Report of the Chairperson of the African Union Commission to the Peace and Security Council on Somalia

I. Introduction

1. It will be recalled that the Peace and Security Council, at its 608th meeting, held on 29 June 2016 in Addis Ababa, inter alia, requested the Commission to report to the Council on the implementation of the revised concept of operations of the African Union Mission in Somalia (AMISOM). Similarly, the United Nations Security Council, in its resolution 2297 \(2016\), requested the African Union to keep the Council regularly informed, through the Secretary-General, on the implementation of the Mission's mandate and to report to the Council through the provision of oral updates and no fewer than three written reports, with the first written report by 12 September and every 120 days thereafter.

2. The present report is therefore submitted pursuant to the above-referenced decisions made by the African Union Peace and Security Council and the United Nations Security Council on Somalia. It covers the main political and security developments in Somalia from June to August 2016, with an emphasis on the status of implementation of the 2016 concept of operations.

II. Main political and related developments

3. Somalia continues to make important political progress, especially in relation to State formation, elections and constitutional review. With respect to the State formation process, progress has been made in the formation of regional assemblies in all the established regional administrations. Initiatives have also been led by the Federal Government of Somalia to promote reconciliation between clans and militia groups, as evidenced in the ongoing dialogue in the Jubba Administration and between the Galmudug Interim Administration and the Ahlu Sunna Wal Jama'a. However, the long-standing efforts to establish Hiraan and Middle Shabelle as the final regional administration as envisaged in Vision 2016 remain unresolved. As such, the AMISOM political leadership, in collaboration with other partners including the United Nations Assistance Mission in Somalia, has continued to engage with relevant State actors and to develop a common understanding and approach on how to support inter- and intra-state dialogue and reconciliation.

4. With respect to the constitutional review, there has been slow progress during the period under consideration. The Oversight Committee and the Independent Constitutional Review and Implementation Commission, mandated to review the Provisional Federal Constitution, submitted the report on their recommendation for amendments to the Federal Parliament, which, in June 2016, voted for a constitutional amendment to extend the validity of the Provisional Constitution. While some important achievements have been made in the constitutional review process, particularly in reviewing key chapters of the Constitution, the remaining tasks will be placed before the next Parliament, given the broad consultations and consensus building required. It was against this backdrop that the United Nations was requested by the Federal Government of Somalia to coordinate efforts to document lessons learned and propose an approach for the future process. Accordingly, AMISOM participated in a high-level “lessons learned and way forward” workshop on the review of the 2012 Provisional Federal Constitution. The workshop provided an opportunity for key stakeholders, both national and international, to conduct an in-depth reflection on the constitutional review process, identifying gaps, challenges, lessons learned and recommendations for the way forward. Such engagement will continue to remain critical as the African Union and other partners seek to support the Federal Government of Somalia in its constitutional review process.

5. The most prominent developments in the political sphere in Somalia have been most evident in the electoral process, especially in terms of the timelines, electoral planning and security. On the timelines, the African Union Commission commends the announcement by the National Leadership Forum of the indicative dates of the elections, which are scheduled to be held in 2016 as follows: Upper House elections (25 September); House of Representatives (24 September); swearing in of House of Parliament Members (20 October); election of the Speaker (25 October); election of the President (30 October). The African Union Commission would like to reassure the Federal Government of Somalia of its continued support in order to ensure full adherence to this election calendar.

6. In order to ensure a smooth electoral process, Federal/State-level Indirect Electoral Implementation Teams have been formed at both the federal and state levels, respectively. This ad hoc body has been temporarily tasked by the National Leadership Forum to conduct the planning for the upcoming elections; the Teams have not replaced the National Independent Electoral Commission as the statutory body for future electoral processes. The Federal Government of Somalia aspires towards universal suffrage by 2020. In the meantime, the African Union has commenced support to the Teams ahead of the upcoming elections. In this respect, the African Union conducted a pre-electoral assessment in July 2016, in order to identify the best form of technical assistance to support the elections. On the basis of this assessment, the African Union Department of Political Affairs will be deploying technical experts to AMISOM in order to assist and reinforce the Mission’s capacity ahead of the conduct of elections. The Special Representative and Head of AMISOM has also continued to engage with relevant stakeholders in Somalia in order to ensure an inclusive and credible electoral process.

