, Czechoslovakia, Ethiopia, Poland, Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Against : Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Colombia, Cuba, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, India, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Israel, Mexico, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Sweden, Thailand, Union of South Africa, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, United States of America, Uruguay, Venezuela, Yemen.

Abstaining : Afghanistan, Burma, Egypt, France, Guatemala, Haiti, Yugoslavia. The draft resolution was rejected by 34 votes to 6, with 7 abstentions.

11. The second draft resolution (A/C.4/L.105) submitted by the delegation of Ethiopia read as follows :

" Whereas the terms of Article 79 of the Charter of the United Nations require the agreement by the States directly concerned to the terms of trusteeship for each territory to be placed under the Trusteeship System, including any alterations or amendments thereof, and

" Whereas in respect of former Italian Somaliland, a Member of the United Nations has claimed to be a State directly concerned within the meaning of Article 79 of the Charter, and

" Whereas the aforesaid Member of the United Nations claims that its agreement to the terms of trusteeship for the placing of former Italian Somaliland under the Trusteeship System has not been obtained as required by the provisions of Article 79 of the Charter, and

" Whereas the aforesaid Member of the United Nations has claimed that without its agreement, as a State directly concerned by virtue of the provisions of Article 79 of the Charter, approval by the United Nations of any trusteeship agreement concerning former Italian Somaliland would be contrary to the provisions of Article 2, paragraph 7, of the Charter, in respect of certain territories and inhabitants, in view of the absence of any frontier with former Italian Somaliland,

" The General Assembly,

" By virtue of the provisions of Article 96 of the Charter of the United Nations, requests of the International Court of Justice advisory opinions on the following questions :

" 1. By what criteria are States determined to be ' States directly concerned ' within the meaning of Article 79 of the Charter ?

" 2. What authority or authorities are competent to determine what States are entitled to be considered ' States directly concerned ' within the meaning of Article 79 of the Charter ?

" 3. What procedure or procedures shall the competent authority or authorities apply in determining what States are ' States directly concerned ' within the meaning of Article 79 of the Charter ?

" 4. What procedure or procedures shall the organs of the United Nations, in accordance with the provisions of Articles 79, 83 and 85, apply, following determination by the competent authority or authorities of the ' States directly concerned ' within the meaning of Article 79 of the Charter ?

" 5. What procedure or procedures shall the organs of the United Nations, in accordance with the provisions of Articles 79, 83 and 85, apply, in the absence of a determination by the competent authority or authorities of the ' States directly concerned ' within the meaning of Article 79 of the Charter ?"

12. At the 179th meeting, the Chairman requested the delegation of Ethiopia to withdraw that draft resolution. The delegation of Ethiopia complied with that request, while reserving the right to submit the same or another draft resolution on that question when the draft agreement relating to trusteeship over former Italian Somaliland came before the General Assembly. No objection was raised to his reservation.

13. The delegations of Argentina, Colombia, Denmark, Iraq, Norway, Pakistan, the Philippines and the United States of America submitted a joint draft proposal (A/C.4/L.104) which recommended that the General Assembly should approve the draft trusteeship agreement and called its attention to the declarations regarding the trusteeship agreement made by the representative of the Administering Authority during the discussion in the Fourth Committee. Subsequently, the delegation of India joined the sponsors of the proposal, which was revised (A/C.4/L.104/Rev.1) to read as follows :

" The Fourth Committee

" Recommends that the General Assembly approve the draft trusteeship agreement for the Territory of Somaliland under Italian administration, as contained in document A/1294, negotiated by the Trusteeship Council with the Administering Authority pursuant to General Assembly resolution 289 (IV); and

" Calls the attention of the Assembly to the declarations regarding the trusteeship agreement made by the representative of the Administering Authority during the discussion in the Fourth Committee³² and, in particular, to his undertaking to prepare Somaliland for independence in a spirit of justice, peace, liberty and progress, and to implement the terms of the Agreement in the spirit and the letter of the provisions of the Charter of the United Nations."

The joint draft proposal was voted upon by roll-call at the 180th meeting as follows :

In favour : Afghanistan, Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Burma, Canada, Chile, China, Colombia, Cuba, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Egypt, El Salvador, France, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, India, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Israel, Lebanon, Mexico, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Pakistan, Peru, Philip-ines, Saudi Arabia, Sweden, Syria, Thailand, Union of South Africa, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, United States of America, Uruguay, Venezuela, Yemen, Yugoslavia.

Against : Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Abstentions : Liberia.

The draft proposal was adopted by 44 votes to 5, with 1 abstention. The delegation of Ethiopia did not participate in the vote.

14. In accordance with the above decision, the Fourth Committee recommends that the General Assembly approve the draft trusteeship agreement and declaration of constitutional principles contained in document A/1294, pages 5-11.

DOCUMENT A/1552

Financial implications of the conclusions of the report of the Fourth Committee (A/1550) : twentieth report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

[Original text : English]
[25 November 1950]

1. The Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions has considered a report submitted by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/406) on the financial implications of the conclusions of the report of the Fourth Committee on the draft trusteeship agreement for the Territory of Somaliland under Italian administration (A/1550).

2. The General Assembly, at its fourth session, appropriated an amount of $80,000 to cover the estimated expenses for 1950 of the United Nations Advisory Council for the Trust Territory of Somaliland under Italian Administration. The Council did not start full-scale work until last March and, on the basis of actual expenditure since that date, the revised estimate for 1950 amounts to $143,000, or $63,000 in excess of the appropriation.

3. The estimated expenditure for 1951 amounts to $192,000, including an item of $57,000 for temporary assistance. The latter figure comprises the cost of replacement of one-half of the professional staff detailed from Headquarters; the direct gross salary costs of the remaining three staff members in this category amount to approximately $33,000. The resulting total of $90,000 in respect of salaries appears to the Committee excessive, and a reduction of $15,000 in the item for temporary assistance is accordingly recommended.

4. The Advisory Committee notes that, although the substitution of a monthly post allowance is under consideration, the provision of $53,500 for subsistence allowance to staff members is based on the existing system of daily rates for the whole year. As regards the corresponding provision ($19,000) for members of the Council, a deduction of 10 per cent for periods of absence appears unnecessarily low. The Committee recommends a global reduction of $15,000 on the two items for subsistence.

5. In reporting on the outcome of his negotiations with the Administering Authority for the reimbursement of expenses incurred by the United Nations in connexion with staff and services for the Advisory Council, the Secretary-General has stated (A/C.5/406) that the Italian Government declines to make such reimbursement, on the ground that the expenditure in question is not within its own control. The Advisory Committee cannot concur in the proposal made in the Secretary-General's report to regard the negotiations as closed, and it suggests that the General Assembly may wish to give further consideration to the matter, since substantial services are being rendered, through the Advisory Council, to a non-member of the United Nations.

6. On the basis of the observations made in paragraphs 3 and 4 above, the Advisory Committee recommends an appropriation, under section 5, chapter VIII, of the 1951 budget, of $162,000, representing a reduction of $30,000 on the provision requested.

7. The salaries of the internationally recruited staff members of the Advisory Council secretariat and of the temporary replacement staff at Headquarters are gross, and the offsetting revenue in respect of contributions under the Staff Assessment Plan is estimated at $8,000.

Financial implications of the conclusions of the report of the Fourth Committee (A/1550) : report of the Fifth Committee

[Original text : English]
[30 November 1950]

1. In accordance with rule 152 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly and with the request of the President in his letter dated 21 November 1950 (A/C.5/415), the Fifth Committee, at its 270th meeting held on 28 November 1950, considered the financial implications of the recommendation of the Fourth Committee (A/1550) that the General Assembly approve the draft trusteeship agreement and declaration of constitutional principles as contained in document A/1294.

2. The Fifth Committee had before it a report by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/406) giving estimates as to the budgetary provision required in 1951 for servicing the Advisory Council for the Trust Territory of Somaliland under Italian Administration, and the twentieth report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (A/1552), which had considered these estimates following reference to it of the Secretary-General's report.

3. The Secretary-General estimated that, on the basis of 1950 expenditures, with allowance, however, for additional expenses of field trips throughout Somaliland as planned by the Council, budgetary requirements for the Advisory Council would amount in 1951 to a total of $192,000, against which there would be offsetting revenue under the Staff Assessment Plan amounting to $8,000. The Secretary-General also informed the Fifth Committee in his report that negotiations had been carried out in 1950 with the Administering Authority with a view to obtaining reimbursement for expenses incurred by the United Nations in connexion with staff and services provided to the Advisory Council. The Italian Government, however, would not agree to such reimbursement, on the grounds that it had no control over the expenditures of the Council. In these circumstances and in order to maintain the independent character of the Advisory Council, the Secretary-General proposed that the negotiations for reimbursement by the Italian Government be considered as closed.

4. The view was expressed by the Advisory Committee that certain savings should be possible with respect both to temporary assistance and to the provision requested for travel and subsistence of members of the Council and of staff. On the basis of its observations on these items, the Advisory Committee recommended an appropriation of $162,000 under section 5, chapter VIII, of the 1951 budget, representing a reduction of $30,000 on the provision requested by the Secretary-General. The Advisory Committee further recommended that the question of seeking reimbursement from the Administering Authority should be given further consideration, since substantial services were being rendered through the Advisory Council to a non-Member of the United Nations.

5. The Fifth Committee was informed that the Secretary-General was unable to concur in the total reduction proposed by the Advisory Committee, and that a global cut of $10,000 in the estimates as originally submitted represented the maximum which, in his opinion, could safely be made. In addition to the views of the Advisory Committee and the Secretary-General, the Committee heard a statement by the Chairman of the Advisory Council for Somaliland, in the course of which maintenance of the proposed provision for travel and subsistence was requested. The Chairman of the Advisory Council also proposed, at the Council's request, that consideration be given by the General Assembly to the erection of a building in the centre of Mogadiscio for use by the Council. Although the matter had not been examined in detail, he believed that a suitable building could be provided at a cost of approximately $30,000. The Fifth Committee agreed that this latter proposal should be referred to the Advisory Committee for examination and report, if possible during the current session of the General Assembly.

6. A number of delegations having expressed their concurrence in the observations of the Advisory Committee concerning the desirability of continuing negotiations with the Italian Government for reimbursement of expenses incurred by the United Nations for staff and services rendered to the Advisory Council, the Fifth Committee was assured by the Secretary-General's representative that further efforts in this direction would be undertaken.

7. On being put to the vote, the Secretary-General's request, as supported by several delegations, for an appropriation of $182,000 under section 5, chapter VIII, of the 1951 budget was rejected by 19 votes to 12, with no abstentions. A proposal by the representative of the United Kingdom that an appropriation of $175,000 should be approved was then accepted by 25 votes to 12, with 3 abstentions.

8. The Fifth Committee therefore decided to inform the General Assembly that adoption of the proposal of the Fourth Committee with reference to Somaliland would require budgetary provision in 1951 in the amount of $175,000.

DOCUMENT A/1389

Letter dated 9 August 1950 addressed to the Secretary-General from the Chairman of the Ethiopian delegation to the United Nations

[Original text : English]
[23 November 1950]

With reference to the Official Records of the General Assembly, Fifth Session, Supplement No. 8 (A/1285), containing the report of the United Nations Commission for Eritrea, I have the honour to draw your attention to certain errors in reporting statements made by myself at the Commission on 10 and 11 April of this year, as published in annex 7 of the document under reference.

In order that the records of the Commission and of its consultations with the Ethiopian Government should be correct, I transmit herewith certain corrections with reference to specifically numbered paragraphs of annex 7, with the request that appropriate distribution be given to these corrections.

Paragraph 19: The statement to the effect that I had assured the Italian Foreign Minister that, if he listened to the Italians in Ethiopia over the radio he would find that they disagreed with him, is obviously a misstatement. I quite obviously stated that :

“ If the Italians in Ethiopia listened over the radio to the statements of the Italian Foreign Minister, he would find that they disagreed with him ”.

Paragraph 20: The three final sentences of this paragraph are incomplete and therefore misleading. I stated, in fact, that :

“ The Eritrean population, by an unmistakable majority of the inhabitants of the whole Territory, had clearly stated its desire for union without conditions with Ethiopia, which fact would appear to exclude the more complicated and conditional forms of integration suggested. As the Pakistan Foreign Minister had maintained at Lake Success, the essential consideration was the wishes of the population itself, and such would appear to be the wishes of the population. The Ethiopian Government had always declared that it would conform to any clear and unmistakable expression of these wishes. He would submit details to the Commission on that point also ”.

Paragraph 21: Solely the first and the two final sentences of this paragraph correctly reported my statements. As regards the remaining sentences, I, in fact, stated that :

“ The United Nations Commission for Eritrea might possibly have reached the conclusion—whether or not it was founded, he would not take it upon himself at that time to say—that a possible majority of the inhabitants in that region of Eritrea known as the Western Province, might not be in favour of union with Ethiopia. Although his Government had certain reservations in that connexion, it would not oppose a separate solution for that area if, on the basis of a clear expression of a majority of the inhabitants of that Province, the United Nations decided that that was the best settlement ”.

Paragraphs 36 and 37 taken together do not correctly represent my statements which were to the effect that :

“ The Minister for Foreign Affairs of Ethiopia thanked the Pakistan representative for the spirit in which he had spoken, a spirit which was in conformity with the promises of objectivity and impartiality made at Lake Success by the Pakistan Foreign Minister in regard to the conduct which would be followed by the Commissioner for Pakistan on the United Nations Commission for Eritrea. His observations were very important and, as he had been left the choice the previous day, he would answer that representative's request for additional information in writing ”.

Minister for Foreign Affairs and Chairman of the Ethiopian delegation to the United Nations

Iraq : revised draft resolution

Revisions in italic[Original text : English]
[23 November 1950]

Whereas by paragraph 3 of annex XI to the Treaty of Peace with Italy, 1947, the Powers concerned have agreed to accept the recommendation of the General Assembly on the disposal of the former Italian Colonies in Africa and to take appropriate measures for giving effect to it,

Whereas by paragraph 2 of the aforesaid annex XI such disposal is to be made in the light of the wishes and welfare of the inhabitants and the interests of peace and security, taking into consideration the views of interested Governments,

Having taken note of the fact that according to the report of the United Nations Commission for Eritrea there is serious cleavage of opinion among the members of the Commission as well as the inhabitants of Eritrea as to the future of that country,

Whereas under the circumstances it would be inadvisable for the United Nations, pledged to the principle of self-determination, to impose any decision as to the future of Eritrea on the people of that country;

The General Assembly,

1. Recommends that the question whether Eritrea shall enter into some form of federation with Ethiopia under the crown of His Majesty, the Emperor of Ethiopia, or become an independent sovereign State granting Ethiopia suitable access to the sea, shall be determined by a National Assembly duly representative of the people of Eritrea not later than 1 July 1951;

2. Appoints a United Nations Commissioner in Eritrea and a Council to aid and guide him, to assist the people of Eritrea to decide the above question and to effect its implementation; the Council shall consist of representatives of (seven) countries and three representatives of the people of Eritrea;

3. Recommends, further,

(a) That the representatives of the people of Eritrea be appointed by the Commissioner after consultation with the representatives of the above named countries on the Council and the representatives of the leading political parties and organizations in Eritrea;

(b) That the United Nations Commissioner, in consultation with the Council, convene a duly representative National Assembly as early as possible and in any case not later than 1 June 1951;

(c) That the administering Power co-operate with the United Nations Commissioner in the attainment of the above objectives and so administer the Territory that all power may be transferred to a duly constituted government for Eritrea not later than 1 January 1953;

(d) That the United Nations Commissioner, in consultation with the Council, submit to the Secretary-General an annual report on the progress of the implementation of the above recommendations and such other special reports as he may consider necessary. To these reports shall be added any memorandum or document that the United Nations Commissioner or a member of the Council may wish to bring to the attention of the United Nations.

Statement by the Chairman of the delegation of the Moslem League of Eritrea at the 49th meeting of the Ad Hoc Political Committee on 21 November 1950[Original text : English-Italian]
[21 November 1950]

1. Perhaps the war in Korea and the danger of its spreading to the rest of the world deserve most of the Committee's time and attention. Nevertheless, is it not a fact that in Eritrea there are one million people eagerly awaiting your just decision concerning their ultimate fate and that of their future generations? Hence I crave your attention and your permission, with a minimum of your valuable time, to explain the case of my country, which is now before the Committee.

2. Recently a United Nations investigating Commission composed of five members visited our country with the object of ascertaining the political wishes of the people. But the Committee will remember that in our letter dated 26 October 1949 we clearly indicated our fears and sounded a warning when we requested the United Nations not to appoint as a member of the Commission anyone representing a country which had interests in our territory or one attached to another country which has such interests. Yet despite these expressed fears, the Commission was formed otherwise and visited our country for the supposed investigation, only to reach the biased results which we anticipated and feared.

3. The Commission, furthermore, was deliberately hindered from effecting any reasonable investigation to ascertain the true wishes of the people. The activities of the terrorists who undermined public security and prevented many people from appearing before the Commission at the various points it visited largely contributed to these hindrances. We duly informed the Commission of all these acts of intrigue and lawlessness which were deliberately calculated to prevent the true voice of the people from being heard.

4. We have no desire to dwell here on what happened to the United Nations Commission during its visit to Eritrea and on the sufferings of our people during that period. Nor do we wish to dwell on the work of the Commission, whether based on the principles of equity and justice or otherwise. We merely wish to place before the Committee the great sufferings of the people following those unfortunate developments.

5. It is a fact that the Eritrean hinterland is today at the mercy of the terrorist bandits who are shamelessly active on behalf of foreign elements. Acts of robbery and arson have become quite common and are reminiscent of the dark ages, so much so that communications between principal towns have been seriously interrupted except for caravans under police guard.

6. Yet the present Administration in Eritrea has taken no serious step to crush these bandits and to rid the country of their terror, whereas this action would be within its power had it cared to fulfil its obligations to the Eritrean people.

7. While many Eritreans were debarred from presenting themselves before the five-Power Commission as a result of the activities of the terrorists, many of the latter coming over from behind the Eritrean-Ethiopian border were made to wear Moslem dress and to appear before the Commission as genuine Eritrean Moslems. This scandal, however, was discovered by the Commission itself on investigation as a consequence of our report. After seeing these masquerading agents in the Islamic towns, such as Mussawah, we duly informed the British authorities, but to no avail.

8. We mention these terrorist bandits in order to draw the Committee's attention to the very serious situation in our country, inasmuch as these bandits are continuously infiltrating from behind the Ethiopian border where the authorities grant them all forms of support and encouragement. It is befitting, in this connexion, to quote here the message dated 4 April 1950 sent to the five-Power Commission during its visit to our country by the Eritrean Christian Progressive Party :

"Confirming our previous letter of the same date concerning the terrorist bandits (shijta) and their agreement with Ethiopian officials, we beg to state :

"On March 24th 1950, the well known terrorist bandit Uolde-gehriegel Mosasghi and his brother, Berhe Mosasghi, offered and enacted to the Ethiopian authorities at Axum in their name and on behalf of their followers, their allegiance.

"On March 27th 1950, a similar allegiance by another terrorist bandit, Hanneta Gheremariam Cohain, was made to the Ethiopian authorities.

"On March 30th 1950, the well known terrorist bandit, Asressehei Embaie, accompanied by all his armed followers, went to Rama (Tigrai) where exists the Court of the Governor for the district bordering on Eritrea (Ahsea and Aderbate). This terrorist bandit indulged in many talks with the chiefs and notables of the district and he spent the night at the house of the district Governor !

"All these bandit terrorists, after declaring their allegiance to the Ethiopian authorities, continue to visit by day and night Ethiopian territories.

"Their allegiance to the Ethiopian authorities makes us suspect that it is for no purpose other than harming the Eritreans who are demanding the independence of their country. Their direct contact with the Ethiopian authorities is for the purpose of imparting to them personally the necessary instructions instead of doing so through their spies and agents, as used to be the case in the past.

"It is our hope in your Honourable Commission that it will pay these incidents its serious attention, as befits its human duty, in order to find a means of safety and security for the Eritreans who are standing for their independence.

(Signed) Degiat Subhatu JUHANNIS "

9. The Committee will note from this letter just quoted, and which was duly submitted to the Principal Secretary of the five-Power Commission for Eritrea, to what extent the relations of the terrorist bandits with the Ethiopian authorities have developed. In brief, Ethiopia is the one which is encouraging the terrorist bandits and is strengthening them with all means whenever they weaken.

10. Amongst the proofs of this intimate association between the terrorists and the Ethiopian Government is their escape into Ethiopian territory whenever the police try to combat their terrorism; but this is only for a time, as they continue endlessly with their activities. All protests made by the parties of the Independence Bloc or by the people at large have been of no avail. On the contrary, the situation has further deteriorated, and we have the terrorists not only preventing the peaceful citizens from presenting themselves before the Commission, but also hastening to take their place as the rightful representatives of the people. This explains why many Eritreans who should have appeared before the Commission in various parts of the country were forced to remain away.

11. This state of terrorism is continuing to the present day, threatening the safety of all peace-loving citizens, who feel no security for themselves or their families even in their homes. Among the victims of these barbarous practices were notable personalities such as Azmac Berhe, one of the leaders of the Liberal and Christian

Progressive Party, who was assassinated together with his cousin and daughter. Furthermore, attempts have been made repeatedly in the town of Adi Quala on the lives of Degiac Uoldegherghis and his son Asmeron, who is the Secretary of the Liberal and Christian Party. Similarly, repeated attempts were made with fire-arms or poison on the life of Ato Uoldeab Uoldemariam, President of the Independence Party. Such are but a few examples of the wide-scale terrorism committed by this hired clique, which are to be considered when the fate of our country is to be settled.

12. We leave aside now the question of public security in our country in order to talk to the Committee about our just demands which prompted our people to send us here for the third time in order to place them before you again, just as they were expressed before the five-Power Commission and earlier before the Four-Power Commission, both of which visited Eritrea for the purpose of ascertaining the wishes of the people and collecting the necessary information concerning the Eritrean question. These may be summarized as follows :

- (1) Effective independence for Eritrea.
- (2) Forming of a democratic government.
- (3) Maintaining the territorial unity of Eritrea within its present geographical borders.
- (4) Refusing any project for the partition of Eritrea or for the annexation of any part of Eritrea to Ethiopia or to the Sudan, as well as any scheme of annexation or subordination to any other country.
- (5) Declining any project for union or federalization with Ethiopia.
- (6) Opposing any postponement in solving the Eritrean question.

13. Now I will discuss the point of opposition to annexation to Ethiopia. This opposition is not limited to the Moslems. Whether the annexation takes the form of union or federation with Ethiopia, it extends to the majority of their Christian brethren who belong to the Liberal and Christian Progressive Party, the party of independent Eritrea, the party of New Eritrea, the Organization of War Veterans as well as the Italian Eritreans, all of whom have lost a number of their prominent men during the prevailing strife, apart from the harm and injury that have been inflicted on many of them for their staunch defence of their principles.

14. This is enough practical proof for refuting such a charge as to the narrow scope of our independence movement. Furthermore, we have no common economic interests with Ethiopia, inasmuch as our country is self-sufficient, depending on its own produce, which it exchanges commercially with neighbouring countries such as those of the Arabian Peninsula, the Sudan and the East Coast of Africa.

15. Hence our emphatic demand to the United Nations that it refuse annexation to Ethiopia since no economic, ethnological, linguistic or historical ties whatsoever between Eritrea and Ethiopia have ever existed. Similarly, we strongly oppose our country becoming an integral part of Ethiopia. Our aim is solely limited to securing independence and establishing a democratic constitutional government for it.

16. Our country has never been subject to Ethiopia, even in ancient times. On the contrary, the Eritreans were forced on many occasions to hurl back attempted invasions by the Ethiopians, who invaded the country for the sake of robbery and plunder.

17. As to our modern history, it is a well known fact that our country consisted of small principalities until it was occupied by the Abbasides and later by the Ottoman Turks, then by the Egyptians and later by the Italians, who seized our country from the Egyptians and not from the Ethiopians, as claimed by the Ethiopian Foreign Minister and by those whom he inspires and who support him.

18. For what reason then is an attempt being made to annex our country, which is predominantly Moslem, to Ethiopia ? We reiterate our emphasis that we have never been ruled by Ethiopia and we challenge the Ethiopian Government to give us the names of its rulers over Eritrea, if such rulers ever existed, and to give the years of their tenure of office and to tell us when their authority passed over to the Italians, who finally handed it over to the British.

19. What we are sure of is that the Ethiopians never entered our country except as brigands attacking men, women and children, as well as property, and playing havoc and destruction all around. Despite their barbaric deeds, they never succeeded in subjugating Eritrea and they found that the Christians among the population were those who offered the greatest opposition as witnessed in the fight (the last of its kind) that was fought between the Christian leader Uoldinchiel from the Christian tribe of Hazzega in the district of Hamusien, who is well known by the name of Gourida, and the Ethiopian Chief Ras Bairu.

20. Of similar significance were the wars between the Christians of the tribes of Acchele Guzai headed by the House of Asberom to which is related Ras Tesemma, President of the Liberal and Christian Party, and between the tribes of Serae, and Ethiopia.

21. As to the wars between Ethiopia and the Moslems, these were numerous. As an example, we need but mention the wars of the tribes, particularly the famous battles of Robrabia, also the wars that followed between these tribes and the tribes of Balau, Naeb, Samhar, and equally the wars between the tribes of Baria, Cunama, Beni Amer, Bilen, Maria, Meusa, Algheden and all the coastal tribes.

22. Was not this armed opposition exclusively for the sake of preventing them from occupying the country ? If you realize all these facts, do you still wish to hand Eritrea over to its historic enemy under the pretext of union or federalization ? And why should division be considered when the country unanimously refuses such an idea ? Is it because we are weak and because we are a peace-loving nation ?

23. To take such a decision against the wishes of the country would be incompatible with the lofty principles for which the Allies fought the Second World War and the principles for which this great international Organization has been founded, and the founding of which was hailed by weak and strong alike.

24. I shall now deal with our demand for independence, which is put forward in the name of the overwhelming majority of the population, whether they are Moslems or Christians, who with us regard independence as an honourable and sacred right which belongs to all nations.

25. No doubt the representatives of this Committee have been convinced, in the light of the reliable information which we have submitted, of the justice of our cause. Your scrutiny and study should make it even clearer and more convincing. It is the cause of the independence of a people who refuse and reject any form of annexation, dismemberment or a return to the hated status of colonization, no matter what type it would be, whatever form it might take, of from which direction it might come.

26. We believe that after all the authentic data which we have submitted, you are in no further need of proof concerning the justice of our cause, which is backed by logic and by our natural right. Indeed, our problem does not require further proof but only good faith and the examination of the problem with human understanding and with full respect for the right of people to decide their own destiny for themselves and by themselves. This course alone befits the principles of the United Nations.

27. This indisputable right to independence to which our country is devoted cannot be ignored without creating a new area of strife in East Africa, since the Eritrean people will never accept Ethiopian domination. Vivid in their memories are the traditional wars and barbaric acts of aggression in which the Ethiopians have indulged throughout the decades. Their nature has not changed, which can be seen from the acts of terrorism which they still perpetrate, which they support wholeheartedly, and among the victims of which we find such prominent Eritrean leaders as Abdelkader Kebiri, Nasreddin Azmac Perhe, Abdalla Taha, Mahmud Shek Osman Hassalalha.

28. Furthermore, the incidents of 21 February 1950 which—criminally planned and perpetrated—took place during the meeting of the United Nations Commission for Eritrea at Asmara, can never be forgotten as convincing proof of the ill faith of Ethiopia and its criminal agents towards the Eritrean people.

29. Our people do not propose to attack or to rob anyone. They merely want their independence, which is justified by their national entity, by their economic resources, by their common feelings and by the harmony that prevails between the various elements of the population. These are realities—not fancies—in Eritrea: hence our demand for independence has a sound background that merits full appreciation and respect. Our people are no less entitled to independence than are neighbouring nations, particularly the Ethiopians: they are rather more advanced and more entitled to independence than the latter in many respects.

30. Again, we are no less entitled to independence than the people of Libya or Somaliland who formerly belonged to the Italian protectorates and who have secured recognition of their independence through the far-sighted justice of the United Nations. Why should we be denied this natural right?

31. Our aspirations for independence are clear, and we are not prepared to consider any alternative whatever, as we have already explained and reiterated. We do not express the desire of a mere party or clique, but of the overwhelming section of the population who do not want to have anything to do with Ethiopia.

32. As to Ethiopian fear of Eritrea becoming "once more" a springboard for the invasion of Ethiopia, we need scarcely point out that, so far as the Eritrean people are concerned, this fear is groundless. Furthermore, we—and not the Ethiopians—are exposed to aggression from our neighbour, who is inventing such absurd excuses as a disguise for its colonial plans, and to prevent us from determining our own destiny.

33. I shall now deal with the problem of Eritrean unity versus dismemberment.

34. The Eritrean people, who have lived for centuries in peace and harmony within their own natural and historic borders, cannot logically be accused now of requiring dismemberment in order to create a new, artificial "harmony". This is nothing, in the eyes of Eritrea, but a shameful excuse to conceal the Ethiopian policy of aggrandizement. Even in troubled times such a remedy has never before been thought of, and the preservation of peace and order in Eritrea has never constituted a great problem for the British authorities. All such troubles have been the outcome of the Ethiopian terrorists alone; and this fact is fully known to the British authorities.

35. Our people are living in harmony, Moslems and Christians alike. They have no need for and will never tolerate any notion of dismemberment. They uphold their national unity and the integrity of their country as a sacred trust and a sacred ideal.

36. We should like to know at what period in our history there was any manifestation of national differences and friction between Moslems and Christians. Failing this knowledge, and in the absence of discord between the religious elements of the Eritrean nation, we obviously cannot approve of any scheme for partition. Such an idea has been opposed and fought by all Eritrean parties, and we cannot believe that this Committee would consent to the employment of such a coercive measure to achieve an artificial condition.

37. The partition of Eritrea is not only against the wishes of the Moslem population but is, to a large extent, against the interests of the Christian population as well, since the tribes of Logoo Cina, Carana Cudo, Deda Habela, Mulezzanai, Scibatte Anseba, Liban, Decch, Danscim and others cannot do without the wester pastures which belong entirely to the Moslem section of the population. According to the scheme for partition, this portion of the country would be annexed to the Sudan, regardless of the national status and the legitimate aspirations of the people.

38. It is a fact that the discussions which have been carried out concerning the partition of the country on an ethnological basis—which is supposed to be associated with religious differentiation—has no justification whatsoever.

39. All scholars of Eritrean history know only too well—as we do now—that religion in our country is merely a surface covering which has been spread by the ages, and has nothing to do with the real composite elements of our nation. For example, a number of Christian communities, from time to time, have adopted Islam without losing the national characteristics shared by their compatriots who remained Christians. Furthermore, that section of the country—which some propose to annex to Ethiopia against the wishes of the Eritreans, and which has been called the “Eastern District”—is not entirely Christian, its Moslem population being over 50 per cent of the total figure, and, in addition, it is closely and vitally associated economically with the “Western District”, to an extent which would make them absolutely inseparable.

40. I now come to the federation issue. We refuse to accept such an ambiguous scheme. We would like to know the difference between independence—which it promises in glowing terms—and what we are asking for. Furthermore, a federal union, as we understand it, can only arise willingly between two independent States of equal sovereign rights, and not between an independent State and one which is being denied independence. Such a compulsory federation, which we are being ordered to accept against our wishes, does not signify any respect for liberty or for the democratic principles of self-determination.

41. We demand, first, complete independence. Later, when his independence will have ensured the proper functioning of a constitutional democratic government, it would be feasible to submit to our independent nation the proposal of federation. The people will then decide for themselves, and with full liberty, whether to accept or reject it in the light of their own true interests.

42. As to the suggestion that the status of federation is called for because of economic reasons, this suggestion carries in itself its own contradictions, since the very countries which formerly talked of Eritrea's economic failures are now pleading for a federal State in which Eritrea has to share expenses with Ethiopia. Otherwise, what would be the meaning of a federal State?

43. My final point bears on the economic situation. Eritrea has never been the poor country that could not subsist alone, which it is portrayed to be in order to justify the colonial aspirations of some parties. As a matter of fact, Eritrea is an agricultural country with real possibilities; it merely requires technical assistance, as provided for by the Point Four Programme, for example.

44. Yet, despite the lack of such high technical assistance and organization, Eritrea has been producing—thanks to its two rainy seasons and fertile soil—large quantities of cereals, sesame, cotton, cotton oil, tobacco, coffee, peanuts, potatoes, beans, karkadi, senna, as well as various gums, milk and milk products. In addition, Eritrea is one of the great reservoirs for cattle-breeding and for the preparation and tanning of hides. There are also other economic resources such as dom trees, salt, fish powder, fish oil, platinum alcohol, ivory, ostrich feathers and natural pearls. Furthermore, Eritrea has vast undeveloped mineral wealth such as gold, silver, potassium, mica and sulphur. Even petroleum has been discovered by scientific research, as well as manganese. Yet, this wonderful wealth—agricultural, mineral and human—is left unexploited for the benefit of the people and awaits a national independent government which might do so and which might do justice to the potentialities of the country.

45. Ethiopia's demand to annex Eritrea is not only unethical and illogical, but is also entirely contrary to paragraph 2 of Article 77 of the Charter of the United Nations, to which Ethiopia itself has acceded. As to the federalization project, this is incompatible with Article 76 of the Charter as well.

46. To strike the name of Eritrea off the map of the world is something which would not be tolerated by our people, who are fully and bitterly conscious of the great discrepancy between their standards of civilization and the state of backwardness rampant in Ethiopia which, in addition, is torn by endless internal strife.

47. The Independence Bloc parties, which we represent, undoubtedly comprise 80 per cent of the Eritrean people, whether Moslem or Christian. By way of explanation, I wish to submit the following analysis of the composition of the Independence Bloc:

- (1) The Moslem League with all its Moslem members.
- (2) The Liberal Progressive Party, with all its members.
- (3) The Christian Independent Eritrea Party, with 90 per cent of its Christian members.
- (4) The New Eritrea Party with 50 per cent of its members Christians.
- (5) The Nationalist Party with all its Moslem members.
- (6) The Association of War Veterans of Eritrea with a mixed membership of Moslems and Christians.
- (7) The Eritrean-born Italians, all of whom are Christians.
- (8) The Association of Eritrean Intellectuals, whose members readily expressed, before the five-Power Commission, their staunch support of the principles of independence.

48. All these parties—which represent 80 per cent of the population—demand insistently that independence be granted, because they all realize that it is the only solution which would guarantee the happiness of the Eritrean nation and they will not accept any alternative. They would continue to fight steadfastly, by all legal means, for the rights and aspirations of their people.

49. Consequently, we rely upon the Committee's decision, which should be based on these facts, and which should be in full accord with the principles of the United Nations Charter.

50. In all countries, and in Eritrea as well—for Eritrea is not an exception—there has always been and there will always be defeatists and fifth-columnists. Such is human nature. However, we are fortunate to have only a very significant minority of traitors in Eritrea who are in the service of the Ethiopian Government, which is lavish in supplying them with bribes.

51. The so-called "Union with Ethiopia Party" represents these traitorous elements. They receive their large financial support from the Ethiopian authorities, and their activities have brought nothing but disorder and misfortunes to Eritrea. After failing in their propaganda for union with Ethiopia, they tried to serve their masters by supporting the partition scheme and wrote, in that vein, to the five-Power Commission. But this manoeuvre also has failed, and now they have no further principles to serve. In fact, were it not for Ethiopian funds, these phantoms would have disappeared long ago.

52. We have not the least doubt that, with its lofty principles and openmindedness, the Committee cannot help but stand in favour of complete and immediate independence for Eritrea, after a thorough examination of all the facts which we have had the honour to present to the Committee. This is the only solution acceptable to 80 per cent of the people.

53. The Eritrean nation, though conscious of its worthiness of independence, is still very anxious to show the civilized world in every practical way that it deserves this independence, and that it believes in the principles of the United Nations. It is ready to live in peace with every peace-loving nation and to extend its hand even to Ethiopia, if the latter is prepared to drop its colonial aggrandizement policy and is willing to regard Eritrea as its friendly neighbour.

54. As a civilized nation with a history behind it, we readily respect and are prepared to safeguard the rights of all the minorities in our country, once we are granted independence, and we look forward to becoming—after that—a Member of the United Nations. We cannot tolerate colonization or dependency in any form, veiled or open, covert or overt, and we have but one aim besides our independence: to build up a real modern State along democratic lines, and to become an honourable member of the community of nations.

From this point the Chairman of the delegation of the Moslem League of Eritrea spoke in Italian.

55. Before concluding, may I say that certain of these statements that I have heard from representatives, since my arrival, do not correspond to the truth, and are directly opposed to the actual facts.

It is not true that the majority of the population of the eastern provinces consists of Coptic Christians who desire to be annexed to Ethiopia. There are five eastern provinces: (1) the Province of Samhat, the capital of which is Massawa, and which is entirely Moslem; (2) the Province of Danakil, the capital of which is Assab and Thio, and which is entirely Moslem and has been hostile to the Ethiopians from time immemorial (both these provinces are absolutely loyal to the Moslem League and the Watan Party, which are both affiliated to the Eritrean Independence Bloc); (3) the Province of Hamasien, with 75,000 members of the Moslem League and about as many Coptic Christians belonging to other parties in the Independence Bloc; (4) the Province of Serae, with 60,000 Moslems, all League members, in addition to the large numbers of their Christian brothers who belong to other parties in the Independence Bloc, particularly the Liberal Party and the Independent Eritrea Party; (5) the Province of Acchele Guzai, with its eighty-six Moslem tribes, the Saho, League supporters to a man. As Brigadier Longridge, the former United Kingdom Administrator, pointed out, these tribes are well known for their ancient hostility to Ethiopia. The Saho tribes, with other minor groups, amount to a total of 171,000 souls—excluding, of course, their Coptic Christian brothers of the Liberal Progressive Party and other parties affiliated to the Bloc.

56. Where, then, is the alleged majority of Christian Unionists in the eastern provinces? Let me give you the following figures, which will make the position even clearer:

Province	Christians	Moslems
Hamasien	164,500	75,000
Serae	119,000	60,000
Acchele Guzai	132,000	171,000
	415,500	306,000

If we add to the 306,000 Moslems of the above three provinces the 200,000 of the provinces of Massawa and Danakil, we obtain a total of more than 500,000 Moslems alone. The number of Moslems thus exceeds the number of all Christians, even including those who support the Independence movement, in these provinces. Where, then, is the alleged majority, and what is the explanation of these false reports which are heard from time to time here in the United Nations?

57. In 1949, in fact, it was alleged that the majority of the population of the Eritrean coast consisted of Coptic Christians who were in favour of annexation. None of you is ignorant of the purpose of this pretence; and at the time we energetically denied it and proved its falsity. Then it was claimed that Eritrea did not possess the necessary degree of economic self-sufficiency for independence. Then, again, it was declared that there was a danger that Eritrea might become the springboard for a third aggression against Ethiopia, and so on and so forth. For example, it was said that the demand for independence was merely a camouflage for indirect colonization, and that Eritrea was nothing but an artificial creation of Italy (as though Eritrea had not been created by God when he created all the other lands of the earth). And now it is falsely alleged that the majority of the people of the eastern provinces are Christians (a claim which the Eritreans themselves, who know well that the overwhelming majority of the population of Eritrea consists of Moslems, have never made). And finally, the fear is expressed in some quarters that if Eritrea obtains its independence it may be attacked by Ethiopia—which is exactly the contrary of the fear of aggression through Eritrea voiced here last year. And no one can say which of these two fears is the more justified.

58. These are strange contradictions; but in reality they merely expose the true nature of the underhand intrigues designed only to satisfy Ethiopia at all costs, for reasons of which we are ignorant, by the direct or indirect annexation of Eritrea, if necessary under the camouflage of "federation", which our people energetically oppose and have instructed us to urge you to reject out of hand.

59. May I make one more brief comment, which must not be construed as a sign of acceptance, but is intended solely to bring to your attention a claim which we have heard made, and to prove to you that it is groundless.

60. You have been told that the majority of the Eritrean people are Unionists. If this fantastic and fictitious claim is true, why are its sponsors afraid to face the consequences? Why do Ethiopia and her powerful supporters refuse to support the resolution submitted by Iraq, if they are certain that the Unionists are in the majority, and would thus be in the majority in the desired constituent assembly of Eritrea? Why do they wish at the very outset to impose federation on Eritrea, against its will, instead of leaving the Eritrean people free to choose their own destinies, for better or worse? Dictation is not a democratic method of procedure. I leave it to you, therefore, to decide according to your conscience; but I must remind you that not a single Eritrean who has come before the Commission has been in favour of federation, and that even the so-called Unionists do not desire or accept the idea. Yet here we are faced first with a plan of partition, and then with a plan of federation.

61. I do not wish to take up any more of your valuable time, and shall therefore refrain from speaking to you of the false statements made before the Commission, the infiltration of Ethiopians in order to lengthen the lists of Unionists, and the bands of terrorists and shijta who came in from Ethiopia in order to intimidate the people or impede the plebiscite. I thank you all sincerely.

[24 November 1950]

Whereas by paragraph 3 of annex XI to the Treaty of Peace with Italy, 1947, the Powers concerned have agreed to accept the recommendation of the General Assembly on the disposal of the former Italian Colonies in Africa and to take appropriate measures for giving effect to it,

Whereas by paragraph 2 of the aforesaid annex XI such disposal is to be made in the light of the wishes and welfare of the inhabitants and the interests of peace and security, taking into consideration the views of interested Governments,

Having taken note of the fact that according to the report of the United Nations Commission for Eritrea there is a serious difference of opinion among the members of the Commission as well as the inhabitants of Eritrea as to the future of that country,

Whereas under the circumstances it would be inadvisable for the United Nations, pledged to the principle of self-determination, to impose any decision as to the future of Eritrea, other than that of self-government, on the people of that country;

The General Assembly

1 Recommends

(a) That Eritrea shall be constituted an independent and sovereign State as soon as possible and in any case not later than 1 January 1953;

(b) That a constitution for Eritrea shall be framed by a National Assembly duly representative of the people of Eritrea;

(c) That in framing the constitution the National Assembly shall ensure to all residents of Eritrea without distinction of nationality, race, sex, language or religion, the equal enjoyment of human rights and fundamental liberties;

(d) That the National Assembly shall be convened as early as possible and not later than 1 October 1951;

(e) That the National Assembly shall set up a provisional Government of Eritrea at as early a date as practicable, bearing in mind 1 April 1952 as the target date, to which shall be progressively transferred all powers now exercised by the administering Power, such transfer to be completed by 1 January 1953;

(f) That the provisional Government shall as soon as possible enter into negotiations with Ethiopia in order to provide it with a suitable access to the sea;

2. Appoints a United Nations Commissioner for Eritrea for the purpose of assisting the people of Eritrea in the setting up of the National Assembly and the formulation of the constitution, and in the establishment of and the transfer of power to an independent Eritrean government;

3. Sets up a Council for Eritrea to advise and guide the Commissioner in the discharge of his functions;

4. Recommends,

(a) That the Council consist of representatives of (five) countries, namely,... and three representatives of the people of Eritrea to be appointed by the Commissioner after consultation with the representatives of these countries on the Council and the representatives of the leading political parties and organizations in Eritrea;

(b) That the administering Power co-operate with the United Nations Commissioner in the attainment of the above objectives, and in particular, in consultation with him, organize as rapidly as possible an Eritrean administration, induct Eritreans into it at all levels and so administer the Territory as to ensure the smooth transfer of power envisaged in sub-paragraph 1 (e);

(c) That the United Nations Commissioner, in consultation with the Council, submit to the Secretary-General an annual report on the progress of the implementation of the above recommendations and such other reports as he may consider necessary. To these reports shall be added any memorandum or document that the United Nations Commissioner or a member of the Council may wish to bring to the attention of the United Nations;

(d) That Eritrea receive such technical assistance as it may request to develop its economy, and that the United Nations Commissioner, in consultation with the United Nations Council and the administering Power, immediately investigate and communicate as soon as possible to the Secretary-General the requirements of Eritrea in this behalf;

(e) That upon its establishment as an independent State, Eritrea be admitted to the United Nations in accordance with Article 4 of the Charter.

Statement by the Chairman of the delegation of the Moslem League of Eritrea made at the 55th meeting of the Ad Hoc Political Committee on 24 November 1950 in reply to questions which had been asked by members of the Committee

[Original text: English-Arabic]
[27 November 1950]

1. We thank the Chairman for having allowed us to speak once again on the question of our country in accordance with what has been agreed upon by the Committee, which decided to let us participate in the debate as in the past, and to make a statement. We do not presume to be linguistic geniuses but the whole point was obvious to us while the Committee was discussing it. The phrase "to participate in the debate and make a statement" means that to participate in the debate is one thing and to make a statement is another. Otherwise the phrases would not have been separated with the conjunction "and". The phrase, as in the past, refers only to having issued permission to take part in the debate, and does not mean to limit the statement or the times of making statements.

2. Before I start to answer the two questions addressed to me, I would like to remind the representatives of this Committee that I am not only the representative of the Moslem League but also the representative of the seven different parties which make up the Independence Bloc. Therefore, it is to be assumed that I represent the point of view of the Independence Bloc which consists of Christians, as well as Moslems, and that the cause which I defend and about which I am making a statement is a cause which deals with an entire nation—not exclusively one sect or group in our country.

3. I have spoken before the First Committee, in the past, as the representative of the Independence Bloc and, also, before the United Nations Commission for Eritrea. Nothing has occurred to change the situation since. I am also the Secretary-General of the Independence Bloc, as well as being the Chairman of the Moslem League; I request, therefore, that this misconception be rectified.

4. The answer to the question regarding the proportions of the Independence Bloc is that we can emphatically claim to represent 80 per cent of the Eritrean people. The Four-Power Commission³³ has submitted the following percentages: the Eritrean Moslem League, 50 per cent; the Party of Liberation and Progress, 5 per cent; the party which, in the past, advocated Italian trusteeship and which is now in the Independence Bloc, 10 per cent; the Watan, or Fatherland Party, which used to advocate United Kingdom trusteeship and which is now in the Independence Bloc, 5 per cent; making a total of 70 per cent. From this, it would appear that the proportion of the membership of the Unionists—that is to say, before dissensions took place in its ranks and before a great proportion dissented from its ranks and joined the Independence Bloc—was 30 per cent at that time. Therefore, where is this alleged majority? If all of these parties are opposed to the Unionist idea and its numbers were actually as reported by the Four Power Commission, as we have mentioned above, and if all these parties have now rallied around the flag of the Independence Bloc, how are we then to explain that it is being said that the majority in Eritrea favours unionism?

5. In addition to that, those who have split from the Unionist Party—the representative of which Party himself acknowledged this fact before the First Committee last year when the representative of Liberia questioned him in this regard—subsequently formed their party which they call the Independent Eritrean Party, and also joined the Independence Bloc, and they number at least 10 per cent, if not more.

6. All this composes the total of the Independence Bloc, making it 80 per cent. From this, it will appear to the Committee that our statement was not sheer fabrication but was based on solid facts, and the figures were not questioned, except those of the Moslem League which did, in the past, and still does claim that it has the majority. As for the listing of the numbers of the Moslem League by the defection of certain members who are all employees under the Administration and who call themselves the League of the Western Province —as one representative mentioned—we answer to that question with the fact that that representative did not seem to remember the number of those people who left the Unionists and did not remember the number of the parties of which the Independence Bloc is composed: these are the Liberal Progressive Party, the Moslem League Party, the New Eritrea Party, the Independent Eritrea Party, the Fatherland Party, the Veterans Association Party, the Italo-Eritrean Association Party, and the Intellectual Association of Eritreans Party. It seems that this representative only wished to remember that clique of employees who left the League for some well-planned purpose—that purpose being only to throw dust into people's eyes and to fabricate facts. In spite of all that, this group still favours the idea of independence and, in any case, it used to oppose unionism completely and used to turn away from any suggestion of union with Ethiopia, no matter how thin that link might be.

7. Consequently, this group should be considered as on the side of the Independence Bloc, rather than on the side of the Unionists. If we were to add the number of the Independence Bloc Parties to the membership of the Moslem League itself—which exceeds the membership of the Unionists—we would then find that the proportion of the people advocating independence was a great majority, and not as is supposed.

8. If we were to assume that the proportion of the Moslem League is only as that representative alleged, 40 per cent, and were to add the proportion of the other parties which are among the Independence Bloc as well as those who have recently split from the Unionists and joined the Independence Bloc, then the proportion of those advocating independence would be 70 per cent and would only be 10 per cent less. Where therefore is that majority which is being claimed for the Unionists?

9. The answer to the second question dealing with our economic relations with Ethiopia is this. In our statements we have never denied the existence of certain economic ties between us and Ethiopia. All we say is that there are no large strong ties between us which should cause us to be subservient to Ethiopia in spite of ourselves or against our wishes. Our economic relations with Ethiopia are not to the extent which would warrant making or forcing us to accept the Ethiopian occupational yoke. Economic relations today are inter-linked throughout the world; therefore, the extent to which Ethiopia needs us economically or we need Ethiopia economically, is comparable to our economic relation with the Arab East, the Middle East, India and the Sudan, which revolves around export and import.

10. As to the allegation that Eritrea is poor and that it is supplied from Ethiopia, we say that that is sheer nonsense, because Eritrea has never completely depended upon Ethiopia for its food products or consumption. Ethiopia has its own agricultural products which are sufficient for its essential needs. That scanty amount which is being imported into Eritrea—and which certainly does not exceed the amount contracted between neighbours—such as the taff cereal from the Tigrai district, which is a part of Ethiopia on the border of Eritrea and which is the poorest part of it, is not required by Eritrea except in very exceptional circumstances which might then force Eritrea to import not only from Ethiopia but also from the Sudan, Yemen and India. That is so because most of the people of Eritrea do not use the taff cereal as a staple food for themselves, but depend more on maize which is abundant in their country.

11. With regard to the observation that economic self-sufficiency is not at all possible so far as we are concerned and that Eritrea can never live an independent life or that it is almost completely dependent upon Ethiopia, we say that a large proportion of this allegation is based on the question of imports and exports which pass through Eritrea in transit either to the outside or from the outside to Ethiopia.

12. That has nothing to do with food for consumption. In spite of all that, we should mention that, whereas most of our exports to Ethiopia are normally consumed by the Ethiopians, most of our imports from Ethiopia are exported to European countries. This is especially so in connexion with cereals, leather, and coffee beans, because most of the Ethiopian products which represent the Ethiopian economy are suitable for sale in European markets.

13. The Eritrean economy proved sufficient during the Second World War and if Eritrea had, in actual fact, been a desert or an arid territory as was described to the representatives, Eritrea could not in our opinion, have overcome safely and economically, that very difficult period of trial. What actually did take place during those very difficult circumstances was the increase of imports and of our economic potentialities.

