SEYCHELLES

POPULATION

The Territory of the Seychelles consists of 92 islands; most of the land area, and of the population, is concentrated on the island of Mahe. The population of the Seychelles at the census taken in May 1960 was 41,425. Apart from a very small number of Asians engaged in trade and commerce, and a few Europeans, all are Seychellois.

CONSTITUTION

The present Constitution, which dates from 1960, provides for a Governor, assisted by an Executive Council, and a Legislative Council. Its main features are as follows:

Governor

The Governor (at present the Earl of Oxford and Asquith) is head of the administration of the Territory. In the exercise of his powers, he is advised by the Executive Council. He normally acts in accordance with the advice he receives from the Executive Council and can only act against this advice in specified circumstances.

Executive Council

The Executive Council is the principal executive organ and normally takes decisions on all matters affecting the internal government of the Territory. It is composed of 4 non-official members (of whom 3 are elected) and 4 ex-officio civil servants. The present membership of the Executive Council, under the chairmanship of the Governor, is as follows:

Dr. M.H. Stevenson-Delhomme
Major E. de Coulhac-Mazerieux
Mr. L.M.H. Savy
Mr. F.H. Ah-Mane
Mr. G.P. Lloyd (Colonial Secretary)
Mr. A.F.M.A. Sauzier (Attorney-General)
Mr. J.W. Jeffrey (Administrative Secretary)
Temporarily vacant (Treasurer)

All but the last three named are local inhabitants. The last Treasurer was also a local inhabitant.

Legislative Council

The Legislative Council passes laws, with the assent of the Governor, for the peace, order and good government of the Seychelles. It consists of 6 non-official members (of whom 5 are elected) and 6 civil servants, including 4 ex-officio and 2 nominated, under the presidency of the Governor.

ELECTORAL SYSTEM

The five elected members of the Legislative Council are chosen by universal adult suffrage. The last elections were held in 1960 and the following were returned:

Dr. M.H. Stevenson-Delhomme
Major E. de Coulhac-Mazerieux
Mr. L.M.H. Savy
Mr. H.C. Gontier
Mr. F.W. Parsons

All represent the Taxpayers and Producers Party, except for Major E. de Coulhac-Mazerieux who stood as an independent.

JUDICIARY

There is a Supreme Court in the Territory, presided over by the Chief Justice, with full civil and criminal jurisdiction. In addition there is a magistrates' court, which has civil and criminal jurisdiction in respect of less serious offences. Appeal in civil cases lies to the Supreme Court of Mauritius, and in criminal cases to the East African Court of Appeal.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT

There are two district councils in the Territory elected on a basis of universal adult suffrage, viz., the Victoria District Council (the capital) and the Praslin District Council (which covers the island of Praslin and five other islands). These councils perform the normal range of local government functions such as maintenance of roads and markets and street cleaning, and raise revenue from property on taxes and fees. There are local boards in North Mahe and South Mahe, La Digue and Silhouette. Members of these boards are appointed by the Governor and their powers are more restricted.

A local government board is responsible for supervising the work of the Victoria and Praslin District Councils and acts as adviser to the local boards.