7. As part of the ongoing efforts to ensure that elections are conducted in a conducive and safe environment, AMISOM, in coordination with the Federal Government of Somalia, the United Nations, the Somalia National Security Forces and international partners, provided substantive support in the formulation of an electoral security plan. Consequently, on 23 July 2016, after three weeks of internal consultations, the Somalia National Security Forces, with the support of AMISOM, developed a draft electoral security plan. In addition, AMISOM took part in the joint African Union-United Nations-Federal Indirect Electoral Implementation Team electoral logistics and security assessment missions to Baidoa, Garoowe, Adado, Mogadishu and Kismaayo from 15 to 24 August 2016. This joint collaboration and coordination between the Federal Government of Somalia and AMISOM, as well as other international partners, will continue to remain vital ahead of the elections.

III. Security situation

8. The period under review registered significant progress as AMISOM and the Somalia National Security Forces continued to expand, control, pacify and consolidate their areas of responsibility. While Al-Shabaab has been considerably weakened, it still maintains the ability to launch sporadic attacks. The nature of the threats is associated with asymmetric attacks, including direct and indirect attacks, ambushes reinforced with improvised explosive devices on AMISOM convoys along main supply routes and hurling of grenades across all sectors. In some places, such as the Juba Valley corridor, as well as within the Hiraan and Galguduud regions, Al-Shabaab intensified its recruitment and training, resource mobilization, and propaganda campaigns against AMISOM and the Somalia National Security Forces. In addition, clan dynamics, spoilers and opportunistic criminal elements also continue to pose security threats in Somalia. Overall, AMISOM and the Somalia National Security Forces have been able to substantially reduce the operational capacity of Al-Shabaab despite the financial and logistical constraints. Yet it is essential to match AMISOM operations with an effective and sustainable political strategy, as well as a comprehensive approach to security and stability in Somalia, including through, but not limited to, the extension of State security and community engagements.

IV. Deployment and operations of the African Union Mission in Somalia

9. The Mission's authorized strength comprises 22,126 uniformed personnel and 70 civilians. The current police- and troop-contributing countries are Burundi, Djibouti, Ethiopia, Kenya, Nigeria and Uganda. In line with the 2016 revised concept of operations, the deployment and conduct of AMISOM operations are highlighted below.

10. In terms of the AMISOM civilian component, the current strength is 58 personnel, comprising African Union-recruited personnel and personnel seconded from partners. These civilian personnel are deployed mostly in Mogadishu, but with some administrative and finance staff based in the AMISOM Rear Support Office in Nairobi. These civilian personnel contribute to the implementation of the Mission's mandate across the political, human rights and protection, gender and other support and substantive functions.

11. The police component has 388 officers deployed in the mission area, consisting of 97 individual police officers, two formed police units, one from Nigeria with 140 officers and the other from Uganda with 139 officers, and 4 officers that make up the Police Senior Leadership Team. AMISOM police continued to provide a mentoring, training and advisory service as well as on-the-job training to the police officers at the stations in all four police divisions in the Banaadir region, Baidoa, Kismaayo and Beledweyne, as well as in Juba State and the Interim South-West Administration. In terms of mentoring, AMISOM police continued to enhance the individual capacities of the Somali police personnel to uplift their basic threshold of policing skills based on practical and theoretical mentoring themes. The daily co-location between AMISOM police and the Somali

Police Force has improved policing skills in various areas, including reception and recording of complaints, investigations, crime scene management, exhibit management, rights of suspects in custody and the practical delivery of basic policing services within communities.

12. The AMISOM military component undertakes joint coordinated operations with the Somalia National Security Forces, including the Somali National Army, and extends its area of operations into all the south-central Somalia states. During the reporting period, the focus of AMISOM operations is on elections security, eliminating the threats posed by Al-Shabaab and strengthening the capacity of the 10,900 national army forces as part of the Mission's exit strategy. As part of efforts to enhance AMISOM military strength, a new Force Commander was appointed by the African Union Commission in July 2016. Since his deployment to the mission area, the Force Commander has sought to promote enhanced coordination across AMISOM sectors of operations, including through the convening of a joint African Union-Somali National Army sector commanders conference, whose outcome is expected to lead to renewed coordinated offensive operations against Al-Shabaab.

13. Amid AMISOM operations, there have been enhanced efforts by the Mission's leadership in collaboration with troop- and police-contributing countries to strictly adhere to international humanitarian law and the promotion of human rights. In this respect, the reporting period has been characterized by the finalization of relevant policies associated with conduct and discipline, compensation related to the Civilian Casualty Tracking, Analysis and Response Cell and the finalization of AMISOM standard operating procedures on boards of inquiry. In addition, joint investigative teams were deployed in relation to some allegations and an in-mission court martial was established to undertake trials of some soldiers for alleged misconduct.