14. Thus arose several aspects of economic and trade activities which make our country look forward to the future. As soon as the present difficulties are removed, we will be very confident of our economic prosperity and of its contribution to the prosperity and well-being of our country as a whole. If it is wished to have any further explanatory details with regard to the economic situation of our country we could readily refer to the memorandum of the Eritrean Chamber of Commerce which has been distributed among the representatives.

15. Consequently, and basing ourselves on these conditions which are supported by actuality, we adhere to our demands for complete independence for Eritrea and we maintain that that independence cannot be counteracted or argued against by alleging that we are not able to provide for our own needs. The actual fact is that Eritrea is an agricultural country and that it enjoys two rainy seasons a year, which commence in the highlands from the month of July through November and in the coastal districts of the east and the west from January through April. This renders our plateaux and plains very fertile continuously.

16. The existence of a chain of mountains in Eritrea, which are very seldom without rain, is enough indication that Eritrea is properly cared for in the interests of the people with respect to their agricultural projects and with respect to the storage of water which flows abundantly to the Red Sea, along no less than twenty valleys. All this could convert Eritrea into a first-class agricultural and arable land.

17. We repeat that Eritrea lacks nothing but care, technical guidance and capital for executing large-scale projects. This can be gained only through independence and by handing over the administrative reins to the people themselves. The country itself, with its various nationalities, is a clear indication and proof that it is not poor. In Eritrea there are merchants and workers of all nationalities, including some Ethiopian subjects such as the Agami, Amhara and Galla, who came over to us because of unfavourable economic circumstances in their own country. They number tens of thousands, especially in Asmara and Adi-Caieh, and they are extremists with regard to calling for annexation with Ethiopia. They have joined the ranks of the Unionists in order to increase its numerical proportions beyond those which infiltrated into Eritrea for this specific purpose during the presence of the United Nations Commission. The net result is that their means of livelihood are more abundant in Eritrea than in Ethiopia, and that Eritrea is not as poor as it has been represented by certain representatives.

18. As to the actions of the first Four Power Commission which visited Eritrea, that Commission was made up of the representatives of the United Kingdom, the United States of America, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and France, and since each representative was influenced by the general trend of his own Government's policy, the report was more in accord with their particular interests than with the wishes of the people of Eritrea. This in itself is enough indication that the wishes of the Eritrean people were not adequately taken into consideration.

19. If we were to examine the actions of the five-Power Commission, we would find that all their activities took place in a very difficult atmosphere, an atmosphere which was not conducive to the interests of the nationalists there, for there were mercenary bandits who came across the border from Ethiopia and raised havoc among the peace-loving populations. They even managed to prevent representatives of the populations from appearing before the Commission in order to express their views.

20. Added to this situation is the fact that we are the neighbour of Ethiopia, which is still striving to annex our country against our will, and is using for this purpose all sorts of means to demoralize the population. And added to that is the presence in our country of an administering Power which, as is known, advocates division of our country. All these factors are enough to confuse the expression of the wishes of the Eritrean people.

21. Yet, in spite of all that, we did our best and, through legal means, we managed to gather one thousand people to go before the Commission and to the places where the plebiscites were to be held. And God alone knows the suffering we went through and the calamities which befell us in our attempt to preserve peace in our country.

22. As to what has been said about the Moslem League and the Independence Party in the Western Province, suffice it to say that it has no supporters; it is just one of those intrigues which was engineered in order to subjugate the wishes of the people. Numbers which were mentioned by the head of this League in reference to his supporters are really more fiction than truth, and so much so that the Commission itself realized from the statements made by the head of that body that they were untrue. He claimed to have many supporters in Assab, but when the Commission visited there it did not find one single person to support this claim. The people of Assab unanimously refused annexation to Ethiopia. That person also declared before the Commission that he was promised, by the Emperor of Ethiopia, an important position. Similarly, that body, in what is known as the Western Province, was formed only after the arrival of the five-Power Commission in Eritrea. It is enough to say that it consists of a group of insurgents who were on a monthly salary.

23. If you bear in mind all that we have mentioned so far, you will realize that the aim of the setting up of these two bodies is to cause confusion among the representatives, and create the false impression that the Moslems, who represent the great majority of the population, have split into two parties: one favouring union and the other favouring the United Kingdom proposal to divide Eritrea between Ethiopia and the Sudan. But all these attempts have failed as soon as the people realized what was taking place. Therefore those two alleged Leagues are actually the tools of special interests and motives which are contrary to the wishes of the people and without supporters.

24. We would like to ask the members of this Committee how many of them have in the past had their countries subjugated to colonialism and only earned their independence after shedding the precious blood of their sons and sacrificing the flower of their youth, after grave sacrifices. Why are we, therefore, being deprived of this independence which is the natural right of all nations of the world? Is it because of the existence and presence here of a little group which calls for union with a foreign country? The existence of this group should not really earn much consideration, but we should rather consider the circumstances in which this group was created.

25. Our country is the neighbour of a large country which wants to annex ours to it, in spite of the wishes of its people. We have an Administration governing our country which wants to divide our country and to annex part of it at least to Ethiopia. Both parties object to our idea of independence. This is how this group mushroomed up, and it is in fact a minority.

26. According to the democratic system, it should be incumbent upon the minority to abide by and put up with the wish of the majority and adhere to that wish, so as to earn for itself good, equitable treatment from which no harm will come to it.

27. I ask the members of this Committee: Why is European colonialism being fought and opposed? Is it in order to replace it by an African form of colonialism? Ethiopia asked for Somaliland to be annexed to it in spite of the very substantial differences and discrepancies between them—historical, religious, linguistic and racial. During the fourth session of the General Assembly we heard what the Somaliland delegation said about its objections to annexation by Ethiopia, and the same claims which Ethiopia advances now in order to justify the annexation of our country to itself were advanced in support of its claim to Somaliland.

28. But we are glad to see that Somaliland has had its right to independence recognized. Why, therefore, are we being deprived of this natural right which has been given to Libya and Somaliland?

29. The members of this Committee are responsible for what may take place in this part of East Africa in the way of skirmishes and uprisings in case a mistaken decision is made which will force us to resist it in order to earn and maintain our independence and preserve our being. Up to now we have suffered difficulties and tolerated hardships only in order to maintain peace and order in our country and in the hope that we shall get from this Committee justice and an unbiased attitude towards our natural rights.

30. As to the question about the Moslems in Ethiopia which was referred to by the representative of Ethiopia, who said that in Ethiopia there was no Islamic minority problem but that the Moslems, Yemenites and Saudi Arabians are living amicably and peacefully in Ethiopia, we say that this is not the fact. About half of the population of Ethiopia is Moslem, deprived of their rights. The Moslems have no right to any representation in the Government or to have the education and upbringing of their children well looked after.

31. One evidence of this is what happened in the Harrar revolutions during which fire and steel were used, and in other places when people were killed and their homes and villages burnt down. As to the proportion of the population in Eritrea, we say that the Moslems comprise three-quarters of the population, and they are all represented by the Moslem League. This majority has always been substantiated by official statistics and even historic references have mentioned this fact of the Moslem majority. It is also certain that in Eritrea there are 293 tribes, of which 197 are Moslem and 96 are a mixture of Moslem and Christian. If we were to assume that the 96 tribes were all Christian exclusively, would this be more than the 197 purely Moslem tribes? We assure this Committee that the Moslems form an overwhelming majority of the total population of the Eritrean people.

32. There is also quite a large number of their Christian brethren in Eritrea who belong to the parties of the Independence Bloc and who also object to annexation by or union with Ethiopia, their historic enemy, in spite of the fact that they are, like the Ethiopians, Coptic Christians. If we add to these Christians who object to the idea of union the number of the Moslems, who form the overwhelming majority, those who advocate union of Eritrea with Ethiopia are only a weak minority. And this minority is partly made up of Ethiopian elements, including the Agamis who came to Eritrea to find work and a livelihood or to join military units and subsequently settled down because they liked it. These people are known for their extreme attitude towards union.

33. In any case, those who do advocate union with Ethiopia, are, in proportion to the Moslems and Christians who belong to the Independence Bloc, only a minority; it is not at all true that they are the majority, as was mistakenly mentioned by the representatives of certain nations.

34. In spite of the fact that we requested the Commission to inform us of the dates of its impending visits to various places where it wished to carry on its work, so that we could then be able to inform the inhabitants of those various places and districts and enable them to appear before that Commission to express their wishes, and in spite of the fact that we objected to having such a confirmation conveyed to us through the local administration, our requests were not answered.

35. The leadership of the Independence Party therefore remained ignorant of the precise dates of those visits by the Commission to the various plebiscite places, and was therefore unable to inform its supporters when to appear and express their wishes. This is one aspect of the matter. Another is the difficulties which were caused by the terrorists. All this collectively made up the various powerful factors which prevented the majority cross-section of the people from appearing before the Commission.

36. As to our political maturity, we shall confine ourselves to mentioning that the Ethiopian representative could not help but recognize at the last meeting that great numbers of the Ethiopian officials are Eritrean by origin, also that certain members of the Ethiopian diplomatic corps abroad are also Eritreans; some of them are, in fact, members of the Ethiopian delegation now here present. This all goes to show simply that there is an able administrative Eritrean group. And when we know that part of this group might be able to return from Ethiopia to Eritrea, once Eritrea obtains its independence, we fail to appreciate why these able Eritreans can be used in a foreign country and cannot be used in their own. We cannot, in fact, accede to the opinion which was advanced by the Four Power Commission, namely, that at the most only 10 per cent of the population have what is known as political maturity and the necessary culture to enable them to express their wishes concerning the future of their country.

37. This opinion is mistaken and does not conform to the actual facts. It will be remembered that the Eritrean people left no stone unturned in order to express their wishes, upon which depended the future of their country. And what re-enforces this argument is the fact of the assurances which have been received in the past and are still being received by our Independence Bloc—which, as we say, includes six different political parties and two political groups derived from various walks of life and parts of Eritrea, consisting of Moslems and Christians.

38. Can it therefore be said that this is an indication of the absence of political maturity and political consciousness among the Eritrean people?

39. We regret that this Committee apparently has not been fully enlightened as to the real circumstances in our country and the composition of its population and its distribution in the various provinces. We truly regret that very much, because we have noticed, in certain speeches and in the explanations advanced by certain representatives, that the Committee's information about our country is very scanty, so scanty that, in fact, it has not enabled you to make clear suggestions which will fulfil the responsibility which has been bestowed upon you. The fault is not the Committee's. It is the fault of the two Commissions which visited Eritrea, because the information with which they provided you is so inaccurate that it does not enable the Committee to form a clear picture of the situation, especially where the advocates of independence are concerned. For whereas we see some of you describe our country as being very poor and therefore undeserving of independence, we see, on the other hand, some others belittling the importance of the advocates of independence as compared with the Unionists only in order to justify the annexation of Eritrea to Ethiopia, even though that be under the guise of federalism.

40. In reply to the question by the representative of Pakistan, what I mentioned applied only to the eastern province proper. But if he meant by his question that that so-called eastern province includes these districts which we in Eritrea call the southern provinces, which are Hamasien, Achele Guzai and Serae, which comprise the highlands, I shall answer that by saying that a religious pressure did take place there, and that in actual fact many of the ecclesiastical personalities who belong to the Independence Bloc went to Asmara and Adi-Quala to complain to the Commission about that pressure.

41. Finally, we leave it to the Committee to decide our case. We leave the whole decision to the member's unbiased consciences, having full confidence that they will champion the principles of justice and right, in realization of the aims of the United Nations, which is devoted to the maintenance of peace and security in the world as a whole.

[Original text : English]
[29 November 1950]

1. At its 56th meeting held on 25 November 1950, the Ad Hoc Political Committee adopted a resolution (A/AC.38/L.37, A/AC.38/L.37/Corr.1) which recommended that Eritrea shall constitute an autonomous unit federated with Ethiopia under the sovereignty of the Ethiopian Crown, after a transition period which shall not extend beyond 15 September 1952, during which the Eritrean Government will be organized and the Eritrean constitution prepared and put into effect. The resolution also provided that there shall be a United Nations Commissioner in Eritrea who shall, in consultation with the administering Power, the Government of Ethiopia, and the inhabitants of Eritrea, prepare a draft of the Eritrean constitution to be submitted to the Eritrean Assembly and shall advise and assist the Eritrean Assembly in its consideration of the constitution. The Commissioner may also consult with the Interim Committee of the General Assembly with respect to the discharge of his functions in the light of developments and within the terms of the resolution. Financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee (A/1561) : twenty-fifth report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

*[Original text : English]
[1 December 1950]*

1. The Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions has considered a report submitted by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/420) on the financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee in document A/1561.

2. Paragraph 10 of the draft resolution provides that there shall be a United Nations Commissioner in Eritrea, assisted by experts to be appointed by the Secretary-General, while paragraph 15 provides that the Commissioner shall maintain his headquarters in Eritrea until the transfer of power from the administering Power has been completed, at latest by 15 September 1952.

3. The estimated expenditure for the Office of the United Nations Commissioner during 1951 amounts to $266,200, against an actual expenditure of $146,000 during the first half of 1950 for the Commission for Eritrea. In view, however, of differences in the composition and functions of the two bodies, the above figures are not readily comparable.

4. The Advisory Committee considers that, while some savings should accrue on the items for temporary assistance, consultants and subsistence of staff, no precise estimates are possible at the present stage. The following appropriations are accordingly recommended :

	US dollars
Section 25, chapter IX.....	250,000
Section 5, chapter V (Official Records)	5,000

In making this recommendation, the Advisory Committee stipulates that the administrative and financial arrangements of this Office, as well as those of other commissions, should be the subject of careful scrutiny.

5. The salaries of the internationally-recruited staff members of the Office of the Commissioner and of the temporary-replacement staff at Headquarters are gross, and the offsetting revenue in respect of contributions under the Staff Assessment Plan is estimated at $20,000.

Report of the Ad Hoc Political Committee

*[Original text : English]
[29 November 1950]*

1. The General Assembly, at its 250th plenary meeting on 12 November 1949, adopted resolution 289 A (IV) on the question of the disposal of the former Italian colonies. Section C of that resolution provided, inter alia, that a Commission should be established to ascertain more fully the wishes and the best means of promoting the welfare of the inhabitants of Eritrea, to examine the question of the disposal of Eritrea, and to prepare a report for the General Assembly, together with such proposal or proposals as it might deem appropriate for the solution of the problem of Eritrea. The resolution further provided that the report of the Commission should be communicated to the Secretary-General not later than 15 June 1950 for distribution to Member States, and that the Interim Committee of the General Assembly should consider the report and proposal or proposals of the Commission and report, with conclusions, to the fifth regular session of the General Assembly.

2. Pursuant to the resolution, the following reports were submitted :

(a) The report of the United Nations Commission for Eritrea (A/1285);³⁴

(b) The report of the Interim Committee of the General Assembly (A/1388, chapter II A).³⁵

3. The General Assembly, at its 284th and 285th meetings on 26 September 1950, decided to include the item " Former Italian colonies " in the agenda of the fifth session and to refer sub-items (a), (b), (d) and (e) to the Ad Hoc Political Committee.

4. The Ad Hoc Political Committee considered sub-items (d) and (e) relating to Eritrea at its 37th to 40th meetings, and again at its 48th to 56th meetings, inclusive. The sub-items were considered jointly.

5. The following draft resolutions were submitted :

(a) A draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.31), submitted by the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics at the 37th meeting on 8 November, recommending that Eritrea should be granted independence immediately; that the British occupation forces should be withdrawn from Eritrea within three months of the day on which this decision would be adopted by the General Assembly; and that Ethiopia should be ceded that part of the territory of Eritrea which was necessary to secure Ethiopia's access to the sea through the port of Assab.

(b) A draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.32/Rev.1), submitted by Iraq at the 39th meeting on 10 November, and revised at the 53rd meeting on 23 November, recommending that the question whether Eritrea should enter into some form of federation with Ethiopia under the crown of Ethiopia, or become an independent sovereign State, granting Ethiopia suitable access to the sea, be determined by a national assembly duly representative of the people of Eritrea, not later than 1 July 1951. It also provided for the appointment of a United Nations Commissioner in Eritrea and a Council to aid and guide him and to assist the people of Eritrea to decide the above question and to effect its implementation. The Council would be composed of representatives of (seven) countries and three representatives of the people of Eritrea. The draft resolution further recommended (1) that the representatives of the people of Eritrea be appointed by the Commissioner after consultation with the representatives of the States on the Council and the representatives of the leading political parties and organizations in Eritrea; (2) that the Commissioner, in consultation with the Council, convene a duly representative national assembly not later than 1 June 1951; (3) that the administering Power co-operate with the Commissioner and so administer the Territory that all power might be transferred to a duly constituted government for Eritrea not later than 1 January 1953; and (4) that the Commissioner, in consultation with the Council, submit to the Secretary-General an annual report on the progress of the implementation of these recommendations.

(c) A joint draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.37, A/AC.38/L.37/Corr.1), submitted by Bolivia, Brazil, Burma, Canada, Denmark, Ecuador, Greece, Liberia, Mexico, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Turkey and the United States of America, at the 48th meeting on 20 November, recommending a detailed plan whereby Eritrea would constitute an autonomous unit federated with Ethiopia under the sovereignty of the Ethiopian Crown. The joint draft resolution provided for a transition period which should not extend beyond 15 September 1952, during which the Eritrean government would be organized and the Eritrean constitution prepared and put into effect. It also provided for the appointment by the General Assembly of a United Nations Commissioner in Eritrea who would be assisted by experts appointed by the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

(d) A draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.47) submitted by Poland at the 51st meeting on 22 November, recommending that Eritrea be granted independence after three years and that during that period it be governed by a Council of six members : one from Ethiopia, two from the Arab countries, and three from Eritrea, the latter comprising two from the indigenous population and one from the European. The Council would report annually to the General Assembly and it would appoint an Administrator with executive authority and responsible to itself. The resolution further recommended that the British occupation forces be withdrawn within three months of the adoption of the resolution, and that Ethiopia be ceded that part of Eritrea necessary to secure Ethiopia's access to the sea through the port of Assab.

(e) A draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.48) submitted by Pakistan at the 54th meeting on 24 November, recommending that Eritrea be constituted an independent and sovereign State not later than 1 January 1953, and that a national assembly, to be convened not later than 1 October 1951, should frame a constitution for Eritrea and should set up a provisional government, bearing in mind 1 April 1952 as the target date. It further recommended that all powers now exercised by the administering Power be progressively transferred to this provisional government, the transfer to be completed by 1 January 1953. The draft resolution further provided for the appointment of a United Nations Commissioner to assist the people of Eritrea in setting up a national assembly, formulating a constitution, and establishing an independent Eritrean government. A Council consisting of representatives of five countries and three representatives of the people of Eritrea would be established to advise and guide the Commissioner in the discharge of his functions. After making further proposals concerning procedures in the interim period, the draft resolution recommended that Eritrea, upon its establishment as an independent State, be admitted to the United Nations, in accordance with Article 4 of the Charter.

6. At the 48th meeting on 20 November, the Committee considered a letter dated 17 November 1950 from the Chairman of the delegation of the Moslem League of Eritrea (A/AC.38/L.43). It adopted the following proposals :

(a) A proposal by Guatemala to invite the Chairman of the delegation of the Moslem League of Eritrea to participate, as on previous occasions, in the debate in the Committee relating to the question of Eritrea. A vote was taken by roll call, and the proposal was adopted by 31 votes to 16, with 9 abstentions, as follows :

In favour: Afghanistan, Argentina, Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic, Chile, China, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Egypt, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, India, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Israel, Lebanon, Mexico, New Zealand, Pakistan, Poland, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Thailand, Turkey, Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Yemen.

Against: Australia, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Burma, Denmark, Ethiopia, France, Greece, Netherlands, Nicaragua, Norway, Paraguay, Peru, Union of South Africa, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

Abstaining: Canada, Colombia, Liberia, Philippines, Sweden, United States of America, Uruguay, Venezuela, Yugoslavia.

(b) A proposal by Ethiopia to the effect that all political parties in Eritrea which might ask to be heard and to participate in the debate on the question of Eritrea, should have the same privileges as those accorded to the Moslem League delegation. The proposal was adopted by 53 votes in favour, with one abstention.

7. At the 49th and 55th meetings of the Committee, the Chairman of the Moslem League delegation made statements (A/AC.38/L.46, A/AC.38/L.52) and replied to questions.

8. At the 55th meeting on 24 November, the Committee began voting on the draft resolutions before it. The vote on the draft resolution of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (A/AC.38/L.31) was as follows :

(a) Paragraph 1, recommending immediate independence, was rejected by 32 votes to 8, with 15 abstentions.

(b) Paragraph 2, referring to the withdrawal of British occupation forces, was rejected by 36 votes to 8, with 12 abstentions.

(c) Paragraph 3, referring to Ethiopia's access to the sea through the port of Assab, was rejected by 29 votes to 12, with 17 abstentions.

9. At the same meeting a proposal by Cuba that priority in voting should be given to the draft resolutions of Poland and Pakistan, in that order, was adopted by 32 votes to 9, with 13 abstentions. Accordingly, the draft resolution of Poland (A/AC.38/L.47) was put to the vote, with the following results :

(a) Paragraph 1, recommending independence after three years, was rejected by 32 votes to 11, with 13 abstentions.

(b) Paragraph 2, referring to the appointment of a Council of six members, was rejected by 33 votes to 8, with 18 abstentions.

(c) Paragraph 3, referring to the withdrawal of British occupation forces, was rejected by 36 votes to 8, with 14 abstentions.

(d) Paragraph 4, referring to Ethiopia's access to the sea through the port of Assab, was rejected by 27 votes to 10, with 17 abstentions.

10. At the 56th meeting on 25 November, the Committee continued voting on the draft resolutions before it. The vote on the draft resolution of Pakistan (A/AC.38/L.48) was as follows :

(a) The first two paragraphs of the preamble, referring to parts of the Treaty of Peace with Italy, were rejected by 22 votes to 22, with 10 abstentions.

Whereas by paragraph 3 of annex XI to the Treaty of Peace with Italy, 1947, the Powers concerned have agreed to accept the recommendation of the General Assembly on the disposal of the former Italian colonies in Africa and to take appropriate measures for giving effect to it,

Whereas by paragraph 2 of the aforesaid annex XI such disposal is to be made in the light of the wishes and welfare of the inhabitants and the interests of peace and security, taking into consideration the views of interested Governments,

Now therefore

The General Assembly, in the light of the reports of the United Nations Commission for Eritrea and of the Interim Committee, and

Taking into consideration

(a) The wishes and welfare of the inhabitants of Eritrea, including the views of the various racial, religious and political groups of the provinces of the territory and the capacity of the people for self-government,

(b) The interests of peace and security in East Africa,

(c) The rights and claims of Ethiopia based on geographical, historical, ethnic or economic reasons, including in particular Ethiopia's legitimate need for adequate access to the sea,

Taking into account the importance of assuring the continuing collaboration of the foreign communities in the economic development of Eritrea.

Recognizing that the disposal of Eritrea should be based on its close political and economic association with Ethiopia, and

Desiring that this association assure to the inhabitants of Eritrea the fullest respect and safeguards for their institutions, traditions, religions and languages, as well as the widest possible measure of self-government, while at the same time respecting the Constitution, institutions, traditions and the international status and identity of the Empire of Ethiopia,

A. Recommends that:

1. Eritrea shall constitute an autonomous unit federated with Ethiopia under the sovereignty of the Ethiopian Crown.

2. The Eritrean government shall possess legislative, executive and judicial powers in the field of domestic affairs.

3. The jurisdiction of the Federal Government shall extend to the following matters: defence, foreign affairs, currency and finance, foreign and interstate commerce and external and interstate communications including ports. The Federal Government shall have the power to maintain the integrity of the federation, and shall have the right to impose uniform taxes throughout the Federation to meet the expenses of federal functions and services, it being understood that the assessment and the collection of such taxes in Eritrea are to be delegated to the Eritrean Government, and provided that Eritrea shall bear only its just and equitable share of these expenses. The jurisdiction of the Eritrean Government shall extend to all matters not vested in the Federal Government, including the power to maintain the internal police, to levy taxes to meet the expense of domestic functions and services, and to adopt its own budget.

An Imperial Federal Council composed of equal numbers of Ethiopian and Eritrean representatives shall meet at least once a year and shall advise upon the common affairs of the Federation referred to in paragraph 3 above. The citizens of Eritrea shall participate in the executive and judicial branches, and shall be represented in the legislative branch of the Federal Government in accordance with law and in the proportion that the population of Eritrea bears to the population of the Federation.

6. A single nationality shall prevail throughout the Federation.

(a) All inhabitants of Eritrea, except persons possessing foreign nationality, shall be nationals of the Federation;

(b) All inhabitants born in Eritrea and having at least one indigenous parent or grandparent shall also be nationals of the Federation. Such persons, if in possession of a foreign nationality, shall, within six months of the coming into force of the Eritrean constitution, be free to opt to renounce the nationality of the Federation and retain such foreign nationality. In the event they do not so opt, they shall thereupon lose such foreign nationality;

(c) The qualifications of persons acquiring the nationality of the Federation under sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) above for exercising their rights as citizens of Eritrea shall be determined by the Constitution and laws of Eritrea;

(d) All persons possessing foreign nationality who have resided in Eritrea for ten years prior to the date of the adoption of the present resolution shall have the right, without further requirements of residence, to apply for the nationality of the Federation in accordance with federal laws. Such persons who do not thus acquire the nationality of the Federation shall be permitted to reside in and engage in peaceful and lawful pursuits in Eritrea. The rights and interests of foreign nationals resident in Eritrea shall be guaranteed in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 7.

7. The Federal Government, as well as Eritrea, shall ensure to residents in Eritrea without distinction of nationality, race, sex, language or religion, the enjoyment of human rights and fundamental liberties, including the following:

(j) The right to a fair and equitable trial, the rights of petition to the Emperor and the right of appeal to the Emperor for commutation of death sentences;

(k) Retroactivity of penal law shall be excluded.

The respect for the rights and freedoms of others and the requirements of public order and the general welfare alone will justify any limitations to the above rights.

8. Paragraphs 1 to 7 inclusive of the present resolution shall constitute the Federal Act which shall be submitted to the Emperor of Ethiopia for ratification.

9. There shall be a transition period which shall not extend beyond 15 September 1952, during which the Eritrean government will be organized and the Eritrean Constitution prepared and put into effect.

10. There shall be a United Nations Commissioner in Eritrea appointed by the General Assembly. The Commissioner will be assisted by experts appointed by the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

11. During the transition period, the present administering Power shall continue to conduct the affairs of Eritrea. It shall, in consultation with the United Nations Commissioner, prepare as rapidly as possible the organization of an Eritrean administration, induct Eritreans into all levels of the administration, and make arrangements for and convoke a representative assembly of Eritreans chosen by the people. It may, in agreement with the Commissioner, negotiate on behalf of the Eritreans a temporary customs union with Ethiopia to be put into effect as soon as practicable.

12. The United Nations Commissioner shall, in consultation with the Administering Power, the Government of Ethiopia, and the inhabitants of Eritrea, prepare a draft of the Eritrean Constitution to be submitted to the Eritrean Assembly and shall advise and assist the Eritrean Assembly in its consideration of the Constitution. The Constitution of Eritrea shall be based on the principles of democratic government, shall include the guarantees contained in paragraph 7 of the Federal Act, shall be consistent with the provisions of the Federal Act and shall contain provisions adopting and ratifying the Federal Act on behalf of the people of Eritrea.

13. The Federal Act and the Constitution of Eritrea shall enter into effect following ratification of the Federal Act by the Emperor of Ethiopia, and following approval by the Commissioner, adoption by the Eritrean Assembly and ratification by the Emperor of Ethiopia of the Eritrean Constitution.

14. Arrangements shall be made by the Government of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland as the administering Power for the transfer of power to the appropriate authorities. The transfer of power shall take place as soon as the Eritrean Constitution and the Federal Act enter into effect in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 13 above.

15. The United Nations Commissioner shall maintain his headquarters in Eritrea until the transfer of power has been completed, and shall make appropriate reports to the General Assembly of the United Nations concerning the discharge of his functions. The Commissioner may consult with the Interim Committee of the General Assembly with respect to the discharge of his functions in the light of developments and within the terms of the present resolution. When the transfer of authority has been completed, he shall so report to the General Assembly and submit to it the text of the Eritrean constitution;

B. Authorizes the Secretary-General, in accordance with established practice :

1. To arrange for the payment of an appropriate remuneration to the United Nations Commissioner;

2. To provide the United Nations Commissioner with such experts, staff and facilities as the Secretary-General may consider necessary to carry out the terms of the present resolution.

Additional report of the Ad Hoc Political Committee

[Original text: English]
[30 November 1950]

1. At the 64th meeting of the Ad Hoc Political Committee on 30 November 1950, the delegations of Brazil, Canada, Mexico, Turkey and the United States of America jointly submitted a draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.59) relating to the appointment of the United Nations Commissioner for Eritrea.

2. The joint draft resolution was adopted at the same meeting by 28 votes to 4, with 4 abstentions.

3. The Ad Hoc Political Committee accordingly recommends that the General Assembly adopt the following draft resolution :

APPOINTMENT OF THE UNITED NATIONS COMMISSIONER FOR ERITREA

The General Assembly, to assist it in making the appointment of the United Nations Commissioner for Eritrea, Decides that a Committee composed of the President of the General Assembly, two of the Vice-Presidents (Australia and Venezuela), the Chairman of the Fourth Committee and the Chairman of the Ad Hoc Political Committee shall nominate a candidate or, if no agreement can be reached, three candidates³⁶ for the post of United Nations Commissioner for Eritrea.

³⁶ The resolution as adopted by the General Assembly (A/1605) provided for "two or three candidates."

Financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the Ad Hoc Political Committee (A/1561) report of the Fifth Committee

[Original text: English]
[30 November 1950]

1. In accordance with rule 152 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly and with the request of the President in his letter dated 27 November 1950 (A/C.5/418), the Fifth Committee, at its 274th meeting held on 30 November 1950, considered the effect on the budget estimates for 1951 of the draft resolution concerning the question of Eritrea adopted by the Ad Hoc Political Committee (A/AC.38/L.37, A/AC.38/L.37/Corr.1).

2. The Fifth Committee had before it a report by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/420) giving estimates of the funds which will be required for 1951 for the purpose of carrying out the terms of the draft resolution of the Ad Hoc Political Committee. The Fifth Committee also had as a basis for its consideration of this matter the observations and recommendations of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions as contained in its twenty-fifth report of 1950 (A/1575).

3. The Secretary-General estimated that, on the basis of section B of the draft resolution under which the Secretary-General is authorized, in accordance with established practice, to arrange for the payment of appropriate remuneration to the United Nations Commissioner and to provide him with such experts, staff and facilities as may be considered necessary, provision would need to be made for total expenditure during 1951 of $266,200. Of this amount, $260,200 would need to be appropriated under chapter IX of section 5 of the 1951 budget and $6,000 for contractual printing under chapter V of section 25. Against this expenditure there would be offsetting revenue under the staff assessment plan amounting to $20,000.

4. The Advisory Committee, in its report, noted that the estimate of $266,200 for 1951 exceeded the actual expenditure of $146,000 incurred during the first part of 1950 for the Commission for Eritrea. It observed, however, that, in view of the difference in the composition and functions of the two bodies, these figures are not readily comparable. Nevertheless, the opinion was expressed that certain savings should be possible with respect to such items as temporary assistance, consultants and subsistence of staff, and accordingly the Advisory Committee recommended that the estimates as submitted by the Secretary-General be reduced by a total of $11,200. The Secretary-General did not contest this reduction.

5. In making the above recommendation, the Advisory Committee stipulated that the administrative and financial arrangements of the Office of the United Nations Commissioner, as well as those of other commissions, should be the subject of careful scrutiny.

6. The representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics stated that the position of his delegation had been explained in the Ad Hoc Political Committee, where it proposed the independence of Eritrea. He would therefore vote against the estimates which were before the Committee.

7. The Fifth Committee thereupon approved by 26 votes to 5 with 2 abstentions the estimates as recommended by the Advisory Committee.

8. The Fifth Committee therefore decided to inform the General Assembly that adoption of the draft resolution recommended by the Ad Hoc Political Committee with reference to Eritrea (A/1561) will require budgetary provision in 1951 in the amount of $250,000 under chapter IX of section 5 and $5,000 under chapter V of section 25.

Report of the Ad Hoc Political Committee

[Original text : English]
[14 December 1950]

1. In accordance with resolution 289 C (IV) adopted by the General Assembly on 21 November 1949, the Interim Committee reported to the fifth session of the Assembly (A/1388)³⁷ on the procedure to be adopted to delimit the boundaries of the former Italian colonies in so far as they are not already fixed by international agreement.

2. The General Assembly, at its 285th meeting held on 26 September 1950, decided to include the item on its agenda and referred it to the Ad Hoc Political Committee for consideration and report.

3. The Ad Hoc Political Committee considered the question at its 81st meeting on 13 December 1950. At the same meeting, the representative of the United States of America introduced a draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.78) proposing (a) with respect to Libya, that the portion of its boundary with French territory not yet delimited by international agreement be delimited, upon Libya's achievement of independence, by negotiation between the Libyan and French Governments, assisted, upon the request of either party, by a third person to be selected by them or, failing their agreement, to be appointed by the Secretary-General; (b) with respect to the Trust Territory of Somaliland, that the portion of its boundaries with British Somaliland and Ethiopia not yet delimited by international agreement be delimited by bilateral negotiations. If either party to a bilateral negotiation were so to request, a United Nations Mediator would be appointed by the Secretary-General and, if his recommendations were not accepted, the parties should agree to a procedure of arbitration; and

(c) with respect to any other boundaries not delimited by international agreement, that the parties concerned seek to reach agreement by negotiation or by arbitration.

4. The United States draft resolution was adopted by 35 votes to 5, with one abstention.

5. The Ad Hoc Political Committee therefore recommends to the General Assembly the adoption of the following draft resolution :

PROCEDURE TO BE ADOPTED TO DELIMIT THE BOUNDARIES OF THE FORMER ITALIAN COLONIES IN SO FAR AS THEY ARE NOT ALREADY FIXED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENT

The General Assembly,

In accordance with General Assembly resolution 289 C (IV) adopted on 21 November 1949, in which the General Assembly called upon the Interim Committee " to study the procedure to be adopted to delimit the boundaries of the former Italian colonies in so far as they are not already fixed by international agreement, and report with conclusions to the fifth regular session of the General Assembly ”,

Having taken note of the memorandum, prepared at the Interim Committee's request by the Secretariat (A/AC.18/103), giving information relating to the boundaries of the former Italian colonies not already fixed by international agreement, and having taken into consideration the view of the interested governments,

1. Recommends :

(a) With respect to Libya,

That the portion of its boundary with French territory not already delimited by international agreement be delimited, upon Libya's achievement of independence, by negotiation between the Libyan and French Governments, assisted upon the request of either party by a third person to be selected by them or, failing their agreement, to be appointed by the Secretary-General;

(b) With respect to the Trust Territory of Somaliland,

That the portion of its boundaries with British Somaliland, as well as with Ethiopia, not already delimited by international agreement be delimited by bilateral negotiations between the United Kingdom Government and the Administering Authority, in respect of the boundaries with British Somaliland, and between the Ethiopian Government and the Administering Authority in respect of the boundaries with Ethiopia;

In order to resolve any and all differences arising in the course of such negotiations, the respective parties to each bilateral negotiation agree, upon the request of either party, to a procedure of mediation by a United Nations Mediator to be appointed by the Secretary-General and, further, in the event of the inability of the parties to accept the recommendations of the Mediator, to a procedure of arbitration;

2. Recommends, further, that, with respect to any other boundaries not delimited by international agreement, the parties concerned seek to reach agreement by negotiation or by arbitration.

DOCUMENT A/1284

Communication, dated 29 May 1950, from the United States Mission to the United Nations addressed to the Secretary-General

[Original text : English]
[9 June 1950]

New York, 29 May 1950

The Acting Representative of the United States to the United Nations presents his compliments to the Secretary-General of the United Nations and has the honour to transmit the following message from the Secretary of State of the United States concerning the problem of repatriation of Greek children :

“ The United States Government has followed with close and sympathetic attention the laudable efforts of the United Nations Secretariat and of the International Red Cross agencies, in accordance with the unanimous General Assembly resolutions of 27 November 1948 and 18 November 1949¹, to bring about the repatriation to Greece of the thousands of children removed over two years ago from that country to eastern Europe by the guerrillas during the Greek guerrilla warfare. My Government has accordingly noted with special concern and disappointment the resolution on this subject addressed to the United Nations and adopted at Geneva on 13 May by the Executive Committee of the League of Red Cross Societies.² It is recalled that the Executive Committee :

“ Reports with deep regret that despite these efforts no Greek child has so far been returned to Greece and that even elementary indications indispensable for solution of the problem have not been furnished by the Governments concerned;

“ Affirms, nevertheless, the determination of the League of Red Cross Societies to proceed, in full accord with the International Committee of the Red Cross, with the task which they accepted and worked on in common;

“ Believes it to be its duty to draw the attention of the United Nations to the fact that without a greater sense of social responsibility on the part of the Governments concerned, the Red Cross cannot fulfil the task entrusted to it;

“ Reports to the United Nations that unless the obstacles over which the Red Cross has not control are removed, the mission of the Red Cross cannot be accomplished. ’

“ It is public knowledge that these thousands of Greek children are presently being detained in Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Poland, the Soviet zone of Germany and Yugoslavia. Only the last-named country has permitted a few of the children to rejoin their families in countries other than Greece and has affirmed its intention to expedite the return of the other Greek children in its territory to their parents. The recalcitrant attitude so far demonstrated by the other listed countries, despite two unanimous votes of the General Assembly and the full restoration of peaceful conditions in Greece, must give rise to the deepest anxiety on the part of all Governments and peoples who hold, with the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, that ‘ the family is the natural and fundamental group unit of society and is entitled to protection by society and the State ’.

“ As you are doubtless aware, a number of international, non-governmental organizations, which generally reflect the ideology dominant in the Soviet Union and eastern Europe, have designated Thursday, 1 June 1950, as ‘ International Children’s Day ’ to mark the launching of a campaign purportedly in defense of the rights of children'. The appeal issued by the Preparatory Committee for 'International Children's Day' states that this occasion will be one 'of happy Soviet childhood and, in the new democracies, a festival of new successes'. Among its ostensible objectives will be 'to give to the children 'the joy of living' and 'to bring home to every mother, to every woman, the responsibility she bears for defending the life of our children and for ensuring their proper education'. It is to be hoped that the countries of eastern Europe, in proclaiming their concern for the rights of children, will be reminded of the right of the Greek children involuntarily in their midst to return to the joy of living in their own country, as well as the right of Greek mothers to exercise their responsibilities for the welfare and upbringing of the children they laboured to bring into the world.

"The Government of the United States considers it appropriate on this occasion to reiterate its appreciation of the efforts of the United Nations Secretariat and of the Red Cross in this matter and to reaffirm the determination of the American people, expressed in formal resolutions by the House of Representatives and other public bodies, and in thousands of spontaneous, individual messages, to support these efforts until the Greek children are back in their homes.

"It is requested that Your Excellency kindly transmit this communication to all Members of the United Nations and to the Governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania for their information and in anticipation of the forthcoming session of the General Assembly, which will again be confronted by this grave humanitarian problem if by that time substantial progress has not been made towards its solution".

A. CONCLUSIONS OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON THE SPECIAL REPORT FROM OBSERVATION BASE No. 1 CONCERNING THE TESTIMONY OF A GREEK GUERRILLA WHO HAD SURRENDERED TO THE GREEK NATIONAL ARMY ON 30 AUGUST 1950⁵

(adopted at the 213th meeting of the Special Committee, held on 8 September 1950)

I. INTRODUCTION

1. This report is entirely concerned with the testimony of a Greek guerrilla who surrendered to the Greek Army on 30 August 1950 and was interrogated by the United Nations observers on the same day. As has been explained to the rapporteur by the Chief Observer, this testimony was given not in the form of a statement but as usual in reply to a series of questions put to the witness by the United Nations observers. This interrogation took place before the witness had been interrogated by the Greek authorities.

II. BODY OF THE REPORT

2. The United Nations observers report that, according to his statement,⁶ the witness entered Greece from Albania on 26 August 1950 as a member of a band of twenty guerrillas. On 30 August, after killing for personal reasons a high-ranking guerrilla leader who was also a member of the band, he surrendered to the Greek Army. The body of the guerrilla leader was later identified by villagers as that of "Lefteris", formerly the chief of a band of saboteurs who had fled into Albania at the end of 1949.

III. ANNEX A

3. Annex A gives a summary of the testimony of the witness.

4. The witness was abducted by Greek guerrillas in 1947. In December 1949, he, with fifteen other guerrillas, crossed into Albania and contacted Albanian frontier guards who disarmed them. He was then sent to a camp at Boureli in Albania, containing approximately 2,000 unarmed Greek guerrillas guarded by 15 armed Greek guerrillas. After one month, the 2,000 guerrillas embarked at Durazzo on a Polish steamer named Kolsivinsko(?) and sailed to Gdynia, Poland. Thence they proceeded to Zgonzelnitz (?), formerly a German town but now in Poland.

5. Here those above the age of twenty-one were given military training by Russian officers using tanks and aeroplanes. Those under twenty-one (by implication, including himself) were put to work on collective farms.

6. In the same area there were up to 1,500 Greek children (up to the age of approximately ten years) living in three large mansions. The witness gathered from correspondence that other camps for Greek children existed in Eastern Germany.

7. On 15 July 1950, having responded to calls for volunteers to return to Greece, he was told by the guerrilla leader "Vlandas" that he was to return to Greece to carry out a programme of political agitation and to help to reorganize the party in Greece. On 15 July he was sent with nineteen others to Warsaw for instruction on the situation in Greece.

8. On 1 August 1950, the party left for Gdynia whence they sailed by Polish freighter to Durazzo, carrying cases containing uniforms and Russian weapons. In Tirana they were given arms, ammunition and uniforms, the Russian arms having already been changed for German and Italian weapons. After eight days at Tirana they moved to Argyrocastro and then to Psiloteri. There, two of their leaders put on Albanian uniforms and went to the frontier for reconnaissance.

9. On 26 August, guided by two Albanian officers, they entered Greece by the 11th pyramid and proceeded to Ayios Jannis (R 764910) where they remained until 28 August. The leaders carried three okes (nearly four kilos) of gold sovereigns. The party also had two wireless sets with which they contacted the guerrilla headquarters each day.

10. They had very strict orders not to become involved with the Greek National Army but to carry out political agitation and reorganization of the party in the villages.

11. On 30 August, they started out from Kalivia Elafo-topo (R 9177) and at 4 a. m. the witness shot and killed the leader "Lefteris" and then escaped. He surrendered to the Greek National Army at Kalpaki (R 8576) on 30 August, and on the same day guided the Greek National Army to the body of "Lefteris".

12. The group of twenty were to operate in the area of Epirus and four were detailed to enter Ioannina in civilian clothes.

13. The name of the witness and the names of the other guerrillas who entered Greece with him are given in Annexes B and C, which are in the safekeeping of the Secretariat and have not been published.

IV. REMARKS

14. In the light of the information regarding the transfer of 500 Greek children from Yugoslavia to Poland (based on evidence obtained by the mission of the International Red Cross in Yugoslavia) and contained in the International Red Cross report issued on 20 October 1949, the Secretary General wrote to the Polish Government on 8 September 1949 suggesting that, if these reports were true, the Polish Government would no doubt wish to comply with the General Assembly's recommendation. The Polish Red Cross orally informed the International Red Cross on 12 October 1949 that there were no Greek children in Poland and, furthermore, in a letter of 18 November 1949 to the International Red Cross, stated that the information supplied by the Yugoslav Red Cross was false.

15. The Secretary-General attempted to obtain official confirmation from the Polish Government of these statements but there is no record of any communication having been received. It is impossible to reconcile the statement of the Polish Red Cross with that of the Yugoslav Red Cross or with the testimony of the witness with which this report is concerned.

16. The details supplied by the witness agree in many respects with the statements recorded in December 1949 by the United Nations observers (report A/AC.16/OG.1/43/S.1 of 19 December 1949)⁷ and are confirmed thereby. It had in fact been reported at the time that a unit under the command of Lefteris (who was the victim concerned on 30 August 1950) had sojourned, between August and October 1949, in the immediate neighbourhood of the Greek-Albanian frontier (10 km. north-west of Delvinakion). That report, recording the statement of witness 1/W/445, contains the following passages :

" Part of the time the fifty-five men in the unit were stationed on the frontier itself, and part of the time a short distance inside Albania. Food and ammunition were supplied by Albanian soldiers, always at night.

...

" On arriving at the camp (Elbasan), the witness was informed by drivers that several thousand guerrillas had left for Durazzo, apparently taking ship for Poland... On 15 and 16 October the 103rd, 102nd and 18th Brigades, together with a training group, left the camp and were said to have embarked at Durazzo on large, white Polish ships for a thirteen-day journey, presumably to Poland".

17. With regard to the duration of the voyage mentioned by that witness, it might be remarked that witness T/64 stated that his outward voyage from Albania to Poland took 11 days and the return voyage 12 days.

V. CONCLUSIONS

18. As is suggested in the group's remarks and opinions :

B. SPECIAL REPORT FROM OBSERVATION BASE No. 1 CONCERNING THE TESTIMONY OF A GREEK GUERRILLA WHO HAD SURRENDERED TO THE GREEK NATIONAL ARMY ON 30 AUGUST 1950⁸

I. BODY OF THE REPORT

20. This report deals only with the testimony of a Greek guerrilla who had surrendered to the Greek Army on 30 August (the day of interrogation). He states that he crossed, with a band of twenty, into Greece from Albania on 26 August 1950. After killing a notorious and high-ranking guerrilla leader (who had entered Greece at the same time) at 4 a. m. on 30 August, he surrendered to the Greek Army and later led them to the body of the guerrilla leader he had killed.

21. Villagers have identified the body of the guerrilla leader as that of "Lefteris", formerly the chief of a band of saboteurs, who had operated in the Ioannina-Konitsa area and who had fled into Albania at the end of 1949 after the defeat of the guerrillas in the Grammos area by the Greek Army.

II. GROUP'S REMARKS AND OPINIONS

22. (a) It would appear from the testimony of the witness that the Greek guerrillas have begun infiltrating back into Greece to carry out a programme of political agitation.

(b) The witness confirms the presence of Greek guerrillas and abducted Greek children in Poland.

(c) The witness also confirms the presence of training camps for Greek guerrillas in Poland.

(1) It would appear from the testimony of the witness that the Greek guerrillas are infiltrating back into Greece to carry out a programme of subversive agitation.

(2) The witness confirms the presence of Greek guerrillas and Greek children in Poland.

(3) The witness also confirms the presence of training camps for Greek guerrillas in Poland.

(4) The evidence is to the effect that Albania and Poland are actively helping Greek guerrillas to re-enter Greece and carry out subversive activities against the Greek Government.

VI. RECOMMENDATIONS

19. The Special Committee recommends that, in view of the interest and importance presented by this report and the conclusions to be drawn therefrom concerning the aid afforded to the Greek guerrillas by Polish authorities contrary to the recommendations of the General Assembly, the said report and conclusions be particularly brought to the attention of the Secretary-General for transmission to the States Members of the United Nations.

(d) The evidence appears to show that Albania gives definite aid to Greek guerrillas re-entering Greece to carry out subversive activities against the Greek Government.

ANNEX A

TO SPECIAL REPORT FROM OBSERVATION BASE No. 1 CONCERNING THE TESTIMONY OF A GREEK GUERRILLA WHO HAD SURRENDERED TO THE GREEK NATIONAL ARMY ON 30 AUGUST 1950.

Testimony of witness T/64

This witness, a young Greek citizen, was presented by the Greek Liaison Service, but was interrogated by the team before he had been interrogated by the Greek National Army. He appeared to the group to be reliable and intelligent. Before being enrolled in the ranks of the guerrillas he had been at an elementary school in the region of Pogoni (R 8088)—the area in which he states he entered Greece from Albania on 26 August 1950. He is now a prisoner of the Greek National Army.

In August 1947, the witness was living in Salonika but paid a visit to his village in the Pogoni area (R 8088). Whilst on the road outside the village he was abducted by Greek guerrillas.

He states that in December 1949 he, with a group of fifteen others, crossed into Albania after the defeat of the Greek guerrillas by the Greek National Army. They crossed from Greece into Albania via Bosova (Ht. 1472) (R 6792) and contacted Albanian frontier guards who took away their arms. He was then sent to a camp at Boureli in Albania where there were approximately 2,000 Greek guerrillas collected. They were all unarmed and the camp was enclosed by barbed wire, but it was guarded by fifteen armed Greek guerrillas.

⁸ Previously issued in Athens as document A/AC.16/O/G-A/21. Maps used: Greece 1: 100,000 - Sheets E 3 - Leskovik; F 3 - Delvinakion.

He alleges that he stayed in this camp for one month, during which time the guerrillas were given courses in physical training. The guerrilla commissars also gave political lectures and told them they must be ready to return to Greece.

After one month the 2,000 guerrillas, who were all from the fighting ranks, were loaded into a convoy of military trucks driven by Greeks and taken to Durazzo about 28 December 1949. They were all embarked in a Polish steamer named Kolsivinsko (?). The party included many guerrilla leaders such as "Vlandas", "Lefteris", "Vassiliaris" and "Ghoussias". The ship then sailed to Gdynia in Poland via the straits of Gibraltar, the journey taking eleven days.

From Gdynia they were all embarked in a train and taken to Zgonzelitz (?) (an ex-German town now in Poland). Here those guerrillas above the age of twenty-one were segregated and dressed in uniforms, and, he states, were taken off and given military training in the forests nearby by Russian officers using tanks and even aeroplanes. He states that he is sure of this fact because he spoke to many of them who were his friends in hospital afterwards. Those guerrillas under twenty-one were put to work on collective farms in groups of from thirty to forty under one Pole and one Greek. For this work they received 350 zlotys each month. They were free to circulate, and he was thus able to visit the hospital at Zgonzelitz. The Greeks under twenty-one here were given no military training, but received political indoctrination and were given the daily bulletin of the "Greek Democratic Army".

He states that in the same area there were up to 1,500 Greek children living in three large mansions. These children (up to the age of approximately 10 years) were well looked after and attended schools where they were taught in Greek, Russian and Polish, but all the teaching was tainted with political propaganda. One of the teachers was "Lefteris", the guerrilla leader, whom the witness later killed in Greece on 30 August 1950.

