India: draft resolution*

Preparation for the special session of the General Assembly in 1980

The General Assembly,

Fearing in mind its resolutions 3201 (S-VI) and 3202 (S-VI) of 1 May 1974 containing the Declaration and the Programme of Action on the Establishment of a New International Economic Order, 3281 (XXIX) of 12 December 1974 containing the Charter of Economic Rights and Duties of States and 3362 (S-VII) of 16 September 1975 on development and international economic co-operation,

Recalling its resolutions 32/17^h of 19 December 1977, in which it decided, inter alia, to convene a special session of the General Assembly in 1980, and 33/198 of 29 January 1979 on the preparation for that special session,

Recalling also its resolution 33/193 of 29 January 1979 on the preparations for an international development strategy for the third United Nations development decade,

Noting that the Sixth Conference of Heads of State or Government of Non-Aligned Countries stressed the need for the special session to produce results commensurate with both the gravity of the current international economic situation and the magnitude of the current economic problems,

Recalling further its resolution 34/___ of ___ on the global negotiations relating to international economic co-operation for development and 34/___ of ___ on the proposals for global negotiations relating to international economic co-operation for development,

* The draft resolution is submitted by the delegation of India on behalf of the States Members of the United Nations which are members of the Group of 77.

Considering that the General Assembly is requested to assess at the special session the progress made, as well as to identify obstacles that impede the establishment of the new international economic order and, on that basis, to take appropriate action for the promotion of the development of developing countries and international economic co-operation, including the adoption of the new international development strategy for the 1980s;

Recognizing that the establishment of the new international economic order calls for bold initiatives, demands new concrete and global solutions and cannot be brought about by piecemeal reforms and improvisation intended to resolve the present economic difficulties,

Stressing the need for thorough preparation for the special session in order to achieve positive and concrete results,

1. Decides to hold the special session on the implementation of the new international economic order at a high political level for two weeks at a suitable time between mid-August and mid-September 1980;

2. Reaffirms its decision that the special session will, on the basis of an assessment of the progress made in the establishment of the new international economic order, take appropriate action for the promotion of the development of developing countries and international economic co-operation, including inter alia the adoption of the new international development strategy for the third United Nations development decade and the launching of global negotiations relating to international economic co-operation for development;

3. Invites the Preparatory Committee for the New International Development Strategy to accelerate its work so as to be able to submit, through the Economic and Social Council, a draft of the international development strategy for the third United Nations development decade for adoption and proclamation at the special session;

4. Invites further the Committee of the Whole, in its capacity as a preparatory committee for the global negotiations relating to international economic co-operation for development, to organize its work in such a manner so as to be able to submit its final report to the Assembly at the special session;

5. Decides that the Committee of the Whole, in addition to making preparations for the global negotiations, should consider matters relating to the adequate preparation of the special session;

6. Invites the Governments of developed countries to re-examine, bearing in mind the need to establish the new international economic order, their political position on most important international economic problems, so as to enable the Assembly to achieve positive results at the special session;

7. Requests the Secretary-General to accord the highest priority to and to provide the necessary facilities and resources to all activities relating to the special session;

8. Takes note with appreciation of the preliminary version of the analytical report called for in its resolution 33/198 and requests the Secretary-General to submit and make available to Governments six weeks before the special session the final report in accordance with the outline, taking into account the relevant resolutions and decisions of the General Assembly adopted during its thirty-fourth session as well as the ongoing work of the Preparatory Committee for the New International Development Strategy and the Committee of the Whole;

9. Requests further the Secretary-General to extend all possible assistance to the meetings of the Group of 77, especially to its meetings at the ministerial level which may be held in the context of preparing for the special session of the General Assembly.
