As a number of the Member States concerned have indicated that they may wish to benefit from the reduction but have not yet received definite instructions from their Governments, the allocation of the voluntary contributions pledged has not yet been finally established. a/ An advance of $790,000 was made in 1946 by undivided India to the Working Capital Fund. After division, the advances to be made by India and Pakistan separately were $650,000 and $140,000 respectively. The question whether India should receive credit for the total advance of $790,000 or whether India and Pakistan should share proportionately is the subject of consultations between the two Governments. In the meantime the sum of $140,000 is held in suspense.