Although he saw no other children he gathered from correspondence that there were other camps for Greek children in the Russian-occupied zone of Germany.

On 15 July 1950, volunteers were called for to return to Greece and the witness volunteered as he wished to escape. He was interviewed in an office by the guerrilla leader Vlandas, who told him he was to return to Greece to carry out a programme of political agitation and help reorganize the party in Greece.

He stated that although he did not know how many volunteered to return the majority of Greeks were unhappy in Poland.

On 15 July 1950 he was sent with nineteen others to Warsaw where they were all given instruction on the present situation in Greece—they were told that the time was ripe to reorganize owing to the number of strikes in Greece.

On 1 August the party left by covered lorry for Gdynia where they were embarked in a Polish freighter. They sailed in this ship and reached Durazzo twelve days later. They carried with them cases containing uniforms and Russian weapons. The main cargo consisted of wood for Egypt and two locomotives for Durazzo. They remained hidden whilst passing through the straits of Gibraltar. On disembarkation they were taken to a house in Tirana where they were issued arms, ammunition and uniforms. The Russian arms had already been changed for German and Italian weapons.

The party stayed eight days at Tirana and then moved to Argyrocastro where they remained hidden in a wood where they stayed five days before moving to the area of Psiloteri (R 8299). There two of the leaders of the party dressed up in Albanian uniforms and went to the frontier to make reconnaissance—he watched this.

On 26 August, guided by two Albanian officers, they entered Greece by the 11th pyramid. The two Albanian officers entered a few metres into Greece. After entering Greece they passed between the villages of Meropi (R 745930) and Kato Meropi (R 778915) and reached Ayios Jannis (R 764910) where they remained until 28 August. Each member of the party carried a pack of 25 okes of food and the leaders also carried three okes of gold sovereigns. The party also had two wireless sets with which they contacted the guerrilla headquarters every day.

The group had very strict orders not to become involved with the Greek National Army but to carry out political agitation and reorganization of the party in the villages. Should a member be wounded whilst defending himself, he was to be killed rather than fall into the hands of the Greek National Army.

On 28 August the party moved to Rroupsia (R 828860) and on the night of the 29/30 August they started out for Kalivia Elafotopo (R 9177).

At 4 a. m. the witness shot and killed the guerrilla leader "Lefteris" and then escaped. Whilst escaping he was fired upon by the other members of the group. He stated that he killed "Lefteris" for personal reasons.

The group of twenty, he alleges, were to operate in the area of Epirus, and four were detailed to enter Ioannina in civilian clothes.

The witness surrendered to the Greek National Army at Kalpaki (R 8576) on 30 August 1950 and the same day guided the Greek National Army to the body of Lefteris.

All the members of this party were supplied with wristed watches and compasses.

He did not see any other guerrillas in Albania, but understands that there are yavki (secret gatherings) of Greeks in civilian clothes in all towns. Witness had received no education since being abducted.

C FIRST SPECIAL REPORT OF OBSERVATION GROUP No. 1 FOR THE PERIOD 1-31 DECEMBER 1949 *

(Jannina)

I. BODY OF THE REPORT

23. A team belonging to the Group proceeded to Corfu on 12 December 1949 in order to interrogate three guerrillas who had been captured by the Greek Army some days before. Statements made by the three witnesses revealed :

* Previously issued in Athens as document A/AC.16/SC.1/OG.1/43/S-1. Maps consulted : Greece : Scale 1:100,000. Sheets H2 - PAXIO; Z2 - KERKIRA.

(1) The presence in Albania, at the Boureli and Elbasan camps, of several thousands of Greek guerrillas. Witness 1/W/447 assessed their number as being, at the beginning of October, about 20,000. It would appear that transfers to a foreign country had taken place but this had not been confirmed.

(2) The despatch to Greece, with the knowledge and assistance of the Albanian authorities, of small groups of selected personnel equipped with weapons and means of transport. The alleged mission of those groups was to gather military, political and economic information and also to organize communist propaganda and social agitation centres.

II. GROUP'S OPINION

24. The group considers that interrogation of witness 1/W/447 by the members of Sub-Committee 1 might well be of genuine importance.

ANNEX A

TO THE FIRST SPECIAL REPORT OF OBSERVATION GROUP NO.1
FOR THE PERIOD 1-31 DECEMBER 1949

Statements of witnesses

1/W/445

(1) Aged 30; business employee; bachelor; elementary school education. At present in prison awaiting court-martial. Presented by the Greek Liaison Service, the witness answered questions willingly and without hesitation.

(2) The witness left Corfu by sea on 15 September 1947 to join the guerrillas in Albania. He returned to Greece on 10 January 1948 to be enrolled in the Ypsilanti Brigade as a wireless operator.

(3) In August 1949, he belonged to the unit commanded by "Lefteris", which remained from August to October 1949 in the immediate vicinity of the Greek-Albanian frontier, north-west of Bosovo (ten kilometres north-west of Delvinakion). Part of the time the fifty-five men in the unit were stationed on the frontier itself, and part of the time a short distance inside Albania. Food and ammunition were supplied by Albanian soldiers, always at night.

(4) The witness was present at an incident on the Greek-Albanian frontier during September (incident referred to in report OG.1/40).

(5) On 7 October, he was sent with six companions into the interior of Albania, arriving on 11 October at Elbasan, where there were 4,000 Greek guerrillas including 1,500 women and 400 children between the ages of thirteen and seventeen, guarded by Albanian soldiers and housed in tents. Only some forty guerrillas were armed and policed the camp. In addition to the 4,000 guerrillas, 400 Greek Army prisoners were held at Elbasan.

(6) On arriving at the camp, the witness was informed by drivers that several thousand guerrillas had left for Durazzo, apparently taking ship for Poland. On 14 October, 100 guerrilla lorries and 100 Albanian lorries arrived at the camp with some 7,000 persons. The witness was present at the unloading of 75 of these lorries. On 15 and 16 October the 103rd, 102nd and 18th Brigades, together with a training group, left the camp and were said to have embarked at Durazzo on large, white Polish ships for a thirteen day journey, presumably to Poland.

(7) The witness left the camp at the end of October, at which time some 1,200 persons remained. He was taken with two other guerrillas by an Albanian major to Tirana, where they stayed a week and were given civilian clothing for a special mission which was explained to them by the Albanian major. The three were to leave for Corfu under the command of one of them, a former non-commissioned officer in the Greek Air Force who was now a lieutenant in the "Democratic Army". They were to establish an espionage network in the island and to contact certain persons. They were supplied with a wireless set, a rubber boat and arms, the latter comprising three sub-machine guns, two revolvers, one bazooka and some Italian grenades.

(8) Leaving Tirana by lorry on 24 November, the group embarked on a caique at Ayios Saranda (R 3280) on 27 November en route to the Albanian post of Voufrotou (R302656) opposite Corfu. Crossing the roadstead in a small boat, the three men disembarked at Benitsa (R 210445) and left on foot for Levkimmi (R 3329). When passing through a village the group aroused the suspicions of the inhabitants. The witness escaped alone and went to his native village of Kinopiastais (R 1947), leaving it when he knew he was pursued and finally surrendering to the Greek Army on 5 December.

(1) Age 28; bachelor; tailor; elementary education. The witness, second lieutenant in the guerrilla army, had been wounded in an engagement during which he had killed a gendarme. He was receiving treatment in a military hospital pending his court-martial. Presented by the Greek Liaison Service, he was interrogated by the observers alone but nevertheless appeared reticent and only replied very briefly.

(2) The witness joined the guerrillas in Albania on 6 September 1947. At the end of August 1949 he was sent from Argyrocastro, where he was receiving treatment, to the Boureli camp, where there were some 2,500 partisans.

(3) At the beginning of October he was transferred to another camp near Elbasan, where he stayed for fifteen days. There were 2,000 to 3,000 guerrillas in the camp but most of them left a few days later to embark for a foreign country. The camp was guarded on the outside by Albanian soldiers and policed on the inside by from ten to fifteen armed guerrillas.

(4) On 15 October, the witness went to Tirana with two other guerrillas, staying a week in a house where they were visited by an Albanian major. The three men were commissioned to obtain military, political and economic information for the partisan army and went to Ayios Saranda (R 3280) and thence to Corfu. The witness only knew of this mission through his companion, witness 1/W/447, who was the leader of the group. He did not know whether the latter had received more detailed instructions from the Albanian major.

(5) The witness was captured on 3 December in the course of an engagement with the Greek Army.

1/W/447

(1) Aged 30. Non-commissioned officer in the air force, and then a lieutenant in the guerrilla army. Divorced. Elementary school education. As a former member of ELAS he must also have received advanced political instruction in the Communist Party. This witness, who was presented by the Greek Liaison Service, is now in prison pending his appearance before a military tribunal. He seems intelligent and understands French but pretends not to. He expresses himself easily and calmly, but with a shade of contempt for his environment which throws some doubt on his good faith.

(2) The witness joined the guerrillas in Albania on 13 October 1947. On 14 July 1949 the witness, using a rubber dinghy of German type, landed at Corfu. He was instructed by the "democratic government" to obtain information on the economic and military situation in the island, and remained there until the end of August.

(3) On 20 September, he was sent to a camp at Elbasan.

There were 6,000 guerrillas there, men and women. Three or four hundred children between 12 and 16 years of age came later from Skodra. The camp was guarded by Albanian soldiers. The guerrillas had no weapons.

(4) Throughout October lorries kept leaving the camp for what was said to be a destination abroad. By the end of the month three-quarters of the guerrillas had left. Besides the guerrillas there were in the camp some 200 soldiers of the Greek Army who had been taken prisoner.

(5) Before the departures there were in Albania, according to the witness, 20,000 guerrillas, 7,000 of whom were women. He had heard it said that most of them had now left the country. Their leaders declared that they would resume combat one day with more powerful means. Before that could happen, however, they would have to wait until the Yugoslav guerrillas from neighbouring States had overthrown the Tito régime.

(6) At the beginning of November the witness was taken in a jeep with two comrades to Tirana by an Albanian major. At Tirana they learned how to handle radio equipment and use a code. Accompanied by another Albanian officer, of Greek origin, they left at the end of November for Ayios Saranda (R 3280) and from there proceeded by boat to Corfu with radio apparatus, a rubber dinghy and weapons.

(7) Their task was to collect military, political and economic information; to observe Anglo-American activities, and particularly to ascertain whether there was a naval base in the island; and to establish communist cells which would be used as an information network and for the purpose of fomenting social unrest.

(8) He had been assured that his mission was on behalf only of the guerrillas, but in his opinion its main purpose was to assist the Albanians. He knew that other groups had been assigned similar tasks in other areas of Greece.

(9) Some days after they had landed, one of the members of the group, fearing capture, opened fire and killed a gendarme. The witness was pursued and captured two days later.

D. CONCLUSIONS OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON THE FIRST SPECIAL REPORT OF OBSERVATION GROUP No. 1 FOR THE PERIOD 1 TO 31 DECEMBER 1949¹⁰

(adopted at the 184th meeting of the Special Committee on 3 March 1950)

I. INTRODUCTION

25. This report contains statements of three Greek guerrillas captured on the island of Corfu at the beginning of December 1949 (1/W/445-447).¹¹

II. CONTENTS OF THE REPORT

26. Statements of three witnesses.

(a) The three witnesses, all of Greek origin, were selected to carry out a special mission from Albania to Corfu, where they were to collect information on military, political and economic matters and to ascertain whether there was a naval base on the island. They were to establish contact with certain persons and were to organize communist centres of propaganda and agitation. Before leaving Tirana on 24 November, they were given small arms, codes and a wireless set. Their mission was explained to them by an Albanian major, who assured them that their mission was only in the interests of the Greek partisans. The leader of the mission (W/447), however, believed that the mission was also in the interests of the Albanians. The same witness knew that other groups had received similar missions in other regions of Greece. The witnesses sailed from Ayios Saranda (R 3280) on 27 November and landed at Benitsa (R 2144) on the island of Corfu.

(b) According to the witnesses, the following movements of Greek guerrillas in Albania recently took place:

(i) On 20 September 1949, there were 6,000 guerrillas, both men and women, in a camp at Elbasan. 200 to 400 children, aged from twelve to seventeen, arrived from Skodra shortly after this date. 200 to 400 of the Greek National Army soldiers were also imprisoned at Elbasan. Witness W/447 believed that at about this time there were 20,000 Greek guerrillas in Albania.

(ii) On 14 October, 200 Greek guerrilla and Albanian trucks brought about 7,000 persons to Elbasan. On 15-16 October, three Greek guerrilla brigades (103rd, 102nd and 18th) departed in trucks for Durazzo.

(iii) One witness (W/445) stated that at the end of October, because of mass departures during that month, only 1,200 persons remained at Elbasan. According to statements of drivers, most of the Greek guerrillas had left for Durazzo, where it was believed they embarked for Poland. In the case of the three brigades mentioned, the above witness stated that these had embarked at Durazzo on "large, white Polish ships". It was said that the voyage was to be of thirteen days' duration and the destination Poland.

III. REMARKS

27. None.

IV. CONCLUSIONS

28. By equipping and dispatching missions such as the one which is the subject of this report, Albania is continuing to give aid to the Greek guerrillas and is engaging in acts dangerous to peace in the Balkans and calculated to retard the restoration of normal and good-neighbourly relations with Greece.

V. RECOMMENDATIONS

29. It is recommended that a reply be awaited to the letter sent by the Chairman of Sub-Committee 1

¹⁰ Previously issued in Athens as document A/AC.16/SC.1/OG.1/43/S-1/SC.Concl.

¹¹ See annex to C above.

on 6 January 1950 to the Greek Liaison Service, in which a request was made for information as to what action had been taken by the Greek authorities regarding these three guerrillas. The question of interrogation by an ad hoc Committee of not more than three representatives should then be taken up.

Telegram, dated 12 October 1950, from the Chairman of the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans to the President of the General Assembly

[Original text : English]
[12 October 1950]

Athens, 12 October 1950

1. New and serious incidents following on those referred to in paragraphs 52 to 54 of the Special Committee's report (A/1307) to the Assembly have just occurred on the island of Gornia-Ostrov at the Bulgarian frontier where, under protection of Bulgarian armed forces, work is in progress which according to the findings of UNSCOB observers would appear intended to divert the course of the River Evros (Maritza).

2. It would be deplorable that a dispute of such an everyday nature between States separated by a riparian frontier should give rise to further incidents out of all proportion to the relatively minor importance of the material interest involved.

3. This situation, as described in document A/AC.16/O/G-B/31/Concl., serves to illustrate and stress the need for compliance on the part of Bulgaria and Greece with the third recommendation occurring in paragraph 217 of the Special Committee's report regarding peaceful settlement of frontier incidents.

4. The Special Committee would be grateful if, as a matter of urgency, you would be good enough to bring the foregoing information to the attention of the General Assembly.

5. It will doubtless appear most desirable that pending the conclusion of a frontier convention the Greek and Bulgarian Governments should be invited to consider the immediate meeting of a mixed Greek-Bulgarian commission, and should be called upon to refrain forthwith from any action likely to provoke further incidents in the area under dispute.

junction with the Chairman's telegraphic letter to you of 12 October 1950 (A/1438).

CONCLUSIONS ON THE SPECIAL REPORT OF EVROS RIVER INCIDENT, 18 SEPTEMBER 1950¹⁵ (adopted at the 216th meeting of the Special Committee held on 11 October 1950)

I. INTRODUCTION

1. The present special report relates to incidents occurring at the Greek-Bulgarian frontier since 14 September 1950 and concerns the island of Alpha — Gornia-Ostrov¹⁶ in the Evros¹⁷ which is the subject of a dispute between the Bulgarian and Greek Governments.

2. This island or the vicinity has already been the site of five previous incidents, viz :

- 4 April 1948, 8 August 1948; cf. A/AC.16/OG/6/14
- 14 April 1949, 6 May 1950; cf. A/AC.16/O/G-B/12/Concl./Rev.1, II B and Remarks
- 16 August 1950; A/AC.16/1084—O/G-B/28/Rev.1

3. The Special Committee's reports to the General Assembly in 1948 (paragraphs 166, 167, 168, 169)¹⁸ and in 1950 (paragraphs 52, 53, 54)¹⁹ made reference to the two main incidents of 4 April 1948 and 14 April 1949 and to the dispute involved.

II. BODY OF THE REPORT

Night of 14-15 September 1950.

(A/AC.16/O/G-B/31, I, 1)

4. The Bulgarians started to construct a dam in the Evros between the Bulgarian bank and the island of Alfa—Gornia-Ostrov.

(O/G-B/31, Annex B, item I, para. 1 and sections 2 and 3 of para. 2)

5. Armed Bulgarian soldiers penetrated Greek territory to a depth of fifty metres to protect the workers, ¹⁵ Previously issued in Athens as document A/AC.16/O/G-B/31/Concl.

¹⁶ Alpha is the name given this island by the Greek authorities; the Bulgarians call it Gornia-Ostrov.

according to the document cited in the margin of this paragraph.

15 September

(O/G-B/31, III, 7)

6. This information, which is of Greek origin, was reported to the Greek authorities on the morning of the 15th. They sent out a reconnaissance patrol of nine men under the command of a second lieutenant assisted by a non-commissioned officer, with orders to investigate the information. They also informed the UNSCOB observation team at Alexandroupolis (O/G-B/31, 1).

16 September

(O/G-B/31, II and III, 7 and 8)

7. The Greek reconnaissance patrol arriving in the neighbourhood of the island saw that piles had been set up at the place indicated but that nobody was working in the vicinity.

8. Reinforced by five armed civilians from Ormenion, the patrol remained at the spot to continue its observation. It was stationed at point G 705-505 and concealed by the trees.

(O/G-B/31, Annex A, witnesses T/63, T/64, T/65, T/66)

9. At about 9 p.m. the patrol heard orders announced over a loud-speaker.

10. From the sound of movements occurring after the orders were issued the witness concluded that a large number of people were present.

Night of 16-17 September

(O/G-B/31, III, 7 and 8)

11. The patrol heard the sound of activity.

17 September

(O/G-B/31, III, 8)

12. The patrol did not notice any activity at the site during the day-time.

Night of 17-18 September

(O/G-B/31, III, 8)

13. At nightfall the patrol heard the sound of a shot which it construed as being the signal to resume work.

14. It also heard the sound of intense activity.

(O/G-B/31, Annex A, witnesses, T/63, 64, 65, 66)

15. It saw a patrol of three Bulgarians near the dam on the Bulgarian bank.

18 September

(O/G-B/31, Annex B, item I)

16. A letter bearing this date was sent by the Commander of the Greek Frontier Guard to the Bulgarian Commander of the Svilengrad Covering Unit.

17. This letter reported the above-mentioned events which occurred during the night of 14-15 September and requested the immediate demolition of the dam and a meeting at the site for 23 September at 11 a.m.

Night of 18-19 September

(O/G-B/31, III, 8)

18. The reconnaissance patrol heard noise and saw shadows moving around the dam, and estimated the number of workers at from 150 to 200 men.

(O/G-B/31, III, 8, Annex A, witnesses T/63, 64, 65, 66)

19. At about 11 p.m., when the sky was overcast, the leader of the patrol saw a small party of Bulgarian soldiers leave the island at a point situated some seventy metres from their observation post and cross the dried bed of the southern branch of the river towards the Greek bank. The patrol distinctly saw three armed soldiers walking carefully in Indian file at a distance of a few metres from one another. The three soldiers stopped and lay on the ground for some minutes, after which they moved forward again.

(O/G-B/31, III, 8, Annex A)

20. The leader, armed with an automatic weapon, stopped within a few metres of the Greek non-commissioned officer, and then moved towards him. The non-commissioned officer asked permission of his superior to open fire. That permission was granted and the entire patrol opened fire. The Bulgarians returned the fire from automatic weapons and rifle grenades, which came mainly from the island and from two points on the Bulgarian bank.

21. The exchange lasted for some twenty minutes. The Greek patrol then withdrew without losses as its ammunition was exhausted.

(O/G-B/31, III, 10)

22. When everything became quiet again the patrol noted that work on the dam had stopped. In the course of the skirmish, a Bulgarian officer was killed and three Bulgarian soldiers were wounded, according to the Bulgarian protest referred to below (cf. 24 September).

Note: The Greek letter of protest of 19 September referred to below states the time at which the Bulgarian patrol crossed the river as being 1.30 a.m.

19 September

(O/G-B/31, III, 8)

23. The Greek patrol noticed that considerable progress had been made in the dam construction which seemed to confirm the estimate of the number of workers it had made during the night.

(O/G-B/31, Annex B, item II)

24. A letter from the commander of the Greek frontier guard, dated 19 September, and addressed to the commander of the Bulgarian covering unit of Svilengrad protested against the violation of Greek territory that had been committed the previous night and requested a meeting at the site of the incident on the same day, i.e., 19 September at 2 p.m. The letter was delivered to a Bulgarian officer, who accepted it.²⁰

²⁰ Apparently a frontier meeting, that had not been fixed beforehand, took place on 14 September to settle another incident, perhaps the incident of 16 August referred to in documents A/AC.16/1084 or O/G-B/28/Rev.1.

25. At 2 p.m. the Greek representatives appeared at the place of meeting, and noted the absence of any Bulgarian representatives.

26. At 3 p.m. a Bulgarian on horseback appeared on the Bulgarian bank and shouted: "We cannot hold the meeting today, but we will let you know when it is possible".

(O/G-B/31, 1, 2)

27. The UNSCOB observation team at Alexandroupolis had been informed that morning that the situation had deteriorated, and started off for Ormenion where it arrived in the late afternoon.

(O/G-B/31, 1, 4)

28. It proceeded to the site, on the Greek bank of the river, twenty metres south of the row of willow trees lining that bank; it was at this point that the Greek patrol had opened fire on the previous night.

(O/G-B/31, II, 6)

29. The observers noted:

(1) That the southern branch of the Evros between the island and the Greek bank was then dry;

(2) That the dry river-bed was approximately one metre above the existing level of the water, and the island approximately two metres higher than the dry river-bed;

(3) That a dam consisting of two lines of piles about one metre apart, filled in with large stones, blocked the northern branch of the river between the upstream tip of the island and the Bulgarian bank;

(4) That a pool was forming seventy metres upstream from the upstream tip of the island;

(5) That the island vegetation formed a screen concealing part of the Bulgarian bank;

(6) That upstream beyond the screen of vegetation heaps of materials, especially stones, were clearly visible;

(7) That traces of bullets were left on the trees inside Greek territory, at a distance of twenty metres to the south of the Greek bank, the direction of the trajectory of those bullets being towards the interior of Greek territory.

20 September

(O/G-B/31, Annex B, item III)

30. The Bulgarian authorities proposed that a meeting take place on that day, 20 September, at 4 p.m.

31. This request was received by the Greeks at 7 p.m. i.e., three hours after the time proposed for the meeting.

21 September

(O/G-B/31, Annex B, item III)

32. The local Greek commander despatched to the Commander of the Bulgarian Covering Unit at Svilengrad a further letter referring to the Bulgarian request for a meeting on 20 September at 4 p.m. and pointing out the delay in arrival at its destination. He proposed that the meeting should take place on 24 September at 11 a.m., at the site concerned.

24 September

(O/G-B/31, III, 10 and 11)

33. A frontier meeting took place at boundary marker 340, G 643-530.

34. The Bulgarian representative stated

(a) Regarding the dam:

(1) That the work was being done on the initiative of the civilian authorities of the village of Generalovo, without the knowledge of the military or political authorities;

(2) That the work had been carried out by night to avoid incidents;

(3) That a dam had existed in 1941 but had since been washed away;

(4) That the Secretary-General of the United Nations Mr. Trygve Lie, had confirmed in a letter that he considered the island to be Bulgarian;

(b) Regarding the exchange of shots:

(O/G-B/31, III, 10)

(1) That the Bulgarians had not crossed the river;

(2) That to their regret they had been obliged to open fire to protect their men in recovering the body of the officer killed and the three men wounded by the Greek fire.

35. The Bulgarian representative refused to sign the protocol as he was not empowered to do so.

36. The observation team was not present at the meeting. The foregoing account was supplied to them by the Greek Liaison Service.

Note: A report of a date subsequent to O/G-B/31 and reporting the further progress of events is being awaited. All that is known about further developments is what has been reported in the press and in a telegram from Observation Base No. 6 of 6 October, referred to below (cf. III, C below).

III. REMARKS

37. As regards the nature and development of the incidents, the UNSCOB observers have had no source of information other than the statement from Greek sources referred to above.

38. The personal observations made by them at the site and reported above under section II, 19 September, should however be taken into account.

39. It accordingly appears both from those observations and from the photographs submitted by them that the main channel of the Evros River in this area follows the northern branch of the river between the island in question and the Bulgarian bank. The construction, the existence of which has been noted by the observers, should normally result in a change in the main course of the Evros which would then be diverted to the southern channel, at present dry.

40. Furthermore, at a meeting which took place on 6 October in the presence of the observers but without their participation, and of which the Committee has so far been informed only by the telegram received on the same date from observation Base No. 6, the Bulgarian colonel who was present confirmed that the island had been claimed by the Bulgarian authorities, stated that defence works had been carried out and declared the intention of the Bulgarians to resist by armed force any Greek occupation of the island.

41. The observers themselves maintained that the Bulgarian colonel was in error when he asserted that United Nations L-5 aircraft had flown over Bulgarian territory, since the observers at no time were north of the railway which parallels the Evros near the Greek bank of the river. This statement of the observers is supported by the photographs they took.

IV. CONCLUSIONS

42. The subject of the dispute is of little account, per se; it relates to the course of the frontier and, between neighbouring States enjoying normal diplomatic relations, it should be capable of amicable settlement.

43. It is quite disproportionate to the serious incidents that a prolongation of the present strained situation, which has already caused loss of human life, might well involve.

44. The Committee is induced to take cognizance of the fact that the recommendations contained in documents A/AC.16/950 and A/AC.16/951, which were made direct to the Greek Government (which consented to comply with them) and which, moreover, it requested the Secretary-General's office to transmit to the Bulgarian Government on 28 March 1950 and 19 June 1950, have not been heeded or acted upon by the latter in any way.

45. The Committee considers that those recommendations are eminently appropriate under present conditions, inasmuch as the establishment of a Mixed Commission would render it possible to ascertain at the site the course to be followed by the Bulgarian-Greek frontier line between point No. 320 A and point No. 321 according to the "Description of the Greek-Bulgarian frontier" of 1923.

V. RECOMMENDATION

46. The Sub-Committee recommends that a telegram²¹ should be transmitted to the President of the General Assembly with a view to informing him both of the incident itself and of the necessity for putting an end to it without delay.

²¹ For the text of the telegram, see document A/1438.

I. INTRODUCTION

1. On the morning of 15 September 1950, the Team was informed by the Greek Liaison Officer that the Greek authorities had discovered that during the night of 14/15 September the Bulgarians had built a dam in the River Evros from the Bulgarian side of the river to an island, in the centre of the river, called in Greek Alfa (G 706-508) and Gornia Ostrov in Bulgarian. During the winter when the river is in flood the stream runs both sides of the island, but during the summer months the river bed on the Greek side is completely dry. The Greeks alleged that the Bulgarians have violated the boundary agreement by trying to annex the island, which has an area of approximately 3,000 stremma. In addition, the Greeks say that the change in the course of the stream will cause extensive flooding in the winter.

2. In the early hours of 19 September the Team was informed that the situation had been aggravated by the action of a party of Bulgarian soldiers, who had crossed the dry river bed from the island to Greek territory, had been seen by a Greek patrol, and that fire had been exchanged. The Team left for the scene of the incident the same morning.

3. On arrival at the village of Ormenion (40.682.497) in the late afternoon of 19 September, the Team met a lieutenant colonel of the Greek National Army who said that he had unsuccessfully tried to contact a Bulgarian official to discuss the incident. A letter had been accepted by a Bulgarian officer who had met a Greek officer earlier in the day to discuss a different matter.²⁴ The Bulgarians did not arrive for the meeting, but about one hour after the time arranged for the meeting, a horseman arrived on the Bulgarian side of the river, and shouted across saying: "We can't hold the meeting today, but will let you know when we can".

4. The Team visited the scene of the incident, and was shown by the Greek second lieutenant in charge of the patrol the position from which his men had opened fire. The position was about twenty metres inside Greece from the willow trees which line the bank of the dry river bed on the Greek side of the river. The marks of the return fire from the Bulgarians was plainly shown on the trees.²⁵

5. According to the Greek version of the frontier convention signed by both countries, no alteration to any natural features may take place without an agreement on both sides.

II. SCENE OF THE INCIDENT

6. The river runs in an east to west direction between two well-defined banks lined by willow trees. At this time of the year the flow of water is very small and at the west end of the island the stream turns approximately 7° and runs in a north-easterly direction, leaving the river bed on the Greek side completely dry. The island is approximately two metres above the level of the dry river bed. The island near the point of the incident is covered with bushes and it is not possible to see across the island from the Greek bank to the Bulgarian bank. The dam the Bulgarians have built consists of two lines of wooden pickets about one metre apart and filled with large stones. It appears complete, but from the large amount of stores plainly visible on the Bulgarian bank, it is the Bulgarians' intention to reinforce or build a fresh dam, as water is still running through the barrage. The dry river bed on the Greek side of the island is about one metre above the level of the flow of water on the Bulgarian side. At the time the Team visited the scene of the incident a pool was already forming on the Greek side of the stream about seventy metres upstream from the island. Except in the winter, when the river is in flood, the disputed territory is not an island but the southern bank of the river.

III. THE INCIDENT

7. When word reached the Greek authorities that a dam across the River Evros (Maritsa) was being built by the Bulgarians, a patrol consisting of a second lieutenant and ten soldiers were dispatched to Ormenion to investigate that information. Although the dam in construction was clearly visible, no work was being done during daylight. So this patrol, reinforced by five armed civilians collected at Ormenion, spent the nights of 16 and 17 September on the point G 705-505, watching the construction of the dam from a hiding-place among the trees on the Greek bank.

8. During those two nights the patrol heard the sound of activity. Before any activity started on the second night (17 September) a shot was heard by the Greeks and was interpreted by them as a signal among the Bulgarians for starting work. On the third night of watching (18 September), there was intense activity on the dam. From the great noise and moving shadows along the dam, the Greeks estimated the number of workers as something around 150 to 200 men. This impression was confirmed the following morning by the great progress made on the dam during the few hours' work done before the exchange of fire. At approximately 11 p.m. the patrol saw a small party of Bulgarian soldiers leave the island, which is about seventy metres from their hiding-place, and advance over the dried bed of the southern branch of the river towards the Greek bank. The Greeks could see distinctly three armed soldiers walking carefully one behind the other with a few metres' interval between them. The dark vegetation on the island did not allow the Greeks to distinguish whether there were more men coming behind these Bulgarians or not. The three Bulgarians stopped for a moment and lay on the sand. A few minutes later the Bulgarians continued to advance. The leading Bulgarian, armed with an automatic weapon, reached a point a few metres from the sergeant of the Greek patrol. The Greek lieutenant gave the order to open fire. Immediately the fire was returned from the Bulgarian bank and from the island, with machine-guns, small arms and rifle grenades. The exchange of fire lasted for approximately twenty minutes. The Greeks started to retreat when their ammunition was expended. They had no casualties.

9. On the day following the shooting (19 September), the Greek authorities asked for a meeting at the scene of the incident and a letter was handed to the Bulgarian authorities the same morning asking for a meeting at 2 p.m. The Bulgarians did not arrive for the meeting, but at 3 p.m. a messenger arrived on the Bulgarian side of the river and said that the Bulgarians would arrange a meeting at a later date.

10. A meeting took place on Sunday, 24 September, at pyramid 340 (G 643.530). The Bulgarians were represented by a lieutenant colonel, a major, a captain and a lieutenant; the Greeks by a lieutenant colonel. The incident of the shooting was first discussed. The Bulgarians claimed that they had not crossed the river and their only reason for opening fire was to protect their men who were recovering the bodies of one lieutenant who had been killed and three soldiers who had been wounded by the first firing of the Greeks. The Bulgarian officers regretted that it had been necessary for the Bulgarians to open fire, but said it was unavoidable.

11. The building of the dam was then discussed. The Bulgarians claimed that it was on the initiative of the civilian authorities of the village of Generalovo (G 735-495) that the dam was built and it was without the knowledge of the military or political authorities. The Bulgarians said that a previous dam had existed in 1941 but was washed away by the river. The dam was built by night to avoid any incidents with the Greeks and in any case the territory was Bulgarian, a fact which was confirmed in a letter from the United Nations Secretary-General, Mr. Trygve Lie. The senior officer of the Bulgarians refused to sign the protocol as he was not empowered to do so.

12. The Team was not present at the frontier meeting and this information was obtained from the Greek Liaison Service.

²⁵ See statement by witness No. T/63, Annex A.

IV. OBSERVERS' OPINION

13. It is the opinion of the Team that at this particular spot nature has changed the course of the river and that, except for a short time when the river is in flood, no island does in fact exist. The action of the Bulgarians in building the dam without first consulting the Greeks and the fact that work only took place by night was responsible for the shooting incident.

ANNEX A

STATEMENTS OF WITNESSES

Witness No. T/63

The witness, a second lieutenant in the Greek National Army, stated :

" On the night of 16 September I was instructed to lay an ambush opposite the island which is in the river Evros, and about 100 metres from the dam which the Bulgarians had built. During the night of 16 September I heard, at approximately 9 p. m., a loud-speaker giving instructions to what, from the sound of movement, I think was a large number of people.

" On the night of 17 September I saw a patrol of three Bulgarians near the dam on the Bulgarian side. On the night of 18 September at approximately 11 p. m. when the weather was overcast, I saw a small party of Bulgarian soldiers cross the dry river bed from the island and enter Greek territory. The leading man stopped a few metres from my sergeant and lay on the ground; he was armed with an automatic weapon. I had given orders to my men that they were not to fire unless I gave the order. After a short time the leading Bulgarian rose and began to advance directly on the place where my sergeant was in hiding. I then gave the order to fire. I did this because I was uncertain of the strength of the Bulgarians and my strength was only ten soldiers and five MEA.

" At once the Bulgarians replied with small arms fire, machine-guns and rifle grenades. This fire came from the island and from two positions on the Bulgarian side of the river, and lasted for approximately twelve to fifteen minutes. After the exchange of fire all work on the dam stopped. I estimate that between 150 and 200 men were working on the dam "

Witnesses Nos. T/64, T/65 and T/66

These three witnesses, a sergeant and two soldiers in the Greek National Army confirmed the statement of their officer. In addition the sergeant said that he had asked his officer for permission to fire, as the leading Bulgarian was advancing right on to him. His officer gave him permission.

I. LETTER DATED 18 SEPTEMBER 1950 FROM THE GREEK NATIONAL ARMY TO THE BULGARIAN MILITARY AUTHORITIES ON THE CONSTRUCTION OF A DAM

[Translation]

From : The Commander of the Greek Frontier Guard
To : The Commander of the Svilengrad Covering Unit

We have the honour to bring to your knowledge that during the night of 14/15 September 1950, Bulgarians built a dam in the river Maritsa from the Bulgarian shore up to the north-east edge of the island Alfa and that Greek territory was also violated at another point, to a depth of fifty metres, by armed Bulgarian soldiers who entered Greek territory in order to cover the activity of the workers.

The building of the dam began without notice and without our approval. We strongly protest for the following reasons :

(1) The construction of this dam is designed to change the existing frontier situation by diverting the course of the river;

(2) Through the construction of this dam, Greek territory has been violated up to half of the river bed;

(3) The second half of the river bed has been penetrated by Bulgarian soldiers to protect the workers.

We demand the instant demolition of the dam.

We request that a meeting be held at the site of the dam on 23 September 1950, at 11 a.m.

An officer with the rank of captain will attend this meeting. Please inform us if there is any objection to the time and place of the meeting.

II. FIRST LETTER, DATED 19 SEPTEMBER 1950, FROM THE GREEK NATIONAL ARMY TO THE BULGARIAN MILITARY AUTHORITIES ON A FRONTIER MEETING

[Translation]

From : The Commander of the Greek Frontier Guard
To : The Commander of the Svilengrad Covering Unit

We have the honour to inform you that today at 1.30 a. m. an armed detachment belonging to you crossed the river Maritsa about 1,000 metres north-east of Ormenion and entered Greek territory, where it met one of our patrols and fired upon it.

We strongly protest against this armed violation of Greek territory.

Please attend a meeting today at 2 p. m. at the same point at which the incident took place. A lieutenant-colonel from our side will be there.

III. SECOND LETTER, DATED 21 SEPTEMBER 1950, FROM THE GREEK NATIONAL ARMY TO THE BULGARIAN MILITARY AUTHORITIES ON A FRONTIER MEETING

[Translation]

From : The Commander of the Greek Frontier Guard
To : The Commander of the Svilengrad Covering Unit

Further to our letter dated 19 September 1950, wherein we asked for a meeting at 2 p. m. on the same day and at the exact place of the incident (Violation of our territory by one of your armed patrols and attack upon our soldiers), we have the honour to inform you that we received your reply on the subject too late. We wish to bring to your knowledge :

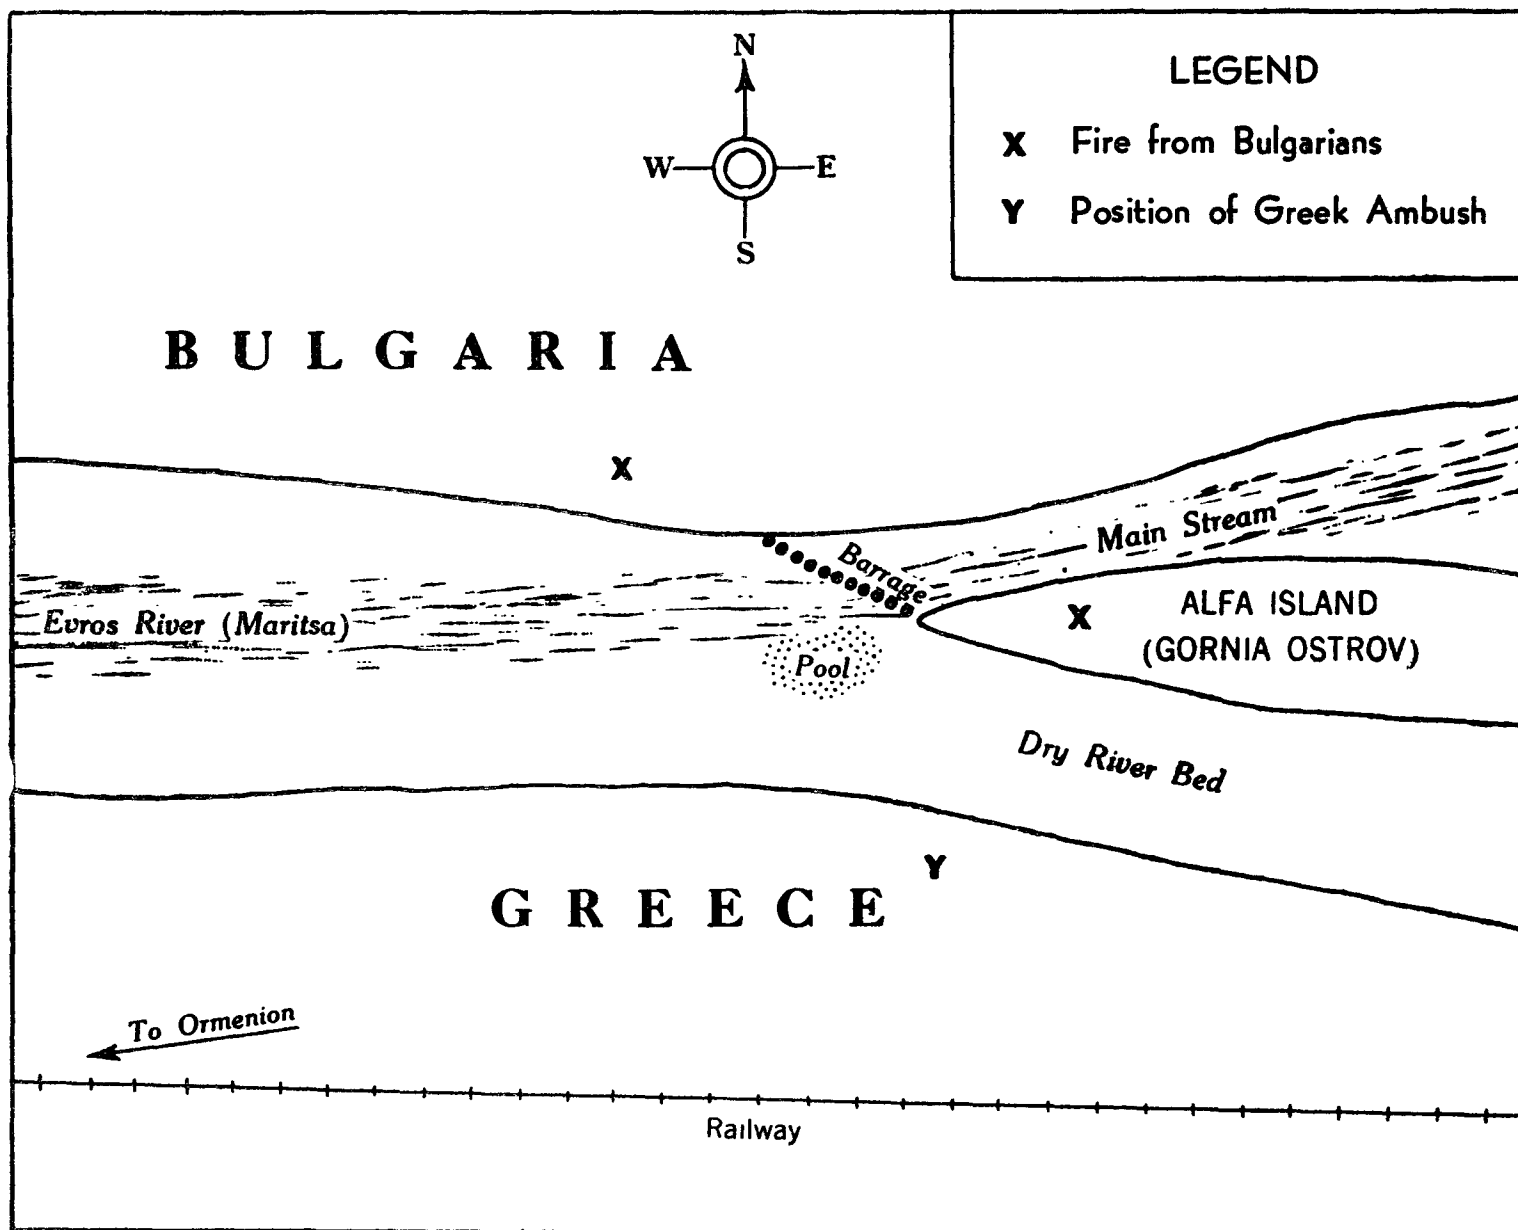

(1) That your letter fixing a meeting at 4 p. m. on 20 September 1950 was received by the competent person at the frontier post only at 7 p. m. that day;

(2) That, in order to give you sufficient time to notify the competent person at our frontier post, we propose and request that the meeting take place on the 24th of this month at 11 a.m.

(3) That the place of the meeting is to be where the incident occurred, in order that an investigation may be held on the spot, in accordance with the covering regulations.

If you have any objection to the place suggested for the meeting, please inform us in time in order to avoid any further delay.

For the meeting we have detailed a lieutenant-colonel.

		Part One	24
		Part Two	27

I. REPORT OF THE SECRETARY-GENERAL

1. The General Assembly, on 18 November 1949, adopted resolution 288 B (IV) which, inter alia, (a) instructed the Secretary-General to request the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies to continue their efforts for the repatriation of Greek children and to lend them all appropriate assistance in carrying out their task; (b) invited the international Red Cross organizations to report to the Secretary-General, for the information of the Members of the United Nations, on the progress being made in the implementation of the Assembly resolution.

2. The International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies duly reported to the Secretary-General in their letter of 18 September 1950, which forms part II of the present document. In transmitting this report, the Secretary-General takes the opportunity of submitting a summary of the action taken by him in support of their efforts and of communications on the subject from other sources. He wishes also to refer briefly to certain developments that have occurred since the Red Cross report was prepared.

3. Before the close of the fourth session of the General Assembly, the Secretary-General brought the terms of resolution 288 B (IV) officially to the attention of the Governments of Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Hungary, Poland, Romania and Yugoslavia. Having received a communication from the Greek Government to the effect that a number of Greek children would seem to have been transferred to Eastern Germany, he also forwarded a copy of the resolution to the Chairman of the Soviet Control Commission in Berlin.

4. By a letter dated 14 December 1949, the Hungarian Red Cross informed the Secretary-General that, until the situation of refugees in Greece improved, it could not see its way to repatriating the Greek children. The International Red Cross, in reply to a similar letter addressed to it by the Hungarian Red Cross on the same date, called attention to its report to the General Assembly,²⁶ in which it was definitely stated that the joint Red Cross mission to Greece was satisfied with the arrangements made in Greece for the reception of the children on their return. The great improvement in the refugee situation in Greece had been reported to the General Assembly at its fourth session by the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans. A letter dated 19 December 1949 from the Czechoslovak Red Cross was forwarded to the Secretary-General by the International Red Cross indicating that, before it would be possible to repatriate the 138 Greek children identified in Czechoslovakia on the first list furnished by the Greek Red Cross, an agreement between the Greek and Czechoslovak Governments should be concluded.

5. In January 1950, the Secretary-General held conversations, at the request of the International Red Cross, with the representatives of Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia at the seat of the United Nations. The purpose of his conversations with the Polish representative was to ascertain officially whether or not there were still Greek children in Poland and, if not, where the children formerly in Poland had been sent. The conversations with the representatives of Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia were aimed at advancing the objective of the International Red Cross of getting even a small group of children across the frontier, as a first step. After a further meeting in February with the Czechoslovak representative, a visa to visit Prague was granted to a representative of the International Red Cross, with whose assistance, early in March, the conditions were formulated under which the 138 children in Czechoslovakia would be returned to Greece. These conditions having been accepted by the Greek Red Cross, the International Red Cross, as described in its report of 18 September 1950, proceeded with the task of authenticating the requests for the children concerned. In April, at the suggestion of the International Red Cross, the Secretary-General sent to the authorities in Eastern Germany the complete lists of the Greek children whose return is requested.

²⁶ See document A/1014.

6. As stated in the report of the International Red Cross organizations, a meeting, held in March in Geneva, of the national Red Cross societies of the countries directly concerned proved abortive, no representatives of the societies of countries harbouring Greek children having attended the meeting. When in Geneva at the beginning of May, the Secretary-General consulted with officials of the International Red Cross as to further steps that might be taken; he made personal representations to certain governments to the effect that millions all over the world felt deeply about this issue and could not understand or condone further delay in its solution. At its meeting on 10 May 1950, the Executive Committee of the League of Red Cross Societies adopted a resolution calling the attention of the United Nations to the fact that "without a greater sense of social responsibility on the part of the Governments concerned, the Red Cross cannot fulfil the task entrusted to it" and reporting that "unless the obstacles over which the Red Cross has no control are removed, the mission of the Red Cross cannot be accomplished".²⁷ Thereafter, the Secretary-General held personal consultations with the Presidents of the two international Red Cross organizations and received from them on 9 June a joint telegram (reproduced in part II below) in which, inter alia, they expressed the opinion that only the Governments concerned could bring about a prompt solution of the whole problem and urged that whatever action the Secretary-General considered most appropriate to bring about the desired result should be now taken by him with the Governments concerned.

7. Acting upon this request, the Secretary-General, on 15 June 1950, communicated to the Governments of Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Yugoslavia the full text of the Red Cross telegram and an invitation that they should designate a representative to meet with him in Geneva on 6 July. A similar communication was later sent to the President of the German Democratic Republic in Berlin. The Government of Yugoslavia accepted this invitation. The Czechoslovak Government advised the Secretary-General that "due to the absence of Czechoslovakia at the eleventh session of the Economic and Social Council the Czechoslovak Government is not in a position to nominate a representative" to the proposed meeting. No other replies were received. On 3 July, owing to the emergence of the Korean crisis, the Secretary-General informed all the Governments concerned that he was obliged to postpone the proposed meeting. Several consultations between representatives of the Secretary-General and of the International Red Cross took place in July and August.

8. In the meantime, the Commission on the Status of Women had adopted, on 17 May 1950, a resolution on the "Problem of Greek mothers whose children have not yet been repatriated" which has been formally transmitted by the Economic and Social Council to the General Assembly.²⁸ On 29 May 1950, the Government of the United States of America transmitted a message to the Secretary-General reiterating "its appreciation of the efforts of the United Nations Secretariat and of the Red Cross in this matter" and reaffirming "the determination of the American people, expressed in formal resolutions by the House of Representatives and other public bodies, and in thousands of spontaneous, individual messages, to support these efforts until the Greek children are back in their homes".²⁹

9. The telegram of 9 June from the Presidents of the international Red Cross organizations cited certain facts which seemed to give promise of some progress. In the first place, a joint mission of the International Red Cross had, during the preceding four weeks, been able to establish personal contact in Greece with practically all the parents of the 138 Greek children identified in Czechoslovakia. Since the action requested of the International Red Cross by the Czechoslovak Government had been completed, this development, it was felt, might "justify the hope that the repatriation of those Greek children which the Czechoslovak Government had declared itself willing to repatriate can take place without further undue

²⁷ The text of the resolution follows (A/1257):

"The Executive Committee of the League of Red Cross Societies,

"Taking into consideration the resolution of the International Red Cross conference of Stockholm concerning the repatriation of Greek children at the earliest possible moment, as well as those passed by the United Nations General Assembly in 1948 and 1949, urging the States where these Greek children now are to make all necessary arrangements, in consultation and co-operation with the international Red Cross organizations, for their early return to Greece,

"Considering that, irrespective of the circumstances that attend our times, the Red Cross earnestly hopes that all the children will be returned to their parents, in accordance with accepted principles of child welfare,

"Considering, moreover, the continuous efforts made for this purpose by the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies, including:

"(a) Verification of satisfactory conditions under which the children would be received upon their return to Greece;

"(b) Preparation of lists in Latin and Greek characters of the names of children claimed by their parents or nearest surviving relations and dispatch of these lists to the national Societies of the countries concerned, to be used by them in identifying the children;

"(c) Requests to national Societies of the receiving countries to prepare lists of Greek children in their respective countries, for comparison with the requests from parents;

"(d) Offers of assistance to the national Societies of the receiving countries in preparing and comparing lists of Greek children in their respective countries;

"(e) Missions to Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria to discuss with national Societies and the Governments concerned the speedy repatriation of Greek children on their respective territories and offers to send similar missions to Hungary and Romania;

"(f) Invitations to the national Societies of all countries concerned to meet in Geneva on 9 and 10 March 1950 to discuss means for repatriation, to which only the Greek Red Cross responded by sending delegates,

"Reports with deep regret that, despite these efforts, no Greek child has so far been returned to Greece and that even elementary indications indispensable for solution of the problem have not been furnished by the Governments concerned;

"Affirms, nevertheless, the determination of the League of Red Cross Societies to proceed, in full accord with the International Committee of the Red Cross, with the task which they accepted and worked on in common;

"Believes it to be its duty to draw the attention of the United Nations to the fact that without a greater sense of social responsibility on the part of the Governments concerned, the Red Cross cannot fulfil the task entrusted to it;

"Reports to the United Nations that, unless the obstacles over which the Red Cross has no control are removed, the mission of the Red Cross cannot be accomplished".

delay". Secondly, sixteen children whose parents were residing in Australia were being sent from Yugoslavia to that country;³⁰ and, finally, the Bulgarian Red Cross had declared its willingness to co-operate in the repatriation of Greek children and delegates representing the International Committee and the League were consequently awaiting visas to proceed to Bulgaria. Except in regard to Yugoslavia, the hopes of progress have, as the International Red Cross report reveals, remained entirely unfulfilled. Nor has any other country harbouring Greek children since reported any action towards carrying out the General Assembly resolutions.