14. With regard to the deployment of air assets, the African Union and the Government of Kenya held a meeting regarding the finalization of a tripartite letter of assist for the deployment of air assets pledged by Kenya for AMISOM operations. It was agreed that the air assets would be based in Dhooble and under the authority of the AMISOM Force Commander. Similarly, an inspection team conducted an assessment between 3 and 6 May 2016 of the air assets pledged by the Ethiopian National Defence Forces, and the three Mi-35 attack helicopters were found to be airworthy.

15. Consultations are also ongoing between the African Union, the United Nations and the troop- and police-contributing countries on the tripartite memorandum of understanding concerning specific arrangements for the reimbursement to troop- and police-contributing countries of appropriate items of contingent-owned equipment.

V. Support from the United Nations Support Office in Somalia to the operations of the African Union Mission in Somalia

16. There has been incremental efficiency in the provision of support to AMISOM by the United Nations Support Office in Somalia (UNSOS) across the Mission's sectors of operations. Highlights of UNSOS support to AMISOM are discernible in the areas of enhanced security infrastructures at AMISOM headquarters, rotation of AMISOM contingents, delivery of defence stores and provision of medical facilities in some sectors. Overall, logistical support has been ongoing, but there is a need for UNSOS to enhance the delivery of support to the Mission's areas of operation, including through increased AMISOM security of main supply routes.

VI. Observations

17. The general observation on the progress made in Somalia is positive, but sustained regional and international assistance remains critical. It is on the basis of this that I would like the Council to consider the observations below.

18. First, the Federal Government of Somalia needs to sustain its momentum on the political developments in Somalia, with concerted support from regional and international partners. In this respect, I would like to reiterate the decision made by the Council at its 608th meeting, on 26 July 2016, for the Federal Government of Somalia to ensure strict adherence to the electoral calendar while also ensuring an inclusive and credible process. The people of Somalia have for too long faced the consequences of fragmented political processes caused primarily by insecurity. With the progress made in the degrading of Al-Shabaab capabilities, sustained peace dividends can be assured only by the gains made in the political sphere. The Commission therefore looks forward to the conduct of a credible electoral process including the 30 per cent representation of women in the legislative arm of government. I also implore the Federal Government of Somalia to deepen its efforts towards the completion of the State formation process and the constitutional review. These aspects are fundamental to the promotion of improved governance in Somalia.

19. Second, the African Union must embrace and support Somalia in the implementation of a comprehensive security strategy. For almost a decade, there has been a predominance of achieving hard security primarily through the conduct of military operations, to eliminate the threats posed by Al-Shabaab. Despite the importance of this dimension of security, it has proved to be inadequate for a long-term guarantee of security in Somalia. This is because it has not been sufficiently complemented by the enforcement of soft security strategies associated with strengthening State authority, the implementation of robust stabilization activities aimed at winning the hearts and minds of local communities, the provision of basic services and improving governance. There is a need to promote greater efficiency in the management and distribution of resources in Somalia, as well as the promotion of medium- to long-term stabilization measures. The African Union must reinforce its support to the Federal Government of Somalia in this area.

20. Third, the African Union commends the efforts and sacrifices of troop- and police-contributing countries and AMISOM civilian personnel, also bearing in mind the call by some for an exit strategy. In the light of the need to ensure a time- and condition-based approach to an exit strategy, the 2016 revised concept of operations clearly articulated the basis upon which this will be achieved by 2020. In addition, it is important for the African Union to immediately commence a stocktaking exercise, especially as we approach a decade since AMISOM was deployed. In this regard, I would like to urge the Council to consider authorizing the conduct of a comprehensive lessons learned exercise, which will identify progress made, challenges encountered and the way forward in AMISOM operations, including with respect to concrete recommendations on the exit strategy of the Mission. The outcome of this lessons learned exercise could inform the Council's decision on the future of AMISOM in Somalia.

21. Fourth, the Commission would like to reassure the Council and the international community of its unrelenting efforts to promote human rights and to strictly adhere to international humanitarian law. In this regard, the Commission, AMISOM and UNSOS are currently working to ensure the finalization of policies related to conduct and discipline and the Civilian Casualty Tracking, Analysis and Response Cell, as well as on boards of inquiry. The recent establishment of in-mission court martials and investigations of alleged abuses are also indicative of the resolve of the African Union Commission to promote enhanced accountability in the Mission.

22. Finally, I would like to recognize the continued support of our partners that have continuously provided financial resources to AMISOM, amid sometimes difficult and varying economic circumstances. We would like to express our appreciation and to renew the call for continued support, bearing in mind that our collective efforts in Somalia are an expression of African solidarity and the preservation of international peace and security.