10. On 23 June, the Permanent Representative of Yugoslavia informed the Secretary-General of the proposals of the Yugoslav Red Cross regarding the methods to be adopted in the repatriation of Greek children from Yugoslavia and stated that the Yugoslav Government, "desirous of seeing the Greek children whose return to Greece is freely demanded by their parents repatriated", fully approved of these proposals. The Yugoslav proposals have been summarized in the last section of the annex to the international Red Cross organizations' report below. The International Red Cross, in its report of 18 September, indicated that while the Greek Red Cross accepted most of the conditions proposed by the Yugoslav Red Cross, there were others which the Greek Red Cross could not submit to the Greek authorities. The Greek Government has now agreed to the remaining conditions, and the Secretary-General is glad to report that practical arrangements are being made by the Red Cross Societies of the two countries, with the assistance of the International Red Cross, to repatriate a first group of sixty-three children in the very near future.

11. The Greek Government has at the same time called attention to the discrepancies in the numbers of Greek children in Yugoslavia given from time to time by the Yugoslav authorities as well as by representatives of the Yugoslav Red Cross, and has asked that representatives of the League of Red Cross Societies should be sent to Yugoslavia to ascertain on the spot the correct numbers. This request has been communicated by the Secretary-General to the Yugoslav Government.

12. By a cable to the Secretary-General dated 31 October, the International Red Cross supplemented its report by the following information concerning Yugoslavia: In a letter dated 7 September the Yugoslav Red Cross informed the International Red Cross that, up to that date, it had identified from the International Red Cross lists 174 Greek children in Yugoslavia, including the 63 referred to above whose names had already been communicated to the International Red Cross. As soon as the additional names are received by the International Red Cross, they will be transmitted to the Greek Red Cross for compilation of the necessary civil registration documents. The Yugoslav Red Cross has sent the International Red Cross seven lists containing names of 2,512 Greek children resident in other countries of Eastern and South-Eastern Europe who are claimed by their parents resident in Yugoslavia. At the request of the Yugoslav Red Cross, the International Red Cross has communicated this list to the Red Cross Societies of the countries concerned.

13. By the same communication of 31 October, the international Red Cross organizations gave the following supplementary information regarding Czechoslovakia: On 20 October the Red Cross organizations despatched to the Czechoslovak Red Cross 20 birth certificates missing from the 138 individual files already sent to Prague. At the same time, they asked the Czechoslovak Red Cross for official information on the result of its examination of the files so as to enable repatriation to be effected. They are still awaiting two birth certificates from Greece for final completion of these files. The representative of the Czechoslovak Red Cross at the Council of Governors of the League of Red Cross Societies made a statement at Monte Carlo on 18 October disputing the validity of several of the documents relating to the 138 children collected by the International Red Cross Special Mission to Greece in May 1950. The Czechoslovak Red Cross considers a number of these documents to be neither reliable nor adequate. The international Red Cross organizations consider it all the more necessary to send representatives to Czechoslovakia as soon as possible to make oral statements regarding those files. They recall that they have not yet received the visas requested from the Czechoslovak authorities for their representatives on 26 June last.

14. The international Red Cross organizations state that the situation in respect of the other reception countries has not changed since their report of 18 September was prepared.

15. The Secretary-General has been in frequent contact with the Greek Government throughout the year. In the past few weeks, he has received from the Permanent Representative of Greece to the United Nations communications intimating that considerable numbers of Greek children are or were recently in Eastern Germany and Poland. An earlier communication referred to information suggesting that Greek children were in the territory of the Soviet Union. The Secretary-General has kept informed, and has been kept informed by, the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans about the various phases of their respective efforts to advance the prospects of obtaining the return of the children: and he has received throughout the year innumerable communications on the subject from private organizations and individuals in different parts of the world.

16. The League of Red Cross Societies transmitted to the Secretary-General on 19 October 1950 the following resolution on the repatriation of Greek children which had been adopted by the Board of Governors of the League at its 21st session:

"The Board of Governors of the League of Red Cross Societies

"1. Notes with regret that not a single Greek child has so far been repatriated, notwithstanding the efforts made by the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies;

³⁰ The safe arrival of these children was later confirmed to the Secretary-General by the Australian Government.

“ 2. Actuated by the humanitarian principles which form the basis of the institution of the Red Cross, wishes to make a final effort to achieve a task of such great moral significance as that of restoring children to their families;

“ 3. Notes that the means at the disposal of the Red Cross are not such that it can fulfil the task entrusted to it by the United Nations unless the latter takes the necessary decisions;

“ Requests the General Assembly of the United Nations, in a spirit of humanitarianism detached from all political or ideological considerations, to make every possible effort to find a means of repatriating Greek children ”.

17. The Commission on the Status of Women, in the resolution referred to above, expressed “ its confidence that the Secretary-General will submit to the General Assembly the urgent necessity of finding new ways for the solution of this very important question, in case the countries detaining the children have not returned them ”. At the moment of writing, not a single Greek child has yet been returned to his native land and, except for Yugoslavia, no country harbouring Greek children has taken definite action to comply with the resolutions unanimously adopted in two successive years by the General Assembly. The Secretary-General cannot but feel that the General Assembly must take a most serious view of this situation and will wish to urge once again, in the name of common humanity, that the children be returned without further procrastination and delay. The General Assembly will not fail to note the final statement in the report of the international Red Cross organizations “ that they will be obliged to consider relinquishing the mission they accepted from the United Nations if the latter, and the countries concerned in the problem of the displaced Greek children, do not afford them their assistance without which the task cannot be accomplished ”. The task cannot be accomplished without the genuine co-operation of the Governments concerned; but with such co-operation the problem could be quickly and easily solved, and it is the Secretary-General’s earnest hope that this co-operation may yet be forthcoming.

II. LETTER DATED 18 SEPTEMBER 1950 ADDRESSED TO THE SECRETARY-GENERAL BY THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE OF THE RED CROSS AND THE LEAGUE OF RED CROSS SOCIETIES

Geneva, 18 September 1950

18. On 11 January 1949, you requested the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies to establish the necessary contacts, on the one hand with the Greek Government and the Red Cross organization, and on the other hand with the Governments and Red Cross organizations in the countries sheltering Greek children, with a view to seeing how the resolution adopted on 27 November 1948 by the United Nations General Assembly³¹ recommending the return of these children to Greece could be implemented.

³¹ Resolution 193 C (III).

19. The terms of the resolution were, it may be recalled, as follows :

“ The General Assembly

“ Recommends the return to Greece of Greek children at present away from their homes when the children, their father or mother or, in his or her absence, their closest relative, express a wish to that effect;

“ Invites all the Members of the United Nations and other States on whose territory these children are to be found to take the necessary measures for implementation of the present recommendation;

“ Instructs the Secretary-General to request the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies to organize and ensure liaison with the national Red Cross organizations of the States concerned with a view to empowering the national Red Cross organizations to adopt measures in the respective countries for implementing the present recommendation ”.

20. We accepted the mission and immediately took the steps which were described in a first general report transmitted to you, after a number of preliminary communications, on 5 October 1949.³²

21. On 18 November 1949, the United Nations General Assembly, having regard among other things, to the facts described in that report, adopted a new resolution on the repatriation of displaced Greek children, reading as follows³³ :

“ The General Assembly,

“ Noting the report submitted by the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies on the question of the repatriation of Greek children, and expressing warm appreciation of the efforts made by the two international Red Cross organizations to facilitate the implementation of General Assembly resolution 193 C (III), “ Noting that the Greek children have not as yet been returned to their homes in accordance with the resolution of the General Assembly, and recognizing the necessity of further efforts for the full implementation of this resolution,

“ 1. Instructs the Secretary-General to request the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies to continue their efforts in this humanitarian cause and to lend them all appropriate assistance in carrying out their task;

“ 2. Urges all the Members of the United Nations and other States harbouring the Greek children to make all necessary arrangements, in consultation and co-operation with the international Red Cross organizations, for the early return to their homes of the children in accordance with the aforementioned resolution;

“ 3. Invites the international Red Cross organizations to report to the Secretary-General, for the information of the Members of the United Nations, on the progress being made in the implementation of the present resolution ”.

³³ Resolution 288 B (IV).

22. In concluding our first general report, we expressed our regret that despite the repeated efforts of our two organizations it had not been possible, up to that date, 5 October 1949, to obtain greater practical results.

23. At that time no Greek child had been repatriated

24. We had been able to send joint missions to Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Greece and Yugoslavia but, in spite of repeated requests, had not succeeded in obtaining permission for our representatives to visit Hungary and Romania.

25. In spite of our efforts, no reception country had furnished us with the list of Greek children in its territory which we wished to compare with the list of children claimed by their families in Greece.

26. The Czechoslovak Red Cross had transmitted to us the names of 138 children in Czechoslovakia whom it had been able to identify in the first list of claimed children we had transmitted to it in August. The Bulgarian, Hungarian, Romanian and Yugoslav Red Cross Societies had not yet, however, found it possible to inform us of the result of the examination of our first list which we had requested them to undertake. The Albanian Red Cross had informed us that there were no longer any Greek children in Albania. No reply had been received from the Polish Red Cross which we had recently approached with regard to Greek children alleged to have been transferred to Poland.

27. In the conclusion of our first general report, we stated : “ Our two institutions hold themselves at your disposal to give every assistance wherever it may be thought necessary, to settle this problem as soon as possible ”. The report continued : “ All the Red Cross organs concerned, both national and international, declare themselves convinced of the importance of finding a solution in conformity with humanitarian principles. For this reason the International Committee and the League cherish the hope that, in accordance with the resolution of 27 November 1948 and any other resolutions which may be adopted on this matter by the General Assembly of the United Nations, the Greek children at present away from their homes who express a wish to that effect, and those who are claimed by their parents, may return to their countries in the near future. ”

28. At the beginning of the present year, in view of the fact that no appreciable progress had been made since 5 October, we invited the Greek Red Cross and the Red Cross Societies of the reception countries to send representatives to Geneva to a meeting in which every aspect of the problem of the Greek children could be considered again from the humanitarian point of view, in which each of the interested parties would have the opportunity to state their views freely and from which we hoped a solution would emerge permitting the speedy repatriation of the children claimed.

29. Only the Greek Red Cross arranged to be repremented at this meeting which it was planned to hold on 9 and 10 March 1950.

30. The Hungarian and Polish Red Cross Societies did not reply to our invitation. The Bulgarian, Romanian and Czechoslovak Red Cross Societies refused the invitation the first named for reasons concerning the Greek and Yugoslav Red Cross Societies, the second on the grounds that it had not yet completed its examination of our lists and the third because it said it had been able to state its point of view to the delegate whom we had sent to Prague in February 1949. In the end, the Yugoslav Red Cross did not send a representative to the proposed meeting although it had accepted the invitation in principle.

31. Determined nevertheless to continue our efforts, we approached the Red Cross Societies of the reception countries at the end of March to enquire what conditions they and the authorities of their countries considered should be satisfied in order to carry out the repatriation as speedily as possible. The Czechoslovak Red Cross to which we had appointed a representative in February 1950 to organize the repatriation of the 138 children identified had requested our two organizations to furnish certain preliminary safeguards (civil registration certificate for each child, proof of relationship, etc.) (see under Annex, Part Two, Czechoslovakia).

32. We were also anxious not to exclude the possibility of adapting our procedures to the individual wishes of each of the other reception countries.

33. We are compelled to state that, in spite of these steps, the practical results obtained to date are negligible.

34. At the last meeting of the Executive Committee of the League of Red Cross Societies in May 1950, the delegate of the Yugoslav Red Cross stated that her society would conform to the resolutions of the United Nations General Assembly regarding the repatriation of displaced Greek children. On that occasion she reported the number of Greek children in Yugoslavia and, of these, the number then living in Yugoslavia with their families, who therefore did not require repatriation.

35. At that time, the Greek Minister in Berne, during an interview with the representative of the Yugoslav Red Cross, informed her of a proposal from the Greek Government that the International Red Cross should be requested to send a special mission to Yugoslavia to check the figures given to the Executive Committee of the League of Red Cross Societies. The proposal was noted by the delegate of the Yugoslav Red Cross and, we are informed by the Greek Government, was reviewed by the latter in the course of conversations in Athens with the Chargé d'affaires of Yugoslavia in Greece. The Greek authorities have informed us that, as yet, no reply has been made to this suggestion.

36. In June, the Yugoslav Red Cross informed us of the names of sixty-three children in Yugoslavia whom it had been able to identify in our lists. At the same time it transmitted its proposals regarding the practical organization of repatriation. However, it also laid down certain preliminary conditions regarding repatriation and requested guarantees regarding the identity of the children and their relationship with the persons making the applications we had transmitted (see under Annex, Part Two, Yugoslavia). This communication was brought to the attention of the Greek Red Cross and we are now waiting for the latter to forward to us the documents requested by the Yugoslav Red Cross.

37. In addition, following approaches made through the diplomatic channel by the Australian Government to the Yugoslav authorities, a group of seventeen children left Yugoslavia in June for Australia where their parents are living.

38. As yet none of the children identified in Czechoslovakia has been repatriated. To satisfy the requests of the Czechoslovak Red Cross, we sent two delegates to Greece in May of this year. During a visit of several weeks, they made contact with the signatories of the requests for the repatriation of the 138 children identified in Czechoslovakia and collected the proofs of identity and relationship required by the Czechoslovak Red Cross. It was our intention to instruct the representatives of our two organizations to take the documents to Prague and to furnish the Czechoslovak Red Cross with such explanations regarding them as might be desirable in the light of the conditions in which they had been collected. We twice proposed this procedure to the Czechoslovak Red Cross which did not find it acceptable. Finally, on its express request and because it felt that examination of the documents by its own staff before our delegates made their visit would enable the children identified to be repatriated more quickly, we forwarded the documents to it by post early in August. The Czechoslovak Red Cross has not yet informed us of the result of its examination.

39. Nor have we received any reply to our application submitted on 26 June to the Czechoslovak authorities for visas for the delegates we intended to send to furnish the Czechoslovak Red Cross with any explanations that might be required regarding the documents and to organize the repatriation of the children identified, in conjunction with the Czechoslovak Red Cross.

40. The Bulgarian Red Cross has not yet informed us of the result of its examination of our lists. We have not received any communication from it since its cable of 30 June, following which we again proposed that we should send a delegate to Bulgaria to examine, in conjunction with the Bulgarian Red Cross, the difficulties it reported and to assist it in its work of identification. We have also received no reply to the application for a visa which we made for this representative in April and renewed in July last.

41. On 29 June, the Romanian Red Cross informed us that in its opinion, before any consideration was given to the practical details of organizing the repatriation of the displaced Greek children, it was essential that a solution should be found for the problem of refugees and homeless children in Greece. As the Society appeared not to have completed its examination of our lists and seemed to be encountering difficulties, we proposed on 14 July that we should send a delegate from our two organizations. We have received no reply to this proposal.

42. We have received no reply from the Hungarian Red Cross to any of our communications since 21 September 1949.

43. In November 1949, the Polish Red Cross denied a report to the effect that Greek children had been transferred to Poland. We were nevertheless informed in May that a number of Greek children were then in Polish territory.

44. Our attention has also been directed to a number of Greek children who are living in the territory of the German Democratic Republic. We have received no information in this connexion either from the responsible authorities in Germany or from the country or countries from which the children were transferred.

45. The foregoing is a very brief account of the situation as it appears to us at present.

46. We annex a complete chronological summary of the action we have taken since 11 January 1949 and the results achieved.

47. On 9 June, the Presidents of our two organizations sent you a telegram on the problem of displaced Greek children, from which we take the liberty of quoting the following passage :

“ ... The International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies feel that their endeavours must be assisted by the United Nations. This is especially true since the efforts of the Committee and the League to obtain the co-operation of the Red Cross societies of the countries harbouring the children, for the conference convened in Geneva for 9 March, were not successful.

“ We are of the opinion that only the Governments concerned can bring about a prompt solution of this whole problem. We therefore urge that whatever action you consider most appropriate to bring about the desired result be now taken by you with the Governments concerned. We urge this because the Red Cross firmly believes it to be a principle of natural law endorsed by all the peoples of the world that children belong with their parents, and the Red Cross will therefore continue to act in the spirit of the Assembly resolution.

“ We sincerely deplore that, unless progress can be speeded up, the report to the United Nations Assembly in September will have to show that the task entrusted by unanimous vote of the Assembly to the International Red Cross could not be accomplished despite all the efforts of the Committee and the League.

“ (Signed) Paul RUEGGER, President,
International Committee of the Red Cross

“ Basil O'CONNOR, President, League of Red Cross Societies ”

48. Since 9 June, as the present report shows, the situation has remained practically unchanged. There has in fact been little or no improvement since 5 October 1949.

49. The International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies are compelled once more to report that none of the displaced Greek children claimed by their parents in Greece has yet been repatriated. Only seventeen children have been able to join their families in Australia.

50. The Committee and the League feel that they have done everything within their power and used every resource open to them to ensure that the two resolutions adopted by the United Nations General Assembly on the repatriation of the displaced Greek children should be implemented as completely and rapidly as possible.

51. The principal action taken by the two international Red Cross organizations can be summarized as follows :

52. At the outset of their activities, the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies were anxious to make a preliminary general survey of the problem by establishing contact, through joint missions, with the Greek Government and Red Cross and with the Governments and Red Cross societies of the reception countries. Missions were able to visit Greece, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. The Hungarian Red Cross reported that it would be glad to receive representatives of the International Committee and the League, but no reply was received to the applications for visas submitted to the Hungarian authorities, or to those submitted to the Romanian and Albanian authorities.

53. The International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies subsequently made repeated requests to the Red Cross Societies of the reception countries to send them reports on the situation, and would have welcomed an expression in the reports of the views of the societies as well as their practical suggestions. This request was not complied with although, in March 1949, the Hungarian Red Cross had stated that it would send a documentary report.

54. In order to establish the whereabouts of each of the children claimed, the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies requested each of the reception countries to furnish them with a list of displaced Greek children living in their territory for comparison with the applications for repatriation submitted by the parents. None of the reception countries has forwarded such a list to Geneva although the Bulgarian and Czechoslovak Red Cross Societies assured the delegates of the International Committee and the League in March 1949 that the documents would be sent as soon as possible.

55. Since August 1949, the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies have transmitted to the Red Cross societies of the reception countries four lists of claimed children, comprising approximately 9,300 names in all, a figure which is substantially lower than the 28,000 which had been quoted as the total number of displaced children. They requested the societies to inform them which of the children mentioned in the lists were in their respective countries.

56. The Bulgarian, Hungarian and Romanian Red Cross societies have not transmitted the final results of their examination to Geneva, although the Bulgarian and Hungarian societies had assured the Committee and the League that they would do so as soon as possible. The two international Red Cross organizations, in order to assist the three societies in their technical work, proposed to send them representatives who were thoroughly conversant with the problem. No reply to this proposal was received.

57. The Czechoslovak Red Cross identified 138 names in the first of the four lists. It has not reported whether it has examined the three other lists. The names of the 138 children identified were communicated in September 1949. None of the children has yet been repatriated although the Czechoslovak Red Cross has received from the International Committee and the League all the additional guarantees for which, in February 1950, it asked the delegate sent to organize the repatriation of the children.

58. The Yugoslav Red Cross has identified sixty-three children from the lists. In this case also, repatriation has not yet taken place as the Yugoslav Red Cross also has laid down a number of conditions.

59. Finally, the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies, hoping that a general discussion might lead to a solution which it had been impossible to obtain by individual negotiations, endeavoured to convene a conference of the representatives of all the Red Cross societies concerned; the latter would have had an opportunity freely to express their views on the problem, any objections they might have to the procedure adopted, and their practical suggestions. As reported, none of the Red Cross Societies of the reception countries sent representatives to the meeting convened at Geneva on 9 and 10 March 1950.

60. The Committee and the League deeply regret that, in spite of their repeated attempts, more substantial practical results have not been obtained and feel that it is now impossible for them to proceed further with the general execution of their mission through the channels open to them.

61. Without wishing to judge the causes of a situation that is beyond their control, the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies are compelled to state that they will have to consider relinquishing the mandate they accepted from the United Nations unless the latter and the countries concerned in the problem of the displaced Greek children afford them the co-operation necessary for the completion of their task; such co-operation is called for in paragraph 2 of the operational part of the resolution adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations on 18 November 1949 to which, unfortunately, effect has not yet been given.

ANNEX

CHRONOLOGICAL SUMMARY

There follows a chronological summary by countries of the steps we have taken since 11 January 1949 and the results obtained.

The summary is in two parts : the first part covers the period extending to 30 November 1949, on which date we communicated to the national Red Cross societies of the countries concerned the resolution adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations on 18 November 1949; the second part covers the subsequent period to date.

PART ONE

I. GREECE

(1) A joint mission of the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies visited Greece from 10 February to 11 March 1949 to make a preliminary survey of the problem of the repatriation of displaced Greek children. The Greek Red Cross had begun to draw up lists of claimed children on the basis of the applications for repatriation which numbers of relatives had already made to it.

(2) In view of the language difficulty and the age of the displaced children, it seemed probable that difficulties of identification would arise when it came to comparing the lists submitted by the Greek Red Cross and those drawn up in the reception countries. In their reports, our delegates were careful to emphasize the desirability of allowing missions of investigation of the International Red Cross to visit the reception countries in order to examine doubtful cases on the spot.

(3) Our joint mission received formal assurances from the Greek Red Cross and the Greek Government that no discriminatory measure of any kind would be applied against repatriated children and that the minority among the latter who could not be sent directly to their families on returning to Greece would be housed and maintained either by the Greek Red Cross or by other Greek charitable organizations. Our delegates were able to visit several homes already in operation and assure themselves that the living conditions of the children housed there were satisfactory.

(4) The Greek Red Cross and the Greek Government also formally declared already at that time that they were ready to give any International Red Cross mission the widest possible facilities to investigate the material and moral conditions in which the repatriated children would be living.

(5) In concluding their report, our delegates laid particular emphasis on the fact that strictly from the material point of view they felt able to recommend that the displaced Greek children should return to their own country. They also thought it their duty to draw attention to the moral and emotional effects which prolonged absence was having on those children and on their near relatives.

(6) Following upon the mission, we maintained close contact with the Greek Red Cross and authorities, chiefly in order to study certain technical problems. In particular, we requested the Greek Red Cross to transmit to us, in addition to its lists, the original applications of the relatives and in each case an index card with the information that was most essential for the identification of the children (name, first name, year of birth, last place of residence in Greece, etc.). Our technical service at Geneva then prepared an alphabetical card index. On the basis of the index, it was our intention to draw up lists of the claimed children by countries of reception. This was based on the assumption that we would receive from each of those countries a list of all the children resident there. However, it will be seen later that, so far, the information which we requested from the reception countries has not been sent to us, with the exception of one list of 138 claimed children at present in Czechoslovakia and another of sixty-three children living in Yugoslavia.

(7) We were thus obliged to use another method simultaneously. In June and July 1949, we began drawing up lists on the basis of the applications which had reached us from Greece and sending them to each country in which the children were living. So far, we have drawn up and distributed four lists totalling 9,276 names. These lists in Latin characters have been duplicated by lists in Greek characters in consequence of the technical reservations made by certain Red Cross societies in the host countries.

(8) Unfortunately, it seems that the applications have not always been checked on the spot with the desired accuracy. Thus, distant relatives have sometimes claimed the repatriation of a child whose father or mother was no longer living in Greece.

(9) Similarly, in drawing up our first list of claimed children, we noted that a number of applications concerned persons who could no longer normally be considered as children. (After getting in touch with the Greek Red Cross, we agreed with the latter that the maximum age of the children on our lists would in future be twenty-one years at the time of their departure from Greece, which corresponds to the age of majority as laid down in the Greek Civil Code.)

(10) On 28 January 1949, we informed the Red Cross societies of all the reception countries of the request that had just been made to us by the Secretary-General of the United Nations, and announced to them our intention of appointing for each country a joint mission of our two organizations which would be responsible for making a preliminary survey of the problem of repatriating the Greek children. We asked them to use their good offices with the authorities of their countries to see that our representatives were granted the necessary visas. The visas were also requested directly from the Governments concerned through diplomatic channels.

II. ALBANIA

(11) On 18 March 1949, not having received a reply to our letter of 28 January or to our application for visas, we requested the Albanian Red Cross to communicate to us any information it might have regarding the question of the displaced Greek children and its opinion regarding their repatriation, in order to assist us in drawing up a first preliminary report for the Secretary-General of the United Nations. On 22 April, we reminded the Albanian

Red Cross of our request regarding the dispatch of a joint mission of our two organizations. We requested it to send us the list of Greek children present in Albania; we wished in fact to compare it with the list of claimed children which we had drawn up on the basis of the applications we had received from Greece.

(12) In a letter of 19 April, which arrived at Geneva on 29 April, the Albanian Red Cross informed us that there were no longer any Greek children in Albania, since those who had been living there had been transferred to other countries in Central and South-Eastern Europe.

(13) On 25 August, we requested the Albanian Red Cross to give us all the information it could regarding the Greek children who had been in Albania, in particular their number and their allocation among the countries to which they had been transferred. This was in order to enable us to make as complete a report as possible to the Secretary-General of the United Nations for the General Assembly meeting in September 1949.

(14) The Albanian Red Cross made no reply to this request, which we repeated on 20 October without result.

III. BULGARIA

(15) The necessary permits having been granted, a representative of the International Committee and the League visited Bulgaria from 18 to 25 March 1949.

(16) All the Greek children received by Bulgaria had been placed in the care of the Bulgarian Red Cross. Our delegate was able to visit the two largest reception centres and found the children living there to be enjoying satisfactory conditions.

(17) The Bulgarian authorities told our representative that the Bulgarian Red Cross had been instructed to take the necessary action to implement the resolution adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations. All steps would be taken to ensure accurate identification of the Greek children living in Bulgaria and the list would be sent to Geneva as soon as possible.

(18) On 10 June 1949, since we had not yet received the list, we wrote to the Bulgarian Red Cross to ask whether it was in a position to indicate when it would be able to send the list. In July, in the course of a visit to Bulgaria, the Secretary-General of the League received confirmation from the Bulgarian Red Cross that we would receive the list but that, in view of certain technical difficulties, it could not be sent to us before 15 September.

(19) On 9 August 1949, we sent to the Bulgarian Red Cross the first list of claimed children, comprising 5,060 names. At the same time, we asked it to be good enough to give us any information it might have regarding the problem of the Greek children which might be likely to assist us in drawing up the report we were to make to the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

(20) On 26 August 1949, we asked the Bulgarian Red Cross whether it was in a position to inform us of the results of its study of our first list. At the same time, we suggested that we should send to Bulgaria a representative who would be able to consult with the Bulgarian Red Cross regarding the steps to be taken in organizing the repatriation of the children who had been identified.

(21) On 30 August, the Bulgarian Red Cross informed us that it had begun a study of our list; it would inform us of the results at a later date. We approached it again on 20 October and subsequently on 30 November, bringing to its attention, on the latter date, the text of the second resolution adopted unanimously by the General Assembly of the United Nations regarding the repatriation of displaced Greek children.

IV. HUNGARY

(22) On 10 February 1949, in a letter which reached us on 23 February, the Hungarian Red Cross told us that it would be glad to receive the mission we had mentioned and that it had taken the necessary steps with its Government to see that visas would be granted.

(23) On 18 March 1949, we requested the Hungarian Red Cross to communicate to us any information it might have and its opinion regarding the problem of the repatriation of Greek children in order to enable us to draw up our report for the Secretary-General of the United Nations. In reply, the Hungarian Red Cross informed us, on 29 March, that it had begun to prepare documentation on the problem on the instructions of the Hungarian Government, and that it would not fail to send us the report as soon as it was finished.

(24) On 25 April, we requested the Hungarian Red Cross to send us the list of Greek children living in Hungary, which we wished to compare with the requests for repatriation which had reached us from Greece.

(25) On 10 June 1949, in confirmation of our letter of 25 April, we requested the Hungarian Red Cross to intercede once more with the Hungarian Government for permission for our joint mission to visit Hungary as soon as possible and establish the contacts necessary for an examination of the repatriation of the Greek children living in Hungary.

(26) On 9 August, we sent the Hungarian Red Cross our first list of Greek children claimed by their parents. We again requested it to send us its report on the question of the Greek children, since this might assist us in preparing the report which we were to submit to the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

(27) On 26 August, we requested it to inform us whether it had examined our first list, and we recalled that we were ready to send a representative to Hungary to study, with the Hungarian society, the organization of the repatriation of the children who had been identified.

(28) On 21 September 1949, the Hungarian Red Cross told us that it had begun the comparison of our list with the list of Greek children living in Hungary. It was encountering some difficulty in its task because of the transcription of the children's names into Latin characters. It would communicate the results of its investigation as soon as it was completed. It also told us that it was sceptical of the authenticity of the applications which we had transmitted. In its opinion the children had left Greece because their relatives wished to place them in safety. (It would be contrary to the humanitarian spirit of the Red Cross to repatriate them when their homes had been for the most part destroyed and their relatives were fighting or in prison.)

(29) On 18 November, we asked the Hungarian Red Cross whether it had been able to complete its work of identification and we notified it that we would soon be sending lists in the Greek alphabet, suggesting that a representative should be sent to Geneva with full freedom to consult the original applications which had been transmitted to us.

(30) On 30 November, we brought to the knowledge of the Hungarian Red Cross the text of the resolution regarding the repatriation of displaced Greek children adopted unanimously by the General Assembly of the United Nations on 18 November.

V. POLAND

(31) On 8 September 1949, the Secretary-General of the United Nations informed us that he had approached the Polish Government regarding the Greek children who were alleged to be in Poland as a result of the transfers reported to our delegate by the Yugoslav Red Cross. We immediately sent the Polish Red Cross our first list of Greek children, in the hope that the document would assist it in drawing up its own list of claimed children who might be living in Poland. We also told it that we would be glad to appoint a joint mission of the International Committee and the League to study with it the practical problem of repatriating these children.

(32) The Polish Red Cross replied, on 18 November, with a denial of the report of the Yugoslav Red Cross regarding the alleged presence of Greek children on Polish territory.

(33) A representative of the Polish Red Cross had also made a verbal statement to the Executive Committee of the League, which had met at Geneva on 12 October 1949, that there were no Greek children in Poland.

VI. ROMANIA

(34) We learned indirectly, on 17 February 1949, that the Romanian authorities thought they would be unable to issue the visas required, since no communication concerning the repatriation of the Greek children had yet reached them from the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

(35) In spite of this, wishing to draw up our preliminary report, we asked the Romanian Red Cross, on 18 March 1949, to communicate to us its views and any information it might have on the subject.

(36) Meanwhile, a reply had apparently been given to our request of 28 January. As we had not received it, the Romanian Red Cross communicated the contents to us by cable, at our request, on 8 April. The Society wished us to send as soon as possible the lists of parents who desired the repatriation of their children from Romania. On 22 April, we pointed out to the Society that it was not possible for us to determine which of the applications received concerned Romania. We informed the Society of the procedure of comparing information that we intended to use, and then asked it to send us a list of the children in Romania. On that date, and on 10 June 1949, we stressed the importance we attached to sending a joint mission of our two organizations to Romania.

(37) On 9 August, we sent our first list to the Romanian Red Cross, assuring it on that occasion that we were prepared to assist it in repatriating any children whom it might be able to identify. At the same time, we asked it to communicate to us any information which might help us to draw up our general report to the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

(38) On 26 August, we asked the Romanian Red Cross to inform us of the result of its examination of our first list. We also reiterated our wish to send a representative to Romania.

(39) We confirmed that letter on 20 October by telegram and, on 30 November, by communicating to the Romanian Red Cross the text of the new resolution adopted on 18 November by the General Assembly of the United Nations on the repatriation of displaced Greek children.

VII. CZECHOSLOVAKIA

(40) After having obtained the necessary visas, a joint mission of the International Committee and the League visited Czechoslovakia from 20 to 29 March 1949. It returned with a formal assurance that the Czechoslovak Red Cross, in so far as it was concerned, would comply with the United Nations resolution. Although not empowered to make an official declaration on this matter, the Society felt that it was in a position to say that the Czechoslovak Government would also comply with the resolution, in favour of which it had voted. The Czechoslovak Red Cross undertook to draw up lists of Greek children in Czechoslovakia, but would be unable to do so very rapidly, since its services were not concerned with these children.

(41) Our delegates also received an assurance from the Czechoslovak Red Cross that the Society would take all steps necessary to enable the children, on being asked their opinion and if they were solely responsible for the decision, freely to express their desire for repatriation. The Czechoslovak Red Cross stated that it would assume full responsibility for the accuracy of the lists and stated that these documents would be drawn up without distinction as to creed or political opinion. The representatives had informed the Czechoslovak Red Cross of the methods of comparing information that were to be used and had assured it that the repatriated Greek children would remain under the control of the International Red Cross until they were returned to their families or to near relatives.

(42) On 10 June 1949, we asked the Czechoslovak Red Cross to let us know when it would be able to send us the above-mentioned list, which we had not yet received. On 9 August, we sent our first list of children who were claimed, reiterating our assurance that we would be prepared to give the Society our full co-operation in the repatriation of any children who might be identified in Czechoslovakia. We also asked the Czechoslovak Red Cross to provide us with any information that might help us to draw up the report which we had to submit to the Secretary-General of the United Nations for the forthcoming General Assembly.

(43) On 26 August, we asked the Czechoslovak Red Cross to inform us of the result of its examination of our first list; we recalled at the same time that we were prepared to send a representative to discuss the practical measures to be taken for the repatriation of any children who might be identified.

(44) On 12 September, the Czechoslovak Red Cross sent us a list of 138 children in Czechoslovakia whose names it had been able to find in our first list. We communicated these 138 names immediately to the Greek Red Cross.

(45) We pointed out to the Czechoslovak Red Cross by telegram, on 13 October, that we should be very glad if it would receive a special representative from our two organizations to study jointly with it the technical aspect of the repatriation of the children who had been identified. At the same time, we submitted a request for visas through the diplomatic channel and asked the Czechoslovak Red Cross to support this request.

(46) On 30 November, we repeated the above request and stressed the necessity of repatriating the 138 identified children as soon as possible. At the same time, we communicated to the Czechoslovak Red Cross the text of the resolution adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations on 18 November.

VIII. YUGOSLAVIA

(47) As a result of the steps we had taken, the Yugoslav Red Cross informed us, on 15 April 1949, that the Yugoslav authorities were ready to receive our joint mission. This mission visited Yugoslavia from 2 to 12 May. At that time, according to the information given by the Central Committee of the Yugoslav Red Cross, there were still in that country 1,845 Greek children boarded out in the Society's homes and 3,347 living either with their parents or with other Greek refugee families. Since April 1948, approximately 13,500 Greek children had passed in transit through Yugoslavia, 3,550 to Czechoslovakia, 3,050 to Hungary, 6,400 to Romania and 500 to Poland. Our delegates were able to visit three of the largest homes set up by the Yugoslav Red Cross. They reported that the children lived there under satisfactory conditions.

(48) The chief official in charge of Greek children in Yugoslavia had transmitted all the lists of children to the Greek Committee "Help the Children" at Budapest. Nevertheless, he agreed to have registration cards that had been drawn up by the Yugoslav Red Cross completed for the purposes of that Society. The Yugoslav Red Cross, for its part, told our representative that it was not able to comply with the request that it should furnish us, as soon as they were within its possession, these lists of Greek children in Yugoslavia. Furthermore, owing to the fact that the Yugoslav Red Cross could enter into direct contact with the Greek Red Cross, the former organization expressed the view that our action for the repatriation of the Greek children was not absolutely necessary. It would therefore call for our services only if, for technical reasons, it was unable to act alone. It stated however, that it was prepared to meet the requests for repatriation already received from us, provided that originals or photostats of such requests were transmitted to it. The Yugoslav Red Cross also informed our representatives that it would make itself responsible for the expenses of the maintenance and transport of the children.

(49) The Yugoslav authorities confirmed the point of view of the Red Cross regarding the lists of children. The communication of these lists to our services would lead to complications of all kinds. We should have to be informed of the movement of children to other countries, and that might give rise to misunderstandings; furthermore, if we were to divulge the names contained in those lists, distant relatives might be encouraged to claim children whose fathers and mothers were opposed to the existing Greek Government. The Yugoslav authorities also informed our representative that they saw no reason why this first contact should be pursued, since our two organizations had been able to convince themselves during their visit of the welfare of the children, and would be well able to reassure the parents. In reply, our representatives stressed the fact that in January the Yugoslav Government had been requested by the Secretary-General of the United Nations to communicate the lists and that these documents would enable us to draw up a list of the claimed children in Yugoslavia, by comparing them with the requests we had received from Greece.

(50) The force of these arguments was acknowledged. The problem would be reconsidered so that a further report might be submitted to the Yugoslav Government. Nevertheless, our representatives did not secure any undertaking or definite assurance with regard to further communications on this subject.

(51) On 10 June, we reminded the Yugoslav Red Cross of the method of comparing information which we intended to use and asked it whether, in accordance with the statements made to our representatives, the problem of comparing the lists had been reconsidered in the meantime. At the end of June, we informed the Greek authorities and the Greek Red Cross of the views expressed in Yugoslavia to the effect that our intervention was unnecessary between that country and Greece, since the problem of the repatriation of Greek children in Yugoslavia could be dealt with directly between the Greek Red Cross and the Yugoslav Red Cross.

(52) On 3 August, the Greek authorities suggested that a meeting should be held at Geneva between the representatives of those two Societies. On 30 August, the Yugoslav Red Cross, to which we had transmitted that proposal informed us that such a meeting did not seem to be necessary, since it had agreed to return the children claimed by their parents. The Greek Red Cross could transmit the requests it had received to the Yugoslav Red Cross. We communicated the contents of that reply to the Greek authorities and to the Greek Red Cross.

(53) On 9 August, we sent the Yugoslav Red Cross our first list of children who were claimed. On 29 August, we asked the Society to inform us of the results of the study of that document. We also stated that we were prepared to send a representative to discuss with it the necessary measures for the organization of the repatriation of Greek children in Yugoslavia, if the proposed meetings with the Greek Red Cross were not to take place in the near future. We also requested it to provide us with any information which might help us in drawing up our first general report to the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

(54) On 9 September, the Yugoslav Red Cross informed us that none of the names entered in the lists drawn up by the homes appeared in the list that we had sent; some of the names seemed to be similar, but that could not be held to constitute definite identification.

(55) On 18 November, we informed the Yugoslav Red Cross that we would send a duplicate in Greek characters of our lists in Latin characters, and expressed the hope that these new documents would enable it to resume its work of identification on a more solid basis.

(56) On 7 December, the Yugoslav Red Cross informed us that it would willingly proceed to verify its initial work as soon as it received the necessary lists.

PART TWO

(57) At the end of 1949, more than a year after the United Nations General Assembly had adopted its first resolution on the repatriation of the displaced Greek children, none of the children had yet been returned to their families, in spite of all our efforts.

(58) In view of this situation, we decided in January 1950 to invite representatives of the Greek Red Cross and the Red Cross Societies of the receiving countries to a meeting at Geneva to re-examine the whole problem. The invitations were sent out on 20 January for meetings to be held on 9 and 10 March. In view of its previous statements, the Albanian Red Cross was not invited. We did, however, ask the Polish Red Cross to participate, thinking that it might provide useful assistance in settling the matter.

(59) None of the Red Cross Societies of the receiving countries sent representatives to the proposed conference.

(60) The only Society to attend was therefore the Greek Red Cross, and the occasion thus assumed the nature of a meeting for exchange of information between that Society and the international Red Cross organizations.

(61) Resolved, in spite of that failure, to continue our efforts for the repatriation of the displaced Greek children, we again approached the Red Cross Societies of the receiving countries at the end of March. Two questions might be asked :

(a) Were those Red Cross Societies and the authorities of their countries still in favour of the principle of repatriation itself ?

(b) If so, what conditions would they like to see fulfilled to enable repatriation to take place as rapidly as possible ?

(62) We did not wish to exclude the possibility of adapting our methods of work to the individual desires of each of the receiving countries, and we informed the Red Cross Societies concerned to that effect. We should say immediately that we addressed question (a) only to the Hungarian Red Cross, convinced that we were justified in doing so by the persistent silence it had maintained in face of all our requests. On the other hand, the replies received from other Red Cross Societies, and our relations with some of them, led us to the conclusion that they did not contest the principle of repatriation itself.

(63) In practice, our appeals differed slightly according to the Red Cross Society to which they were addressed.

A. ALBANIA

(64) The previous statements of the Albanian Red Cross and the silence it had maintained since having made them induced us to refrain from inviting it to the March meeting and from sending it the letter which, after that meeting, we sent to the other Red Cross Societies.

B. BULGARIA

(65) The Bulgarian Red Cross had declined our invitation on grounds which involved the Greek and Yugoslav Red Cross Societies. It had stated, however, that it was prepared to enter into direct negotiations with the League and the Committee.

(66) In replying to the Bulgarian Red Cross, we said how much we regretted that it had considered itself bound to refrain from sending representatives to the conference of 9 and 10 March.

(67) We noted its desire for direct collaboration and, on 26 April, we informed it of our intention to send a representative to Sofia to work together with it and the Bulgarian authorities in seeking a practical solution to the problem of the displaced Greek children in Bulgaria. We did not therefore address question (b) to the Bulgarian Red Cross, leaving it to our representative to do so in the course of conversations.

(68) By cablegram of 30 June, the Bulgarian Red Cross informed us that our lists contained " innumerable errors and inaccuracies ", that the work of checking the lists which it had begun would therefore take considerable time, and that consequently a visit from our representative would be premature.

(69) In reply we said, also by cablegram, that we were extremely desirous of assisting the Bulgarian Red Cross in its work, and that it seemed to us that an early visit by our representative would be useful for that purpose.

(70) At the same time we repeated our request for a Bulgarian visa already submitted in April.

C. HUNGARY

(71) The Hungarian Red Cross had not replied to our invitation.

(72) We sent both questions, (a) and (b), but received no reply.

D. POLAND

(73) The Polish Red Cross had not replied to our invitation.

(74) It seemed to us that, in view of its previous statements, there was no point in writing to it after the meeting.

E. ROMANIA

(75) The Romanian Red Cross had pointed out that the inspection of the lists we had transmitted to it, which was being conducted by its officers, was not yet completed.

(76) In the letter we addressed to it on 30 March we asked question (b) and at the same time offered to assist in the technical work of identification by sending a representative.

(77) On 29 June, the Romanian Red Cross informed us that it had so far not found on our lists the name of any Greek child in Romania. On the other hand, it had observed that several of the requests for repatriation were not formulated in accordance with the decisions of the United Nations General Assembly : in many cases, the closest relatives resided in the territory of one of the Eastern European people's republics and could not be the authors of the requests concerned.

(78) Replying to our question (b), the Romanian Red Cross stated that, before any consideration of the problem of the repatriation of the displaced Greek children, it was in its opinion necessary to settle the future of the Greek refugees on whose behalf the International Committee had launched an appeal in September 1949, and that of the tens of thousands of children living in Greece without homes and without attention.

(79) In our reply to this letter on 14 July, we recalled the formal assurances as to the conditions of reception of the repatriated children which had been received by the special mission we sent to Greece in February 1949. We also pointed out how we regarded the continuance of our efforts to secure early repatriation as justified by the hope and impatience displayed by most of the parents with whom the two members of our last special mission to Greece had been able to get in touch in May.

(80) Noting with regret the difficulties encountered by the Romanian Red Cross in its work of identification, we repeated our offer of technical assistance by proposing to send a representative.

F. CZECHOSLOVAKIA

(81) It will be remembered that, after having received from the Czechoslovak Red Cross a list of 138 Greek children identified in Czechoslovakia, the International Red Cross had requested authorization for one of its representatives to go to Prague to study the means of repatriation together with the Czechoslovak Red Cross.

(82) During our representative's conversations with the Czechoslovak Red Cross at the end of February and the beginning of March, the Czechoslovak Red Cross pointed out that the requests for repatriation had not been received directly by the two international Red Cross organizations, but merely transmitted by them, and that, consequently, before agreeing to consider the technical problem of repatriation, it had requested certain guarantees. It wished to receive :

- (i) For each child, an authentic document fully establishing identity;
- (ii) For relatives who signed a request for repatriation :
 - (a) An authentic or duly legalized document establishing their identity, their degree of relationship to the child or children claimed and, in the case of relatives not parents, giving the reasons for their action;
 - (b) A declaration by them certifying that they made their request freely and not under pressure of any threat or compulsion;
- (iii) The assurance on our part that the repatriated Greek children and their relatives would not be subject of any proceedings whatsoever.

(83) When we invited it to the meeting of 9 and 10 March, the Czechoslovak Red Cross replied that, so far as it was concerned, it did not consider it necessary to send a representative to the meeting, since it had had the opportunity of expressing its point of view to our representative. Anxious to do everything to secure the repatriation of the identified children as rapidly as possible, we communicated the conditions laid down by the Czechoslovak Red Cross to the Greek Red Cross, and came to an agreement with the latter that a special mission should be sent to Greece to obtain the documents requested. At the beginning of May, two representatives left Geneva for Athens. During several weeks' travelling in Greece they got in touch with the signatories of the requests for repatriation, and talked to most of them personally without the presence of any third party other than a Swiss interpreter. With the assistance of the local registration authorities they were able to obtain the certificates of identity and relationship requested by the Czechoslovak Red Cross.

(84) As soon as our special mission returned, our staff worked at compiling individual dossiers based on the documents brought back from Greece.

(85) On 26 June, we asked the Czechoslovak authorities for entry visas for two representatives whom we wished to send to Prague to examine these 138 dossiers with the Czechoslovak Red Cross and then to study the technical aspects of the repatriation of those children—the great majority—in connexion with whom no objection could in future be raised.

(86) The visas have so far not been granted. The Czechoslovak authorities have not even replied to our request.

(87) We informed the Czechoslovak Red Cross of our application for visas, and requested it to approach the Czechoslovak authorities in support.

(88) By a letter of 17 July, that Society informed us that it had taken the necessary steps. At the same time, it asked us to send it the 138 dossiers we had compiled so that it could examine them before our representatives arrived, considering that such previous study " would facilitate the proposed negotiations and at the same time simplify the work as a whole ".

(89) On 22 July, we replied by cablegram to the Czechoslovak Red Cross, saying in particular : " We thank you for your action. We consider that the oral commentaries of our representatives are absolutely necessary to facilitate and expedite the work of your staff in examining the documents collected relating to the 138 children ". We also begged the Czechoslovak Red Cross again to support our applications for visas.

(90) On 24 July, the Society replied to us as follows : " ... we refer you once more to our letter No. 23998 of 17 July 1950, in which we asked you to send us the material relating to identification, the previous study of which would, we presume, facilitate the personal negotiations. We also draw your attention to the fact that all the responsible officials are at present on holiday, and the representatives of the League and the International Committee would have no opportunity of submitting their comments to the competent authorities ".

(91) On 1 August, we sent the following cablegram : " ... since you assure us that would hasten the settlement of the problem, we have decided to send you, through the Czechoslovak Legation in Bern, the documents relating to the 138 Greek children for preliminary study by the Czechoslovak Red Cross, on which henceforth a positive and rapid solution of the case of these children will depend. We still regard the comments of our representatives as extremely desirable. We confirm that these representatives are prepared to go to Prague as soon as the visas we have requested are obtained ".

(92) On 5 August, therefore, we sent these documents to the Czechoslovak Red Cross through the Czechoslovak Legation at Bern.

(93) The Czechoslovak Red Cross has not yet acknowledged the receipt of these 138 dossiers.

G. YUGOSLAVIA

(94) By cablegram of 28 February, the Yugoslav Red Cross, while accepting our invitation in principle, had expressed the wish that the conference should also include in its study the problem of reuniting children in other East European countries with their parents who were refugees in Yugoslavia and vice versa. We replied that the agenda could be extended to cover that problem.

(95) Since, in the end, the Yugoslav Red Cross did not send a representative on 9 and 10 March, we wrote to it on 30 March expressing our regret and addressing to it question (b). At the same time, we enquired what results had so far been obtained from the direct liaison it had desired to form with the Greek Red Cross. We subsequently learnt from the latter that no progress had been made in that direction.

(96) On 23 June, referring to the statements made by its representative at the meeting of the Executive Committee of the League last May on the restoration to their parents of children who were parted from them, the Yugoslav Red Cross communicated to the League the conditions it wished to see fulfilled before proceeding to repatriate the sixty-three children whom it had identified, together with its suggestions with regard to the practical means of such repatriation.

(97) According to resolution 288 B (IV) of 18 November 1949 of the United Nations General Assembly, the repatriation of Greek refugee children should be effected through the League of Red Cross Societies and the Red Crescent.

(98) As a first condition the Yugoslav Red Cross requested that the League of Red Cross Societies should obtain the guarantee of the Greek Government that the children would be immediately and directly restored to their parents without being kept in camps, homes or other assembly centres.

(99) The Greek Red Cross should transmit the following documents through the League of Red Cross Societies to the Yugoslav Red Cross :

(a) The written request of the parents, confirmed by the competent authorities, for restoration of the child to them through the Greek Red Cross.

(b) The certificate of relationship, confirmed by the competent authorities.

(100) The reception and restitution of the children would be carried out at the Yugoslav-Greek frontier in the presence of representatives of the League, the Greek Red Cross and the Yugoslav Red Cross, and of a Greek doctor and a Yugoslav doctor.

(101) The record of reception and restitution would be signed on the spot by the members of the Commission.

(102) The statements by the parents that the children had been restored to them, duly corroborated by the competent Greek authorities, would be transmitted to the Yugoslav Red Cross through the League of Red Cross Societies as early as possible.

(103) The Yugoslav Red Cross attached to its letter a list of the 63 identified children.

(104) After reaching agreement on the matter with the International Committee, the League acknowledged the receipt of this letter to the Yugoslav Red Cross. It also informed the Greek Red Cross of the contents, pointing out that it had forwarded the proposals to the International Committee and requesting the Greek Red Cross to let us know as soon as possible what it thought of them.

(105) On 19 August, the Greek Red Cross informed us that it accepted the conditions imposed by the Yugoslav Red Cross except the first (guarantee of the Greek Government that the children would be restored immediately to their parents) and the last (statement by parents that their children had been restored), which it said it could not submit to the Greek authorities.

(106) By a cablegram of 25 August, we requested the Greek Red Cross to send us as soon as possible the certificates of relationship requested by the Yugoslav Red Cross.

(107) Some months ago, the Australian Government got into touch with the Yugoslav Government on the subject of certain displaced Greek children in Yugoslavia claimed by their parents who had been living for a long time in Australia. In February, we were asked to assist in organizing the journey of these children from Yugoslavia to Australia. After fairly lengthy negotiations, we succeeded, in collaboration with the Yugoslav, Swiss and Italian Red Cross Societies, in arranging for the transport by air of seventeen children and one mother from Belgrade to Rome via Zurich. At the end of May and the beginning of June, four convoys had thus been organized under our auspices. Arrangements for the voyage from Italy to Australia were left to the Australian Government.

Supplement to the report of the Secretary-General

[Original text: English]
[13 November 1950]

1. The Greek Government has on numerous occasions urged that the exact number of Greek children eligible, under the General Assembly resolutions, for repatriation to Greece from the various countries concerned should be determined on the spot with the assistance of the International Red Cross or other impartial authority. The Secretary-General has held a number of consultations on this matter and the Swedish Red Cross has now been invited by the Greek and Yugoslav Red Cross Societies to lend its assistance. Acting on this invitation, the Swedish Red Cross has agreed to assist the Yugoslav Red Cross in its task of identifying the Greek children in Yugoslavia and of returning them to their parents, and it proposes to send representatives to Belgrade for this purpose at an early date. This arrangement has been made in full agreement with the League of Red Cross Societies and the International Committee of the Red Cross, and is welcomed by the Greek and Yugoslav Governments.

2. The Secretary-General has been informed by the Yugoslav and Australian delegations that the transfer from Yugoslavia to parents in Australia of two parties of Greek children, in addition to those moved during the summer, has begun and should be completed very shortly.

Letter, dated 28 September 1950, from the Deputy Representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics addressed to the President of the General Assembly

[Original text : Russian]
[30 September 1950]

I have the honour to transmit to you the "Appeal from the mothers of eleven Greek patriots to the Head of the Soviet Government, J. V. Stalin" and the "Memorandum by the relatives of eight Greek trade union officials condemned to death by the Court Martial of Athens". Both these documents contain facts and bear witness to the incessant terror and mass executions in Greece.

I would ask you, Mr. President, to issue these documents, the text of which is attached, in the form of a General Assembly document and to distribute it to the delegations to the fifth session of the General Assembly.

(Signed) Y. MALIK
Deputy Head of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics delegation to the fifth session of the General Assembly

APPEAL FROM THE MOTHERS OF ELEVEN GREEK PATRIOTS TO THE HEAD OF THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT, J. V. STALIN

Athens, 18 September 1950

To Mr. J. Stalin,

We are the mothers of eleven persons condemned to death on 10 August 1950 by the Court Martial of Athens.

Since the day when we heard of the death sentence passed on our children, we have scarcely been alive.

We can hardly breathe, we are so afraid that the wind will bring to us the fearful sound of the last deadly shot which will fell the bodies of our children to the ground.

Agony, sobs and tears have become our bread and water.

The political opinions of our children served as the criterion of their condemnation.

They believed that in a free country, at a time when all clear minds proclaim the freedom of thought and conscience, they also, as human beings and free citizens, might be entitled to their own thoughts and convictions.

For their convictions and their faith they have been sentenced and will be killed. Together with them, after this beginning, 3,000 other condemned persons, whose death sentences have been passed, but have recently been postponed, will also be killed.

All this is taking place at a time when we thought that peace and order had become a reality in our unfortunate country.

This is a time when all Greeks need this belief in order to live and in order to rehabilitate our ruined country.

We therefore appeal to you and beg you, in the name of justice and Christian charity, not to allow Greek land to be stained with the blood of our innocent children. Do not allow us to drink this bitter cup in our old age and to see our blood-stained children lying convulsed on the ground.

We beg you to intervene in obtaining their pardon, so that we and all other Greeks should be able to feel in our hearts faith in the future and in those who govern us.

Save our children, and the mothers of the whole world and of all humanity will be grateful to you with us.

Respectfully and hopefully yours :

P. Kiurtzis, I. Boyatzidis, H. Sotirakos, T. Metaxotos, H. Marinos, Konstantineas, V. Papayanopoulos, I. Isaris, S. Sotirakou.

MEMORANDUM BY THE RELATIVES OF EIGHT GREEK TRADE UNION OFFICIALS CONDEMNED TO DEATH BY THE COURT MARTIAL OF ATHENS

Athens, 16 September 1950

We the undersigned, wives, sisters and relatives of the eight trade union officials sentenced to death by the Court Martial of Athens under decision No. 283/9/50, have the honour to inform you of the following facts :

The Court Martial at Athens judged 118 trade union officials of communal economic institutions, who were accused of the alleged violation of law No. 509 against the perpetration of anti-national activities.

The trial showed that the accused had committed none of the offences referred to in the indictment and that no proof was submitted to the Court, in spite of the fact that a special department in Athens had sent police witnesses to the trial whose statements before the Court were absolutely contradictory to the information they gave in their written statements.

It should be noted that the written statements were made over three months after the arrest of the accused.

During the trial, it was proved by the prosecution witnesses themselves that the accused had carried on no illegal activities, but had merely been concerned with trade union work and that exclusively within the framework of their trade unions and their statutes.

Thus, they have been prosecuted only for their trade union activities.

It is possible that the prosecution was used by a group of persons who had a grudge against them personally or against their trade unions, and who attempted, by means of slanderous accusations, to destroy them in the manner in which this can be done today.

Be that as it may, any one who attended the trial can testify that the Court had no proof of any illegal activities perpetrated by the accused; even the King's prosecutor of the Court Martial himself, having no evidence or proof to persuade the members of the court to pass the sentence, appealed to the military heroism of the judges and stated at the same time that there was insufficient proof of the guilt of the accused, owing to the fact that they had left no trace, let alone proof, of their activities.

In spite of all this, the Court, after a short consultation, unanimously sentenced to death the following accused persons : Evangelos Bairamoglu, Glyceria Pagulatou, Nicolaida Bairamoglu, Evangelos Kalaidzis, Panayotis Vorgias, Niki Bazigou, Anagnosti Venedikoglu, George Dalezios.

In view of the fact that the prosecution of the accused was organized solely on account of their trade union activities, we informed in advance Mr. Cooper and Mr. Knight, the trade union representatives of the United States of America and the United Kingdom and also the representative of the Netherlands in Greece, asked them to be present at the trial and to give their views on the fact that, under the tragic conditions prevailing in our country, attempts are being made to destroy trade union officials who have devoted their whole lives to the sacred cause of trade union organizations through the agency of a military court and under the pretext of anti-national activities. When we informed these persons of our fear that repressive measures would be taken, they told us that this would be impossible without circumstantial evidence.

Nevertheless, our fears have been tragically realized : the sentenced persons are to be shot; many of the accused have been sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying between three years and life imprisonment.

Unfortunately, owing to international events, a clash of ideas and actions is taking place in Greece. Hatred and slander, in the guise of nationalism, can destroy anybody; it is enough for a few anonymous slanderers to give information to the police.

In the name of the sacred ideal of trade unionism, and being fully convinced that the accused are not guilty and have not been involved in any illegal activities, we implore you to intervene and to save our unjustly-condemned relatives.

We are certain that a retrial by unbiased judges who are not pursuing certain definite purposes will fully prove the justice and truth of our assertions and we would ask you to co-operate with us and to make representation to the Greek Government, since the accused are deprived even of the right to demand a retrial.

I have the honour to transmit to you the following "Memorandum addressed by the civilian exiles on the island of Ayios Evstratios to the Secretary-General of the United Nations".

I request you, Mr. Secretary-General, to publish this letter as a General Assembly document and distribute it to the delegations attending the fifth session of the General Assembly.

I attach the text of the memorandum in English.

TEXT OF THE MEMORANDUM

Ayios Evstratios, 17 September 1950

1. There are 2,840 of us, Greek citizens, deported to Ayios Evstratios, a small, isolated islet in the North Aegean with a population of about 1,000 destitute inhabitants. On Trikeri, a completely uninhabited islet, there are approximately 600 women similarly deported.

2. Our general composition is as follows : 3 generals including the commander-in-chief of ELAS, 24 senior and 70 junior officers, all of whom took part in our National Resistance and have been exiled since 1946; 3 former members of Parliament, of different political parties; 2 university professors; 40 writers, artists and journalists; 2 judges, one of whom is a former Appeal Court Prosecutor; 97 lawyers, 29 doctors; 101 teachers; 29 agriculturalists; 15 civil engineers and architects; 141 students; 246 civil servants and employees of semi-official organizations; 296 bank employees and employees of private businesses; 271 merchants; landowners, professional men and industrialists; 302 trade union officials; 401 peasants; 700 workers. That is : 38 per cent workers, 27 per cent intellectuals, 15 per cent peasants, 11 per cent private employees, 9 per cent professional and business men. In other words, we come from all classes and all levels of the Greek people.

3. The persecution we are suffering springs from purely political motives. In us the Government is chastising, not the transgressors of any particular law, but its political opponents. The reason why we have been exiled, each of us for an average of three and some of us for four years, is that, when called upon to do so, we have refused to sign the so-called "declarations of repentance", i. e., written statements renouncing certain views and convictions of a political character and expressing conversion to other views and convictions. The aim with which our exile is prolonged indefinitely is to force us to sign such declarations. No single concrete charge has been brought against us; our cases have not been subjected to preliminary legal examination, nor has the judiciary authority concerned itself with them. Some of the exiles have, indeed, been sent for trial, each on different counts, and were exiled after their acquittal by the Special Courts Martial or by other tribunals.

But most were never individually prosecuted for any action, but were arrested during mass round-ups in the streets or public transport vehicles of the larger towns for purposes of checking identity; after which they were detained solely because they refused to sign declarations. From that moment dates the formation of their so-called Security dossiers. Throughout the whole of our long exile, in all its various stages (simple exile, confinement in a camp of "disciplinary residence", then in the so-called Makronisos Reformatory, and now in the disciplinary residence camp of Ayios Evstratios), nothing has been demanded of us but that we sign declarations of repentance. All who have signed have been released. No one who has not signed has been released.

4. However, we believe that interference with the intimate conscience of its citizens is not the business of the State administration nor should it force them to make statements of their convictions. The peoples of the world have for centuries struggled to obtain and maintain liberty of conscience and toleration of opinion. Finally, this freedom has been proclaimed as one of the fundamentals of every modern political constitution and is safeguarded by the Constitution of our own country from the gaining of its independence to the present day. Moreover, it has been acknowledged by international conventions, especially by the Charter of the United Nations which the Greek Government has undertaken the obligation to observe. This, despite the fact that its treatment of us constitutes a flagrant violation of such international obligations. A sense of high patriotic duty obliges us, in spite of sufferings and privations, to reject the demand that we should sign the so-called declarations of repentance since, by subjecting conscience to police control, these declarations subvert every human right and constitutional liberty and order, whilst establishing the Police State in its most hideous form. Likewise, it is evident and well-known to the Government and its officials that the diagnosis of consciences is in effect impossible, and that the so-called declaration of repentance, extorted by the methods of privation, pressure and savage torture alternately used against us, does not express in any normal way the convictions of the signatory. However, it suffices for the administrative authority because the declared purpose is not sincere. The changing of views is not what is intended. All that really intended is our humiliation, our self-degradation, and our moral suicide through the publishing of declarations at variance with our intellectual and ideological background. Thus, whilst every State has the obligation to foster, or at least not to obstruct, the moral conduct and development of its citizens, in our country the citizen can only obtain his freedom and be released from police pressure and physical torture if he allows himself to be morally crushed, to lose his dignity, to be humiliated. Under these conditions it becomes obvious that, after the long and savage ill-usage to which the political opponents of the Government have been subjected, those still in exile and deprived of their freedom are those Greek citizens who have the most highly-developed moral resistance, for which, instead of being rewarded, they are now punished.

5. The sentences of the administrative committees announcing or prolonging our deportation have been prepared by the thousand in duplicated form, according to the method of mass-production adopted in modern industry. They contain a stereotype preamble without trace of application to the individual case. In the respective section a line is left blank which is filled in with the handwritten name of the victim. The preambles are generalized and indefinite without any mention of concrete evidence, time or place. They contain the decision that we are dangerous to the security of the country as unrepentant ideologists. As evidence against us are listed: participation in the national resistance to the conqueror; suggested offences against Criminal Law which have never entailed any criminal prosecution or even a preliminary examination; in other cases, legitimate acts concerned with the exercise of the victim's civil rights or of his profession, e. g., the reading of newspapers which are in legal circulation; membership or participation in the leadership of legally recognised bodies (actually, all the trade union officials have been exiled because they were elected by their fellow-workers to the executives of their organizations, Trades Councils, Federations or the General Confederation of Labour, and with the object of making vacant their positions so that other persons, pleasing to the Government but not enjoying the confidence of the workers, could be appointed in their place); also participation in assemblies taking place by permission of the authorities; and, in the case of lawyers, rendering of professional services in trials of the Government's political opponents.

6. The sentence of deportation is passed by administrative committee in secret session in which it accepts without discussion the Security Service report. An officer from this service is an obligatory member of each committee where he acts as rapporteur. Usually, the Security Committee's sentences are passed to legalise an illegal arrest already long ago enacted. In other cases, the victim is taken from his home after the publication of the sentence and sent to his place of exile. Arrests in execution of these sentences are normally carried out at night. The victim is not summoned and has no right to defend himself or prove the baselessness of the charge. Moreover, the evidence against him which constitutes the so-called police dossier is without any value as proof. It is collected, without any legal guarantee, by subordinate police officials and private informers, usually biased, fanatical, inspired by intolerance, narrow-mindedness and excessive zeal. The informant takes no responsibility for the evidence he supplies as he does not sign under affidavit. Nor does the victim ever know the charge against him or the evidence which in general constitutes his dossier. He can submit an appeal to another likewise administrative committee, which also sits secretly and in his absence and never (with one single exception) modifies the sentence of the committee of first instance. He can only submit generalized and indefinite complaints and can only produce witnesses to his good conduct and repute: the possibility of really refuting the evidence of the dossiers is excluded because the victim never obtains knowledge of it, passing long years in exile without knowing what is alleged against him. For this reason, appeal to the administrative committee of second instance lacks every element of a "legal means". Finally, even those oppressive laws which sanction the deporting of citizens by the administrative authority are not applied as regards any of their more benign provisions. Thus, the law categorically forbids the prolongation of exile for more than three years. However, most of us have completed the three years, and some four, and still we are notified of sentences prolonging our exile. In many other cases the term of exile has long since ended, without its being prolonged, but those who have served their sentence are not released. There are some exiles in whose cases no sentence was ever passed by Security Committee. Finally, in one single case, that of Kleovoulos Dendrinis, the administrative committee of the second instance abrogated the sentence of exile passed by the committee of the first instance and decided for his release. Nevertheless he is still detained, five months after the verdict releasing him, in order to force him to sign a declaration of repentance.

7. In the first stage of our exile to small inhabited islands, the main means of pressure used to extort declarations of repentance were the deprivation of freedom resulting from deportation, the financial ruin of ourselves and our families resulting from our compulsory abandonment of our professions and from the cessation of pay and pensions, bad housing, wretched food, unhygienic conditions, various police restrictions and insults and ill-treatment at the hands of subordinate officials. Because this did not give the desired results, from the end of 1948, we were transferred to Makronisos where there had been established the so-called camp of "disciplinary residence". There we lived under much worse conditions, housed in tents on the bare ground, exposed to the seasonal vicissitudes of cold, scorching heat, rain and wind, whilst to our other privations was added the torment of thirst. Confined within a barbed-wire enclosure, we led the life of prisoners subjected to the severest privations and restrictions and obliged to perform forced labour. In October 1949, when the civil war, which certainly did not justify but gave a pretext for our treatment, had ceased, and when everywhere our release was expected, a mass crime, without precedent in history, was planned and perpetrated against us. It was just at the time when last year's regular meeting of the United Nations General Assembly had begun. The Greek Government, under pressure to relax the regime of terror from which it drew its support, pretended that it was taking measures of clemency by establishing an organization with the pompous title of "Organization of Makronisos Reformatories". To this organization we were handed over. It was simply an institute of torture and there, on the basis of a plan of operations drawn up in cold blood, each one of us was individually tortured. The means of reformation (i.e., of extorting signatures to declarations of repentance) were flogging to death with clubs, a special method of flogging on the bare soles of the feet, the so-called "column", dislocation of bones, twisting of genital organs, and other analogous tortures. The result of this mass crime has been several dozens of dead, over a hundred insane and a far greater number of injured with dislocations of the spine, ribs, hands and feet, many of whom are now disabled for life. In the Makronisos Reformatory, we were subjected continuously, for six months, to forced labour. Thousands, of all ages and irrespective of state of health or physical strength, were obliged to carry enormous stones weighing 60 kilos uphill and at the run, whilst our torturers beat us with clubs. This crime could not be concealed and raised world disapproval and the indignation of the Greek people. Our rulers and the higher officials of the state administration, who were responsible for the crime, were surprised by the vehement popular reaction and pretended that they disapproved of what had occurred and would release all the exiles. Four ministers of the first post-election Venizelos Government, having formed an investigating commission, expressed their unanimous opinion in favour of our immediate release since there existed no reason for our detention. Gradually, as the element of surprise diminished, the promises were whittled down. As we receded from the elections, so too the issue of justice for us receded into the background.

8. Eventually it was decided that we were to remain in exile for the future, for an indefinite period of time, and in reality for life so long as we do not sign declarations of repentance. We were transferred to Ayios Evstratios and crowded together in tents in two narrow ravines. Despite the public denunciation by the Government of the concentration camp system, the new unit where we live bears the name of "camp of disciplinary residence of Ayios Evstratios". Every day there are new restrictions imposed on the space where we may move about and on the conditions under which we may move. A severe censorship restricts communication with our families and the outside world, and there are other police restrictions. Every day the conditions of our life here resemble more and more closely those of the Makronisos camp, at least as regards restrictions. The climate is more severe than on Makronisos; our tents are rotten, letting in the rain and torn to ribbons by the wind. We are given an allowance of 2,700 drachmas (i.e., 14 cents) for food per day—quite inadequate to keep anyone alive. Long and systematic under-nourishment constitutes not only a means of pressure on us to sign declarations of repentance, but also a method of exterminating political opponents of the Government.

The number of persons whose health has been undermined and wrecked during the period of exile speaks for itself. The following is our medical list: 512 with tuberculosis of the lungs and other forms of tuberculosis; 159 with heart and vascular diseases; 122 with stomach and duodenal ulcers; 76 with nervous and psychological disorders; 85 war disabled; 80 with dislocations; 437 with miscellaneous diseases (liver, kidney, etc.); that is, a total of 1,471 or 53 per cent of our total number. Whilst the cost of living has doubled in Greece during the recent months, and the allowance remains at the level of 1947, hunger and under-nourishment threaten our very existence. Finally, not only do we receive no medical, hospital or pharmaceutical treatment, but 100 consumptives, with open tuberculosis, and others who are seriously ill, all of whom had been taken to sanatoria or were receiving treatment at home, have in the last weeks been rounded up and sent back here to die in tents. Our financial situation prevents us from providing ourselves with clothes and footgear, but the State which has exiled us takes no measures to meet this need. Therefore, most of us go about in rags, half-naked and unshod.

9. Not only the appalling conditions under which we are living, but the simple fact of our exile is in obvious opposition to all human rights and to the international obligations of our country entailed upon it by its membership of the United Nations Organization. Our immediate release, without condition or restriction, constitutes an urgent necessity. It is required from the legal, moral and international point of view and for the honour of humanity.

TEXT OF THE MEMORANDUM

Makronisos island has since 1947 been used as a "reformatory camp" for Greek military and naval conscripts considered by the Greek Government to be "politically unreliable".

Some idea of the methods used to bring about "reformation" may be gathered from the story of the so-called "mutiny"—otherwise massacre of unarmed men and of the "trial" that followed.

THE MUTINY ON MAKRONISOS

On May 31st 1948, in answer to a question by D. N. Pritt, K.C., M.P., in the House of Commons, Mr. Mayhew said:

³⁴ Corresponding notes by the Secretariat introduced documents A/C.1/626/Add.1, Add.2, Add.3 and Add.4, which are reproduced herewith.

"My information is that there were two incidents at the Makronisi military detention camp; one at a church parade on February 29th and the second on the 14th of March; that in both cases groups of inmates attempted to disarm their guards; that the latter used their arms in defence on both occasions, killing in all sixteen and wounding twenty-two and that twenty-nine guards were wounded in the two incidents. His Majesty's Ambassador now informs my Right Honourable Friend that the mutineers were tried by Court Martial at Lavrion between the 10th and 22nd May. The Court passed five death sentences all with a recommendation for mercy. Five of the accused received life sentences and thirty-two were sentenced to terms of from six to ten years. The remainder, some eighty in number, were acquitted".

What is the story behind this question and answer?

Unarmed men butchered

On February 29th at church parade of the 2nd battalion, the guards suddenly started brutally beating up one of the soldiers who was out of line. His comrades shouted and protested and some did a sit-down strike. The atmosphere was already tense because of the threatened transfer to the dreaded 3rd battalion which was met with mass refusal. The guards opened fire and five soldiers were killed, the rest retiring to their tents. Either later that day or on 1 March the soldiers were given 15 minutes to come out of their tents. They still refused even when the island commander, Col. Bairaktaris, spoke to them through a megaphone from a boat just off the shore. Thereupon a heavy machine-gun from the boat and the guards round the tents opened indiscriminate fire.

Late on the night of 1 March the Ministry of War issued a statement reported in The Times of 2 March, admitting that 17 soldiers had been killed and 61 injured in a mutiny and adding the significant point "four guards were wounded by stones"—some mutiny!

How does this square with Mr. Mayhew's statement?

First, the incident on March 14th (of which nothing had previously been heard) seems to have resuscitated one soldier, cured 39 others of their wounds and injured 25 more guards.

Second, the excuse that the shooting took place because the soldiers tried to disarm the guards hardly tallies with the firing from the boat and by the guards on men who merely refused to come out of their tents. We have had accounts of this from three different sources.

Third, no mention is made of the fact that the man in charge of investigating the incident, Col. Bairaktaris, was himself responsible for the order to open fire. There has been no report of any guard or officer being asked to account for their part in the shooting.

Fourth, the conduct of the court martial "trial" to which 114 of the survivors of the massacre were subjected, called forth no protest from either the British Military Mission or the British Foreign Office, in sharp contrast to the protests made about other trials in Eastern European countries.

A mockery of justice

From 10th to 22nd, 114 soldiers were tried for their lives by court martial at Lavrion. The most inhuman methods were employed against them during the preliminary questioning with the object of forcing them to sign "repentance statements" renouncing their principles and denouncing the Democratic Army. So brutal were the beatings that only five refused to "repent" when their turn came to plead, and even they ultimately signed when the tortures were renewed after their appearance in court. It was these heroic five who were sentenced to death—not because of their part in the so-called mutiny, but because they had withstood torture the longest. Evidence by guards that they were seen "moving in the crowd and shouting" or "moving, shouting and throwing stones and cooking utensils" formed the sole basis of the case against the 42 soldiers who were ultimately sentenced.

There is also evidence of 55 former inmates of Makronisos who subsequently got to Free Greece, contained in the pamphlet "Makronisos—the American Dachau in Greece".

Categories at present in the camps

There are, as far as we have been able to ascertain, the following categories detained on the island at the present time:

- (1) Civilian exiles (men, women and children) sent by Security Committees.
- (2) Sentenced prisoners and prisoners awaiting trial.
- (3) Children's prison.
- (4) "Unreliable" conscripts.
- (5) "Unreliable" regular officers.

1. Exiles, that is men, women, and children exiled from their homes to specific islands nominally for a year but in practice indefinitely or until they have signed a humiliating "repentance statement" renouncing their political principles.

None of these people have been tried or even charged with any illegal act. It is enough for a gendarme or business rival to denounce them as "dangerous to public order" for them to be sentenced to exile.

Security Committees were introduced directly after the March 1946 elections. They consist of the provincial prefect, the public prosecutor and either a judge or a "nationally minded" citizen, with the Gendarmerie commander as adviser. Sitting in secret, they can sentence anyone to exile on an island as "dangerous to public order"; the accused is not usually present, no witnesses are called, and there is no right of legal defence. There is a right of appeal to a Committee of Second Instance, or direct to the Governor-General of the region—who appointed the Committee. These Committees have deported women whose menfolk had taken to the mountains, and even children, a girl of 11 having been sentenced as "quite dangerous".

To begin with the exiles were allowed to live in comparative freedom on various islands, subject to frequent reports to the police station, but the laws of December 1947 and January 1948 gave the Government even wider powers of arbitrary deportation and the concentration camp became legalized under the euphemism "disciplinary living conditions". Now all the exiles are under military control (even the women and children) and are subject to the "reformatory" system hitherto only practised on the unfortunate "unreliable" conscripts (see above).

2. Sentenced prisoners and prisoners awaiting trial both by the ordinary courts and by special court martial. These are also to be subject to the "Makronisos system". Up to now, those awaiting sentence were often subject to extreme pressure to "repent" and were told that either their sentences would be light or charges against them would be dropped altogether if they would repent. Here is a specimen "Recantation" (published in the Athens newspaper "Eleftheria" on January 3rd 1950).

" The undersigned, Nicholas Selimos, son of John and Magdalena Selimos, born in 1914 in Agios Nicholas of Kinuria and a resident of Astros in Kinuria, now detained in Corfu prison, states 'I dissociate myself from the Communist Party and its creations, EAM, ELAS, EPON, etc., because by their anti-national policy they have let loose upon the country eternal strife, catastrophe and annihilation and are trying to exterminate our glorious and heroic nation, with the aim of making possible the realization of the age-long aspirations of the Slavs for the conquest of our country. I also dissociate myself from the so-called Democratic Army, this hoard of hatred and oppression, because it constitutes the most ugly manifestation of Communist tactics and aims, as was disclosed by the decisions of the 5th Plenum of the Communist Party, at the detachment and autonomy of Macedonia and our Thrace. Pseudo-governments, democratic armies, destruction of towns and villages, abduction of children, forced conscription, all this mingled in an orgy of the blood of innocents, political corruption, treachery, betrayal of the Fatherland and bestial criminality constitute the macabre credentials of Communism!

" Because of all this, I put myself unreservedly under the banner of Greece and under the aegis of His Majesty King Paul I, at the side of my brothers fighting for our homes and I take as my life's compass the ideals: faith, fatherland, family.' Corfu Prison, 9.IV.49."

Note that ELAS (the People's Liberation Army, which fought under the command of Allied Middle East Headquarters and was often praised by them) is among the organizations "denounced".

3. Children's prison. Little information is available about this except that relief was distributed there on 20.6.49 by the International Red Cross. It is probably similar to the boys "reformatory camp" on Leros which is run by a former Gendarmerie officer with no educational experience. The Leros camp in November 1949 housed 1,200 boys between 14 and 20, 80 per cent of whom had been captured while fighting with the guerrillas, but, according to The Times correspondent (17.11.49) "about 20 per cent of them never served in the rebel ranks, they were rounded up, chiefly in the Peloponnese and Roumeli before the military operations in those areas last winter, because they were suspected (our italics) of giving information or assistance to the rebels".

4. "Unreliable" Conscripts. These at one time numbered 17,000 but there are probably fewer today after the mass pressure to induce them to sign "repentance statements". The pressure took many forms and has certainly resulted in a number of suicides, attempted suicides and men being driven insane.

The most usual methods of pressure (reported from many different sources) are said to be:

- (a) Continual beating;
- (b) Carrying heavy stones up and down hills from dawn to dusk with beatings when the victims collapse from exhaustion;
- (c) Tying in sacks and throwing into the sea. The victim is then pulled out when on the point of drowning, revived and thrown in again.

A list of individual cases reported from various sources is appended.

5. "Unreliable" Regular Army officers. These were treated in the same way as the "unreliable" conscripts—if anything, worse.

Extension of "reformatory" system to all internees by Act of 6 October

An act entitled "The Organization for Re-education on Makronisos" was submitted to the Greek Parliament on 1 October 1949 and was passed on 6 October. This Act provided for the setting-up of an autonomous organisation called "Organisation of Makronisos Re-education" under the supervision of a five-member council, consisting of the Ministers of Justice, War, Education, Public Order and Press.

Article 2 of the Act states that "the aim of the organisation is the re-education of those persons who are sent there (to Makronisos) by the State because of their illegal activities and who are undermining, or have undermined, the political regime of the country".

Article 6 lists the categories of people who can be sent to Makronisos:

(a) Military personnel who "because of their activities or participation in anti-national activities are considered dangerous to the security of the armed forces".

(b) Those citizens "who are exiled by the Security Committees as being considered dangerous to public order. Their deportation to Makronisos is to be considered as exile".

(c) Those persons who are "arrested by the military authorities as having committed suspicious actions threatening the security of the armed forces, provided that the Security Committees of the area where they were arrested decide to exile them to Makronisos".

(d) Those who "give themselves up voluntarily to the authorities of those bandits who are caught, if they are not at once set free by the military authorities".

(e) Those "who have been condemned or whose trial is pending. All those who, at the time of the publication of the present Act, are in exile because they have participated in anti-national activities, or because they are dangerous to public security, and also those who have been preventatively arrested by the Ministry of Public Order and/or the military authorities, are now put under the authority of the above organisation".

Article 7 determines the competence of the organization. It says "The Director-General of the Organization for Re-education on Makronisos creates a five-member Committee, consisting of the most competent of the officers or civilian employees under his command. They decide whether the detainee under consideration has regained his moral health. In the cases of civilian detainees these decisions, together with the opinion of the Director-General, are to be submitted to the Minister of Public Order. In the cases of other detainees they are to be submitted to the General Staff. On the basis of these decisions, the Minister of War and the Minister of Public Order respectively issue their orders for release".

Articles 11 and 12 specify under what conditions the detainees can be provisionally released and Article 13 stresses that provisional release "can be revoked by decision of the competent Committee issued within five years of the release if, upon a suggestion from the local Security Committee, it has been ascertained that the released has in any way continued his anti-national activities.

Article 17 provides that "those whose trials are pending or who are in prison for crimes connected with the bandit struggle or with the illegal activities of the Communist Party can be sent to Makronisos by decision of the Committee. Should the examining magistrate issue an order for the immediate release of the accused, he can be released from prison if he is not regarded as dangerous, otherwise he will be sent for re-education to Makronisos".

ELD-Socialists' Comment.

On 16 October 1949, the ELD-Socialist weekly newspaper Mahi published an article by I. Tsirimokos, making the following criticisms of the Act:

"According to a statement by the Minister for War, the Bill is to remain in force beyond the period of the 'Emergency Measures Act'...

"The categories subject to 're-education' on Makronisos include everyone—except those whom the 'Reaction' does not want out of the way...

"Everyone is covered because it is the police who will, in fact, decide, since it is the police files which are behind the Security Committees.

"Only three categories of people are exempt—cattle thieves, right wing bandits and collaborators. These are the categories which the Government considers do not need re-education. And what indeed could be done to enlighten a collaborator since he knows it all; and in any case, if you were to include collaborators for re-education, what would happen to Parliament?

"Now it is the local police chiefs who decide on the freedom of the citizen for it is they who characterise him as 'suspect'; and then it is they also who in practice judge whether he is released or not. And this is the game which is being played from the lowest party agent to the five ministers on the eve of elections to get rid of opponents."

Mahi also draws attention to the fact that nothing in the Act makes reference to the "rebellion" but that the Act goes beyond the rebellion and term "anti-national" is no longer used in the sense of treachery to the nation as it is usually understood.

The Act in force.

According to Athens Radio (7-10 November), corroborated by the complete militarization of Makronisos addressed from the beginning of December, the Act began to be enforced on that island on 1 December 1949.

On 19 January 1950, the International Red Cross in Geneva confirmed orally that 30,000 detainees were already concentrated on Makronisos.

Position of women under the new Act.

Previous to the Act of 6 October 1949, women detainees had been concentrated, first in an old army barracks on Chios, and later in a tent encampment on Trikeri island in the Gulf of Volos. They numbered about 1,600, some having their children with them.

On 14 December, the newspaper Kathimerini reported that a mixed commission of high-ranking Army and Gendarmerie officers had left for Trikeri where it would examine the cases of the women. Evidence from correspondence received in this country suggests that the function of this commission was to sort out the women and, after obtaining as many recantations as possible, to transfer the "irreconcilables" to Makronisos.

Oral information from the International Red Cross confirms that the transfer of the latter from Trikeri to Makronisos was complete by the middle of January. There are now apparently between 940 and 1,400 women there and they are organized, like the men, in military companies and platoons. Whether those who had their children with them on Trikeri still have them is not certain but seems probable. Tass reported on 2 February that on arrival the women had been given three days in which to recant after which the "re-education" system would be applied to them.

How the "reformatory" system is applied

The World Today for January 1950, a Chatham House publication known to be very close to the British Foreign Office, in an article which is one hundred per cent hostile to the Greek Communists, contains some very revealing and sinister comments on the state of affairs on Makronisos. After reviewing the work on the island during the civil war the article turns to the present plan to turn Makronisos into a "National Reformatory School".

"The first several thousand political prisoners have already been shipped there from their prisons", it goes on. "It is unfortunate that the first days of the new school seem to have been marked by a number of incidents involving some excesses on the part of over-zealous guards faced with more intractable material than the middle-headed Army conscripts they have been used to in the past. Though there is no official information on these incidents, there seems little doubt about their authenticity". The incidents are described as "most regrettable" and as confirming "some fears about the Makronisos experiment that are circulating, unvoiced, amongst liberal and even conservative-minded Greek circles".

Many of the new inmates of Makronisos, the article says, may have to stay there for "anything from six months to six years". The length of their stay will depend upon the Makronisos authorities and on the local authorities and gendarmerie. It points out that the local authorities have the power to send back to Makronisos even those released by the Makronisos authorities themselves.

The writer then goes on to ask whether the petty official and small gendarmerie officer is equal to or sufficiently educated to make such decisions.

“ There are many in Greece ”, he continues, “ who fear that the National Reformatory School may be exploited for the oft-recurrent interests of personal vendetta, profit, or political advantage ”. He adds this warning : “ Makronisos presents a serious danger if misused, and could become at the same time a National Reformation School and a Communist University for the spreading of revolutionary ideas amongst the aggrieved inmates. They start with the initial grievance of not being allowed to return to their homes ”.

These, he says, are the doubts with which Makronisos is regarded by “ many voiceless critics in Greece ”. “ They are voiceless because the third Decree of the Emergency Legislation still gives the power of censorship and of committal for trial by a Military Court, which can be exercised in cases of publication of any such criticism or fears in the Greek press ”.

Information from Athens

From Athens direct we have received information which elaborates on the state of affairs so mildly described in The World Today. Just before Christmas it became widely known in Athens that some 60 detainees on Makronisos had been literally driven insane by torture, while others are suffering from broken limbs and haemorrhages. Relatives have been without letters now for many months. There are even grave fears that if any of those condemned to death are granted a “ reprieve ” by the Council of Grace, they may then be sent to Makronisos to a fate worse than death.

The “ irreconcilables ” who are most subjected to torture are those who stubbornly refuse to sign “ denunciations of Communism ” which are then sent to the priest, the police and the mayor of their town or village to influence the population against the Democrats.

Tass report

Broadcast by Moscow Radio on 2 January 1950. This report is so detailed—despite the fact that anybody giving such information to a foreign correspondent risks imprisonment and even perhaps death—that we do not hesitate to reproduce it at considerable length :

“ Makronisos Island represents an entire system of concentration camps. Located there are three military camps called the First, Second and Third Sapper Battalions where in the past were confined many fighters of ELAS, regular officers who took part in the Resistance Movement as well as politically unreliable soldiers and recruits.

“ At the beginning of October, 14,000 political prisoners who until then had been kept on islands in the Aegean Sea, were transferred to Makronisos to a temporary camp of the Fourth Battalion. The Island also has a camp ‘ ESAI ’ (special camp for ‘ re-educating ’ civilians) and a military prison. A special camp for juvenile ‘ political criminals ’ is being set up on the island. Lastly a concentration camp for women is projected. Altogether there are, not counting guards, more than 29,000 military and civilian prisoners on the island, shipped there without any trial solely for their political convictions.

“ At the head of this system of camps stands Brigadier Bairaktaris, who organised the wholesale shooting of prisoners on the island in April, 1948. He is subordinated directly to the High Command of the Army. ” (Actually February/March.)

“ As reported earlier, the transfer of civilian prisoners to military camps, to the First and Second Battalion, in groups of from 200 to 700 people, began on October 12. This transfer was accompanied by wholesale beatings, as a result of which some prisoners were killed, many went insane, were crippled or are in hospitals to this day.

“ Fifteen thousand imprisoned soldiers were lined up as spectators every time a new group of civilians were brought in. Right in front of them the new arrivals were beaten for hours with rifle butts, clubs and iron rods. Officers and privates—executioners from the ranks of the military police—trampled upon those who lost consciousness and kicked the prisoners in the face with their hob-nailed boots. This manhandling was so savage that five soldiers from among the involuntary spectators went insane.

“ At present almost all of the 14,000 political prisoners have undergone this ‘ preliminary treatment ’ and are in military camps and the ‘ ESAI ’ camp.

“ According to available information, since the adoption of the law on ‘ schools ’ of so-called national re-education, the terror and atrocities on Makronisos have taken on a scale unprecedented even on this ill-famed island. Fiendish tortures, murder and suicide have become common. People unable to withstand the torments, but not wishing to become traitors, cut their veins or jump into the sea. Others die under torture, and then it is announced that they committed suicide or died of some disease.

“ According to available information, in recent days Panaiotis Adams, Anastasi Photiadis, Minas Anagnostopoulos, Michalis Kolaris and Liberis were killed in the First Battalion.

“ Most frequently ‘ re-education ’ is accompanied by maiming. The executioners gouged out the right eye of Anastasi Tselos of Agrinion; they broke seven ribs of Nondos of Trihonia. As a result of concussion of the brain Antoni Brilakis, former head of EPON (Greek Organisation of Democratic Youth) on Crete, lost the power of speech. Dozens of others whose names are unknown have their bones broken.

“ Still worse is the situation in the special ‘ ESAI ’ camp where 3,000 former political prisoners are confined. During the first few days there were ten killed, and about 70 people went insane as a result of preliminary treatment. Part of the latter have been brought to Athens while 45 people, who also have wounds and traces of beating, are still kept in hospitals on Makronisos.

“ The Second Battalion has now, besides military prisoners, 7,500 political exiles. The tortures are directed by the chief of this camp, Drametatos, the chief of the national ‘ education ’ department, Rondos and the officer Xikuhakis.

“ Most horrible are the conditions in the so-called

Seventh Company, which is separated from the general camp by barbed wire entanglements. Five hundred 'convicts who do not yield to re-education' are confined there. They are made to haul rocks from five in the morning to seven in the evening. They are given water and food once in two days and are beaten daily. Lieutenant Tsakmakis knocked out the eye of one prisoner with his belt buckle. The writer Yianikolopoulos was beaten within an inch of his life and is still in a grave condition.

"All the other battalions have isolated groups like the Seventh Company, and the regime in them is similar. In one of these isolated groups is the former Commander of Troops of the National Resistance, General Sarafis.

"Among those isolated in the Third Battalion is the teacher Tsirojannis, whose staunchness is renowned throughout the camp. For more than two years he has been tortured, then treated in hospital, and again tormented. The last time the executioners of the military police put him up as a target and threw stones at him. They continued this 'amusement' even after Tsirojannis had lost consciousness. Then he was sent to hospital where for more than a month he was unable to rise to his feet.

"The chief of the Third Battalion, Major Sguros, former officer of the hitlerite security detachments, for many months personally tortured the journalist Dima Tasos, who was employed by the newspaper Rizospastis.

"However, the most horrible place on the island is the prison, where the cruellest tortures are used. Screams of the tormented people are heard in the grounds of the Third Battalion day and night. During the recent change of administration it was discovered that many convicts who were on the prison lists were no longer alive. The new chief Miliadis outdid his predecessors, introducing torture by means of electric current".

British journalist's visit

Writing in The New Statesman and Nation of 7th January, Basil Davidson describes a visit to Makronisos, where he was told: "there are no prisoners on this island, remember, and no prisons either". But he saw both. He points out that the "political camps" include men like Sarafis, Despotopoulos and Gavrielides (see below), who were already in prison when the rebellion erupted in 1947. "They badly need shoes, blankets, and warm clothing", Davidson reports.

Today, practically anyone who did not vote right wing in 1946 can be sent to Makronisos, says Mr. Davidson. "Anyone else—moderate, Socialist, Communist, pacifist, or other non-conformist—is undoubtedly liable to arrest without trial and detainment without limit. It is in this atmosphere that a General Election is being prepared for next April".

Voting under terror

Under these conditions of terror, the Greek Government apparently intends that polling should be carried out on Makronisos at the General Election on 5th March. The Times (London) of 26th January reports: "The Government... has decreed that all civilians and soldiers who were interned on Makronisos (sic) island or elsewhere when the Communist rebellion was at its height, on suspicion or evidence of fifth column activities or doubtful loyalty shall be allowed to vote in the same way as members of the armed forces". The Times report goes on to speak of voting by secret ballot. But it has been repeatedly announced by the Greek Government that the system for the armed forces will be one of mass voting on parade.

Specific allegations of ill-treatment in individual cases

The following specific allegations of ill-treatment have been reported since the establishment of the Makronisos concentration camps. It should be noted that the first three only apply to the period prior to the Act of 6 October 1949.

1. C. Despotopoulos, Reader in Philosophy of Law at Athens University. Reported to have been severely beaten and to have had an arm broken in an attempt to make him sign a recantation, in the first half of 1948. (From private correspondence). Despotopoulos was seen "behind the wire" by C. L. Sulzberger who described his visit to Makronisos in The New York Times of 22 August 1949.

2. Major Th. Makridis, who signed the January 1945 armistice on behalf of ELAS, reported to have become insane as a result of torture and to have been removed to an asylum (Deuxième Livre Bleu. Gouvernement Démocratique Provisoire de Grèce, August 1949, p. 59).

3. Venetsanopoulos, a young lawyer called up for military service in 1948, lost the use of his left hand through ill-treatment received within three days of his arrival on Makronisos where he still is. (From private correspondence.)

4. Mrs. Helen Zaglanaki, former interpreter with the UN Enquiry Commission in Greece, 1947, a cripple with an artificial leg, and a dual (British and Greek) national. Reported to have been subjected to torture during the sorting out of the women on Trikeri for transfer to Makronisos and now on the latter island. (From private correspondence.)

5. General Stefanos Sarafis, former Commander in Chief of ELAS (Greek People's Liberation Army). Reported to have been set to the task of carrying heavy stones all day, despite the fact that he is aged 59. He is in the isolated 8th Company of the ESAI camp on Makronisos (Free Greece Radio, 31 December 1949, 1 January 1950, 1 February 1950, substantiated by references in private correspondence).

6. Dimitris Fotiadis, author and editor of a literary journal Elefthera Grammata, reported to be seriously ill as a result of torture. (Free Greece Radio, 31 December 1949, 1 January 1950.)

7. Dimitris Tatakis, official of the Federation of Greek Maritime Unions, reported to have been tortured on

Makronisos. (Report from Piraeus to Greek News Agency.)

8. Zisis Theos, young son of C. Theos the elected Secretary of the Greek T. U. C., suffering from a weak heart and reported to be in grave danger in the 1st Battalion on Makronisos. (From private correspondence.)

9. K. Gavrielides, Secretary of the Agrarian Party within EAM, reported seriously ill as a result of mal-treatment. (Free Greece Radio, 1 January 1950.)

10. Dr. Dalianos, a physician said to have been repeatedly tortured. (Free Greece Radio, 31 January, 1950.)

Others reported by Free Greece Radio to have been tortured on Makronisos are : Brilakis (who has become dumb), Dimitratos, Mylonas, the brothers Frangiskakis, Yiannoulis, Tsirojannis (a teacher), P. Kyriazis (a journalist), Menyhtas (former Communist M.P.), Tselios, Daskalakis.

Evidence of torture on Makronisos was given at the court martial trials of V. Markezinis, Pandelis Simos, T. Hainoglou, M. Ligeros, N. Moutessidis and others in summer 1949 and at the present court martial trial of 118 trade-unionists in Athens, where the former president of the Greek Woodworkers' Union, Venidikoglou, admitted in court that he had signed a recantation under torture on that island.

Request for investigation by UN

In view of the above alarming reports on the treatment of civilians and military prisoners and internees on Makronisos and especially since the great majority of those concerned have never been tried or even charged with any crimes or offences, we urgently request the Secretary-General of the United Nations to place this memorandum before the appropriate body or bodies with a request that the allegations contained therein be fully investigated.

APPEAL FOR THE ABOLITION OF MAKRONISOS AND FOR A GENERAL AMNESTY IN GREECE

In the name of trade union, social and other organizations in Greece of which we are the representatives, expressing the unanimous wishes of our people, we make this appeal to you and ask you to help our people in their efforts to end their present tragedy and to return to a peaceful, normal life. The first step toward this end is the suppression of Makronisos and the proclamation of a general amnesty, freeing all political prisoners.

We do not wish in this appeal to cite details of the horrible drama being suffered by the prisoners. It would take many volumes to tell about the hundreds who have lost their minds as a result of the tortures, of the thousands of paralysed and mutilated men and women who, their bodies broken, are dying slow deaths at Makronisos and the other concentration camps, of the unheard-of tortures which are submitted to by high army officers and heads of political parties, directors of trade unions and intellectuals, children and old people, mothers with children at their breast who, in the midst of this hell, remain faithful to their belief in Liberty, Democracy and Peace.

In reading our appeal, imagine for a moment our feelings about this Aeschylus tragedy which is being enacted in Greece. Hear the anguished cry of the thousands of people who have dreamed and fought for a world in which there would be no more Auschwitzes, Buchenwalds, Dachaus or Maideneks and they have been persecuted for just this reason.

Above the drama of the tens of thousands of martyrs and heroes who face death each day ... above the drama of the hundreds of thousands of their parents ... above the drama of the entire Greek people, all political differences disappear. No democrat of any consequence can remain indifferent before this cynical trampling on all notions of justice and human dignity. The position taken in the face of this Greek tragedy can only be from the criteria of democracy and of the rights of man.

Our people struggle for peace under the most difficult conditions. By their vote during the recent elections, they have condemned the bloody régime of Makronisos, the terror and they have demanded the proclamation of a general, unconditional amnesty.

Help our people in this struggle. It is the sacred duty of all free and honest men. The Greek people wait for effective help from their friends.

Demand the abolition of Makronisos, the freeing of political prisoners, the proclamation of a general amnesty in Greece.

Demand that an international commission be sent to Greece to observe on the spot (at Makronisos, in the prisons of Corfu, Akronafplia, Youra and other concentration camps) the crimes perpetrated against the imprisoned patriots.

Each day that goes by hastens the fall of these heroic victims. If each in his place and together with others does his duty towards the Greek people, we can win the sacred cause of humanity and justice.

(This appeal has been signed by the following representatives of Greek trade unions, women's and youth organizations, relief agencies, and professional groups: Petros Kokkalis, Kostas Theos, Toula Koukoulou, Nikos Akritidis, Apostolos Grosos, Takis Dimitriadis, Stefanos Savidis, Miltiadis Porphyrogenis, Stavros Kotsopoulos, Zissis Zografos, Apostolos Spiliotis, Elli Alexiou, Kostas Karayorghis.)

DOCUMENT A/C.1/626/Add.2

Communication dated 24 January 1950 from Mr. Manolis Proimakis, former member of the Greek Parliament ³⁶

[13 November 1950]

" I ACCUSE "

(THE 2ND BATTALION (B.E.T.O.))

(METHODS OF MURDER ON MAKRONISOS)

The 2nd Special Armed Battalion has been charged with the " re-education " of approximately 7,000 political deportees, Greek citizens of democratic views. There is also a 1st Special Armed Battalion charged with the " re-education " of 3,000. The latter are suffering the same martyrdom as we, only for them it is still worse.

2. I shall, however, confine myself to a description of the sufferings inflicted on us by the 2nd Battalion during the time we have been, and while we continue to be, under its orders.

3. 500-600 at a time are taken to the place of assembly. There the ceremony invariably begins with a discourse by Lieutenant Xerouhakis or Lieutenant Ranlos. This discourse contains all the elements of what in Criminal Law constitutes incitement to a breach of the peace and to violence, with the use of threats. The speaker openly declares that the 2nd Battalion has the right and is resolved to take every possible measure to bend our wills, to " break " us as they call it. Should we refuse to sign a declaration of repentance, we will be in danger of physical annihilation.

4. After this we are dispersed among 4,000 others who, having been subjected to all kinds of torture and having experienced the educational technique of these gangsters, have signed a declaration of repentance. These men, who have been forced to sign and who, according to our tormentors, are " cured ", since they have denounced their most sacred beliefs and their long-standing struggle for democracy and freedom, must serve as an example to us.

5. This mixing with the detainees who have repented is intended to have a weakening effect on us to terrify us and persuade us to agree to the demands of our tormentors.

6. At nightfall they take us to a deserted place behind the tents of No. 8 Company. There, the process known as " fishing " begins among the new arrivals. Soldiers who have been well rewarded for the part they are to play are sent among us, seeking out men from their own locality, acquaintances, and old men who do not look as if they would have great powers of resistance. A special reward is given to soldiers who do this job.

7. Those " fished out " are separated from the crowd and the soldiers describe to them the tortures to which they will be subjected; the beatings they will receive which are beyond human endurance; the breaking of limbs; the loss of sanity; things that will happen to them at the end of their martyrdom, things that have already happened to many of their victims. They urge these old men to sign a declaration denouncing their past beliefs at the same time as bullying those who refuse.

8. In a state of extreme terror this mass of human misery waits, and, as soon as the soldiers' bugles have given the signal, the next phase of operations begins. It continues until 5 a.m. the following day.

9. It is dark; the soldiers advance on the ranks of detainees, they shine their torches on men shivering with cold and sleeplessness, choose from five to ten and lead them to the " confession room " one at a time.

10. Outside the entrance to these rooms stand armed soldiers with clubs in their hands. Inside one or more officers are surrounded by five or six soldiers.

11. The officers begin their work by bringing intense psychological pressure to bear on the prisoners. Promises and threats are characteristic of this stage, while the victim hears the cries and screams of suffering which shatter the stillness of the night.

12. The cries of pain come from those who have preceded them in these rooms and refused to sign the " repentance statement " and to yield to their tormentors.

13. The man subjected to this psychological pressure is alone and at the mercy of his armed jailers. While he awaits his fate he sees some of his comrades carried away on stretchers, others dragged along the ground by two or three men, others with whom he has lived for many months, with whom he has discussed a thousand things and whose sanity he could not doubt, he sees mad, driven completely out of their minds and capable only of inarticulate cries. A tragic delirium has completed the night's work of "re-education" and has deranged, perhaps for ever, the minds of these poor men.

14. All these pictures pass before the eyes of the man, while the pressure mounts. It continues for hours.

15. During the questioning a few violent and well-aimed blows at the face and kicks over the body are added to the psychological pressure in the "confession room". Often these blows are so violent that the victim faints (I will only mention the cases of the lawyer Zenon Iafakis and of Professor K. Nicolacopoulos).

16. A considerable number of these victims, unable to endure this martyrdom to the end, have resigned themselves to signing the famous "declaration" so much desired by the "National" Government. Often they are more dead than alive when they sign.

17. Those detainees who still refuse to sign are taken by bands of A. M. (Military Police) into ravines where they are subjected to an even more inhuman beating. The soldiers armed with truncheons and knobby wooden clubs, beat them until a number fall to the ground with broken limbs and try to crawl away moaning with pain. These are then thrown into nearby tents with other detainees.

18. Is it necessary to add that after such treatment a large number of political prisoners sign in order to end their sufferings?

19. The treatment described above was meted out to those who arrived on Makronisos on December 2, 3 and 5, 1949. The majority of them were elderly, sick, sufferers from T. B. and ex-officers of the Greek army. Out of 1,900, 600 were able to stand up to this torture and refused to sign the "declaration".

20. These 600 men are isolated in the 8th Company. There they spent the terrible night of December 8-9, a night of blood and horror.

21. At 10 o'clock at night, when all the prisoners were lying down, worn out by the sufferings of the past days, they were awakened by wild shouts and a crowd of savages burst upon the recumbent men, pulling them and beating them unmercifully to force them out of their tents. The shrill voice of Lieut. Xerouhakis ordered: "Pull them out! Beat them! Kill them! Throw them all out!".

22. As soon as we were all gathered outside, they divided us into groups of 100 and led us to different parts of the camp. There a new questioning took place, even more cruel than the first, at the end of which we were again delivered to our tormentors who, after making us undress completely, beat us savagely all night long. At 5.30 a.m. the groans of hundreds of men rose to heaven.

23. At this stage 106 more signatures were obtained.

24. The groups that preceded us included younger and stronger men, with greater powers of resistance, who had suffered the same treatment for two or three nights continuously. For us, the two stages of "re-education" described above ended the first period of our sufferings.

25. The ex-officers and a few civilians (Professor Imvriotis, for example) were shut up in the isolation cells of the 8th Company with the sick, the wounded and the tubercular. Others were sent to a separate camp for incorrigibles at St. George's. Most of our group were taken to the dreaded "wire"—the so-called 7th Company.

26. Let us now see the treatment meted out in this 7th Company.

27. Three large tents and others belonging to the Battalion shelter the men who were not the most seriously wounded. They number more than 200. Several of them have broken limbs or ribs. Of these we mention the doctors Arapis and Panopoulos with fractured ribs, the lawyer, Mr. Makris, with a severe eye injury. Professor Nicolacopoulos, who is in a deep coma and has lost control of his sphincter, two or three men who are completely paralysed owing to injuries to the vertebrae, and about 30 men with various fractured limbs. I will mention a few more names. Thanos Souvaliotis, nephew of General Argyropoulos, with a fractured spine; John Gavrielides, who has been in a comatose state for a month. Many men have been moved to the Makronisos hospital because of severe fractures, but a large number of severely wounded men are unable to stand upright and can still only crawl about. Among these are the police officer G. Contoghiorgos and the seaman N. Galatis and others.

28. Finally, a large number of the detainees have lost their reason as a result of torture and above all because of the cries and groans which are heard every night and which human nerves find beyond endurance.

29. These moans and cries of suffering can be heard every night in every corner, in every ravine and in every building. It must be noted, too, that among those who have gone mad are six soldiers, who after undergoing the above-mentioned "treatment" and having signed "declarations", were forced to take an active part in torturing others in order to prove their devotion to what is known as "saving the country for democracy".

30. We have agreed to keep secret the names of those driven mad in the hope that one day, if they are given proper treatment, they may recover and that the knowledge of their period of insanity may not prejudice their future careers. It is impossible, however, to pass over in silence the cases of Theophilos Gatseas, K. Mavrofidis and C. Paxinos. There are 15 similar cases.

31. Besides the sick, the wounded and the insane, there are the dead. We mention two men who were killed: Nikitakis and Charalambopoulos. We know also of men who tried to kill themselves to end their sufferings. The lawyer Papadimas cut his veins so as to escape further tortures. After treatment in the Makro-nisos hospital he is now back in the camp of the 7th Company. In the same way Triantaphyllos Avgerinos, after suffering a whole series of tortures, threw himself into the sea one night to make an end of it. He was seen by the guards by the light of their searchlights, fished out and sent back to the camp.

32. There are at present about 750 men in the camp of the 7th Company. Among these are 100 scientists, doctors, lawyers, engineers, agriculturalists; there are also several men of letters, writers, some of our best actors, civil servants—several from the highest ranks of the administration and judiciary—journalists, school teachers, bank employees, industrial workers and peasants.

33. A quarter of these 750 men are physical wrecks. Two or three are limbless. There is a whole group of invalids as well as 150 sufferers from tuberculosis and old men like Mr. Cacoudakis, who is 70 years of age. There are also many suffering from serious heart trouble and other grave maladies.

34. We live in forty tents, twenty at least in each tent. These tents are rotten; the rain pours through. There is no room for beds, we sleep on the bare ground and each day which passes brings nearer the approach of death.

35. Neither tent pegs nor guy ropes are provided and we are exposed to the smallest puff of wind. There is no room to pass between the tents and we can only move around by jumping and crawling.

36. We receive two gallons of water per tent each day, that is two glasses for each man, an insufficient quantity even to quench one's thirst. Therefore our hands and faces are not washed even once a week and there is no question of washing our clothes.

37. The medicines that some of us brought with us when we were arrested have been confiscated and remain unused in cupboards of the "National Re-education H. Q."

38. Apart from the ordinary tortures, we are not allowed to have anything needed to cure or relieve our condition and we are fed on dried beans and peas. A civil servant Polyvios Kotsilos, suffering from acute dysentery and running a high temperature, was not even allowed to buy sulphaguanadine.

39. Because of the continual forced labour we have to perform, our boots are worn to shreds and not only has no attention been paid to this problem, but a shoemaker was refused permission to patch them. Already some of us have to do forced labour with bare feet, in the damp and cold. In ending this paragraph I would add that on the flimsiest excuse we are violently beaten, the captain himself setting the example.

40. As a means of exterminating us they use long and very hard forced labour from 7.30 in the morning to 5 in the evening with an interval at noon. This work goes on every day, including Sundays. We are forced to break and carry blocks of stones under military supervision.

41. "Faster, faster" order the strident voices of our tormentors, among whom are Voglis, Pyrgos and Karafotis. The truncheons whistle through the air as they belabour the backs of their victims. All our bodies are striped with the marks of these blows. Sometimes while they run, men fall down with heart failure beneath their burden of stones. Jouvelas, one of the detainees, while carrying out this daily work, had a nervous breakdown and for hours the surrounding hills echoed with his moans. He is now in hospital. In an effort to force Mr. Denakos to work—he was a bank clerk who could not carry heavy weights—they broke his arm.

42. If this state of affairs continues for another month, none of us will retain our sanity. Even if conditions change they have told us that we will all have contracted tuberculosis.

43. At the extreme edge of the camp there is a solitary tent surrounded by barbed wire—it is the tent of living death. In it are confined 12 men, including Menyhtas and Lykouris. They are forbidden to leave the tent either by day or by night. The entrance is closed and a sentry stands outside. The other detainees are not allowed to come near, or even to look towards the tent where 12 men eat, sleep, satisfy the calls of nature—and die.

44. The 7th Company of the 2nd Battalion (BETO) is the instrument for systematically exterminating 750 Greek citizens, who are not accused of any crime, who have never been brought before a court even for the most trifling peccadillo, but who are tortured in order to make them renounce their convictions, to act against their conscience and to humiliate themselves by signing the notorious "repentance statement".

45. This horrible concentration camp will remain an indelible stain on Greek history, a stain on our moral principles and on the traditions of freedom and democracy of our country.

46. Our army should not continue to be organized under foreign direction and according to foreign orders and plans.

47. We appeal to the conscience of all civilized men to throw themselves into the struggle to save us, with the conviction that in so doing they will be helping to save the honour of a small but heroic country, which was the cradle of democracy and civilization—the honour of Greece.

48. Our problem is not one of politics or parties; it is a question of common humanity, of world solidarity, of Human Rights and of fundamental liberty. It involves a principle so important that it occupies a prominent place in the Charter of the United Nations.

49. No one has the right to plead ignorance of this question. No one who, by his position, is able to show a practical interest can fail to lend a hand in abolishing this shameful camp.

50. In taking entire responsibility for what we say, we stake our lives before world public opinion.

51. We ask :

52. What is the attitude of the Greek Church, of the Holy Synod, of the Archbishop of Athens towards our martyrdom ?

53. What is the attitude of intellectual and philanthropic organizations, of the Academy, of the University, of the associations of doctors, lawyers and writers, of the International and Greek Red Cross ?

54. What is the opinion of the political parties ?

55. What do you say, you five Ministers who are responsible for administering the Makronisos " Reformatory Organisation ", who have among you the professors of Law, Messrs. Kanellopoulos and Tsatsos ?

56. And you the Prosecutors-General of the Supreme Court of Appeal in Athens, in whose district these criminal acts are taking place ?

57. What do you say, Messrs. Tsaldaris, Theotokis, Venizelos, Papandreou, Zervas, Tsouderos and Plastiras ?

58. The picture we have drawn for you above is true and accurate. What do you say ? Are these things to be allowed to continue ? If not, what are you going to do to stop them ?

59. Above all, what do General Papagos and the General Staff say ? Because our tormentors quote their orders and shelter behind them as an excuse for their conduct.

Because of the things I have seen with my own eyes, because of what I have myself suffered and will continue to suffer, I raise my voice in accusation:

I accuse :

Before world democratic opinion and before the democratic citizens of Greece :

The Government of Mr. Diomedes,
The leaders of the political parties,
The present government,

Of having created, under the title of " The National School of Education and Reformation ", laboratories for innumerable tortures, utterly alien to the Greek reputation for nobility and culture, and contrary to the historic traditions of Greece.

I accuse :

Before the Greek people :

The Greek army and the present military leaders, under whose protection these crimes are being committed.

I accuse :

Before the Christian Greek people and before World Christianity :

The leaders of the Greek Church, not only because they have failed to raise their voices in protest against atrocities unparalleled even in the darkest Middle Ages, but because they encourage and cover up these crimes through their representatives on Makronisos.

I accuse :

Before the Greek people and before the whole civilized world :

The judicial authorities who are entrusted with the duty of carrying out the law and administering justice for remaining indifferent and insensitive in face of the violation of every canon of justice and moral law.

I accuse :

Before the Greek people and the intellectuals of the whole world :

The leading Greek intellectuals because they remained indifferent and did not raise their voices against an unprecedented denial of moral principles.

I accuse :

The commanders of the 1st and 2nd Battalions of Makronisos, as well as their unscrupulous underlings, of carrying out such crimes because they were ordered to do so. (The Allied tribunals which tried the major war criminals in Nuremberg and Tokio formally condemned such conduct.)

And I demand :

If we have committed any crime whatever against our country,

If we are guilty of any treason against it,

If we have plotted against its honour, its freedom and independence,

Let us be brought before competent courts,

And let us be tried according to the laws now in force, laws which cannot be called lenient.

Ex-Member of the Greek Parliament

DOCUMENT A/C.1/626/Add.3

Memorandum from the Greek-American Committee for the Abolition of Makronisos ³⁷

[Original text : English]
[13 November 1950]

TEXT OF THE MEMORANDUM

1. Many are the stories of horror that reached the world from the Nazi concentration camps. The world was shocked and indignant and fought until these camps were ground into the dust.

³⁷ See document A/C.1/626 (note by the Secretariat).

2. Yet today, only five years later, there are over 70,000 prisoners rotting in concentration camps that for bestiality, degradation and viciousness surpass the camps which Allied strength and will banished, they thought, forever.

3. And though they imprison the same kind of victims, these pits of hell are not in Germany, Italy, or Japan, the Axis nations. They exist in Greece, whose partisans during the last war won universal acclaim for courage, determination and their contribution to winning World War II.

4. Who has not heard of the infamous Makronisos, where at one time upwards of 30,000 men, women and children fought to stay alive under a reign of terror.

5. Certain it is that the widespread protests and publicity given to the tortures of the prisoners were not welcomed by the Greek Government. They were somewhat effective, though, for the Greek Government, this year, felt compelled to declare that Makronisos was being "closed down". It failed to mention, however, that the prisoners were not being released but merely transferred to other equally brutal camps.

6. Almost 600 of the women on Makronisos have been sent back to Trikeri, their former prison. Back to the horror described in the following account of incidents during the month preceding their transfer to Makronisos :³⁸

" December of 1949 on Trikeri was really a hellish month. There was cold, hail and mud, and from the ocean the salty breath of the sea came raging into the torn and ragged tents housing the exiled women.

" On the 15th of the month, ten days before Christmas, rumours circulate that General Pentzopoulos is momentarily expected to visit the camp.

" The soldiers of the garrison blow whistles, curse, threaten, and rush the suffering women to the Monastery—the governor's house.

" For two hours they stand in the front yard, but the visitor doesn't appear. The cold bites sharply and the rain falls heavily. With the third hour come the visitors. They were the General, a bishop and the prefect. The General spoke first: 'Starting today you are under the jurisdiction of the Army. You will remain outdoors, in the ravines. You will eat snakes and jackasses'. Then spoke the bishop, God's representative on earth, and the prefect, representative of the State. They spoke in a similar vein and finished with the characteristic refrain: 'You will all die'.

" That very afternoon the threats started to become a reality. A group of women scientists, teachers and workers, were isolated in a detention house which lacked shutters or floors, under strict guard, without blankets, water or food. The rest of the women were sent by the guards that day to the outer field of the monastery, and again the following day. Although it was raining heavily and terribly cold, they were kept there from 8 to 12 noon, standing in groups of three. In this wretched crowd were included the very sick who were brought on stretchers. Those whose lungs were worn away by tuberculosis spat blood on the upward-winding road and under their sodden blankets.

" At 12 noon the gathering was dissolved with the order to reappear at 3 in the afternoon. The stretchers began their downward journey away from the scene of suffering; legs trembled under the weight of the shattered bodies.

" Food was not permitted the following morning. At 1 p. m. the cooking utensils were put on the fire. Before the cooking was done, however, the whistle began to shriek: Make ready for assembly. The food must wait for the evening, and the tragic column began again its upward journey, while from behind, the women were beaten by George Staurianaudakis. The stretcher led the column like sad coffins.

" This gathering lasted two hours, with many speeches and announcements. 'Tomorrow at 8:15 a. m. all must be present here. All of you, sick and healthy alike, will bring your hammocks to the storehouses'. And Major Magniotis adds: 'Letters and packages, forbidden'. A young girl began spitting blood. The Major interrupted himself to say: 'Spitting blood; you'll die!' and the young girl responded: 'Thank you.'

" On Christmas Eve soldiers pitched tents on a wind-beaten hill. The ground was soaked from the rains, the grass was almost a foot high, and the rocks were jagged. There was the new home for the women.

" In vain did they request a delay until the ground dried. The order was sharp: 'Go immediately!' Every piece of wood that may have served as a flooring had been confiscated. They must sleep in the mud...

" Thirty-five women were squeezed into each tent. And the snow covered everything with its white shroud. And on a January day, one of the coldest and most terrible days, the Sub-lieutenant, Filosofo, 'punished' thirty women by having them kept outdoors for ten hours. All of them turned blue with the cold. Two of them developed high temperatures.

" On January 20th, Major Anagnostopoulos arrived at Trikeri with an order to transfer the women to Makronisos... But first, he demanded they sign 'Statements of political immunity'.

" The tortures increased and the women weren't allowed a moment's peace. Calls to assembly, whistles, and marches, endless marches. And in the end, the torture of moving not only their belongings, but also two enormous iron ovens from the opposite end of the island. Iron ovens, dead-weight, and impossibly heavy. 'Let them die but they must carry the ovens', read the order. And so the torture was carried out and women struggled with the ovens. Twice the ovens toppled and almost crushed the women under their weight.

" At long last they reached the harbour. It was the most horrible column that ever journeyed through the pages of history, a tragic exodus reminiscent of biblical scenes: Old women, young girls, mothers with suckling babies and young children in their arms. One thousand one hundred and sixty three women and children...”

³⁸ Reprinted from the Athens daily newspaper Demokratikos of 31 August 1950.

7. Such is Trikeri to which hundreds of women have been transferred from Makronisos !

8. The men who were on Makronisos have been transferred to a remote little island in the Aegean, called Ai-Stratos, where conditions are so horrible that, as their guards have said, they will “wish they were back on Makronisos”.

9. We refer the honourable delegates to a memorandum sent to the United Nations last month from the civilian exiles on Ai-Stratos, which details the appalling conditions which these men are forced to endure.

10. Similar memoranda, letters and cables have been submitted both last year and this. We will not concern ourselves here with a repetition of the material contained in those documents. We will confine this memorandum to reference to a document that has only recently been made available. We believe it contains more explicit information and graphic description than any document of its kind.

11. It is a letter from an inmate of the concentration camp on the island of Youra. His name shall not be disclosed, but in his own words, he is “one of the thousands of peoples resistance fighters who for the last ten years have been fighting under the hardest conditions for the liberty and independence of my country. I participated in the Greek-Italian war of 1941. And when General Tsolakoglou (who became the first quisling premier) signed the surrender to the Nazis, I twice led my company against the invaders in Vlachoklisoura and Naopoli of Kazani. I was among the first to join the liberation movement and fought at the head of ELAS, the regiment of Pireaus...”

12. During his years of exile on Youra, the author recorded detailed, dated accounts of four deaths through torture; 21 instances of mass torture, 19 instances of group tortures and 37 cases of individual tortures. In each case, the writer not only describes the forms of the tortures, but identified the guards who participated in the atrocities and lists either the names or numbers of prisoners involved, as well as the physical effects of the ferocious attacks.

13. This is his description of the four deaths through torture :

Pericles Koukounis—(teacher from Mousinitsa, Lamia) beaten mercilessly by Guard Halkadiaki, August, 1947. Suffered internal stomach injuries. Was abandoned in a tent without medical attention where he died.

Kyriakas Kikis—died as a result of barbaric beatings and tortures administered by Guard Straton Kagambalidi, September, 1947.

Easilios Karamantsos—(farmer from Katakalan, Larissa) collapsed and died while carrying and unloading sacks of flour from the dock to warehouses, over a distance of 300 metres.

Xygales Epaminandas—died as a result of beatings and tortures by Straton Kozambalidi.

14. The writer describes the island in the following words :

“So that you may understand the significance of our demand for amnesty, you should know certain things about the history of this island... This waterless and barren island has been uninhabited for centuries. It was used only by the Romans as a place of exile and extermination of its political adversaries. The post-war Greek State has used this island since 1947, following the Truman Doctrine... as a place of isolation and extermination of the resistance fighters.

“The main role of the Youra guards is our ideological transformation and our physical extermination... Under the Aesopean terms of ‘reformation’ ‘readjustment’ etc., the greatest post-war shame is hidden”.

15. The letter’s description of the twenty-one cases of mass beatings and tortures would be sufficient in themselves to justify the demand for general amnesty now. We cite only two of the twenty-one cases listed, as examples :

1948 : During the year 1948, the head torturer and Warden Stratos Kouzombalidi often had the prisoners stripped naked and forced to clean toilets with bare hands. While bent over their work, their backs were mercilessly beaten with wire whips which tore off sections of their skin and flesh.

When this same warden desired entertainment, he ordered prisoners, young and old alike, to jump over obstacles, and would then beat them savagely, saying that “if they were able to jump, they must be captains to know how to jump so well” or... “if they didn’t jump they were being spiteful”.

The prison guards often indulged in night raids on the sleeping quarters of the prisoners and clubbed them while they were only half awake.

February 16, 1950 : The guards in Section 4, with Koutra and Papagianiki as their leaders, attacked the prisoners of Section 4 en masse, while they were working in the area of Section 5. The attacks were so brutal that large numbers were wounded seriously. Among them were : (here follows a list of 16 prisoners, their home cities and the name of the guards who injured each prisoner).

16. In another section of the letter is a list of 43 prisoners who were seriously injured by the beatings : 13 vomited blood as a result of the tortures; 2 had their ribs broken by guards; 2 developed aphasia; 3 had their skulls fractured; 4 became totally or partially deaf; 2 had one eye gouged out; 2 had one leg broken; 3 had one arm broken; 3 became paralysed; 2 had their spines broken; 2 became psychopathic; 1 had the skin torn off his entire back.

17. Does this sound incredible ? Yet the author is able to list not only the time of the torture, but the incident which provoked the attack : “...because he could not make a cane which the guard demanded...” or “... because he didn’t work quickly enough...” Each of the forty-three men are named; and the name of the guard in each case is carefully listed.

18. In the portion of the missile describing the hair-raising scenes that take place in the "Disciplinary Section", there are listed more names of guards than of prisoners, for here groups of guards are assigned the task of beating each prisoner.

19. Who are these prisoners? Are they criminals who have committed crimes so incredible that they deserve punishment? And, can anyone merit such punishment as this? Here are the words of the prisoner:

"Workers, peasants, intellectuals, scientists, army officers, high government officials. All of us have been in the vanguard of the heroic struggle during the last ten years for the liberation of our country..."

"Human logic cannot understand how those who fight for the liberty of their country, instead of being free to enjoy its goods, are being so tortured.

"It is incomprehensible that someone should be tried, sentenced and even executed for having destroyed Nazis, or Italian and Bulgarian fascists... The British radio station, the Middle East Allied Headquarters, the United States radio stations and other Allies were urging us to commit these acts".

20. Seven individuals are named as having been sentenced for murdering "an unknown person, at an unknown place and time". In some cases, the "murdered" is known to be alive!

21. How do the prisoners live?

"For three whole years we have been living twenty and thirty in tents whose capacity cannot exceed ten to fifteen. We will not mention here the self-evident consequences of this crowding and of the temporary, inadequate, shelters, which expose us to the dangers of heat and cold. Yet there is no prospect of any permanent housing.

"The situation is desperate from the point of view of the water supply. Youra does not have the necessary quantity or quality of water to cover the various needs of ten thousand people. Every day we have to organize caravans from one of the gulfs to transport water, and we have to cover many kilometres to provide ourselves with it. The amount which everyone of us can get is a few drops".

22. How are the prisoners fed?

"...many a time, because of a lack of elementary decency on the part of those responsible, we have been without food. We note here that for a whole week, we remained completely without any food at all...Add to all this, the bad quality of the food, especially of the vegetables, together with the bad conditions under which the food is prepared, and you will have some idea about the quantity and quality of the hunger rations meted out to us.

"Since the prison of Youra was first opened, the bread for the prisoners was brought to camp every four or five days and often once a week. Almost always it was muddy, wet and mouldy".

23. There follows a month by month account since September 1947, of the quantity, kind and quality of food doled out, including such descriptions as this: "September, 1947: a distribution of 26 days' portions of black-eyed beans took place. They were rotted and full of worms. These were served till the beginning of 1948. The army doctor ordered their distribution although during the boiling the worms had covered the whole surface of the water. Despite their hunger, the prisoners often threw away the beans..."

24. Yet, as the prisoner points out, there are no provisions made to care for the sick, the injured, the poisoned. There are no drugs available.

25. We have given only small sections of a 35-page chronicle of unbelievable suffering. The original letter is available for inspection, should these excerpts seem too incredible.

26. We have limited ourselves here to an exposé of only one of the many camps and prisons in Greece. Our purpose is not to press for the relief of the inmates of this camp or that. Youra is not unique. It is merely typical.

27. That this story can be told in the year of Our Lord 1950 indicates that: (a) civilization has not progressed as far as we would like to believe, and (b) the danger of a resurgence of fascism is again imminent.

28. The peoples of the world can not believe that the United Nations strivings for peace are more than mere shadow boxing if no effort is made by that organization to wipe out this fascist holdover.

29. Honourable Delegates: The conditions and the very existence of these concentration camps is in violation of the first twelve articles of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

30. Further, these camps and prisons are used by the Greek employer as a weapon against the Greek working class who are striving to achieve a decent life. This is in violation of articles 23, 24, and 25 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which assure the right of trade unions to function freely. We lay particular stress on this point: for one of the primary services rendered by the concentration camps is that of terrorizing and demoralizing workers to prevent them from demanding their rights as workers, citizens, trade unionists, and human beings.

31. We are proud to join with the millions who have raised their voices in protest against the danger to our civilization inherent in the continued existence of the concentration camps.

32. We once again call upon the United Nations, the body that represents man's hope for freedom, equality and peace, to take specific and concrete steps—in the true interests of the Greek nation—to secure:

- (1) Immediate abolition of the concentration camps;
- (2) An end to the imposition of the death sentence against men and women who have committed no crime;

(3) Immediate reprieve for the almost 3,000 men and women now under sentence of death;

(4) Restoration of trade union rights and freedoms;

(5) A declaration of General Amnesty now for all political prisoners.

Financial implications of draft resolution B proposed by the First Committee (A/1536) : report by the Secretary-General

[Original text: English]
[20 November 1950]

1. At its 396th meeting held on 14 November 1950, the First Committee recommended that the General Assembly approve a resolution (A/C.1/622/Rev.1) concerning threats to the political independence and territorial integrity of Greece, which calls for the continuation of the Special Committee on the Balkans previously established by General Assembly resolution 109 (II) and continued by General Assembly resolutions 193 (III) and 288 (IV) with the functions conferred upon it by the above-mentioned resolutions.

2. On the basis of the above draft resolution, it is estimated that the extension of the Special Committee on the Balkans throughout 1951 will entail the following expenses :

	US dollars
Temporary assistance	170,000
Travel and subsistence of members	107,000
Travel and subsistence of observers	94,600
Travel and subsistence of staff	105,000
Communications	6,000
Rental and maintenance of premises and equipment	20,000
Stationery and office supplies	3,500
Contractual printing	5,000
Local transportation	21,000
Freight, cartage and express	3,500
Insurance	3,000

	US dollars
Maintenance and operation of transportation equipment	20,000
Miscellaneous expenses	3,000
Purchase of motor vehicles (replacement) ..	10,000
Miscellaneous equipment	2,000
TOTAL	573,600

3. Under Temporary Assistance provision is made for 8 persons internationally recruited to serve the Mission, as shown in Annex I ($61,000), 42 local recruits, comprising 11 drivers, 11 mechanics, 2 clerks, 2 storemen, 6 interpreters, 2 mimeograph operators, 8 cleaners and messengers ($59,000), and 10 persons to be temporarily employed at Headquarters as replacement of staff assigned to the Mission ($50,000).

4. Under Travel and Subsistence of Members provision for round trip costs ($13,500) and subsistence allowance at $20 per day for an average of 16 delegates and alternates serving the Mission, less a deduction of 20 per cent for periods of absence from the Mission area ($93,500).

5. For Travel and Subsistence of Observers, provision is made for (a) subsistence of 27 observers and ancillary personnel at the rate of $9.50 per day applicable to Secretariat members, less 10 per cent for periods of absence ($84,200), and (b) round trip expenses ($10,400).

6. The sum of $105,000 requested for travel and subsistence of staff will cover (a) cost of 12 round trips for replacement of staff and 2 round trips of Principal Secretary and an officer to the 1951 General Assembly ($14,000); (b) subsistence allowance at $20 per day for the Principal Secretary, at $9.50 for 12 staff members with dependants and at $6.50 for 22 staff members without dependants, less 10 per cent deduction for periods of absence from the Mission area ($91,000).

7. Under all other items, the estimates are based on the experience of the 1950 Mission. However, the total $573,600 requested for 1951 is $206,600 less than the amount of $780,200 appropriated for UNSCOB for 1950 under section 6, chapter I.

8. Should the resolution be adopted by the General Assembly, the appropriation of $573,600 would be required, of which $568,600 under section 5, chapter I, and the balance ($5,000 requested for contractual printing) under section 25, chapter V, of the 1951 budget estimates.

9. It is noted that these expenses will be partly compensated by assessments to be levied on the salaries of the staff of the Mission, estimated at $36,000.

Financial implications of draft resolution C proposed by the First Committee (A/1536) : report by the Secretary-General

[Original text : English]
[21 November 1950]

1. At its 398th meeting held on 15 November 1950, the First Committee recommended that the General Assembly approve a draft resolution (A/C.1/627) on repatriation of Greek children. This resolution requested the Secretary-General, the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of the Red Cross Societies to continue their efforts in accordance with General Assembly resolution 193 C (III) and 288 B (IV), and urged all States harbouring Greek children to make all the necessary arrangements, in co-operation with the Secretary-General and the International Red Cross organization, for the early return of the Greek children to their parents. A standing committee composed of the representatives of Peru, Philippines, and Sweden would be established to act in consultation with the Secretary-General and to consult with the representatives of the States concerned with a view to the early repatriation of the children. The Red Cross organization would be requested to co-operate with this committee. The draft resolution also requested the Secretary-General to report from time to time to Member States on the progress made in the implementation of the resolution, and to submit a report to the sixth session of the General Assembly.

2. Against an appropriation of $50,000, expenditure in 1950 for the purpose of meeting out-of-pocket expenses of the Red Cross organizations assisting in preparations for the repatriation of Greek children is likely to amount to about $30,000. It is anticipated that for the purpose of implementing the General Assembly resolution the same amount appropriated in 1950 would be required in 1951 for the following expenditure :

	US dollars
Temporary Assistance	20,000
Travel and Subsistence of Staff	16,000
Communication Services	3,000
Local Transportation	3,000
Miscellaneous Supplies and Contractual Services	8,000
	50,000

3. The Secretary-General consequently requests that the sum of $50,000 be appropriated under section 5, chapter IV, of the 1951 budget. Should this amount prove to be insufficient, additional requirements would be met by advances from the Working Capital Fund as relating to the maintenance of peace and security.

4. During the discussion of this resolution it was stated that the standing committee composed of representatives of delegations with permanent missions to the United Nations was intended to meet in New York, and that there should therefore be no additional expenditure in this connexion for travel, subsistence and staff.

DOCUMENT A/C.5/416

Letter, dated 21 November 1950, from the President of the General Assembly to the Chairman of the Fifth Committee

[Original text : English]
[21 November 1950]

I am informed by the Chairman of the First Committee that his Committee has approved two draft resolutions under the item "Threats to the political independence and territorial integrity of Greece", one relating to the continuation of the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans and the other relating to the repatriation of Greek children, both of which would have financial implications.

Would you kindly bring these two matters to the attention of your Committee in accordance with rule 152 of the rules of procedure.

Rapporteur : Mr. THOR THORS (Iceland).

1. In accordance with the terms of the General Assembly resolutions 109 (II), 193 A(III) and 288 A (IV), the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans, on 31 July 1950, submitted a report (A/1307)⁴⁰ to the General Assembly. On 8 September and 12 October, the Special Committee submitted supplementary reports (A/1423 and Add.1; A/1438 and Corr. 1, A/1438/Add.1). Pursuant to General Assembly resolution 288 B (IV) concerning the repatriation of Greek children, a resolution adopted by the Executive Committee of the League of Red Cross Societies (A/1257) and a report by the Secretary-General (A/1480) were also circulated.

2. The General Assembly, at its 285th plenary meeting held on 26 September 1950, referred the Greek question to the First Committee for consideration and report.

3. The First Committee considered the question at its 346th and 392nd to 398th meetings.

4. The following draft resolutions were submitted :

(a) A draft resolution submitted at the 346th meeting by the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (A/C.1/559) which proposed that the Committee should request the President of the General Assembly to enter into negotiations with the representatives of the Greek Government concerning the repeal of death sentences passed by the military courts in Athens on Greek patriots, including the eleven patriots named in a letter dated 18 September 1950 from their mothers and the eight trade union officials named in a memorandum dated 16 September 1950 from various relatives of those officials (A/C.1/564).

(b) A draft resolution submitted at the 392nd meeting by Greece (A/C.1/620), which (i) recommended the repatriation of all those members of the Greek Armed Forces, captured by the Greek guerrillas and taken into countries north of Greece, who expressed the wish to be repatriated; (ii) called upon the States concerned to take the necessary measures for the speedy implementation of the resolution; and (iii) instructed the Secretary-General to request the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies to ensure liaison with the national Red Cross organizations of the States concerned, with a view to implementing the resolution.

(d) A draft resolution submitted at the 393rd meeting by the Soviet Union (A/C.1/623) which recommended (i) the declaration of a general amnesty in Greece and the abolition of the concentration camps for Greek democrats; (ii) the holding of universal and free parliamentary elections on the basis of proportional representation; (iii) the cessation of military and political intervention in Greek affairs by the United States of America and the United Kingdom; (iv) the establishment of diplomatic relations between Greece and Albania and between Greece and Bulgaria; and (v) the dissolution of the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans.

(e) A draft resolution submitted at the 395th meeting by Australia, Denmark, France and the Netherlands (A/C.1/627), which (i) requested the Secretary-General and the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies to continue their efforts in accordance with the General Assembly resolutions 193 C (III) and 288 B (IV) concerning the repatriation of Greek children; (ii) urged all States harbouring the Greek children to make all the necessary arrangements, in co-operation with the Secretary-General and the international Red Cross organizations, for the early return of the Greek children to their parents and, whenever necessary, to allow the international Red Cross organizations free access to their territories for this purpose; (iii) established a standing committee to act in consultation with the Secretary-General, and to consult with the representatives of the States concerned, with a view to the early repatriation of the children; (iv) requested the International Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies to co-operate with this standing committee; and (v) requested the Secretary-General to report from time to time to Member States on the progress made in the implementation of the resolution, and also requested the international Red Cross organizations and the Secretary-General to submit reports to the sixth session of the General Assembly.

5. At the 398th meeting, the representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics submitted amendments (A/C.1/628) to the four-Power draft resolution mentioned above (A/C.1/627). These amendments (i) deleted the first paragraph of the preamble; (ii) deleted the words " and, whenever necessary, to allow the international Red Cross organizations free access to their territories for this purpose " from the second operative paragraph, and substituted the words " in conformity with the resolutions referred to above "; and (iii) deleted the third and fourth operative paragraphs relating to the establishment of a standing committee.

6. At the same meeting, the representative of Australia proposed, on behalf of the sponsors of the four-Power draft resolution (A/C.1/627), that the standing committee should be composed of the representatives of Peru, the Philippines and Sweden.

7. On the proposal of the representative of Greece, at the 393rd meeting, the Committee decided, by 28 votes to 6, with 16 abstentions, to close the debate on the U.S.S.R. draft resolution (A/C.1/559) concerning death sentences imposed by military courts in Athens.

The first draft resolution proposed by the Soviet Union (A/C.1/559) was rejected by 31 votes to 6, with 12 abstentions.

8. At the 396th meeting, the draft resolution proposed by Greece (A/C.1/620) was approved by 53 votes to 5, with one abstention.

10. Also at the same meeting, the second draft resolution proposed by the Soviet Union (A/C.1/623) was rejected by 51 votes to 5, with 2 abstentions.

11. At the 398th meeting, the Committee voted on the joint draft resolution submitted by Australia, Denmark, France and the Netherlands (A/C.1/627) and the Soviet Union amendments thereto (A/C.1/628), with the following results :

The preamble of the four-Power draft resolution was approved by 52 votes to none, with 5 abstentions.

The first operative paragraph was approved unanimously by 57 votes.

The Soviet Union amendment to the second operative paragraph was rejected by 46 votes to 5, with 7 abstentions.

The four-Power draft resolution as a whole was approved by 53 votes to none, with 5 abstentions.

12. The First Committee recommends to the General Assembly the adoption of the following three resolutions :

THREATS TO THE POLITICAL INDEPENDENCE AND TERRITORIAL INTEGRITY OF GREECE

A

The General Assembly,

Having considered the unanimous conclusions of the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans concerning those members of the Greek armed forces who were captured by the Greek guerrillas and taken into countries north of Greece,

Having noted that, with the sole exception of Yugoslavia, the other States concerned are still detaining these members of the Greek armed forces without justification under commonly accepted international practice,

1. Recommends the repatriation of all those among them who express the wish to be repatriated;

2. Calls upon the States concerned to take the necessary measures for the speedy implementation of the present resolution;

3. Instructs the Secretary-General to request the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies to ensure liaison with the national Red Cross organizations of the States concerned, with a view to implementing the present resolution.

B

The General Assembly,

Having considered the report of the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans and having noted that, although a certain improvement has taken place in the situation on the northern frontiers of Greece, there nevertheless remains a threat to the political independence and territorial integrity of Greece,

1. Approves the report of the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans;

2. Continues the Special Committee in being until the sixth session of the General Assembly, in accordance with the terms of reference and administrative arrangements contained in General Assembly resolutions 109 (II), 193 (III) and 288 (IV), unless meanwhile the Special Committee recommends to the Interim Committee its own dissolution;

3. Authorizes the Interim Committee to act on such recommendation as it thinks proper.

C

The General Assembly,

Noting with grave concern the reports of the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies and of the Secretary-General, and particularly the statement that " not a single Greek child has yet been returned to his native land and, except for Yugoslavia, no country harbouring Greek children has taken definite action to comply with the resolutions unanimously adopted in two successive years by the General Assembly ",

Recognizing that every possible effort should be made to restore the children to their homes, in a humanitarian spirit detached from political or ideological considerations,

Expressing its full appreciation of the efforts made by the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies and by the Secretary-General to implement resolutions 193 C (III) and 288 B (IV) of the General Assembly,

1. Requests the Secretary-General and the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies to continue their efforts in accordance with the aforementioned resolutions;

2. Urges all States harbouring the Greek children, to make all the necessary arrangements, in co-operation with the Secretary-General and the international Red Cross organizations, for the early return of the Greek children to their parents and, whenever necessary, to allow the international Red Cross organizations free access to their territories for this purpose;

3. Establishes a Standing Committee, to be composed of the representatives of Peru, the Philippines and Sweden, to act in consultation with the Secretary-General, and to consult with the representatives of the States concerned, with a view to the early repatriation of the children;

4. Requests the International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies to co-operate with the Standing Committee;

5. Requests the Secretary-General to report from time to time to Member States on the progress made in the implementation of the present resolution, and requests the international Red Cross organizations and the Secretary-General to submit reports to the General Assembly at its sixth session.

Financial implications of the draft resolutions proposed by the First Committee (A/1536, resolution B and C) : twenty-third report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

[Original text : English]
[25 November 1950]

I. UNITED NATIONS SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON THE BALKANS

1. The advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions has considered a report submitted by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/413) on the financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the First Committee (A/1536, resolution B), which provides that the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans shall continue in being until the sixth session of the General Assembly, "in accordance with the terms of reference and administrative arrangements contained in General Assembly resolutions 109 (II), 193 (III) and 288 (IV), unless meanwhile the Special Committee recommends to the Interim Committee its own dissolution".

2. The estimated expenditure for 1951 amounts to $573,600, against an appropriation for the current year of $780,200.

3. Under the item for temporary assistance, provision is made for the replacement of a part of the staff detailed from Headquarters; the direct gross salary costs of the remaining staff members in this category amount to approximately $30,000.

4. The estimate of $107,000 for travel and subsistence of members includes provision for an average of 16 representatives and alternate representatives, although only five members of the Special Committee are still availing themselves of the assistance of alternates. In view of the improvement in the situation referred to in the draft resolution (A/1536, B), the Advisory Committee doubts whether there is a continuing need for alternate representatives, and it recommends that the provision under this head should be limited to a period of three months.

5. The staffing of the Special Committee comprises, in addition to a Principal Secretary, one Deputy Principal Secretary and four professional posts, together with three posts of Administrative Officer, Finance Officer and Press Officer. The Advisory Committee considers that a reduction could be effected without detriment to the work of the Special Committee; in particular, it recommends that the post of Deputy Principal Secretary should not be continued beyond the first three months of 1951. The item of travel and subsistence of staff includes the cost of twelve round trips for replacement of staff. This number appears excessive, and a reduction of 50 per cent is recommended.

6. It appears also to the Advisory Committee that, in view of the terms of draft resolution B, which envisages a decrease in the activities of the Special Committee, the number of observers and auxiliary personnel might be further reduced below the figure of 27. While not submitting a firm recommendation, the Advisory Committee suggests that the matter should be kept under consideration during 1951, with a view to further economy in the budget.

7. On the basis of the recommendations contained in paragraphs 4 and 5 above, the Advisory Committee recommends the following appropriations :

	US dollars
Section 5, chapter I	520,000
Section 25, chapter V (Official Records) ...	5,000

The total recommended for appropriation represents a reduction of $48,600 on the figure submitted ($573,600).

8. The salaries of the internationally recruited staff members of the Special Committee and of the temporary replacement staff at Headquarters are gross, and the offsetting revenue in respect of contributions under the Staff Assessment Plan is estimated at $36,000.

II. REPATRIATION OF GREEK CHILDREN

9. The Advisory Committee has also considered a report by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/414) on the financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the First Committee (A/1536, resolution C) concerning the repatriation of Greek children.

10. The Advisory Committee recommends that the estimate for section 5, chapter IV, should be approved as submitted, at the figure of $50,000.

Financial implications of draft resolutions B and C proposed by the First Committee (A/1536) : report of the Fifth Committee

[Original text : English]
[30 November 1950]

Rapporteur : Mr. B. G. FOURIE (Union of South Africa).

1. In accordance with rule 152 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly and with the request of the President in his letter dated 21 November 1950 (A/C.5/416), the Fifth Committee, at its 270th meeting held on 28 November 1950, considered the effect on the budget estimates for 1951 of the draft resolution adopted by the First Committee (A/1536, resolution B) which provides that the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans shall continue until the sixth session of the General Assembly "in accordance with the terms of reference and administrative arrangements contained in General Assembly resolutions 109 (II), 193 (III) and 288 (IV), unless meanwhile the Special Committee recommends to the Interim Committee its own dissolution".

2. The Committee had before it a report by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/413) giving estimates of the costs of the Special Committee in 1951 and the twenty-third report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (A/1555), which had considered these estimates following reference to it of the Secretary-General's report by the Fifth Committee.

3. The Secretary-General estimated that the expenses of the Special Committee throughout 1951 would amount to a total of $573,600, which expenditure would be partly compensated by assessments to be levied on the salaries of the staff of the mission, estimated at $36,000. The Advisory Committee observed that the estimate for travel and subsistence of members included provision for an average of sixteen representatives and alternate representatives, although only five members of the Special Committee are still availing themselves of the assistance of alternates. In view of the improvement in the situation referred to in the draft resolution of the First Committee, the Advisory Committee expressed doubt whether there was a continuing need for alternate representatives, and accordingly recommended that the budgetary provision under this head should be limited to a period of three months. The Advisory Committee further proposed certain economies in connexion with staffing requirements of the Special Committee and travel and subsistence of staff. On the basis of these recommendations it considered that the estimates as submitted by the Secretary-General should be reduced by $48,600 to a total of $525,000, of which sum $520,000 should be appropriated under chapter I of section 5 of the budget estimates, and $5,000 under chapter V of section 25 (Official Records). The Advisory Committee also observed that, in view of the terms of the First Committee's draft resolution, which envisages a decrease in the activities of the Special Committee, the number of observers and auxiliary personnel might be further reduced below the proposed figure of 27. While not submitting any firm recommendation in this respect, it suggested that the matter should be kept under consideration during 1951 with a view to further economy in the budget.

4. In the course of the Fifth Committee's discussion a number of delegations stated that they attached considerable importance to the observations and suggestions which the Advisory Committee had made and urged that the position, particularly as regards the number of observers and auxiliary personnel required, should be closely watched, it being understood that the final decision with respect to alternates would depend on the members of the Special Committee themselves. For reasons which had been fully stated in the course of discussion of the matter in the First Committee, the representatives of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Czechoslovakia and the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic voiced the objection of their delegations to the appropriation of any funds for the purposes of the draft resolution. The estimates recommended by the Advisory Committee, on being put to the vote, were approved by 27 to 6, with no abstentions.

5. The Fifth Committee therefore decided to inform the General Assembly that adoption of the draft resolution of the First Committee would involve budgetary provision in 1951 in the amount of $525,000.

6. The Fifth Committee also considered the financial implications of the further draft resolution adopted by the First Committee relating to the repatriation of Greek children (A/1536, resolution C). The Committee had before it a report by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/414) and the views thereon of the Advisory Committee as contained in part II of their twenty-third report of 1950 (A/1555). The Secretary-General estimated that the implementation of the draft resolution through the continuing activities of the Red Cross organizations concerned would involve expenditure in 1951 of the same amount as was appropriated for this purpose in 1950, namely $50,000. The Secretary-General suggested that, should this sum prove to be insufficient, additional requirements could be met by advances from the Working Capital Fund as relating to the maintenance of peace and security. The Advisory Committee recommended that the Secretary-General's estimate should be approved as submitted.

7. By a unanimous vote, the Fifth Committee therefore decided to inform the General Assembly that adoption of the draft resolution of the First Committee concerning the repatriation of Greek children would involve budgetary provision in 1951 of approximately $50,000.

Report of the First Committee

[Original text : English]
[29 November 1950]

1. The item "Threats to the political independence and territorial integrity of China and to the peace of the Far East, resulting from Soviet violations of the Sino-Soviet Treaty of Friendship and Alliance of 14 August 1945 and from Soviet violations of the Charter of the United Nations" was first included in the agenda of the fourth session of the General Assembly.

2. At its 273rd plenary meeting held on 8 December 1949, the General Assembly adopted resolution 292 (IV) referring the question to the Interim Committee for continuous examination and study in the light of the Assembly resolution (291 (IV)) on the promotion of the stability of international relations in the Far East.

3. The Interim Committee, at its 45th meeting held on 15 September 1950, decided, on the suggestion of the Chairman, not to debate the question in view of the forthcoming session of the General Assembly, and in view of the scope of the item in the context of the political situation.

4. At its 285th plenary meeting held on 26 September 1950, the fifth session of the General Assembly, on the recommendation of the General Committee, decided to include this item in its agenda, and refer it to the First Committee for consideration and report.

5. The First Committee considered the question at its 400th to 404th meetings inclusive.

6. The following draft resolutions were submitted :

(a) A draft resolution submitted at the 400th meeting by China (A/C.1/631/Rev.1) which, after recalling the previous Assembly resolutions 291 (IV) and 292 (IV), and noting that the Interim Committee, to which the case had been referred by the fourth session of the General Assembly, had not submitted recommendations to the fifth session, provided for the appointment of a United Nations Commission of Inquiry for the purpose of gathering information and facts from the two countries in dispute as well as from other States Members of the United Nations. The Commission was to submit a report on its findings to the next session of the General Assembly;

(b) A draft resolution submitted at the 402nd meeting by Syria (A/C.1/632) which proposed that the General Assembly should instruct the Interim Committee to continue inquiry on this question in order to obtain more information and facts having direct bearing upon the case.

7. At the 403rd meeting the representative of Syria accepted an oral amendment by the representative of Egypt which added that the Interim Committee was to report to the General Assembly at its next regular session.

8. At the same meeting, an amendment was submitted by El Salvador (A/C.1/633) to the revised draft resolution of China (A/C.1/631/Rev.1) which replaced the last three paragraphs of the Chinese draft by a paragraph drawing the attention of States Members to the necessity of complying faithfully with the recommendation contained in General Assembly resolution 291 (IV).

9. At the 404th meeting, the representative of China withdrew his draft resolution (A/C.1/631/Rev.1) in favour of the Syrian draft resolution (A/C.1/632).

10. At the same meeting, the representative of El Salvador, in place of his amendment (A/C.1/633) to the Chinese draft resolution, presented a draft resolution (A/C.1/634) which drew the attention of all States to the necessity of complying faithfully with the recommendation contained in General Assembly resolution 291 (IV) to promote the stability of international relations in the Far East, and which for that purpose, inter alia, recommended scrupulous observance of the treaties in force when that resolution was adopted.

11. At the 404th meeting, the Committee, by 33 votes to 11, with 12 abstentions, adopted a Chilean motion for the closure of the debate.

“ Noting that the Interim Committee, to which the General Assembly, during its fourth session, referred the complaint concerning “ Threats to the political independence and territorial integrity of China and to the peace of the Far East, resulting from Soviet violations of the Sino-Soviet Treaty of Friendship and Alliance of 14 August 1945 and from Soviet violations of the Charter of the United Nations” has not yet submitted recommendations thereon, “ Decides to instruct the Interim Committee to continue inquiry on this question, in order to obtain more information and facts having a direct bearing upon the case if such findings are obtainable, and to report to the General Assembly at its next regular session.

“ The records of the discussion of the First Committee on the case shall be made available to the Interim Committee.”

“ B

“ The General Assembly

“ Decides to draw the attention of all States to the necessity of complying faithfully with the recommendation contained in General Assembly resolution 291 (IV), the object of which is to promote the stability of international relations in the Far East, and which recommends specific principles for that purpose, including, inter alia, the principle of the scrupulous observance of the treaties in force when the resolution was adopted, the purpose of which was to secure the independence and territorial integrity of China.”

[5 October 1950]

In connexion with the consideration of the Korean question,

The General Assembly resolves

To invite representatives of both sides engaged in the conflict in Korea to participate in the discussion of this question at the meetings of the General Assembly, i.e., representatives of both North and South Korea.

Australia, Brazil, Cuba, Netherlands, Norway, Pakistan, Philippines, United Kingdom : joint draft resolution

[Original text : English]
[29 September 1950]

The General Assembly,

Having regard to its resolutions of 14 November 1947, of 12 December 1948 and of 21 October 1949,

Having received and considered the report of the United Nations Commission on Korea,

Mindful of the fact that the objectives set forth in the resolutions referred to have not been fully accomplished and, in particular, that the unification of Korea has not yet been achieved, and that an attempt has been made by an armed attack from North Korea to extinguish by force the Government of the Republic of Korea,

Recalling the General Assembly declaration of 12 December 1948 that there has been established a lawful government (the Government of the Republic of Korea)

having effective control and jurisdiction over that part of Korea where the United Nations Temporary Commission on Korea was able to observe and consult and in which the great majority of the people of Korea reside; that this government is based on elections which were a valid expression of the free will of the electorate of that part of Korea and which were observed by the Temporary Commission; and that this is the only such government in Korea,

Having in mind that United Nations armed forces are at present operating in Korea in accordance with the recommendations of the Security Council of 27 June 1950, subsequent to its resolution of 25 June 1950, that Members of the United Nations furnish such assistance to the Republic of Korea as may be necessary to repel the armed attack and to restore international peace and security in the area,

Recalling that the essential objective of the resolutions of the General Assembly referred to above was the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic Government of Korea,

Recommends that

(a) All appropriate steps be taken to ensure conditions of stability throughout Korea;

(b) All constituent acts be taken, including the holding of elections, under the auspices of the United Nations, for the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic government in the sovereign State of Korea;

(c) United Nations forces should not remain in any part of Korea otherwise than so far as necessary for achieving the objectives specified in sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) above;

(d) All necessary measures be taken to accomplish the economic rehabilitation of Korea;

Resolves that

(a) A Commission consisting of..., to be known as the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea, be established to (i) assume the functions hitherto exercised by the present United Nations Commission on Korea; (ii) represent the United Nations in bringing about the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic Government of all Korea; (iii) exercise such responsibilities in connexion with relief and rehabilitation in Korea as may be determined by the General Assembly after receiving the recommendations of the Economic and Social Council. The United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea should proceed to Korea and begin to carry out its functions as soon as possible;

(b) Pending the arrival in Korea of the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea, the governments of the States represented on the Commission should form an Interim Committee composed of representatives meeting at the seat of the United Nations to consult with and advise the United Nations Unified Command in the light of the above recommendations; the Interim Committee should begin to function immediately upon the approval of the present resolution by the General Assembly;

The General Assembly furthermore,

Mindful of the fact that at the end of the present hostilities the task of rehabilitating the Korean economy will be of great magnitude,

Requests the Economic and Social Council, in consultation with the specialized agencies, to develop plans for relief and rehabilitation on the termination of hostilities and to report to the General Assembly on or before October...

The attached Russian translation of this cablegram was published in the Moscow Press on 30 September 1950.

CABLEGRAM DATED 28 SEPTEMBER 1950 FROM THE MINISTER OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS OF THE PEOPLE'S DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC OF KOREA TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED NATIONS GENERAL ASSEMBLY AND TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE SECURITY COUNCIL

Pyongyang, 28 September 1950

1. The American intervention in Korea organized under the flag of the United Nations, with the participation of a number of other States which have sent their armed forces to Korea under pressure from the United States, has now been continuing for three months. Throughout this period the blood of the Korean people has flowed in torrents, peaceful Korean towns and villages have been devastated, and the national wealth created by the labour of the Korean people has been destroyed. The United States is wholly responsible for the countless miseries and sufferings brought upon our people by the American intervention and by the war instigated in Korea by the American imperialists and their Syngman Rhee agents.

2. Through its official representatives in Korea the United States Government inspired and directed the Syngman Rhee clique to bring about internecine war in Korea, giving it political, military and economic support and directing the establishment and training of the Syngman Rhee army and the preparation of plans for attacking North Korea. The puppet régime of Syngman Rhee was set up and utilized by the American imperialists with the aim of enslaving Korea and converting it into a base for American aggression in the Far East. The Syngman Rhee Government slavishly carried out the instructions of its American masters and devoted all its efforts to the task of preparing for an armed attack upon North Korea, which it started on 25 June 1950.

3. To justify their aggression against the Korean people the American interventionists are now endeavouring to throw the blame for the outbreak of war in Korea upon the Government of the Korean People's Democratic Republic, asserting that the events of 25 June 1950 constituted an unprovoked attack by the North Koreans upon South Korea. This story was dictated by the United States representatives to the United Nations Commission on Korea and, on the report of that body, was also accepted by the majority in the Security Council, which, in its fear that the lie would be exposed and the truth established, did not permit representatives of the Korean People's Democratic Republic to take part in the discussion on the Korean question.

4. However, the facts and documentary evidence completely unmask those who are really to blame for the war—the American imperialists and their Syngman Rhee agents. In particular, documents from the secret files of the Syngman Rhee Government which were captured when Seoul was liberated by the People's Army provide irrefutable evidence that the plans for the attack upon North Korea were conceived long before by the Syngman Rhee group and concerted with the United States Government and even with highly-placed United Nations officials. In a letter dated 10 April 1949 to Chough Pyung Ok, his personal representative in the United States, Syngman Rhee issued the following instructions: "You should discuss this situation frankly, in strict confidence, with highly-placed United Nations and United States officials. You should inform them in strict confidence of our plans for the unification of North and South Korea. We are substantially ready for this unification at the present time in all respects but one: we are short of arms and ammunition... We must have sufficient armed forces to advance to the North, join up with the army in North Korea which is devoted to us, move the iron curtain back from the 38th parallel to the river Yalu and there guard the frontier against foreign infiltration."

5. According to Kim Il Shik, the former Minister of Internal Affairs, and other Syngman Rhee leaders who were captured by the People's Army, the attack upon North Korea was scheduled for July—August 1949.

However, the failure of the Syngman Rhee forces in the incidents they provoked on the 38th parallel, the fact that a number of Syngman Rhee army units went over to the side of North Korea, and, most of all, the increased activity of the people's partisan movement against the puppet Syngman Rhee régime in the South, forced the American military leaders to revise their plans and temporarily to postpone the Syngman Rhee attack upon North Korea so as to allow a more thorough organization of the rear and the army.

6. The Syngman Rhee clique, however, was impatient. On 30 September 1949, Syngman Rhee wrote to Dr. Robert Oliver hurrying up his American friends: "I am firmly convinced that now is the psychological moment to take aggressive action and to join up with the units of the Communist army in the North which are loyal to us, so as to destroy the remaining units in Pyong-yang. We shall drive Kim Ir Sen's men into the mountains and starve them out there. Our defence line must be set up on the Tuming and Yalu rivers. Our position will then be 100 per cent better... we will all work peacefully—you in Washington and New York together with our two Ambassadors and other friends, and we here in Seoul and Tokyo, striving for one goal—that we be permitted to cleanse our country and put our affairs in order. To quote an old expression once used by Churchill, 'Give us the tools and we will finish the job'. You must convince American statesmen and American public opinion, so that they may tacitly consent to our starting operations and carrying out our programme, and also give us the necessary material support. The longer we wait, the more difficult it will be for us to do this."

7. With reference to this letter, Ambassador Chough Pyung Ok wrote to Syngman Rhee on 12 October 1949 as follows: "I have read your letter to Dr. Oliver on the question of unification, or more accurately, on the liquidation of the puppet régime of North Korea, with close attention and interest. In the present circumstances the proposals you make in your letter are the sole logical means, indeed the cardinal method, of achieving the unification which we desire. I am inclined to believe, however, that the time is not yet ripe for the realization of this programme. In the first place, I doubt whether we are adequately prepared; and world public opinion will not approve acts of this kind... I have discussed this matter with Ambassador Chang and Dr. Oliver, and we have come to the unanimous conclusion that this should be regarded as the fundamental plan of our Government, to be put into effect when we are ready and when the right moment has come."

8. In a letter of 3 November 1949 to Syngman Rhee, Chough Pyung Ok returns to the subject of Syngman Rhee's letter to Oliver, and writes as follows: "I am absolutely convinced that Korea can be unified only by utilizing the sove...¹ power of our Government. Any policy of compromise or conferences is out of the question... The cold war cannot continue indefinitely. All these world problems are insoluble without a third world war. Our unification plan must be adapted to the development of the international situation as a whole. Meanwhile, the most important task of the Government is to increase our military and economic preparedness."

9. At a Press conference held on 30 December 1949, Syngman Rhee made the following plain statement: "In the new year we shall all strive as one man to regain the lost territory. Up to now, in view of the international situation, we have pursued a peaceful policy corresponding to the peaceful policy of the United States and the United Nations. We must remember, however, that in the new year, in accordance with the changed international situation, it is our duty to unify South and North Korea by our own strength."

10. The invasion of North Korea was thus already decided in 1949, and the preparations for the campaign against the North were regarded as the primary task of the South Korean "government". All that remained open was the date for the attack.

11. American officials and military experts in Korea bent all their efforts towards hastening the preparations for war. In order to secure the rear, the state of which caused the Americans and the followers of Syngman Rhee great anxiety, repressive measures of unprecedented cruelty were taken against the democratic movement and its members. These measures were put into effect under the direct orders of American representatives. Towards the end of July 1949, for example, Mr. Muccio, Ambassador of the United States, summoned General Roberts and General Page and the ministers Sihm Sung Mo, Kwon Chin Il and Kim Il Shik and issued the following instructions: "During the months of July and August large-scale preparations are to be made for the campaign against the North. Consistent measures must be taken to prevent internal disorders; mass arrests of antigovernment elements and members of the South Korean Labour Party must be made and strict observance of the State Security Law ensured. I am confident that you will do everything necessary to carry out these arrests."

12. Many thousands of South Koreans whose only "crime" was that they had expressed disapproval of the terrorist Syngman Rhee régime and desired the peaceful unification of their country were thrown into prison, tortured and shot. Particular attention was devoted to the suppression of the partisan movement, the South Korean people's reply to the cruel oppression of the Syngman Rhee Government. According to a statement by Kim Il Shik, General Roberts, the head of the United States Military Mission, personally elaborated the plan and directed operations for the suppression of the National Partisan Movement. Under his orders, in the areas where the partisans operated, 450,000 homesteads belonging to peaceful inhabitants suspected of giving aid to the partisans, or simply of complicity with them, were burnt down and laid waste. As a result of these draconic measures hundreds of thousands of people were left homeless and without means of subsistence. Masses of innocent people were brutally exterminated by the henchmen of Syngman Rhee with the sole purpose of terrorizing the people and suppressing their will to fight for freedom. The Americans and the followers of Syng-man Rhee made efforts to dispose of the partisans at all costs by February or March 1950, in order to free their hands for the invasion of North Korea.

13. In conformity with the plan for the invasion of the North, the training of the South Korean Army was accelerated, airfields were built and the South Korean ports placed on a war footing in order to enable the United States air, naval and land forces to launch military operations on Korean territory at any moment. The training of the South Korean Army was directed by the United States Military Mission in Seoul.

14. The Syngman Rhee Government readily offered the South Korean ports for use as American naval bases, and the former Japanese naval base at Chinghae was secretly transformed into the principal American naval base. After the visit by American warships to South Korea, Bon Il Sung, chief of the naval staff of South Korea, wrote on 18 July 1949 to Admiral Radford, the Commander of the United States Pacific Fleet, as follows: "We shall be happy to offer certain of our ports, including Inchon, Pusan, Yosu, Mogpho and the naval base of Chinghae, for use as temporary bases by any unit belonging to a fleet under your command".

15. In addition, great efforts were made to increase the political reliability of the army, particularly after the desertion to the North in 1949 of certain units of the Syngman Rhee forces. A ruthless purge of the army was carried out. American advisers attended in person executions of soldiers and officers suspected of unreliability. Mr. Muccio, the United States Ambassador in Seoul, urged Syngman Rhee's ministers not to hesitate before the most barbarous measures. "From the humanitarian standpoint some people may say that this is wrong," he said in January 1949, "but for the achievement of our ends these acts are fully admissible."

16. In order to create an atmosphere of tension, prepare public opinion for the aggression which was under way, and give the armed forces of the Syngman Rhee Government tactical training, a large number of incidents were provoked along the 38th parallel. In the meantime the South Korean authorities, the American officials and the United Nations Commission proclaimed to all the world that these incidents were due to attacks by the North Koreans against the South.

17. In repeated statements made during 1949 and the first half of 1950, the Government of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea revealed the true intention which lay behind these provocative attacks, the object of which was to unleash internecine war. Copies of these statements by the Government of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea were sent at the time to the Secretary-General of the United Nations with the request to bring them to the knowledge of all the Members of the United Nations. Documents seized by the National Army in Seoul fully confirm the accuracy of the statements made by the Government of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea. Thus General Roberts, the head of the United States Military Mission at Seoul, admitted at a meeting of divisional commanders of the Syngman Rhee army on 2 August 1949 that all the incidents along the 38th parallel had been provoked by the South Korean forces. "My colleague and I," he said, "are fully convinced that all the attacks on South Korea are reprisals, and that almost every incident has been provoked by the South Korean security forces". At a meeting of divisional commanders on the army staff held in October 1949, Roberts said: "Attacks on territory north of the 38th parallel have been and will continue to be carried out on my orders. However, many military units launch arbitrary attacks against the North, squander masses of shells and obtain no results in spite of heavy losses. Attacks on the territory north of the 38th parallel may be carried out by the 'National Defence Army' only on the orders of the United States Military Experts' Mission".

18. In a letter dated 6 April 1949 to Syngman Rhee, Chang Myun, Syngman Rhee's Ambassador to the United States, wrote: "General Wedemeyer has made the personal and confidential recommendation that we send well-trained, reliable and competent young people into North Korea with the object of sowing distrust towards the Communist system and the national government and preparing the way for the Republic".

19. The plan of espionage and sabotage seized in the archives of the Syngman Rhee Government provided for the organization of sabotage on the railways, in industry and in public institutions. The plan provided for the destruction of bridges and the organization of railway accidents, the destruction of factories, power stations and warehouses, the burning of buildings and public institutions, the issue of counterfeit currency, and the infection of rivers and reservoirs with bacteria. The plan also provided for the assassination of political and social leaders in the People's Democratic Republic of Korea and of workers in the People's Army. Korea played an important part in the aggressive plans of American foreign policy in the Far East. American imperialism was striving to convert Korea into its colony and a military and strategic strongpoint in the Far East. The collapse of the plans of American imperialism in China increased the value of the Korean strongpoint in the eyes of the Government of the United States of America. On the other hand, Korea was regarded as the most convenient place for developing a programme of aggression aimed at restoring the injured prestige of the United States of America in the Far East as a whole. In No. 48-49, dated 28 January 1949, of the secret bulletin of the State Department's intelligence section, it was pointed out that the United States of America was attempting by the establishment of a stable and friendly government in Korea to secure the partial stabilization of the situation in the Far East, and by its successes in Korea to compensate for its diplomatic defeats in other parts of Asia.

20. The United States promised Syngman Rhee full military support in a campaign against the North. Kim Dong Shik has testified that when Mr. Sebald, General MacArthur's chief adviser, visited Seoul in January 1950 he assured Syngman Rhee that when the campaign against the North began the American fleet and aircraft based on Japan would fight on the side of the South Korean Government. In February 1950 Syngman Rhee, accompanied by the Chief of Staff of the South Korean army, went to Tokyo, where an agreement was reached with General MacArthur for intensifying the preparations for an attack on the North. According to a statement by Moon Hak Won, Syngman Rhee's political adviser, General MacArthur gave Syngman Rhee concrete instructions on preparatory measures, remarking that control of the military operations of Syngman Rhee's army must be transferred to himself (General MacArthur).

21. By May 1950 it was the opinion of American specialists that the preparations of the Syngman Rhee army for the attack on North Korea were complete. The military operations against North Korea were fully planned and recorded on a strategical map which fell into the hands of the People's Army when Seoul was liberated. A cinematograph film discovered in the secret archives of the Syngman Rhee Government proves that Mr. Dulles was acquainted with this strategical map at the time of his visit to South Korea.

22. On 9 May, Mr. Johnson, chief of the Korean section of the Economic Co-operation Administration of the United States of America, stated in the Appropriation Committee of the House of Representatives of the American Congress that the hundred-thousand-strong army of South Korea, provided with American equipment and trained by an American military mission, had completed its preparations and could begin war at any moment. At precisely the same time Syngman Rhee twice stated in the Press that May and June would be the most critical months in the history of Korea. It is no coincidence that also at that same time a visit was paid to the Far East by Mr. Johnson, War Minister of the United States of America, General Bradley, Chief of the General Staff of the American army, and Mr. Dulles, State Department adviser, all of whom had secret consultations with General MacArthur.

23. Mr. Dulles made a special visit to South Korea. Syngman Rhee was assured by Ambassador Chang Myun in a letter of 14 June 1950 that before departing for Korea Mr. Dulles had assured him that the United States would not abandon Korea and would render assistance. When touring the area of the 38th parallel during his visit to South Korea, Mr. Dulles made provocative speeches to the Syngman Rhee troops praising their military prowess and urging them to increase their military preparedness. "Not even a strong opponent will be able to resist you," he declared to the Syngman Rhee soldiers. "You will not have to wait long for the time when you will be able to display your strength."

24. In his speech in the South Korean National Assembly on 19 June, Mr. Dulles, giving his blessing to the Syngman Rhee forces and urging them on to military adventure, said that the United States was prepared to give all the necessary moral and material support to a South Korea fighting against Communism. In his farewell letter to Syngman Rhee, dated 20 June 1950, Mr. Dulles stressed the part assigned to Korea in the forthcoming events. He wrote: "I attach great importance to the decisive part which may be played by your country in the great drama that is now unfolding ”.

25. As Syngman Rhee pointed out in his letter to Ambassador Chang Myun of 18 June 1950, Mr. Dulles fully agreed with Syngman Rhee's whole policy. As Kim Il Shik writes, Dulles declared to Syngman Rhee and Sihn Sung Mo that although the situation in the country after the attack on the North would be unpleasant, it would be necessary to hold out for at least one week during which the United States of America would force the United Nations to act, and that land, sea and air forces would be mobilized in the name of the United Nations. A special place was assigned to the United Nations in the piratical plan of attack on North Korea.

26. The American imperialists and the supporters of Syngman Rhee were counting on being able to cloak with the authority of the Security Council any aggressive action they might take in Korea. It has been fully established that the United Nations Commission, acting as a screen and instrument of the aggressive U.S.A. policy in Korea, based its reports on material prepared by the American Embassy and the American intelligence organs in Korea. The Commission faithfully followed the instructions of the American representatives and unceremoniously falsified the facts in the interests of the United States of America.

27. According to a statement by Kim Il Shik, former Minister of Internal Affairs of the Syngman Rhee government, General Roberts, instructing the Syngman Rhee ministers in January 1950, informed them as follows : “ The plan of campaign against the North has been decided upon. There is not much time left now before a beginning must be made with putting it into effect. Even though we shall begin the attack, we must nevertheless find a pretext providing some justification. The report of the United Nations Commission is of paramount importance in this connexion. The United Nations Commission will naturally submit a report favourable to the United States of America. But you all know that you also must at the same time win the sympathy of the United Nations Commission and give your attention to this matter ”.

28. The available documents reveal the ugly part played by certain leading figures in the United Nations in preparing the internecine war in Korea. Mention has already been made of the fact that the plan of armed attack on the North was discussed in strict secrecy by the American and Syngman Rhee representatives with leading representatives of the United Nations, who were thus fully acquainted with those aggressive plans. The membership and secretariat of the last United Nations Commission in Korea were selected in such a way as that the Commission should not only be a fully reliable screen but should actually collaborate in carrying out the plans of armed attack on North Korea.

29. In a letter to Syngman Rhee of 3 November 1949, Chough Pyung Ok reported with satisfaction that, under the pressure of the United States delegation and State Department, the President of the General Assembly and the Secretary-General of the United Nations had begun to give adequate attention to the selection of appropriate members for the Commission. He remarked that Syria, which had previously caused some unpleasantness in the Commission, would be replaced by Turkey, and that Mr. Trygve Lie, the Secretary-General, had appealed to the Governments members of the Commission to appoint persons with strong convictions as their representatives on the Commission. Chough Pyung Ok further reported that Mr. Trygve Lie and his assistant Mr. Cordier (an American) had assured him that five former members of the Commission's Secretariat who were undesirable to the Syngman Rhee Government would be replaced and that a completely “ new and sound ” Secretariat would be created.

30. In preparing the attack on the North, the Syngman Rhee clique and its American masters were counting on an easy victory. In the letter to Ambassador Chough Pyung Ok, already mentioned, Syngman Rhee confidently asserted that the military operations against North Korea would not present any difficulty. This confidence in an easy victory was repeatedly expressed in public by Syngman Rhee and other representatives of the South Korean Government.

31. The Government of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea, which had long been aware of the aggressive plans of the Syngman Rhee clique against the people, strove to avoid an internecine war and took all the steps within its power to secure a peaceful unification of the country. The majority of the Korean people rallied to the programme for the peaceful unification of Korea put forward by the single Democratic Fatherland Front as early as June 1949. This programme was fully supported by the Government of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea. The proposal for peaceful unification of the country was again put forward by the single Democratic Fatherland Front at the beginning of June 1950. In June 1950 the Presidium of the Supreme National Assembly of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea, taking into account the desire of the Korean people for a peaceful unification of the country and the desires of the democratic parties and public organizations, made a proposal for the peaceful unification of the country by means of the amalgamation of the Supreme National Assembly of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea and the “ National Assembly ” of South Korea.

32. What has been said makes it perfectly clear why the Syngman Rhee clique, whose basic plan was armed attack on the North, consistently opposed these suggestions for the peaceful unification of the country. As early as May 1950, the Government of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea received reliable information that the Syngman Rhee clique had determined to commence the attack on North Korea in the middle of June 1950. This permitted the Government of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea to take timely steps to beat off the attack of the Syngman Rhee forces. In calculating on an easy victory, the Syngman Rhee clique and its American masters made a serious mistake.

33. In retaliating against the attack of the Syngman Rhee armies, the People's army inflicted a decisive defeat on them. Foreseeing the rapid and complete defeat of their satellites in Korea, the American imperialists commenced open armed intervention against the Korean people, thus confronting the United Nations with a fait accompli. The American Government's attempt to disguise its intervention in Korea by a Security Council resolution is obviously ill-founded. That resolution was adopted after President Truman had proclaimed the beginning of intervention and after American forces had attacked Korea. It was adopted in contravention of the fundamental principles and provisions of the United Nations Charter and cannot, therefore, be regarded as legally valid.

34. Contrary to the requirement of the United Nations Charter on the unanimity of the permanent members of the Security Council, the resolution was adopted in the absence of two permanent members, the Soviet Union and China. The pro-American majority in the Security Council based its resolution on unilateral fabricated information from execrable traitors to the Korean people and from the United Nations Commission. The representatives of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea were not allowed to participate in the discussion of the Korean question in the Security Council. That resolution, sanctioning American aggression in Korea ex post facto, constitutes a flagrant violation of the United Nations Charter in yet another respect, since it provides for armed interference in the internal affairs of Korea, whereas the United Nations Charter explicitly prohibits United Nations interference in the internal affairs of any State. Internal conflicts do not fall within the competence of the Security Council, and every people is fully entitled to settle its own affairs as it wishes.

35. American armed intervention aroused in the Korean people righteous hatred of the American aggressors. United around the Government of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea, the Korean people rose as one man to fight against the aggressors for the freedom and independence of their country. When the American aggressors met with strong resistance from the national armies and the Korean people as a whole, in revenge for the defeats which they had suffered at the front they resorted to barbarous and criminal methods of conducting war, unashamedly disregarding the existing rules of international law and human ethics.

36. The Government of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea, in its statements of 5 August and 7 September of this year, informed the Security Council of these numerous instances of atrocities perpetrated by the American aggressors in Korea. Nevertheless, the pro-American majority in the Security Council ignored the protest of the Government of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea and prevented the adoption of measures for the cessation of those atrocities.

37. The American air force continues to make savage raids on undefended Korean towns and villages; it destroys dwelling houses, thus depriving the population of shelter and property, destroys schools, theatres and other cultural establishments, and annihilates the civilian population, including old men, women and children, with unprecedented cruelty. There have been cases of deliberate bombardment of infirmaries, hospitals and hospital trains clearly marked with various Red Cross insignia. As a result of American air force raids, the towns of Chinnampo, Chongjin, Wonsan, Taejon, Kunsan, Iri, Namwon, Chinju, Wonju, Pyongtaek, Angson, Uijongbu, Chumunjin, Donduchen and many others have been almost completely destroyed. All the villages and small towns in South Korea, and certain places in North Korea situated near main roads, have been razed to the ground. The number of casualties among the civilian population of North and South Korea is stupendous.

38. The American Command, which is determined to destroy Korean economy and to reduce the Korean people to destitution, is directing its air force against industrial centres and destroying enterprises which have no connexion with war industries. As a result of American air force raids the largest fertilizer factory in Korea, at Hungnam, the metallurgical works at Hwanghae, the textile factories at Pyongyang, Sinan and Wonsan, the soya and oil factories at Chinnampo, Wonsan, Pyongyang and Chongjin, the non-ferrous metal works at Chinnampo and many other enterprises have been absolutely destroyed. All the large-scale industrial enterprises and most of the medium-sized and small enterprises in Korea have been absolutely destroyed by the American air force.

39. The American aggressors do not hesitate to commit the most monstrous atrocities in their war against the Korean people. They are trying, unsuccessfully, to break by their cruelty the Korean people's determination to resist, and to stifle that people's aspirations towards freedom and independence.

40. On behalf of the Korean people, the Government of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea protests once again against the armed intervention in Korea and appeals to the United Nations to condemn the atrocities of American armed forces in Korea and to take steps towards the immediate cessation of foreign intervention and the withdrawal of the aggressors' troops from Korea.

41. I ask you to communicate the contents of this statement from the Government of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea to all the Members of the United Nations and to inform me of any measures that may be taken with regard to this question. I am also sending you by air mail photostat copies of documents to which reference is made in this statement.

[2 October 1950]

Taking into consideration that the legitimate aspirations of the Korean people for the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic Korean State have not yet been fulfilled;

Bearing in mind that the principal task of the United Nations Organization is to bring about by peaceful means, and in accordance with the principles of international law and justice, the settlement of disputes which might lead to a breach of universal peace;

Pursuing the aim of settling peacefully the problem of Korea and re-establishing peace and security in the Far East;

The General Assembly recommends :

1. To the belligerents in Korea that they immediately cease hostilities;

2. To the Governments of the United States and the Governments of other States that they immediately withdraw their troops from Korea and thereby establish conditions which would secure for the Korean people the possibility of enjoying the inalienable sovereign right to settle freely the internal affairs of their State;

3. That after the withdrawal of foreign troops and for the purpose of establishing a Government of a unified and independent Korean State, all-Korean elections to a National Assembly be held as soon as possible on the basis of the free expression of the will of the population of all Korea;

4. A joint (parity) commission composed of the representatives of North and South Korea shall be elected at a joint assembly of the deputies of the Supreme People's Assembly of the People's Democratic Republic of Korea and of the National Assembly of South Korea to organize and conduct free all-Korean elections to the National Assembly of all Korea; the joint assembly shall also elect an interim all-Korean committee to carry out the functions of governing the country and to operate pending the election of the all-Korean National Assembly and the establishment of a permanent all-Korean Government;

5. That a United Nations Committee, with the indispensable participation in it of the representatives of States bordering on Korea, be established to observe the holding of free all-Korean elections to the National Assembly;

6. That for the purpose of rehabilitating Korean national economy which has suffered from the war the Economic and Social Council immediately draw up, with the participation of the representatives of Korea, plans for providing the necessary economic and technical aid to the Korean people through the United Nations Organization;

7. That after the establishment of the all-Korean Government the Security Council consider the question of admitting Korea to membership of the United Nations Organization.

Financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the First Committee (A/1422) : report by the Secretary-General

[Original text : English]
[5 October 1950]

1. At its 353rd meeting held on 4 October 1950, the First Committee recommended that the General Assembly approve a resolution concerning the problem of the independence of Korea which calls for the establishment of a United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea; for the holding of elections under the auspices of the United Nations for the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic government of the sovereign State of Korea; and for the development by the Economic and Social Council of relief and rehabilitation plans.

2. The following preliminary estimates of the budgetary consequences of these proposals are submitted to the Fifth Committee for its use in accordance with rule 152 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly.

I. United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea

3. It is estimated that the establishment of a commission as proposed in the draft resolution would entail the expenses listed below; the assumption being that staff comparable in number and grade to that now provided for the existing Commission would be made available.

	US dollars
Temporary assistance.....	105,250
Travel and subsistence of members.....	117,200
Travel and subsistence of staff.....	132,850
Communications.....	7,000
Rental and maintenance of premises.....	10,800
Stationery and office supplies.....	2,000
Contractual printing.....	30,000
Local transportation (including operation of a United Nations plane).....	32,000
Freight, cartage and express.....	10,000
Insurance.....	2,000
Miscellaneous expenses.....	15,000
Miscellaneous equipment.....	5,000
TOTAL	469,100

4. Under temporary assistance, provision is made for nine persons internationally recruited to serve the commission ($55,050), thirteen local recruits at an established cost of $800 per month ($10,200) and ten persons to be temporarily employed at Headquarters in replacement of staff assigned to the mission ($40,000).

5. Under travel and subsistence of members, provision is made for round-trip costs ($25,200) and daily subsistence allowance of $20 for each of seven members and seven alternates serving the commission, less a deduction of 10 per cent for periods of absence from the mission area ($92,000).

6. The $132,850 estimated under travel and subsistence of staff will cover :

(a) Twenty-eight round-trip costs for internationally recruited and Headquarters staff assigned to the mission ($50,400);

(b) Subsistence allowance for thirteen staff members at $7 per day, fourteen staff members at $10 per day and one staff member at $20 per day, less 10 per cent deduction for periods of absence from the mission area ($82,450).

7. Under contractual printing and the other items, the estimates are based on experience of the 1950 Commission.

II. Holding of elections under the auspices of the United Nations

8. In the absence of knowledge as to the methods of holding elections in Korea, it is very difficult to establish even an approximate estimate of the costs which would fall upon the United Nations budget under this heading.

9. On the assumption that preparations for the elections, as well as the holding of the elections, were to be the responsibility of the authorities locally and that the only responsibility of the United Nations would be to supervise the elections, the expenses to be borne by the United Nations would relate mainly to travel and subsistence of observers for a period of two months.

10. On this basis, the cost per observer would amount to $2,400. While no figure can be estimated at this time as to the number of observers, it is conceivable that several hundred might be required.

III. Development of relief and rehabilitation plans

11. No estimate can be presented until the Economic and Social Council has made its recommendations. However, these expenses presumably would be met outside the regular budget of the United Nations.

DOCUMENT A/1424

Financial implications of the draft resolution proposed by the First Committee (A/1422) : report of the Fifth Committee

Rapporteur : M. B. G. FOURIE (Union of South Africa)

[Original text : English]
[5 October 1950]

1. In accordance with rule 152 of the rules of procedure of the General Assembly and with the request of the President in a letter dated 4 October 1950, addressed to the Chairman of the Fifth Committee, the Committee, at its 242nd meeting held on 5 October 1950, considered the effect on the budget estimates of the United Nations of the draft resolution adopted on 4 October 1950 by the First Committee concerning the problem of the independence of Korea.

2. The Fifth Committee had before it a report of the Secretary-General (A/C.5/373) giving preliminary estimates of the costs involved in the establishment of a Commission as proposed in the draft resolution of the First Committee, together with observations on the possible budgetary consequences of the First Committee's proposals concerning the holding of elections under the auspices of the United Nations for the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic government in the sovereign State of Korea and concerning the development by the Economic and Social Council of relief and rehabilitation plans. In view of the urgency with which the Fifth Committee was requested to consider this matter, it was agreed to submit an immediate report to the General Assembly without prior examination by the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions of the estimates as presented by the Secretary-General. It was further agreed that this procedure would not constitute a precedent and that the estimates would later be reviewed in detail by the Advisory Committee before the Fifth Committee was requested to recommend an actual appropriation of the funds required.

3. The Secretary-General estimated that the establishment of the proposed Commission would involve expenditure over a twelve-month period totalling approximately $469,100. The Committee was informed that this estimate was based on the assumption that staff comparable in number and grade to that now provided for the existing Commission would be made available. In the absence of knowledge as to the arrangements under which the elections will be held it was considered impossible to establish even an approximate estimate of the costs which would fall on the United Nations budget in this connexion. The Committee noted the opinion of the Secretary-General that such costs would in all probability relate mainly to travel and subsistence of observers for a period of two months on the assumption that preparations for the elections, as well as the holding of the elections, will be the responsibility of the authorities locally and that the responsibility of the United Nations will be limited to that of supervision. On this basis, it is believed that the cost per observer will amount to approximately $2,400 and that several hundred observers may conceivably be required. As regards development of relief and rehabilitation plans, the Committee is unable to present an estimate until the Economic and Social Council has made its recommendations. The Committee assumes, however, that expenditure under this heading will be met outside the regular budget of the United Nations.

4. For reasons which had been fully stated in the course of the discussion in the First Committee, the representatives of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, Czechoslovakia, the Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic and Poland requested that the opposition of their delegations to the appropriation of any funds for the purposes of the draft resolution should be formally recorded. On being put to the vote, the estimates as submitted by the Secretary-General were approved by 40 votes to 5, with 1 abstention.

5. The Fifth Committee therefore decided to recommend to the General Assembly that note should be taken of the following financial implications of the draft resoluution proposed by the First Committee concerning the problem of the independence of Korea :

(a) That the establishment of a Commission as proposed in the draft resolution would involve expenditure over a period of twelve months of approximately $469,100;

(b) That this estimate is exclusive of the additional costs which would fall on the budget of the United Nations in connexion with the holding of elections under United Nations auspices;

(c) That this estimate is exclusive also of expenses which may be incurred in connexion with the development of relief and rehabilitation plans, which expenses it is assumed would be met outside the regular budget of the United Nations.

Plans for the relief and rehabilitation of Korea : eighteenth report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

[Original text : English]
[17 November 1950]

1. At its 53rd meeting on 13 November 1950, the Joint Second and Third Committee decided that, before voting on the draft resolution submitted to the General Assembly by the Economic and Social Council on the subject of plans for the relief and rehabilitation of Korea (A/1493),² it should request the advice of the Fifth Committee concerning the financial arrangements for the programme as a whole, including the provisions of paragraph 7 of the operative part of the draft resolution.

2. In accordance with a decision taken by the Fifth Committee at its 264th meeting on 14 November 1950, the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions has considered the above matter.

3. In addition to the text of the draft resolution, the Advisory Committee had before it the records of the relevant discussions in the Joint Committee (A/C.2&3/SR.52 and 53) and in the Economic and Social Council (E/SR.399-411, 416-433), together with a report by the Temporary Committee on the Formulation of a Provisional Programme for the Relief and Rehabilitation of Korea (E/1864).³

4. The present report is limited to the comments and recommendations which are submitted below on the specific questions referred by the Fifth Committee to the Advisory Committee, and observations are therefore not offered on the estimated cost of the programme (A/1493, annex) or on the detailed administrative arrangements proposed for its implementation.

5. The Advisory Committee takes note that, under paragraph 4 (e) (4) of the operative part of the draft resolution, the Agent General is directed to arrange, in consultation with the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions, for an audit of the accounts of the Agency under procedures similar to those applicable to the audit of the accounts of the United Nations. The Committee assumes that the scope of such an audit would include methods of verification and inspection normally applied to operations of a similar character, and it proposes to give further consideration to this point when it examines the financial regulations for the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency (paragraph 4 (e) (3) of the draft resolution).

6. Paragraph 7 of the draft resolution provides that the Agent General shall be authorized "to use contributions in kind or services at his discretion." The Advisory Committee construes this provision as applying solely to such contributions (in kind or services) as are proffered to, and accepted by, the Agent General, in conformity with regulation 7.2 of the Financial Regulations of the United Nations.

7. The Advisory Committee further presumes that contributions from specialized agencies, non-member States and other sources will be considered as an offset against the total programme.

8. Pending the receipt of contributions to the programme, it would be necessary, during the last part of 1950 and the first two or three months of 1951, to make advances from the Working Capital Fund to cover administrative expenses. The Advisory Committee was informed that a sum of not more than $1,000,000 should prove adequate for this purpose, and it is prepared to concur in such advances from the Fund, on the assumption that it will be possible for repayment to be made during the early part of 1951 from the special account envisaged in paragraph 7 of the draft resolution.

9. In its report on assistance to Palestine refugees (A/1516, paragraph 13), the Advisory Committee has recommended the appointment of a "negotiating committee" to negotiate during the current session of the General Assembly, with Member and non-member States, the amounts which Governments may be willing to contribute to the programmes for such assistance. A similar procedure appears desirable in the case of the programme for the relief and rehabilitation of Korea.

10. The Advisory Committee has given consideration to the question whether a single negotiating committee could be appointed to handle both problems and, if only on administrative grounds, this is the course which the Committee would, on balance, recommend.

Revised estimates for the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea : report by the Secretary-General

[Original text : English]
[28 November 1950]

1. Following approval by the First Committee, at its 353rd meeting held on 4 October 1950, of resolution A/C.1/558 as amended establishing a United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea, preliminary estimates of the financial implications were submitted to the Fifth Committee (A/C.5/373) on the assumption that staff comparable in number and grade to that provided to the United Nations Commission on Korea in 1950 would be adequate.

2. To furnish adequate facilities and services for the Commission, it now appears that the following funds will be required for 1951 :

	US dollars
Temporary assistance	242,200
Travel and subsistence of members.....	94,400
Travel and subsistence of observers	26,500
Travel and subsistence of staff.....	267,500
Communication services	15,000
Rental and maintenance of premises	30,000
Stationery and office supplies	2,400
Local transportation	4,000
Maintenance and operation of transportation equipment	79,200
Freight, cartage and express.	15,000
Insurance	8,200
Miscellaneous expenses	15,000
Office furniture, fixtures and equipment ..	5,000
Purchase of motor vehicles	6,300
Alterations and improvement of premises .	10,000
Miscellaneous equipment.....	10,000
Contractual printing	9,300
	840,000

3. Under temporary assistance, provision is requested for 16 internationally recruited staff as shown in Annex A ($81,270) and for 30 local recruits including interpreters, mimeograph operators, drivers, cleaners, and messengers ($20,000). Provision is also requested for temporary replacement at Headquarters of 50 per cent of professional staff and all secretaries shown in Annex A, on the assumption that, after 1 July 1951, it will be possible to reduce the staff detailed from Headquarters to the Commission by one-third ($140,930).

4. Funds for the transportation of the representatives and alternates to the Commission have already been included in the 1950 supplementary estimates for the Korean Mission. For 1951, provision under travel and subsistence of members is made only for 7 round-trips for replacement of representatives at the end of one year assignment ($12,600). Subsistence allowance for 14 representatives and alternates is computed at the rate of $20 per day less about 20 per cent for periods of absence ($81,800).

5. It is not possible at present to determine the size and number of field observer teams that may be required by the Commission. There are 7 military observers at present serving in Korea. They are expected to continue in service throughout 1951. Under travel and subsistence of observers provision is made for subsistence allowance at the rate of $11.50 less about 10 per cent for periods of absence ($26,500). In the event that the number of observers has to be greatly increased, the Secretary-General will have to draw from the Working Capital Fund to meet the additional expenditures involved.

6. The sum of $267,500 requested under travel and subsistence of staff covers (a) cost of 25 round trips between New York and Seoul for new assignments, replacements, and consultations at $1,800 per round trip ($45,000), (b) subsistence allowance for the Principal Secretary at $20 per day less 10 per cent for periods of absence ($6,570), (c) subsistence allowance for 31 staff members with dependents at $11.50 per day and 51 staff members without dependents at $8.50 per day, less a contemplated reduction by one-third of detailed staff members for the second half of the year, and less 10 per cent for periods of absence ($215,930).

7. On the basis of experience during the last three months, a sum of $15,000 is requested for communication services including cables, telephones, and postage on an average of $1,500 per month for the first six months of 1951. An average of $1,000 per month is provided for the remainder of the year.

8. It is planned to have a large central UN office in Seoul under a senior administrative officer in order that administrative facilities and services can be furnished economically not only to the United Nations Commission for Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea but also to all the United Nations Agencies engaged in direct relief and rehabilitation work. By such pooling arrangement the additional administrative expenses chargeable to relief work could be minimized. It is also contemplated to have subsidiary offices in Pyongyang and Tokyo. On the above basis, a sum of $30,000 will be required for rental and maintenance of premises plus $10,000 for necessary improvements to buildings which have to be repaired to be rendered suitable for UN Offices. Cost of new furniture, fixtures and office equipment required would amount to $5,000.

9. Owing to the disorganization of transport facilities in Korea, and as at present there is only one commercial flight per week from Tokyo to Seoul, it will be necessary to keep in operation a UN plane for transport of members, staff, and supplies between the various UN offices. The cost of operation and maintenance is expected to amount to an average of $10,000 per month, as about half the cost would be in connection with relief work and therefore chargeable to the Relief Agency, provision for the plane in the present estimates is limited to $60,000.

10. There are no vehicles for rental in Korea. It has thus been found essential to buy and maintain a fleet of cars for use by the Commission and staff. A sum of $6,300 is provided for purchase of 3 additional jeeps, to have 24 vehicles available for transportation requirements of the Commission members, observers, and staff totalling 104 persons. At an average of $800 per vehicle per annum for maintenance and operation including gasoline, oil, and minor repairs, it is estimated that a total of $19,200 would be required in 1951. Hence the total cost for maintenance and operation of all transportation equipment including half the cost of operating the plane would amount to $79,200.

11. Under freight, cartage and express, a sum of $15,000 is provided to defray regular pouch and air express charges at the current average of $1,500 per month for the first six months, and an average of $1,000 for the second six months. The sum of $15,000 requested under miscellaneous expenses is estimated to cover cost of flags, emergency medical bills, subscription to periodicals and other miscellaneous contractual services.

12. A sum of $10,000 is provided under miscellaneous equipment to cover the need for heaters, field equipment, additional typewriters and coding machines. Provision for other items is based on 1950 experience.

13. The Secretary-General requests that $840,000 be appropriated for the United Nations Commission for Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea of which $830,700 under chapter VI, section 5 of the 1951 budget, and $9,300, required for contractual printing, under chapter V, section 25.

14. These expenses will be partly compensated by an estimated income of $36,000 from the assessments to be levied on the salaries of the internationally recruited and temporary replacement staff.

LETTER DATED 22 NOVEMBER 1950 FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO THE CHAIRMAN OF THE JOINT SECOND AND THIRD COMMITTEE

With regard to your letter dated 14 November 1950 concerning the request of the Joint Second and Third Committee for the advice of the Fifth Committee regarding the financial arrangements for the programme of Korean relief, I attach hereto a copy of the letter dated 22 November 1950 which I have received from the Chairman of the Fifth Committee.

(Signed) Nasrollah ENTEZAM
President of the General Assembly

LETTER DATED 22 NOVEMBER 1950 FROM THE CHAIRMAN OF THE FIFTH COMMITTEE TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

1. In accordance with the request contained in your letter of 14 November 1950, the Fifth Committee, at its 268th meeting held on 21 November 1950, considered the question of financial arrangements for the proposed programme of relief and rehabilitation of Korea, including the provisions in paragraph 7 of the draft resolution under consideration by the Joint Second and Third Committee.

2. In addition to the text of the draft resolution (A/1493), the Fifth Committee had before it the Eighteenth Report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (A/1526), to whom the request of the Joint Committee had been referred for examination and report.

3. Following discussion at its 268th meeting, the Fifth Committee decided by a vote of 40 to nil, with 6 abstentions, to approve the recommendations of the Advisory Committee on the understanding that the proposed negotiating committee should be composed of seven or more members appointed by the President of the General Assembly for the purpose of consulting as soon as possible during the current session of the General Assembly with Member and non-member States as to the amounts which governments might be willing to contribute, on a voluntary basis, towards both the proposed relief and rehabilitation programme in Korea and the current and future relief and re-integration programme for Palestine refugees.

4. In accordance with the Fifth Committee's decision, I am authorized to recommend the following additional paragraphs relating to the financing of the programme for relief and rehabilitation of Korea for inclusion in the draft resolution under consideration by the Joint Committee:

" Requests the President of the General Assembly to appoint a negotiating committee composed of seven or more Members for the purpose of consulting, as soon as possible during the current session of the General Assembly, with Member and non-member States as to the amounts which governments may be willing to contribute towards the financing of the programme;

" Authorizes the Negotiating Committee to adopt procedures best suited to the accomplishment of its task, bearing in mind:

" (a) The need for securing the maximum contribution in cash;

" (b) The desirability of ensuring that any contribution in kind is of a nature which meets the requirements of the contemplated programmes; and

" (c) The degree of assistance which can be rendered by specialized agencies, non-member States and other contributors;

" Requests that, as soon as the Negotiating Committee has ascertained the extent to which Member States are willing to make contributions, all delegations be notified accordingly by the Secretary-General in order that they may consult with their governments;

" Decides that, as soon as the Negotiating Committee has completed its work, the Secretary-General shall arrange, at the Committee's request, during the current session of the General Assembly, an appropriate meeting of Member and non-member States at which Members may commit themselves to their national contributions and the contributions of non-members may be made known."

5. By a vote of 34 to nil, with 8 abstentions, the Fifth Committee expressed its concurrence in the view of the Advisory Committee that, pending the receipt of contributions to the programme, it would be necessary during the latter part of 1950 and the first two or three months of 1951 to make advances from the Working Capital Fund to cover administrative expenses. It was informed in this connexion that a sum of not more than one million dollars should prove adequate for this purpose. The Fifth Committee's concurrence on such advances from the Working Capital Fund was given on the assumption that it would be possible for repayment to be made during the early part of 1951 from the special account envisaged in paragraph 7 of the draft resolution.

6. In the course of discussion of the Advisory Committee's recommendations, the representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics expressed the opinion that the contributions of each country should be voluntary and that the arrangements agreed to should be such as to enable them to be made in national currencies for the purchase of goods or services required in Korea for the purposes of the relief and rehabilitation programme.

7. Attention is called to the observations of the Advisory Committee, in which the Fifth Committee also concurs, as contained in paragraphs 5, 6 and 7 of its report (A/1526).

8. I have the honour, therefore, to request you to bring this matter to the attention of the Joint Committee.

(Signed) Jam Saheb of NAWANAGAR
Chairman of the Fifth Committee

LETTER FROM THE UNITED STATES REPRESENTATIVE TO THE UNITED NATIONS

30 September 1950

I have the honor, on behalf of the Unified Command of the United Nations Forces in Korea, to submit herewith the text of a message which General Douglas MacArthur, the Commander-in-Chief of the United Nations Forces in Korea, is issuing today at 12 noon Tokyo time, October 1 (10 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, September 30). I request that you circulate this message to the Members of the United Nations for their information.

(Signed) Warren R. AUSTIN

SPECIAL REPORT OF UNIFIED COMMAND

On 1 October, 12 noon Tokyo time (10 p.m., September 30, Eastern Standard Time) the following message was broadcast by the Commanding General of the Unified Command:

To the Commander-in-Chief, North Korean Forces:

The early and total defeat and complete destruction of your armed forces and war-making potential is now inevitable. In order that the decisions of the United Nations may be carried out with a minimum of further loss of life and destruction of property, I, as the United Nations Commander-in-Chief, call upon you and the forces under your command, in whatever part of Korea situated, forthwith to lay down your arms and cease hostilities under such military supervision as I may direct and I call upon you at once to liberate all United Nations prisoners of war and civilian internees under your control and to make adequate provision for their protection, care, maintenance and immediate transportation to such places as I indicate. North Korean forces, including prisoners of war in the hands of the United Nations Command, will continue to be given the care dictated by civilized custom and practice and permitted to return to their homes as soon as practicable. I shall anticipate your early decision upon this opportunity to avoid the further useless shedding of blood and destruction of property.

[Original text : English]
[5 October 1950]

1. The General Assembly, at its 233rd meeting on 21 October 1949, adopted resolution 293 (IV) on the problem of the independence of Korea and continued in being the United Nations Commission on Korea.

2. In accordance with its terms of reference, the United Nations Commission on Korea submitted a report to the fifth session of the General Assembly (A/1350).

3. At its 284th and 285th meetings held on 26 September 1950, the General Assembly decided to include this question as item 24 in the agenda of the fifth regular session and to refer it to the First Committee.

4. The First Committee considered the question at its 346th to 353rd meetings inclusive.

5. At its 346th meeting, the First Committee, by 46 votes to none, with no abstentions, decided to give priority, among the items referred to it, to the Korean question.

6. At its 347th meeting, the Committee, by 46 votes to 6, with 7 abstentions, rejected a draft resolution submitted by the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (A/C.1/562) proposing to invite representatives of both North and South Korea to participate in the Committee's discussion of the question.

7. At the same meeting, by 50 votes to 5, with 5 abstentions, the Committee adopted a draft resolution presented by the representative of China (A/C.1/563) inviting a representative of the Republic of Korea to participate, without the right to vote, in the Committee's debates on the problem.

8. The Rapporteur of the United Nations Commission on Korea, who had been invited, on the proposal of the Chairman, to sit at the Committee table during the Committee's discussion of the Korean question, presented at the 347th meeting the Commission's report and made an explanatory statement.

9. The Committee held a general debate on the question at its 347th to 353rd meetings inclusive, and the following draft resolutions were submitted :

(a) A joint draft resolution proposed at the 347th meeting by Australia, Brazil, Cuba, Netherlands, Norway, Pakistan, Philippines and the United Kingdom (A/C.1/558) which, after recalling the previous Assembly resolutions on the Korean question and noting the Security Council's resolutions of 25 and 27 June 1950, recommended, inter alia, that appropriate steps be taken to ensure conditions of stability throughout Korea and that all constituent acts, including the holding of elections under United Nations auspices, be taken to establish a unified, independent and democratic Government in Korea. The draft resolution also recommended that United Nations forces should not remain in any part of Korea otherwise than so far as necessary for achieving the objectives mentioned above. It also called for measures to be taken for the economic rehabilitation of Korea. The draft resolution provided for the setting up of a United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea to carry out the resolution.

(b) A joint draft resolution submitted at the 349th meeting by the U.S.S.R., the Ukrainian S.S.R., the Byelorussian S.S.R., Poland and Czechoslovakia (A/C.1/567) which, inter alia, recommended the immediate cessation of hostilities and the withdrawal of all foreign troops and called for the establishment of a Government of a unified Korea by means of all-Korean elections held under the auspices of a joint (parity) Commission composed of deputies of the Assemblies of North and South Korea and under observation by a United Nations Committee, with the indispensable participation in the latter of the representatives of States bordering on Korea. It also provided for plans to be drawn up for rendering economic and technical aid to the Korean people through the United Nations Organization. It asked that, after the establishment of the all-Korean Government envisaged in the resolution, the Security Council consider the question of admitting Korea to membership in the United Nations.

(c) A draft resolution presented at the same meeting by the U.S.S.R. (A/C.1/568) which called upon the Government of the United States of America to terminate and prohibit the barbarous bombing of peaceful inhabitants and towns by United States armed forces in Korea.

(e) A draft resolution submitted at the 353rd meeting by India (A/C.1/572) which proposed the appointment of a sub-committee to take into consideration all resolutions, proposals and suggestions concerning the Korean question in order that it might recommend to the Committee a resolution on the subject commanding the largest measure of agreement.

10. On 2 October 1950, at the request of the Secretary-General of the U.S.S.R. delegation, the text of a cable dated 28 September 1950 from the Minister for Foreign Affairs of the Korean People's Democratic Republic to the President of the General Assembly and the Security Council was circulated as document A/C.1/565.

(f) An oral amendment submitted by the Mexican representative at the same meeting proposing that the Commission should render a report to the next regular session of the General Assembly and to any prior special session which might be called on the subject, and such interim reports as it might deem appropriate, to the Secretary-General for transmission to Members.

12. At the 352nd meeting, the United Kingdom orally proposed that the text of the joint draft resolution (A/C.1/558) be completed, firstly, by inserting the provision that the Commission consist of Australia, Chile, Netherlands, Pakistan, Philippines and Turkey, with a seventh member to be specified at the meeting of the General Assembly at which the resolution would be considered and, secondly, by replacing the final incomplete phrase of the joint draft resolution " on or before October... " with the following phrase : " within three weeks of the approval of this resolution by the General Assembly " .

22. The first Committee recommends, therefore, the adoption by the General Assembly of the following resolution :

THE PROBLEM OF THE INDEPENDENCE OF KOREA

The General Assembly,

Having regard to its resolutions of 14 November 1947, of 12 December 1948 and of 21 October 1949,

Having received and considered the report of the United Nations Commission on Korea,

Mindful of the fact that the objectives set forth in the resolutions referred to have not been fully accomplished and, in particular, that the unification of Korea has not yet been achieved, and that an attempt has been made by an armed attack from North Korea to extinguish by force the Government of the Republic of Korea,

Recalling the General Assembly declaration of 12 December 1948 that there has been established a lawful government (the Government of the Republic of Korea) having effective control and jurisdiction over that part of Korea where the United Nations Temporary Commission on Korea was able to observe and consult and in which the great majority of the people of Korea reside; that this government is based on elections which were a valid expression of the free will of the electorate of that part of Korea and which were observed by the Temporary Commission; and that this is the only such government in Korea,

Having in mind that United Nations armed forces are at present operating in Korea in accordance with the recommendations of the Security Council of 27 June 1950, subsequent to its resolution of 25 June 1950, that Members of the United Nations furnish such assistance to the Republic of Korea as may be necessary to repel the armed attack and to restore international peace and security in the area,

Recalling that the essential objective of the resolutions of the General Assembly referred to above was the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic Government of Korea,

Recommends that

(a) All appropriate steps be taken to ensure conditions of stability throughout Korea;

(b) All constituent acts be taken, including the holding of elections, under the auspices of the United Nations, for the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic government in the sovereign State of Korea;

(c) All sections and representative bodies of the population of Korea, South and North, be invited to co-operate with the organs of the United Nations in the restoration of peace, in the holding of elections and in the establishment of a unified government,

(d) United Nations forces should not remain in any part of Korea otherwise than so far as necessary for achieving the objectives specified in sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) above;

(e) All necessary measures be taken to accomplish the economic rehabilitation of Korea;

Resolves that

(a) A Commission consisting of Australia, Chile, Netherlands, Pakistan, Philippines, Turkey and...⁴ to be known as the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea, be established to (i) assume the functions hitherto exercised by the present United Nations Commission in Korea; (ii) represent the United Nations in bringing about the establishment of a unified, independent and democratic Government of all Korea;

⁴ Seventh member to be specified at the meeting of the General Assembly at which the present draft resolution is considered.

(iii) exercise such responsibilities in connexion with relief and rehabilitation in Korea as may be determined by the General Assembly after receiving the recommendations of the Economic and Social Council. The United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea should proceed to Korea and begin to carry out its functions as soon as possible;

(b) Pending the arrival in Korea of the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea, the governments of the States represented on the Commission should form an Interim Committee composed of representatives meeting at the seat of the United Nations to consult with and advise the United Nations Unified Command in the light of the above recommendations; the Interim Committee should begin to function immediately upon the approval of the present resolution by the General Assembly;

(c) The Commission shall render a report to the next regular session of the General Assembly and to any prior special session which might be called to consider the subject-matter of the present resolution, and shall render such interim reports as it may deem appropriate to the Secretary-General for transmission to Members,

The General Assembly furthermore,

Mindful of the fact that at the end of the present hostilities the task of rehabilitating the Korean economy will be of great magnitude,

Requests the Economic and Social Council, in consultation with the specialized agencies, to develop plans for relief and rehabilitation on the termination of hostilities and to report to the General Assembly within three weeks of the adoption of the present resolution by the General Assembly;

Also recommends the Economic and Social Council to expedite the study of long-term measures to promote the economic development and social progress of Korea, and meanwhile to draw the attention of the authorities which decide requests for technical assistance to the urgent and special necessity of affording such assistance to Korea;

Expresses its appreciation of the services rendered by the members of the United Nations Commission on Korea in the performance of their important and difficult task;

Requests the Secretary-General to provide the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea with adequate staff and facilities, including technical advisers as required; and authorizes the Secretary-General to pay the expenses and per diem of a representative and alternate from each of the States members of the Commission.

Letter, dated 8 November 1950, from the President of the Economic and Social Council to the President of the General Assembly

[9 November 1950]

Lake Success, 8 November 1950

I have the honour to say that the Economic and Social Council completed its consideration, on 7 November 1950, of the question referred to it by paragraph 3 of the resolution adopted by the General Assembly on 7 October last,⁵ namely, plans for relief and rehabilitation of Korea, and to transmit to you herewith the resolution adopted by the Council.⁶

By the decision taken at its 296th plenary meeting, the General Assembly decided to extend to 10 November 1950 the time for submission of the report of the Council and, at the same time, decided that it should be referred to the Joint Second and Third Committee.

The Council resolution contains a draft resolution which it recommends for adoption by the General Assembly relating to (i) the establishment of the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency for the relief and rehabilitation of Korea, and (ii) general policy on Korean relief and rehabilitation. In regard to the financial arrangements, the Council resolution recommends that the General Assembly examine the estimates referred to in the report of the Council's Temporary Committee on a Provisional Programme for Relief and Rehabilitation Needs of Korea (E/1864), in conjunction with the development of the military situation in Korea, and that the methods of financing the proposed programme be determined by the General Assembly itself.

President, Economic and Social Council

[1 December 1950]

1. The draft resolution of the Joint Second and Third Committee (document A/1567, part II) erroneously refers to aggression by North Korean forces, whereas in reality Korea is at present the theatre of United States aggression against the Korean people, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics delegation proposes that paragraphs 1, 3 and 4 of the preamble to the draft resolution of the Joint Second and Third Committee (document A/1567, part II) should be deleted.

2. In addition, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics delegation proposes the deletion of the second part of paragraph 10 of section B of the draft resolution (beginning with the words "Among these..." to the end of the paragraph).

DOCUMENT A/1619Financial implications of the resolution adopted by the General Assembly on 7 October 1950 (376 (V)) : twenty-seventh report of 1950 of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions

[Original text : English]
[2 December 1950]

1. At a meeting held on 1 December 1950, the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions considered a report by the Secretary-General (A/C.5/419) submitting revised estimates⁷ to an amount of $840,000 in respect of expenditure during 1951 for the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea, established by a resolution of the General Assembly of 7 October 1950.

2. The Advisory Committee, on the information available at this stage, is unable to express a considered view on the adequacy or otherwise of the sums proposed to be provided. The Committee has, however, had the opportunity of discussing the figures with the personal representative of the Secretary-General in Korea and with the Director of Finance of the United Nations, and in the absence at this time of more detailed statements or indications on the various questions of policy to which the presence of the Commission will give rise, the Committee recommends that a sum of $800,000 should provisionally be inserted in the estimates. At the same time, however, the Committee considers that early steps should be taken to formulate the Commission's programme and to delimit the functions of the Commission on the one hand and of the Secretariat on the other, so that a more precise financial estimate may be made in due course of the special requirements of the Commission in terms of staff and services.

3. The Committee takes note that, with a view to economy in administration, every effort will be made to pool facilities and services with the proposed United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency and other United Nations agencies engaged in direct relief and rehabilitation activities in Korea. Common arrangements are thus contemplated for the renting of office premises and the chartering of aircraft, and will doubtless be found possible in respect of other requirements.

4. On the basis of the observations in paragraph 2 above, the Advisory Committee recommends a provisional appropriation of $800,000 for the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea (section 5, chapter VI), this sum to be inclusive of the proposed provision of $9,300 for contractual printing (section 25, chapter V).

5. The salaries of the internationally recruited staff members of the Commission and of the temporary replacement staff at Headquarters are gross, and the offsetting revenue in respect of contributions under the Staff Assessment Plan is estimated at $36,000.

⁷ Preliminary estimates were submitted to the Fifth Committee in document A/C.5/373.

[30 September 1950]

The General Assembly,

Having regard to its resolution 272 (III) and 294 (IV) concerning the question of the observance in Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania of human rights and fundamental freedoms, and to its decision in the latter resolution to submit certain questions to the International Court of Justice for an advisory opinion,

1. Takes note of the opinions delivered by the International Court of Justice on 30 March 1950 and 18 July 1950 to the effect that :

(a) The diplomatic exchanges between Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania on the one hand, and certain Allied and Associated Powers signatories to the Treaties of Peace on the other, concerning the implementation of article 2 of the Treaties with Bulgaria and Hungary and article 3 of the Treaty with Romania, disclose disputes subject to the provisions for the settlement of disputes contained in article 36 of the Treaty of Peace with Bulgaria, article 40 of the Treaty of Peace with Hungary, and article 38 of the Treaty of Peace with Romania ;

(b) The Governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania are obligated to carry out the provisions of those articles of the Treaties of Peace which relate to the settlement of disputes, including the provisions for the appointment of their representatives to the Treaty Commission ;

(c) If one party fails to appoint a representative to a Treaty Commission under the Treaties of Peace with Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania where that party is obligated to appoint a representative to the Treaty Commission, the Secretary-General of the United Nations is not authorized to appoint the third member of the Commission upon the request of the other party to a dispute ;

2. Expresses its grave concern at the failure of the Governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania to fulfil their obligation under the provisions of the Treaties of Peace to appoint representatives to the Treaty Commissions, which obligation has been confirmed by the International Court of Justice ;

3. Is of the opinion that the conduct of the Governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania in this matter is such as to indicate that they are aware of breaches being committed of those articles of the Treaties of Peace under which they are obligated to secure the enjoyment of human rights and fundamental freedoms in their countries ;

4. Notes with anxiety the continuance of serious accusations on these matters against the Governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania, and that the three Governments have made no satisfactory refutation of these accusations ;

5. Invites Members of the United Nations, and in particular those which are parties to the Treaties of Peace with Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania, to submit to the Secretary-General all evidence which they now hold or which may become available in future in relation to this question.

Report of the Ad Hoc Political Committee

[Original text: English]
[12 October 1950]

1. The General Assembly, on 22 October 1949, adopted resolution 294 (IV) concerning the observance in Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania of human rights and fundamental freedoms, which provided for the submission of four questions to the International Court of Justice for an advisory opinion and for the retention of the item on the agenda of the fifth session of the Assembly.

2. The International Court of Justice delivered its advisory opinion on questions I and II of resolution 294 (IV) on 30 March 1950.¹ It held that a dispute existed and that Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania were obligated under the Treaties of Peace to appoint representatives to the Treaty Commissions. On 18 July 1950 the Court delivered its advisory opinion on question III, in which it stated that since the answer to question III was negative, it was not necessary to consider question IV.¹

3. The General Assembly, on the recommendation of the General Committee, decided, at its 285th plenary meeting on 26 September 1950, to refer this item to the Ad Hoc Political Committee for consideration and report.

4. The Ad Hoc Political Committee considered the matter during its 2nd to 6th meetings, inclusive.

5. At the 2nd meeting of the Committee on 2 October, Australia introduced a draft resolution (A/AC.38/L.1) taking note of the advisory opinions of the International Court of Justice; expressing the grave concern of the General Assembly at the failure of the Governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania to fulfil their obligation to appoint representatives to the Treaty Commissions, and its opinion that the conduct of these Governments indicated that they were aware of breaches of their obligations to secure the enjoyment of human rights and fundamental freedoms in their countries; noting that serious accusations on these matters continued to be made without satisfactory refutation; and inviting the Member States of the United Nations to submit to the Secretary-General all evidence available to them in relation to the matter.

6. At the 3rd meeting of the Committee on 3 October, Cuba introduced an amendment (A/AC.38/L.3) to the draft resolution submitted by Australia. The amendment proposed:

(a) To substitute for paragraphs 2, 3 and 4 of the draft resolution, new paragraphs, condemning the attitude of the Governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania with regard to their violation of human rights and fundamental freedoms, considering that their refusal to appoint representatives to the Treaty Commissions demonstrated that those Governments were incapable of complying with their international obligations, and deciding that as long as they did not modify their attitude, their applications for membership in the United Nations should not be entertained;

(b) To amend paragraph 5 of the draft resolution in order to provide that the question should be placed on the agenda of the sixth session of the General Assembly.

7. At the same meeting, Bolivia introduced an amendment (A/AC.38/L.2) to the draft resolution submitted by Australia. The amendment proposed to insert between paragraphs 1 and 2 of the draft resolution a new paragraph declaring that every violation of human rights and fundamental freedoms concerned the United Nations as a whole, and to add at the end of the draft resolution a new paragraph inviting the Secretary-General to notify the Member States of the United Nations of any information he might receive in connexion with this question.

8. At the 5th meeting of the Committee on 5 October, Australia introduced a revised draft resolution as amended by agreement with Bolivia and Cuba (A/AC.38/L.1/Rev.1). The revised draft resolution incorporated the following changes: an additional paragraph was inserted at the beginning of the preamble, stating that the General Assembly considered that one of the purposes of the United Nations was to achieve international co-operation in promoting and encouraging respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms; paragraph 2 condemned the refusal of the Governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania to appoint representatives to the Treaty Commissions; a statement to the effect that the three Governments were indifferent to the sentiments of the world community was added to paragraph 3; a sixth paragraph was included, inviting the Secretary-General to notify the Member States of the United Nations of any information he might receive in connexion with the question.

9. At the same meeting Cuba and Bolivia withdrew their respective amendments (A/AC.38/L.3 and A/AC.38/L.2) to the Australian draft resolution.

10. At the 6th meeting on 5 October, the Committee proceeded to vote on the revised draft resolution submitted by Australia, as amended by agreement with Bolivia and Cuba (A/AC.38/L.1/Rev.1). The results of the voting were as follows:

(a) The first paragraph of the preamble of the revised draft resolution was adopted by 49 votes to none, with 5 abstentions.

(b) The second paragraph of the preamble was adopted by 49 votes to 5, with 2 abstentions.

(c) Paragraph 1 up to and including the words " to the effect that " was adopted by 50 votes to 5, with 2 abstentions.

(d) Sub-paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of paragraph 1 were adopted by 50 votes to 5, with 2 abstentions.

(e) Paragraph 2 was adopted by 38 votes to 6, with 13 abstentions.

(f) Paragraph 3 was adopted by 35 votes to 6, with 16 abstentions.

(g) Paragraph 4 was adopted by 38 votes to 7, with 10 abstentions.

(h) Paragraph 5 was adopted by 43 votes to 7, with 8 abstentions.

(i) Paragraph 6 was adopted by 45 votes to 6, with 7 abstentions.

(j) The revised draft resolution as a whole was adopted by 39 votes to 5, with 13 abstentions.

11. The Ad Hoc Political Committee therefore recommends to the General Assembly the adoption of the following draft resolution :

OBSERVANCE IN BULGARIA, HUNGARY AND ROMANIA OF HUMAN RIGHTS AND FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOMS

The General Assembly,

Considering that one of the purposes of the United Nations is to achieve international co-operation in promoting and encouraging respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion,

Having regard to its resolutions 272 (III) and 294 (IV) concerning the question of the observance in Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania of human rights and fundamental freedoms, and to its decision in the latter resolution to submit certain questions to the International Court of Justice for an advisory opinion,

1. Takes note of the advisory opinions delivered by the International Court of Justice on 30 March 1950 and 18 July 1950 to the effect that :

(a) The diplomatic exchanges between Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania on the one hand, and certain Allied and Associated Powers signatories to the Treaties of Peace on the other, concerning the implementation of article 2 of the Treaties with Bulgaria and Hungary and article 3 of the Treaty with Romania, disclose disputes subject to the provisions for the settlement of disputes contained in article 36 of the Treaty of Peace with Bulgaria, article 40 of the Treaty of Peace with Hungary, and article 38 of the Treaty of Peace with Romania;

(b) The Governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania are obligated to carry out the provisions of those articles of the Treaties of Peace which relate to the settlement of disputes, including the provisions for the appointment of their representatives to the Treaty Commissions;

(c) If one party fails to appoint a representative to a Treaty Commission under the Treaties of Peace with Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania where that party is obligated to appoint a representative to the Treaty Commission, the Secretary-General of the United Nations is not authorized to appoint the third member of the Commission upon the request of the other party to a dispute;

2. Condemns the wilful refusal of the Governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania to fulfil their obligation under the provisions of the Treaties of Peace to appoint representatives to the Treaty Commissions, which obligation has been confirmed by the International Court of Justice;

3. Is of the opinion that the conduct of the Governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania in this matter is such as to indicate that they are aware of breaches being committed of those articles of the Treaties of Peace under which they are obligated to secure the enjoyment of human rights and fundamental freedoms in their countries; and that they are callously indifferent to the sentiments of the world community;

4. Notes with anxiety the continuance of serious accusations on these matters against the Governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania, and that the three Governments have made no satisfactory refutation of these accusations;

5. Invites Members of the United Nations, and in particular those which are parties to the Treaties of Peace with Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania, to submit to the Secretary-General all evidence which they now hold or which may become available in future in relation to this question;

6. Likewise invites the Secretary-General to notify the Members of the United Nations of any information he may receive in connexion with this question.

Communication dated 27 January 1950 from the representatives of Canada, China, France, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and the United States of America addressed to the Secretary-General: note by the Secretary-General

[Original text : English-French]
[30 January 1950]

The Secretary-General has the honour to communicate to the Members of the United Nations the attached communication from the representatives of Canada, China, France, the United Kingdom and the United States, dated 27 January 1950, together with the summary record of the 14th meeting of the consultations of the six permanent members of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission (A/Permanent Members AEC/SR.14).

New York, 27 January 1950

1. By its resolution 191 (III) of 4 November 1948, the General Assembly requested the six permanent members of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission "to meet together and consult in order to determine if there exists a basis for agreement on the international control of atomic energy to ensure its use only for peaceful purposes and for the elimination from national armaments of atomic weapons".

2. On 23 November 1949, the General Assembly adopted resolution 299 (IV) on the international control of atomic energy, in which it expressed itself as follows :

" The General Assembly,

" . . .

" Anxious to free humanity from the dangers which will continue to exist as long as States retain under their individual control the development and operation of atomic energy facilities,

" Convinced that an international co-operative effort can avoid these dangers and can hasten the development of the peaceful uses of atomic energy for the benefit of all peoples,

" 1. Urges all nations to join in such a co-operative development and use of atomic energy for peaceful ends;

" 2. Calls upon Governments to do everything in their power to make possible, by the acceptance of effective international control, the effective prohibition and elimination of atomic weapons;

" 3. Requests the permanent members of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission to continue their consultations, to explore all possible avenues and examine all concrete suggestions with a view to determining whether they might lead to an agreement securing the basic objectives of the General Assembly in this question, and to keep the Atomic Energy Commission and the General Assembly informed of their progress;

“ . . . ”

3. In accordance with the above resolution, the six permanent members of the Atomic Energy Commission met on 20 December 1949 and again on 19 January 1950. At the beginning of the latter meeting, the representative of the Soviet Union objected to the presence of the representative of China and submitted the following draft resolution for consideration :

“ The consultative conference of the representatives of the six States, permanent members of the Atomic Energy Commission

“ Decides to exclude from its membership the representative of the Kuomintang group. ”

4. The other representatives present decided that this proposal was out of order, as the representation in these consultations was dependent upon membership in the Atomic Energy Commission, and the group engaged in the consultations did not have the competence to pass judgment on the issue raised by the representative of the Soviet Union. In the circumstances, the representative of the Soviet Union announced that he would not participate in the consultations so long as the present Chinese representative attended these meetings. He said that he would not recognize as legal any decisions adopted by the group. After making this statement he left the meeting.

5. The representatives of Canada, China, France, the United Kingdom and the United States are of the opinion that the members of the General Assembly will be anxiously concerned over the fact that these important and serious consultations have been interrupted as a result of the position taken by the representative of the Soviet Union.

6. The General Assembly resolutions cited above make it clear that the primary purpose of the consultations among the six permanent members of the Atomic Energy Commission is to reconcile the divergent views of the Soviet Union on one side, and of the other five permanent members on the other. The representatives of these five permanent members are, therefore, of the opinion that so long as the Government of the USSR refuses to participate in these consultations, it is impossible for them to achieve the primary purpose of the mandate given by the General Assembly.

7. These five permanent members have undertaken to remain in close contact with one another and they will meet and consult with each other on such limited objectives as can be achieved under the circumstances.

8. The representative of France, as the next Chairman of the group, will determine, in agreement with the Secretary-General, the possibility of the six permanent members of the Atomic Energy Commission holding further consultations.

9. In accordance with the request of the General Assembly to keep the Atomic Energy Commission and the General Assembly informed of their progress, the representatives of these five permanent members request the Secretary-General to make known to the members of the Atomic Energy Commission and of the General Assembly, the situation created by the refusal of the representative of the Soviet Union to participate in the consultations. To this end, they request that copies of this letter, together with the summary record of the 14th meeting, held on 19 January 1950, by the six permanent members of the Atomic Energy Commission, should be transmitted to all Member States of the United Nations.

CONSULTATIONS OF THE SIX PERMANENT MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION SUMMARY RECORD OF THE FOURTEENTH MEETING Held at Lake Success, New York, on Thursday, 19 January 1950, at 10.30 a.m.

Chairman :

Mr. H. R. WEI, China;

Members :

General A. G. L. McNAUGHTON, Canada;

Mr. Jean CHAUVEL, France;

Mr. J. A. MALIK, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics;

Sir Alexander CADOGAN, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland;

Mr. John D. HICKERSON, United States of America;

Secretariat :

Mr. C. E. ZINCHENKO, Assistant Secretary-General;

Mr. O. FREY, Secretary.

1. Mr. MALIK (Union of Soviet Socialist Republics) said that he wished to make a statement before consideration of the agenda was taken up. On 18 November 1949 and on 8 January 1950, the Central People's Government of the People's Republic of China had addressed communications to the United Nations stating that it did not recognize the right of the representatives of the Kuomintang group to represent China in the organs of the United Nations or to speak in the name of the Chinese people; that it considered the presence of those representatives in United Nations organs as unlawful and that it insisted on their exclusion from those organs.

2. The USSR delegation to the United Nations and the USSR representatives in various organs of the United Nations had already stated that they supported the above-mentioned communications of the Government of the People's Republic of China, that they did not recognize the representatives of the Kuomintang group as representatives of China or of the Chinese people, and that the Soviet Union delegation regarded the presence of such representatives as unlawful and insisted upon their exclusion.

3. Accordingly, Mr. Malik wished to state, in his capacity as Soviet Union representative in the consultations on the international control of atomic energy, that his delegation did not regard the representative of the Kuomintang group as the representative of China and that it insisted on his exclusion from membership in the consultative conference. Mr. Malik further stated that the Soviet Union representative would not take part in the consultations so long as the representative of the Kuomintang group continued to participate in them. He therefore submitted the following draft resolution :

" The consultative conference of the representatives of the six States, permanent members of the Atomic Energy Commission

" Decides to exclude from its membership the representative of the Kuomintang group. "

4. General MCNAUGHTON (Canada) said that he viewed the USSR draft resolution as out of order in a meeting of the six-Power group, since that body had neither the right nor the responsibility to determine its membership. It consisted of the six permanent members of the Atomic Energy Commission and proper representation at the consultations was dependent upon membership in the Atomic Energy Commission which in turn was consequent on membership in the Security Council, with the addition of Canada, in accordance with General Assembly resolution 1 (I). Those representatives attended the meetings as a result of action taken by the General Assembly in electing certain members to the Security Council and, therefore, to the Atomic Energy Commission and to the six-Power group. General McNaughton accordingly submitted that the Soviet Union draft resolution was out of order.

5. Mr. CHAUVEL (France) said that a review of the documents cited by the representative of Canada led the French delegation to the same conclusion. It was of the opinion that the group was not empowered to take decisions on its membership or its powers.

6. The CHAIRMAN agreed with the Canadian and French representatives that the USSR draft resolution was out of order. He had before him General Assembly resolution 1 (I) which established the composition of the Atomic Energy Commission and therefore of the six-Power group. He quoted section 3 of that resolution, which read as follows :

" 3. Composition of the Commission

" The Commission shall be composed of one representative from each of those States represented on the Security Council, and Canada when that State is not a member of the Security Council. Each representative on the Commission may have such assistance as he may desire. "

7. The CHAIRMAN said, however, that if the Soviet Union representative insisted on challenging his ruling, he would put the question to the vote.

8. Mr. MALIK (Union of Soviet Socialist Republics) said that the contention that his delegation's draft resolution was out of order was without foundation. Neither the General Assembly's decision on the participation of the permanent members of the Atomic Energy Commission nor their right to participate in the conference were being challenged. There was no dispute over the status of China as a permanent member of the Security Council and of the Atomic Energy Commission, or over the right of China to participate in the six-Power consultations and in the work of other organs of the United Nations. China had always been and would remain a permanent member of the Security Council and of the Atomic Energy Commission so long as the United Nations and that Commission remained in existence.

9. What was being challenged was not China's right but the right and powers of the representative of the Kuomintang group to take part in the discussions on the atomic question among the six permanent members of the Atomic Energy Commission; the participation of that representative in those discussions was illegal and could only be harmful both to the cause for which those discussions were held and, indeed, to the United Nations as a whole.

10. That was why the USSR delegation did not consider it appropriate for that representative to participate further in the discussions. Mr. Malik reiterated that he did not challenge the indisputable rights of China but the rights and powers of the representative of the Kuomintang group, whom the Central People's Government of the People's Republic of China did not recognize as the lawful representative of China.

11. Mr. Malik emphasized that the representative for the Kuomintang group represented neither China nor the Chinese people and was merely a private person representing no one. If the Canadian and French representatives wished to hear the views of a private person representing no one, they were free to do so; the Soviet Union delegation, however, did not intend to have any consultations with that private person. The representative of the Kuomintang group had no right to take part in consultations and the Soviet Union proposal for the exclusion of the Kuomintang representative from membership in the consultative conference was, therefore, both lawful and well founded. That proposal should be examined in accordance with rules covering cases when the powers of some representatives were challenged.

12. Mr. Malik insisted that his proposal should be discussed and voted upon. He reiterated that he could not take part in consultations on so important a question as atomic energy so long as a person representing no one was participating.

13. General MCNAUGHTON (Canada) said that, after listening to the USSR representative, he was more convinced than ever that he had been correct in raising the point of order. It would be wrong for them to vote on the Soviet Union draft resolution as it would give the impression that the six-Power group could determine its own membership.

14. General McNaughton asked that the point of order he had raised should be considered the previous question and should be voted upon first.

15. The CHAIRMAN, speaking as the representative of CHINA, observed that the Soviet Union representative had offered no new arguments beyond those raised in the Security Council. The statements of the representative of China in that body had been sufficient to refute the false charges made, and Mr. Wei would not repeat them.

16. He reminded the group that international control of atomic energy was one of the world's most pressing questions, as had been emphasized by the President of the General Assembly. The possibility of a hydrogen bomb made the problem of control even more urgent. Anyone who refused to continue the discussions would bear the responsibility for the resulting consequences.

17. China clearly had the right to participate in the consultations and moreover represented the mass of the peoples of the world who did not have the capacity or the desire to produce atomic weapons and whose interest lay in bringing about the control of atomic energy and in advancing the possibility of its peaceful uses.

18. Mr. Wei agreed with the view that the group could not challenge the representation of members or pass judgment on their powers.

19. Mr. MALIK (Union of Soviet Socialist Republics) did not agree with the view that the six-Power group had no right to consider and discuss questions concerning the organization of its work, including the right of any representative to participate, and to reach appropriate conclusions. Nor could he agree with the assertion that the adoption of the USSR proposal would be inconsistent with the General Assembly's resolution. Such assertions were deprived of any foundation whatever, since, under the rules of procedure and established practice, every organ of the United Nations had the right to discuss the organization of its work, including the right to examine the credentials of its members. As an example, Mr. Malik said that if a secretary from his staff had come to take part in the current meeting, his credentials would have been questioned and the Canadian representative would have been the first to raise that question. He felt that to raise such a question in the organs of the United Nations was a perfectly normal and justified procedure, consistent both with the rules of procedure and established practice.

20. Previous speakers had repeatedly stressed the importance of the purpose for which the consultations were being held. In Mr. Malik's opinion that was one of the main arguments in favour of the USSR draft resolution proposing the exclusion of the representative of the Kuomintang group from membership in the consultative conference; indeed, it was extremely important that the credentials of all the participants in the consultations should be in order. Each representative had to speak on behalf of the State and people whom he represented. One of the participants — the representative of the Kuomintang group — had no such credentials. Consequently, it could not be affirmed that the views of that representative carried any weight whatever since he represented neither China nor the Chinese people. Mr. Malik added that the statements of the representative of the Kuomintang group did not call for any reply since they were made by a private person.

21. Mr. CHAUVEL (France) remarked that if the Soviet Union theory was accepted some representatives would be placed in an embarrassing position. He himself had no special powers to attend the six-Power consultations. He came as the representative of France to the Security Council and felt that he could attend only while he was there in that capacity. It was in that sense that Mr. Chauvel had understood the statement of the Canadian representative to the effect that representation in the six-Power group was consequent on membership in the Atomic Energy Commission which in turn was dependent upon membership in the Security Council. Accordingly, it was not for the six-Power group but for the Security Council to examine the powers of representatives.

22. Mr. MALIK (Union of Soviet Socialist Republics) pointed out that he had not invented any new theory and that there was nothing new in what he had said. According to his own "theory", as well as in practice, the general rule was that during the discussion on any question, and particularly during a discussion on important questions — international control of atomic energy was an extremely important question — all participants in international consultations of such questions should have full powers as representatives of their countries. In the case of the present international consultations, one of the participants had no such credentials and that created an abnormal and unlawful situation. That was not only a theory but also a practical consideration.

23. The CHAIRMAN put to the vote the Canadian motion that the Soviet Union draft resolution was out of order.

The motion was adopted by 5 votes to 1.

24. Mr. MALIK (Union of Soviet Socialist Republics) stated that, as he had indicated earlier, the USSR representative would not take part in the six-Power consultations so long as the representative of the Kuomintang group participated in them.

25. The Government of the Soviet Union would not recognize as lawful any decision or recommendation adopted by the said consultative conference with the participation of the representative of the Kuomintang group. His Government would not consider itself bound by any decision or recommendation adopted under those conditions.

26. In view of the above considerations and of the rejection of the Soviet Union proposal to exclude the representative of the Kuomintang group, Mr. Malik said that his delegation would withdraw from the meeting.

The representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics left the conference room.

27. Mr. HICKERSON (United States of America) said that he was sure that all the members present deplored the action of their USSR colleague. The six Powers were meeting at the request of the General Assembly, expressed in resolution 191 (III) of 4 November 1948 and restated in resolution 299 (IV) of 23 November 1949. Mr. Hickerson read the operative paragraphs of the latter resolution, and particularly desired to stress the third paragraph, according to which the General Assembly :

" Requests the permanent members of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission to continue their consultations, to explore all possible avenues and examine all concrete suggestions with a view to determining whether they might lead to an agreement securing the basic objectives of the General Assembly in this question, and to keep the Atomic Energy Commission and the General Assembly informed of their progress; "

28. It was perfectly clear that the General Assembly had never intended that those important and serious consultations should be interrupted by the raising of wholly extraneous and irrelevant issues. The United States took the General Assembly's instructions very seriously and Mr. Hickerson had been prepared, on his government's orders, to continue the present consultations if a different decision had been reached in respect of the representative of China. The United States Government wanted an agreement to be reached and would have felt under an obligation to proceed with the discussions whatever decision had been taken on the technical point of the representation of China.

29. Although Mr. Hickerson deplored the absence of the Soviet Union delegation and recognized the fact that the delegation alone was blocking the way to an agreement being reached, he said that he was ready to continue the discussions without that delegation in an effort to reach such limited objectives as could be achieved in the circumstances.

30. Sir Alexander CADOGAN (United Kingdom) also deplored the withdrawal of the USSR representative, particularly because the prime objective of forming the group and of its work was to bridge the gap which existed between the Government of the Soviet Union and the other Governments. Sir Alexander thought that they should issue some report on the meeting bringing out the fact that as long as the Soviet Union did not participate the main objective of the group was defeated.

31. As the United Kingdom delegation felt that no effort should be spared, it was prepared to continue discussions among five Powers only, although obviously they could not solve the matter without the participation of the Soviet Union. The five Powers perhaps could examine the various proposals put forward during the General Assembly and agree in their views thereon, but they could not arrive at a final solution. Sir Alexander then presented a draft briefly outlining the above ideas.

32. Mr. CHAUVEL (France) associated his delegation with the expressions of regret at the departure of the Soviet Union representative. Being fully cognizant of the consequences of any delay in solving the problem, the French delegation deplored the cessation of the participation of the Soviet Union in the consultations for irrelevant considerations. Clearly, as their purpose was to bridge the gap between the views of the majority and the minority, the absence of one of the parties meant that the consultations were left with no practical objective in view. The French delegation viewed the event merely as a suspension of the work of the conference. It was prepared to continue discussions but those discussions would not be on the same basis as the six-Power consultations.

33. Any communiqué issued, by the conference should make clear the responsibility of the Soviet Union in making it impossible for the members to continue their work. Mr. Chauvel suggested that they might also ask the Secretariat to inform the Members of the United Nations of the difficulties they had encountered. The necessary steps might be taken to publish the summary record of the meeting in order to show the views expressed by the members. That procedure would require the agreement of the USSR representative.

34. Mr. HICKERSON (United States of America) agreed that the summary record of the meeting should be made public. If there were any doubts about securing the agreement of the USSR representative, the conference might request the Secretariat to make public the individual statements of the members. With regard to the draft communiqué, Mr. Hickerson would prefer it to be more detailed, and suggested that it should include the comments made by the members at the meeting.

35. As regards the future work of the conference, while it was true that its members would be unable to resolve their differences with the Soviet Union, the General Assembly had imposed upon them the obligation to continue their efforts as far as possible. They might examine some of the misconceptions revealed during the fourth session of the General Assembly and discuss some of the concrete suggestions made during the Assembly debate. Mr. Hickerson was ready to have the date of their next meeting fixed.

36. Mr. CHAUVEL (France) felt that, if the five Powers were to proceed with the discussions, they should make it clear that such discussions could not be considered as being on the same level as the six-Power consultations. It would be a different group working on a different basis. The group should make it clear that the consultations had been suspended, but that the five Powers were conducting discussions on the same subject. Indeed, it might be convenient for such discussions to be held in delegation offices, with or without assistance from the Secretariat. There should, however, be no doubt that the six-Power consultations had adjourned sine die.

37. Sir Alexander CADOGAN (United Kingdom) observed that the attitude of the United States representative might be influenced by the desire to follow the procedure of other United Nations organs and show that the withdrawal of the Soviet Union had not brought the activities of the group to a close. While that was appropriate in other cases, their group was almost a mediatory body and their functions therefore changed upon the withdrawal of the Soviet Union. They might continue with discussions but it should be made clear that the basis on which they worked had changed. Perhaps in the communiqué they could refer to the nature of their future discussions and state that they would be glad to resume the six-Power consultations. However, Sir Alexander felt that the communiqué should not merely state that the group would continue to meet.

38. General MCNAUGHTON (Canada) drew attention to the decision taken at the previous meeting concerning the publication of summary records. That self-denying agreement not to publicize any statements made in the consultations until the entire results of their work could be released offered a satisfactory procedure which should be continued.

39. With regard to the procedural status of their discussions, it was evident that the division of opinion was between the five Powers still present and the Soviet Union. Recognition of that fact had led the General Assembly to invite the group of six Powers to consult together. At present they could not continue the mediatory process. It was important to make that point clear and not to continue with meetings which might be misconstrued as being the consultations requested by the Assembly. No doubt it was important to continue efforts to conclude a system of control and if it was desired to hold discussions among the five Powers, the Canadian delegation would always be prepared to participate in them. However, the different nature of the meetings should be made known to the public.

40. In its communiqué, the group might express grave concern that the consultations had been suspended by the unilateral act of one party, without valid reason. They might entrust the incoming Chairman with keeping the situation under review and calling together the six Powers at the first opportunity. General McNaughton believed that, by keeping the six-Power consultations distinct from those to be held by the five Powers, and expressing the desire to resume the former at any time, the position of the five-Power group would be made clear.

41. The CHAIRMAN suggested that the group deal seriatim with the four questions before it : first, making public the summary records; second, requesting the Secretary-General to inform all members of the situation; third, deciding on the form in which their work might continue; and fourth, drafting the text of a communiqué. With regard to the summary records, the Chairman considered it appropriate to release all those not yet made public, including the current meeting.

42. General MCNAUGHTON (Canada) said that he had just been informed that the Soviet Union representative had given the text of his statement to the Press. General McNaughton pointed out that his previous remarks had been governed by the desire to ensure that the Soviet Union representative would not be placed in a disadvantageous position by his absence. The action taken by the latter, however, cleared up that point and the public should be given both sides of the question.

After a brief discussion, it was decided :

That the summary record of the present meeting should be released as soon as it was approved in the usual manner;

That the summary records of the previous meetings would be released only with the agreement of the USSR representative;

That, in the meantime, a more detailed communiqué would be issued giving a brief outline of the events which had taken place at the present meeting;

That the Secretary-General would be requested to bring the situation to the attention of all the Members of the United Nations; to that effect, the incoming Chairman would draft a letter to be addressed to the Secretary-General by the five Powers giving their views of the situation and requesting him to send a copy of the letter to every Member State, together with a copy of the summary record of the meeting;

That the incoming Chairman should decide on further consultations among the five Powers after holding informal discussions with the other representatives.

The text of a communiqué was then drafted and approved as Press Release No. AC/224.

It was decided that the incoming Chairman should remain in touch with the Secretariat and that, as soon as circumstances permitted, he would fix the date of the next meeting.

The meeting rose at 1.10 p. m.

Communication dated 8 February 1950 from the representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics addressed to the Secretary-General : note by the Secretary-General

[Original text : Russian-English]
[10 February 1950]

The Secretary-General has the honour to communicate to the Members of the United Nations the attached communication from the representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics dated 8 February 1950.

8 February 1950

In view of the fact that the statement made by the representatives of the United States, the United Kingdom, France and Canada in the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, which you have circulated, contains an incorrect account of what actually took place on 19 January 1950 at the 14th meeting of the consultations of the permanent members of the Atomic Energy Commission and hence fails to give a correct picture of the situation that has arisen, the delegation of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics deems it essential to state the following.

The assertion contained in the statement by the representatives of the United States, the United Kingdom, France and Canada to the effect that important and serious consultations on the atomic question " have been interrupted in consequence of the position taken up by the representative of the Soviet Union " is incorrect and misrepresents the position of the USSR delegation on these questions. As is clear from the attached texts (Annexes I and II) of the statements made by the Soviet Union representative at the meeting of the consultations of the permanent members of the Atomic Energy Commission on 19 January 1950, that which actually happened was as follows. The Soviet Union representative supported the request made by the Central People's Government of the Chinese People's Republic for the exclusion from the organs of the United Nations of the representatives of the Kuomintang group who, as stated by the Central People's Government of the Chinese People's Republic, do not represent China and the Chinese people. The Soviet Union representative accordingly proposed that the representative of the Kuomintang group should be excluded from membership of the consultative conference of the permanent members of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission as being a person who did not represent China, and further stated that the Soviet Union representative would not take part in the consultations so long as the representative of the Kuomintang group participated in them.

The representatives of the United States, the United Kingdom, France and Canada rejected this proposal by the Soviet Union representative, and consequently the representative of the Soviet Union was compelled to leave the consultative conference after having made the statement which is reproduced in Annex II.

Thus, the consultations of the permanent members of the Atomic Energy Commission were interrupted not " in consequence of the position taken up by the representative of the Soviet Union " as the representatives of the United States, United Kingdom, France and Canada wrongly endeavour to make out in their statement, but in consequence of the position adopted by the representatives of the four countries mentioned above. The latter refused to remove from membership of the consultative conference on the question of atomic energy the representative of the Kuomintang group who, despite the official statements and request of the Central People's Government of the People's Republic of China, is endeavouring to prolong his illegal presence in the said consultative conference, relying on the support of the representatives of the Governments of the United States, the United Kingdom, France and Canada.

In informing you of the foregoing, I request that you circulate this letter from the USSR delegation to all Members of the United Nations, for their information, together with the attached statements by the representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

(Signed) J. MALIK

ANNEX I

STATEMENT BY THE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE UNION OF SOVIET SOCIALIST REPUBLICS AT THE CONSULTATIVE CONFERENCE OF THE SIX PERMANENT MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION ON 19 JANUARY 1950

Before considering the adoption of the agenda for today's consultative conference and examining the questions on that agenda, I deem it essential to make the following statement.

As is known, the Central People's Government of the People's Republic of China addressed communications to the United Nations on 18 November 1949 and 8 January 1950 stating that it did not recognize the right of the representatives of the Kuomintang group in United Nations organs to represent China and to speak in the United Nations in the name of the Chinese people; that it considered the presence of those representatives in United Nations organs to be unlawful, and that it insisted on their exclusion from those organs.

The Soviet Union delegation to the United Nations and the Soviet Union representatives in various organs of the United Nations have already informed the Organization that the Soviet Union delegation supports the above-mentioned communications of the Central People's Government of the People's Republic of China, that it does not recognize the representatives of the Kuomintang group in the organs of the United Nations as representatives of China and the Chinese people, that it considers their presence in the United Nations to be unlawful, and that it insists upon their exclusion from these organs.

Accordingly, as representative of the Soviet Union in the consultative conferences of the six permanent members of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, I deem it essential to state that the Soviet Union delegation does not recognize the representative of the Kuomintang group in these consultative conferences as the representative of China, and insists on his exclusion from membership at these conferences.

At the same time, I am authorized to state that the representative of the Soviet Union will not take part in the consultations of the representatives of the six permanent members of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission so long as the representative of the Kuomintang group participates in them.

In view of the foregoing, I make the following formal proposal :

“ The consultative conference of the representatives of the six permanent members of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission :

“ Decides to exclude from its membership the representative of the Kuomintang group. ”

ANNEX II

STATEMENT BY THE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE UNION OF SOVIET SOCIALIST REPUBLICS AT THE CONSULTATIVE CONFERENCE OF THE SIX PERMANENT MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION ON 19 JANUARY 1950

For the reasons I have already given, the Soviet Union representative will not take part in the consultations of the six permanent members of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission so long as the representative of the Kuomintang group participates in them.

As the representative of the Soviet Union, I am also authorized to state that the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics will not recognize as lawful any recommendation or decision adopted by the consultative conference of the six permanent members of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission with the participation of the representative of the Kuomintang group, and will not take into consideration such decisions or recommendations.

In view of the foregoing and also of the rejection by the representatives of the countries of the Anglo-American bloc and of France in the conference of the proposal by the Soviet Union representative to exclude the representative of the Kuomintang group from membership in the consultative conference on atomic energy I, as the representative of the Soviet Union, do now withdraw from the consultative conference.

1. The provisional agenda of the fifth session of the General Assembly (A/1293) contains the following item :

“ 27. Action to achieve and maintain full employment and economic stability : report of the Economic and Social Council (resolution 308 (IV) of 25 November 1949) ”.

2. The General Assembly, in resolution 308 (IV), approved the action of the Secretary-General in inviting, in accordance with Economic and Social Council resolution 221 E (IX), a group of experts who were asked to prepare, on their own responsibility, a report on national and international measures required to achieve and maintain full employment. This group of experts prepared a unanimous report entitled National and International Measures for Full Employment, which was considered by the Economic and Social Council at its tenth and eleventh sessions. During the eleventh session, after an exhaustive debate based largely on the experts' report, but taking account also of the views of specialized agencies and non-governmental organizations as well as the replies received from governments to questionnaires issued under resolution 221 E (IX), the Council adopted, on 15 August 1950, resolution 290 (XI).

3. With respect to paragraph 10 of resolution 308 (IV) requesting the Economic and Social Council to give attention to unemployment and under employment, especially in under-developed countries, the attention of the General Assembly is drawn to section D of the Economic and Social Council resolution which deals with this matter.

4. An account of the discussion on full employment at the tenth and eleventh sessions of the Economic and Social Council and of the action taken is to be found in chapter III of the Council's report to the General Assembly¹. The summary records of the discussion in the Council are contained in the records of its plenary meetings 356-358, 389-394 and 411-413.

5. The attention of the General Assembly is drawn to the following documents relating to this item and which are referred to in chapter III of the report of the Economic and Social Council :

(a) Implementation of Full Employment Policies. Report No. 1, Second Half of 1949. ST/ECA/5, United Nations Publications, Sales No. 1950.II.A.1. (This report contains an analysis of the replies of governments to an inquiry by the Secretary-General under Economic and Social Council resolution 224 E (IX) which were received by 15 June 1950. All replies are reproduced in full in documents E/1698 and addenda 1-8).

(b) National and International Measures for Full Employment (E/1584). United Nations Publications, Sales No. 1949.II.A.3.

The General Assembly,

A

Considering that the Economic and Social Council, in its resolution 290 (XI) concerning full employment, has formulated recommendations which, if carried out by governments, will strengthen the resistance of their national economies and of the international economic structure against the danger of recession,

Considering that the additional studies which the Secretary-General and the various groups of experts are requested to undertake by that resolution are such as to provide a sound basis for the adoption of national and international measures tending to ensure full employment both in economically advanced and in under-developed countries,

1. Notes with satisfaction the vigorous action taken by the Economic and Social Council in connexion with full employment; and

2. Invites governments to comply with this resolution and to co-operate with the Secretary-General in carrying out the tasks entrusted to him.

B

Bearing in mind that, as a result of the international events of the last few months, new economic factors have appeared which threaten to unbalance and dislocate the general economic stability and the economic progress of many countries, and

Recognizing that under Articles 55 and 56 of the Charter, the United Nations is under an obligation to use all the means at its disposal to ensure the steady growth of the world economy and thus to prevent the emergence of those factors of economic disequilibrium which impair general economic stability and disturb the economic development of the under-developed countries,

1. Requests the Economic and Social Council, when examining the world economic situation during its twelfth session, to pay special attention to current international economic disturbances with a view to recommending to governments and to the General Assembly measures designed to make possible the uninterrupted progress of their programmes of economic stability and development;

2. Calls upon all members of the Economic and Social Council to submit to the twelfth session of the Council their views concerning the way in which the current world situation has affected the economic progress of the different countries, as well as the prospects of continuing world economic expansion, and to communicate these views, through the Secretary-General, to the Council at least three weeks before the opening of the twelfth session of the Council; and,

3. Invites all other Members of the United Nations similarly to submit their views to the Council with the object of assisting the Council in its task of recommending measures to the governments and to the General Assembly.

[Original text : Spanish]
[21 November 1950]

The General Assembly,

Noting that the Economic and Social Council in resolution 290 (XI), inter alia,

(a) Recommended that governments should furnish the Secretary-General with a wide range of economic and statistical information relating to the implementation of that resolution,

(b) Expressed the view that, while some countries may not be able to supply all the information called for, greater progress could be made in giving effect to that resolution

if they at least initiated the collection of such data, even though the first results might prove inaccurate,

(c) Invited the International Labour Organisation to take all feasible further steps towards the practical implementation of the recommendations of the Sixth International Conference of Labour Statisticians in order to facilitate international comparability of employment and unemployment data, with special reference to their use in the formulation of full employment standards and annual employment plans, policies and programmes,

Aware that the Economic and Social Council, in Part E of its resolution, recommended that the Secretary-General and the specialized agencies should provide technical assistance to governments, upon their request, for the purpose of assisting the under-developed countries in this respect,

1. Recommends that the Secretary-General should, in co-operation with the specialized agencies concerned and taking into account the different institutional circumstances in the under-developed countries, prepare material which may serve to guide governments wishing to use it and which should set forth :

(a) The types of data considered necessary to provide up-to-date information regarding the level of economic activity, employment, unemployment and under-employment;

(b) Procedures and methods suitable for obtaining and presenting such data; and

(c) Other suggestions relating to the organization of adequate government machinery necessary for obtaining the said data;

2. Affirms that any expenditure incurred in connexion with this resolution is legitimately chargeable to the special account set up under Economic and Social Council resolution 222 A (IX) relating to technical assistance

EFFECT OF MECHANIZATION ON UNEMPLOYMENT

[Original text : Spanish]
[21 November 1950]

The General Assembly,

Noting that, at its fourth session, it expressed its belief that " action is needed to overcome unemployment and under-employment such as that arising, particularly in under-developed countries, among large numbers of people engaged in agricultural pursuits; and that, to this end, it is necessary, inter alia, to stimulate the economic development of under-developed countries ",

Having noted that the group of experts appointed by the Secretary-General to report on national and international measures required to achieve and maintain full employment expressed the view that in the under-developed countries a large part of the population could be diverted from agricultural occupations without any decrease in agricultural output, and that " the only remedy for this form of disguised unemployment is economic development, which constitutes the major economic problem of the world ",
